FACULTY SPEND VACATIONS AT VARIOUS POINTS

On Friday morning before vacation the student body and faculty were busily engaged. At noon the building was deserted. Bags were hastily packed with books that would have a week's vacation as well as their owners. Whistles shrieked, horns tooted, much gasoline was sold, special interurbans were run, and vacation had begun! The faculty seemed to have traveled farther than the student body.

The record for speedy traveling goes to Mr. Beu and Mr. Kutz, who made two miles in eight and one-half hours. Not so bad for the faculty. The highway was snowbound six miles north of Kankakee. Mr. and Mrs. Beu had been visiting in Elgin. Mr. and Mrs. Kutz visited in Janesville and Madison, Wisconsin.

Miss Zinn spent part of her vacation at her home, Farina, Illinois. The latter part of the week she saw several plays in Chicago. She saw "She Stoops to Conquer" with Otis Skinner, Mrs. Fiske, and Henrietta Crossman, the "Merry Wives of Windsor" and the "Constant Wife" played by Ethel Barrymore.

Mr. Widger and Mr. Allen attended the State Teachers meeting.

Miss Booth spent part of her vacation attending a Library Meeting in Chicago.

Mr. Stover and Mr. Spooner attended the American Association for the Advancement of Science at Nashville, Tenn. While they were there they saw Mr. Hankinson, a former instructor of this college in zoology.

Miss Torinus visited her family in Stillwater, Minnesota.

Mr. Crowe visited in Chicago and Indianapolis.

Mr. Koch spent his vacation with his daughter, Miss Elsa Diemer Koch (Mrs. Otto Wick) and family. Mrs. Koch remained for a longer visit.

Miss Carman was the guest of her brother and his wife in Kansas City. Miss Ellington visited in Greenwood, Mississippi.

Miss Delahunt departed for Marathon, Iowa. Miss Wold for Minneapolis. Miss Colleran for La Crosse, Wisconsin. Miss Floyd for Sullivan, Illinois and Miss Stevens for Centralia, Illinois.

Mr. and Mrs. James, as well as Miss Weller were visitors in Chicago. Mr. Lord spent his holidays in the balmy land of Florida.

The following faculty members remained in Charleston: Miss Johnson, Miss Gardiner, Miss Thomas, Miss Besteland, Miss McAfee, Miss Morse, Miss Geddes, Miss McKinney, Mrs. Stover, Miss Reinhardt, Miss Messer, Miss Daniels, Miss Ford, Mr. Ashley, Mr. Giles, Mr. Thomas, Mr. Taylor, Mr. Spooner, Mr. Lantz, Mr. Coleman, Mr. Langford.

Mr. and Mrs. Schneider spent their vacation in Chicago and St. Louis.

Mr. and Mrs. Railsback had as their guest the latter's brother, Mr. Irwin Veck of Chicago.

Miss Levaske spent six days in Blue River, Wisconsin. Later she met Miss Major in Chicago, who had spent the early part of the vacation at her home in Emporia, Kansas.

Local Cage Men Fail To Connect

Due chiefly to inaccurate shooting and to their inability to locate themselves on the large floor the Eastern Illinois Teachers cagers left the big end of 34 to 24 count with the Normal five at Normal, Illinois Saturday night.

The basket attempts made by the Teachers were numerous enough to have justified their realization of a neat lead by the half. However, Normal hit while the hardluck shots were credited to the men of Lantz in a manner such that at mid-period the mark read 14-11.

As the score indicates, the first half was by no means a walk-away for Normal. It was noticeable at the start that the boys of E. I. were getting two shots to Normal's one. Even after the beginning of the last half aspirations ran high among the E. I. squad.

BOYS FORMAL DANCE SUCCESSFUL

One of the most beautiful and successful dances which has ever been held at E. I. was the Lettermen's dance on Friday night, December 23, in the parlors of Pemberton Hall. The dining room and small parlor were used to dance in. More than eighty couples were present which was several more than was prepared for. The Lettermen are to be congratulated on the excellent management and success of the dance. The decorations were very simple but beautiful. The parlors were decorated with Christmas trees and crepe paper covered with reflected soft red lights. The orchestra was enclosed with lattice through which evergreen was intertwined.

