Summer grad participation to increase

By DYLAN FRANKEN
Staff writer

More summer graduates will show up to toss their caps this year than in recent years, according to Eastern's special events director.

Of approximately 900 candidates for graduation who are eligible for degrees during Eastern's summer commencement, 400 are expected to participate in the ceremonies, said Director Mark Haines. Nearly 50 percent participation is an increase from the usual 33 percent, he said.

Commencement is to be held at 2 p.m. on Sunday, Aug. 6, in Lantz Gymnasium, said Mark Haines, Eastern's director for special events.

There will be a number of speakers at the commencement ceremony, Haines said, including Eastern President David Jorns, who will give the charge and award degrees to the graduates.

Other speakers will include Mack Hollowell, Board of Governors Universities vice chairman and trustee, Jason Anselment, student body vice president for public affairs, and 1988 Eastern graduate Jacqueline Clapp, Eastern Alumni Association president.

Those to receive special recognition during the commencement ceremony will be 1995 Distinguished Faculty Award recipient Billy Heyduck, a recently retired professor of art, and Joyce Felstehausen, a professor of technology who has been a member of Eastern's faculty since 1976.

Other honorees are members of Eastern's Honors Programs, said Haines.

Members of the Honors Programs who will lead the graduates during the processional and recessional are Dan Alber, Jason Anselment, Jessica Borah, Kate Baker, Maureen Cerven, Amy Davis, Donna DeLay, Chris Freeland, Leeann Hochmuth, David Lair, Heather Lair, Jen O'Brien, Jen Schmidt, Barbi Smyser and Jackie Urquhart.

Participants are allowed seven tickets for the commencement ceremony, Haines said.

Tickets can be picked up from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. through Friday, Aug. 4, in the Commencement Office, † See Grads Page 2

New dean brings world of experience

By JACKIE NEES
Staff writer

Eastern's new dean of the Graduate School and Research takes office with extensive international experience as a former Fulbright lecturer and professor abroad.

Thomas Gladsky, who took office July 1, replaces Larry Williams, who retired after 31 years at Eastern and 17 years as Graduate School dean.

As a Fulbright lecturer and former professor at both Jagiellonian University in Krakow, Poland, and at the Budapest University of Economic Sciences in Hungary, Gladsky brings a wealth of international experience to the job.

"I hope to help the university create a coherent plan for international programs and to continue to make the graduate programs unique," he said. The duties of the post include responsibility for graduate programs, research, faculty development, and Eastern's international programs.

Also included in Gladsky's duties is the intensive English program, which helps international students who are not enrolled at Eastern.

"The high international programs potential and the fact that expanding these programs is high on University priorities" were two reasons that Gladsky gave for his interest in the position.

"We are really looking forward to utilizing Dr. Gladsky's experience in both international affairs and in graduate studies and research," said Terry Weidner, acting provost and vice president for academic affairs. "As a Fulbright lecturer with over 30 publications to his credit, he brings to Eastern a background that closely matches the focus of his new position."

Coming from a rural area in Missouri, Gladsky said that the move to Charleston was not much of a change.

Gladsky was a professor and director of graduate studies for the department of English at Central Missouri State University in Warrensburg before accepting the Eastern post.

This summer he served as vice president of the Polish American Historical Association and was co-director for a conference entitled

Times a wastin' University announces hours for library, books

Library hours during finals week will be 8 a.m. to 9:45 p.m. Wednesday through Friday, 9 a.m. to 4:45 p.m. Saturday and Sunday 2-4:45 p.m. For more information concerning library hours contact the Booth Library hours hot line at 581-6423.

The university ballroom will not be open for studying, as it is during the fall and spring semesters. The vending lounge, however, will be open from 7 a.m. to 11 p.m. for students to study for finals.

Textbook Rental Services, located next to Pemberton Hall, will be open for summer book returns 8 a.m. to 7 p.m. Aug. 7 and 8 and 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Aug. 9.

All textbooks must be returned by 4 p.m. on Aug 9 to avoid a fine.

