SECOND PARTY WELL ATTENDED

Saturday evening, the second of the weekly school parties was held in the gymnasium under the direction of Miss Dunn, Recreation director for the summer term.

Introductions were made among the couples by a lucky hand-shake. Ten leaders held dimes, and to the twenty-second person who shook hands with them was given the dime.

A second game to begin the party was an automobile slogan race. To the person naming the most cars from their slogans, was awarded a prize.

The dance was started and partners for the first dance were chosen by a grand march. During the evening three plays were given by Mary Margaret Sumness and Kermit Dehl.

Two hundred students attended the dance. Mr. and Mrs. Widger, Mr. and Mrs. Beu, and Miss Dunn were chaperones.

The News wishes to join the faculty and student body in expressing its sympathy to Misses Ruby and Pearl Gunn, who attended E. I. last year, on the death of their father, Mr. John I. Gunn of Arcola which occurred Saturday at the Mayo Brothers Hospital, Rochester, Minnesota, following a minor operation.

COLLEGE BAND PLAYS FRIDAY AT DANVILLE

The E. I. band—no, not the E. I. band—the E. I.—Charleston—Mattoon collection of musicians and semi-musicians, about twenty in number, was transported to Danville, Illinois, last Friday by the Charleston Chamber of Commerce. They were to represent, as best they could, the hardships and discordant suffering which those V. F. W.'s underwent overseas. (V. F. W. stands for "Veterans of Foreign Wars"—not "very fine women"—although the Auxiliary did add greatly to the attractiveness of the parade.)

The C. C. C. not only furnished transportation, but they answered promptly and adequately the question, "Where do we eat?" The sumptuous dinner at the Avoldorf hotel was greatly enjoyed by everyone, even the five ambitious members of the company who explored the city while the others ate and then strolled nonchalantly into the dining-room near the end of the meal.

Then came the march through the city. It is believed by some that there were two streets missed by the parade. The writer doubts the validity of this, however. Be that as it may, it was a grand procession, with bands, soldiers, sailors, drum corps, and then more soldiers and sailors.

The parade lasted until eight o'clock, and the band members were drifting into Charleston from 9:00 P. M. until four o'clock Saturday morning. The description of this trip may truthfully end with the proverbial statement, "A good time was had by all."

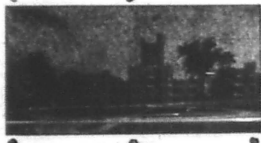

Mr. Koch spent the week-end with Burl Ives in Newton.

Sidney Courad of Cowden visited with Wilkin Sims during the past week.

"POWER AND SERVICE"

"For power and service." (President Eliot). This phrase not only expresses a utilitarian view of education, but in the true American spirit of haste it has tended to emphasize the desire not only for "results"—that is "practical" results—but immediate ones. It has emphasized our belief that "culture is either something to help one in his economic career or else it is a mere fardangle ornament for those who wish to "put on side" not something vital in one's own spiritual growth."

Thus James Truslow Adams in an article in the June number of the forum estimates President Eliot's idea that the end of an education is power and service.

Again quoting from the same source, "The American has no use for the old Greek saying 'All good things are hard.' He wants knowledge and wisdom without striving. His education has taught him no other path or ideal. If knowledge and culture are only for 'power and service' why not buy them 'canned' if it is possible—much as he stops at the service station and fills up with gas."

Especially is all of this apt to be true in a Teachers College. There the students go for one or two years—some four years, that they may prepare to become immediately independent. Two year courses of necessity largely include only those subjects which the student will be expected to know something of when he goes out to teach. In the main, to the average student no new field of interest is opened—because there is no time. It is all a mad rush to obtain a teaching certificate that he may earn some money and later come back and finish."

How many doctors go to a medical college from high school—study for a year or two how to roll pills successfully and then leave college, and practice to earn some money and later "go back and finish"? How successful would they be in persuading citizens to intrust their health to them to "learn on"? None would even go back to college on money earned through this method.

And yet—what else does the average teacher do but this? He reviews—in college—his arithmetic, grammar, geography, and history, and takes two or three terms of practice teaching in which he does what the critic tells him to do, largely by rote. Then he accepts a teaching position, and takes up the responsibility of guiding a group of from twenty to thirty children through the most impressive stage of their lives. It is up to him to see that they learn the fundamentals of the three R's—and form the ideals or standards if life which are necessary if they are to become useful people. Again the utilitarian idea! And—all the while the young teacher is calculating the possibility of him being in a better position next year. This calculating is in perfect fairness to the teacher—but what about the pupils? Can a teacher give his best to any project when he is not heartily interested in it, and is wondering constantly what more profitable situation he can get into? Such may be true in infrequent instances. Why isn't teaching more popularly regarded a profession the same as in medicine, law and engineering? One reason is that the qualifications for certificates have been too low. Very rarely does a student spend six or eight years preparing to be a physician, practice two or three years, and then desert his profession to sell bonds. His M. D. was too dearly purchased. But one can afford, if unable financially to go to a professional school immediately after leaving high school, to go to a Teachers College for two years, teach three or four years, and then do what he prefers professionally. All of this is very convenient for the young enthusiast who is stricken financially—but it has been, and is, disastrous to education. Students are kept from their countless opportunities from the first grade through the last. Facts they should learn in the first five grades are taught them in college! Why?—Because of inefficient teaching—really lack of training on the part of the teacher. As Adams, in his article, concludes "We are giving the educational leaders our money. Are they giving us national ideals and culture?"