There were three extra favor dances during the evening. Beautiful colored balloons were the favors for the first extra. During the second extra favors were given to the girls. The favors were pretty green leather address books, with a green leather cord to which was fastened a gold pencil. E. I. varsity was printed on the front of the favor. Paper caps were given for the other favor dance.

Sanders seven-piece Orchestra furnished the music which added to the success and enjoyment of the dance. Punch was served throughout the evening.

The chaperones were Mr. and Mrs. Lantz, Mr. and Mrs. Moore, Mr. and Mrs. Railsback, Mr. and Mrs. Spooner.

The Varsity Club deserves much credit for handling the Boys' Dance better than it has been handled for a long time. They planned and executed a successful dance.

Mrs. Odell has resigned as head of Pemberton Hall. Her resignation took effect after the Christmas vacation and her position was taken temporarily by Miss Besteland, school nurse in this institution. Miss Besteland will continue her work as nurse.

The girls at Pemberton Hall are well satisfied with the change and report that things seem more as they were last year.

WARBLER TO EXTEND CONTEST

Because of the rush before holidays the student body had too little time to attend to the voting of the representative man and woman for the Warbler. The college body seemed to be in favor of this variety for the Warbler, and the staff has given the college another opportunity to vote. Beginning with Tuesday morning there will be a ballot box in the front corridor where names for the representative man and woman may be placed. It is not necessary to sign your name. No nominating may be done after Wednesday evening. Attend to this matter now, students and make your Warbler a success.

ANNOUNCEMENT

The intra-mural basketball tournament will begin Tuesday evening when the sophomore class meets the class in Coaching 37, and the Faculty hook up with Coaching 34. Thursday the High School runs up against the College Seniors, after which the Freshmen and Juniors put on a show.

Admission is free to these games so everyone should come and root for his team.

Jerome Jones Returns to E. I.

Jerome Jones is again one of the college number after spending seven months in Europe. He returned to the states two weeks ago from Southampton on the Leviathan. He spent most of the time in Vienna where his father furthered his study of medicine. Mr. Jones studied German while he was abroad, and is a welcome addition to the German class of the college.

The Players are now rehearsing on their bill of three one-act plays. The plays are "A Night at an Inn," "He," and "Pierre Patelin." This bill will be presented soon.

Everyone is anticipating the band concert by the college band, Friday, January 27. Plan to buy your ticket. Watch these columns for further information.

MAY WE PRESENT THE MATH CLUB

A group of about thirty-five students who were interested in mathematics met in room 26 to decide whether or not to form a club. They voted unanimously to organize a mathematics club. The chief purpose of this organization is to discuss certain interesting phases of that field which cannot be offered in a regular course in mathematics. Such topics as, The Magic Square, The Fourth Dimension, Mathematical Wrinkles, and other philosophical questions bearing on the subject will be discussed. The members of this club wish to make their meetings enlivening as well as beneficial. It would be worth any one's while to join this club if he is sufficiently interested. Any one who has a fair knowledge of high school algebra and plane geometry will be eligible to join and also to enjoy the discussions.

They have already elected the following officers:

President, Cyril D. Reed
Vice-president, Dwight Reed
Secretary and Treasurer, Lola Redden.

Any one of these officers would be glad to give you more information about the club. Get interested and help to make it a success.

Mr. Carlyle Morris, who was a teacher of history in this school, is now in the reference department of the Chicago Public Library.

Mr. Stover Soon- To Occupy Home

The completion of Mr. Stover's new house of English style architecture has been delayed because of the severe weather. At present Mr. and Mrs. Stover are occupying an apartment on Fourth Street. They expect to be settled in their new home within the next two weeks.