For those students enrolled in the fall semester, campus hours are as follows:

Students who registered by July 29 may pick up their official fall schedules in the University Ballroom in the Martin Luther King Jr. Union on Aug. 18 from 8:30 a.m. to 3 p.m., Aug. 19 from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. and Aug. 21 from 8:30 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Students should enter through the east door.

Any questions regarding fall schedules should be directed to the Registration Office, located in the McAfee basement or call 581-3831.

Books for fall semester classes may be picked up at Textbook Rental Services. Textbook Rental hours are from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. on Aug. 17 and 18, 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Aug. 19, 1-4:30 p.m. Aug. 21, 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. Aug. 21 through Aug. 24., and 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Aug. 25.

Students should bring their schedules and student ID cards when picking up books.

Gladsky plans to aggressively pursue the development of Eastern's graduate programs, including developing new programs and revising current ones.

Gladsky's 1992 book, "Princes Peasants and Other Polish Selves: Ethnicity in American Literature," won the Oscar Halecki Prize as the best book in the field of Polish Studies.

Gladsky received a master's degree in English from the University of Arizona and a doctorate in American Literature from the University of North Carolina in Greensboro.

Gladsky's immediate interests include improving his tennis game and "lemon pledging his conference table."

School day still starts in silence

ATLANTA (AP) - A federal judge upheld Georgia's law requiring a minute of silent meditation at the start of each school day.

U.S. District Judge Frank Mays Hull ruled Monday in the case of teacher Brian Bown, who was fired from South Gwinnett High School last year after refusing to hold the moment of silence and walking out of the school.

Bown then challenged the law in federal court.

"We will be appealing," his lawyer, Steve Leibel, said Tuesday. "We believe the statute promotes school prayer, entangles the government in school prayer."

During a February hearing, Leibel argued that legislators' remarks during the debate over the 1994 law showed clearly that it was intended to promote religion in violation of the Constitution.

"If it looks like a duck and quacks like a duck it is a duck. They were quacking like ducks for school prayer," Leibel said.

But Phil Hartley, an attorney for the Gwinnett County schools who defended the law along with Georgia's attorney general, said the remarks by a small number of legislators during the House debate were meaningless.

"On its face, the act says the statute is not intended to be ... a religious exercise," he said.

Skeleton found in tub

CHICAGO (AP) - A human skeleton encased in concrete in a bathtub was found in the basement of a vacant apartment building.

Building rehabber and landscaper Chris Archer, who found the body Monday, said he smelled a "very, very bad odor" last week when a cleaning crew turned the bathtub over out of curiosity.

"I told the owner there was something dead in there," Archer said, adding that he suspected the tub might contain human remains.

"Who in their right mind fills a bathtub with concrete?" He and building owner Tony Hearn began chiseling at the concrete Monday.

Creature feature to leave students Quakin'

After a two week break from classes, Eastern students can kick off the fall semester with a night of food, fun and "The Creature from the Black Lagoon" at Quakin' the Quad, compliments of University Board Special Events.

A popular component of Panther Preview, Quakin' the Quad returns to the South Quad Aug. 19, with a line up of music, games and food.

The event will feature a variety of late night attractions including games, entertainment, live music and food. Giveaways will occur throughout the night.

Prepare to quake the quad at 7 p.m. when Minneapolis rock alternative band "Delilah" kicks off the night.

After 8 p.m., Craft Depot workers will be painting faces, and others will sketch caricatures. The seated gyroscope will be available for rides.

At 9 p.m., the game show, Punchline, which is a combination of stand-up comedy and audience participation, hits the quad.

Hypnotist "Incredible

Boris" takes the stage at 10:30 p.m. followed by comedian, Hammerhead at 11:30 p.m.

As midnight lurks, the "Creature from the Black Lagoon" will take students on a 3D journey through the lagoon.

The night wraps up at 1 a.m.

In case of rain, Quakin' will be held in the McAfee Gym. The event is paid for through student fees by the University Board and is open to everyone.

