SEVERAL ALUMNI SPEND PLEASANT DAY AT OLD HOME

CHAPEL PROGRAMME VERY PLEASANT AND INTERESTING

The programme for Alumni Day started with the chapel exercises in the assembly room at nine o'clock. The graduates of former years marched into the room, bearing their class flags. The procession, with the multi-colored flags made a very pretty sight. This year's graduating classes, sopomors and sanior, then filed into the room. The school orchestra played the march.

Regular Chapel Programme
The regular chapel exercises followed. The first hymn was sung, after which the Lord's prayer was repeated and the Gloria was sung. Mr. Lord then read the daily scripture lesson. The familiar Doxology was sung as the second hymn. Then followed the long list of announcements.

In his talk for the morning Mr. Lord urged all those present to be communicants, accepted with good books. He also spoke a few words of welcome to those who had come back to spend the day with old friends.

Gordon Cook Speaks
Gordon Cook, a member of the senior college graduating class, gave the address of welcome. Mr. Cook told of the growth of E. I. and the changes that have taken place in recent years. He reminded the alumni of several incidents that occurred "way back when" the school was much younger. Miss Lois Shortess, who probably came farther than any other individual to be present on Alumni Day, gave the answer to the welcome in behalf of the alumni. Miss Shortess, who was a student in both the training school and old Normal School here, was also at one time a member of our faculty. She is now an assistant librarian in Shreveport, Louisiana.

School Trio Plays
The College Trio, composed of Mr. Stover, Mr. Koch and Miss Geer, played three pleasing numbers. The music that is given us by the trio is always very good and well liked by all who hear it.

Glee Clubs Sing
The girls quartette, directed by Mr. Koch sang two numbers, which were very well received. The men's glee club also favored with two selections. The entire assembly wanted to hear them again, but no; the programme must go on.

These two organizations have always been received well in their public performances, and Miss Major and Mr. Koch are to be highly commended. The morning exercises closed with the singing of the school song. The spirit in which the well known song was sung clearly showed the feeling of all present.

Association Holds Meeting
Immediately after the morning exercises the Alumni Association met with the two graduating classes. This was a business meeting in which the officers for the coming year were chosen and the members of the two graduating classes initiated into the organization.

MAGICIAN ON ENTERTAINMENT COURSE

Paul Fleming, the magician, will be at the Teachers College on Wednesday night, June 16, of the first week of the summer school. He is to appear on the first number of the entertainment course. Further announcements will be made in the first issue of the summer school paper.

The picnic luncheon, which was served by the Alumni Association at noon, Saturday, was well attended.

Paul Wilson and Paul Spencer To Handle The Teachers College News During Next Year

MR. DANIELS TO RETURN

Many students, the faculty and friends are looking forward with pleasure to the return of Mr. Daniels, one of E. I.'s former teachers. He taught English in this college from the years 1916 to 1924 excepting one year's service in the army. Degree.

Mr. Daniels is indeed a very well known man and one of remarkable ability. He graduated from Clark College, Massachusetts with an A. B. degree. He received his A. M. from the University of Chicago and is entitled to a Ph. D. degree from Harvard University this summer.

Mr. Daniels has made contributions to various magazines of note. Some of his poems are found in copies of the Measure, the Poetry, and the Atlantic Monthly.

Varsity Trounces The Alumni Nine

The game did not start promptly at two o'clock. The alumni were impeded by their picnic luncheon and the collegians were absent for sundry reasons, including lost suits, car rides, etc.

Charles Clabaugh with his elliptical wind up and football shoes, ascended the mound for the old grads and Dwight Reed tossed 'em up to the homecomers. Charles was getting along quite well until one of his legs missed the signal for an end run and he fell with a thud. It revived an old injury and he had to retire to the cooling cement. Warner then came forth with his smoke ball and Detroit Tigers cap. After getting used to the fog E. I.'s sluggers began to bat the apple far and wide. One of the favorite hits was a tantalizing grounder right over the keystone sack. All that Herc Bennett and Ol Hosteler could do was run over and embrace each other in the wake of a ball, while Hall scooped up the hit and held the runner to a single. Finally after the E. I. players had scored so many that the scorer lost count, Dunn of Redmon, came upon the scene and retired the boisterous youngsters in satisfactory fashion.

Meanwhile the alumni guns were not smokeless. Hall was the leading socker with a triple and home run. Bennett with a double and single was also one of the important sockers for the returning players. McIntosh and Honn both pitched the last of the game.

