Mediation now last resort before faculty strike

By CHRIS SEPER
 Campus editor

For the past few weeks, the possibility of the need for mediation between the Board of Governors and the University Professionals of Illinois has been just that — a possibility.

But as of 9 p.m. Thursday, mediation became a reality when negotiators from the BOG and the UPI, the union representing the faculty at Eastern and the four other BOG universities, broke off talks in Chicago and requested mediation.

"The university regrets that regular negotiations of the (BOG) and UPI bargaining teams have failed," according to a statement released through Shelly Flock, Eastern's director of information in University Relations. "An attempt will be made to resolve outstanding issues through mediation, which the university hopes will be successful."

The two negotiating teams met from 1 p.m. to midnight

Wednesday and from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Thursday before the UPI team members called for negotiations to cease.

All negotiations have stopped until the two sides can meet with a government mediator.

The talks — which have been going on since Sept. 1 — affect Chicago State, Eastern, Governor's State, Northeastern and Western Illinois universities. The five BOG schools represented have about 2,200 faculty members.

According to BOG spokeswoman Michelle Brazell, the formal request for mediation will be signed and given to the Federal Mediation Conciliatory Service on Monday or Tuesday, after which it will take at least a week to get an actual mediator assigned.

After a mediator is assigned, Brazell said they will then know when the next meeting will be.

"We regret that we had to get to this point; it's too bad we could not settle and get a contract on our own," Brazell said. "Now that we've taken this serious step, we think we can work it out with a mediator."

The role of a mediator is to facilitate agreement, according to Jayne Ozier, UPI's chief negotiator. The mediator will look at all the issues and attempt to bring the two parties to agreement. Nothing the mediator does is binding, she added.

"We're viewing (mediation) as a positive step," Brazell said. "When you get into a situation like this, it helps to get some new ideas on how to work things. We're optimistic that they're going to get things resolved."

The stumbling block that has caused the request for mediation is the UPI's proposed salary equity plan. The plan is designed to bring BOG university salaries to the national salary average within three years. Currently, the five schools are 15 percent under the national payment norm for faculty.

"We weren't getting close with our salary equity plan," Ozier said of the two-day talks. "We couldn't get close to an

Helsel named acting dean

By STUART TART
 Editor in chief

Larry Helsel, chair of the school of technology and assistant dean of the College of Applied Sciences, has been selected the college's acting dean.

Helsel, who is filling in for Dean Barbara Hill, currently the acting vice president for academic affairs, will begin his new duties Monday. He said he expects to serve in his new capacity through June 30, 1992, "when the university plans to have a new VPAA."

"I served nearly eight years as assistant dean of the college and as chair of technology, and I felt my administrative experience could be helpful in moving the college forward, especially in the next eight months," he said.

And Helsel identified two concerns he will address during his tenure as acting dean: "maintaining the integrity" of the college's majors as the Council on Academic Affairs examines them in light of the new general education program and keeping "the morale of the faculty as high as possible."

Helsel said he is particularly concerned about faculty morale because of the current "environment on campus."

However, he added that he was not necessarily referring to salary.

"It's (morale) a matter of looking very closely at priorities and trying to provide resources for faculty," he said.

Helsel used examples of the university assisting faculty members in attending professional workshops and conferences and allowing faculty to take time off to pursue research as ways to maintain faculty morale.

"We've always claimed that we're one of the best teaching institutions," Helsel pointed out. "If we are and are going to maintain that status, I think we have to invest in the faculty."

Helsel's concerns for the college's academic majors center around being able to maintain their quality while keeping the programs within the number of semester hours required of undergraduates for graduation, he said.

Because of new general education requirements expected to be implemented next fall, students in some majors may have to take more than the 120 semester hours required for graduation, just to complete their major and general education requirements.

Bill to eliminate BOG, BOR has existed for a decade

By CHRIS SUNDHEIM
 City editor

A bill, similar to state Rep. Mike Weaver's bill to dissolve the Board of Governors and the Board of Regents, has been under consideration in the state Senate for about a decade, according to its sponsor state Sen. Jack Schaffer, R-Cary.

Schaffer introduced legislation that would exempt Northern Illinois University from the BOR about ten years ago but says he received little support for such a move.

"We tried that (the exemption) several times, but never got enough momentum," Schaffer said. "It (the bill) started out for just Northern but most of the amended versions eliminated both the Board of Governors and Board of Regents."

Schaffer, a state senator from the third district for 19 years, said he plans no further action or research concerning the bill, but said he has promised Weaver support for legislation eliminating the BOG and the BOR in the state Senate.

"We've talked (about the bill) and I indicated to him that I have not changed positions," Schaffer said.

Weaver introduced a bill last spring that would dissolve the BOG and the BOR in an effort to simplify Illinois' higher education "system of systems."

Record low temperatures will not last

By CHRIS SUNDHEIM
 City editor

Charleston paid for its October periods of Indian summer over the weekend when temperatures hit record lows for this time of year, according to Dalias Price, local weather observer.

However, Price said temperatures can be expected to rebound to seasonable levels toward the end of the week.

"We can expect highs around freezing or the upper 30s on Wednesday and maybe in the 50s near the end of the week," Price said.

The weekend's cold weather was caused by a build-up of cold Canadian air that took place while the Midwest enjoyed temperatures in the 70s last week, Price said. "We call this a post-frontal system," he added.

"We've never had a temperature this low before Nov. 3," Price said Sunday. "This morning's low was 15 degrees; the high was about 21 degrees."

"The average range this time of year is with lows of about 38 degrees and highs of about 58 degrees," he added.

Cold weather kills four Illinois residents. See story, page 6.

Price said light snow flurries were visible Sunday afternoon although they will not accumulate.

"It (the flurries) will be on and off throughout the day; there won't be any accumulation, though," Price said. "November is a month that registers some snow-fall, usually about an inch," he added.

"This isn't the right set-up for a good, old-fashioned snow storm," Price said.

Another instance of Indian summer is unlikely to occur this late in the year, Price added.

"There's a chance we'll have a little Indian summer sometime, but those chances are getting pretty scarce," he added.

Although winter does not officially begin until Dec. 21, Price said this weekend's temperatures are essentially winter weather.

Construction to begin on new restaurant

By CHRIS SUNDHEIM
City editor

Groundbreaking will begin Monday for a new fast food restaurant at the corner of Division Street and Lincoln Avenue.

Owners of McHugh's, which was established in Mattoon last July, plan on opening a second location in Charleston sometime in January, according to co-owner Mary McHugh.

