City Council refuses tax propositions

By JIM ALLEN
City editor

After hearing citizens' heated arguments for over an hour—none in support of new taxes—Charleston's city council Tuesday unanimously rejected proposals to levy new utilities and property taxes.

The utilities taxes would have placed a 5 percent charge on telephone base rates and gas, electricity and water bills. The property tax would have been upped to $2.11 from $1.77 per $100 assessed property value.

The taxes would have also spelled fiscal problems for Eastern's already "tight" budget, Verna Armstrong, vice president for administration and finance, said.

Before the meeting, a mandatory public hearing on the property tax drew 55 area residents. Several argued against both proposals to levy new taxes, attacking administrative salaries, recent city employee pay hikes and cost "overruns."

Council members defended proposing the new taxes, citing prior budget cuts and a projection of a $500,000 shortfall for fiscal year 1986. The shortfall will be caused by federal revenue sharing funds drying up and dropping property values, City Administrator Mike Steele said.

But all of the council members agreed there were still budget items yet to be examined for possible cuts.

Residents expressed concern that many Charleston senior citizens living on fixed incomes would be hit hardest by the proposed additional tax burdens. Another said her family was already paying enough in taxes. And still another said the taxes would squelch economic development.

Commissioner Wayne Lanman agreed, saying, "This property tax had to come up too quickly," and proposed Charleston gain "home rule" status instead.

City Attorney Tony Sunderman said home rule status would remove restraints imposed by what lawyers call "Dylan's rule." Dylan's rule, he said, includes all the state laws which limit the city's ability to levy sales and "sin" taxes on tobacco and alcohol.

Under the home rule provision of the Illinois Constitution, a city has a much broader range of powers and can levy different taxes. The drawback, however, is that there are no statutes to limit taxes from running as high as the council deems necessary, he said.

Because Charleston has a population under 25,000, the city can only attain home rule by referendum.

Teachers' strike averted—for now

By KEVIN McDERMOTT
News editor

A possible Charleston teachers' strike was once again averted Tuesday with the aid of a federal mediator, after a marathon of contract talks with the school board ended in "sufficient progress" and the scheduling of another meeting Sunday.

Negotiators for the school board and the Charleston Education Association talked for nearly nine hours before agreeing to recontinue the talks Sunday, when a federal mediator would once again be available.

District Superintendent Bill Hill said the talks made "sufficient progress" in resolving the salary issue, which has been the major focus of the dispute.

"They exchanged proposals... and reached some tentative agreements," Hill said, declining to discuss any specific agreements made.

CEA President Jackie Adkins also said Tuesday's session focused mainly on the salary issue, but was less optimistic than Hill. "Some progress was made, primarily with salaries," she said, but added, "There are still several hours of work between them (CEA and the school board)."

CEA Chief Negotiator Lew Hankenson agreed, adding that he questions whether the salary gap can be closed in one more meeting.

Hankenson said one of the major concessions the CEA made was to agree to go for a two-year contract rather than the one-year contract with a 15 percent salary increase which it had originally sought.

Although he did not have the exact figures available early Wednesday, Hankenson said the CEA left the bargaining table after coming down to a two-year contract with "roughly" a 13.9 percent salary increase the first year and a 12.5 percent increase the second year.

Negotiations closed with the board's counter-offer of a two-year contract with a 9.3 percent salary increase the first year and a 5.6 percent increase the second year.

Although teachers will return to school for the rest of the week, neither Adkins nor Hill would rule out the possibility of a strike if Sunday's talks fall through.

"That (a strike) is always a possibility," Adkins said. Hill agreed, but added, "I think there's a possibility there will be a settlement—I'd rather talk about it that way."

Even as current negotiations continue, the CEA is still under the cloud of a complaint the school board has registered with the Illinois Educational Labor Relations Board.

Adkins said an IELRB representative listened to testimony Tuesday afternoon on three "unfair labor practice" charges by the board against the CEA. That includes a charge the CEA filed its intent to strike before there had been "sufficient mediation."

There was no indication early Wednesday of what would come of the IELRB hearing.

University police kick off new ticket payment policy

By AMY ZURAWSKI
Campus editor

University police started using a new parking ticket Tuesday which allows violators to know the amount of their fine and provides an easier way for payment.

Campus Police Chief Tom Larson said students can pay fines by dropping the new ticket and a check in five "drop boxes" located in Carman, Andrews and Stevenson halls, the Union Cashier's office and the police department.

The new tickets are complete with the price of the violation and an envelope for making payments at any of the drop boxes, he said.

The new tickets were created as a result of a university-created traffic and safety commission report which recommended the change be made to save the department and violators time, Larson said.

"Previously, we had to keep a card on each of the violators' number of tickets and a file of tickets," he said. "Often violators wouldn't know how much they had to pay when they received the ticket. Now, it is very clear."

Before Aug. 28 when the new sanctions were implemented, the fines for parking violations were $2 for the first offense, $5 for the second and $10 for any additional violations.

Under the new system approved by the President's Council, parking violations are $10 for all offenses. However, Larson noted that if the fine is paid within 48 hours of when the ticket was issued, the fine is reduced by half.

"The new fine will only affect a few people," Larson said noting that a department study conducted last spring revealed that 94 percent of parking violators received two or more tickets.

"Only 6 percent of the people will be spending a few more dollars," he said. "The people who violate often will actually save money in the long run if they pay within 48 hours because three (See UNIVERSITY, page 9)

U.S. 'sidesteps' Soviet charges; plans for Geneva talks continue

Governor intervenes in strike

CHICAGO—Teachers in the nation's third-largest school district hit the streets with picket signs Tuesday, launching their third walkout in as many years as Governor Thompson intervened in a bid to end the strike quickly.

Teachers, who had been scheduled to begin preparing for opening classes, instead set up picket lines that could bar the district's 430,000 students from their first day of school Wednesday.

The main stumbling block to a settlement, as in previous years, was money. The board offered the city's 28,000 public school teachers a 3.5 percent salary increase, while the union requested a raise of 9 percent.

"I think he's more frustrated with this strike than with the past ones because last spring he put together a record increase in school funding in Illinois," said Thompson spokesman Jim Prescott.

The governor's chief of staff, Jim Reilly, said during a break in talks that both sides were receptive to Thompson's suggestions.

Life after Hurricane Elena

PASCAGOULA, Miss.—Residents of Mississippi's resilient Gulf Coast set to work to recover from a savage beating by Hurricane Elena, grateful that this time, at least, there was something left to repair.

