IBHE eyes 6 percent tuition hike for Eastern

By DOUGLAS BACKSTROM
Senior reporter

Eastern students may be hit with a 6 percent tuition increase for the 1986-87 school year if the Illinois Board of Higher Education Tuesday approves recommended budget requests.

The IBHE, slated to meet at 9:30 a.m. Tuesday at the Westin Hotel in Chicago, will vote on fiscal year 1987 budget requests for Illinois colleges and universities.

The recommendation will then move to the General Assembly for approval.

Under the plan, Eastern freshmen and sophomores would pay $1,081.20 a year for tuition, while juniors and seniors would pay $1,132.08. Graduate students would put up $1,221.12.

This represents a $61 increase per year for lower-division students, a $64 increase for upper-division students and a $69 increase for graduate students from existing tuition levels.

In addition to the tuition increase, the IBHE will also vote on a recommendation for an 8 percent increase in faculty and staff salaries.

Eastern's fiscal year 1987 budget request, which begins July 1 and continues through June 30, is $41.6 million for operating expenses and capital improvements. This is 10 percent more than the $37.8 million 1986 budget.

The Board of Governors, Eastern's controlling board, recommended an $8 million operating budget increase for Eastern last July to the IBHE, but the IBHE is only recommending a $4.4 million increase.

But while Eastern was not recommended for the full amount, Eastern President Stanley Rives is still pleased with the budget recommendations.

However, Rives said he is not sure what action the legislature will take. "It's very difficult to say because it depends on what the governor says."

"On March 1, the governor (James Thompson) indicates what will be made available (for education) and the General Assembly will be guided by what he will say," Rives said. "I hope they approve it."

The BOG expects the General Assembly to approve the recommendations, BOG spokesman Pamela Meyer said.

"We will make our case as well as possible and expect money will be provided," Meyer said.

"The (BOG) chancellor (Tom Layzell) was pleased with the increase and he expects the legislature will recognize the needs," she said.

IBHE Executive Director Richard Wagner said operating budget requests are targeted toward strengthening base budget support for Illinois colleges and universities. It includes expanding college and university initiatives to assist elementary and secondary schools and improving the quality of (See IBHE, page 6)

State funds approved for expansion

By KEVIN McDERMOTT
Managing editor

As expected, Eastern has received a $230,000 Christmas gift from Springfield to begin a College of Business annex to Coleman Hall.

The Build Illinois award was appropriated to Eastern by the General Assembly last fall and signed by Gov. James Thompson Dec. 20. The money will be used to plan an annex to Coleman which will accommodate the College of Business.

The project is expected to take two to three years with a price tag of more than $6 million, according to Eastern administrators.

Currently, business courses are not based in any single building on campus.

Ted Ivarie, dean of the College of Business, said Sunday the main purpose for the project is to "consolidate" the College of Business "so we can develop a unity," and provide relief for the other departments (in Coleman) being crowded by recent expansion activities.

Arab League pledges to support Libya

TUNIS, Tunisia (AP)—The Arab League has vowed to support Libya if the United States or Israel attack that North African Arab nation in retaliation for the Dec. 27 terrorist raids at two airports, League sources said Sunday.

In a communique issued Sunday, the 21 active members of the Arab League—Egypt was suspended after making peace with Israel—said only that the organization had taken "appropriate measures" on the issues before it.

Sources at the league, however, speaking on condition they not be identified, said the delegates had expressed "their total support for Libya in the event that this country is the object of any kind of foreign aggression."

The sources, said the participants discussed Libya's fear of American and Israeli retaliation for the airport attacks in Rome and Vienna, and said any attack would challenge the entire Arab community.

The United States and Israel have accused Libya of supporting the Abu Nidal Palestinian faction, which claimed responsibility for submachine-gun and grenade

Israel claims Libya, Syria united

LONDON (AP)—A newspaper said Sunday that Israeli intelligence sources believe that Libyan and Syrian agents carried out the Dec. 27 airport attacks, using the name of Palestinian terrorist Abu Nidal "merely as a cover."

The Sunday Times of London quoted anonymous Israeli spy sources as saying Abu Nidal could not have planned the near-simultaneous attacks in Rome and Vienna because he is suffering from liver cancer and incapable of masterminding such a complex operation.

Nineteen people were killed in the attacks, including five Americans and four terrorists, and about 120 were (See ISRAEL, page 7)

Official claims new budget plan could cut defense by $83 billion

Pakistan sees return of protests

ISLAMABAD, Pakistan—In the first demonstrations since martial law was lifted, the opposition Pakistan People's Party held protests across the country Sunday to honor their executed leader and called for the overthrow of President Mohammad Zia ul-Haq.

Protests in all of Pakistan's major cities marked the 58th anniversary of the birth of Prime Minister Zulfikar Ali Bhutto, founder of the Pakistan People's Party, the largest opposition unit. Bhutto was ousted by a military coup headed by Zia in 1977 and was executed in 1979 after being found guilty of conspiring to murder a political opponent.

