EIU Foundation edges closer to $5 million goal

TAMMY BEAR
Staff Writer

The EIU Foundation is 5.5 percent short of its 10th Decade Campaign goal of $5 million, with 23 months left in the fundraiser, said Foundation Executive Officer Dan Thornburgh.

"The total as of Jan. 22, which is the best time I have it for, was $4,727,946," said Thornburgh, who is also Eastern's director of university relations.

"It's our first really big effort at a fund-raising campaign," said Foundation President David Musgrave. "The response was overwhelming."

In 1984, the EIU Foundation began researching Eastern's need for private funding to be used for the enrichment of programs not provided for in Eastern's budget.

The Foundation set a five-year goal of $5 million to be raised to fund these programs, and the 10th Decade Campaign began in December of 1984.

Thornburgh expressed his satisfaction with the support the campaign received.

"Because we are nearing our goal, we are already looking forward to beginning a new program to raise private dollars," Thornburgh said.

He added that tentative plans are already being made for a second campaign.

The second campaign is being planned to coincide with the celebration of Eastern's 100th birthday in 1995.

Thornburgh pointed out that the EIU Foundation recently hired Ketchum Inc. of Chicago and New York as the consultant for the upcoming campaign.

The Foundation is in a transitional phase between campaigns. "We will be going back on campus to find needs that appropriated funds aren't covering," Thornburgh said.

He added that those needs will be presented to Ketchum Inc., which will then advise the Foundation.

Thornburgh doesn't know yet when the next campaign will begin. "That has not been determined yet," he said. "We are going to go through a stage of reassessment of our needs."

BSU picks up spare pledges

Flying pins, laughing participants and 15 sore arms, came together Monday night to raise funds during the Black Student Union's Bowl-a-thon.

"We plan on playing only one game, unless they want to play two," said Paul Johnson, carekeeper and fashion show committee member.

Committee member Erin McNulty said pledge sheets, for the bowl-a-thon, have been circulating since Thursday. She added, the average donation has been between 1 cent and 5 cents per pin.

"Some people went ahead and pledged a couple dollars," instead of signing the pledge sheet, McNulty said.

Fashion show coordinator Gianni Frederick said the money will be used to pay expenses incurred by the fashion show with any proceeds left over to go to the Big Brother/Big Sister program.

"Everybody's been really great about supporting the fundraising," Johnson said. The fashion show committee has planned six fund-raising events, including the bowl-a-thon, two bake sales and valentine novelties.

McNulty said she had 10 pledges on her sheet, while Andrea Pyle, former minority and international relations chair, said she had 21 pledges. McNulty was not sure of the total number of pledges from all the participants.

BACCHUS members will attend conference at WIU

RUSSELL STARE
Government editor

Members of BACCHUS (Boost Alcohol Consciousness Concerning Health of University Students) will be traveling to Western Illinois University in Macomb to meet with other programs from around the state to increase the awareness program on campus.

President Erin McNulty said the 10-15 person group will leave at 2 p.m. Friday and return Saturday afternoon.

An informal, alcohol-free gathering will be held Friday night to give the groups a chance to get acquainted, McNulty said.

Publicity committee member Denise Wasetis said the main purpose behind the conference will be to gather ideas from programs that have become established on campuses to bring new ideas to Eastern.

BACCHUS, named after the Roman god of wine and drink, is designed to make students aware of the effects of alcohol and to promote responsible drinking.

"He represented both the good points and bad aspects of wine," Wasetis said. She added there are currently 30 members of the Eastern chapter.

"Alcohol awareness is so new on this campus," Wasetis said. "At least we'll be able to get some new ideas from programs that have been around for awhile."

McNulty said the members at the conference will probably break into groups for the different lectures and programs to take full advantage of the program.

The members will discuss the happenings at a later meeting following the conference.

Wasetis said much of the funding for the program comes through donations and state funding.

BACCHUS comes under the direction of Sandy Gallion, drug, alcohol and AIDS awareness coordinator, and Adviser Patty Memer.

Meese denies reading the memo involving him in Israeli payoff plan

WASHINGTON (AP)—Attorney General Edwin Meese III said that he did not recall reading the portion of a memo on a $1 billion Iraqi pipeline project that referred to a payoff plan involving the Israeli Labor Party of former Prime Minister Shimon Peres.

The memo to Meese, from his longtime friend, attorney E. Robert Wallach, is the focus of a criminal investigation of Meese's activities by independent counsel James McKay that began nearly nine months ago.

After receiving Wallach's memo in 1985, Meese took no action in regard to the potential illegal activity mentioned in the document, sources familiar with McKay's investigation have said.

Meese said that since Friday, when the memo's existence was first disclosed in the Los Angeles Times, "there has been a cascade of misinformation, false headlines, half-truths, innuendos, and misunderstanding of the law."

Meese responded with a five-page statement which he read to reporters. He refused to answer any questions and walked out of the room as a reporter asked him whether he would remain as attorney general.

President Reagan, returning from a speech he delivered to an audience of religious broadcasters, was asked about Meese's situation. "No comment. I'm not going to talk about it," Reagan said.

"The language in Mr. Wallach's memorandum that has given rise to this speculation consists of 10 words in one of two long documents he provided to me," Meese said in his statement.