The current McHugh's is a double drive-thru establishment with no interior seating, McHugh said. The Charleston building will be similar, she added.

"We'll have some outdoor seating when it gets warmer in the spring," McHugh said. "The double drive-thru feature allows us to keep our prices competitive. There'll be a (drive-up) window on each side (of the building).

"Our prices are usually at least 20 percent to 30 percent lower than most of our competitors'," McHugh said.

Concerns of competing with other Charleston fast food businesses isn't a problem, according to McHugh.

"No, this is unique, I really don't think it (the competition) will be a problem," McHugh said of the new business. "Our menu appeals to college students and kids but we've got a lot of different things."

Construction on the new building will begin after the groundbreaking, which is scheduled for 2 p.m., she added.

The Mattoon store employs about 35 people, McHugh said. The Charleston store will employ about 45, however.

McHugh and her sister have 20 years combined experience in the fast food business and have always planned on opening a Charleston store.

McHugh said she purchased the land on the north side of realtor Howard Eads' office about six weeks ago.

Eastern granted approval for highway safety grant

By STEVE LYSAKER
Staff writer

Eastern has been granted approval for a highway safety grant by the Illinois Department of Transportation.

According to Daniel Bolin, director of safety programs at Eastern and director of the grant project, the grant will focus on raising the number of people who wear seat belts.

Bolin said currently only about 45 percent of automotive passengers wear seat belts.

"We would really like to see that number raised to 70 percent by 1992," Bolin added.

Bolin said the attempt to increase the number would include educational modules specially designed for students, displays in shopping centers and fairs, a media campaign and various demonstrations in the surrounding areas.

Among the demonstrations will include a mock crash program, which Bolin said will show the need for seat belts to avoid serious injuries. Bolin added that there will also be seat belt convincing demonstrations at area schools, fairs, and businesses.

Bolin said the project will also set programs for schools beginning in kindergarten and continuing through high school, as well as programs for the Rotary Club and the local animal clubs.

Bolin said the campus side of the project began with the seat belt convincer at the 1991 WellFest. He added that other demonstrations and programs, such as the crash test dummies, Vince and Larry, will be held throughout the year.

"Another part of the project is to push for the law enforcement agencies to enforce the seat belt laws more strictly," Bolin said.

While Eastern is the recipient of the grant, this is the third and final year for the project in the surrounding counties, such as Bond, Effingham and Fayette, Bolin said.

"We go into other counties, get the programs started, and after the monies run out, the project will keep going. We're sure the other counties will pick it up," he added.

Bolin said that the grant of $56,571, which was gained through a written proposal, is funded by the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration and will be administered by IDOT's Traffic Safety Division. He added that Eastern will provide an additional $56,591 for the project.

Coles County voters asked to vote on two tax increase referendums

By CHRIS SUNDHEIM
City editor

Coles County voters will be asked to vote on two tax increase referendums and several educational races in Tuesday's nonpartisan election.

Lake Land Community College officials will try again this week to pass a property tax increase referendum to benefit their institution. Voters in 15 counties covering 4,000 square miles will be asked to vote on a 12 and one-half cent increase for every $100 of assessed property value, according to Pam Crisman, public relations coordinator for Lake Land.

Last spring, a similar referendum that would have provided increases for both educational and maintenance needs failed. The amended bill will bring Lake Land's total tax share up to 28 cents for every $100 of assessed property value. This figure represents an overall increase of 81 percent, Crisman said.

Lake Land administrators have already requested a $75 tuition increase for full-time students to take effect in the spring semester if the referendum fails, Crisman added.

"This referendum is a more modest version of one that was defeated last year," said Jon Laible Thursday. Laible is Eastern's Dean of Liberal Arts and Sciences and a candidate in the race for the Lake Land Community College District Trustee Board.

"(The increase in money is) still not enough, though. Programs have been cut to balance the budget," Laible said.

He added that he feared the referendum has become the deciding issue in the race for trustee board.

Three new Lake Land Community College District trustees will be elected Tuesday. Two of the candidates will be elected to serve the standard six-year term, while one will sit on an unexpired chair vacated by a trustee who resigned.

Another tax increase referendum before Coles County voters Tuesday would benefit the Coles County Cooperative Extension Service. County policy previously gave the service most of its budget from the county general fund.

The referendum on Tuesday's ballot provides the service with its own tax levy not to exceed .5 percent of the assessed value of all taxable property in Coles County, according to Coles County Clerk Betty Coffrin.

"This will give them (the extension service) a little more money and relieve the county's general fund," Coffrin said.

In other election races Tuesday, four new Charleston Board of Education members will be elected. Three of the current members of the seven-member board will remain in their positions.

Bill Phillips, an assistant professor in Teacher Education, and Lowell Gillespie, a physical plant employee, are candidates in the race. Gillespie is registered as a write-in candidate.

Also in the election, three men are running unopposed as candidates for members of the Regional Board of Trustees. The board represents the districts in Coles, Clark, Cumberland, Edgar, Moultrie and Shelby counties. The board works closely with Regional School Superintendent Rosemary Shepard in overseeing the regional school district, Coffrin said.

New campus group to help educate peers

By JAMIE RILEY
Administration editor

The stereotype claiming students don't want to help other people just got bumped off the record by a new group on campus.

Ten students on campus have started a peer educator group on campus. The group, titled Show Students Helping Others, is meant to educate students of all ages on a wide variety of topics, said Ryan Devlin, founder of the group.

Devlin, a junior zoology/secondary education major, said he started the group because people were getting tired of the same format of action groups. "I'm not trying to knock any groups, but we're not speeches or guest speakers," he said, adding that the basic difference between the student group and others is "the basic way we present the information."

Devlin said the 10 people in his group represent a diverse range of students so many points of view will be heard.

Each person in the group chooses a topic, researches the topic and brings information back to the group, Devlin said. "We have to educate ourselves first," he said.

After a topic is researched and all members of the group are informed, they prepare a skit for the members to act out.

Devlin said the group is not specifically aimed at one age group. "Right now we're not really focused on a specific educational level. A lot of members feel we need to spread out in the community," Devlin said.

The group will travel to high schools and grade schools as well as perform on campus. Devlin said the group will go to any school that wants them to perform.

Education is the main focus of Show Students Helping Others, Devlin said, emphasizing that his group is not trained to counsel people. "We are by no means a counseling group. We want to strictly educate," Devlin added.