"Death to dog Zia!" a crowd of about 3,000 people chanted in demonstrations in Rawalpindi. "Hang Zia! Long live Bhutto!"

Volcano rumbling causes alert

BOGOTA, Columbia—Nevado Del Ruiz trembled again Sunday and blocks of ice drifted down rivers encircling the Armero Valley, prompting the government to keep a state of "maximum alert" for fear of another disaster.

Thousands of people, mostly farmers, spent the night on higher ground, huddled in mountain caves as torrential rains poured down the valley's slopes.

The government ordered settlers to evacuate Saturday after the snow-capped volcano rained sulfuric acid ash at dawn for the first time since a devastating Nov. 13 eruption buried the town of Armero under mud and destroyed 13 villages.

That eruption melted part of the volcano's cone of ice and snow, sending a 150-foot-high wall of mud down the Languilla River. Mud and debris destroyed Armero, once a prosperous coffee-growing town about 105 miles northwest of the capital of Bogota in the state of Tolima.

Official accused of bribery

CHICAGO—Mayor Harold Washington's administration says Chicago's deputy revenue director allegedly took a bribe from a New York company seeking a city contract to collect delinquent water bills.

The administration released a statement announcing it was canceling the contract of Systematic Sevice Inc. because it was "the result of a payoff to a city official."

Washington's press secretary, Alton Miller, identified John E. Adams on Saturday as the alleged recipient of the payoff. Adams was fired Thursday from the No. 2 post in the revenue department, which collects money owed the city.

Miller did not provide further details. Adams declined comment Saturday, but earlier in the week said, "I would never accept a loan from a person I knew had a contract with the city. That would be totally unethical."

The Chicago Tribune in Sunday editions quoted unnamed administration officials as saying Adams had accepted a $10,000 loan from Michael Raymond, a convicted swindler and FBI informant who reportedly posed as a representative of Systematic Recovery.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The chairman of the House Armed Services Committee says the new deficit reduction law will stop President Reagan's defense buildup, forcing up to $83 billion of military spending cuts in the next two years.

Rep. Les. Aspin, D-Wis., said cuts of that magnitude would peg defense spending at levels 20 percent less than Reagan has planned for the 1987 fiscal year.

"This isn't just tinkering at the edges of the defense budget," Aspin said. "It means we are reversing the defense buildup of the last few years. We are marching down the mountain we have been marching up."

"(Defense Secretary) Caspar Weinberger, who has prided himself on presiding over the greatest defense buildup in peacetime history, is about to preside over the greatest defense cutback in peacetime history," Aspin said.

The congressman made the statements as he released a study in which he contended that over the next two years the Gramm-Rudman budget balancing law will wipe out the increases in defense spending during the last two years.

He said that projections beyond fiscal 1987, which ends Sept. 30, 1987, are "iffy," but the law is likely to continue to cause defense spending decreases.

Under Gramm-Rudman, Aspin said, "defense will lose $15 billion to $18 billion in budget authority this year and $64 billion to $65 billion in fiscal 1987—a total of $79 billion to $83 billion."

The bill permits Congress to make the reductions through conventional legislation, but would impose automatic spending cuts for each of the fiscal years through 1991 if Congress and the White House failed to agree on a reduction plan.

The deficit for fiscal 1985 was $211.9 billion.

Aspin said his analysis shows that defense budget authority will be cut by 5 percent to 6 percent in the current fiscal year with the reduction going into effect next March 1.

In fiscal 1987, he said, defense outlays will drop to about $245 billion and budget authority to about $260 billion. Congressionally approved military spending for the current fiscal year stands at $297 billion when separate legislation for military construction is included.

Gas tank was too full before leak

WEBBERS FALLS, Okla. (AP)—A chemical tank was too full when it cracked and leaked a mildly radioactive gas at a plant that processes uranium for nuclear reactors, killing one man and hospitalizing dozens more when they breathed potent acid fumes, authorities said Sunday.

Saturday's leak of about 14,000 pounds of uranium hexafluoride gas sent more than 100 people to hospitals for treatment of acid exposure and forced closure of nearby Interstate 40 for two hours. The plant remained closed Sunday.

"The company has reported that the cylinder was overfilled," said Joseph Fouchard, spokesman for the Nuclear Regulatory Commission in Washington, D.C.

However, Fouchard emphasized it would be premature to suspect that as the cause of the leak of the 14-ton tank.

Officials with Sequoyah Fuels Corp., where the accident occurred, could not be reached for comment despite repeated attempts. A secretary said Donna McFarland, a spokesman for parent company, Kerr-McGee Corp. of Oklahoma City, was too busy to talk to reporters Sunday afternoon.

Another Kerr-McGee spokesman, Rick

Pereles, said Saturday the container was being heated at the time of the leak.

Six NRC technicians were at the site Sunday, and an expert on structural analysis was expected, Fouchard said. "We'll be there as long as it takes to determine what happened."

