Musical Concert Presents Pleasing Programme Friday

Each year the concerts given in the spring by the students are deemed the best that have ever been given. Last Friday night at eight o'clock, E. I. had the pleasure of hearing the various musical organizations give a concert in the auditorium. Besides hearing the good music, the audience were quite pleased with the general appearance of all those who took part in the programme.

Under the direction of Mr. Fred Koch, Miss Ruth Major, and Miss Ella Geer, the soloist, the following programme was given:

- Song of the Marching Men, Daniel Protheroe
- Song of Thanksgiving, Edward Kremser—Men's Glee Club
- Listen to the Lambs, R. Nathaniel Dett—Mixed Chorus
- Adagio Religioso, Viestemps—Miss Geer
- Peace, Perfect Peace, Spense Water-Lilies, Linders—Men's Quartet
- Ho! Mr. Piper, Pearl Curran
- Drink to Me Only With Thine Eyes, Old English
- Happy Days (Robin Hood), Reginald DeKoven—Mixed Chorus
- Spanish Dance, Sarasate—Miss Geer
- Overture Mireille, Charles Gounod
- Serenade Mexicaine, Cedric Lemont Cavatina, Carl Bohm—Orchestra
- Praise Ye the Father, Charles Gounod—Mixed Chorus.

The audience was indeed glad to hear Miss Geer give her violin selections. Miss Geer is always a source of delight to the E. I. audience. The students who took part as well as the directors should be complimented for their good work.

INTERESTING MEETING HELD BY ART CLUB

Last Thursday the Domafian Club had one of its most interesting meetings. It was held in the manual arts building and conducted by the manual arts department, with Thompson Shields as chairman. Mr. Hughes, Wayne Cooper, Mr. Ashley, and Harry Phipps talked on some of the divisions of manual arts. Bench wood-working, mechanical drawing, printing, and pottery were the subjects discussed. Then everyone was taken on an excursion through the building.

Mr. Miller demonstrated the different lathes. Mr. Harrison demonstrated tin bending and cutting machines. Some of the finished products were seen. Baseball bats, chair legs, hammers, and other tools, tin cake pans, pop corn poppers, and tin cups were some of the finished products. Then Harry Phipps showed a little trick which was the boring of a square hole. He also let everyone have a peep at the Ford which has its sleeping quarters in the back room of the manual training building and even promised the first girl who would crank it that he would take her home, but you know how girls are about cranking a Ford. After some of the many mysteries of the manual arts building had been uncovered the business part of the meeting was held.

VOTE IN THE PRIMARY

Tuesday, April 10 is primary election day. On that day decisions of vital importance to Illinois and the nation are to be made. It is essential to good government that the voice of the intelligent and that every qualified voter be out to do his duty. College has not done very much for you if it has not made you take your voting privilege seriously.

Do not fail to vote April 10. It is your duty as a good citizen to cast your vote for the best man.

All Parts For Opera Assigned

The cast of the opera "King Harold the Cold" rehearsed at seventy-third Monday evening. At this rehearsal several more speaking parts were assigned. All of the other speaking parts have been memorized and the rehearsals are going on smoothly.

Mr. Giles will go to St. Louis and Chicago soon to visit the costume houses and arrange for costumes.

Miss Lena Terrell is designing the scenery for the play.

The date of the opera has been set for May 16.

Monday, April 23, is registration day for the mid-spring term.

ART CLUB TO OFFER "MONTE CRISTO"

Have you ever read "Monte Cristo"? If you have not you have missed a real treat. If you have never seen it on the screen you have missed another real treat. This Tuesday night "Monte Cristo", featuring John Gilbert and Estelle Taylor is to be shown in the college assembly. Many of us have been waiting to see it. A number of people have remarked that they are glad this picture is being brought to Charleston of they had been waiting for a chance to see it. This is the first and perhaps the last chance that many of us will have to see it. While in Chicago it is said to have been highly praised and much commented upon. Romance, duals, rich costuming, and exquisite scenery come with an excellent plot. This is a chance to see a good book interpreted into pictures. Music which always adds to a picture is to be furnished. The admission is 25 cents for adults and 15 cents for children.

Genelle Voigt and Ruel Hall Most Representative Students

NEWS JOBS OPEN

The Student Council is ready to receive applications for the positions of Editor and Business Manager of the Teachers College News. Applications will be received until May 15. They should be handed to Stanley Cook, president of the Student Council, in sealed envelopes. These are positions of honor, responsibility, and some profit, and should attract the most capable students. The value of the training afforded is alone sufficient to make a year's work on The News worthwhile.

