Molde leaves coach's post Successor to be told in Monday meeting

By DAN VERDUN
Sports editor

Eastern's new head football coach is expected to be named Monday by the athletic department at a 1:30 p.m. press conference.

The finalists for the position are former Purdue offensive coordinator Bob Spoo and Northeast Missouri head coach Jack Ball, inside sources have confirmed.

Speculation has Spoo as the likely successor to Al Molde, who resigned in mid-December to accept the head coaching job at Western Michigan. However, Eastern Athletic Director R.C. Johnson declined comment Sunday.

"We'll talk about everything tomorrow at the press conference," Johnson said.

Spoo and Ball are the finalists from a list of about 63 applicants.

Spoo, 48, served as an assistant at Purdue for the past nine seasons. During that period, Spoo was under the direction of Big Ten head coaches John Jardine, Jim Young and Leon Burnett.

He spent his last two seasons as offensive coordinator under Burnett, who resigned under pressure this season. While at Purdue, Spoo worked with quarterbacks Scott Campbell and Jim Everett, both of whom went on to play in the NFL.

Johnson had expressed interest in hiring a coach that would continue to utilize the pass-oriented offense for which Eastern has gained both success and recognition in recent years.

Prior to his tenure at Purdue, Spoo was an assistant at Wisconsin and a successful high school coach in the Chicago Catholic League at Fenwick, St. Laurence and Loyola Academy.

He was named Catholic League Coach of the Year in 1969 and 1972.

Spoo, a Chicago native, was an all-Illinois selection while playing at St. Rita. He was the starting quarterback at Purdue in 1957 and 1958. The Boilermakers were 11-5 in both those seasons.

The other finalist for the Eastern position has been the head coach at Division-II Northeast Missouri for the last four seasons. Ball compiled a 4-7 record in his first two years and was 5-5 this season.

Ball's most successful season was 1985 in which his team went 8-3 and was ranked in the Top 10. That team also upset Eastern 31-24 that year to severely damage Eastern's playoff chances.

Monday's announcement will culminate Eastern's month-long search to replace Molde, who took

Central registration starts Monday

By STEVE SMITH
Campus editor

Students who have not pre-enrolled or paid spring tuition and fees will have to do so during central registration Monday and Tuesday in McAfee Gym.

Director of Registration Mike Taylor said it is hard to estimate how many students will actually go through central registration.

"It (the number of central registrants) varies," Taylor said. "It depends on how many pay fees (during pre-registration) and how many dropped." In December, Taylor predicted that about 8,400 students would pay tuition and complete pre-registration.

Scheduling will begin 9 a.m. Monday according to the first letter of a student's last name, Taylor said. The doors of McAfee will close at 2:30 p.m.

Taylor said students should use the southeast entrance of the building and follow signs to the North Gym.

"(Students) must be prepared to pay (tuition and fees)," he added. "Be sure and follow signs."

Taylor said for a student adding one class it may take 15 minutes to go through the entire process, but he added for students who run into problems it may take over one hour.

"It depends on whether the students are asking for one course or eight courses and how many times they consult with their adviser," Taylor said.

Enrollment materials and instructions will be provided upon entering the advising area, Taylor said.

The schedule is as follows:

Eastern left out as Southern makes party school list

By STEVE SMITH
Campus editor

False alarms may soon become more rare at several of Eastern's residence halls after the installation of about $300,000 worth of new smoke detectors later this month.

Housing Director Lou Hencken said work will begin in January on installing "state-of-the-art" alarms in Andrews, Lawson, Thomas and Taylor halls.

"Currently we are waiting on equipment (to arrive)," Hencken said. "It will cost about $75,000 per-building—everything included."

"Other universities in the state use them and are very pleased with them," he added. The other universities that use the system in Illinois include the University of Illinois and Illinois State University.

Hencken noted that Eastern's Buzzard Building is currently the only building on campus that has the new system installed.

"There is nothing wrong with our current system," Hencken said. "We are just adding additional features. We have not had serious (smoke detector) problems before."

Hencken said the new smoke detectors continually test themselves. "The whole idea is to prevent malfunctions," he said.

If one of the smoke detectors detects smoke or a malfunction, Hencken said a "trouble" light, probably located in the hall counselor's room, will flash. He said this will give electricians a chance to correct the problem before the hall has to be evacuated and the fire department called.

"Before an alarm goes (to the Charleston fire department), two (alarms) must go," Hencken said. "Most (of the alarms) have been from (smoke from) cooking. Hopefully these (the new smoke detectors) will prevent this."

A new smoke detector will be placed about every thirty feet along the corridor ceilings, Hencken noted.

He said the new system is manufactured by Pyrotronics, a Bloomington-based company, and was purchased from Commercial Electronics, a Mattoon company.