Mr. Moore umpired the weird contest and got by quite well considering the difficulty of such a position. (Continued on page 4)

NEWS TO BE PUBLISHED THIS SUMMER

The publication of the Teachers College News will continue through the first six weeks of the summer school. Six issues will be printed, the first coming out on Monday, June 14.

The editing of the paper will be in charge of Dean Hammond, the present editor of The News. Fred Koertge, present circulation manager, will take charge of the business end of the paper.

Contributions from students and faculty members for these six issues will be very welcome.

SUMMER SCHOOL BEGINS JUNE 15

The first six weeks of the summer term will open on Tuesday, June 15. There will be two registration days, Saturday, June 12, and Monday, June 14. All who can do so should register on Saturday to avoid the rush on Monday.

MR. HAEFNER TO REMAIN AS FACULTY ADVISOR

The Teachers College News is certainly assured of a successful year for 1926-27. The Student Council has chosen the two major staff members for the coming year. Paul Spencer will do the editing and Paul Wilson will handle the business end of the paper.

Mr. Wilson, a sophomore next year, comes here from Chrisman. He attended high school in that town and is highly recommended by those who know him there. He was very much interested in athletics while in high school and has shown no little inclination to participate in college sports. He was a member of both the basketball and track squads of last year.

He has had experience in business training, having been in business to a certain extent since he left high school and before entering college. He did not come directly from high school to college. His training assures one that he is entirely capable of managing the school paper. He has worked to some extent with the present business manager and has learned most of the matters to be taken care of by one in his position.

Mr. Spencer a Junior

Mr. Spencer will be a junior in college next year. His record in academic subjects here shows his ability as a student. He ranks high in all classes. He is a graduate of the Mt. Carmel High School, of Mt. Carmel, Illinois. When in high school there Mr. Spencer took part in publishing the school paper. He also edited a class publication when a senior. The Mt. Carmel High School has a literary club which devotes most of its time to discussing the publishing of the school paper. Make-up styles, head writing, styles of make-ups, editorials, and such material as pertains to a weekly paper are brought up and discussed at the meetings of this organization. Mr. Spencer was an active member of that club. This former experience that he has had will be of much benefit to him in editing The News. He has been unable to assist with the publication any this year because of the lateness of his appointment. However, he will be in school during the summer and will probably help some with the summer school paper.

Staff Not Entirely Selected

The staff for next year will be selected by these two men. At present but a few members have been chosen. There is a number of persons in school who would be capable of handling some department. These people should speak up if they wish a staff position. It will aid the editor and business manager greatly in making their choice.

Mr. Haeferner to Remain

Mr. Haeferner will probably work with The News again next year as faculty adviser. Throughout this year he has expended much time and effort in making the paper a success. He has contributed much toward bettering the college paper. Next year's staff is indeed fortunate in having one who is so willing to cooperate and sacrifice his own time for the good of The News.

With the foundation for a very competent staff already laid, the success of the paper for next year seems quite assured.

ALUMNI ASSOCIATION ELECTS 1926 OFFICERS

At the business meeting Saturday morning the Alumni Association chose its officers for the coming year. Those elected were:

President, Alonso Goldsmith, '24.
Vice President, Lida Hosteler, '09.
Sacy Treas., Father McCrory, '10.
Standing committee for the advancement of the school:
Florence Sutton, '23.
Howard Allison, '21.
During the meeting the possibility of alumni helping graduates to get positions was discussed. It was decided that the members of the association should help to place those who are graduating at present.

COMMENCEMENT EXERCISES

The commencement exercises for the graduating classes of the Eastern Illinois State Teachers College will be held on Saturday, June 5. There are three graduating classes, each of which are larger than at any other previous year. The high school has fifty-two to receive diplomas. There are one hundred twenty-six that graduate from the two-year college course and seventeen who will receive degrees in education. Both of the college classes are larger than at any other time in the history of the school. The steady increase in the number receiving degrees shows the popularity which the four year course is becoming to have.

The exercises will take place at ten o'clock in the auditorium. Mr. D. B. Waldo, president of the State College of Kalamazoo, will deliver the address. Mr. Waldo is a man of much ability, and the address should become of great merit.

Lantzen Win Over Illinois College

Honn was able to bear down in the pinches and won a 6-5 ball game from Illinois College at Jacksonville, Thursday afternoon. The E. I. moundsman was in typical strike out form and whiffed ten batters, at the same time setting the opposing team down with five hits.