PAGE PANDORA

From the number of accounts of June weddings among E. I. alumni and former students to be found in this issue of the News, it would almost seem that the college has been a matrimonial agency.

However there is yet a hope to be entertained for our students. One little E. I. girl remarked that being married in June was too conventional—and that she was going to wait until that thirteenth month was added—the one to be named Leisure. And another thing that she's waiting for is a millionaire so that she can remain the other twelve months after the thirteenth one.

Here's to you, little ambitious!

One professor at E. I. says that he finds here the most humble set of students that he has ever found. They seem to be afraid to call their lives their own."

RIDE IN BUGGIES

Bloomington, Ind.—Springtime is here and students at the University of Indiana are using horseshoes and buggies regularly. Co-eds have been forbidden to ride in automobiles at night unless their parents are with them or they are granted special permission by the dean of women. Carriages, surreys and buggies are now being used each evening, much to the joy of the local liverymen.

Pem. Hall

"Nothing new under the sun," I've heard, but there are grand rules and customs in Pem Hall.

No more rushing that after-dinner walk to the lake, for all doors are open until ten—not only on Sunday night—every night!

—PH—
"Water Committees!" That call isn't for a fire-fighting squad, nor anything like that. It's a call that started at Table 6 and has spread all over the dining room. It just means to fill the water glasses before the meal begins. "Shop early and avoid the rush."
—PH—

Four down (and out) and fifteen to go." Not a game—no. Four rooms are cleared and under the painter's brush, and fifteen are left to be cleared. Then you won't even recognize our new home.

Here's something else new—No more pictures will be pasted on the walls—no more borders of snap-shots on the mirrors, calendars, and cartoons stuck up with adhesive—but, then, we don't need anything to cover up the pretty new walls.

—PH—
It isn't sun-tan powder now, but real, genuine, sure-enough tan! The gym roof could pass for a bathing beach or something to that effect if it were seen now. (Adv.) The ideal place to get that coveted coat of tan.

—PH—
Dancing daughters!—the new name for P. H. girls. And that's what we'll soon all be with leaders like Mag, Cullie, Edna, Jerry, and Scottie. And as an added feature, we'll dance to any music. (Look over our records, and you'll know.)

they include man—at least girls, "Are you afraid?" a feeble, scarcely discernible voice, but yet undoubtedly a voice. A voice from one who lives in constant fear.

And there she stood firmly gripping the back of the rocking chair, and balancing herself as well as her muscles would permit.

"O-o-o-oh! It's over there in the corner—in the WASTE basket. Well, if it isn't in there it's in the drawer. Well—maybe the little drawer—

"Then it must have been the girls in the next room, I heard."

Cautiously glancing from side to side she nervously, slowly climbed from the chair.

The next evening 'the frightened voice interrupted my reading—"Oh, would you come down?"

Tea To Be Given Thursday

This week promises to be a busy one for those who are helping Miss Dunn with the social activities of the week.

The girls of Pemberton Hall cordially invite the faculty and students to a tea Thursday afternoon, June 27, from 3:00 to 5:00 o'clock. The tea will be given on the campus at the south-west corner of Pemberton Hall. If you have only a few minutes for chattering, come, and Virginia Wolf, Sylvia Jones, Helen Scott, and Mildred Green, serving on the hostess committee, will see to it that you get acquainted.

Gertrude Mosely, chairman of the serving committee and Virginia Canady, Jennise Miller, and Carrie Meinkeoth will have refreshments prepared for you.

Gerald Dunn and his orchestra will do their part to help you enjoy yourself.

Harry Pacatte, E. I. senior, spent the week-end in Kansas, Illinois.

"Now, look in that box," (She held one hand on the back of the chair, ready to spring to the elevation of safety.)

"See? It's been eating my candy." "There's the trap down in that paper. I had the maid wrap it so I wouldn't have to touch it. Th-that's the bacon over there." (The same, unsteady, feeble voice.)

"Thank you. Now, I'll try to sleep." The next morning, a high rapid excited voice:

"I caught it after you left. It was here when I got home. I called the night-watchman and had him carry it out. And I asked him to take the box, but he didn't. He set the trap again."

The pitiful, mournful voice:
"But I had to get rid of the box, so I got a broom and swept it away—swept it clear down the hall. But how will it get in that harrel? I don't know how to get it in. (Distress marked each line of the dainty face.)

Now when we hear "Animals live in constant fear," won't you agree that animals "include girls?"

and ate Helen B's toilet soap, too. Be thankful his taste didn't run in a different line, Helen.

Professor Bode of Ohio State University, visited the college Saturday morning and gave two splendid addresses to the faculty and student body which were very well received.