"Right now, it's time to get back on our feet and get this community back in shape," said Harrison County Civil defense director Wade Guice, who has faced the likes of Hurricane Camille in 1969. "We've come through this before down here and we've always had the spirit it takes to come back and rebuild".

He estimated that the damage could exceed the $500 million toll from Hurricane Frederick in 1979.

"It's bad, real bad, but at least this time we've got something to go back and repair. After Camille there was nothing left," said Jim Boyce of Pascagoula. Camille packed 200 mph wind, highest on record to hit the U.S. mainland. Damage was estimated at $3.8 billion and 256 people were killed.

Illinois highest in lost jobs

WASHINGTON—Illinois has lost more manufacturing jobs than any other state since the end of the last decade and its gains in service-industry employment have failed to match the decrease, congressional researchers said Tuesday.

A new study by the staff of the Northeast-Midwest Congressional Coalition—an association of federal lawmakers from northern states—said lost 286,100 manufacturing jobs between 1979 and 1984. That represented a 22.5 percent drop in such jobs during the same period.

The nation's second highest loss of factory jobs was reported in Pennsylvania, where manufacturing employment tumbled by 267,000, or 19.3 percent.

At the same time, employment in service industries in Illinois rose by 124,000 jobs or 13.5 percent, the coalition said.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The White House on Tuesday sidestepped Soviets leader Mikhail Gorbachev's charge that the United States is setting up a confrontation at the November summit, and chose instead to welcome his pledge to propose ways of improving superpower relations.

In the administration's first formal reaction to Gorbachev's debut interview in the Western press, presidential spokesman Larry Speakes dismissed the Communist Party chief's claim that the United States expects the Soviets to make all the concessions.

President Reagan, Speakes said, is prepared "to meet the Soviets halfway in an effort to solve problems."

Meanwhile, a delegation of U.S. senators who met with Gorbachev in Moscow on Tuesday said the Soviet leader told them he is ready to make radical offers to reduce nuclear weapons arsenals and may not oppose basic U.S. research on space-based military systems—the so-called "Star Wars" program.

Speakes said the administration has heard such talk before and challenged the Soviets to put their proposals on the table when arms control talks resume Sept. 19 in Geneva if they are serious about negotiating arms reductions.

Our views of the causes of the present U.S.-Soviet tensions are quite different from that presented by Mr. Gorbachev," Speakes said in response to the Soviet leader's interview with Time magazine. But he said, "We do not intend to enter into a debate in the media," preferring to prepare for the summit through confidential diplomatic channels.

He repeated Reagan's challenge to the Soviets to permit the American president the same access to the Soviet Union's government-controlled media as Gorbachev has to the independent western press.

"We are pleased that Mr. Gorbachev was able to present his views to the American public," Speakes said. "If President Reagan had a comparable opportunity to express his views to the Soviet people through the Soviet media, this would doubtless improve our dialogue and indicate Soviet willingness to accept a degree of reciprocity in an important aspect of our relations."

The spokesman said the United States has received no response in recent weeks to its latest proposal that the U.S. and Soviet Leaders arrange exchange appearances on each other's nationwide television media part of a broader effort to increase mutual understanding.

Reagan first made such a proposal in a speech to members of the British Parliament in June 1982, when he called for a worldwide campaign to promote democratic institutions.

Discovery returns triumphantly

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP)—Space shuttle Discovery's triumphant astronauts landed safely by dawn's early light Tuesday, completing a "near-perfect" repair mission in space that revived a lifeless $85 million satellite.

Discovery dropped out of a brightening sunrise sky and mission commander Joe Engle and pilot Dick Covey guided the 100-ton craft to a flawless landing down the centerline on the dry lakebed runway, ending a week-long, 2.9 million-mile voyage.

"Eddie (Edwards) looks beautiful," said Engle, a former test pilot who once flew airplanes at the desert test flight center.

"Welcome home, Joe, and congratulations to the whole crew," said mission control.

Jesse Moore, director of NASA's space shuttle program, said he was delighted with the mission that included the "jump start" salvage of the Syncom 3 satellite and the successful launch of three other satellites.

If Syncom 3 works when it is fired toward a higher orbit next month, it will become the first commercial satellite salvaged in space. An earlier astronaut crew repaired and relaunched Solar Max, a science satellite. Two broken commercial satellites have been returned to Earth for repairs.

"I have to characterize this as a near-perfect mission," said Moore at a post-landing news conference. "It clearly demonstrated the value of people in space."

Moore praised the crew for performing "like clockwork" in their dramatic repair of the Syncom satellite.

An hour before the 9:15 a.m. EDT landing, Engle fired braking rockets over the Indian Ocean to start Discovery falling toward Earth.

"Looks like this bus is coming home," the astronaut told Mission Control.

During the week-long mission, the astronauts launched three satellites for commercial customers and then stalked and captured the crippled Syncom 3.

Syncom was launched from the shuttle last April, but failed to turn itself on. Astronauts on that flight attempted to activate it by brushing a switch with improvised fly-swatter-like snares.

Sunken oceanliner Titanic is in 'museum piece' state

BOSTON (AP)—The sunken Titanic is remarkably intact with a hull 'like a museum piece,' but any salvage attempts would desecrate the gravesite of the more than 1,500 people who died with it, the first man to view the wreckage said Tuesday.

Robert Ballard, chief scientist of the joint U.S.-French venture that found the oceanliner on Sunday and an engineer at the Woods Hole Oceanographic Institute, described to associates in Massachusetts the remote-control television survey he made of the 73-year-old wreck.

"The ship was pretty intact and upright,..." said Nancy Green, a public relations assistant at Woods Hole.

Shelley Lauzon, public relations director at Woods Hole, spoke with Ballard in a ship-to-shore telephone call to the Navy research vessel Knorr.

She said Ballard took time off from videotaping the 2 1/2-mile-deep wreck Tuesday because "he's been working 'round the clock for three days on just two hour sleep."

The Titanic was the biggest, the most luxurious and supposedly the safest liner of its time. Its builders had called it unsinkable because of its double steel hull and waterproof compartments.

But an iceberg cut a 300-foot gash across several of the compartments and the ship sank on the night of April 14-15, 1912. About 700 people managed to get to lifeboats and were saved, but 1,513 others died.