Some of the topics Show Students Helping Others will be dealing with include drug and alcohol abuse, cultural diversity, date rape and domestic violence, racism, stress release and time management. Devlin said the group will deal with any topic that comes up that members feel needs to be dealt with.

"If we see one of the big problems in a school is kids coming from a troubled family, we'll do something on that," he said.

Show Students Helping Others has some similar college and high school organizations around the country.

One such college sector of the organization includes Risky Business, a group from Washington University that travels nationwide performing skits to educate people on various topics.

Also, a high school group called Alpha Program, exists in many high schools around the country and educates students in the same way. Devlin said many students from that group go on to join similar organizations in college.

Senate support for faculty was a positive move

After two months of faculty contract negotiations, the Student Senate passed a resolution to support the faculty in their negotiations.

Finally, the primary organization representing the students has taken the initiative to speak up and say they are backing Eastern faculty.

The senate resolution states Eastern students "recognize the quality of the faculty they receive their education from," and that they also recognize that the "faculty at Eastern are some of the lowest-paid university professionals in the state of Illinois."

The resolution also states that the effects of a faculty strike could be "detrimental" to the university's image and students.

As the members of the University Professionals of Illinois, which is the union that represents Eastern and the four other Board of Governors universities, continue to meet with the BOG in negotiating a contract, it is highly vital that the university stands behind its educators.

Being that 62 percent of Eastern's faculty represented by UPI have been working without a contract since Sept. 2, it make sense for the student's to support them in their efforts.

The union is simply seeking salary equity with the national norm and asking for reimbursement for increased health care costs and access to an early retirement plan already available to other state employees.

The News supports Eastern's faculty and commends the senate on their resolution to back the continuing contract negotiations.

It is important that the senate took a stand on the issue instead of avoiding it by tabling the resolution for further research, as was proposed last week by seven senate members.

We hope the senate continues to support the faculty through the continuing negotiations.

Abortion is not just a Supreme Court issue

Within a few months women everywhere will know if newly confirmed U.S. Supreme Court Justice Clarence Thomas is against abortion.

I was hesitant writing about abortion for a long time, even though it is an issue I am deeply passionate about. One of the many reasons I have not written a column on this being that no matter what side one takes on this issue, it is a debate which will never be resolved. Pro-lifers believe pro-choices are pro-death and don't give a damn about the rights of the unborn.

Pro-choices believe the pro-lifers are moral fanatics and don't give a damn about the rights of women.

When I was in junior high I learned what abortion was but didn't form an opinion about it until high school. I'm not going to dodge the issue and let everyone guess which stand I take. Yes, I am pro-choice and have been for a long time.

Like anyone I debated whether life starts at conception or starts at the moment of birth, but I realized the ones living in the here and now need their rights first. Taking away a woman's right to an abortion by overturning Roe v. Wade is not going to stop abortions, but will force women back down the same road they traveled of butchersque abortions and wire hangers.

My mom told me the story of this girl who died from a home-performed abortion in the early sixties. She lived down the street from my mom and obviously found herself in the family way. In turn she ended up using a wire hanger to abort the fetus and hemorrhaged severely. The ambulance arrived in the early morning hours.

The girl died in the late morning hours.

While working at my county's health department this summer I talked with the family planning nurse about the issue of abortion. She too knew of a girl who had to face a back-alley abortion before Roe. To have her abortion the girl had to meet the "doctor" on a street corner by looking for a man wearing a rose in his lapel.

When she met him he took her to his "office" where many other girls were waiting for him. She didn't go into detail about what his "office" was like, but I can only imagine.

People who are pro-life say the rights of the unborn need to be protected. If that's true then why is it that if a woman early in her pregnancy is punched in the stomach by her husband and miscarries the baby, in legal terms it is considered assault to the woman, not murder to the fetus?

And if a drunk driver hits a woman early in her pregnancy and she miscarries, the loss of her fetus is not murder? Everything is a double standard.

When Roe v. Wade passed there was a majority of justices on the Supreme Court that believed it is a woman's prerogative to have or not have an abortion. Only two of those original justices are still left on the court.

With recent Supreme Court rulings how can we not believe Roe v. Wade will be overturned and that women will be transported back to pre-Roe days. Just last July the Supreme Court ruled in Rust v. Sullivan that federally funded health clinics cannot mention the word "abortion" as an option in pregnancy.

First we have lost our freedom to speak. Soon we won't even have the freedom to think.

Laura Durnell is a staff writer and columnist for The Daily Eastern News.

Reader: Kudos to Hettinger on media spoof

Dear editor:

Congratulations to Doug Hettinger on the spoof he pulled on both The Daily Eastern News and the Eastern student body, regarding the formation of the White Student Union.

With bright young intellectuals like Hettinger on the rise in the ranks of the Republican's right wing we have a lot to look forward to from this new generation of super-patriots. Those leftist commie liberals in the news media will be no match for Hettinger in the future especially if he gets a few more years under his belt at whatever liberal-hating think tank to which he wishes to sell his soul.

Thanks to the Hettinger types we can look forward to many future campaigns filled with Willie Horton commercials and Watergate style dirty tricks. The right wing has a new foot soldier who by his own admission in his Oct. 24 editorial follows orders extremely well. You should be very proud of yourself Mr. Hettinger. You have such a bright future.

Misquotes don't help writers learn the profession

Dear editor:

Very few people in this world are awarded with the talent of writing. Unfortunately, I do not have such a talent. If I did, I would probably be a journalism major, as it is my opinion that it is one of the most interesting careers. I also think that The Daily Eastern News does a really good job in allowing journalism majors to gain experience while writing articles for the paper. However, I would like to express my concern to several misquotes that have been occurring lately. I understand that all staff writers are only students in a learning process, but I also think that they should learn how to do things in the proper way. I would hate to hear that an Eastern graduate has been fired after misquoting someone in The New York Times, for instance. The Daily Eastern News is the greatest link among all Eastern students. Therefore, the whole student body deserves that nothing but the truth be published in it.

Ceremony to recognize war veterans

By CHRIS SEPER
Campus editor

Eastern President Stan Rives and the ROTC will join together next week to honor students, faculty and staff who served in Desert Storm.

The only problem is, they've got to find them first.

"We have 20 students and six employees right now," said Capt. John Fede of Eastern's ROTC program. "We'd like to get some more names. Some people that went (to Desert Storm), didn't let the university know they were going out of school to do it."