Fouchard could not say if it was the first death from the making of uranium reactor fuel, but said there have been other deaths in the industry since it started in the 1940's with the Manhattan Project.

The worker who was killed was close to the tank and died of hydrofluoric acid inhalation in the emergency room of Sparks Regional Medical Center at Fort Smith, Ark., nursing supervisor Doris Moon said.

The gas had a nauseating odor and "your throat burned," said Bill Kassinger, 38, an electrician for a construction company working on an expansion at the plant.

When released into the atmosphere, uranium hexafluoride gas breaks down into hydrogen fluoride and slightly radioactive uranyl fluoride particles, Ms. McFarland said Saturday. Toxic hydrogen fluoride combines with moisture in the air to form hydrofluoric acid, which is strong enough to etch glass.

Foundation decides against divestment

By BILL DENNIS
Staff writer

The EIU Foundation Board of Directors voted unanimously Friday to continue its policy of investing in companies doing business in South Africa, as long as those companies adhere to the Sullivan Principles.

The decision follows a recommendation by the Foundation's five-member executive board. At its Dec. 12 meeting, the executive board heard representatives from both the Faculty and Student Senates urging divestment.

Faculty Senate member Terry Perkins said Saturday he was disappointed, but not surprised by the board's decision.

"My opinion is that they wouldn't (divest) because they would still have reservations," Perkins said.

The Student Senate position was delivered by Senator Terry Mueller. Student Body President Floyd Akins, executive vice president Kim Swanson and Senator Darin Buczkowski also attended.

Both senate's proposals recommended that the Foundation divest some $229,013 of its funds from companies that do business in apartheid South Africa.

Daniel Thornburgh, fiscal agent for the board, said the decision was in the best interest of Eastern.

"I think it was a very responsible vote," Thornburgh said. "Our advice from Harris Bank (which handles Foundation's investments) is that one cannot divest without serious financial loss."

Thornburgh added that although the board is morally opposed to apartheid, "it is a matter that should be handled by the federal government."

In other business, the board voted to exclude the O'Brien Field Renovation account, the Art Studio Houses account, and the Telefund accounts from a recently enacted administrative service fee.

The accounts will be excluded because they generate enough money to pay for the administrative costs that the service fee would take care of, such as printing, telephone, Thornburgh said.

To "solve a serious space problem," Thornburgh said the board is also purchasing property at 1548 Fourth St, currently owned by Richard and Judith Hofstrand. The building will be called the "Foundation House" and be used for development and alumni offices, Thornburgh said.

Richard Hofstrand is Eastern's director of occupational Education.

Thornburgh also said the Foundation is between 15 to 18 percent ahead of its projected first-year goal for the Tenth Decade Campaign.

The Tenth Decade Campaign seeks to raise $5 million in donations within five years. Included in the campaign are the Brighten O'Brien and Make Room for Art programs. Also benefiting from the campaign are more than 100 scholarship funds the Foundation helps administer.

Two Panther cagers due in court on theft charges

By BILL DENNIS
Staff writer

Two Eastern basketball players are scheduled to make their initial appearance Tuesday at Coles County Circuit Court following their arrests on shoplifting charges.

Jerry Strickland Jr., 19, and Cornelius "Jay" Taylor, 18, were arrested and charged with retail theft Dec. 26. They are accused of stealing $15 worth of film from the Wilb Walker's store at 505 Lincoln Ave.

Both missed the team's trip to Hawaii over Christmas vacation and Saturday's trip to Northeast Louisiana, Coach Rick Samuels said.

They were suspended "because they had indicated to me that they'd done it," Samuels said.

The pair is scheduled to appear in court at 9 a.m. Tuesday. They were released after Samuels posted $200 bail. Samuels said he posted bail because of time considerations following an arrangement with their parents.

Samuels said the two, who both attend Eastern on full athletic scholarships, would be reinstated following Saturday's game.

Neither were available for comment.

Taylor, a 6-2 freshman guard from East Aurora, has played in eight games and averaged 8.4 points and 3.5 rebounds a game.

Strickland, a 6-4 sophomore forward from Meridian Mounds, has played in six games and averages 3 points and 1.2 rebounds a game.

Khadafy prepares Libya for confrontation with U.S.

TRIPOLI, Libya (AP)—Libyan leader Col. Moammar Khadafy said Sunday that an "unlimited war" had nearly erupted the day before between Libya and the United States, the official news agency JANA reported.

"The U.S.A. mobilized yesterday no less than 40 warships in front of Libya and we have considered this a state of war and have announced the state of preparedness in the air and naval forces and air defense," Khadafy was quoted as saying.

Pentagon officials denied Sunday there had been any unusual U.S. ship movements in the Mediterranean.

"It would be physically impossible for us to put 40 ships off of Libya," said a Navy source, who spoke only on condition of anonymity. "There are only about 20 ships in the 6th Fleet normally, and that includes everything, there are only about 15 combatant ships in the Mediterranean," the source said.

