Student seeks board seat

by Terry Lahr

Senior speech communications education major Robert Singleton announced his candidacy Friday for the Charleston School Board.

Singleton, along with six others, one of whom is an incumbent, is vying for one of two open positions on the school board.

Elections will be held Saturday, April 14.

Singleton is running because "as a future teacher, I feel my experience would help me learn more about teaching from an administrative point of view," he said Monday afternoon.

An issue he is most concerned with is how to do the most with the least money, he said.

"One thing I would like to see would be for the Charleston schools to use people in teacher education from Eastern as tutors and assistants," he said.

"Students are required to do 100 hours of practice teaching before they student teach. Few people actually get in the full 100 hours, but if a program was set up, they could on a volunteer basis get in more hours," he said.

Singleton also said he would like to see more school boards work for more legislative support.

"They seem to feel that they are simply handed a set of circumstances and they must make the best of them. But why can't school boards lobby just like other groups?" he said.

"I plan to talk to the local senators and legislators about education in Illinois," Singleton added.

Singleton currently plans to graduate in May, 1980, "but my plans are not definite. If I win, of course I'll spend my three year term here. It would be ideal if I could get a job teaching in this area after I graduate," he said.

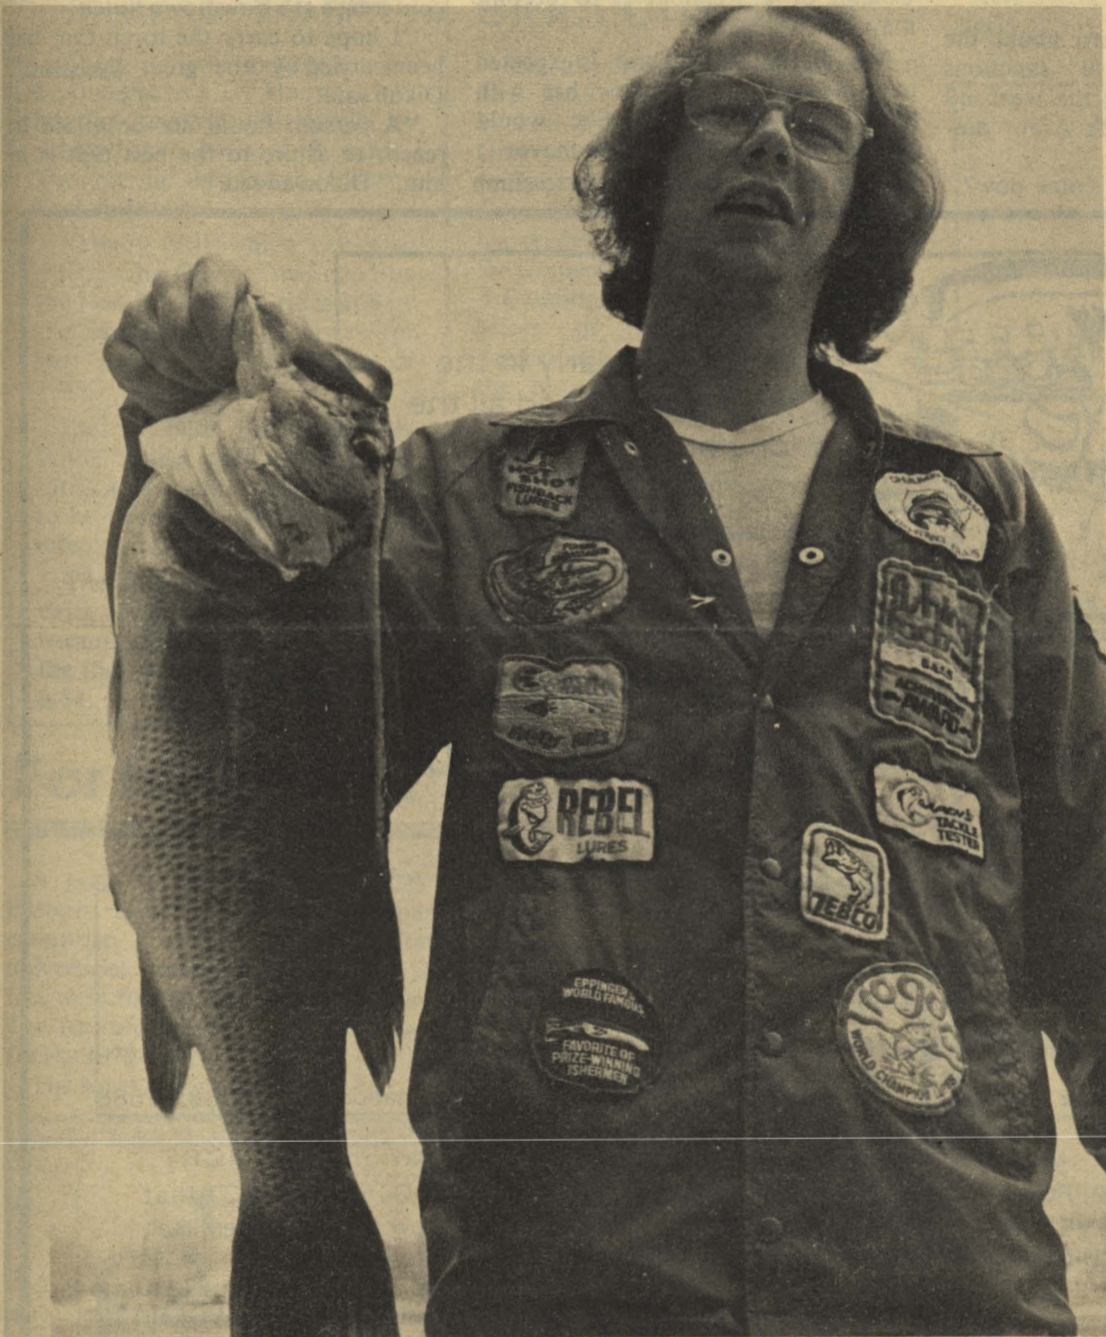

Singleton declined to comment on what he thought his chances of winning are.

Cloudy, cold

Tuesday night will be partly cloudy and cold with a low in the low 30s. Wednesday will be mostly cloudy with a chance of rain and highs in the low 50s.

What a catch!

Although student fishermen often spend long hours at the campus pond and get no more than a nibble from a small fish, some, like Freshman Steve Marucco, get lucky. Marucco