Any student or staff member who served in Desert Storm and wants to be honored can contact the ROTC by registering at 308 Klehm Hall or by calling 581-5944 before the Nov. 11 ceremony.

The ROTC is currently conducting a letter search of known Eastern employees and students who had made the university aware of their intentions to enter Desert Storm. The letter is their invitation to attend, Fede said.

The honored guests will receive a letter of thanks from Rives for their role in Desert Storm at 3 p.m. at Old Main. Following the ceremony, participants – in full military attire – will gather for a group photo, which will be placed in a prominent place at Eastern, Fede added.

"We're glad that we as a university are recognizing the students and employees," Fede said. "The university is really proud of them for their courage and honorable services to the university, state and nation."

Details for the ceremony are not finalized as of yet, Fede said. Rives has yet to approve the letter of gratitude written by the ROTC or to determine where the group photo will be taken. Whether or not a speech is to be given by Rives and the exact procedure for the ceremony also remains unknown by Fede. Rives was unable to be reached for the information because of the fall break.

"What the university wants to do is recognize the students and faculty who participated in Desert Storm while the operations were going on," Fede said. "If anyone fits that category, they should contact the ROTC (at Eastern)."

The search will continue for the veterans up until the ceremony. It was the hope of Fede that no one be left out.

New phone line to help seniors looking for jobs

By CHRIS SEPER
Campus editor

For graduating seniors looking to break into their respective fields, job searching may have gotten a little more convenient.

A new "National College Job Line," created by New Frontiers Group, Inc., based in Palatine, is claiming to offer graduates daily updates on job openings across the country simply by picking up the phone.

The system – which costs $1.49 a minute – lists areas of work in general business and marketing, finance and accounting, liberal arts, science and chemistry, computer science and engineering along with an "others" grouping.

The system also breaks the nation down in regions including the east, midwest, south and west.

Another feature of the job search line allows students 18 seconds on the phone before they get charged for the call – giving them time to decide if the line is worth it.

The number for the National College Job Line is 1-900-786-1188. All charges are charged directly to the customer's phone bill.

A note to students living on campus should be made, however. If living in a residence hall, students will be unable to call the number because of a lock on 900 numbers implemented at the beginning of the year.

Baker: Conference a 'good beginning'

MADRID, Spain (AP) – U.S. Secretary of State James A. Baker III said Sunday that the Mideast conference marked a "good beginning" to ending regional conflict, and he promised the United States would continue to mediate.

But he said the Israelis and Arabs had not yet reached an agreement on where to hold the bilateral talks, the crucial next phase of the process.

Speaking about the site and timing of future meetings, he said: "This is an open question."

Baker, speaking at a news conference, added that U.S. and Soviet officials would continue to "make proposals as necessary," but that he would be returning to the United States after the news conference.

He said he would be available for talks with the delegates while traveling during the next few weeks.

"We intend to stay fully engaged, as fully engaged as we can and for as long as we think the parties are serious about peace. And for the moment I think they are serious."

The Israelis met separately on Sunday with a joint Jordanian-Palestinian delegation, and with the Syrians and Lebanese to discuss the time and place of the next stage of the talks, which opened in Madrid last Wednesday under joint U.S. and Soviet sponsorship.

"I am especially pleased with the quality of the first negotiating session between the Israelis and the joint Jordanian-Palestinian delegation," Baker said.

He said he hoped the Israeli-Palestinian talks would lead to limited self-rule for the Palestinians "within a year."

The Madrid conference was a beginning," he said. "I think it was a good beginning."

"There have been and, as I have said, there will be no obstacles. They have not deterred us until now and they will not ..."

Asked to comment on Syrian reluctance to sit down in face-to-face talks with the Israelis, Baker said that the countries involved "have all entered the process against the predictions."

"I have no reason to think that any country is on the verge of pulling out of the process," he said.

Faculty trio to perform in concert

By STEVE LYSAKER
Staff writer

A woodwind trio of Eastern faculty members will perform a number of instrumental pieces from various composers in concert Monday.

Kathleen Cook, flutist for the trio, said the concert will consist of a variety of musical pieces written by composers of different nationalities.

Cook said the featured composers will include Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart, a classical Austrian composer; Francois Devienne, a French music writer; Robert Muczynski and John Cheetham, both American composers; and Jochen Beck, a 20th century German composer.

The faculty trio, which also features Richard Barta on clarinet and Bernard Borah on bassoon along with Cook on the flute, usually performs twice each year, Cook said.

"This is our first of two concerts for the year," Cook said. "We usually have one concert for each semester."

The concert will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the Dvorak Concert Hall and is free of charge for faculty and students.

"We really enjoy playing, and we'll continue our two concerts every year for as long as we're here," Cook said.

Attendance problems heard by CAA

By TYLER PIERCE
Staff writer

The Council on Academic Affairs Thursday heard testimony regarding attendance policies on behalf of Eastern's student athletes.

Bob Saltmarsh, who is the faculty athletics representative and chair of the Intercollegiate Athletic Board, voiced the concerns of Eastern's coaches to the council.

According to Saltmarsh, there is no list of official university absences at Eastern and, therefore, many athletes aren't excused from classes when they are absent due to athletic events.

Under the current attendance policy, it is the instructor who has the authority to determine whether or not a student's excuse is valid.

"Student athletes are committed to be off campus for sanctioned events," Saltmarsh said. "From the Athletic Department's point of view, there is a very serious concern about this problem."

"I think there is an intrinsic intimidation factor on the side of the faculty," he added.

Saltmarsh said that he is often consulted to settle misunderstandings between student athletes and instructors.

"My experience in mediating these things has been very pleasant and successful," he said. "The faculty have been very congenial."

The CAA will consider amending the attendance policy to include a listing of possible official university absences.

In other action, the council:

- Passed a motion that will prevent students from declaring a major in sociology until they have completed 15 semester hours in sociology with a 2.0 grade point average.
- Approved a change in the art minor program which will increase the total hours from 18-21 to 24.
- Approved a reduction in the elective hours of the theater arts major from 42 to 39 semester hours.
- Passed a motion that changed the name of the Finance 3740 class from Real Estate to Real Estate Fundamentals.

Israel, Palestine hold first 'good' talks

MADRID, Spain (AP)—Israelis and Palestinians on Sunday held their first ever "good, businesslike" direct talks and pledged to try to move on to substantive issues such as Palestinian autonomy within a few days.

In another milestone, hard-line Syria overcame hesitations and opened its one-on-one meeting with Israel late Sunday night—the first talks between the arch-foes in 43 years. A Lebanese delegation also held separate talks with Israel.