In addition to the new smoke detectors, Hencken said new ceiling tiles and lights will be installed. "We looked and found it just as cheap to replace lights and ceilings. The ceiling tiles are about 20-years-old," Hencken noted.

The ceiling tiles were purchased from Kirchner Building Center, a Mattoon-based company, Hencken noted.

He added that if ceiling tiles were to be taken out and stored until they could be replaced, the cost of the project would increase because more care would have to be taken in removing them and more time would be spent.

The lights, purchased from Eastern Electric Supply Co., 714 7th St., will be similar to those installed in the Gregg (See EASTERN, page 5)

Lost owl recovering from poison

CHARLESTON—A snowy owl hundreds of miles off its migratory course is recovering after becoming ill, apparently from eating pesticide-ridden pigeons, and should be back to the wild soon, its caretaker says.

The owl attracted spectators and picture-takers three days before Christmas when it perched in downtown Mattoon, and the bird was spotted a week later in a Mattoon parking lot, where it was noticed it could not fly.

The Coles County Animal Shelter captured the bird and turned it over to Dick Thorsen of Charleston, a businessmen licensed by the Illinois Department of Conservation to keep birds of prey for rehabilitative purposes.

He has been nursing the owl, which apparently had migrated 400 to 500 miles too far south, back to health.

The owl, named Frosty by Thorsen's 13-month-old daughter, Kim, apparently became ill from eating pigeons, Thorsen said.

Presidential speechwriter dies

HIGHLAND PARK—John Bartlow Martin, a biographer, diplomat and presidential speechwriter, is dead at the age of 71.

Martin suffered from throat cancer and died about noon Saturday in Highland Park Hospital in this Chicago suburb, Martin's son, Daniel, said Sunday. Private services are planned Tuesday.

Martin was a speech writer for President Lyndon B. Johnson and also wrote for John F. Kennedy and Robert M. Kennedy in the 1960s during their presidential campaigns.

Martin served as ambassador to the Dominican Republic in 1961 under President Kennedy and returned there in 1965 at Johnson's request to help quiet a revolutionary crisis.

Martin's book "Overtaken by Events" described his experience in the Dominican Republic after the U.S.-backed rebels tried to return Juan Bosch, the republic's first freely-elected president, to power.

Two benign tumors discovered and removed from Reagan's colon

BETHESDA, Md. (AP)—Doctors at Bethesda Naval Hospital found and removed four apparently benign polyps from President Reagan's colon Sunday, and the president's physician said tests "show no evidence of a recurrence of the cancer found in July 1985."

A brief written statement from Reagan's physician, Col. John Hutton, said, "The president feels good and immediately began reading briefing papers on items on the presidential decision-making agenda."

Hutton said the polyps, which are small fleshy growths taken from the inside of the president's intestine during an examination of the colon, appeared to be benign and similar to several found and removed in earlier examinations.

"As is routine, these polyps will undergo laboratory evaluation," Hutton said, and the results should be known on Monday, when Reagan is to undergo prostrate surgery.

During the 75-year-old president's physical, his third followup to check for any recurrence of the colon cancer discovered 18 months ago, Reagan had a cardio-vascular examination, including a stress test, followed by pulmonary function tests and chest X-rays, the White House statement said.

"All were normal," Hutton reported. The colonoscopy, which is an internal examination of the full length of the large intestine, "went smoothly," the president's physician said.

Convicted murderer studies law to defend self in upcoming trial

ROCK ISLAND (AP)—Convicted murderer Alton Coleman has been studying law books and writing motions to prepare for defending himself in the slaying of a little girl, whose death triggered a manhunt that ended after a seven-week odyssey of crime.

Jury selection in the trial begins Monday for Coleman, lawyer, who already faces two death sentences in Ohio and one in Indiana.

After jurors are selected, a process that could take three to four days, testimony will begin in Lake County Circuit Court at Waukegan, about 180 miles to the northeast.

Jurors are being chosen from Rock Island County because of concerns by Coleman, a 30-year-old Waukegan native, that he cannot find a fair and impartial jury in Lake County. Attorneys were ordered several months ago to withhold comments on the case.

Capt. Gene McGaughey of the Lake County Sheriff's Department said Coleman, who dropped out of grade school and never held a full-time job, has been checking out books from the jail's law library and can seek advice from his former public defenders.

In obtaining permission last week to defend himself, Coleman said he was dissatisfied with his court-appointed attorneys.

McGaughey said Coleman's courtroom demeanor in Lake County has been good.

"He is talkative, but no outbursts or anything," the captain said.

More was revealed than just women in the January edition of Playboy magazine.

The top 40 party schools in the country have been compiled and ranked by Playboy magazine. One Illinois school made the list, and it wasn't Eastern, the article said.