Harrisburg bubble shrinking, 'safer'

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — Engineers achieved a "dramatic decrease" Monday in a gas bubble that has held a stranglehold on efforts to cool down the disabled Three Mile Island nuclear reactor.

Plant and federal officials said the hydrogen bubble had shrunk to a much safer size and the reactor's temperature had dropped significantly.

"I am certain it is cause for optimism," said Harold Denton, Nuclear Regulatory Commission operations chief. He said the bubble was showing "a dramatic decrease in size."

"I didn't expect such a rapid change," Denton said of the bubble. "I think it is safer than yesterday."

Local civil defense officials, hopeful that the changes meant that the five-day crisis here had passed, nevertheless maintained efforts to prepare for a precautionary evacuation of 25,000 residents still within a five-mile radius of the plant.

But the signals were clear: The situation had improved substantially.

On Monday, technicians continued efforts to eliminate the bubble completely, chiefly by the method they have been using all along; letting the gas dissolve in the constantly circulating cooling water and then allowing it to escape from the water outside the reactor.

Technicians also studied options on exactly how to achieve the "cold shutdown" which would go a long way to ending the crisis.

George Troffer, an official with Metropolitan Edison, which operates the facility, said radioactive releases had been halted at the site.

And NRC's Denton said that radiation beaming from the plant was at low levels in a confined area.

The bubble, which had threatened an explosion that could have ripped the lid off the reactor dome and spewed radiation, began shrinking dramatically Sunday and continued throughout the day and night, Troffer said.

The latest developments gave officials more time to cool down the reactor. The critical time for a possible explosion from a chemical reaction within the reactor "has moved considerably out" from the five days Denton had predicted on Sunday, he said.