"I do not recall having read the specific words that that have now mushroomed into importance, but I certainly did not receive from the memorandum any impression of illegality whatsoever," the attorney general said.

He added that the memorandum, which is classified and which he refused to outline in detail, "contains no reference to bribes or payoffs."

The attorney general said that "I do not believe that the memo fairly implies that a violation of law was committed or contemplated" in regard to the pipeline.

Wallach was representing Bruce Rappaport, a wealthy Swiss businessman, aligned with Peres. Rappaport was a principal in the pipeline project.

Wife keeps dead husband 8 years

KNOXVILLE, Ill. (AP)—A woman who police say tended her husband's body eight years after he died, changing his clothing and bedding in the apparent belief that he was just sick, pleaded guilty Monday to misdemeanor charges in the case.

The body of Carl L. Stevens, which had been reduced to just skin and bones, was found last week after a relative helped authorities gain entrance to his home, officials said.

Carole Stevens, 42, and a man described as her houseguest, Richard Kunce, 56, were arrested Friday and held in Knox County jail on misdemeanor charges of failing to notify the coroner of a death.

At a court appearance Monday, Mrs. Stevens and Kunce both pleaded guilty to the charges and were released on their own recognizance by Associate Knox County Judge Ronald Tenold. They face a maximum penalty of 364 days in jail and a fine of $1,000.

Editor defends mercy killing article

CHICAGO—A prominent medical journal decided to publish a graphic essay, in which a young physician describes injecting a deadly dose of morphine into a terminally ill patient, "to provoke responsible debate" or mercy killing, its editor said Monday.

Dr. George D. Lundberg, editor of the Journal of the American Medical Association, defended the decision to publish the essay amid criticism from the public and doctor's who say the physician's actions were illegal and unethical.

"We've received a lot of mail discussing the issues and the majority of the mail is opposed to the action of the physician," Lundberg said, "although some of the mail commends us for publishing the essay for the purpose of a national discussion of the issue of the termination of life in a hopelessly ill terminal patient with great pain."

Breast cancer detection rate high; death rates also increasing—study

WASHINGTON (AP)—The breast cancer detection rate among American women is the highest on record, but death rates have increased slightly instead of improving from early treatment as experts had hoped, according to a federal study released Monday.

The study, compiled by the National Cancer Institute to reflect rates of incidence and death from all types of cancer, said breast cancer is still the leading cause of death from malignancy among women.

It says this finding suggests women are not taking advantage of screening techniques that could detect breast cancer at a stage when cure is more likely, although detection of breast cancer is at the highest rate in history.

The study also said that although lung cancer remains the leading cause of cancer deaths, the death rate decreased among males in 1985 but continues to increase in women.

NCI used various studies to compile a report generally reflecting cancer statistics for 1950 to 1985, with some cancer estimates for 1987. It said the report is "a very general picture" of cancer incidence, mortality and survival.

The rate of cancer-caused deaths is declining for the general population although some specific types of cancer have shown increases in death and incidence, the report says.

"The cancer mortality rate among Americans under the age of 55 have been decreasing during the time period... 1950-1985 (and) for all age groups to the age 85 when lung cancer, largely preventable disease, excluded," the report said.

For young cancer patients their future looks brighter. Mortality rates among patients under the age of 15 was about 10 percent over 35 years.

Gunmen seize newspaper office

LUMBERTON, N.C. (AP)—Two heavily armed American Indians who said they were protesting the death of a black jail inmate held nine hostages in a newspaper office Monday.

"The first thing they wanted to do was to talk to Gov. (Jim) Martin," said Eric Prevatte, a hostage who was released. Prevatte said one of the captors "has repeatedly told the hostages that he doesn't want to hurt anybody. He said he was very sorry this had to come down to this."

Seventeen people were in the offices of The Robesonian when the two men barged in about 9:30 a.m., Prevatte said. Eight hostages were released by midafternoon, said Police Chief A.L. Carroll. One hostage said two of those released had complained of heart trouble.

The Rev. Joy Johnson, who was negotiating with the captors via telephone, said a captor identified by authorities as Eddie Hatcher was "very calm at the stage. He has released some people in good faith. I think that once he has talked to a governor that he's ready to get himself up."

"We're trying to get some justice in Robeson County among the minorities." Timothy Jacobson, 19, identified as the other captor said in a telephone conversation with The Associated Press. "I want to see (Sheriff) Hub Stone out."

Stone said he had no comment.

City council 'hails' taxi ordinance; cabs may be part of Charleston scene

by MIKE STEINER
staff writer

The Charleston City Council is expected to discuss and vote Tuesday on an ordinance allowing the use of taxicabs in Charleston. The council will meet at 7:30 p.m. in the council chambers in the city municipal building, 30 Jackson Ave. The amending ordinance requires that before a license to operate a cab can be obtained, the licensee must meet certain specifications dealing with insurance and vehicle condition. The owner of a proposed cab must be insured against liability in the minimum amount of $250,000 for bodily injury to or the death of any person and $50,000 for damage to property. Concerning the vehicle condition, the cab must be kept clean, sanitary and mechanically safe at all times.