Southern Illinois University-Carbondale hit the top-20, being named the 17th top party school in the nation, according to Playboy.

Concerning SIU, the Playboy article said, "all other Illinois schools bow out to this one."

Playboy interviewed several students at SIU. As one student put it, "We'd put our sexual temperatures at 105 degrees."

Most Eastern students, however, don't seem to be too disappointed about being left off of the Playboy list.

"I do not see (Eastern) doing anything out of the ordinary," senior Dave Stier said. "I don't think we should rank up there too high."

Stier said that if people wanted to be associated with the top-20 party schools they could just drive down to Southern.

Glenn Williams, Eastern's vice-president of student affairs, did not feel that a list, like Playboy's, is too good for education.

"It does nothing for higher education," Williams said. "We are not here to provide parties. I certainly doubt that parents contribute and pay money just to provide a social atmosphere."

The list was compiled over a six month period by more than 250 colleges nationwide, the article said. It noted that the list was gathered by interviewing club leaders, residence hall rush chairmen, fraternity presidents and other social lights.

Williams, however, questioned the validity of the Playboy survey.

"University of Iowa is not a party school," Williams said in reference to the school being included on the list. "There (at Iowa), if a student came to class with alcohol on his breath, he would be kicked out of class for the rest of the week," he said.

"If we did that here, we would have empty classrooms," he said. "We are not going to graduate 10,000 ministers a year."

Williams added, "I think we have fairly strict rules here, but we have no intention of making (Eastern) a monastery."

Some students suggested that Eastern should host a big party once a year to make the list, as Southern Illinois University has done.

"We have festivals down here," Bob Mahrt, a Southern Illinois senior said. "We have Springfest, which is just a big carnival, and then we have Halloween. The whole town and all of the students get involved."

"We really do not party any different than any other school," Mahrt said. "If it weren't for the festivals, we probably would not have made the list."

Stier said, however, that St. Patrick's day seems to bring people down to Eastern.

"I have a lot of friends from home and they come down here (Eastern) from University of Illinois on St. Patrick's day," Stier said. "It (St. Patrick's Day) did not seem like that big of a deal. But they come from U of I so maybe it is."

California State University, Chico, Cal., has the distinction of being the number one rated party school in the nation, according to Playboy.

Area weather observers predict January forecast

By STUART TART
Staff writer

Two local weather observers hold different views on the weather conditions students can expect for January.

Local Weather Observer Dalias Price predicted January will bring below average temperatures and above average precipitation, while Richard Wise, weather and climate instructor, said the National Weather Service called for January to be "a tad warmer than usual."

In a mid-December interview, Price said, "About the time you (Eastern students) come back for registration there should be a cold snap that will remind you that winter isn't over."

Wise said January temperatures are predicted to come out "a degree or so above normal." This prediction, he said, is based on the National Weather Service's 30-day forecast which is 55-60 percent accurate, according to both Wise and Price.

Price said January is, on the average, the coldest month of the year with an average temperature of 29 degrees Fahrenheit; Wise said the average temperature is 21 degrees.

Price said January precipitation averages five inches, but may reach six to eight inches this month.

Wise said the National Weather Service 90-day forecast calls for a normal winter with average temperatures and average precipitation. However, Price predicted this winter will be "harsher than normal" and, as of mid-December, "has been already in terms of average temperature." He said heating degree days, at this time, were already 6 percent above normal.

"We had some pretty cold weather in early December and part of November that required us to use a little more fuel," he said.

Wise said that area residents experienced a warm spell that began as early as December 5 or 7 and ended with a 3/4 inch snowfall on January 1. However, he said, "We're still not below normal (temperature)."

A new semester brings students fresh outlook

It's time to start a New Year, a new semester and, for some, a whole new experience.

Hopefully everyone had a enjoyable and restful break. But the time has come again to study and start anew.

For some a new semester brings a new opportunity to make up for the last semester's mistakes. For others, it is a chance to improve on a good semester.

Remember that the spring semester always seems to move along quicker than the fall semester so it is important to not let yourself fall behind in any classwork or it could cause problems at the end of the semester.

If you had a bad semester, put it behind you and focus on the things you need to do to improve your grades. Take the time to reassess your study habits, alter them where needed and don't be afraid to seek help. There are qualified professionals on Eastern's campus to help and guide students who need academic aid.

Don't dwell on your mistakes, but do pick yourself up by the boot straps and get to work.

If you correct these mistakes know you won't find yourself in hole too deep to climb out of come May.

The new semester also offers a chance to meet new challenges, make new friends and find new adventures. College is more than books and papers. There are other things that can be learned through the people you meet and the experiences you have outside the classroom.