The identity of the representative man and woman of E. I. is now divulged. Ruel Hall, Junior, and Genelle Voigt, Junior, were chosen by a student-faculty judging committee, composed of Miss Weller, Mr. Moore, Miss Torinus, Maurice Sullivan, Marjarian Hampton. Nominations were made by the student body, and the nominees were judged on six points: personality, scholastic standing, extra curricular activities, athletic ability, social graces, and appearance.

This is the first time representative students have been chosen at E. I., and is one of the new features inaugurated by the 1928 Warbler.

Full page photographs and snap shots of each of the students will appear in this year's Warbler. Both are worthy of the honor which has been conferred upon them, as every reader of The News will agree.

Miss Voigt, daughter of Charles H. Voigt of West Salem, Illinois, is a senior here at E. I. She attended Butler College her freshman year, where she took an active part in activities. At Butler, Miss Voigt was a member of Phi Delta Phi, of the Scarf Club, and of the Campus Club at E. I. Miss Voigt is president of the Players and news editor; besides being an honor student.

Before coming to E. I. Miss Voigt was advance manager for the Midland Chautauquas during the summer and principal of the grade school at West Salem.

Mr. Ruel Hall, unanimously chosen most representative man at E. I., is the son of Mrs. Effie Hall, Charleston.

STUDENTS HOLD HOT DOG ROAST

Naturally the irresistible call of these moonlight nights in the spring cannot be avoided. These last beautiful, warm days have sent many young couples strolling over the campus. However, the spring fever took on another symptom Saturday night when a band of young enthusiasts garbed in hiking outfits issued forth to Hall's Ford for a weiner roast in spite of the rather threatening weather. Weiners disappeared like dropping bricks in an old well. Some ate so much that they had to do the old-fashioned square dance to the twangs of Johnny Powers' ukelele in order that they would be able to return to town. About nine o'clock the tired brigade broke camp and returned to E. I.

Would you like to know who did this? Here they are: Mildred Lacey, Dale Steffy, Dorothy Wommer, Lucrea Eagleson, Gertrude McCollum, Helen Swengel, Christine Lacey, Jean Moody, Gwendolyn McCallister, Louise Fabor, Dorothy Henry, Dwight Reed, Charles Reasor, Rex McMorris, Edward Thomas, Wayne Thrall, Frank Turrell, Johnny Powers, Jack McComas, Neal Adkins, Wendell Davis, and Glen Titus. The chaperones were Mr. and Mrs. Coleman and Mr. and Mrs. Waffle.

The next issue will be April 23.

COLLEGE SPIRIT

Without attempting a dictionary definition of college spirit, I should like to suggest something like the following as expressing that much talked-of, but little-thought-about, concept. College spirit is that background of ideas, ideals, and attitudes toward one's Alma Mater which is the dominating and directing force behind one's actions with respect to her. Such a concept of college spirit gives it tangibility, but its greatest value lies in the fact that it makes college spirit a guiding and directing force in the college life of the student. At one college which proudly boasts of its spirit in pep meetings, in the college paper, and from the chapel platform, it is the policy of the library not to purchase textbooks for the stacks for the simple reason that textbooks cannot be kept in the library, and I never heard any one accuse the janitor of taking them. This same college tried an honor system in examinations for several years, but finally had to give it up, because it would not work. Too many students, overflowing with college spirit, of course, persisted in acting dishonorably in the examination room. The inability of American colleges and universities to maintain an honor system is notorious, and yet doubtless every college which displays such inability is proud of its spirit and does not hesitate to say so. If college students would think of college spirit as the directing force behind all their acts in college, possibly many of the acts so common on college campuses would be less common. Possibly an honor system could be made to work; possibly library books would be safe; possibly there would be less petty thieving of coats, caps, books, notebooks, fountain pens, etc.; possibly it would no longer be considered a display of college spirit for contesting classes to mutilate or destroy college property; possibly the annual spring destruction of city property would not take place; possibly questionable fraternity politics would not have so much to do in controlling elections to campus offices; possibly campus bootlegging would be less common; possibly students would be less inclined to litter up the campus with trash or cut unsightly paths through its beautiful green carpet; possibly ungentlemanly or unladylike conduct in public would not be considered "smart;" possibly scholastic as well as athletic, accomplishment would have more attraction; possibly students would realize that a genuine college spirit, one worthy of the name, and the only one that anyone has any right to be proud of, would demand that the possessor be a gentleman or lady at all times, on or off the campus; for if it is college spirit that gives direction to one's college acts, a college spirit that would permit such acts as the above would not be one of which any student could be proud.