The Knorr arrived last Wednesday at the Titanic sinking site 500 miles off Newfoundland, where the scientists had spent a month in June and had come close to finding the vessel, Ms. Lauzon said.

The group was testing Ballard's new unmanned underwater vehicle, called the Argo. He developed it in a joint U.S.-French underwater expedition program funded by the U.S. Navy.

"The primary purpose of the dive was not to find the Titanic," Ms. Lauzon said. "It was to do engineering tests on the Argo."

The Argo's camera showed the first pieces of a boiler from the Titanic early Sunday morning, Ms. Lauzon said. Then the ship itself was found at about 13,000 feet.

A storm Sunday night delayed a radio report to Woods Hole on the find.

The Titanic was believed to have carried a fortune in passengers' jewels and other valuables in the purser's safe.

But Ballard told Ms. Lauzon any attempt to salvage the wreck would be "Ridiculous," and instead proposed making it a marine memorial.

"We're grateful that he felt that way," said Edward Kamuda, general secretary of the Titanic Historical Society in Indian Orchard.

Teachers' union gets 10 percent salary hike

By RUDY SCHELLY
Staff writer

A salary increase, new rights, protections and benefits were won for the University Professionals of Illinois during a Board of Governor's meeting Friday.

In a UPI meeting Tuesday, Donald Dolton, Eastern's UPI representative and chairman of the Collective Bargaining Committee, told a number of UPI members about the 9.25 percent salary raise and other rights won by the committee for the temporary faculty and academic support professionals.

"The overall package is a 9.25 percent increase in salary with a basic increase of 8 percent across the board," he said.

This includes, he added, for the first time, the same increase for the large number of temporary faculty in the bargaining unit.

He added that Eastern's collective bargaining unit includes about 500 of the university's staff, temporary staff and members of the Academic Support Group.

"Other gains by UPI," Dolton said,

"entailed the right of UPI members to be notified of proposed change in policy, rules or regulations involving wages, hours or conditions of employment."

In addition, according to the latest UPI newsletter, job security protections for academic support personnel, a re-employment opportunities roster for temporary faculty and sick leave for temporary faculty were gained.

Also, a guaranteed educational leave plan for support personnel and coverage by the contractual grievance procedure for both groups, which is the first-line retribution for sanctioned instructors, were won.

Carol Elder, executive vice president of the BOG council for UPI, was not available for comment Tuesday.

The Collective Bargaining Committee formed its first contract with the BOG in 1977 and became part of UPI in 1980 to improve academic quality and set standards for professionalism. The organization is also a catalyst for grievances and negotiations of wages, hours and terms of employment.

Senate seeks information on tuition installment plan

By TERI BROWN
Staff writer

The Faculty Senate decided Tuesday to obtain more information which will aid their attempt to convince university officials that a tuition installment plan is needed on campus.

The tuition installment plan would allow students to pay their tuition fees in two installments instead of one bulk payment.

Although the senate could report no definite number, they said more than 100 students had their classes dropped after preregistration because they were unable to pay their tuition on time. Students then have to go through central registration in August.

"It's not limiting our enrollment, but it is putting undo burden on the students," senate member Larry Janes said.

The senate agreed to collect student feedback through the Student Senate and to gather statistics proving the tuition installment plan would be beneficial to both students and Eastern before they report to Verna Armstrong, vice president for administration and finance.

Although no date has been set for the recommendation, senate member Dick Goodrick said if a policy is adopted soon, it could be in effect before spring preregistration begins.

The board also discussed Eastern President Stanley Rives' draft statement on the Council on University Planning and Budget. Rives plans to attend the next meeting to hear board reactions to the statement.

Senate Chairman Jayne Ozier said under the proposal the CUPB "seemed to be administrator-heavy" with 10 of the 20 members from the administration. The other members include faculty, students and civil service workers.

"It's strange to me that every vice president that sits on this committee (CUPB) also sits on the president's council where they can give him (Rives) all the advice he needs there," senate member Ken Sutton said.

Sutton added that he believes Rives should not be a voting member of the CUPB. "It's silly for someone who has absolute veto power to be able to vote. If he can vote against it, he'll veto it. . . he should be there only as a resource," he said.

The senate also decided to look into the adequate length of a term for faculty CUPB members. According to the senate, Rives would like the terms reduced from four to two years.

In other action, the senate discussed having more faculty representation at graduation by enforcing the policy requiring department chairmen and one other faculty member to attend the ceremony.

The senate also approved Bill Heyduck as the senate representative for the Council of Faculties with a one year term.

Repay loans so others can bank on future

Students who intend to apply for Guaranteed Student Loans, but don't intend to repay the money, should shred the applications.

Repayment of the guaranteed loans is mandatory—not optional, as some beneficiaries of the program obviously believe.

Editorial

Because of an increasing number of student defaulters, government payment on guaranteed loans is expected to skyrocket 45 percent this year to more than $1 billion. Analysts also predict "staggering" increases by 1990, according to Education Secretary William Bennett.

With fewer dollars coming back from the program, meant only to give temporary financial boosts, students in the future dependent on loans for an education will suffer.

"The financial implications of such an increase in the default rate are staggering," Bennett said. "Ultimately, the costs of a high default rate by current students must be borne by the taxpayers and by students seeking loans in the future."

Loan defaulters are irresponsible. The system for repayment is spelled out before the checks are awarded. And those who are awarded the checks are not unnecessarily burdened with having to begin repayments while trying to get an education—if they're a full-time student.

The federally insured program also offers another benefit—private loans at lower-than-market interest rates. The current interest rate for guaranteed loans is 8 percent, officials said.

Because of the large percentage of defaults, and expected increases in that percentage, Bennett is urging Congress to reduce federal liability for bad loans.

To apply for a loan, with the smugness that it doesn't have to be repaid, is to disregard education.

The future of the program could be in jeopardy. With the cost of education on an upswing, and funding and financial assistance plummeting, guaranteed loans may well be the only bank students can count on in the future.

Voices too loud?

Editor:

As a foreign student who has been living in the U.S. for one year, I am still seeing many new aspects. Sunday I was invited to a birthday party in a back yard on Ninth Street and was wondering why the music was so soft. When I asked, I was told that the police had stopped by at about 6 p.m., while people were eating cake, and said it had to be kept at a certain level because they had received a complaint.

At 10:30 p.m., police stopped by again, said they had received another complaint, and the party had to be terminated. Four people who lived in the house were arrested, while 25 people watched in disbelief. When they said the music volume had been approved earlier by police, they were told their voices were too loud.