According to JANA, Khadafy said, "Actually, yesterday we were ready to fight, without noise and without propaganda. We knew it would be a glorious fight waged by us on our soil." He said his forces had been placed on full alert but it was not clear whether that continued Sunday.

Dead fish, clams and mud are nearly all that remains of Lake Charleston's channel after the dam broke in late November. With the halt of the channel's growth, city officials are now turning their attention to repairing the shattered dam.

City officials consider funding for dam repairs

By JIM ALLEN
City editor

Lake Charleston's channel growth came to a halt over the Christmas holidays, allowing city officials to give a sigh of relief and look toward repairing the destruction to the dam.

"It's wonderful," said Paul Cottingham, the city emergency services and disaster agency director.

The channel has remained basically the same since it reached a rock dam upstream of the collapsed 38-year-old collapsed dam, he said.

In early December, city officials were bracing for the possibility of the channel cutting a course through the mile-long dike holding back the city's water supply.

The channel grew upstream for four weeks cutting a 10-foot deep, winding groove toward the earthen dike after five 76-ton cement supports sank away from the dam.

An unprecedented November rainfall surpassing 9 inches created the initial pressures on the dam, and above-average rains in the first weeks of December kept the channel flowing at a quick rate.

The channel swelled and moved upstream erratically growing to 1,600 feet in length and 40 to 120 feet in width in various spots. The lake proceeded to funnel into the channel and through the collapsed section of the dam, leaving the channel surrounded by the dried lake bed.

"We don't have an urgent situation anymore," Cottingham said, adding that decreases in the water level and the channel's size have been "not enough to be really noticeable."

While city officials said they were working to secure more funding to repair the dam and restore the lake, Charleston Mayor Murray Choate could not be reached for comment on the funding question.

The state gave the city $35,000 just before Thanksgiving, but that money has been expended in building finger dikes extending from and protecting the sides of the main dike.

Newly begun parking plan will benefit all

Of course the new 15-minute parking spots which will become a reality this semester will not solve Eastern's parking problems, but they are a step in the right direction.

The idea was originated last year by former Student Senate Speaker Ron Wesel and got the approval of Housing Director Lou Hencken and Campus Police Chief Tom Larson. The Residence Hall Association OK'd it last December.

Everyone involved in working out the details of the plan should be commended.

Although several RHA members voted against the proposal or abstained because they thought the 15-minute spaces might tighten the number available to students living in residence halls, the proposal definitely deserves a chance.

Student Body President Floyd Akins, who submitted the proposal to the RHA, said the new spaces would be placed only where spaces have not been reserved.

The 15-minute slots will be available from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. Monday through Friday, and the Housing Office usually leaves some spaces open for food service workers in each of the halls.

The parking spots will allow students to park in front of campus buildings for a short time to take care of errands, such as dropping off a paper, without facing the hassle of finding a parking space.

But students who are planning to abuse the 15-minute slots should beware. Abuse may incur cost.

The parking plan requires cars sitting in 15-minute spots to have their lights on, and student monitors will be out checking.

Cars that do not have lights on will automatically be ticketed. And there aren't any special, low-rate fines for those who are caught.

Tickets are still $10 for parking violators, $5 if they're paid within 48 hours.

The 15-minute parking plan is on a trial basis this semester. It's one we should all benefit from—not abuse.

Avoiding issue won't solve problem

In childhood, fear of the dark is natural. In adulthood, fear of the dark is irrational. This fear suggests that there is a problem.

Here in State College we have a problem because many residents know this fear. The fear, however, is not irrational. It is terribly realistic.

It is the fear of rape.

In the past, it has been the practice of Happy Valley to let the shady and unhappy aspects of life slip out of sight and consciousness. But this only intensifies the fear created by rape.

The manner in which we have traditionally confronted rape has aided the tendency to forget. We have been reluctant to report rape. We have not discussed rape among ourselves. We have had trouble obtaining information about the frequency of rape from area police, who in turn have had trouble providing such information because of the reluctance to report rape.

We have told ourselves that rape, since we hear so little about it, is not really a problem.

And then, when darkness has fallen, we have been afraid of walking home alone.

Recently, however, a ray of hope has cut through the gloom.

The number of reported rapes to the University Police Services and the State College Bureau of Police Services has increased. This may indicate that society has increased awareness of that problem.

This increased awareness may place a new emphasis on the rights of the victim.

Meanwhile, University and State College police have enhanced their protective measure in substantial ways.

According to Assistant University Police Supervisor Linda Schutjer, University police have increased the training of night receptionists and the number of neighborhood police who patrol the dormitories from 7 p.m. to 3:30 a.m.

Likewise, State College police have increased the number of officers on duty each weekend, according to Police Services Supervisor Roger Selner.

Things are being done to confront the problem. That's good.

But many of us are telling ourselves that the headlines that speak of increased rape reports mean

Crossview:

Penn State Collegian

that the problem has been solved. And that's not good.