Illinois College Scores

Illinois College bunched three of the five bingles in the second span for three runs which were ably assisted by Adams, Smith and Riney. Previous to this round, a single, a wild pitch and an infield out had procured the initial run of the game for Illinoisans. E. I. had also scored in the first when an error by Lindsay, a passed ball, and Honn's single had put two markers across the registering pan. With a two run disadvantage, E. I. scored three runs in the third inning and was never headed thereafter. Green strolled, an error by Ryan gave Gilmore a life and Adams whaled a triple. In the sixth Baumgartner and Cooper singled for an added tally. The losers added a score in the eighth when Corray walked, advanced on infield outs and scored on a passed ball. Cooper and Harrison pulled Honn out of a tight place in the ninth with a double play. The E. I. pitching ace then whiffed O'Brien to end the game.

Cooper's brace of singles and Adams's three bagger were the clouters of the game.

COMMENCEMENT PLAY VERY WELL RECEIVED BY LARGE AUDIENCE

GOOD ACTING FEATURES THE PERFORMANCE

The commencement play, "A Full House," was given in the Teachers College auditorium on Tuesday evening, June 1. There was a very large audience to see the production. "A Full House," a farce comedy, met with approval from all who were present.

The play featured a crook—a yegg, second-story man, etc.—as told to Susie the maid. This crook had stolen a valuable necklace, only to have it accidentally taken from him. In an attempt to recover it he got into an awful mixup and proceeded to get everyone entangled in the scrape.

Susie, the senseless servant, furnished most of the laughs of the evening. She continually harped on Sioux City—until she finally went to her native town in Iowa.

Of course, as all good plays have, this one had a good love affair running throughout. The entanglement of other matters with this case of the heartaches of the young couple almost proved disastrous. However, as all good plays end, this one ended by having the young folks forgive each other and as the old story goes, "they all lived happily ever afterward."

The play brought out some excellent acting by all members of the cast. It would be exceedingly difficult to pick out those who merited greatest honors.

More elaborate scenery was used in this performance than has been in any of the previous plays. This added much to the enjoyment of the production.

Following a new idea, the cast was chosen from the entire school. This greatly improved the quality of the performance. This new plan, although not so popular at first, has proven so successful that the sophomore class should have a feeling of pride that it was the class to inaugurate the new idea.

The cast was as follows:

- Parkes, an English servant, Cedric Henley
- Susie, from Sioux City, a maid, Aileen Collins
- Ottily Howell, a bride, Mildred Folz
- Mrs. Winnecker, the aunt, Katherine Romizer
- Daphne Charters, Ottily's sister, Mary Freeman
- Nicholas King, a stranger, William Stone
- Ned Pembroke, Jr., an only son, Stanley McIntosh
- George Howell, a bridegroom, Austin Windsor
- Dougherty, a police sergeant, Robert Stewart
- Jim Mooney, a policeman, Carleton Crispin
- Kearney, another, Burl Mitchell
- Mrs. Fleming, who owns the apartment, Dorothy Cox
- Ver Vernon, a show girl, Thelma White
- Mrs. Pembroke, from Boston, Emily Dowling.

Production Staff
Director, Mr. H. H. Giles
Manager, Fred Koertge
Publicity, Robert Stewart
Programs, Dorothy Root
Properties, Don Pence
Stage Manager, Millard Jackson.
Music by Ruth Harper, Ella Geer, and Gertrude Lynch.

Mr. Giles is certainly to be commended on his excellent work in directing the play. Only under such supervision could the play have been the success that it was. We are extremely fortunate in having one so talented to direct our plays.

It can truly be said that the final play of the year was also the best. It certainly met with greatest approval, if that can be used as means of excellence for judging.

EDITORIALS

THANKS

Members of The News staff have been very willing to cooperate in getting out the paper this year. They have given willing of their time and energy to assist in the publication. I hope that the work as a staff member has been of some avail. I hope that you who have helped to make the paper as successful as possible have gained something that is worthwhile.

The paper has been profitable in a financial way. I hope that it has been equally so in other ways. I wish the staff members to feel that the success is largely due to their hearty cooperation.

I take this means to thank those who have helped to make the Teachers College News as successful as it has been throughout the past year.

The Editor.

FINIS

The end of the year draws near. Examinations mark the close of the school year. Commencement exercises are held for those who graduate. The Warblers are in the possession of the students. And The News staff puts out the last paper for the year.