Mayor Murray Choate may direct any taxicab to be inspected to check if it meets these criteria. The inspections would be held on a time to time basis at a place designated by the mayor. In addition to vehicle condition, the name under which the taxi operates, as well as the word taxicab and the cab number would have to be painted on the side of the cab, readable at a distance of 20 feet. Also on the agenda is a vote on a resolution to give an economic development grant to Haz-Stor, 851 North Fifth St., a company which manufactures hazardous-storage buildings. The $4,170.93 grant would be given as an incentive for Haz-Stor's location and maintenance of a viable business enterprise in Charleston.

English fraternity captures chapter award

by JAMES BETZOLD
group editor

Epsilon Gamma, the Eastern chapter of Sigma Tau Delta, captured an outstanding chapter award via the organization's literary magazine, The Vehicle. Anne Zahlan, faculty advisor of The Vehicle, cited the magazine, as well as group-sponsored readings by students and faculty, as reasons for the award. "I don't think it (The Vehicle) was the only thing," said Zahlan. "But, it was a major factor." The award is in recognition of accomplishments during the 1986-87 school year. For the second straight year The Vehicle placed second in the literary magazine category sponsored by the Society for Collegiate Journalists.

Zahlan also cited student poetry from The Vehicle chosen for publication in the Sigma Tau Delta national magazine over the last two years. The $100 award and an accompanying plaque will be presented at the fraternity's international convention to be held in Orlando, Fla. in March. Zahlan said Bob Zordani, consulting editor of The Vehicle and a former president of the organization, will be attending the convention. Zahlan said the award is a first in recent history for Eastern's chapter. Eastern's chapter was founded in 1932. It was inactive in the 1950's, but was revived in 1964. Sigma Tau Delta took official control of The Vehicle in 1977.

Reagan's Contra aid package sparks angry protestors

CHICAGO (AP)—As President Reagan promoted his $36.2 million Contra aid package Monday, hundreds of protestors blocked the entrance of a downtown federal building in protest of the plan to fund the rebels fighting Nicaragua's leftist government. Chicago police arrested two women for disorderly conduct, and federal authorities issued citations against 80 people for "disturbances on federal property," said Tony Mitchell, spokesman for the U.S. General Services Administration. The 80 must appear before a U.S. magistrate and could be fined up to See related story, page 5.

$500 although their citations aren't considered arrests, Mitchell said. They were held briefly and released. There were no reports of violence during the demonstration, in which protestors tied a strip of sheets around the Kluczynski Federal Building and blocked its doors, authorities said. About 350 demonstrators gathered at the building at around 7 a.m. and had dispersed by midmorning. "They were blocking the doorways. They refused to move," said a Chicago police officer who would not identify himself. The Chicago women who taken into custody included Elizabeth Parsons, 24, and Deborah Sigler, 23. Parsons and Sigler were reportedly "sitting on the ground with locked arms, blocking the entryway to the building. They refused to move." The women were charged with disorderly conduct and resisting an officer. The demonstration was organized by Pledge of Resistance, a Chicago-based group "with a commitment to oppose any type of intervention or association within Central America," said Eileen Fay, a member of a Chicago group with similar goals called Synapses. The groups believe in self-determination for Central American countries like Nicaragua and "that the United States should not be involved in dictating to the government and the peoples of these countries what to form of government they should have," she said. Reagan meantime, portrayed his Contra aid package as a last-chance effort to make the leftist government of Nicaragua comply with the regional peace process.

Students seek more finances

By CRAIG EDWARDS
Staff writer

With the cost of higher education getting "higher" almost every semester, more students are finding it necessary to obtain loans. Many students find it difficult to repay those loans after graduating, and that's where the Peace Corp's new loan forgiveness program comes in. Peace Corps representatives will be on campus at 7 p.m. Tuesday in the Union to explain the new program and inform students about all that the Peace Corps has to offer. Dan Smolka, manager of the Chicago area Peace Corps recruitment office, said the plan enables Peace Corps and VISTA (Volunteers in Service to America) volunteers to cancel loans borrowed under the National Direct Student Loan (NDSL) program. For each of the first and second years of complete service, 15 percent of a volunteer's total loan obligation plus interest can be canceled. For each of the the third and fourth years of service, 20 percent of a volunteer's loan obligation including interest can be canceled.

"The students who will be able to get the most out of the new program are the ones who are freshmen right now," Smolka said, explaining that only "new borrowers" can be covered by the loan forgiveness program. Smolka said a new borrower is an individual who as of July 1, 1987, has no outstanding balance of principle or interest owed on a loan made under the NDSL program. However, students who do have outstanding loans and become Peace Corps volunteers can have payment deferred for the full time in the Peace Corps plus six months after leaving the corps, Smolka said. Smolka also said Congress has recently approved a budget increase for the Peace Corps, allowing it to recruit an additional 800 volunteers. "That budget increase also allowed us to raise the readjustment allowance for all volunteers from $175 a month to $200 a month," Smolka said. "Our volunteers are usually experts in their fields," Smolka said. "And developing countries are just screaming for these people."

Both Rather and Bush broke traditional rules

It's the Bible all over again.

David vs. Goliath (Sam. 17:4,49), or George Bush vs. Dan Rather (CBS 25:1/88), made the front pages of all the major newspapers and led national news broadcasts last week following their much televised spat.