Beth Resko, director of the Women's Resource Center is quick to point out that the increase in reported rapes does not necessarily reflect an increase in rapes.

Schutjer notes that most of the rapes on campus have been acquaintance rapes. Since these kinds of occurrences involve a rapist who was invited into a room, the authorities' hands are tied.

The problem has not been solved.

We have increased our awareness of rape, true enough. But this is only the first step in confronting rape. To begin patting ourselves on the back for the advances made in recent weeks would be taking a step backward.

It is vital that we continue to increase the awareness of rape. We are still very ignorant about the facts of rape. We are still prone to forgetting about the magnitude of the danger. We still need more education.

But, good intentions and bold headlines will not solve the problem. Instead, we have to start telling ourselves the truth.

We have to understand that being in a well-lit area does not mean that an attack will not happen. We have to learn that age or being pretty or wearing a certain type of clothing does not determine who will be a rape victim. We, as a community, have to stop treating rape as a problem of women alone.

As the men and women of the community of State College, we confront an ominous, ugly foe in rape. Recent weeks have produced evidence of a growing commitment to vanquish that foe. We must not allow ourselves the privilege of pretending our fight is over.

We must maintain our struggle against rape so that one night we all can stop being afraid of the dark.

Orientation starts Monday

By MOLLY DONAHUE

Orientation for new students will be Monday and Tuesday, Academic Advisement Director Calvin Campbell said.

Orientation Monday will be for students whose last names begin with L-Z. Orientation Tuesday will be for students whose last names begin with A-K.

Both sessions, which are expected to last about an hour, will be at 8 a.m. at Phipps Lecture Hall, located in the Science Building.

Janet Holley, the director of community college relations, said students who attend orientation generally have fewer problems adjusting during the semester. Both Campbell and Holley said differences between living at home and living at school will be discussed, along with other necessary information.

Campbell will talk to incoming freshmen about general registration and academic advisement. Holley will talk about transferring credits and academic requirements and regulations at Eastern.

Freshmen scheduled to attend orientation Tuesday should also report at 4:30 p.m. Monday to Phipps Lecture Hall to take the required math placement exam. Campbell said taking the exam does not mean that a student will have to take a math class this semester.

Two student organizations will provide hot drinks for students who find winter's chill unbearable while waiting outside to pick up spring semester textbooks.

Student Senator Tim Greiter said free hot chocolate and coffee will be distributed by student senators and Botany Club members from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday and Tuesday outside of the Textbook Library, located in the south end of Pemberton Hall.

The Botany Club plans to set up a tent and distribute drinks from behind a table.

Botany Club adviser Doug Zimmerman said he hopes students appreciate the groups involved. The beverages are being provided by Hardee's on Campus and Wendy's, 301 Lincoln Ave.

Greiter said any student or faculty member passing the tent and feeling "old man winter's bite" is also encouraged to take advantage of the drinks.

Hours set for Textbook Library

Special hours have been scheduled at the Textbook Library, located in the south end of Pemberton Hall, for spring semester book pickup this week.

Although graduate students were able to obtain their books Saturday, Textbook Library Director Richard Sandefer said all other students can pick up their books from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Thursday and from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Friday.

Sandefer said students must present their ID or paid fee card to receive their books.

Students are not required to pick up their books during the first week of classes, he added. They can be obtained anytime during the semester with the proper identification.

In attempt to alleviate waiting in long lines, Sandefer said past years have shown the times with the least amount of traffic to be from 8 to 9:30 a.m. and after 4 p.m.

Some campus building hours extended

Although several buildings on campus usually adjust their hours at the beginning of a semester, most buildings will operate under a regular 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. schedule beginning Monday.

Both library services, however, will have special hours this week.

Booth Library, which has shortened its Monday and Tuesday hours, will also be open from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Regular hours will resume Wednesday.

Textbook Library, located in the south end of Pemberton Hall, has extended its hours for this week, allowing students to pick up their books from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Thursday. Regular hours will resume Friday.

Charleston, who was instrumental in securing the funds for Eastern, said the addition will help alleviate space problems throughout the university.

"It's going to free up space all over the campus, not just in the College of Business," Weaver said Sunday. "I think it's going to benefit the entire campus."

Ivarie said the total cost of planning the addition will be about $460,000. The $230,000 from Build Illinois, he said, is "just to get the project started."

The award "shows that the state of Illinois recognizes that we can make a significant contribution to the economic (development) of the state," Ivarie said.

Terry Maris, assistant dean of the College of Business, said he believes the addition will enhance Eastern's reputation for business education.

"I think (the Coleman addition) will make (Eastern) a more popular college of business," Maris said Friday.

Build Illinois, an eight-year, $2.3 billion program, was created to improve housing, economic development and the business climate in Illinois.

The $230,000 is a first-year appropriation for Eastern's project, and must be used by June 30 under the terms of the Build Illinois program. Eastern President Stanley Rives said

Sunday he expects the rest of the funding for the project to come from Build Illinois.