There are numerous activities that a student can become involved with—both extra-curricular and co-curricular. These organizations are for the benefit of students and can help take away the tension of studying by taking a student's mind off of his or her classwork.

With all this in mind have a safe, productive and rewarding spring semester.

Letter policy

The Daily Eastern News welcomes letters to the editor from any reader addressing issues relating to the campus community.

The name and telephone number of at least one author must be submitted with each letter to the editor. Letters must be 250 words or less.

Only the first three names from letters containing more than three authors will be published unless further specified.

Thanks for the great new year Ditka

I know there are people who are laughing about it.

People who have no sympathy, no feelings of compassion and just want to make a nice guy like me feel terrible.

When I realized it was happening I couldn't think straight, my emotions got the better of me. I became an instantly depressed and threw objects about my overpriced apartment.

I asked myself how could they do this to me, what did I ever do to them? Should I have called to check if everything was going OK?

I caught control of myself, wiped away the tears, climbed off the window ledge and back into my apartment and had a beer. Thoughts of calm seas and green meadows soothed my aching heart.

Damn those Bears!

What a way to start the new year, losing to the Washington Redskins of all teams. The way they looked Saturday probably had Papa Bear swearing and kicking in his grave.

I'm not really depressed that they lost, it's just the way they lost. If they would have lost a close game, I could have handled it.

The real Bears fans can understand how I feel, not the Johnny come lately fans. You know the kind I'm talking about, the ones like my roommate who have never heard of the great Bears players of years gone by. Names like Harold "Red" Grange, Bronko Nagurski, Sid Luckman and of course—Butkus.

I can even remember the terrible players like Bobby Douglass who probably had the strongest arm of any quarterback to ever play the game. The only problem with him was he threw the ball so hard that no one could catch it. There was also the legendary Bob Avellini. I loved the way he played quarterback, he always started his first offensive series with two incompletes and one completion—but to the other team.

Every true Bears fan remembers Ricky Watts, he had so much potential as a wide receiver. His biggest problem was he could never come anywhere close to that potential. But he really thought everyone should respect his potential, not his actual performance.

Larry

But Saturday the Bears really reminded me of those old days when talk was valuable and performance cheap. This time the talk concerned Doug Flutie and how this wonderkin was going to lead the team to victory.

After a whole two games of NFL experience, give me a break. I tried to believe I was wrong that he could do it and fool the critics. He obviously has talent and is capable of many things but not this year and not in the playoffs.

Coach Ditka seemed to be trying to show the world he was right about Flutie and not coaching the team concept he preaches so often. His concept was always do what it takes to win the game, forget personal pride and stop a strategy that isn't working.