New chair makes history

Anita Shelton has been selected as the ninth person and the first woman to chair Eastern's History Department.

Shelton has been an associate professor at Eastern since 1988 and specializes in Russian and East European History.

Some of the responsibilities of her new position include staffing, scheduling and curriculum development.

Shelton said that among the challenges of her new position will be "acting as a go-between for administration and faculty because a chair is considered both."

The major strength of the History

Department is the faculty, said Shelton.

"We have a very energetic, talented, diverse faculty in this department," she said.

Before working at Eastern, Shelton taught at Seattle University.

She received her bachelor's, master's and doctorate degrees from the University of Washington.

Among her more recent publications is a work on Poland entitled Eastern European Nationalism in the Twentieth Century, which was published in April 1995.

Alarming incident occurs at University Court apartments

Police responded to a fire alarm at the Elliott Building of University Court early last Wednesday morning.

Upon arrival, it was noted that the second floor alarm had been activated. A burnt odor was present coming from the west end of the second floor hallway. Several burned spots were also noted on the hallway carpet, according to the police report.

Seven bottle rockets were seized in the incident.

However, no one was able to provide any information regarding the incident.

In other reports:

- A tampon dispenser in a Student

Services Building restroom was damaged.

Only the key lock lever was bent.

Damage to the lock was estimated at $25.

- A basketball camp participant reported $25 missing from his room in Taylor Hall.

• A video game machine and a pinball machine in Stevenson Hall were broken into. No fingerprints were able to be taken from the machines.

Bright minds should avoid T.V. Rangers

Once upon a time in the news room, there was a sports editor who told a funny story.

Some of the details aren't really important, but the punch line is great, so I'll paraphrase.

Sports editor goes home for the weekend.

Sports editor goes to the mall.

Sports editor checks out bookstore.

With his astute journalistic ear, sports editor overhears father-daughter conversation.

(Here's where the story gets good, so I'll fill in the details.)

This certain father was checking out a book in an appropriate father-like fashion when his young, energetic daughter ran up with a book on the Power Rangers.

She proceeded to go on and on about how much she liked the Power Rangers and the names and specialties of each one. Then she asked the inevitable: Daddy, will you buy it for me?

The usual parent-child bantering began. No. Please. No. Please. No.

Finally the child asked, "Daddy, why don't you like the Power Rangers?"

The father then replied rather matter of factly, "I have a moral obligation to society to not allow you to grow up to be a mindless idiot."

Honest to God, this is what he said, according to the sports editor.

Chalk one cool point up for dear old Dad!

Sarah Drury

"Do you want a whole generation of children to grow up to be mindless idiots."

Finally, words of wisdom that get to the bottom of the Power Rangers question.

No, it's not about violence. No, it's not about impressionable young children.

But yes! It's about stupidity!!!

In an age when computer technology and advanced special effects have become an art-work, how could such a badly made production become so popular?

More parents need to take a stand against such inanity and refuse to buy into the Power Rangers phenomenon.

I know your kids are cute and it's so hard to tell them no, but this is about the future of America!

Do you want a whole generation of children to grow up to be mindless idiots!

And this isn't only about children.

I know several college-age people who watch the Power Rangers and other garbage as religiously as a three-year old watches Sesame Street (a pretty cool show as far as I'm concerned).

Stop the insanity!!!

Take a stand and turn off that set when those high-kicking, plot-lacking episodes grace the small screen.

And whatever you do, please don't tell me about your trip to go see the movie.

Warbler staff exemplifies Generation X

Perhaps it's time for the Warbler to change its name. "The lazy, self-centered Generation Xer," might be more appropriate.

But God forbid that anyone take the name of the 20-somethings in vain. Oh, no! They will be the first to tell you that they are the generation that refuses to follow in the footsteps of their jaded parents. They are the generation that will take action because there is nothing in the world that can take away their enthusiasm, their optimism or their golden ideals.

What a crock.

The fact is that the Warbler has become the perfect symbol of every thing that older generations believe about the Gen Xers.