"I think it was a good beginning," said Secretary of State James A. Baker III, who engineered the peace conference with eight Middle East shuttles this year. He said the United States would remain deeply involved in the process.

"We intend to stay fully engaged, as fully engaged as we can and for as long as we think the parties are serious about peace. And for the moment I think they are serious."

Following their nearly five-hour session, the Israelis and a joint Palestinian-Jordanian delegation displayed an amiable spirit, in contrast to a week of confrontational speeches and snubs during last week's ceremonial opening phase of the historic Madrid talks.

Still to be settled is where the substantive negotiations will take place. In a joint statement, the two sides said they would consult about when and where to hold substantive talks, "which it is hoped will take place soon."

The Palestinians later said that during the meeting they had demanded a freeze on Israeli settlements in the occupied West Bank and Gaza Strip.

Israel has so far refused to freeze the settlement-building.

Baker, speaking of the site and timing of future meetings, said: "This is an open question." But he called the Israeli-Palestinian meeting a "breakthrough."

30 protesters arrested in anti-abortion rally

CHAMPAIGN (AP) — Police arrested 30 anti-abortion protesters for trespassing Saturday after they entered a clinic here and refused to leave, authorities said.

The 30 were charged with criminal trespass, an offense that carries a possible fine of $85 to $135, said Rebecca Hall, a Champaign police spokeswoman. Court hearings for the demonstrators were set for Dec. 12.

Participants said the demonstration, which attracted about 50 people, was part of Operation Rescue, the national anti-abortion group that attracted national attention earlier this year with prolonged protests in Wichita, Kan.

"We come here about every 10 days to picket," said Lorraine Schollmeier of Decatur, whose husband was among those arrested. "We don't have this in Decatur, and we hope we never do. This is the closest abortion clinic, and we want to do something for the unborn."

Protesters in Champaign said the demonstration was to be part of a nationwide effort.

On Saturday, almost 100 abortion protesters were arrested in Cranston, R.I. when a rally hastily moved from Boston caught Rhode Island police off guard. That protest drew about 1,000 people split nearly evenly between supporters and opponents of abortion.

Supreme Court to hear sexual abuse case

WASHINGTON (AP) — An Illinois man's right to face the young girl who accused him of sexual abuse is at the heart of a Supreme Court case that should provide more guidance on the use of hearsay evidence in such trials.

The court has said the constitutional right of defendants to confront their accusers is not absolute.

But can a judge allow the testimony of those who talked to the youngster about the incident, even when the 5-year-old may have been able to take the stand herself?

The case is drawing attention across the country from 28 state attorneys general, child welfare groups and the Bush administration. All have filed legal briefs supporting Illinois prosecutors.

"The states have a strong interest in the effective prosecution of child abusers, and the admission of reliable hearsay evidence is often essential to maintaining this interest," the attorneys general told the court in written briefs.

"Frequently, a child victim's out-of-court statements regarding the offense will be the best evidence in the case," they said.

But Randall D. White, who was convicted in Vermilion County, Ill., and sentenced to 10 years, wants a new trial.

His attorneys acknowledge that the use of hearsay testimony shields the child from the trauma of testifying, but the "prejudice to the defendant's confrontation right is much more severe."

Five people testified at White's trial in 1988. All said the youngster told them she was assaulted after White broke into her home.

An Illinois appeals court said S.G.'s statements to the babysitter, mother and police officer were spontaneous declarations and were admissible.

The Supreme Court last year allowed states to shield young witnesses from face-to-face confrontations with sex-abuse defendants by using videotaped testimony, closed circuit television and testimony by those who interviewed the alleged victim.

David Crump, a University of Houston law professor who filed a brief on behalf of several groups that support S.G., said the Supreme Court's decision in the White case could affect evidence rules in all kinds of trials.

"The court may focus on the child-abuse aspect, but the evidence questions are ones that are involved in many cases," Crump said.

White's argument "would effectively change all the categories of admissible hearsay evidence," he said. "This is an extremely important case."

Harsh weather claims at least four Illinois lives

(AP)—Cold was suspected in at least four deaths as Illinois shivered in arctic weather that sent 13 students to a hospital after they were exposed to frigid winds at a high school band contest.

An elderly man in Normal and an elderly woman who had wandered away from a nursing home in Granite City were found dead in their respective communities as wintry weather swept the state over the weekend, authorities said.

Also, a 56-year-old man died of possible cold exposure after being found in his back yard on Chicago's South Side, and an unidentified man died of apparent hypothermia on the city's West Side, authorities said Sunday.

In Normal, police on the Illinois State University campus canceled the finals of the Illinois Marching Band Championship on Saturday after 13 people there were sent to a hospital suffering from exposure-related symptoms.

The wind-chill factor was zero on the field of Hancock Stadium, where 90 students were treated at a first-aid station for numb fingers and toes, headaches, nausea and other cold-related symptoms, campus police said.

"The wind on the field was horrendous," one unidentified officer told the Bloomington Pantagraph. "When I got there, kids were crying and holding their hands. Some had to be carried from the edge of the field to the first aid station when they finished performing."

Thirteen students were taken to BroMenn Regional Medical Center between noon and 2 p.m. and given hot chocolate and warm blankets before being released, a hospital nursing supervisor told the newspaper.

Temperatures across the state dropped to as low as 12 degrees in Quincy, and to 13 in Chicago and Peoria early Sunday morning, said Frank Wachowski of the National Weather Service in Chicago.

No records were broken, probably because high winds mixed the air and prevented the radiant heat loss typical of record-low days, Wachowski said.

Crews fail to put out final Kuwaiti fires

RAWDATEIN, Kuwait (AP) — Fire crews failed Sunday to cap the final four oil wells sabotaged by Iraqi occupiers but preparations began for a celebration at a special well waiting to be capped by the nation's royal ruler.

Shifting winds complicated efforts to put out the last two burning wells, and crews struggled to channel oil gushing from two others, officials said.

Crews had hoped to finish their work by Saturday and end the eight-month battle to control wells damaged or set ablaze by Iraqi troops at the end of the Persian Gulf War. Of Kuwait's 940 producing wells, 640 were set on fire and 92 were damaged by Iraqis.

"So far, we've done so well and now we're stuck in the last two," said Warren McLeod, an explosives specialist with the Canadian-based Safety Boss company. "It's a pity."