Mr. McArthur of the McArthur Motor Sales Agency was the donor recently of a 1924 model T Ford to the auto mechanics class of the college conducted by Mr. Langford. This machine will further the men in securing practical experience in the study of mechanics.

VARSITY RALLY TO DEFEAT E. I. ALUMNI 34-23

In a sensational last period rally, the Teachers College varsity wrested a difficult victory from the hands of the E. I. alumni by a 34 to 23 count in the local gymnasium last Tuesday evening.

The beginning made by the old veterans with their good offensive combination of Towles, Osborn and Foreman soon convinced the spectators that they were equal to the task before them. However, the well balanced work of the varsity's offense (shown by the fact that Fenoglio, Hall and Meurlot each has four field baskets to his credit) counteracted the attack of the old timers.

In adhering closely to his old policy "of starting the game off right," Towles began by drawing two baskets to the Alumni count. Then Hall matched two for the other side. With additions to double his mark the quarter ended 8-8.

During the second period the varsity gained only two points while their opponents, showing an excellent type of play, romped through for two field baskets and two free throws to close the half by 14 to 10 score.

The coming of the second half brought a scoring rampage on the parts of the "youthful Teachers" which brought them within two points of their elders making the count at the end of the quarter read 18 to 20.

With contributions from all members of the team, the Varsity forged ahead in the last period. Fenoglio and Foreman throwing the most spectacular shots. At the finish the Teachers had amassed 34 points to 23 for the Alumni.

If Foreman could have tuned in for the basket a little sooner in the fray the outcome, no doubt, would have been different, but the College five deserve the victory for the rally they made. Due consideration being given the Alumni for lack of practice suffices to give great praise for their performance.

NEW YEAR

The New Year is just starting. This term is still young, so there is plenty of time to make up for a bad start, if that is the kind you got. A few resolutions are hardly out of order at this late date.

It was noticeable Tuesday that the entire student body seemed happy to be back at E. I. The students in one composition class were asked to write a short theme on their feelings when returning from their vacations. Three of them broke forth into poetry, which again proves that people often write poetry when under stress of some strong emotion.

Many activities need the school support and the backing of individual members. If you haven't been taking much interest in extra-curricular work, now is a good time to begin. Start the year right. You will not only benefit yourself, but others will profit also.

THE PLAYERS

The Dramatic Club is announcing a most remarkable group of plays for this term. The cast has been selected, and the successful ones are envied by all. Interest within the club is running high. As was predicted some time ago, it is becoming one of the major organizations of the school.

We say without hesitation that the Players were entirely successful in their Homecoming production. Yet, there seems to be no great desire, among the men especially, to become active in presenting the various plays during the rest of the year. The Dramatic Club has done exceedingly well in the past, and will continue to do so, but it does need more interested men in its ranks, more to share the favor and more to share the work.

Remember how you wished you had bought a Warbler last year when all the rest had theirs? Well, the same condition will take away the scholastic atmosphere for a few days again this year. Are you going to be left out this time?

Let us give you just a little hint on how to be in the midst of the excitement. All you have to do is sign a pledge, pay your money and wait patiently with the rest. It's easy, isn't it? Then why not take the precaution? You'll never be sorry.

TOURNAMENT

This week offers its share of exciting entertainment in the form of an interclass basketball tournament. Eight teams will enter the contest; each will be determined to win. They will all have their enthusiastic rooters. Every high school student, college student, and faculty member will have a direct interest in the outcome. No one is to shirk his duty, so make up your mind to attend all the games.

SOMETHING OUGHT TO BE DONE ABOUT THIS

Those who are handling the financial affairs of the various classes and other student organizations are continually bothered with some who will not "pay up." Now, the life of a treasurer is too short and his pay too small for him to be so hindered by the laziness and laxity of others.

No doubt, there are a few students who cannot afford to pay any dues, but that number is small indeed. No one will believe that it includes a third or more of the students here. Then why should so many persons fail to pay their assessments? Part of it is neglect. Part probably lies in the desire to "get by" without paying. However, it seems that the real cause is the failure to see the importance of settling such accounts. If this is the reason, the solution most certainly will be found in showing those concerned just how important class dues may be made.