Editorial

This was no ordinary spat, either. While there were no stones or slings involved, there may as well have been.

And, this televised war of words was very similar to the Biblical confrontation. Both sides prepared for the interview. Both sides could make gains through a good performance. Also, to the average viewer, it was little, helpless George Bush against the mighty media giant Dan Rather.

From the start, Bush set the tone of the interview, which was being taped live. Rather tried several times to corral Bush back to the questions, to no avail, which led to a confrontation that will assuredly be a point of discussion in ethics classes for years to come.

The point of debate centers around the cause of the confrontation. Was it Bush or Rather that started the raucous?

Most journalists will argue that Bush started the fray, while others contend Rather was the culprit.

Instigator aside, it was clear both violated several rules of interviews and debates.

First of all, Bush brought the argument down to a personal level when he criticized Rather for walking off the set for seven minutes to protest the delay of the newscast.

Much the same way a bully picks a fight, Bush was drawing the line and daring Rather to step over it.

Rather, on the other hand, grew increasingly flustered at the direction of the interview and eventually lost his temper, which is a Cardinal Sin to an interviewer.

This still does not detract from the fact that Bush avoided most of the probing questions and instead opted for a tough-guy approach.

Rather was only trying to get a straight answer on Bush's involvement in the Iran arms sale scandal. Bush, on the other hand, was trying to pick a fight with the biggest guy on the block, much the same way David approached his confrontation with Goliath.

Bush's plan of attack only gave him short term support and it still left the Iran arms sale question for another chapter.

If points would have been tallied, Rather, much to the chagrin of Bushites and Biblical historians, would have emerged the victor.

Everybody step into line. It's just about time for your AIDS test.

Surgeon General C. Everett Koop said he's hoping to screen every student at some major American university for the deadly virus.

As part of an open-air, day-long "gala" on AIDS prevention, Koop wants to anonymously sample the whole student population somewhere to draw conclusions about the spread of AIDS among young adults.

Almost immediately after he presented his plan, at a seminar in London last week, civil libertarians complained that this is unfair and asked the obvious question: "If he gets away with this, where will this kind of testing end?"

Yes, testing only one university is unfair, but really the testing doesn't need to end—test everybody.

Going out to test only one university is wholly unfair. Why just one? And why just the students at a few high schools, as he suggested?

Hundreds of colleges and universities around the nation don't have the resources to get their students in for AIDS testing. I would imagine if the surgeon general is proposing this plan then the federal government would be picking up the tab. So, if the government gets to moving its feet on Koop's idea, the only fair thing to do would be to afford it for all universities.

Which brings us to another question. Why just colleges and universities? There's no sense in stopping there

Sean O. Hogan

Everyone at every institution should be screened, not just college students. What about college faculty? Everywhere from nursing homes to nursery schools should be afforded the opportunity to undergo Koop's inquisition.

It's sort of silly to think Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome was recently invented. (Some people think it's a CIA plot to control the population and eliminate undesirables like gays and drug users.) However, it was recently discovered. So if it's possible to detect AIDS in bones, we should also dig up graves to find out exactly how many people AIDS has killed.

But all of that gets a little expensive, so a college probably a good place to start.

But to get accurate numbers, the tests should be mandatory. The more participants, the more likely the experiment will be on target. If one of those AIDS cases were to go unnoticed, the whole study would be unreliable.