Not believing that this could be true in a country which has civil rights strongly embodied in its constitution, I asked one of the officers there if these people were really arrested because their voices were too loud. He said yes. Really confused, I asked myself how can it be that four young people get deprived of their personal freedoms because they were talking.

The ironic thing, is that the guy celebrating his birthday was not arrested, only because he was in the house at that time.

Adding words to titles is meaningless

The Associated Press has recently implemented a style change which will affect The Daily Eastern News, as well as all other AP-member newspapers.

The AP, in its infinite wisdom, has decided to use courtesy titles for women. This means that on second reference, women's last names will be preceded by Mrs., Ms. or Miss. Previous AP style was to identify women by their last names, just as they will continue to do for men.

Personally, I think the new style change stinks.

The only acceptable reason for a courtesy title, I believe, is to distinguish between two people, both with the same last name, in the same story.

There is no reason to add extra, meaningless words in a story if they are not needed, and courtesy titles for courtesy's sake is unnecessary and stupid.

We're living in the 20th century, for God's sake. The women's movement is in full force. The Supreme Court is in the process of deciding whether women should receive equal pay for equal work. Should not newspapers, those bodies charged with informing the public of change, also change their style to conform with the 1980's lifestyle?

The AP also seems to have some problems in the consistent use of courtesy titles, or at least ambiguity.

In recent articles about an alleged murder, the AP first referred to the female as "Miss" but later switched to "Ms."

Is "Miss" too pretty or too feminine a word for an alleged murderer? Maybe the archaic "murderess" should be used when describing a woman charged with murder.

Perhaps the only exceptions in the use of courtesy titles will be for academicians and doctors. Currently,

Notebook:

newspapers can use "Dr." before someone's name if one has a medical degree. For those college professors who have a Ph.D., custom dictates they be called by their last name — unless they're female of course. I guess AP will refer to them as "Mrs. Dr. Smith," or some other bizarre title.

However, AP will use, and has, "Miss" in describing non-married females such as Katharine Hepburn. What about people like Grace Jones and Madonna? But then again, could you see anyone call the new Mrs. Penn "Miss Madonna"? The use of courtesy titles is bound to cause problems — especially in sports stories.

The British, very proper as they are, call Chris Evert-Lloyd "Mrs. Lloyd." What about Renee Richards? What are sports writers going to do — have a list of possible courtesy titles and say "please circle one of the above"?

I don't understand why the Associated Press has decided to change its style to include courtesy titles. I suppose its almost discrimination of a sort, unless they begin calling Ronald Reagan "Mr. President" in their news stories. Maybe the American Civil Liberties Union would be interested in this pseudo-courtesy discrimination idea.

—Julie Zook, whose column, "Notebook," will become a regular feature on Wednesday's editorial page, is government editor for The Daily Eastern News.

Akins' first week spent planning, having fun

By JULIE ZOOK
Government editor

Student Body President Floyd Akins, who was elected to Eastern's highest student position in April, said his first week in office has been spent looking ahead, getting organized and "having fun."

"It's not any different than what I expected before I began," Akins said of his new job. "Right now, the hardest part is making sure the boards and councils get members." Applications for the many boards and councils are available in the Student Senate office in the University Union.

"Like I said last week, we're having an all-out blitz" to get people interested in the boards and councils, "including sending out letters to interested persons," he said.

Akins is also planning to address the issue of Eastern's investments in apartheid South Africa.

Apartheid is South Africa's racial caste system, which is used to keep that nation's black majority subordinate to its white minority. The EIU Foundation's investments in U.S. corporations which do business with the South African government has sparked controversy in recent months.

Although Akins said he could not comment on what, if anything, senate will do to address the issue, he said he is planning a separate committee to look into the investments and their possible effects on Eastern.

"I don't think it (investments in South Africa) is right," he said. "I still say 'divest'."

Akins used Eastern's athletic programs to demonstrate the possible repercussions on Eastern students. "The EIU Foundation supports Eastern athletics, but it (the foundation) also supports the South African policy through its investments" in South African companies.

"I'll be in contact with other universities to see what they're doing," he said, adding that after the committee reveals its findings, Akins will make a decision whether or not senate should become involved.

Akins said the issue will not become a senate matter until it becomes certain that Eastern students' money is involved in the financial transactions by the

Floyd Akins

EIU Foundation to South African holding companies.

"That's what I've got to find out," he said. He added that if the money for the EIU Foundation comes from private donations, then "we could really hurt Eastern by telling (the donators) not to (invest in the EIU Foundation)."

As with all people running for political offices, Akins made several campaign promises during last April's election, and he said Friday that he intends to carry out those promises.

"When we were campaigning, we promised to get a lot more people involved in senate. . . and we're going to try to do what we promised," he said.

"We've got a lot of interested freshmen, which I think is great. The freshmen's attitudes are really great."

Akins said one of the most difficult things this year's senate faces is the problem of trying to build up senate's image.

Last year's senate received a lot of student criticism stemming from student senate retreats, one of which led to the impeachment of former Student Body President Joe Butler.

Akins said Thursday that the senate would not take one of the traditional retreats, but would instead try a one-day, on-campus picnic with workshops.

Akins said one idea he has for upgrading senate's image is the creation of a student public relations person for senate, but he added that that idea is still in the planning stage.

"We'd be looking for someone with a background in either public relations, communications, journalism or marketing."

The person appointed to the new position would be responsible for setting up speaking engagements for the senate's top officers, which includes Executive Vice President Kim Swanson, Financial Vice President Ann Hasara and Board of Governors representative Michael Ashack.

Akins said the biggest problems facing the student body are security, senior seminars and financial aid. "I'm a student, and that's why all the things I complain about, I'm going to try to solve."

"Security is the utmost problem," he said, adding it's going to be "looked at very, very carefully."

"The only way (security) can work is if the university hires a person," Akins said, referring to a committee recommendation in 1980 that the university hire an extra task force officer for the campus police.

"I've been talking to people on campus, especially females, who are afraid to walk on campus. We have dark areas and we need to provide lighting for those areas."

Akins also questioned the validity of the senior seminar requirement, saying that the senior seminar is designed for people of all different backgrounds to come together and meet each other. "It's a class for people totally outside their majors to come together."