It was the most encouraging statement to date from the NRC since Wednesday's accident, which had led the governor to urge pre-school children and pregnant women to stay further than five miles from the plant and prompted an estimated 50,000 persons to voluntarily leave the Harrisburg area.

When the president is away, who is in charge?

by Cathy Bielong

When President Jimmy Carter decides to vacation for a while at Camp David, Vice President Walter Mondale steps in to assume the president's duties.

If Mondale would decide to vacation with Carter, the public can rest assured that a long line of successors headed by Speaker of the House, Tip O'Neill, would be waiting to fulfill the duties.

By the same token at Eastern, when Eastern President Daniel E. Marvin vacations his duties are assumed by Thomas A. Bond, vice president for academic affairs.

But after Bond, the duties would be divided.

For example, with Marvin vacationing in the Bahamas this week and Bond out of town until Monday, no one is specifically in charge.

Ken Hesler, director of university relations and alumni services, said Monday the remaining vice presidents would be in charge.

In the case of a major crisis such as a severe blizzard "any action would be handled by the two vice presidents and any other persons they would like to involve," Hesler said.

Otherwise, problems that arise while both Bond and Marvin are out of town are handled by the affected departments.

Norma Winkleblack, Marvin's secretary, said when a call comes through for President Marvin, and Bond is also out of town, she tries to refer the caller to the person she feels will be most helpful.

The president is never in a place where he can not be reached, she said. The same goes for everyone else under the president.

Illinois gets nuclear board

SPRINGFIELD — Illinois relies more heavily on nuclear power than any other state, and its plants should be scrutinized for safety in the wake of an accident at Three Mile Island near Harrisburg, Pa., Gov. James R. Thompson said Monday.

Thompson announced appointment of a committee to review safety features at seven nuclear power plants now operating in Illinois, and one under construction.

"We want technical experts to go over our nuclear reactor plants in Illinois with a fine tooth comb to make sure that we're not in any danger of experiencing the same kind of problem that Pennsylvania currently is," Thompson said.

George Ray Hudson, Illinois Commission on Atomic Energy chairman, will head a committee whose members will include two scientists from the Argonne National Laboratory at Lemont and two University of Illinois nuclear engineering professors, Thompson said.

Begin 'moved' by Egypt visit

CAIRO, Egypt — Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin got his first taste of normal relations with Egypt Monday and said he was "deeply moved," but the Egyptian reaction to his visit here appeared strained and cool.

Several government officials and Egyptian reporters accompanying the prime minister grumbled that the Israeli leader should have waited until the Arab anger over the peace treaty had abated.

They expressed concern about the economic and political sanctions imposed on Egypt over the weekend and the departure of Arab ambassadors from Cairo.

"Why did he have to come now?"

asked one.

But for Begin, the trip was a momentous occasion that signaled a new era of reconciliation after four wars and 30 years of open hostility.

He termed the visit "a dream come true" and said he was visiting to convince Egyptians of Israel's wish for a lasting peace.

Mayoral race to reach climax

CHICAGO — Jane Byrne and Wallace Johnson will determine Tuesday whether it's easier for a woman or a Republican to become mayor of Chicago.

Mrs. Byrne, a Democrat, is expected to win easily—polls show her with almost a 7-to-1 lead. She would become the city's first woman mayor.

Johnson has a bigger hurdle to climb than sex discrimination—the Republican Party in Chicago, which hasn't recovered from the Great Depression. Not since 1927 has a Republican been elected mayor of Chicago.

In the last four mayoral elections, the GOP candidate has lost by margins of at least 7-to-2.

Dixon announces senate campaign

CHICAGO — Illinois Secretary of State Alan Dixon said Monday that he expects his legislative experience, as well as his popularity as a statewide candidate, to bolster his campaign for the Democratic nomination for the U.S. Senate.

Dixon, who had made his intentions known last week after Sen. Adlai Stevenson III said he wouldn't seek re-election, formally announced his candidacy for the vacancy at a news conference at a downtown hotel.

"I hope to carry the torch that has been carried by other great Illinoisians," Dixon said.