However, Julie Dutton, press secretary for Lt. Gov. George Ryan, said decisions on second-year funding for the project will ultimately rest with the General Assembly.

In its Fiscal Year 1987 budget recommendations, the Illinois Board of Higher Education calls for a total of $77.1 million in Build Illinois capital improvement projects for Illinois universities and colleges.

The IBHE budget, which must be approved by the General Assembly, includes the remaining $6,001,400 for Eastern's College of Business addition. In Fiscal Year 1986, the General Assembly approved the full $230,000 in Build Illinois funds which the IBHE recommended for the project.

Ivarie said he is confident that the project will not run into a shortage of funding in the future, and that if the remaining cost is not approved through the Build Illinois program, it will be picked up through other parts of the IBHE's budget.

"These (legislators) are prudent people," Ivarie said. "I think once a decision is made... they aren't going to put $230,000 on the table and let it sit."

education.

The fiscal '87 budget recommendations seek to provide more adequate support for undergraduate education programs, particularly in the arts and science areas, he said.

The recommendations continue progress made last year in addressing the accumulating deficiencies in salaries, library materials, equipment and supplies, Wagner said.

Other highlights of the recommended operating budget include:

- Increased funding of 14.1 percent for the Illinois State Scholarship Commission Monetary Award Program including funds to offset tuition increases and to increase the maximum award from $2,850 to $3,200.

Included in the capital improvement category are:

- $1.57 million to remodel McAfee Gym. This project will provide for the rehabilitation of the electrical, mechanical and plumbing systems in the gym.
- Remodeling of the Clinical Services Building to install an elevator to improve handicapped accessibility to the speech pathology and audiology department, located on the facility's second floor.

City outlines $219,369 in new budget cuts

Officials vow to trim deficit, but predict tax increases necessary

By JIM ALLEN
City editor

Three Charleston City Council members outlined budget-cutting projections in an open forum meeting Thursday with citizens.

The three members said the forum, which was also to field various questions from citizens, could well become a monthly event outside the regular council meetings.

In addition to budget cuts announced last August, Commissioners Richard Corbin and Bruce Scism were joined by Mayor Murray Choate in projecting more savings totaling $219,369 from their three respective departments.

But in announcing the additional cuts, the council members cautioned that they still will need to raise taxes and that the savings hinge on several variables.

"It's not a matter of whether we're going to raise taxes," Corbin said. "It's a matter of what kind of taxes you people want—it's a matter of when and what kind."

The budget has been a sore spot with the council since it projected last August that city coffers would fail to cover some $500,000 in expenses by the middle of this year.

At that time they sliced deep into portions of the budget, eliminating animal shelter and mosquito abatement funding for later this year.

But Corbin and Scism conceded Thursday that both the animal shelter and mosquito abatement funds will need to be restored.

While Choate initially balked at answering questions on the possibility of a home rule referendum, he later called home rule "a means of taxing people who don't live in the community, but use the services of the community."

Corbin added, "The more I've looked into (home rule), the more I believe it's worth looking into."

Because Charleston's population is under 25,000, the city could only gain home rule—with its additional taxing privileges—by referendum. With home rule, Charleston could charge "sin" taxes—on alcohol and cigarettes—as well as other sales taxes.

Sunday, Commissioner Wayne Lanman said the city is already preparing pamphlets for citizens on home rule and sales taxes. Those pamphlets are expected to be distributed with water bills within the next two months.

While sales taxes are regressive in nature, senior citizens were vehemently opposed to the utility taxes and a property tax hike proposed by the council last year. The measures were then defeated after more than 20 citizens spoke out at a tax hearing.

The new savings projections came from administrative, fire department and water/wastewater treatment expenses.

With new cost-cutting equipment purchases, Scism said the water-wastewater plant could save $106,000 this year.

Choate projected administrative cost savings of $95,000, but they hinged on finding cheaper personnel to replace those who recently resigned or were dismissed.

With the recent fire department reorganization, Corbin said the department will save $17,669 barring collective bargaining snags. Collective bargaining with fire department personnel could become a reality here, depending on State Legislature action this year.

About 12 people attended the open meeting which was put together by Corbin and Scism. The two commissioners said they had invited Commissioners Wayne Lanman and John Winnett, but they declined to attend.

Lanman and Winnett both said their attendance would have given the council a quorum which would legally force the forum to abide by open meeting rules.

While Lanman said he was invited, Winnett said no one ever provided him with a firm date.

Affirmative action award offered by EIU Foundation

By DONELLE PARDEE
Staff writer

For the first time, two $500 awards will be presented to schools, departments, or other organizations by the Eastern Illinois University Foundation for contributions toward affirmative action.

Daniel Thornburgh, fiscal agent for the foundation, said while the awards are monetary, there is also "recognition for the enhancement of public image" for the winners.

One of the $500 awards will be for pursuing affirmative action for women and the other for pursuing affirmative action in the interest of minorities.

"The awards are for major programs and to recognize superior programming in the support of affirmative action," Thornburgh said.