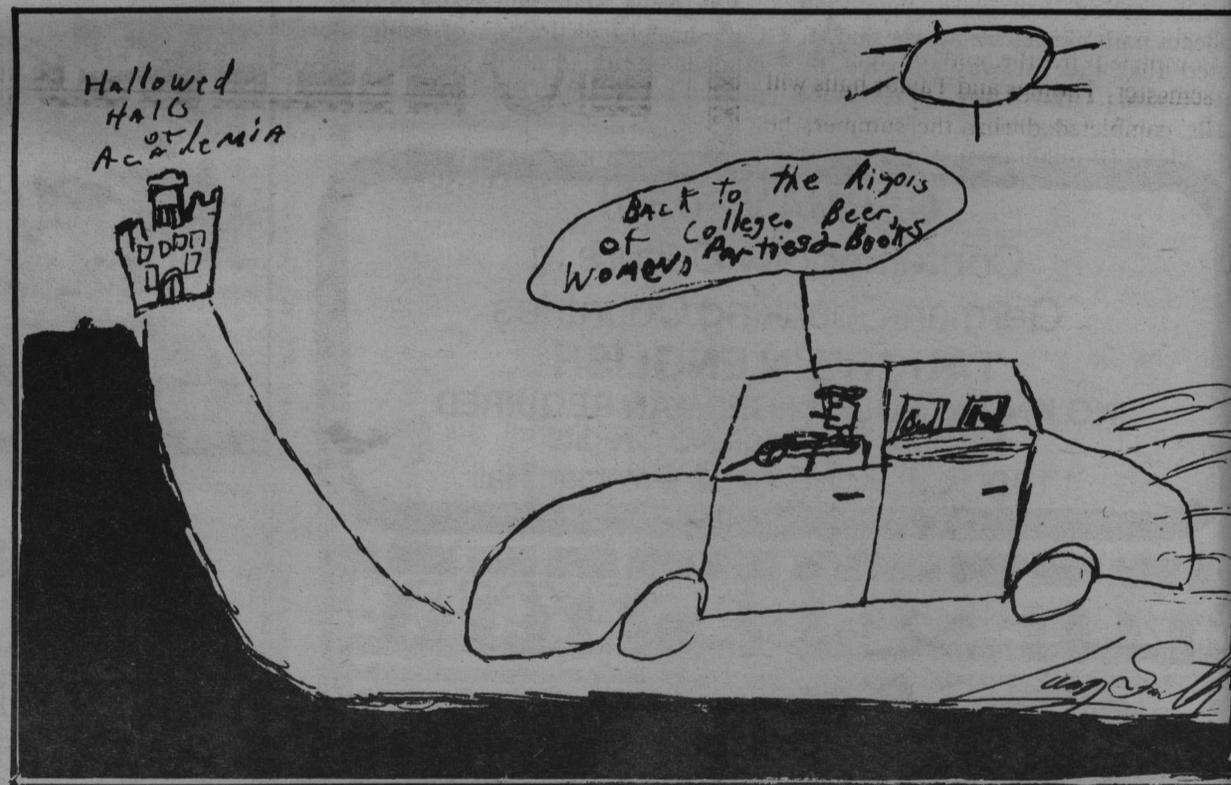

Pulling Flutie and putting in Steve Fuller in the end of third quarter and utilizing the number ranked running game in the league seemed the way to go. I felt like calling him and saying you have some guys named Gentry, Sanders, Suhey, Anderson, Thomas and, of course, Payton. If you use them it will obviously confuse the other defense.

By using Fuller you have a taller man who could possibly see the open men just beyond the line of scrimmage to throw to for a short gain. Not like Doug "Hail Mary" Flutie who has to throw the bomb everytime he gets in trouble because he can't find receivers in short routes.

I could have and should have called Ditka to offer my valuable advice and tell him of my years as an arm-chair quarterback. I have put in my dues, I've got my aching fingers from changing the channel everytime I got disgusted with the old Bears all those years, to prove it.

Now I guess I will have to settle for the familiar cry of Chicago athletic teams—wait 'till next year. I do have some hope for next year, Dennis McKinnon, the Bears' best receiver. Maybe Ditka will get the ball to him or will he have Flutie run it himself?

Your turn

Column was unfair and very biased

Editor:

It has been brought to my attention by an individual much more knowledgeable than I about editorial writing that my column concerning Betty Ralston's cutting of Diane Eiserman from the volleyball team was not well substantiated in general and extremely unfair to coach Ralston in particular.

It was journalistically irresponsible of me not to have presented the coach's and other team members' points of view, making my column nothing more than one man's biased, unfair opinion, which, I have been told, has no place in any newspaper as a staff editorial.

I regret the unfairness of my column and only wish that the editorial board of The Daily Eastern News had recognized the unfair nature of my column, which the sports staff did recognize as unfair, before it appeared in print.

Facts are unclear about karate club

Editor:

I would like to respectfully submit a few facts concerning the Charleston Shudo-Kan Karate Club. Apparently there have been a few misunderstandings about the club and the purpose of this letter is to inform those interested in the facts.

The Charleston Club is not a commercial agency as stated in a letter to the editor on Nov. 25. It was founded as a not-for-profit organization and still functions as one.

In the Nov. 24 issue of The Daily Eastern News a file photo of the Charleston Club was used to support an on campus article. In an attempt to correct this, the News reported the photo to be of an off-campus Tae Kwon Do organization. The photo was of Charleston Shudo-Kan Karate Club member Jim Glenn and Larry Thomas taken during a public martial arts demonstration sponsored by the Charleston Club.

Springfield awaits racial decision

SPRINGFIELD (AP)—City leaders say local government is responsive to blacks, the blacks say it isn't and the community where Abraham Lincoln lies buried is awaiting a federal judge's decision on who is right.

The city most associated with the great emancipator has spent the past three weeks in court arguing with black residents over whether the local government excludes minorities.

"This is a jurisdiction with separation of the races in every aspect of life," said attorney Sam Issacharoff, representing the city's blacks in a class-action lawsuit against the City Council.

"This is a community that attracts blacks from other communities," countered Larry DiNardo, representing the five City Council members who are defendants.

Those were part of Wednesday's closing arguments in the lawsuit, which contends the current election system, in which five commissioners are elected from the entire city, violates the federal Voting Rights Act by diluting the black vote.

The plaintiffs want council members to be elected from 10 wards, or districts, in order to give blacks, who make up about 11 percent of the 100,000 people, a better chance at representation.

U.S. District Judge Harold Baker, presiding over the bench trial, said he plans to issue a written decision on Jan. 12. If he decides in favor of the plaintiffs, Baker can order a new form of government or modify the present system.

Similar trials in other cities have usually ended with the at-large system being thrown out, said James Craven, lead attorney for the plaintiffs, who was confident that would be the outcome in Springfield.