"A person should not be afraid to reach, to aspire to the best that is in him," Dixon added.

Charges dismissed in alarm pulling

by Betsey Guzior

Charges against four Eastern students accused of pulling false fire alarms in two residence halls were dismissed because of a technicality Monday while in a separate case, another student arrested for pulling an alarm in Carman Hall pleaded innocent and will be tried May 30.

Freshmen Mary Jo Myers, Alexis Bentz, Kimberly K. Peters and sophomore Ann L. Cloud were arrested March 20 in connection with pulling three false alarms in Lawson Hall and one in Thomas Hall earlier that week.

In a preliminary hearing Monday, Judge Thomas A. Burke ruled that the evidence presented by Assistant State's Attorney James Dedman did not show that the women pulled the fire alarms illegally.

Burke added a person could pull a false fire alarm without being in violation of the disorderly conduct statute if the person thought there was a fire.

Jack Chambers of the campus police testified that the girls admitted pulling the alarms and no fire occurred in any of the incidents.

However, Burke said the women were not asked at the time of the arrest if there was reasonable cause for them to pull the alarms.

Attorneys for the defendants argued no direct evidence was presented showing that fire alarms occurred and were transmitted to the Charleston Fire Department.

Burke said evidence that the incidents happened was sufficient, but there was no evidence to show no reasonable cause.

Dedman said he will consider taking the cases to the grand jury to get an indictment later.

In another preliminary hearing, Carman Hall graduate assistant John Steiner testified that he and Carman counselor Cindy Clark learned that Mark E. Lemanski pulled a Carman fire alarm on a "dare" from a friend.

Steiner said after the alarm was pulled, he and Clark were in Carman's lobby when sophomore Reid Laneville brought Lemanski to them and said, "Here's the guy that pulled the alarm."

EFS to screen Shakespeare film

The film version of Shakespeare's "Henry V" starring Laurence Olivier will be shown at 6:30 and 9 p.m. Tuesday in the Booth Library Lecture Room.

"Henry V," which was also directed by Olivier, was cited by the New York Film Critics and by the National Board of Review for best actor and best picture of 1945.

Eastern Film Society adviser Frank Stokes said recently that "it is a cinematic experience not to be missed by anyone with an interest in the history of film."

The film will only be shown twice instead of the three times because of the extended length of the film, Stokes said. Admission is $1.

Faculty council elections slated

Run-off elections for positions on three faculty councils will be held from 8 a.m.-5 p.m. Tuesday in the University Union Lobby.

The elections are for seats on the Council on Academic Affairs, University Personnel Committee, and the Council on Graduate Studies.

Candidates for CAA are Martin M. Miess of the foreign language department, Robert E. Hennings of the history department, Donald L. Rogers of secondary education department, Lewis H. Coon of the mathematics department, Ann E. Jackson of the elementary education department, and M. Lorraine Flower of the physical education department.

Candidates for UPC are Laverne Hamand of the history department, and Robert H. Karraker of the chemistry department.

Candidates for CGS are Paul Overton of the counseling center and Fred MacLaren of the elementary education department.

Also on the agenda is the voting of minor constitutional changes on certain definitions of major committees.

For the record

A graph for a story in Monday's Eastern News concerning auxiliary enterprise fees at several state universities mistakenly indicated the fees were for the 1980-81 school year. The fee information in the graph was for the 1979-80 school year.

Little Theatre's rebirth a high point for all

Professional theatre in central Illinois is alive again, and we hope it will be flourishing as well.

The Sullivan Little Theatre on the Square, which was originally scheduled to close its doors permanently this spring, will be open again this summer, thanks to the efforts of four faculty members and their associates.

Staff member Barbara Sullivan, her husband Gerald Sullivan of the theatre department, Walter Lazenby of the English department and J. Sain of the theatre department have worked with banker James Grumley this spring to breathe new life into the theatre.

The Sullivan theatre, at first glance, seems to be a living impossibility: a professional theatre which attracts star-fame actors from television, stage and film to appear in a small town of 4,100 population.