APPLY NOW FOR NEWS POSITIONS

Some time before the end of the year, the Student Council will choose from a list of candidates the two students who are best able to handle the College News for the 1928-29 period. Applications for the editorship or for the business management of The News should be made in sealed envelopes to Stanley Cook, president of the Student Council. The applications will then be turned over to the Faculty News Committee which will decide upon the fitness and eligibility of the candidate. The candidates will then be voted upon by the Student Council. All applications should be made by May 15. Applications should be numerous and rivalry keen in competition for the positions. Aside from the monetary remuneration, the positions offer rewards not obtainable elsewhere in the school. Very few things are more broadening than newspaper work, because one comes into contact with so many types of people and with so many kinds of information. The business manager meets most of the business men of the town and

GYPSIES

I saw them pass in gay bright colored wagons,
Old men reeking with odors of dirt and smoke,
Old begrim'd, toothless, black-eyed women puffing on their corn cob pipes,
Young gypsy women, some of them holding brown babies on their knees.
Careless, carefree wanderers are they
But the Romanies know the wind of the winding gypsy road.

I saw them trading stolen horses, and laughing about it.
I saw the jeweled red-bandannaed gypsy females telling fortunes and stealing at the same time.
I saw them peddling hand-made willow fern stands on hot summer days.
I saw them living near the junk yards in the winter time.
Careless, carefree wanderers are they
But the Romanies know the wind of the winding gypsy road.

I saw them squatting around their glowing friendly fires,
I saw their young men looking long at their dark-skinned maidens,
I heard the wild passionate wailing of the Bohemian violin,
I saw the gypsy women acting like wild things dancing around the camp fire.
Careless, carefree wanderers are they
But the Romanies know the wind of the winding gypsy road.

WINDS! WINDS!

Winds, I wonder what you whisper
To the trees that nod and sway,
Winds, I wonder what you murmur
To the wild flowers night and day!
Winds, I'm asking while you're passing,
Do you whisper truths to me?
Winds, I'm thinking while you're sinking,
That our feelings must agree!

Winds, I fancy that you, gayly
Talk with laughing water falls,
Talk with beaming moonbeams gleaming
On old stony mountain walls;
Talk with mountains, leaping fountains,
Rainbow fays, and stars, and sun!
Talk with soaring birds exploring
Lands where mystic streamlets run!

Now you're sweeping, now you're weeping,
As you slowly rise and fall,
Now you're roaring, now you're soaring,
O'er the tree tops slim and tall;
Winds, you wake me, winds you shake me,
With a passion strange and wild,

PANDORA'S BROTHER FINDS HER DIARY

Freindly City,
4 Days B 4 I C U

Dear Maw,

I saw Pandora's dairy yesterday and it is just full of notes about the faculty and students. You know, sis is quite distinguished up here, because she writes for the school paper, which is nearly one of the best in the state. Their were the most notes in her dairy about the editor, about alumni, and about the faculty. Sis is afeared to write them up for the paper becuz she is wouble to get kicked out of school—they call it campused.

Entry I

"Both Lacey wearing diamond." Maw, this entry refers to a girl from Casey what is teaching school and going with a guy named Dale Gilbert what went two years at Shurtleff and two years up here. He was a crackin-jack of a football player, but he's done for now.

Entry II

1-1-28.

"Editor has boil—goes fishing." Maw, you know the editor is the guy that Pan works for. He's all rite, but he had bad luck. He has a new site and was planning on wearing it Sunday when he up and takes a boil. He gets so peeved, he goes to the river fishing and reports have it that he never got a bite—a fish bite, I mean.

Entry III

1-1-28

"Investigate elopement case of student and critic teacher."

I racked my brain until it ached, maw, trying to figger out about this elopement. I finally asked my roommate and he told me that it was EZY. He said, "Theirs only one student goes with a critic teacher, hein't thar?" I says, "Yes," "Do you suppose they are going to get married while they are in Chicago Easter vacation?" My roomie only said, "It remains to be seen."

Maw don't let anyone see these personals taken from Pandora's dairy because Pandora would spank me, and we'd both get in bad. You'd better burn them as soon as you read them.

Goodie, goodie, goodie, I'll be home Thursday maw, you'd better wash my —'s, because if it keeps getting warmer and warmer I'm going to have to take off my red heavies. Some of my friends say I am crummy to change afore the first of May. What do you think? I says the middle of April is late enuf.

Tell paw and all the other kids "Hello."

Your loving son,
Theophilus Ezekiel.