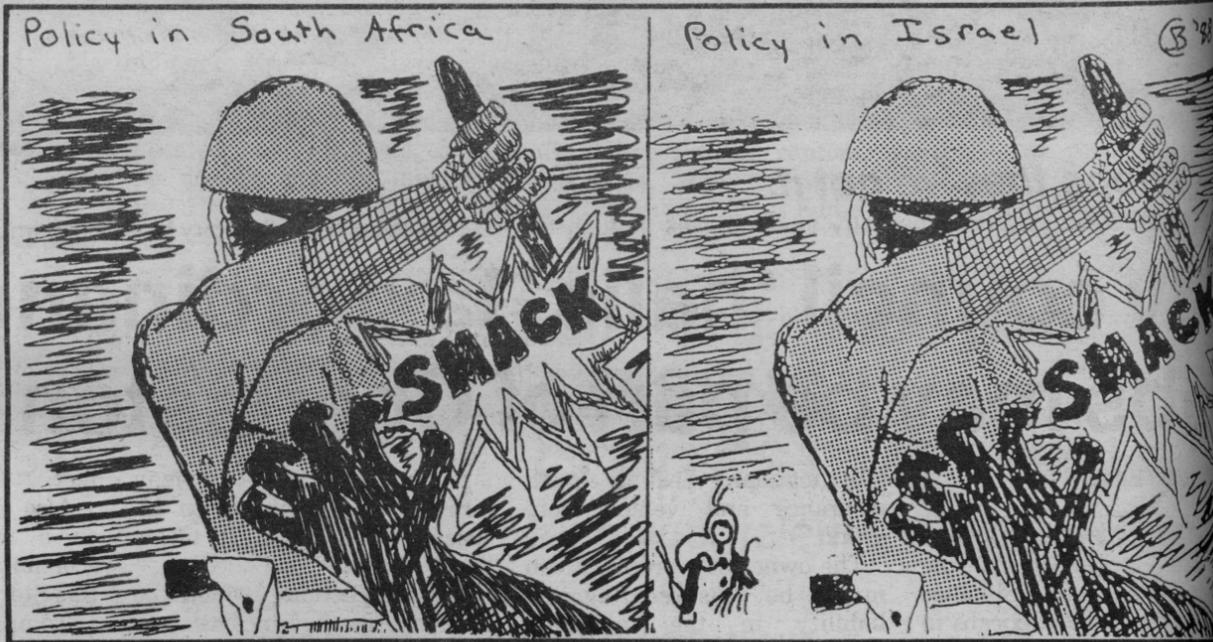

This really wouldn't interfere with anyone's constitutional rights, either. The Constitution mentions nothing about a right to education, so it's fair to say that a school has an interest in knowing the number of students carrying a deadly virus. And with breathing being the most common means of transmission, an AIDS case could wipe out a whole classroom.

What Koop did not make clear, is what will be done with the statistics when the survey is completed?

Since the virus is deadly, the names, addresses, phone numbers and photographs of all those who are positive for AIDS should be published in the report.

After all, decent folks should be able to know who is they really have to run from.

Your turn

Smith's 'wimpy' remarks unfounded

Editor:

This letter is in regards to an article, written by Larry Smith in Thursday's Edition of The Daily Eastern News, allegedly confirming that George Bush is a "wimp."

Mr. Smith, are you the kind of die-hard democrat that hates all republicans, and finds satisfaction in writing biased (misleading) articles at the expense of your readers? Do not get me wrong, I like democrats. It is because of them that we have republicans. If you are not a democrat, you probably are a republican. You could not be a republican though, because that would mean that you yourself "sold out" to your ego, by realizing the chance to grab the spotlight and blaspheme Mr. Bush at your party's expense. When I say sold out, I use the words with the very same meaning you did when you said that Mr. Bush "sold out" to Ronald Reagan in 1980. I hope you did not do that, on the grounds that you would not want to be known as a biased (misleading) hypocrite.

If you do not align yourself with either of the two major political parties, then you must be a devoted follower of Dan Rather's hacksaw journalism. Maybe I expect too much. After all, the chances of a "wimp" climbing the political ladder to the Presidency of the United States are about as good as your chances of showing us an intelligent viewpoint. If anything, George Bush's confrontation with Dan Rather on national television made Mr. Bush look like a victim of a malicious attack, not a wimp.

INF Treaty may bring arms race problems

Editor:

The London Times of Dec. 15, 1987, had a front-page story about a proposed collaboration between the governments of France and Great Britain. The ink was barely dry on the proposed Intermediate Nuclear Force Treaty when the newspaper reported of the possible development of a new air-launched nuclear cruise missile. The story contained assurances that the new missile would not violate the proposed INF Treaty.

It has been claimed that treaties might control certain weapons; but treaties have never stopped an arms race. It could even be asked if they merely distort and worsen the arms race. For example, the ABM Treaty of 1972 set prohibitive conditions against the United States (US) and Soviet Imperial Russia (SIR) from defending themselves against attack from intercontinental missiles. Today SIR is the only party in the treaty to possess a defense against such missiles. So much for words of paper about arms control. In recent months controversy has boiled over how the ABM Treaty should be interpreted.

It is an important subject since the ABM Treaty of 1972 became "the law of the land" (Article V, U.S. Constitution). In view of Soviet violations, I must wonder why it cannot be seen as a broken contract and regarded as null and void. Senator Nunn and his political factions wish it still be regarded as "the law of the land." With that legal standing, American President could be impeached for violating the treaty. I have never heard of the U.S. Congress attempting to impeach a Soviet violator—not even this contemptible 100th U.S. Congress.

What will happen in consequence of the INF Treaty remains to be seen. My bet is the arms race is about to develop some new distortions.

Denby against aid for Contra rebels

WASHINGTON (AP)—An Illinois farmer released by the Nicaraguan government after 56 days in prison said Monday he opposes aid to Contra rebels even though he once helped them.

Flanked by the men who secured his release, James Denby told reporters he is more than glad to support their position: rejection of President Reagan's request for a scaled-down $36.2 million aid package for the Contras.

"I'll pretty well go along with it," Denby said at a news conference in the Capitol. "Anybody who will do what they did for me, I want to help them in any way I can."

The House is scheduled to vote Wednesday on the administration's aid request, and Denby said he was sure the congressional debate was a factor in his release two months after his small plane was forced down over Nicaragua.

"These people are certainly not dumb," he said of the leftist Sandinista government that set him free Saturday.

Denby was joined at the news conference by Aris Anaonos, chairman of the Humanitarian Law Project of Los Angeles, and Bill Press, a Democratic U.S. Senate candidate in California, who negotiated his release.

"These were absolutely no conditions," Press said in denying suggestions that the Carlinville farmer agreed to speak out against aid in return for his freedom.

"By freeing Jim Denby from prison, the people of Nicaragua sent a strong signal of good will to the people of the United States."

"On Feb. 3, we hope that the Congress will send a strong signal of good will not just to Nicaragua but to all the countries of Central America, all of the people of Central America: 'You want peace. So do we. The only way to have peace is for the war to end.'"