The new Sullivan Inc. group has a difficult task ahead. According to Grumley, who is acting as producer, at least $100,000 dollars must be raised to defray production and salary costs anticipated for this summer season.

It was these costs, and an job offer from a Wisconsin theatre, that drove former producer Guy S. Little to announce the closing of the theatre last year.

Grumley said last week the group is looking for funds from the National Endowment for the Humanities and from a Decatur-based fundraising drive.

The group also plans to expand the radius of season ticket holders so that the theatre will have more of a regional impact.

We think the group has had a strong start. That the majority of its members come from Eastern attests to the creativity and enterprise of faculty members who branch out into new, and challenging, projects.

We hope the rest of Eastern's community supports their endeavors by attending the shows and donating to the fundraising drive.

The Little Theatre is a cultural and entertainment advantage that this area could not easily afford to lose.

Public should rope the state senate dopes

How counties such as Mason and Cass in the state's 48th District can continue to elect to office Sen. John Knuppel is beyond belief.

The only justification is that they are electing "Their man to fight in Springfield," literally.

For those who haven't read recent headlines, the honorable Democrat was again "fighting in Springfield," literally.

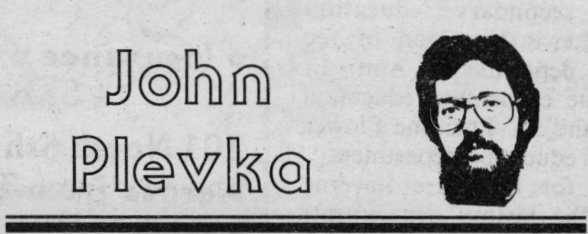

This, by far, is not a first for the honorable senator, who has previously made headlines for throwing niceties like hot coffee and soup on reporters and fellow senators, including Sen. Terry Bruce, D-Olney.

This time the honorable senator went a step further in earning his $28,000 in Springfield by becoming intangled in a fiesty physical flurry with Sen. Sam Vadalabene, D-Edwardsville.

Vadalabene was visiting with two reporters near the railing of the Senate press box, when Knuppel told him to leave. Knuppel's desk is five feet from the railing.

Knuppel advised Vadalabene that "you're not going to hold your press conference here...I've got to listen to what's going on (on the floor)."

The fellow downstate Democrat from Edwardsville refused to leave, noting that he could talk to reporters at any other place.

The $28,000-a-year fun then ensued.

Two grown men, duly elected to serve a respectable term in the Senate of the State of Illinois, began fighting...with two reporters only feet away. (If you're an elected representative of a given constituency and you chose to fight with a colleague, you certainly don't do it with reporters only feet away, if you have the audacity to do it at all.)

As a result, the March 27 incident gave the two political reporters a chance to become sports writers:

"And Knuppel rips the suit coat sleeve of the feisty, little Vadalabene...Vadalabene counters by butting Knuppel's chest...now they're swinging..."

Obviously--and reassuringly to the general taxpayer--cooler, and not as hollow, heads intervened and broke up the sham.

We may seem a rather passive general public, holding few things sacred. However, as a carry-over from the 60s, we hold peace and the philosophy of talking things out extremely sacred.

Therefore, to read of two men--of the same ideological party affiliations, even--resorting to physical violence on the Senate floor is a tough pill to swallow.

Let the European Conservative and Labor Parties wage violence; we prefer oral sparring.

That credo at least dates back to the Great Lincoln-Douglas debates in which it would have been very easy--and considering the time period, not all that unique--for those two gentlemen to go at each others' throats. They, however, preferred verbal jabs. So do I.

Illinoisians tolerate a lot of bizarre political behavior, but fisticuffs should not be included.

Both senators should be severely and publically reprimanded for their recent behavior.

Letters to the editor

TV anyone?

Editor,

Now that we have an empty room in the Students' Union — since Herb Brooks is not being replaced — may the students have their T.V. room back? Just wondering?

Karen Bridges

Literary cost

Editor

In regard to the editorial which pertained to charging 10 cents a copy for the Vehicle, Eastern's literary magazine, I feel the AB made a proper decision and one which is commendable.