"The record is absolutely clear," said Craven, noting that the two key elements of the trial, which began Dec. 11, were proving the existence of racially polarized voting, which is defined as whites' voting only for blacks.

No black has been elected to the City Council in the 75 years of the present system, proving that blacks cannot win, said Craven.

Rebels call Aquino to disband armies

MANILA, Philippines (AP)—Communist rebels accused President Corazon Aquino on Sunday of renegeing on her promise to disband private armies and said forces loyal to local warlords harass thousands of civilians in Northern Luzon.

A rebel commander, however, called for extension of the cease-fire between insurgent and government forces beyond its Feb. 7 expiration, Nemesio Damafitez, commander in the central Visayas islands, also said rebels would maintain contacts with the government even if peace talks break down.

A truce has been in effect since Dec. 10. The two sides are to begin negotiations Tuesday aimed at ending the 18-year-old Marxist rebellion.

assistants Larry Edlund, Joel Swisher, Rob Kuhlman, Bill Bye, Sheldon Herd and Dana Chambers with him.

Edlund, Molde's top assistant at Minnesota-Morris, Central Missouri and Eastern, had applied for the head coaching position with the Panthers. However, Eastern was apparently not interested.

Molde took the Western Michigan job following the firing of Jack Harbaugh, father of Michigan quarterback Jim Harbaugh, after a 3-8 season.

Triad residence halls, which "seem to be working well," Hencken noted.

Hencken said the work on Andrews and Lawson halls will probably take eight weeks per building and should be completed by the end of the spring semester. Thomas and Taylor halls will be completed during the summer, he added. "It might go faster," he added. He added that work will be completed one floor at a time.

Installation will be done by Eastern employees. "Doing it ourselves is cheaper," Hencken said.

Hencken said there will be little discomfort for residents of the halls during the installation. He said a special chute has been purchased to be placed outside of the windows so ceiling tiles can be dumped into dumpsters. "(With the chute) we won't have to tie up the elevators," Hencken said.

Several other residence halls have been targeted to receive the new smoke detectors in the future, Hencken said. Lincoln, Douglas and Stevenson halls will be done in about 1987 or 1988 and Carman Hall will be converted in 1988 or 1989.

Taylor's jumper gives Samuels 100th victory

By DAN VERDUN
Sports editor

Eastern men's basketball coach Rick Samuels had to wait awhile for his 100th career win, but it came in dramatic fashion Saturday.

Eastern snapped a five-game losing string by tipping Southern Illinois 58-57 in non-conference basketball action at Carbondale.

The Panthers, 3-5, pulled out the victory when sophomore guard Jay Taylor hit a short jumper with just seven seconds left in the game.

Taylor's game-winner followed a three-point basket from the top of the key by Southern's Doug Novsek to give the Salukis a 57-56 lead with 15 seconds left.

Eastern got off to a flying start in the game by moving to a 13-4 lead at the 12:47 mark. Forward Dave Vance and guard Norm Evans scored the Panthers' first 10 points.

However, the game soon settled into a back-and-forth contest with only a few points separating the teams.

Vance ended the game as Eastern's leading scorer with 16 points, while Evans chipped in 15. Taylor rounded out the Panthers' double-figure scorers with 11.

Saturday's win over Southern came as welcome relief to the Panthers. Eastern struggled over break, suffering consecutive losses to Big Ten opponent Wisconsin and Wolf Pack Classic foes Northeast Louisiana and North Texas State in Reno, Nev.

Wisconsin, 7-2 at the time, held on to defeat Eastern 72-68 after the Badgers blew a 19-point lead in the second half.

Taylor, who led the Panthers with 22 points, scored 14 in the second half to spark Eastern's comeback. Junior Dave Stein pulled down 10 rebounds.

A three-pointer by junior Tony Hemphill put Eastern within 67-66 with 2:32 left, but the Panthers never got the lead. Hemphill missed another three-pointer that would have tied the game with 18 seconds left.