Senate hopes to convince Gov. Thompson on tax hike

By JEFF SMITH
Staff writer

The Faculty Senate will discuss ways of convincing Gov. James Thompson and the state legislature to increase the income tax during its meeting at 2 p.m. Tuesday in the Union addition Arcola-Tuscola Room.

An increase in the income tax is needed to help support the education budget, said Chair John North.

Other universities are also involved in trying to influence a raise in the tax, North said.

Eastern President Stan Rives last Tuesday stressed to the senate the need to increase funds for higher education, saying the budget would be crippled without the extra funds.

Rives asked the senate to send a letter to Thompson supporting a tax increase.

Sociology Chair Robert Whittenbarger, Eastern's representative to the Faculty Advisory Committee to the Illinois Board of Higher Education, will attend the meeting, North said.

Whittenbarger said two topics he will be discussing in general are studies concerning minority enrollment and the quality of undergraduate education at state schools.

Seminar features sexual choices

"Making Sexual Choices," a life skills seminar, will be held at noon Wednesday in the Union addition Arcola Room.

"If students are expecting a lecture on venereal diseases and contraceptions, then I think they will be disappointed," said Health Education Instructor Susan Woods.

"The seminar takes more of an ethical and philosophical aspect toward sexual relationships," Woods added.

Woods said she will be discussing areas that men and women sometimes forget to examine before engaging in sex.

The seminar will discuss the motives, expectations and the practical aspects of a sexual relationship.

"I will discuss that birth control is something students should be aware of, but I won't show each kind," Woods said.

Women closing in on the pay gap

WASHINGTON (AP)—Women cracked the 70 percent barrier in 1987 for the first time on record in narrowing a pay gap between themselves and men, the government reported Monday.

The median weekly earnings of men working full time rose $17 from $428 to $445 between the end of 1986 and the end of last year, while those of women climbed $13 from $296 to $309, the Labor Department said.

In percentage terms and averaged over the year, the median weekly earnings for women working full time in 1987 were 70 percent of those enjoyed by men, up from 69.2 percent in 1986.

The gap has been steadily narrowing since 1979, when the Bureau of Labor Statistics first began collecting data on the wage differences by sex and when women earned 62.5 percent of what men made.

The median amount is the point at which one-half of the population group made more and half made less.

For the entire population of full-time workers, median earnings rose by $15 per week from $366 to $381 in 1987.

But after taking into account a 4.4 percent rise in consumer prices, their actual buying power declined by $2 a week. That represents a sharp reversal of 1986, when workers' purchasing power increased by $7 a week as a result of only 1.1 percent inflation in consumer prices.

Blacks also edged up, from 77 percent to 79 percent, in what they make when compared with whites. The median gross paychecks for blacks before tax and Social Security deductions rose $13 a week to $306 in 1987. The median increase for full-time white workers was $11 a week, to $391.

Black women received the biggest raises in actual dollars in 1987, with their weekly earnings climbing by $18 to $283.

Regency sparks false alarm

writer

The Charleston Fire Department received a report of a fire at the Windsor building in the Regency apartment complex at 5:52 p.m. Monday, which firemen later discovered to be a false alarm.

Capt. Paul Cottingham of the Charleston Fire Department said that two women from Andrews Hall spotted flames coming from Windsor and reported the fire.

After talking to the two women at the scene, Cottingham said he believed the report to be an "honest false alarm." The two students, Chris Letton and Elizabeth Adams, refused to comment on the false alarm.

"They (the two women) thought they saw some flames, so we checked things out, and we couldn't find anything," Cottingham said.

He said the fire could have been mistaken for flames originating from a charcoal grill on a patio.

"They thought the building was on fire. They handled it in an appropriate manner," Cottingham said. He added, "...we appreciate community response like that."

When asked about possible criminal charges, Cottingham said, "...as far as the fire department was concerned, charges were not even mentioned."

"Nine years ago Sunday, a fire (at Regency) destroyed a recreation building," Cottingham said.

State prison officials investigate Pontiac gun discovery

PONTIAC, Ill. (AP)—Prison officials are trying to determine how a loaded pistol got into the Pontiac Correctional Center and who owned the automatic weapon, a spokesman said Monday. Rick Howell, a spokesman for the Illinois Department of Corrections, said an inmate turned the seven-shot pistol over to prison officials Tuesday. "We're looking at how the gun got in there and we're checking to see who the gun belonged to before it got into the prison," said Howell.

He said there is a serial number on the pistol, but declined to provide other details about the incident.

Howell said that a newspaper report that the weapon was intended to be used to assassinate a top prison administrator "is just speculation."

The Chicago Tribune reported Monday that the inmate told investigators that the .25-caliber, pearl-handled Raven pistol was to be used to kill a Pontiac official.

"We have uncovered nothing to say that it was intended for an individual or group," said Howell.

The Tribune, quoting unnamed sources, reported that the inmate approached prison officials and offered to tell them the location of the chrome-plated automatic in exchange for time off in his sentence and a transfer to another prison.

The inmate, who was not named, led officials to the prison's Clinical Services Department and showed them the gun hidden in a paint can, the Tribune said.

The gun was the second weapon found in three months that informants said was intended to be used to kill a prison administrator at Pontiac, site of the fatal stabbing of one of the facility's two officials Sept. 3.