Pem. Hall

Anyone would have thought that the reign of terror had full away Wednesday night. Room 22 was the morgue. A certain Pem Hall artist used her skill in perfecting a corpse's face. In addition to the skill in painting, this person would make a very good undertaker. The dummy was laid out on the bed in such a way, and the lights were so adjusted that the scene was quite awe-inspiring. The fair sex squeal when they see mice, but it was worse than that when they opened the door to this tomb. There were two guides whose business it was to inform the other inmates that they should knock on the door of Room 22. These two guides took a fiendish delight in spreading the news for a certain reason. However, they were caught in their prank, and they found out that "All isn't well

Question: Shall the commencement exercises for the high school and college be held together?

Lola Redden, senior: No. There will be more room for our guests if the exercises are held separately. Also, the high school will show up to better advantage if it is alone.

Natalia Lantz, H. S. senior: Yes, because then we can have better speakers than the high school alone could have. I will feel more important graduating with the college, anyway.

Kenneth Sloan, H. S. senior: No, it takes the dignity away from both classes to have the exercises together. Our auditorium is too small to accommodate the friends of all the graduates.

Merna Romine, sophomore: No, I don't believe so. Having the high school with the college takes away some of the dignity of the college. Having them separate gives more room for the friends of the graduates.

Ruth Brotherton, sophomore: No, the high school should have separate exercises. I graduated from high school once, and don't care to again.

that doesn't end well."

The club organized for ways to better English initiated four members last week. A member of this club must be able to talk a great deal through one meal, and not make over three grammatical errors.

The victrola has been fixed; it is in a sense a joy and a sorrow. A new record in which the Russian Symphonic Choir gives a selection has been added to the collection of classical records. The girls enjoy hearing this record very much. The Russian Symphonic Choir gave a concert here in the auditorium two years ago. The victrola is enjoyable at times, but Pem Hall's Paderewski is a constant demand.

There was a special table arranged Sunday in honor of Miss Margaret Pierson of Casey, Illinois. Those present were: Ben Morgan, Stanley Doak, Charlotte Coats, Jerry Jerad, Leota Graham, Eloise Tomlinson, Marian Rambo, Margaret Pierson, and Helen McCaulley.

Another table was given for Miss Lureda Eagleson who was Gertrude McCollum's guest. The table was composed of Miss Lureda Eagleson, Gertrude McCollum, Helen Swengel, Ruth Opal Smith, Louise Tabor, Dorothy Wommer, Dale Steffy, Christine Lacey, Mildred Lacey, and Gwendolyn McCallister.

Miss Helene Cooper of Mattoon spent the week end with Cleo Jeffries.

Table I had a narrow escape from injury Tuesday at lunch. Remember the strong wind? Well, it caused some worry to the girls during lunch, since the conversation persisted in dwelling on cyclones and whirlwinds, but no one really expected anything to happen. Just as the girls arose from their chairs and started to leave a loud crash came. Eating and con-

American Biography To Be Published

The first volume of the Dictionary of American Biography will soon be issued by the American Council of Learned Societies and Charles Scribner's Sons. The second volume is to appear next November and three or four volumes a year will be issued thereafter. But in addition to the twenty main volumes, the council will publish supplementary volumes to include the names of distinguished persons who die while the dictionary is being published. The set will be sold for $200. The dictionary will not include the biographies of living persons. Sixteen thousand names will be included; and one of the interesting phases of the work, it is said, will be the attempt to restore forgotten reputations, that is to give prominence to Americans who made some valuable contributions to the national life but who have been robbed of their due fame by some caprice of fortune. It is expected that many new and neglected and unfamiliar phases of American life will thus be revealed.

Attention, as defined by a Pem. Hall girl, is a long-distance call when it isn't necessary.

Conversation ceased at the other tables. The girls of Table I stared in astonishment, and joy that they had been saved. A window had blown in and glass was smashed and shattered on the table and floor.

"When our last copy is written
And the ink pots are emptied and dried,
And the printer's cuss words have ended,
And the printer's devil has died,
We shall rest—and begorra we'll need it;

Sit down for a minute or two,
Till the thought of our next week's issue
Shall drive us to work anew.
And those who have tried will be kicked at,
And those who have shirked get the praise,
And those who have joked will be grouchy,
And possibly thunder "raise."
We'll none of us get any money
And none of us get any fame,
Since we've worked for the doubtful

CHAPTER II

ON PROMISE ME!

Freddie turned over and over in his hand the beautiful invitation he had just received. Mary Ellen was having a few of her friends in to-morrow evening to dance and play cards. Would he drop in during the evening? And underlined, "Please come."