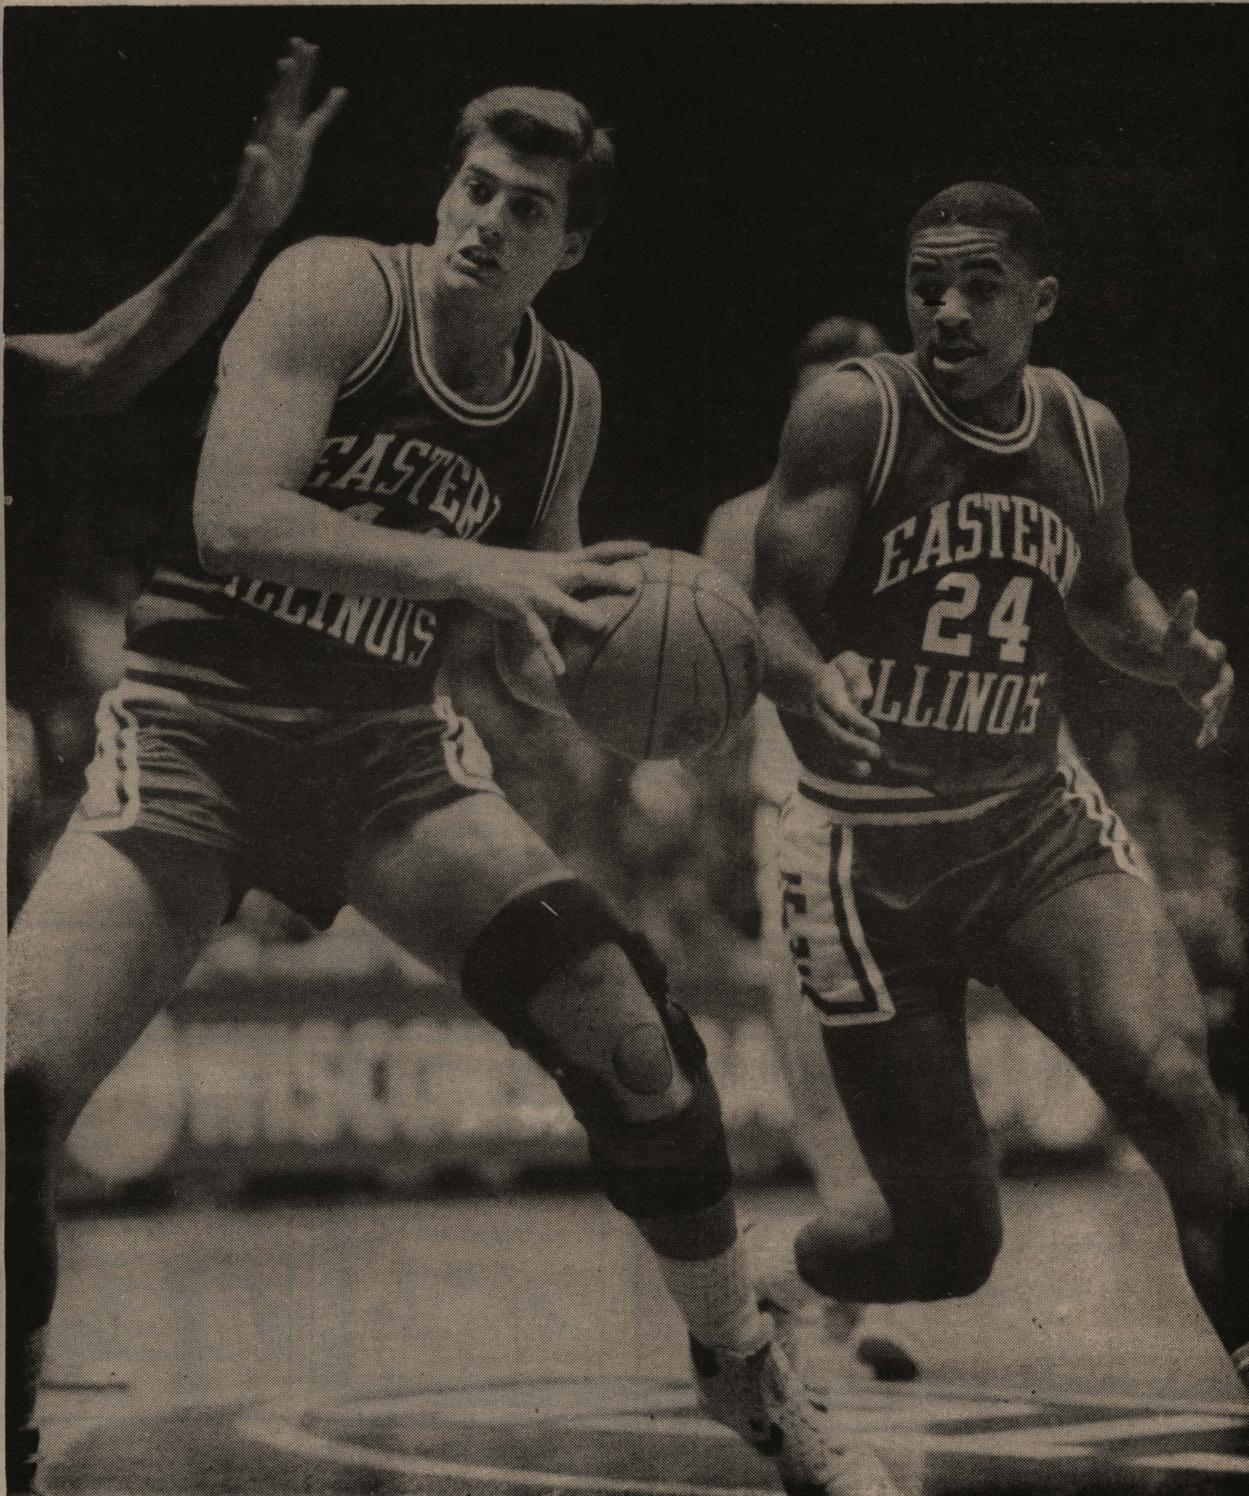

Things went sour for the Panthers in the Wolf Pack Classic as they dropped a 74-65 decision to Northeast Louisiana in the opening round.

Evans led Eastern in scoring with 13 points, while forward Vince Macciocchi added six points and six rebounds.

Macciocchi then scored a career-high 20 points and grabbed nine rebounds in Eastern's consolation round loss to North Texas State 92-63.

Macciocchi earned a spot on the all-tournament team for his performance. The 6-foot-7, 225-pound sophomore scored 26 points and collected 15 rebounds in the tourney.

Eastern returns to action at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday by hosting Indiana State in Lantz Gym.

Eastern forward Vince Macciocchi (44) pump fakes inside against Wisconsin while guard Jay Taylor (24) looks on. The Panthers defeated Southern Illinois Saturday 58-57 to give coach Rick Samuels his 100th career win. Taylor provided the heroics with a game-winning jumper with seven seconds remaining. The Panthers return to action at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday by hosting the Sycamores of Indiana State.

Al Molde honored

Former Eastern football coach Al Molde has been chosen the Kodak 1986 Division I-AA Region 4 Coach of the Year by the American Football Coaches Association.

Molde, who recently accepted the head coaching position at Western Michigan, is one of five I-AA regional coaches of the year.

Molde is now eligible for Coach of the Year which will be announced at the AFCA Convention in San Diego in January.

In four years at Eastern Molde directed the Panthers to a 32-15 record and two playoff spots. This season Eastern, which was ranked No. 3, finished 11-2 overall and advanced to the I-AA quarterfinal round.

In 16 years Molde had a record of 106-57-6 with head coaching stops at Sioux Falls College, Minnesota-Morris and Central Missouri.

Lady cagers topple Northern Iowa 87-78

By DAN VERDUN
Sports editor

Paced by five double-figure scorers, Eastern's women's basketball team toppled Northern Iowa 87-78 Saturday in Gateway Conference action in Lantz Gym.

The victory raised Eastern's record to 5-6 overall and 2-1 in the Gateway. Eastern returns to action at 7:30 p.m. Monday against Drake in Lantz Gym.