The Warbler '94 was slated to be handed out in the final weeks of the Spring '94 semester. But instead, it wasn't handed out until the summer when only a handful of students were here to enjoy it. To follow one blunder with another, there was never an organized method of making sure that the students who paid for the books actually received them.

So the books sat in boxes by the hundreds where they were used as door stops, table levelers and scratch paper. Finally the books were disposed of this summer when they were handed out - free of charge - to incoming freshmen at new student orientation.

So if you didn't get your book, don't worry about it because nobody at the Warbler really cares. And the sad fact is that it's about to happen again.

Warbler '95 has yet to be completed, and the staff that is responsible is nowhere to be found.

Actually, that is not true. They graduated and found themselves jobs, essentially thumbing their collective nose at the student body. And since the majority of the student body is apparently more concerned with which bar cards the hardest, it is doubtful that the Warbler staff and advisers will ever be held accountable.

That doesn't sound like lazy, self-centered Generation Xers. Does it?

Reform needed for greedy lobbyist on Capital hill

Dear Editor,

The United States Senate is currently considering a lobbyist reform package, including a strict ban on gifts from lobbyists to members of Congress.

The vote on this fundamental reform is a crucial test of how independent the members of Congress really are.

There are more than 13,000 lobbyists in Washington. Every day gift-bearing lobbyists roam the halls of Congress hunting for special breaks for their big-money clients.

Free trips, expensive lunches, tickets to sporting events and lavish gifts to Senators and Representatives are the tools of many special interest lobbyists. The Congress has refused to ban these free handouts.

There's something wrong in Washington when members of Congress can talk about cutting school lunches for kids, but won't cut free lunches for themselves from lobbyists.

Your turn

The Senate should adopt the bipartisan reform proposal to ban gifts, free lunches and free trips from lobbyists to members of Congress and their staffs.

It should reject the so-called McConnell plan which would allow lobbyists to give gifts of up to $100 per day to any member of Congress (or $36,500 per year), and permits Senators and Representatives to continue to accept free travel, such as ski trips, golf tournaments and tennis resort vacations.

Under the McConnell plan, a lobbyist could take a member of Congress to a Broadway show on Saturday, a ball game on Sunday, and then fly the Senator and his family to a golf resort on Monday!

This is the kind of monkey business the American people want to end right away.

Consumers and taxpayers are outspent every day by lobbyists representing insurance companies, utilities, banks, telecommunications giants and every sort of big corporation looking for loopholes and special treatment.

A strict prohibition on gifts to Washington politicians from the lobbyists will give consumers a stronger voice in our nation's capital.

Sincerely,
Pat Quinn

Former Illinois State Treasurer

In a Pig's eye

Cartoonist calls it quits...again

By Rich Bird

Who'd have thought that when I walked into the offices of The Daily Eastern News in November of 1990, I would have hung around for so long.

But hang around I did, and to pass the time, I did a little drawing. Maybe you've seen some of it.

Funny, but it seems that my name has become more recognizable than my face. I couldn't begin to number the times that I've introduced myself and had people point in wide-eyed disbelief. "You're the guy! The pig guy!" is the usual response.

But I'd be a liar if I didn't admit to loving every minute of it. Obviously it's kept me working for The News in one respect or another. And as much as I tried to give it up in the interest of actually becoming a student, I had to keep coming back.

Well, this is finally it.

The fact is, there are only so many courses one can take before they finally give you the ceremonial boot. And if all goes well, I should be throwing my cap in the air on Sunday.

So it is with pleasure that I've accepted this space to give thanks to all of my friends, fellow newsmen, instructors, and the people of Taiwan for making this award...er, Ahem!

But seriously, I really do owe a large debt of gratitude to a great number of people that have fostered and encouraged me in my silly little endeavor. From those who analyzed and critiqued my work to those who just thought it was funny (and those that absolutely hated it!). I think that they know who they are and they have my thanks.

A special thanks to the gentleman who called me a communist pig. It was the best idea I never had. My pig thanks you too.