One of the gushing wells is next to the ceremonial well, Burgan 118. It was reignited last week and Kuwait's emir, Sheik Jaber al-Ahmed al-Sabah, was to cap it on Wednesday during a ceremony marking an end to the ordeal.

But Bargan 118 has been extinguished again and officials are now uncertain whether they will start the fire for the ceremony.

An oil official, speaking on condition of anonymity, said that if the wind changes, oil could be blown all over, creating problems.

Nevertheless, workers installed light bulbs and flagpoles on Sunday, and smoothed the road leading to the Burgan 118 well, located south of Kuwait City. In Rawdatein, about 55 miles north of Kuwait City, another well gushed oil out of control despite efforts by crews to control the flow with a shaft, called a chimney.

"When we put a chimney in, the flow didn't go up," said Ken Rose, operations supervisor for Safety Boss. "We either have a fan-shaped flow coming out of the top of the well head or we've got a side flow. We don't know yet."

Meanwhile, changing wind direction frustrated attempts to halt fires in two other wells in Rawdatein and Sabriyya, about 50 miles north of Kuwait City.

Rose said forecasts for the wind to completely shift direction on Monday could pose additional problems.

Annual Soviet parade cancelled; recognition of holiday questioned

MOSCOW (AP)—Every Nov. 7 for decades, Soviet leaders paraded soldiers and rockets through Red Square in a brash celebration of their holiest day: the anniversary of 1917 Bolshevik Revolution.

But no goose steps will pound the cobblestones this year. They have been silenced for the first time since World War II by the rout of the Communist Party and its hard-liners after the August putsch.

Mikhail S. Gorbachev has all but canceled this Thursday's official Revolution Day holiday. Even the resilient president could not abide a display of tanks and other armored vehicles rumbling back into the streets barely 12 weeks after they abetted the coup leaders who had tried to oust him.

Russian President Boris Yeltsin confirmed the decision, and radical Moscow Mayor Gavriil Popov is putting it into effect: No tanks, not banners, and no lineup of leaders atop the tomb of Lenin—whose days in the red granite mausoleum also may be numbered.

"Popov might like to cancel the holiday (altogether), but he can't," said his spokesman, Sergei Stupar. "Only the Russian and Soviet governments can make that decision."

A half-dozen independent groups—some for and some against the celebration of the day in 1917 when the Bolsheviks seized power—say they'll stage their own rallies on Thursday, which for now is still an official holiday.

"This is a holiday for the workers and for the people who fight for the workers," said truck driver Ivan Paltovsky, a leader of the Moscow Council of workers, which plans a rally.

"It's not surprising they want to do away with this holiday," Paltovsky said. "They want to instill capitalist power."

The city tried to juggle competing requests for evening rallies at Red Square, adjacent Manezh Square and other prime locations. But last week the city banned all demonstrations in the city's center for fear of clashes.

"We have to do everything necessary to prevent any problems," Stupar said. Extra police will be deployed just in case, and any rally must be held outside the Garden Ring Road, which circles the Kremlin in central Moscow.

In St. Petersburg, the revolution's birthplace, Mayor Anatoly Sobshak has barred protests. He ordered festivities instead to honor the city's original name that was officially restored Oct. 1.

Eastern's men and women cross country teams did not meet up to their coach's expectations this past weekend as the women finished sixth out of ten teams and the men finished third out of nine teams. Eastern hosted both conference championships.

As far as the men's cross country team is concerned, head coach Neil Moore said his team is not accustomed to finishing a race with a third-place standing. Western Illinois won the Mid-Continent Conference Championship while Youngstown State finished runner-up.

Eric Baron braves the cold temperatures on his way to a second place finish Saturday at the Men's Mid-Continent Cross Country Championship.

"I expected a second or maybe a first. We're not used to finishing third," Moore said. "We lost three out of the four meets to Western. The only time we beat them was on our course. I thought that would be a good omen."

The top performers for the Panthers were seniors Eric Baron who finished second with a 25:10 time and Scott Touchette who crossed the finish line seventh at 25:45.

"Eric Baron did a fantastic job. The winds were fierce and the air was cold. He showed a high degree of courage," Moore said. "At one point I think he was leading. It was a really close race."

The winner of the race was Cleveland State's Bob Marchinko, who finished with a 25:05 mark, five seconds faster than Baron.

Moore said Touchette had somewhat of an off day. Touchette was still recovering from an injury he received during training.

"Under the circumstances, Touchette did an excellent job," Moore said.

Baron and Touchette were named to the All-Conference team.

In the last year of the Gateway Conference for the women's cross country team, coach John Craft was hoping some of the runners on his squad would have run with the same attitude as senior Laurie Mizener.

Craft said although his team improved on last year's eighth-place finish in the conference meet, he thought his team had an outside chance of finishing in the top four. Indiana State won the Gateway Conference Championship while Southwest Missouri State placed second.

Craft said at a team meeting the day before the conference meet that Mizener said she was going to run a good race.

"She was focused and had a good attitude about the meet," Craft said. "I applaud her efforts. She's had a lot of ups and downs. She's been running on a bum knee and I've never heard her complain."

Mizener, who finished the race in ninth place, ran her personal best 18:20 while earning an All-Conference title.

Another runner Craft was pleased with was freshman Jamie Heath. She improved her best time by nine seconds, 19:50.

"My other five (runners) didn't compete very well," Craft said. "We just let down. If other team's can compete, why couldn't we?"

There is a District Four competition on Nov. 16 at Indiana University.

feet, said Rennels.

"I gave it my all," said Rennels. "I felt relaxed and it started out good. I thought I had it, but I just hooked it. Sometimes it's going to go that way."

Southern came back in the third quarter after starting quarterback Brian Downey, who was benched in the first half, got the Saluki offense in gear. On SIU's second drive of the period the Salukis went 80 yards in seven plays and scored on a 16-yard pass from Downey to LaVance Banks.

Southern took the lead for the first time on its next possession when running back Anthony Perry scored his second TD of the afternoon on a one-yard run. Perry rushed for 93 yards on 20 carries to lead his squad.

Senior co-captain Mike Settles said the Panthers had to adjust to stop the Salukis after the two early second half scores.

"Maybe they saw we were running more man-to-man," said Settles, who is battling a pinched nerve in his neck. "But we adjusted and snuffed them at the end. You work so hard; it shouldn't come down to a field goal."

Settles said the Panthers will have to suck it up and go on with the rest of the season at this point, although all playoff possibilities are certainly gone.