A homemade gun loaded with a single .30-caliber bullet was found Oct. 28 in an inmate's cell after an informant told prison officials of a plot to shoot Warden James Chrans.

Redskin has double wish come true in victory

Physical NFC Eastern division key to Redskin domination-Gibbs

SAN DIEGO (AP)—Super Bowl winners don't repeat. So after the Washington Redskins loss to New York in the NFC title game a year ago, Charles Mann was rooting for the Giants in the Super Bowl. That way, the Redskins would have a chance this year.

Mann's double wish came true Sunday when the Redskins went on a record-breaking binge that included 35 second-quarter points to rout the Denver Broncos 42-10 Sunday, becoming the fourth straight NFC team to capture a lopsided Super Bowl victory.

That led Redskins Coach Joe Gibbs to face the inevitable questions Monday about the difficulty of repeating as NFL champion. No team this decade has won two straight Super Bowls.

Gibbs' response: "I just want to get through our division first."

The last two Super Bowl winners, the Giants and Redskins, came from the NFC East, and Gibbs said he believes it's the toughest division in football.

"I thought that if any team around could repeat it was the Giants because they were solid at every position," he said of last year's champions, who fell victim to a terrible strike team, injuries and post-Super Bowl malaise, finishing last in the division with a 6-9 record.

That gives the Giants an easy last-place schedule next season. They get to play Detroit twice and Kansas City, while the Redskins are facing the likes of Chicago and Cleveland.

"I think the Giants are mad about what happened this year and will come roaring back," Gibbs said. "I think Philadelphia is coming on, and so are the Cardinals."

The NFC has won the last four Super Bowls by a composite score of 165-56 with 14 of those 56 points coming on fourth-quarter touchdowns as the NFC team was cruising with a big lead. In fact, the fewest points by any NFC Super Bowl team over that period was the 38 scored by San Francisco in its 38-16 victory over Miami in 1985.

Gibbs refused to acknowledge conference domination.

"Each of those games are totally separate," he said. "I don't see it as AFC-NFC. Each of those teams got hot for a day. What takes over and contributes to a lopsided game is difficult to understand."

Offensive tackle Mark May said after Sunday's game the Redskins were able to out-muscle the Broncos—as the Giants did—because they are used to physical games within the division.

Gibbs said the same thing Monday.

"When you come out of our division, it's a physical division. Every team in there is a physical football team," he said. "When you play Philadelphia, they are knocking you around. The Giants beat you up and the Cardinals and Dallas can hurt you."

That, of course, is one hurdle for Washington.

There also is expected to be some contention for the quarterback spot between 20-year-old Jay Schroeder, the incumbent entering the season, and 32-year-old Don Williams, who threw for a record 340 yards and four touchdowns to be named the game's Most Valuable Player. The 340 yards, 306 of them in the first half, was one of 10 Super Bowl records set by the Redskins. The four TD's tied a Super Bowl mark.

Gibbs said he believed there was a lot to be said for intrateam competition, the same kind he will have at running back with George Rogers, Kelvin Bryant and Timmy Smith. Smith, a surprise starter in Rogers' place, set another record with 204 yards rushing.

Execs offer Cards a home

ST. LOUIS (AP)—NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle has been told in writing that William V. Bidwill was offered to keep his team in St. Louis, a spokesman for a group of local business and civic leaders said Monday.

The spokesman for Civic Progress, a group of top business executives in the St. Louis area, said a lengthy presentation had been given to Rozelle over the weekend outlining the proposals that were given to Bidwill.

Bidwill announced on Jan. 19 that he wanted to move the St. Louis Cardinals to the Phoenix area and would seek league approval to do so. The move must be approved by 21 of the 28 NFL owners. A vote was not expected until the owners meet in March.

The Civic Progress spokesman said there were two reasons for making the formal presentation to the league: to give owners information they might need to make a balanced decision when voting on Bidwill's request, and to show that the city deserves serious consideration for an expansion franchise.

The final offer from Civic Progress to Bidwill included a guarantee of $2.6 million per year in income from luxury boxes over a period of 10 years. It also would have provided the Cardinals with an additional $20 million in funding until a new 70,000-seat domed stadium could be built in St. Louis.

Civic Progress has made it clear that its offer of financial support did not require that the businesses involved receive in return any degree of ownership in the team.

...Mosnia said. "I'm hoping that we can learn a lesson from what happened over the weekend and that we'll do better in the tournaments coming up.

"We need to have better awareness of what's going on in the field," Mosnia said. "We made a few defensive mistakes that we shouldn't have, like not picking up forwards on the attack. Indoor soccer is so quick that if you don't do things like that, you're going to get scored on all night.

"I have basically mixed emotions from the tournament," Mosnia said. "For the most part, we played well, but I was disappointed with the game against Drake. Hopefully, we'll play better this coming weekend."

The kickers' next tournament comes up this weekend in Evanston, as they participate in a charity tournament hosted by Northwestern University.

Eastern cagers drop 6th straight AMCU game

Ford free throws with :03 left ice conference victory for Crusaders

By DAVID LINDQUIST
Staff writer

Eastern's basketball team found no answers to its perplexing AMCU season start Monday night at Lantz Gym as it fell to Valparaiso, 63-59, for the Panthers' sixth consecutive league loss.