Freddie whole-heartedly hoped that he had been the only Smith to receive such an invitation. His hopes were blasted when Reggie proudly displayed a similar treasure, and Freddie's jealous heart sank low when he saw added the words, "Please come." But he restored his heart to its natural place and resolved to enjoy himself in spite of Reggie's presence.

Mary Ellen's party was a gem of perfection, whatever that means. There was something for everybody to do all the time. Mary Ellen's lovely form moved about among the joy-makers, leaving a fragrance in her wake. Her light smile was reflected in the eyes of every boy, and caused the mind of every girl to tingle with envy. Freddie and Reggie, favored equally, by her attention, were supremely happy. Freddie saw the girl for whom he had so recently composed poetry, done little favors, and so passionately declared his love, favoring his former rival with endearing glances; but he gave it no thought, felt no pang caused by the green monster, for he had found the One Girl!

It was late in the evening before Freddie found an opportunity to be alone with Mary Ellen. He lost no time in declaring his mind.

"Gee, kid, but I'm crazy about you." Her eyes dropped, but neither of them noticed it.

"You're going to Bee-Bee next year aren't you?" he asked confidently.

"Why, I hadn't thought much about it yet, Freddie."

"Gosh, Mary Ellen, if you go to Carleton Pi you're ruined. Why, all they do there is study."

Her eyes opened wide.

"Oh, we'd better go in, Freddie. Come around about seven-thirty to-morrow, when we can talk alone."

and she pressed his hand.

Reggie soon singled out Mary Ellen and made his plea.

"Gee, kid, but I'm crazy about you." "That-that's nice, Reggie."

"Say, you know you're going to Carleton Pi next year, aren't you?" he questioned, dreading lest Freddie had already obtained a promise.

"Really, I hadn't thought much about it, Reggie. Why?"

"Gosh, Mary Ellen, you don't want to go to Bee-Bee. All they do there is study," and he paused to catch the horrified look.

Editor's note: [What's so wrong with studying? When I was a boy—]

Author's note: (That's too far back. Who's writing this story?)

"We'd better go in, Reggie. I'll tell you, come around tomorrow about seven-thirty, and we can talk alone."

She touched his hand as they went inside, Reggie walking on air.

The party broke up at midnight, as most of the boys were in training and could stay up no later. Mary Ellen gave Reggie a meaning glance as she bade him good night in the door. A moment later Freddie came to hake his adieu, and a like glance kept him whistling merrily all the way home.

"Mary Ellen's a pretty cute kid," remarked Reggie before extinguish-

"Baby Mine", Three Act Farce, Will Be Presented

Casey Gymnasium To Be Dedicated

"Baby Mine," a three act farce by Margaret Mayo, has been chosen by the senior class, to be given later in the year. The play enjoyed long runs in both New York and London, and should enjoy a delightful one-night run in Charleston.

The characters were selected by open competition Thursday. Most of the seniors turned out to "try-out" for the play. Unfortunately, only ten could be used, and Mr. Widger selected those ten and announced his selections Friday. The fortunate ones are Lyle Henderson, Frances McTaggart, Charles Reasor, Rex McMorris, Neal Adkins, Max Bisson, Natalia Lantz, Marian Rennels, Mary Barbara Riley, and Dorothy Henry.

Rehearsals will begin at once, and will continue through the Easter vacation, during which time much may be accomplished. The date for presentation has not yet been determined.

ing the light.

"Not bad," was Freddie's comment.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

The sophomores are making plans toward putting class meetings on a more efficient level. Questions for discussion will be presented, and class meetings will be used for open discussion upon these. The first question for their solution will be that of getting all members of the class into some school organization.

The juniors elected James Reynolds as the 1928-29 editor of the H. S. page in The News. Clara Florence Barnes will be Warbler editor, and Russell Kellam was chosen business manager.

Plans for the Chicago trip are being carried forward rapidly. Hotel rates have been received.

Lawrence.

- Riis—Making of an American.
- Davis—The Iron Puddler.
- Paine—Joshua Barney.
- Fish—Path of Empire.
- Buck—The Agrarian Crusade.

The new Casey gymnasium will be dedicated Thursday, April 5, with an appropriate programme. Francis G. Blair, State Superintendent, will be one of the speakers. Several men prominent in athletics will be present, and it is hoped that in this number will be Robert Zupple. A good musical programme has been arranged.

Mr. Widger received a special invitation for our high school last week. As the Easter vacation begins then, it is probable that the invitation will be accepted by many students.

BOOKS ON H. S. SHELVES

These books will remain on the high school shelves until after vacation:

- Sullivan—Our Times, 2 vols.
- Stefansson—My Life With the Eskimos.