But Akins equated the senior seminar to the general requirements listed for graduation, saying the two are quite similar and it is almost redundant for the university to require both for graduation. "Get the system straightened out or cancel it. It's something I'm steamed about."

New steamline activated Friday

By KARON FARRIS
Staff Writer

Passing by Buzzard Building, students might be amazed at the mounds of dirt outside. But Eastern is not being invaded by moles. A & R Mechanical, Champaign, finished replacing an old steamline Friday.

Physical Plant Director Evertt Alms said the work on the steamline was completed and turned on Friday but added that it will be several weeks before "the mess is cleaned up."

The steamline was replaced because, after years of use, Alms said, it rotted and was inoperable.

He added that Eastern's Capital Development Board, which receives state appropriated funds, financed the project which Alms said costed about $40,000. The money was also used to have electrical rehabilitation done at the building.

New TAC director sought

BY PAMELA LILL
Activities editor

Twenty-four applications have been turned in for the position of Eastern's Table Arts director, Search Committee Chairman Jim Johnson said recently.

The opening for the position was announced at the end of May, Johnson said, adding that applications were accepted until Sept. 1.

The position became available when former TAC director Bob Evans left to take a position as museum director and chairman of the art department at Rockford college, Vaughn Jaenike, dean of the College of Fine Arts, said.

Evans declined to comment as to why he left his position at Eastern.

"It was a very short lived tenure and we really didn't expect," Jaenike said, adding that Evans accomplished much in his short tenure.

Applicants for the TAC director position must have a masters in history of art, museum administration or a related art field. Responsibilities of the director include supervision of the curator of Education/Exhibits as well as fiscal management of the TAC, fundraising and public relations.

"We are looking for a person with a background in art administration who is interested in working in a community the size of Charleston and a campus the size of Eastern," Johnson said.

The director should have a "knowledge in obtaining federal, state and private funds" and should be able to run "exhibition programs along with educational programs like Table's," Johnson added.

The search committee, made up of five of Eastern's faculty, will be interviewing the candidates Sept. 15 - Oct. 1. A final decision should be made in late October or early November, Johnson said. The final decision requires approval of Eastern President Stanley Rives.

WEIU-FM hits air waves despite complications

WEIU-FM, 88.9, went on the air at 4 p.m. Tuesday after a seven day delay caused by damage from lightning hitting an electric line and traveling through their transmitter.

The station was originally scheduled to go on the air Aug. 28 but the damage to the transmitter two weeks ago delayed their start.

Radio/TV Center director John Beabout said, "We're not sure right now" what the total cost of repairs will be because workers are still assessing the damage and getting part prices.

The transmitter and machinery are "functional" now, he said.

Dave Ward, public relations director and disc jockey, said the station will be transmitting on weekdays from 4 p.m. to midnight.

He added that a final format has also been set.

From 4 to 5 p.m., there will be a County Line Report followed by the EIU report from 5 to 5:30 p.m. These shows will include any news relevant to the specified area, Ward said.

The station will play contemporary rock from 5:30 to 9 p.m. Ward said contemporary rock does not include top 40 or heavy metal, because the station does not want to compete with area stations.

A specialty show will be broadcast from 9 p.m. to midnight. The show will vary each night and include jazz, oldies, the history of rock 'n' roll and blues, Ward said.

"We're hoping next to expand on the weekends. From there we'll see what happens," Ward said.

Campus police show no mercy on illicitly parked cars

BY AMY ZURAWSKI
Campus editor

Campus Police Chief Tom Larson said campus police set a new record when they ordered about 32 cars without permits to be towed from staff lots located near Taylor and Coleman halls last Wednesday afternoon.

"We have been having a problem with students parking in staff lots," he said noting about 90 percent of the cars that were towed probably belonged to students.

Although Larson said the parking violators in staff lots were ticketed for two days before the towing began, he said many of the illegally parked cars had not been moved.

"I don't think some of the owners have even been out to the lots in several days because some of the cars have a couple of tickets on them," he added.

In order to make enough room for staff parking, the lots needed to be cleared of illegally parked vehicles, he said.

"The staff that conducts the functions of the university needs to have a place to park," Larson said.

Although Larson said illegally parked cars have been towed in the past, he added that 32 cars is the largest number that has ever been removed to make room for staff parking.

"The number usually doesn't exceed 20," he noted, adding that when most people see the tow trucks they move their cars before they can be towed.

Any student who can not find his auto, Larson said, should call the campus police department to find out if the vehicle was towed and where it was taken to.

Although students will not be charged a fine by the police department, Larson said they will have to pay the towing fee, about $30, to get their cars back.

To prevent cars from being towed in the future, Larson suggested students purchase permits for campus parking or park on streets near campus.

Although there are only permits remaining for lot N on Ninth Street for students meeting the off-campus requirements, Sargent George Bosler said lots will be reassessed in several weeks and if any parking spaces are available, permits will be sold.

Senate expects nine members to resign posts

By JULIE ZOOK
Government editor

Nine senators have decided to submit their resignations to the Student Senate, leaving three vacancies each in off-campus, on-campus and at-large districts.

Senate Speaker Larry Markey said that former at-large senator Karen Wessel was removed from senate during the summer session for lack of attendance, and pending an official letter of resignation, attendance will also be a factor in off-campus senator Steve Pautler's resignation.

Off-campus senator Dave Wetherton and residence hall senators Barry Shawgo and LaRon Wilhelm have also talked to Markey about resigning from senate, but Markey said until official letters are received from all senators, the resignations are still pending.

Wilhelm said that she had submitted her resignation Tuesday, and that working and holding an office in another organization did not leave her enough time for senate.

Wetherton said Tuesday that he submitted his letter of resignation last semester.

"I'm currently serving as president of Delta Tau Delta fraternity, and I found the position (of senator), in order to be performed correctly, takes a great deal of time," Wetherton said.

Neither Pautler nor Shawgo was available for comment Tuesday.

Joel Lopez submitted his resignation during the spring semester because of time conflicts. Kim Swanson and Larry Markey resigned when they were elected to student government executive offices.

Letters of resignation will be formally accepted at the senate meeting scheduled for 7 p.m. Wednesday in the Union addition Arcola-Tuscola room.

The senate is recruiting students to join the group.

"Anybody interested in a petition should stop by the office and pick up an application from the secretary," Markey said. Students are required to get 25 student signatures before their petition is brought before the senate.

In addition to accepting resignations at the senate meeting, the senate will approve the summer senate minutes and committee chairmen, Markey said.

violations will cost $15 instead of $17."