Something ought to be done. Education of a very definite kind is needed here. It should be harsh, to the point, and, above all, it should produce results. The students themselves should be made to realize that this condition cannot go on forever.

AT OUR BASKETBALL GAMES

Why not show more "pep" at the basketball games? We have one of the best teams in the Little Nineteen, it deserves our support. Let's get together on the south side of the gymnasium and show the people that we're there. More yells! Louder! Clearer! What say?

VALUE OF COLLEGE

EDUCATION

The average cost of four years in college is six thousand dollars. According to authorities the training received is worth seventy-two thousand dollars, a profit of 1,200 per cent.

Do you like the change above?

THREE STUDENTS AND A SCHOLAR

One evening in September the four Paix University students were parked in the parlor of their boarding house. Henri Hous du Combat, the son of a rich man, was mixing cocktails. Marcel Moronia, the shiek, was thumping "Blue Heaven" on his banjo. Jacques de Bojalais, the athlete, was inspecting a case of rapiers. Pierre Contradine, the poverty-stricken honor student, was studying.

"Marcel," began Jacques, "if you will end your affair with Anne of Austria, I can take up professional athletics and make more than I do in school."

"How's that, husky one?" asked Marcel.

"Richelieu has heard of me," explained Jacques. "He wants me to polish you off, for he's found out that Anne's infatuation for you is your pork and beans. He guarantees me three hundred lives for each of his pet enemies that I render null and void. You are the first victim, and Athos and D'Artagnan of the Musketeers are next. I can't take this job if I have to ventilate you. I think too much of you."

"Now listen here, big boy," said Henri, "you tell Richelieu to give that job to someone who needs killing. You could kill poor Marcel easily enough, but when you tried Athos or D'Artagnan, it would be curtains and warbling canaries for you. The Bloody Cardinal has tried unsuccessfully a dozen times to have them exterminated

"By the by," continued Henri, "aren't you in school because of your athletic ability?"

"Righto, Heinie," said Jacques. "I am guaranteed straight B's, board, room, tuition, and one hundred Louis per week if I give my services to the rapier team. I wind the dean's eight day clock to avoid the charge of professionalism. I only have to kill three more Milan U. students this month to get my variety P."

Henri laughed and said, "This is a queer world. Originally schools were places to study. At present, I am a smart student because I like the models and because my father pays me well to stay away from home. I hire bright students to do my work. Jacques has told us how he gets by. Marcel, we know that the world is your oyster and that you pry your living out of women's hearts with your blue eyes and raven locks, tell us how you pass enough courses to keep from being expelled."

"My girl friends write up my notebooks and themes for me," Marcel told them.

Pierre bounded out of his chair and shouted, "Gentlemen, I ask you, in this world is there such a thing as justice? I have to wash the dishes here, shake the furnace, and milk the goat for room rent. I must tend bar at Poutres for my 'vin ordinaire' and free lunch. I must sweep the entire university each day for my tuition and books. Jacques gets everything for winding the dean's eight day clock because he is an athlete. Should I have to do all this drudgery and study far into the night because I am not a rich man's son, a sheik, or an athlete?"

Twenty Years After
Twenty years had passed. Richelieu had died, and France was groaning under the grasping hands of the avaricious Cardinal Masarin. Athos, Porthos, and Aramis had retired to private life, and D'Artagnan was kept from being expelled."

PANDORA REPORTS FACULTY PARTY

The faculty were assembled at an after Christmas social gathering. As usual the subject came up of how the vacation was spent.

Miss Ford was the first to tell of her vacation. "Well, I had a very enjoyable vacation. For Christmas I got two new dolls. One was Angelina Snowball." Here she got excited and jumped sprightly to her feet. It was a little negro with a red dress on. The other was Pricilla Ann. It was a colonial doll with the cutest outfit and simply gorgeous golden brown curly hair.