All in all, it has been a good year. Our institution has seen a great number of changes this season, but we believe they have all been for the betterment of the school. The two Christian Associations have grown; the Dramatic Department has become a recognized part of the school activities; the new class day plan was successfully inaugurated; and last, but not least, the Student Board of Control was organized and began its work. Old customs and traditions have given way to new.

The present sophomore class has probably seen more changes take place in the school than any graduating class for many years. The members of that class should have a feeling of pride that they helped to inaugurate some of these new movements and inaugurate new customs. The year's activities will come to a close with the commencement exercises. For a great many students—more properly, graduates—this will be the commencement of an entirely new life—teaching. They are entering work in a field that is one of the noblest of all callings. We all hope that success will be theirs and that they will bring much good to mankind.

But do we all realize how much we owe to that institution of learning wherein we received our training? Much honor should go to the school from which we graduate. A part of the honors should go to our Alma Mater for our own success in life. It is altogether fitting that we should pay tribute to her by returning at least once in a year. Let us remember when we are gone.

To those who do not go away, but who stay within the walls of E. I., another year or longer, we might say that we are looking up to you to uphold the honor and traditions of the school. It is in your power to give to the school, yours as well as ours, more power and fame. You must keep the work of the Christian Associations going. You must assist with the Dramatic work. You must help to make Class Day a success. You must support the Student Board of Control and make its actions approved. The eyes of those who have gone will be upon you, and they wish you well.

The athletes who leave hope you have good teams. The alumni will back your athletes to the finish.

The past will never be forgotten. May the future be filled with just as pleasant days and good times as the last year has been. May the power, glory, and fame of old E. I. grow as the years pass slowly by.

FAREWELL, ALUMNI

It is with a feeling of sadness and regret that we see you taking part in the exercises which are carried on by the graduating class. This sadness and regret is caused by the feeling that it means a parting—a parting of close friendships and associations. The greater number of us have felt the feeling of loneliness in the fall, when we realize that many of our friends or former classmates will not be back, and when we look around and see a vast mob of new freshmen. It is at that time the old school has a touch of strangeness. This strangeness soon wears away, but never do the old days seem inferior to the present.

We also regret, departing schoolmates, that you have not seen fit to go ahead with your education. Many of you need to teach because of necessity, but many have only the feeling that they must make their own money. We have associated with you, but we are sure that in later years you will not receive as much good in a social way as if you were to finish now.

As badly as we regret to see you leave us we have also a feeling of gladness. Yes, we are glad. Glad that we are of a school which is putting out such fine teachers. Glad that we have associated with people who will make good. Glad that another group has been sent out from our ranks which will bring more honor, and wider reputation to E. I. Glad that more people will spread the spirit of E. I. As well as we know you will not fail us we may make a final plea. In all of your future work remember where you got your training (at least part of it), and use all your influence and energy to make more strong the fraternal kinship which binds all real E. I. people.

Fellow students and classmates, we bid you farewell.

COOPERATE

What can and should the Alumni Association do to help alumni of this school secure teaching positions? This question was freely discussed at the association's annual business meeting, here, Saturday, and the president of the association was authorized to appoint a committee of three to investigate the whole matter and to take whatever steps seemed advisable. The general impression seemed to be that whatever the association could do to help the school's graduates find positions would advance the interests of the school—provided those graduates also had the interests of the school at heart and acted accordingly.

Several ways were suggested by which alumni could help in this matter. Each alumnus who is leaving a position and every alumnus that knows of a vacancy should report it to Mr. Allen. Alumni in administrative positions should look for teachers here before writing to a teachers' agency, and other alumni, in financial or other respective communities, might urge other superintendents and boards of education to do likewise. This would be a good thing for both the community and the teacher in that it would save the agency's commission. Alumni the country over should pass the word along that the men and women being graduated with degrees and from the special courses here, are well prepared to maintain the school's reputation in the positions they seek.

Many alumni have been doing these things for years, but if all of the twelve or thirteen hundred members of the association could be persuaded to take an active interest in the above program, there would be little need of our graduates or alumni joining teachers agencies or begging for positions. Those who were not sought out by some superintendent or school board could choose their places to apply from a list greater than that of most agencies in the country. "The strength of the wolf is the pack; and the strength of the pack is the wolf." Will alumni and graduates cooperate?

OUR ADVERTISERS

The News wishes to thank you, as advertisers, have helped to make our paper possible. You have contributed largely to the financial success of The News. We hope that you have profited equally well from your advertisement in the columns of our paper. We hope that we will be able to assist one another in the future as in the past.

Well, well. Here we are at the end of the year.