Larson said the money obtained from past parking sanctions has been used to upkeep parking lots, university officials designate how the money will be used and there is no way to predict where the funds will be placed.

Although Larson said the new ticketing sanctions will save parking violaters and office workings time and money, several Eastern students did not agree.

Junior Helen Kulovitz said she did not know if the change in parking sanctions "would solve any problem, but I would be angry if I got a ticket for $10 or $5 instead of $2."

Sophomore Paul Hinck echoed Kulovitz's negative expression adding, "The extra couple of dollars is good bar money. I really don't think the university needs our money anyway."

"It's unfair that they expect us to pay extra. I would definitely be upset if I got a ticket."

Williams gets starting nod at other wide receiver post

By JEFF LONG
Sports editor

The question concerning who will take All-American wide receiver Jerry Wright's vacated spot has been answered. But whether or not junior Charlie Williams can fill Wright's speedy spikes won't be answered until later this season.

Williams, a 6-1, 180-pound transfer from Triton Community College has emerged from the pack of receivers and will start at split end opposite of Roy Banks when the Panthers open their season Saturday at Northeast Missouri.

In recent weeks, the competition to replace the graduated Wright had narrowed to a duel between Williams and junior college transfer Willie Cain.

Cain had shown flashes of brilliance in several of the team's intrasquad scrimmages, but according to coach Al Molde, it was the overall performance of Williams which earned him the starting nod.

"Williams had a slight edge in his consistency and catching the football," Molde said. "He's shown a lot of progress and his route-running has also improved."

"He has great speed, but what also impressed us was his ability to really accelerate to get under the ball," Molde added.

The presence of the speedy Williams should help take some pressure off Banks and give the Panthers a deep threat on both sides. Banks has already proven himself as a master of the deep route, catching seven touchdown passes over 60 yards last season, the longest a 75-yard burner.

Banks, an All-American who set Eastern single-season records last year for most pass receiving yardage (1,269) and TD receptions (17), will undoubtedly see quite a bit of double coverage this season.

Molde is not worried about the double coverage, however. Instead, he's hoping that when it occurs, it will allow the Panthers to exploit the defense elsewhere.

"Whether or not they double-team Banks remains to be seen," Molde said. "He's a very talented receiver and if they choose to do that we'll have a lot of other receivers they'll have to cover too."

Williams will be hard-pressed to repeat the feats of Wright, who set a single-season school record last season with 76 receptions, and possessed the intangible quality of a team leader.

But neither coaches nor players are putting any undo pressure or overweighted expectations on Williams at this point.

"This team has a new personality this year," Molde said. "That (leadership ability) is something we have to develop. You can't ask any one person to take over that role. The rest of the team has to pick that up."

"Sure, we're going to miss Jerry Wright,"

PAUL KLATT / Staff photographer

Junior college transfer Charlie Williams gained the starting nod at wide receiver in the opening game against Northeast Missouri on Saturday. The job was open due to the graduation on Jerry Wright.

Molde admitted, "but I've seen enough of our offense to know that we'll be able to move the football again."

Molde also indicated that Calvin Pierce will fill the slotback position for Saturday's opener.

Pierce was the team's third leading receiver in 1984 with 38 catches for 529 yards.

"Calvin is a great game player," Molde assessed. "He has above average skills inside because he's tough on the screen, catches the ball well and is a hard runner."

The season opener will start at 7:15 p.m. and will be carried live by WLBH-FM, 97 on the dial. Ken Wooddell and Doug Bock will again supply the play-by-play and commentary.

Fans of baseball should relish late blooming of Rose

Whether you love him or hate him, it's time to wake up and realize that Pete Rose is living baseball history.

And before it's too late and Charlie Hustle hangs up his spikes, let's hope that every baseball fan in America takes the time to simply sit back and watch the way Rose plays the game.

What we will see is not only one of the greatest players ever to pull on a uniform, but rather the game itself. Rose is a 44-year-old man in a kid's game. But Rose doesn't play like he's 44. He's defied time and refused to grow up. He's the guy who never quit getting up early on Saturday mornings to watch cartoons.

Rose is the one player that all of us wish we had been. He's all the heart, fire, determination and soul that we have ever wanted. But unlike so many of us, Rose is the one human who has reached inside himself and brought those traits out into use in his daily life.

When we're old folks sitting around talking baseball and trying to remember our childhood heroes who not only took their rightful place in Cooperstown alongside Ruth and Cobb, but who also helped mold us into the adults we grew to be, we'll think of Rose.

We'll remember Rose sprinting to first a la Carl Lewis on walks when other players went slower than campus booklines. We'll remember Rose bouncing the ball off the Astro Turf to punctuate the end of an inning. And of course, we'll remember him as the man who made sliding head-first in a cloud of dust seem more exciting and fun than a spring break in Hawaii.

We'll recall the memory of Rose bowling over American League catcher Ray Fosse to score the winning run in the 1970 All-Star Game. We'll enjoy the flashbacks of Rose brawling with Mets' shortstop Bud Harrelson in the '73 playoffs; smashing a double off Montreal's Steve Rogers for his 3,000 hit; being congratulated by Stan Musial after breaking Stan the Man's National League career hit mark; and unless World War III vaporizes us all, moving past the ghost of Ty Cobb as the game's all-time hit leader.

Yes, we'll probably even remember Rose's famous face as he plugged Aqua Velva, Geritol, Jockey, Wheaties, Swanson's TV dinners, Zenith, Mountain Dew and Mizuno Sporting Goods.

But before Rose fades into memory, why not enjoy and appreciate him now—while he's still gracing major league fields and television screens across the nation? True, Rose is well past his prime, but that hasn't stopped the man who has played in more winning games than anyone else from letting up.

We have already missed out on Hank Aaron. We somehow managed to overlook Hammerin' Hank until he was closing in on Babe Ruth's career home run record and developing a Hall of Famer gut. By then, Aaron was a shell of his former self, unable to run the bases or play the outfield.

But, Rose is different. Rose is still in bloom; and although it may be late fall in his career, winter doesn't seem in sight.

And unlike Aaron, something new has flowered in the twilight of Rose's playing career—Rose's managing career. Charlie Hustle has turned the Cincinnati Reds from a sputtering wreck at the bottom of the National League West to a resurged model of the Big Red Machine.

It seems as though there isn't anything Rose hasn't or can't accomplish.