Dircks may be out for season

By R.J. GERBER
Staff writer

As if the Panthers' fourth one-point loss of the season wasn't tough enough to stomach, Eastern may have lost one of its defensive starters for the rest of the season.

Sophomore nickel back Eric Dircks injured his knee in the second quarter of the Southern game and was on crutches after the game. He was blocked by a Saluki during John Bookout's 25-yard field goal.

"I hopped over the end and the wingback blocked Jeff Miles and when I landed he hit my knee," he said.

Dircks said his knee was forced inward and an MRI will be performed this week to find out the extent of the injury.

Dircks, from Darien, said there's a possibility his anterior cruciate ligament could be torn.

"If I can play, I'll play," said Dircks. "But we'd rather let it heal. We're looking at the next three years, not just the next three games."

Besides Dircks' injury, defensive lineman Derrick Lane also went down. But his injury isn't quite as severe, he said.

"I just had a deep burner in my right shoulder," said Lane, who had 11 tackles and a fumble recovery against the Salukis. "I got some treatment and I'm planning on going next week."

Lane said his injury was the result of a direct hit he took to his shoulder, which caused pain down the left side of his body.

Bears ice 20-10 victory over Detroit

CHICAGO (AP)- It was cold and blustery, just right for the Chicago Bears. But it took them a while to warm up.

When they finally did, Jim Harbaugh threw a pair of second-half touchdown passes to Wendell Davis and the Bears iced a 20-10 victory over the Detroit Lions on Sunday to take sole possession of first place in the Central Division of the NFC.

"It was Bear weather, it was the dome-factor in reverse," coach Mike Ditka said. "It was nice to see dirty uniforms again."

"It was windy and sometimes the wind would take the passes," said Harbaugh, who completed 17 of 31 for 205 yards. "But that was offset because the field was sloppy and they couldn't get a good pass rush."

Harbaugh's 22-yard touchdown pass to Davis with 26 seconds remaining in the third quarter put the Bears ahead to stay 13-10 and his 8-yard toss to Davis with 3:53 left clinched the outcome.

Kevin Butler added field goals of 21 and 25 yards as the Bears went to 7-2 and the Lions dropped to 6-3.

Davis caught six passes for 98 yards and wasn't bothered by the cold.

"We practice in the cold, it was normal for us," said Davis, who admitted he collided with Tom Waddle and then broke free to catch his second touchdown pass. "The collision was my fault. Tom as the primary receiver but I knocked him out of the play."

Despite winds gusting to 32 miles and a minus-8 wind chill factor, the Lions, who have yet to win outdoors this season, managed a 10-3 halftime lead on an 11-yard touchdown pass from Erik Kramer to Brett Perriman and a 31-yard field goal by Eddie Murray.

"Conditions were not all that bad," said Kramer, who completed 19 of 40 passes for 218 yards. "The wind may have been a factor on a few balls but execution-wise we misfired on a few things."

But the Bears cashed in on some second-half mistakes by the Lions. They recovered a punt that brushed cornerback Melvin Jenkins and turned it into a 25-yard field goal by Butler midway in the third quarter.

And a pass interference call against Jenkins, who tripped Anthony Morgan, resulted in a 26-yard gain and set up the 22-yard touchdown pass from Harbaugh to Davis.

The Bears controlled the ball for 11:29 of the first quarter but managed only a 3-0 lead. Mark Green returned the opening kickoff 29 yards and Neal Anderson ran 19 yards on the first play. A 10-yard pass from Harbaugh to Anderson set up a 21-yard field goal by Butler.

On their second possession, the Lions marched 80 yards in 11 plays and scored on an 11-yard pass from Kramer to Perriman to take a 7-3 lead. Kramer completed four other passes for 54 yards in the drive.

A 13-yard pass from Kramer to Willie Green was the key play that set up a 31-yard field goal by Murray on the final play of the half to give the Lions a 10-3 lead.

Redskins remain NFL's only unbeaten

By The ASSOCIATED PRESS

Sure, the Washington Redskins are good. Otherwise they wouldn't be 9-0.

Still, it takes a little luck to be the only undefeated team in the NFL, and the Redskins had plenty Sunday.

Washington watched Houston's Ian Howfield miss a 33-yard field goal try with one second left in regulation, then beat the Oilers 16-13 on Chip Lohmiller's 41-yard field goal 4:01 into overtime.

The Redskins are off to the best start in team history. Houston, which began the game tied with Buffalo for the best record in the AFC, lost for only the second time in nine games.

"I'm having as much fun as a coach can have," the Redskins' Joe Gibbs said. "It doesn't get you anywhere, but it's still there. It's the first time I've ever been here in pro ball. It is something to cherish."

Houston tied the game at RFK Stadium with 1:42 left in the fourth quarter on Lorenzo White's 1-yard touchdown run. The Oilers got the ball back when Brian Mitchell fumbled the ensuing kick, but Howfield missed a chance to win it.

Last week, Howfield missed three extra points in a 35-3 victory over Cincinnati.

"You never know until it's over," Oiler quarterback Warren Moon said. "Our kicker has had some problems lately, so you never know."

In overtime, though, it was Moon who caused the team problems.

Darrell Green made his league-leading fifth interception, picking off Warren Moon's pass at the Houston 31. That set up Lohmiller, who did what Howfield did not.

"Maybe the difference," Lohmiller said, "was the power of positive thinking."

In other games, Atlanta stunned San Francisco 17-14 on a 44-yard touchdown reception by Michael Haynes with one second left in the game, Cincinnati defeated Cleveland 23-21, Buffalo downed New England 22-17, the New York Jets defeated Green Bay 19-16 in overtime and Minnesota topped Tampa Bay 28-13.

Salukis hand Panthers fourth one-point loss

By R.J. GERBER
Staff writer

CARBONDALE — As Dan Wegrzyn walked slowly off the turf

Dircks possibly out for remainder of season. Page 11 of McAndrew Stadium Saturday, the senior was reflecting on yet another one-point setback in Eastern's season, which has been full of disappointments.

The Panthers, 3-5 overall and 1-3 in Gateway Conference action, were dealt a 31-30 defeat by the Salukis of Southern Illinois — Eastern's fourth one-point loss of the season. Southern improved to 7-3 and 4-2.

Eastern had an opportunity to win the game with 10 seconds remaining, but sophomore place-kicker Darrell Rennels' 35-yard field goal attempt was wide to the left. For Wegrzyn, who is one of 19 seniors on the squad, it was an all too familiar ending as he and senior defensive lineman Joe Remke took time out to reflect.