"That's nothing," interrupted Mr. Koch, "I got a little xylophone and I can already play three pieces on it. My Blue Heaven—"

"That reminds me!" Miss Carman chimed in, "I got some Greek soldiers and a popgun. The game was very complicated. The idea was to see how many of the soldiers you could get down without missing a single shot. If you missed you had to start over."

"Have you really got five dollars, Mr. James?" queried Mr. Hughes.

"Well, of course I have," Mr. James said in an injured tone.

"Well, how about lending it to me then? I took a trip to Kankakee during vacation and spent all my extra cash."

"Oh I got a brand new penny for Christmas, one that's never been spent before," said Mr. Waffle. "Now I'll match pennies with any of you that thinks he's lucky."

"I'm sure my present far surpasses any of those," Miss McAfee took up the old refrain. "I got a rocky horse and I can ride it, too. I never fell off but once while I was learning how."

"I got some roller skates," said

Mr. Moore, proudly displaying a pair of cuffed shoes and a black and blue forehead.

Miss Messer held up a pair of beads carved from real concrete. She explained that she had taught her art class how to do it.

Miss Johnson proudly stepped forth, "Now I am confident that I have the best gift. I received a book from France containing all the modern slang. My friend said I ought to teach it to the young people or they couldn't carry on their conversations right."

On and on they went far into the night, each wildly declaring that his present was the best, but, don't get excited! It was just a kid party.

Pem. Hall

We are glad to welcome Miss Besteland as our new matron.

Pem Hall is displaying quite a few new fur coats since Christmas.

Don't tell me that Pem Hall girls don't have bad dreams. After hearing a heated discussion over formal and informal dress at house-meeting, one of the sweet maids dreamed that she was invited to a slumber party, and she couldn't decide whether it was to be formal or informal.

News is beginning to flutter about concerning the Pem Hall dance.

All you could hear Monday and Tuesday was "What did you get for Christmas?" I think everyone knows what everyone else got by now.

about to retire from his captaincy of the Musketeers. He was to be succeeded by his first lieutenant, Jacques de Bojajais. De Bojajais was slowly walking through the homecoming crowd at the Peja University when suddenly he was grasped by a pair of lilac scented hands.

"Jacques Jaques, don't you remember me?" his annoyer asked.

"Marcel Moronia, could it be you?" inquired Jaques, and all at once realized how lonely he had been all day watching the reunion of old home comers while he knew none of them.

They made their way to a bar and Marcel said, "I've heard of your appointment, Jaques. Certainly you haven't been in the service all these Question: Do you believe in making New Year's resolutions?

Donald Shriner, sophomore: No. Although there is always need for improvement, one can make greater improvement by correcting himself from time to time, rather than by making a lot of resolutions which attempt to change one all at once. Such resolutions are never lived up to.

Verlon Ferguson, freshman: I do. In case one resolves not to make any resolutions, then one has none to break.

Lowell Story, senior: I do not. Few New Year's resolutions are carried out, and it weakens character for one to fail to do what he has resolved to do.

Pauline Baker, junior: There's no use of my making any, I always break them all.

Miss Ragan: If every day can be a New Year's Day, I do.

The Humane Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals has solicited the aid of all the classes in the college to help feed the many birds found on our campus. The senior and freshman classes are contesting for the privilege.

TEACHERS ATHLETICS

Teachers Lose Two Games; Win Alumni Tilt

Indiana Normal Defeats E. I. 35-25

Although they outplayed their opponents by a 4:3 shot ratio to balance the half mark, 19-10, the E. I. "hoop" ball men fell before the Indiana Normal squad in the last period of the crack of 35 to 25 in Wiley High gymnasium at Terre Haute, Thursday evening, December 22.