"I could probably get 25 hits with my eyes closed," Rose once said.

And while he's doing it, let's keep our eyes open and enjoy.

Heartbreaker

Astros squeeze Cubs with suicide

CHICAGO (AP)—"It certainly was an exciting game," said Houston Manager Bob Lillis Tuesday after he put on a suicide squeeze to score the winning run in the 10th inning of an 8-7 victory over the Chicago Cubs.

"We've used the play before a lot of times and we've used it with a lot of people," Lillis said.

This time he sent up pinch batter Bill Doran who worked the play to perfection with Denny Walling scoring from third base on the bunt back to pitcher Lee Smith.

"Lee had no chance at all," said Doran. "It was a great call. I've done it before but I've also loused it up before, too."

Mark Bailey opened the 10th with a single and was forced by Walling. Bert Pena singled Walling to third before Doran's squeeze.

The Cubs had tied the game in the ninth on Ryne Sandberg's 21st homer and threatened in the 10th.

Shawon Dunston singled and Garf Woods sacrificed him to second.

Bobby Dernier hit what looked like a sure single to right only to have Jerry Mumphrey make a diving catch. Mumphrey then threw to second to double up Dunston and end the game.

"I got a real good jump and the ball kept coming to me," said Mumphrey. "I broke good. I never thought about the ball getting by me."

White, Illinois making final preparations for Trojans

URBANA, Ill. (AP)—Illinois Coach Mike White said Tuesday he is making final adjustments in his lineup for a tough opening game against last year's Rose Bowl champion, Southern California.

"We're still experimenting with some personnel changes," White told reporters. "We want to make sure we've got the right guys in the right spots."

Many players are comparable in ability and "we're going to substitute a lot, that's our philosophy," said White, preparing for his sixth season.

Illinois and USC meet at 1 p.m. CDT Saturday in Memorial Stadium.

USC Coach Ted Tollner said he was fortunate to have players with starting experience back at seven of the eight interior line positions. And he noted there were no major injuries during drills.

"Now, it's game week," said Tollner, entering his third season at USC. "We feel pretty good, we haven't lost anybody for long. We have to feel fortunate."

He said quarterback Sean Salisbury has recovered from knee surgery and will start the Illinois game.

Veteran tailback Fred Crutcher, who gained 1,155 yards and scored 10 touchdowns in 1984, is expected to play an important role in USC's strong ground attack.

"We must play run defense," said Illinois defensive coordinator Max McCartney, who likes to hold opponents to less than 100 yards rushing per game. "We know that will be a difficult task."

White will count on the strong arm and quick thinking of quarterback Jack Trudeau and the explosive potential of wide receiver David Williams, who led the nation with 101 receptions last year.

"We think we have a good solid pass defense," said Tollner, though there are some inexperienced players. "I'll have a better answer Saturday at 5 o'clock."

Illinois also was able to move the ball on the ground last year, with fullback Thomas Rooks picking up 1,056 to go with Williams' 1,278 yards receiving.

"Illinois makes its living with Trudeau and Williams, but if you overcompensate, they'll run over you with Rooks," said Tollner.

Tollner said his concern on offense is improving USC's passing game, which has been "less than adequate" and getting more "big plays" out of the running backs.

Still, McCartney said USC has plenty of scoring power.

"A fear we have . . . is the fact that Southern Cal's highly-rated offense includes players who are tops at their positions," said McCartney. "There's certainly apprehension because this group of young guys (on the Illinois defense) have not played together in a game."

USC, which won the PAC-10 last year and beat Ohio State 20-17 in the Rose Bowl, finished the season 9-3.

Illinois, on NCAA probation for recruiting violations and ineligible for bowl play, was 7-4 in 1984.

Schlichter regains post as Colts' starting quarterback

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—Art Schlichter, free of the gambling habit that led to a year's suspension by the National Football League, achieved another milestone in his comeback by regaining the Indianapolis Colts' starting quarterback job.

After four months of evaluations through spring and summer drills and four weeks of alternating starts during the exhibition season, Coach Rod Dowhower on Monday picked Schlichter over three-year starter Mike Pagel.

"He's our man," Dowhower said of Schlichter. "He's got his foot in the door. Now it's up to him."

Schlichter, 25, who threw for a school-record 7,547 yards and 50 touchdowns and ran for 1,303 yards and another 35 touchdowns at Ohio State, was the fourth player chosen in the 1982 NFL draft. He played in three games with the Colts as a rookie backup to Pagel, but he was unable to handle six-figure gambling debts and threats from bookmakers.

The NFL suspended Schlichter for the 1983 season, and he rejoined the Colts last year, first as the backup to Pagel and then as the starter in the final five games. When Dowhower succeeded former coach Frank Kush last winter, he said he didn't know which of the two would be the starter this season.

Ultimately, Dowhower said, Schlichter and Pagel "were close, and it was my background and experience that led me to this (choice). To be specific (about the reasons) would be difficult, and I don't plan to be (specific).

"If he (Schlichter) continues his work habits to go along with his athletic ability, I think he has a chance to be a solid player at his position. Beyond that, I don't want to speculate," Dowhower said.

"It didn't come easy for me," Schlichter said of his assignment. "I had to change my habits to get back into the NFL and then I had to change my practice habits.

"I had to start thinking clearly again. When I was in the depths of the disease, I thought about nothing but gambling. Now I'm confident I can be one of the better quarterbacks in the league."

Schlichter, who started in preseason games against Seattle and Denver, completed 54.9 percent of his passes for 283 yards and no touchdowns during exhibition play. He had one pass intercepted and was sacked 11 times. Pagel, who also started two games, completed 48.1 percent of his passes for 447 yards.

Top soccer recruit arrives

By DOBIE HOLLAND
Staff writer

Injuries are staring the Panther booters in the face like a tough boss screaming for results even before the season opener. But the arrival of top recruit Larry Pretto has to make coaching a little easier for Cizo Mosnia.

Top recruit Curt Elchuck is nursing a broken foot; old reliables Rick Lansing and Neil Swindells are questionable starters for Friday's opener at Bowling Green.

Meanwhile, veteran Matt Gamache has trouble shooting, not to mention the possible long-term injuries of Mark Christensen and Mark Norfert.

Mosnia may have to rely on freshmen Craig Hartman, Matteo Saccomanno and Pretto for much-needed relief.