Eastern, now 8-10 overall, staged a comeback in the game's final minutes, as the Panthers hit three three-point goals in the contest's last 180 seconds.

But Eastern shooting during the rest of the evening was not as accurate, and the Crusaders held on to deal the Panthers their fourth conference loss at home.

The combined margin of victory in the Lantz losses to Illinois-Chicago, Wisconsin-Green Bay, Southwest Missouri and Valparaiso is 11.

"We didn't shoot the ball well enough," Eastern Coach Rick Samuels said.

The Panthers came into Monday's match-up shooting 51.2 percent from the field, tops in the AMCU. Against the Crusaders, however, Eastern could manage only 39.7.

In addition, Panther guard Jay Taylor, who averages 20.4 points per game and is a 62.5 percent shooter from the field, connected on four of 20 attempts and finished with 10 points.

This follows a career-high 39 point performance at Northern Iowa last Saturday in a quadruple overtime 126-121 loss.

Samuels said that sparking performance may have played a role in Monday's sub-par outing.

"Fatigue may have been a factor," Samuels said. "We did have to worry if legs would be tired tonight."

The Panthers looked a step slow on defense Monday, as Valparaiso penetrated for many inside baskets in the second half.

"We didn't stop them in key defensive situations," Samuels said.

"They drove all the way to the basket. We cannot allow that in the late stages of the game."

The Crusaders' final field goal, which gave Valparaiso a 61-59 lead with 22 seconds remaining, was a Jim Ford lay-up. Ford hit the game-sealing free throws to make the final 63-59 with three seconds left.

Ford, a 6-5 forward, led the Crusaders with 18. Last week he was named AMCU Player of the Week following 26- and 28-point outings.

Valparaiso forward Harry Bell was next among Crusader scorers with 16. Bell was six for six from the free throw line, including four key conversions in the final two minutes.

Eastern was forced to commit five consecutive fouls between 2:58 and 2:18 to put the Crusaders in the bonus.

The Panthers also had little trouble getting shots away as Taylor, Norm Evans and Tony Hemphill each hit three-pointers with less than three minutes left.

Hemphill also followed a Taylor miss with an inside bucket with a minute remaining, but Ford hit the clinching lay-up 40 seconds later.

Eastern center Vince Macciocchi equalled a season high in scoring 17 to lead the Panthers. Macciocchi also collected seven rebounds. Senior guard Evans added 15.

Kickers fail in bid to gain semifinal

By BRENT FEENEY
Staff writer

Eastern's soccer team won two of their three games in group competition, but failed to reach the semifinals of the National Collegiate Indoor Soccer Classic this weekend in suburban St. Louis.

"We didn't play badly in the tournament, but we made some defensive mistakes in the games," said Soccer Coach Cizo Mosnia.

"We did some things well and other things not so well," Mosnia said. "We've got another tournament this weekend in Chicago, and we'll try to correct those errors in training this week."

The Panthers won their first match of the meet on Friday when they defeated Southwest Missouri State 7-3, but ran into a hot goaltender the next day when they went up against Missouri-St. Louis.

Junior Pat Mulvaney shut the booters down cold in a 3-0 Rivermen whitewash on Saturday. "I don't think that UMSL could have won the tournament without him," Mosnia said of the eventual MVP winner. "He was just awesome, making saves left and right."

The final match saw UMSL beat Drake 7-2, giving them a final record in group play of 2-1.

In the semifinals, UMSL defeated Western Illinois 7-2, while Rockhurst College of Kansas City, Mo., defeated Southern Illinois-Edwardsville 2-1. The championship match saw the Rivermen defeat Rockhurst 4-1.

Cizo Mosnia

Mosnia pointed to Mario Mihalic, LeBaron Hollimon and Garry Laidlaw as having a great tournament for the Panthers.

As for this week, Mosnia is hoping the experience of having some indoor games under their belt will help them.

Panther ruggers fall by four to Alabama

By MIKE SMITH
Staff writer

TUSCALOOSA, ALA.—Eastern's rugby club made its longest trip in six years an experience which will not soon be forgotten.

Though the team lost to the University of Alabama 25-21, the score didn't dampen the spirits of the Eastern ruggers.

Team captain John Maher said: "The chance to see Southern rugby was well worth it. Playing in January was very strange. We're usually off from mid-November until March."

The layoff did not seem to hurt the team's performance, however. While Alabama jumped to a quick 12-0 lead, Eastern got on the board when John Wielgosz scored to make it 12-6.

Alabama added a penalty kick to make the score 15-6 at halftime.

Then, senior Tim Miller bowled over two men on his way to score to make it a 15-6 match.

An Alabama scored put the Tide up 19-12, but Eastern sophomore Darrell Baumgarten returned the favor to make it 19-18.

A Tide score on a one-yard throw-in from out-of-bounds proved to be the game winner. But, Baumgarten added a penalty kick to make the final 25-21.

"Both teams played well. It was a very close match that could have gone either way," said Sean Duffy, Alabama rugby club president.

Eastern's rugby president John Walker said: "I'm proud of everyone. We should hold our heads high and look forward to a great spring season."