I, as a student at Eastern, have never had the pleasure of reading the Vehicle, but it is my understanding that the funding of the magazine comes from student fees.

I'm sure that there are many students who take advantage of the 'freeness' of the Vehicle only to stick it in with the rest of their books and never take the time to read it.

This I feel is a waste. The 10 cents a copy is only a nominal fee and may do some good as to the proper number of copies to put in print.

I feel that a person who is serious about reading the Vehicle will not mind paying this amount and it will also give the AB some help next year with regards to the amount of money that should be allocated to this fund.

Greg Rabus

Low GPA

Editor,

As a postscript to my recent letter about inflated grades, may I add this further reason for students not to become too concerned about their G.P.A.

The director of the placement office pointed out to me last week that, except for a few specific industries and companies, the grade point average is one of the least important items used in evaluating a person for a job.

To illustrate this fact, in 1974 his office surveyed 280 school superintendents, asking them to list in rank order the considerations most important in their own hiring practices. This poll showed that the candidate's grade point average was mentioned 14th in priority, only one position from the bottom of the list.

It seems reasonable to me that professors and students alike should be more concerned with learning than with grading, and together find better ways of assessing what happens in our classroom.

Hal Malehorn

Letters policy

All letters to the editor must carry the name, address and telephone number of their authors for identification purposes. Letters which do not carry this information will not be published. Names will be withheld upon written request. Letters should be typed and should not exceed 250 words. Letters will be edited only for libelous material or space considerations.

Goodwill store offers budget items

by Cheryl Bennett

Students needing jeans, shirts, shoes, hats or even utensils and furniture often can not afford the prices asked for those items on a college budget.

The Goodwill Industries has the answer for the tight budget. A new Goodwill store recently opened on the square and it offers college students the chance to buy already faded jeans, previously read books and used, but quality furniture.

Lorraine Jackson, administrative assistant for Goodwill Industries in Terre Haute, said recently that Goodwill had been looking for a new store location in a college town and they finally decided on Charleston.

"We chose Charleston because of Eastern and we feel we know about student needs," Jackson said. "We offer students jeans, books, and furniture and other items."

Jackson said they will also sell costumes to students for activities and plays on campus.

"Sometimes students need costumes for activities," she said. "They should call us and explain what they need, and even if the local store wouldn't have it the clerks could order it from another store and have the costumes shipped to Charleston," she added.

Kathy Bradford, manager of the new store, said Monday there are no drop boxes, as such in Charleston for residents to donate used articles at, but articles could be dropped off at the store.

"If they don't have the transportation students can call up the store and a truck will come to their home and pick up the items," she added.

Bradford said Monday the Wabash Valley Goodwill Industries in Indiana, employs over 77 workers to help clean, repair and restore the goods. Of the 77 workers, 50 of them are physically or mentally handicapped, she said.

Jackson said Goodwill can offer quality items at low prices because of the policy behind the Industry.

Founded in 1902 by a Boston minister, Goodwill went to the wealthy areas of the city and collected household items which were repaired and sold at low cost to the poor and handicapped.

CGS to debate proposals

Proposed changes in the English and education master's degree programs will be discussed at the Council on Graduate Studies meeting Tuesday, CGS Chairman Jon Laible said Monday.

The meeting will be held at 3 p.m. in Old Main Room 202.

The English education master's program currently requires students to take eight to nine hours of professional education courses. The proposed change would allow Methods of Teaching English (ENG 4906), independent study courses and/or theses on appropriate topics to be taken as part of this requirement, James Quivey, chairman of the English department, said Monday.

The proposal concerning the Master's in Education would add a library and media option to the program.

Laible said the CGS would also approve Tuesday the changes in graduate assistantship distribution among departments.

Mazanek to present senior piano recital

Susan Mazanek will present her senior piano recital at 8 p.m. Tuesday in the Dvorak Concert Hall.

She will perform Sonata No. 60 in C major by Haydn, Valses Nobles et Sentimentales by Ravel, Sarcasms Opus 17 by Prokofiev, Nocturne in D major Opus 27 No. 2 and Scherzo in C minor Opus 39 by Chopin, Jan Faires of the music department said Monday.