Most everyone is both glad and sorry that the school year is coming to an end. We are glad because we are tired and want a rest. We are sorry because we are to soon leave E. I.

Some are leaving never to return except as a visitor. But these persons will want to get back as often as possible.

Others will return next year. We who are leaving look almost with envy upon those who are to spend another year here.

A few will go out in the world and teach a few years and then return.

But there are two days each year when you who stay can depend on seeing us—Homecoming and Alumni Day. We'll always try to get back then.

Commencement takes place this week. It will be the commencement of a new life for many who are going away to teach next year.

May all of you be successful in your work away from here!

If you who are not graduating have not made up your mind whether or not to come back next year, do it now. And decide in the affirmative.

You will never regret doing so. It will mean much to you later in life.

So here's hoping you go to E. I. next fall.

This is the last time that Chit-Chat will take up space in the paper—for this is the last paper.

It's a good thing that it is, too, for the author of these scrawls is about to find his mind utterly devoid of any thoughts that he might express.

In other words he's about to run out of chatter.

This has been a full thirty-six weeks of school, but it seems all too short when one looks back over the happenings of yesterday.

After a lapse of time there will be nothing left but pleasant memories of school days.

Chit-Chat now wishes to bid you good-bye until another year, when a new editor will push the pen for these lines.

May life be pleasant for you all.

Miss Birdie Marie Burwell spent the week end with Miss Donna Rodgers at her home near Findlay.

SOCIAL NOTES

ALUMNI ARE ENTERTAINED
On Saturday evening, May 25, Alumni Day came to a happy close when the faculty, alumni and graduating classes dined together at Pomphrey Hall.
Mr. Thomas acted as toastmaster. The following people gave toasts: Mr. Giles, who represented the faculty; Miss Mabel Jourdain, who spoke in behalf of the sophomore class; Mr. Keith Emory, who spoke for the alumni; Mrs. Nellie Claibough, a representative of the alumni; Mr. Ernest Balle, senior college class; and Mr. Leed.
It was a very congenial time for all, it seemed, and the present graduating classes will anticipate with great pleasure the welcome back to E. I. on future alumni days.
After the dinner, there was dancing in the gymnasium, music being furnished by Sanders' Orchestra.

Under the will of the late Dr. W. D. Morgan of Charleston, there is given to the students loan fund of the E. I. S. T. C. the annual income from about six thousand dollars, which is one-seventh of the estate. An additional amount will be received at the death of certain heirs.

TENNIS TOURNAMENT

ALMOST FINISHED
The tennis tournament is rapidly drawing to a close. Today, Tuesday, Showmaker plays a semi-final match with Gohl. The winner of this match will take on G. Balls, who won over Hill and E. Balle.
The high school tourney was won by Maurice Moler.
Tennis will probably continue to be a popular sport this summer. Probably a doubles tourney will be arranged for them.
May Play Baseball
It is also very likely that the college will have a baseball team this summer. If enough men are interested, Mr. Lanis will try to whip a team into shape that can successfully compete with the town team and neighboring teams. There was much interest displayed in baseball last summer.

LETTER MEN TO HAVE BANQUET
Over forty letter men of the college will attend a banquet and dance to be given in Pemberton Hall, Friday evening. Reservations can still be made by any man in college who holds an E. I., and there are a few on the honor roll who have not yet signified their intention of making the attendance complete.
The affair is the first of its kind for several years at E. I., and the success of this revival should make it an annual event.