So I'm off to the real world to try and be as good as everybody keeps telling me I am. I may never achieve that goal, but I'll certainly have fun trying. Thank you, and see you all in the funnies.

Blues trade another player

ST. LOUIS (AP) - The St. Louis Blues traded Doug Lidster back to the New York Rangers on Monday for his former defensive partner, 36-year-old Jay Wells.

Wells, a 16-year veteran, teamed with Lidster on the backline for part of the regular season and most of the playoffs during the Rangers' run to the Stanley Cup championship in 1994.

Wells, who also has played for Los Angeles, Philadelphia and Buffalo, scored two goals and had seven assists and 36 penalty minutes last season with New York.

In his prime, Wells racked up a lot of penalty minutes, including 226 with Los Angeles in the 1985-86 season.

"Jay is a tough, intelligent competitor," Blues coach and general manager Mike Keenan said. "His leadership will be an asset to our club." Lidster came to the Blues after the 1994 season along with Esa Tikkanen from the Rangers in exchange for Petr Nedved in the deal that completed the compensation package for Keenan's services.

Lidster had two goals, seven assists and 12 penalty minutes last season for St.

Louis.

Since Keenan took over last year, the Blues have undergone a nearly complete makeover. Many of the players acquired through free agency and trades are in their 30s, and several are former Rangers who were part of the championship team coached by Keenan, before he left in a contract dispute to take over in St. Louis.

In the past month alone, the Blues have acquired free agents Dale Hawerchuk, Brian Noonan, Grant Fuhr and Geoff Courtnall, all in their 30s.

Let's get ready to rumble

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) - Two Arkansas Travelers players were suspended indefinitely after attacking a pair of heckling Wichita Wranglers fans in the stands.

Witnesses at Monday night's AA game said Dmitri Young, 22, punched a man and Keith Jones, 24, hit another man in the back with a bat. Neither of the two fans requested medical attention.

Witnesses said at least one of the fans kept calling Young, who is 6-foot-2 and weighs 230 pounds, "Pork Chop." "That was borderline ugly," Texas League president Tom Kayser said about the entire incident. He immediately suspended the players indefinitely.

Kayser said he spent the last three innings behind home plate and heard the heckling. But he said the fans' conduct didn't excuse the behavior of the Arkansas players.

An off-duty Wichita police detective who was helping with security at the game interviewed both players and said it will be up to the district attorney whether to file charges.

Young and Jones, both outfielders, left on their team bus after the game, which Arkansas won 6-4.

Travelers general manager Mike Ramsey said the heckling was going on for about seven innings.

"It was pretty vicious. The fan probably crossed the line, but (Young and Jones) crossed a line, too," he said, adding that he planned to talk to the Cardinals organization today.

Blues all tangled up

I received a mixed bag of feedback on the column I wrote for Monday's sports page.

Some thought I was completely justified in my bashing of Blues' coach, general manager and Hitler-esque dictator Mike Keenan. Others thought I sold out my loyalties to the Blues.

Let me say this—I don't like the changes Keenan has made.

Now let me tell you why. The Stanley Cup does have a definite chance of spending time in the Keil Center. But at what cost?

So far the cost has been talented young players who will realize their dreams of the winning the Stanley Cup in a different uniform.

To fill in the holes created by losing talent such as Craig Janney and Brendan Shanahan, Keenan has signed aging veterans like Esa Tikkanen, Greg Gilbert, Donald Dufresne and the list goes on. I'm surprised Keenan hasn't tried to coax Gordie Howe out of retirement.

The point is Keenan wants another Cup so bad he can taste it. He has single-handedly destroyed the Blues so he can get his precious cup.

And the really sad part of the whole deal is the fact that these veterans will split the scene in a year or so regardless of whether Keenan gets his cup.

Keenan will also bug out in a year or so, leaving the Blues with all of their young talent playing for other teams.

He can begin his rampage of team destroying and fan alienating again in another city.

To those who think I sold out my loyalties to the Blues, take a good look at Emperor Keenan and his irresponsible decimation of an up-and-coming team.