Admission is free.

Mullally one of six finalists for ISU position

by Brad Patterson and Andy Savoie

Eastern Athletic Director Mike Mullally confirmed a report Monday that he is among the final six candidates for the vacant Illinois State University athletic director position.

Mullally went to Bloomington on Thursday to meet with the school's search committee, which had narrowed the original list of 80 candidates to six.

Illinois State's Sports Information Director Roger Cushman refused to confirm or deny that Mullally was one of the final six, saying, "The ISU athletic department has not released any of the names of the applicants."

Cushman went on to say that the committee was to trim the list to the three finalists on Monday night, and from that group pick the successor to Warren Schmarkel, whose resignation is effective this summer.

Cushman said that the school was expected to name the new athletic director by the end of the week, or "by Monday at the latest."

Mullally said that he did not know if he was in the final three.

"I interviewed with them on Thursday, and from there I have no idea what is going to happen," Mullally said.

Mullally has said on an earlier occasion that the ISU people would have to make the position more appealing for him to consider leaving Eastern.

"I'm not sure if they are as jacked up on winning as I am," he said. "The administration would have to commit themselves toward having a quality athletic program like we have here."

Mullally, his fifth year at Eastern, has generally been given credit for making the Panther program the premier one in the nation at the Division II level. Mullally had also interviewed for the same position at San Diego State University.

The top candidates mentioned for the job at ISU are Jerry Huntsman, currently the assistant athletic director at Indiana State University, Dan Ghormley, assistant athletic director at the University of Hawaii, and John Coatta, currently the head football coach at Mankato State University.

Also mentioned as prime candidates are Don Kelly, the associate athletic director at Missouri, and Len Snyder, the assistant athletic director at the University of Illinois.

A Bloomington radio station reported Monday that Kelly has the inside track on the job.

"I don't know anything about that, I haven't talked to them since the interview," Mullally said.

Illinois State is a Division I school, and is currently an independent. One of the major concerns for whoever takes the job at ISU is whether the football program should remain at the Division I level. Eastern topped the Redbirds 42-7 last November.

The Illinois State administration has considered putting the football program into the Division I-AA level and leaving the remaining sports in Division I.

Eddy still in running for OSU coaching job

Oklahoma State University is expected to name its new head basketball coach sometime this week and Eastern's Don Eddy appeared to still be in the running, OSU's assistant sports information director Tim Allen said Monday.

A search committee has given its top 10 recommendations to the OSU athletic director and university president, the two administrators are in the process of making the final selection, Allen said. The announcement of the new cage coach has been tentatively set for sometime Wednesday, he added.

OSU's Athletic Director Richard Young could not be reached for comment Monday.

Out of approximately 50 applicants, Eddy was one of eight men interviewed for the job by the search committee, "so they must be somewhat interested in him," the sports information director said.

"I really don't know for sure who is still in the top 10 though," Allen added. "The committee has kept that secret so they won't hurt anyone in their present position."

Allen did say that Eddy was not one of the top men mentioned by most of the media people in the Stillwater, Okla. area.

The majority of the media in that area have picked Ken Hayes, the head coach at New Mexico State; Dick Walters, the head mentor at Evansville, Ind. and Mo Iba, an assistant at Nebraska and son of former coaching great Henry Iba as the top contenders for the OSU job.

Men's tennis team bows to ISU in home opener

by Julie Penne

Eastern's men's tennis team bowed to Indiana State 9-0 Monday in the Panthers' home opener.

Mike Stumpe was the only Eastern player to extend his meet, as the senior extended ISU's Chuck Norman to three sets at the number six match before falling 6-4, 2-6, 6-4.

Head coach Dutch Gossett praised Stumpe on his persistence in the match, particularly in the final set.

"Mike is a good competitor," Gossett said, "Norman is a tough player and Stumpe kept playing hard until the very last point."