"It's tough," said Wegrzyn, who recorded a game-high 17 tackles. "It's our last go-around and we just sat there. It was hard to believe. We thought we'd take a moment and think about all that's happened.

"Joe said some stuff after the game and we want to win the next three games so we can still salvage a winning season. Our playoff chances are gone for sure."

The Salukis came back from a 22-10 halftime deficit to beat the Panthers and keep their league title hopes alive. But Eastern almost came back after falling behind for the second time, 31-28, when sophomore quarterback Jeff Thorne hit tight end Tim Moore for an apparent go-ahead touchdown with about eight minutes remaining. But the Panthers were flagged for a clip and lost the ball on downs with 7:42 remaining.

After the teams traded punts, the Panther defense held and forced Saluki punter, Dave Wargo, to punt from inside his own five-yard line. Eastern's Ray McElroy broke through and blocked the kick, but the ball bounced out of the end zone for a safety, making the score 31-30 SIU.

Eastern took the free kick and fullback Broc Montgomery took a hand off and raced for 22 yards to the Saluki 31. Thorne then handed to Jamie Jones on two successive plays to get the Panthers to the 25. Jones ended the day with 142 yards rushing, including a 53-yard touchdown scamper on the Panthers' third play from scrimmage.

After converting a fourth-and-one situation on a run by Bill Korosec, the Panthers ran three more plays before Rennels' 35-yard try. The ball was long enough, but wide by about two

Spikers claim first Gateway win

By KEITH FARROLL
Staff writer

After dropping four straight Gateway Conference matches, the Lady Panther volleyball team finally came through with its first conference victory this weekend over the Bradley Braves.

Eastern beat the the Braves despite a slow start on Saturday. The Lady Panthers, who are now 11-17, lost their first game 11-15, but came back to win the next three games 15-5, 15-6, 15-4 to lift its conference standing to 1-4.

Bradley dropped to 1-5 in Gateway Conference matches.

Sophomore Susie Green led the Lady Panthers with a 17-kill and 22-dig match. Juniors Beth Foster had 14 kills and Shelly Stuckwisch had 12 kills to aid in the winning cause.

Ralston said she was pleased to see her hitters making fewer mistakes.

"We had 23 errors, 13 of them were off blocks, couple others were illegal hits. There were not too many hitting errors, that's a positive. Half of our errors were in the first game," Ralston said.

Sophomore Shannon Casey was another key to the victory over the Braves. Casey got to see all the setting action in Saturday's match. She has been setting ever since the final three games of the match on Friday against Western Illinois.

The Lady Panthers dropped

Shannon Casey

their first two games in the match against Western. Ralston, then, decided the team needed a change, so she put replaced sophomore Amy Van Eekeren with Casey.

"I was surprised, but I went out there and did what I could," Casey said.

Eastern won the next two games with Casey in the line-up. Casey played the whole match against Bradley.

"Amy and Shannon have always been really close. Shannon did a nice job. She had a slow start (in the Bradley match), but everyone did," Ralston said.

"A little added motivation was that Butler beat us last year for their only win in the conference. A couple players had that in mind," Ralston said. "It's nice to finally get a conference win," Ralston said.

"I think everyone really wanted to win. Everyone was on and everyone was up for the game. We were just sick of losing," Casey said. "I think this is the best we played all year. It (the win) has given us a lot of confidence. Hopefully it will carry over to the other conference matches."

Friday, the Western Illinois Westerwinds won an exciting five game match. Western won the first two games 5-15, 5-15, but the Lady Panthers after a line-up change won the next two games 7-15, 6-15. In the rally match, Western Illinois won 17-15.

"In that last game, we were up 9-5 and 12-9, then we had a couple errors and then it was 12-12 and 13-13. It was a disappointing loss," Ralston said.

She added Western beat Southwest Missouri State University in five games and they also beat Wichita State in four games last weekend. She said the Westerwinds were have been in close matches before and may have been more prepared for the tight match against her team after coming two close wins.

Green posted up 14 kills and 22 digs while sophomore Kim Traub had a 14 kills and six blocks to lead Eastern. Junior Beth Foster had 10 kills and four blocks and Casey had 44 assists and three aces in the losing cause.

Swimmers fare well at Indianapolis invite

By RYAN GIUSTI
Staff writer

On Saturday the women's and men's swimming teams competed in the four-team Indianapolis Invitational and the women left with two wins, while the men's team registered one win.

Eastern went up against Valparaiso, Indianapolis University, and the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee on both the men's and women's side. The Lady Panthers beat Valparaiso 157-132 and Indianapolis 159-144 but lost to Wisconsin-Milwaukee by the score of 163.5-114.5.

"I did not feel that we swam exceptionally well as a team," Eastern coach Ray Padovan said.

Lee Singer and Kim Beasey turned in some key performances for the Lady Panthers in Indianapolis. Singer recorded a 100-meter backstroke time of 1:05.9 and a 100 freestyle time of :56.3. Singer was also the overall 50 freestyle winner with a time of :25.3. Beasey was the overall 200 butterfly winner with a time of 2:14.2. She also competed in the 500 freestyle and 200 individual medley.

Delynn Wirth also had a good performance in the 200 backstroke with a time of 2:29.8

The men's team managed only one win on Saturday beating Valparaiso 100-95. The Panthers lost to Indianapolis 191-114, and were downed by Wisconsin Milwaukee 236-63.

"I thought we would swim better than we did," Padovan said. "We were not mentally sharp."

The Panthers had some good individual performances. In the 100 butterfly competition Bill Costello turned in an impressive time of :55.3. Jeff Moll swam to a time of 10:33.1 in the 1000 freestyle competition, while Shawn O'Neill swam a :50.6 in the 100 freestyle.

"We came out as good as we could," Padovan said. "The competition was exceptionally good."

Padovan still sees room for improvement on both the men's and women's teams.

"We were not real sharp on technical skills," Padovan said. "I do not know if we were tired or what, but at the level of competition we are at we shouldn't have these kind of lapses."

But Padovan is still optimistic about Eastern's chances this season.

"We are way ahead of last year's team," Padovan said. "We are well on our way to another good season."

Eastern will host the Panther Invite on Friday and Saturday. The Panther Invite will bring six schools to Eastern to compete in a men's and a women's meet.

Eastern won the Invite last year and hopes to defend its title. According to Padovan Evansville will provide the most competition.

"This is a big meet for us," Padovan said. "It is something we have been pointing towards."