To those who supported my opinion, I thank you with a saddened heart. I hope that together we can see the Blues come full circle and once again become a hopelessly mediocre, yet lovable, band of rag-tag misfits.

New coaches set for fall

As the fall semester nears, the athletic department continues to search for replacements for coaches who have flown the coop.

Tom Akers has been appointed to the head coaching job for the men's track team. Akers filled the position after Neil Moore retired in December of 1994.

After taking control of the team, Akers coached the indoor team to a Mid-Continent Conference title in February. He then followed up with an outdoor conference title in April.

"Tom came in on short notice in January and obviously did an excellent job," said Bob McBee, Eastern's athletic director.

Akers was named Mid-Con track Coach of the Year for both the indoor and outdoor teams.

The athletic department also hired Eastern's first assistant volleyball coach.

Glenn Kiriyaama was named to the position which takes effect August 1.

Kiriyaama has previous coaching experience at Rutgers University-Newark, New Mexico State and Stephen F. Austin University.

"Because of his experience at three Division I institutions, Glenn has great experience at this level," said Betty Ralston, head volleyball coach.

The new assistant coach will allow for an expansion of recruiting and more individualized instruction during practices, Ralston added.

Also on the list of gaining new coaches are the football, soccer and softball teams.

The football team gained a defensive secondary coach in John Bowers. Bowers was selected from more than 150 applicants.

"John brings a wealth of experience and knowledge from both the I-AA and Division I levels," said Bob Spoo, Eastern's head football coach.

After losing head soccer coach Cizo Mosnia, Troy Fabiano was named acting men's soccer coach. A national search continues for a permanent replacement to fill the vacancy.

And finally, the search continues to find a replacement for Beth Perine, head softball coach, who resigned in June.

As the fall semester rushes forward be prepared to see new faces on the sidelines for almost every Panther sport.

Lung cancer hampers Mickey Mantle's recovery

DALLAS (AP) - Cancer has spread to Mickey Mantle's lungs, the baseball great and his doctor said today.

"About two weeks ago doctors said they found a couple of spots of cancer in my lungs," Mantle said on ABC's "Good Morning America." "Now, I'm taking chemotherapy to take care of the cancer." Dr. Robert Goldstein, Mantle's transplant surgeon, told ABC that after a "routine follow-up, cancer had spread to his lungs in couple of spots. This is a new problem unknown to us and it is beginning to show some growth." Goldstein said that Mantle would not have gotten a liver transplant on June 8 if they knew he had cancer.

Goldstein was, however, optimistic for Mantle's recovery.

"I think we'll see him rebound and give him aggressive therapy." A half hour before ABC aired its report, Baylor University Medical Center said "a significant new development" in the medical condition of baseball great Mickey Mantle was to be announced.

One of Mantle's doctors said Monday night that Mantle returned to the hospital last Friday after undergoing a debilitating chemotherapy treatment, which did not suggest that his liver condition was worsening.

On Monday night, Dr. Daniel DeMarco said Mantle's team of doctors will offer a "complete progress report" on his condition at a later date.

DeMarco made no mention of "a significant new development" Monday night in a telephone interview with The Associated Press.

Mantle, 63, who underwent a liver transplant June 8 after he was diagnosed with a malignant tumor, was readmitted to Baylor University Medical Center on Friday, said DeMarco, Mantle's gastroenterologist.

Mantle has been undergoing a series of chemotherapy treatments that include the use of adriamycin, which is a 30-minute infusion treatment, and cis-platinum, a nine-hour procedure, the doctor said.

On Friday, the former New York Yankees star had a second cis-platinum treatment, which causes such unpleasant side effects as nausea, vomiting and weakness. Mantle wanted to remain in the hospital throughout the weekend to rest, but he likely will be released Tuesday, DeMarco said.

"He tolerated it less well this time," DeMarco said of the treatment. However, doctors were not characterizing the situation as a setback, he added.

"He (was) doing real well ... when I saw him just a few hours ago," DeMarco said. "He may very well be going home (this) morning." Mantle was discharged June 28.