The purpose is to recognize and encourage university groups which have been outstanding in fulfilling the university's commitment to a positive and continuing affirmative action program.

Award recipients will be determined by the Affirmative Action Advisory Committee. After evaluation, the awards will be presented at a luncheon scheduled for March.

Any group, including student organizations, may nominate themselves or be nominated by others.

To be eligible, an organization must demonstrate by behavior "a unique commitment to the spirit of affirmative action; construct and implement specific procedures to enlarge access and broaden representation of women and minorities," Thornburgh said.

The organization must have developed and conducted programs to meet special needs of faculty, staff or students who are in groups that traditionally include few women or minorities.

The group must also have provided "creative solutions and positive results in activities furthering affirmative action."

Nomination forms are available at the Affirmative Action Office at 106 Old Main. The deadline for returning the nominations, with no more than three pages of information or supporting documents attached, is Feb. 1.

four terrorists, and about 120 people were wounded in the twin attacks.

Foreign minister Abdel Abdussalam Treiki of Libya sent a letter Friday to U.N. Secretary-General Javier Perez de Cuellar denying Libyan involvement in the attacks and denouncing terrorism.

The permanent representatives to the Tunis-based Arab League and the foreign ministers of Libya, Syria and Tunisia attended the private meeting, held Saturday night.

The communique said participants discussed "threats by the United States against Libya," but did not detail what "appropriate measures" were taken on the issues.

Foreign Ministers Farouk Sharaa of Syria and Treiki of Libya arranged to leave Sunday for Fez, Morocco, to join the Islamic Conference Organization's meeting there, running Monday through Saturday.

Libya was expected to seek a joint Islamic stand against the United States at that meeting.

In Tel Aviv, Israel radio reported that Libya went to a state of high alert, manning anti-aircraft guns and telling pilots to be ready to fly at any time.

According to the paper's sources, Abu Nidal, whose real name is Sabry al-Banna, was treated for cancer in East Germany and is now retired in Tripoli, Libya, or Damascus, Syria. Libyan leader Moammer Khadafy denied at a news conference Sunday that Abu Nidal was living in his country.

The United States and Israel have accused Libya of supporting the Palestinian guerrillas who made the grenade and submachine-gun attacks on passengers near El Al Israel Airlines check-in counters in Rome and Vienna.

Italian newspapers have said the man held as the sole surviving terrorist in the Rome attack told investigators he was a member of the Abu Nidal faction and that the attacks were backed by Libya.

The newspaper said the Israelis claim that the attacks were delivered in diplomatic pouches of either the Libyan or Syrian embassies in Rome and Vienna, and that agents working in those embassies helped the gunmen by providing intelligence and planning for the operations.

Lady cagers' winning streak hits 5

By JEFF LONG
Sports editor

There's no place like home for the holidays—just ask Eastern's women's basketball team.

The lady cagers celebrated their Christmas season at Lantz Gym with four straight home wins over break, all in decisive fashion, and resume their new semester with a lofty 9-2 mark.

On the weekend prior to final exams, the Panthers put themselves in a good frame of mind with non-conference blowouts of St. Louis and Ball State.

Behind a balanced scoring attack, Eastern bombed St. Louis 75-42 and retained the same intensity to blast Ball State 98-64 the following night.

Guard Pat Hamilton, who normally comes off the bench for Eastern, led all scorers in the victory over Ball State with 21 points.

After a 2½ week layoff, Eastern opened its Gateway Conference schedule last Thursday against Wichita State, and no post-Christmas letdown was apparent.

Again, it was another rout with plenty of offense as Eastern cruised to a 95-80 win. Two nights later, the Panthers upped their conference mark to 2-0 with a 86-70 badgering of Southwest Missouri behind 32 points from Chris Aldridge.

Eastern has now won five straight, averaging 87 points in those games with an average margin of victory of 24 points.

Eastern forward Chris Aldridge has been Eastern's court leader en route to a 9-2 start this season.

Cagers run up 4-1 road mark over holidays

By DAN VERDUN
Assistant sports editor

At a time when most were raising spirits over the holidays, Eastern's men's basketball team was busy lifting its record.

The Panthers ran their overall record to 7-4 by closing 1985 in high fashion, reeling off five straight wins.

Eastern began the holidays by tipping Pan American 57-56. The victory marked the second straight year the Panthers defeated Pan American by one point.

Senior forward Jon Collins led a balanced Eastern attack with 14 points. Center Kevin Duckworth chipped in 13 and guard Doug Crook added 12.

Duckworth, who had fouled out of the Panthers three previous road games, intimidated two field-goal attempts and grabbed the game-closing rebound to preserve the win.

Eastern then toppled Butler 81-78 as Collins scored a team-high 21 points, including consecutive baskets with 13:25 left to give the Panthers the lead for good.

Freshman guard Jay Taylor hit eight of 10 free throws in just 15 minutes of playing time off the bench in the win.