Eastern faced a very well balanced and experienced Sycamore squad which had already played twelve matches this spring. The Panthers had only one match under their belts coming into this meet. ISU had just returned from a southern trip where they played teams in Mississippi, Tennessee and Louisiana.

Individually for Eastern, sophomore Rick Hayden dropped the number one match to ISU's Tom Chaipkay 6-2 and 6-0.

Senior Brad Siler bowed to Jeff Weber 6-1 and 6-2 at the number two position.

ISU's Buzz Hardy defeated Eastern's number three performer Brad Patterson 6-3 and 6-2.

Tim Capulong, of the Sycamores, beat Tom Wenzel at number four 6-1, 6-0, while Eastern freshman Joe Benyo was defeated by Dirk Davis of ISU 6-0 and 6-4 at number five.

In doubles, the Sycamores proved to be just as strong as ISU took all three matches in straight sets.

At number one doubles, Hayden and Patterson were downed 6-1 and 6-2 by

Eastern's number one Rick Hayden returns serve in Eastern's 9-0 loss to Indiana State in home opener Monday. (News photo by Bud Eastburn)

Weber and Hardy, while Siler and Brian McDonald lost to Capulong and Joe Huback 6-1 and 6-4.

The number three doubles team of Benyo and Stumpe dropped the final match 6-1 and 6-3 to Chaipkay and Norman.

Baseball team to host Wesleyan in opener

by Carl Gerdovich

Weather conditions pending, Eastern's Panthers will host Illinois Wesleyan Tuesday in the baseball season's home opener at Monier Field.

Having already lost out on opportunities to play five games due to poor playing conditions on the southern trip, Tuesday's single-game beginning at 2:30 p.m. was still on as of Monday afternoon.

Senior lefthander Paul Kastner has received the starting pitching assignment for the Panthers even though head coach Tom McDevitt said Monday he was still unsure as to what the remainder of his starting lineup would look like.

Injuries have taken their toll on the Panther lineup, leaving the head coach with a number of question marks entering the regular season.

"I don't really know who I'm going to use where," McDevitt said. "With so many sore arms and all, I'm going to have to do some studying on the situation."

Kastner (1-1), has been one of the more consistent performers on the mound and with others having sore arms, McDevitt has little to choose from.

"I'm hoping (Elliott) Skorupa and (Ken) Westray will be available, but I can't count on it. We sure don't want to rush anyone in the colder weather," McDevitt said.

"Besides, Kastner has looked real sharp. He's a hard worker and has been steady in putting the ball where he wants it," McDevitt added.

Gordon Smith and Dennis Conley will hold down the right side of the infield at first and second base respectively. Tim Pyznarski, although nursing a sore arm, will be at third, with either Tom Detmer or Mike Dooley at shortstop.

Junior Marty Pulley will handle the catching chores as McDevitt ponders the outfield situation.

Paul Franson, Ken Saxe, Mark Steppe and Ken Scott are all available in the outfield, but McDevitt again said sore arms were the question.

"Franson will be out there. He's our only hitter batting over .300 right now. I may even use Cam Kennedy in the outfield to keep his bat in the lineup," the coach said.

Wade Bradley, a reserve catcher, is currently the Panthers second leading hitter at .273, giving McDevitt reason to get his bat in the lineup.

"Depending on whether Illinois Wesleyan throws a right or lefthanded pitcher, I would like to use Bradley but I have to keep Kennedy's bat in there too," McDevitt said.

Illinois Wesleyan finished second in the nation last year at the NCAA Division III level. Coached by veteran Jack Horenberger, Wesleyan offers top competition.

"They (Illinois Wesleyan) beat Christian Brothers, so we've got to expect something. They have two strong and consistent pitchers in Rick Moore and Dave Hood," McDevitt said.

"We haven't shown too much outside of our pitching, so it will have to improve for us," McDevitt added.

Softball team rained out of season opener

The Eastern women's softball team, scheduled to travel to SIU-Carbondale this past weekend for the season opener, had the games cancelled due to rain.

Eastern will compete in the Missouri-St. Louis tournament this upcoming weekend. The tourney is a double elimination affair with the possibility of playing up to five games.