Pretto, the intransigent booter, finally arrived at Eastern from Canada on Monday, after a stop in Holland last weekend.

Pretto has been playing soccer at the World Games in Minsk, Russia representing the Canadian National Youth Team. Apparently the games were among Pretto's goals as a soccer player and he enjoyed them thoroughly, Mosnia said.

Some of the best talent in the world play in the games and team Canada had a tough time. Nigeria beat them 2-0, Australia played to a 0-0 tie and a strong Russian team nixed them 5-0.

"Personally, I thought we played well," Pretto said, "but they (the competition) played well and we didn't get any breaks."

All of the scouts in Canada regard Pretto highly and as for Mosnia: "I would like to let his playing talk for itself and I wouldn't want to rate him with any of our players," he said.

"Playing soccer over there (Russia) was unbelievable," Pretto said. "Just being in the biggest tournament in the world was unbelievable. It really wouldn't matter where we played.

"I think the impression we have of Russia is exaggerated. The people there are friendly and the crowds there are enthusiastic," Pretto added. "The people are more controlled in Russia. There are no extremes over there."

U.S. Open

Evert Lloyd moves to semifinals for 15th time

NEW YORK (AP)—Chris Evert Lloyd fought her way past tenacious Claudia Kohde-Kilsch of West Germany Tuesday to advance to the semifinals of the U.S. Open Tennis Championships for the 15th consecutive year.

Lloyd, the No. 1 seed who is seeking her seventh singles title here, will meet third-seeded Hana Mandlikova of Czechoslovakia in the semifinals.

In men's singles, No. 7 Yannick Noah of France and unseeded Heinz Gunthardt of Switzerland moved into the quarterfinals with victories Tuesday.

Lloyd won her 83rd match in U.S. Open play, increasing her own record, by stopping Kohde-Kilsch 6-3, 6-3. Earlier in the day, Mandlikova, a two-time finalist on the hardcourts of the National Tennis Center, advanced with a 7-6, 7-5 victory over No. 7 Helena Sukova of Czechoslovakia.

Noah stopped amateur Jay Berger, a Clemson University sophomore, 6-7, 6-2, 6-3, 6-1, while Gunthardt ousted Henri Leconte of France 7-6, 6-2, 3-6, 4-6, 6-3.

Lloyd had her serve broken just once, but almost every game went to deuce as the match took 78 minutes to play. Lloyd served the only ace of the match, but Kohde-Kilsch had nine service winners to just four for Lloyd.

Always attacking, the West German kept constant pressure on the tournament's top seed, going to the net 44 times. Lloyd only won 11 more points in the match—68 to 57, but they were the key points.

She broke Kohde-Kilsch four times—twice in each set—while Lloyd lost her own service only once.

Gunthardt and Leconte had a slugfest on the Grandstand court, the Swiss right-hander capturing the first two sets before the French left-hander came back to level the match.

But in the decisive fifth set, it was Gunthardt who survived the three-hour battle.

Mandlikova reached the women's singles title match here in 1980 and 1982. Both times she lost to Lloyd.

Against Sukova, Mandlikova also had to battle through close games the entire way, taking the first-set tiebreaker 7-4.

"I think I know better now what I'm doing than I did when I was younger—three or four years ago," Mandlikova said. "I'm mentally a little bit tougher than I was before.

Noah was slow getting started as Berger won the first-set tiebreaker 7-3. But after that, it was all Noah as the athletic Frenchman kept Berger running from sideline to sideline and always on the defensive.

"He started playing better and I got a little worn down," Berger said of Noah, the 1983 French Open champion.

And the crowd at Louis Armstrong Stadium roared its approval when Noah chased down a lob and, with his back to the net, hit a cross-court lob between his legs. Berger was able to keep the point going, but Noah closed it out with a cross-court forehand passing shot.

He then went into the "Noah Dip," a little wiggle reminiscent of football players after they have scored a touchdown.

"His shot between the legs was a really great one, and he gets to a lot of balls most people wouldn't expect to," Berger said of the Frenchman. "When he is making shots like that, you just have to brush it out of your mind and think that it was a great shot he got to."

Ex-Cardinals to testify in drug trafficking case

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Lonnie Smith of the Kansas City Royals is expected to be the first witness to testify Wednesday, and the key to the federal government's case, in the cocaine trafficking trial of Curtis Strong, a former Philadelphia Phillies clubhouse caterer, The Associated Press learned Tuesday.

Smith is expected to be called Wednesday afternoon and Keith Hernandez of the New York Mets will be called next to testify, said sources close to the case who requested anonymity.

Smith has confessed to several years of cocaine abuse and testified under a grant of immunity before a federal grand jury that indicted Strong and six other Pennsylvanians on drug trafficking charges in May.

Smith recently told The New York Times that he identified his drug supplier to both the FBI and to the Pittsburgh grand jury. Smith underwent drug rehabilitation in 1983, the year after he was a key member of the world champion St. Louis Cardinals.

"We're going to find out if a jury will believe the testimony of junkies," said Strong's attorney, Adam O. Renfroe Jr., who would not identify the "junkies."

Smith's testimony is expected to follow completion of the jury selection, which took most of the court's time Tuesday, and opening remarks by Renfroe and U.S. Attorney J. Alan Johnson.

Smith is one of 10 current and former players identified last week by Johnson in court documents as prospective witnesses in the case, which could take more than a week to try.

Royals spokesman Dean Vogelaar said Smith would miss the Royals' home game Tuesday night against the Chicago White Sox because of his court appearance, but hope Smith will be back in uniform Wednesday night.

Mets Manager Dave Johnson said Hernandez, also a former Cardinal, is expected to "miss a day" because of the Strong case. "We're hoping it's the off day (Thursday)," Johnson said.

The Mets are currently playing the Padres in San Diego.

Get down to business faster. With the BA-35.

If there's one thing business students have always needed, this is it: an affordable, business-oriented calculator. The Texas Instruments BA-35, the Student Business Analyst.

Its built-in business formulas let you perform complicated finance, accounting and statistical functions — the ones that usually require a lot of time and a stack of reference books, like present and future value calculations, amortizations and balloon payments.

The BA-35 means you spend less time calculating, and more time learning. One keystroke takes the place of many.

The calculator is just part of the package. You also get a book that follows most business courses: the Business Analyst Guidebook. Business professors helped us write it, to help you get the most out of calculator and classroom.

A powerful combination.

Think business. With the BA-35 Student Business Analyst.