It was evident from the beginning that the Teachers using their short passing attack were greatly handicapped because of the large floor. Despite this fact they did exhibit some good floor work to redeem some of their poor shooting. Hall started the scoring for E. I. by flinging in a field goal from the free throw line. Then Teaney threw a "counter" for the Hoosiers. Meurlot's duplicator was followed by another from Hall to give the Teachers the lead until near the close of the half when Brown, left forward, donated three free throws. Lemmey, substitute center, contributed a free throw and two field baskets to the Hoosier cause.

Soon after the start of the second half Fenoglio went out on personals. This together with Gilmore and Hall each having three to their credit tended to lessen the efficiency of the team. After substitutions at all positions on the team, Coach Mark's boys started a series of plays, featured by a driving long-pass on defense piloted by Scheid, Lemmey and Gray, which netted eight baskets. Worsham contributed three baskets for what appeared to be the Teachers comeback, but when Hall received his fourth "idolizer" their hopes were capsized.

The officials called every shadow of a violation of the rules, which placed greater restrictions on our team, it seemed, than on the Normal squad due to their inability to make good their free throws. Unbiased officiating is evident by the fact that there were sixteen personals called on each team.

The men of Indiana who should receive honorable mention are Scheid, forward, Gray, guard and Lemmey, center, who composed the real scoring machine for I. N., while of the Teachers Meurlot and Worsham had good eyes for the ring.

the second half which, regardless of the time element, could well be said to be a twin of the first. Worsham, Teachers substitute forward, made a nice showing by his excellent connections with the hoop. Seybert, and Zook, Normal forwards, gave good accounts of themselves with six field baskets and two free throws and four field baskets and two free throws respectively.

The E. I. squad fires on the St. Viator's detachment Wednesday evening, January 11, in the outskirts of Kankakee, and Carbondale comes here Saturday night.

How to Feed a Shorthorn Steer for Exhibition

To feed a steer for exhibition give it feed which it likes and which is good for it. If you want its meat to be more mellow, feed it barley. If you want it more solid, feed it corn. The feed must be given in a certain way also. When the steer is small and not used to eating very much, don't pour a lot of feed into its feed box, but pour in just as much as the animal will eat. As it gets larger, increase the amount of the feed. After a month or so, when you think more will not make it sick, give it all it will eat. Do not give it too much because then some may be left. If there is any left, remove it before the next feeding because the left-over feed is likely to be sour. If it is, the steer will not eat his fresh feed.

I think the best things to feed a steer are: ground corn, ground oats, oil meal, molasses feed, and clover hay for roughage. To the average steer weighing 500 pounds the following amount of feed should be given per day: four pounds of corn, one pound of oats, three-fourths of a pound of oil meal, one pound of molasses feed and as much hay as the animal will eat.

(This theme was written by Richard McIntyre, a ninth grade pupil, who won a first prize with his steer, Snow King, in the Junior Feeding Contest at the International Stock Show, held in Chicago during November and December, 1927. Snow King was one

T. C. Hoop Artists Down Westfield 23-9

Surprising even its most optimistic rooters T. C. unleashed a whirlwind attack which swept the Westfield five before it, and when the battle smoke and the smoke of the final gun cleared away the Blue and Gold was resting securely on the long end of a 23-9 count. Splendid guarding held the visitors to one field goal gained in the first minute of play. Several fouls were called on the T. C. guards, Thrall going out in the second quarter via the personal route. Adkins ended the first half with three personal, but played safe the last half.

T. C. got off to a slow start and were behind 5-4 at the quarter. Jim Springer came to life in the next period and sank two beauties, while Taylor and McMorris each looped one. Westfield was doing little during this time, and the half ended with T. C. holding a 12-7 lead.

Henderson blew a whole scorebook of set-ups in the third quarter, and Westfield couldn't get far enough down the floor to get a good shot, T. C. increasing its lead to 14-8. The fire works started anew in the last quarter with Henderson leading the parade. Fouled while shooting, he made the goal and both free throws to set the game on ice.

Aside from rather erratic passing and Henderson's tendency to miss easy ones, the team showed up well, and gave more promise of future worth than in any previous game. Springer played a real game, and McMorris put up his usual good exhibition at guard. Taylor found his eye again and scored five points to hold a one-point lead over Henderson for the season.