The Panthers followed the win over Butler by capturing the Seaside Classic championship in Hawaii just after Christmas.

Eastern downed South Alabama 70-61 and hosted BYU-Hawaii 77-73 to take the tournament title.

Collins, Crook, Duckworth and Norm Evans all scored in double figures in both tournament wins.

Collins netted 28 points in the championship contest after an 18-point performance in the opener.

However, Eastern saw its win streak come to a halt by falling to Northeast Louisiana 90-68 on Saturday.

Collins paced the Panthers with 22 points, while Crook added 16 and Duckworth had 12.

"We were tired coming off the Hawaii trip," Eastern coach Rick Samuels said of the loss. "We had no time to recover. Our top people played a lot of minutes. We couldn't break down their pressure."

The Panthers will return to the friendly confines of Lantz Gym Wednesday when they host Butler at 7:30 p.m.

Intimidating defense propels the Bears into NFC title game

CHICAGO (AP)—Jim McMahon threw touchdown passes of 23 and 20 yards to Dennis McKinnon and a brutal defense led by Richard Dent powered the Chicago Bears to a 21-0 victory over the New York Giants Sunday in the NFC Divisional playoffs.

The victory keeps the Bears at home for the NFC Championship game next Sunday against the Los Angeles Rams, who defeated the Dallas Cowboys 20-0 Saturday.

The Bears' defense, ranked No. 1 in the league during the season, throttled the Giants virtually all day. New York quarterback Phil Simms was sacked six times for 60 yards in losses. Dent had three of the sacks, collaborated with Otis Wilson for another, and Mike Singletary and Gary Fencik added the others.

The weather conditions had little effect on the game, except for an aborted punt by the Giants' Sean

NFC Playoffs

Landetta in the first quarter, a mistake the Bears turned into an instant touchdown and a 7-0 lead.

Landetta all but whiffed on the kick, which grazed the outside of his foot. Shaun Gayle picked up the ball and went five yards for a touchdown with 5:32 left in the first quarter. Landetta, who later had punts of 52 and 63 yards, said a gust of wind blew the ball away from him.

The closest the Giants came to scoring occurred on their final play of the first half when Eric Schubert's 21-yard field goal attempt hit the left upright and bounced back—his sixth miss in his last seven attempts of the season and playoffs.

Gayle's TD accounted for all the scoring in the first half.

Turnovers help Patriots top Raiders

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The New England Patriots, scoring on a fumbled kickoff for the third time in four games, scored 10 points within 14 seconds late in the third quarter to upset the Los Angeles Raiders 27-20 Sunday and set up a showdown with the Miami Dolphins for the AFC title.

It was the 11th win in the last 13 games for the Patriots, who took advantage of six turnovers by the

Baseball meeting set

There will be a meeting for all those interested in trying out for the baseball team on Wednesday at 4:30 p.m. in the west bleachers of Lantz Gym, coach Tom McDevitt announced.

McDevitt said only those students who are enrolling for the spring semester for the first time or those who were out for a fall sport are eligible to try out. Those students who were out for a fall sport must have their coach's permission to try out.

Students who were enrolled at Eastern during the fall semester are not eligible to try out.

AFC Playoffs

Raiders to overcome a 10-point second-quarter deficit to create their third meeting of the year with Miami next Sunday in the Orange Bowl, where they haven't won in their last 17 tries.

It was a victory forged by a defense that held the Raiders scoreless in the second half and forced six turnovers—three fumbles, two interceptions by cornerback Ronnie Lippett and a third by safety Fred Marion.

And it was a victory forged by good fortune that has blessed the Pats, who had not won a playoff game for 23 years until they beat the New York Jets last week in the AFC wild card game.

The turning point in the mistake-filled game came late in the third quarter after Tony Franklin's 32-yard field goal had tied the game at 20-20 with 1:11 remaining in the period.

On the ensuing kickoff, New England's Sam Seale fielded the ball at his own nine, dropped the ball, picked it up, then fumbled again when he was hit.

Wrestlers win a pair, move to 3-0

Eastern's wrestling team took its frustrations of final exams to the mat with a double drubbing of Indiana State and Northwest Missouri on Dec. 14.

The grapplers topped Northwest by a 33-16 margin and disposed of Indiana State 31-12 to move their record to 3-0 on the season. ISU had entered as the No. 18 team in the nation according to Amateur Wrestling News magazine.

Four Panthers were double winners in the triangular. Paul Rodriguez (118), Paul Cysewski (142), Chris McFarland (158) and Ozzie Porter (167) all posted 2-0 records for the meet.

After Christmas, three Panther wrestlers competed in the prestigious Midlands Tournament, which showcased many of the nation's premier wrestlers.

Cysewski, Keith Presley (150) and heavyweight Demetrius Harper were Eastern's entries. None of them fared well against the heavy competition, however, dropping their initial matches.

Eastern now gears up for its first home match of the season Friday when it hosts Missouri and Northern Illinois 7 p.m. at Lantz Gym.