The Panthers were sparked by sophomore forward Lisa Tyler's 20 points and game-high seven assists.

scored 15 points and hauled down seven rebounds before fouling out at the 7:07 mark on the second half.

Senior Pat Hamilton and junior Ann Brown added 12 and 11 points respectively off the Panther bench. Brown was Eastern's leading rebounder with eight boards.

Eastern, winners of two straight, built leads as big as 20 points en route to the victory.

Earlier in their Christmas break road trip, Eastern had posted wins over McNeese State and Marquette and lost to Missouri and Southwest Missouri.

The win over McNeese State came in the first round of the Missouri Invitational by a 74-68 score. Hamilton was the leading scorer with 18 points.

The Panthers dropped the title game to host-Missouri by a 79-63 count. Freshman Barb Perkes scored 23 in the losing effort.

In Gateway action, Southwest Missouri forward Marla Douglass scored a game-high 25 points to lead the Bears to an 80-69 win.

Eastern rebounded with a 76-63 conference win over Wichita State. Tyler, the Panthers' leading scorer on the season, pumped in 24 points. Brown bagged 14 rebounds.

Giants club 49ers, move into title game

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (AP)—The New York Giants moved within a game of their first Super Bowl by demolishing the San Francisco 49ers 49-3 Sunday.

Quarterback Phil Simms passed for four touchdowns, Joe Morris ran for 159 yards and linebacker Carl Banks led a defense that shut down one of the NFL's top offenses.

Except for the first three minutes, when San Francisco's Jerry Rice fumbled away a sure touchdown, the Giants were totally dominant, winning their 15th game in 17 starts and 10th straight to move into the NFC title game here against Washington next Sunday.

The 46-point victory margin was the largest in an NFL playoff game since the merger of the NFL and American Football League in 1970. The most lopsided game before this was Washington's 51-7 victory over the Los Angeles Rams in 1983.

The Giants rolled to a 28-3 halftime lead with two touchdowns in the final 50 seconds, then scored three more in the third quarter.