READY TO LEAP

"Kid," says Mr. Editor, "this is 1928."

"Right the first time." I applauded.

"And leap year."

"Marvelous deduction!"

"Doesn't that remind you of anything?"

"Spring it."

"Kid," he says reflectively, "it sounds like wonderful material for poetry. Get busy."

So I've got my alibi, and please send all protests to Mr. Editor.

This is nineteen twenty-eight.

Leap Year, as you may suppose.

Please dear, do not make me wait.

Sweetheart, won't you soon propose?

I have told you o'er and o'er

That my love is ever true.

What could you desire more?

What else is there I can do?

Theatre on rainy nights,

Candy, flowers, gifts and such,

Gas and oil to see the sights,

Did they cost me? No, not much!

Call me up and make a date,

I'll be willing, you shall see.

If I'm dressing, sit and wait—

You have done it unto me!

Want the wedding bells to ring?

I've done all that I can do.

I've the ring and ev'rything;

Now the rest is up to you.

H. S. Will Have Warbler Feature

Another good reason why high school students should buy a Warbler was added Saturday morning to the long list. Just as the college will have its Miss and Mr. E. I., so is the high school to have a Miss and Mr. T. C. The pictures of these two will each occupy either a half page or an entire page in the Warbler.

Ballots were passed out Saturday morning for nominations. The ten highest nominees of each sex will be voted upon by the entire high school, and the result kept secret until the appearance of the Warbler.

The results of the primaries are:

Boys—Neal Adkins, Harlan Baird, Max Bisson, Lyle Henderson, Rex McMorris, Francis McTaggart, Charles Reasor, Wayne Sanders, Richard Taylor, and Glen Titus.

Girls—Dessie Andres, Verna Clark, Madge Cooper, Marjorie Digbee, Virginia Frazier, Dorothy Henry, Natalia Lantz, Marian Rennels, Dorothy Taylor, Frances Hale Weir.

HIGH SCHOOL IN TOURNEY

The high school will be represented in the intra-mural basketball race by a team composed of members not on the school squad. The color of the high school jerseys will be a deep red.

The team meets its first foe next Thursday night in the senior class of the college. This seems a big assignment for a mere high school team, but with plenty of support we

Paris 18; T. C. 8

Wednesday night the T. C. five showed Paris how not to play basketball and took one on the nose, 18-9. It was a miserable exhibition of basketball, and deserves little comment. T. C. had a small edge in floor work, but hit the basket in every spot except the center. McMorris was the only T. C. player who was not a total loss.

The big difference between the teams lay in the handling of the ball from the foul line. T. C. blew 13 of 17 free throws, while Paris made good 11 in 15 tries.

The high school returned after vacation to find the long-needed new bookcase. Four desks were moved out from the north side of the room to make a place for it, which necessitated a reseating of the first four rows.

"No, friend," said Jaques, "I've been all over Europe. My sword has made me a fortune. I have more than one hundred thousand gold Luis now. The Musketeers are only a path to glory."

"You have had as good a time acquiring your fortune as I did mine," said Marcel. "I never left the stage until two years ago. Then I married a wealthy old widow on her last legs. She died last week and left me a cool million. I intend to enjoy life from now on. Chickens only. Jaques, have you ever seen Henri Hors du Combat?"

"Yes, Marcel, he died last year in Brise," Jaques said. "He became so fat that he couldn't breathe. He died very happy. Dear old Hank. I wonder where our parlor Bolshevik, Pierre, Contradine is."

"He's been in a padded cell for he last two years," Marcel told him. "After his backbreaking toil to graduate, the bee: the world had to offer him was a professorship of alchemy at Milan University with a salary of seventy-five busy little francs per month. When his attempt to transmute brass suspender buttons into filthy lucre failed he ran out of the laboratory stark crazy, yelling 'Gentlemen, I ask you, in this world is there such a thing as justice?'"