MEDEA
In reading the play, Medea, I received a very different impression of the character of Medea from what I had ever had before. I have read the account of Medea in several Greek myths and have translated her story from the Latin, but never before reading Euripides' Medea have I felt that there was any justification for her. Always, she seemed such a monster of sin, both by nature and by her magic powers, that she suffered little or no remorse for any of her deeds. How differently Euripides presents her. She is a woman of extraordinary powers, high-strung, and extremely sensitive. Through her great and overpowering love for Jason, she is led to help him obtain the Golden Fleece and to escape from the land of Colchis, when otherwise Jason could not have accomplished this. Medea even killed her brother to help in this escape. This shows how much a woman she was, for she killed for love's sake. Yet Medea went farther in crime for Jason. She killed Pelius in order that Jason might have the throne which was rightfully his. What immeasurable pity goes out to Medea when, in spite of her career of crime for his sake, in spite of her degradation of character, as a result of this, in spite of the fact of her two children by him, Jason divorced her and married a beautiful young princess of Corinth. There is a saying that "Hell hath no fury like a woman scorned." Somehow I never realized the content of those words until they came into my mind in connection with Medea's outraged love. What depths of passion are roused in Medea. Her former crimes dwindle and seem pale in comparison with the ones she now contemplates. Her fury carries her to unheard of depths of wickedness. Personal safety and the condition of her own soul do not seem of any importance. Revenge only is important. Her love for her children causes her to hesitate for only a moment in killing them. She knew that it was only through her children that she could hurt Jason, and on she goes! She seems a terrible, a tragic, a sad figure. Even Lady Macbeth is not so sad, so pitiful as she.
Medea's nature of such boundless capacity for happiness, had an equal capacity for woe. She must have possessed great beauty and charm, as well as wisdom.
Euripides has very powerfully made use of the dramatic device of contrast to reveal Medea's character. To what great advantage does she appear when contrasted with the cowardly, boastful Jason. He shows nothing of the subtlety which is such a marked characteristic of her. Jason seems to be a weakling who attained the heights of power through a woman's love, and later scorned it and chose to believe himself the author of his great position, rather than of base ingratitude.
It seems a fitting close to the play that Medea should fly away in her chariot drawn by winged serpents. It seems symbolical of her—apparently flying in victory over the spoils, in reality a loathsome defeat.

The current Mentor contains a number of lovely views of the lakes of Switzerland. One of these is the western end of Lake Geneva which pictures the castle of Chillon, so well-known to travelers and students.
This same number of the Mentor contains a picture and sketch of the famous Christopher Morley. You might like to make his acquaintance.

Graduation

Graduation Day! The culmination of years of effort on the part of the parents as well as the student. A day that has long been anticipated and one never to be forgotten.

There should be a memento of this occasion. A photograph of the graduate in the answer. Think of what such a picture will be worth twenty years from now. Arrange for the sitting in advance and there will be no waiting.

Hubby: Sure, but my dear, did you ever hear of a fisherman giving bait to a fish after he had caught it?

She: I don't see how my vanishing cream could disappear.
He: It's behind those bewitching hair nets.

VARSITY TROUNCES THE ALUMNI NINE

Harrison and Baumgartner led the E. I. battlers with four hits apiece. The game closed a fair season for the Lastmen. They gained the Little 19 race with an average of 500. The team did not play well against the Indian teams with which it stacked up. Lack of a reliable pitching staff and accurate fielding were the big factors of the lost games. Honn was pretty good in most of the games but he had to work too often. On some days, there was no stopping the E. I. battlers, while on other afternoons (and mornings) they stood flat footed or straddled the dirt. Several games were lost on breaks and base-hand plays.

However, the team did well if we consider its short practice hours and lack of material for certain positions. Many of the squad members will be back next year and with a promising freshman team should make a good outfit.

OTHER CHANGES AT THE COLLEGE

It has been decided to have next year an examination schedule for the last two days of each term.

Teachers will not be permitted to excuse students from attendance at the examination periods.

Each person will allow two class periods (100 minutes) for the examination.

Candidates for the diploma or the degree will be required to continue their work at the close of the college year to the close of the regular examination periods.

ART EXHIBIT

Those who visited the art room on Friday or Saturday of last week were both pleased and surprised. Pleased in the fact that such artistic products were produced by the students of E. I., and surprised by the quantity and the quality of the products.

Most Artistic Articles
The three most gorgeous articles were: a georgette panel painted to represent lapistry, a painted white crepe dress, and a white georgette shawl.

Other Articles
Of course there were numerous articles there by young artists of another field. There were various designs, drawings, house-plans, carvings, tooled leather articles, pottery, etc. These all were exceptionally well done.

It was said that this was the best display of art and design that E. I. has ever had. Those not acquainted with work of this type were surely astonished and experienced a feeling of pride that such articles were made by students of E. I.

STUDENTS ACCEPT POSITIONS

The following have positions for next year:

Mary Ruth Cowgill, rural school.
Helen Lindsey, sixth grade, Urbana.

PEN-SPLASHES

Passenger: Can't you go any faster than this?
Motorman: Sure I can, but I have to stay with the car.

"They caught Dick Ferris to-day."
"How?"
"He went into a shoe store to buy some shoes and they pinched him."

Mother: How did you lose your teeth, son?
Son: Shifting gears on a lollipop.

Chairman: How long will you talk old man?
Next speaker: Oh, about five minutes.

Chairman: Couldn't you make it ten? We want to clear the room.

Latest song hit—"The Whisper Song," sung by the man with a cold.
