Cheap tricks Most campus criminals commit acts of vandalism

By MIKE CHAMBERS
 Staff writer

Crime is up on Eastern's campus and university officials are baffled as to why, a university police spokesman said last week. Mike Ealy, university crime prevention officer, said crime is on the rise at Eastern this semester as compared to previous years, but it is much too early to speculate why.

"Our biggest problem is vandalism," he said. "We've had some theft, but vandalism is the highest. (Yet statistics) do not predict trends for the future," he added.

The increase of crime is based on Ealy's increased work load as of late.

Ealy publishes a monthly Crimestoppers report which lists criminal acts committed on campus. So far this month, because of a rise in criminal activity, he has published three Crimestoppers reports. In all, 51 incidents have been reported for the month of September.

Why so much activity?
 "I wish I knew," Ealy said. Ealy added there are no hard statistics to find any pattern, but speculated that the unseasonably pleasant weather, which allows students to stay outside more at night, may be a related factor.

Another factor listed by Ealy is alcohol. "I would say, 80 percent of the incidents, alcohol is involved," Ealy said.

Bud Sanders, director of Eastern's counseling center, echoed that statement, saying students most likely to vandalize are "drunken students."

But as for other crimes, the most common being theft under $300, Sanders said there doesn't seem to be stock type of personality who is committing these crimes.

"Some of it is impulsive, some compulsive. It's really hard (to identify one group), it's quite a range," he said.

Statistics released from the University Police Department show that last year there were 128 thefts under $300 and 111 alcohol related incidents, including 28 driving under the influence reports.

As for dollar amounts, the report revealed that Eastern students and staff lost more than $30,000 because of crime and the university itself paid out $14, 508 in general revenue.

In all, the report indicated $48,052 in total losses due to van-

Israel warns Iraq against act of force

By the Associated Press

President Bush assailed Iraq on Monday for invading Kuwait, but hinted an Iraqi withdrawal could lead to settlement of the Arab-Israeli conflict.

Israel warned its response to an Iraqi attack would be "harsh and painful," and said it was giving out gas masks to all citizens.

America announced it was sending two batteries of Patriot air-defense missiles to Israel to help defend against an increased threat from ballistic missiles in Iraq.

In his address to the General Assembly, Bush echoed his previous harsh line against Iraq but tempered it with talk of a diplomatic solution. Iraq "has plundered Kuwait, terrorized innocent civilians and held even diplomats hostage," Bush said.

Aligning himself with remarks last week by Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard Shevardnadze, Bush said Iraq and its leaders "must be held liable for these crimes of abuse and destruction."

A British U.N. briefing quoted Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher as saying on a talk show Monday, "You can't go in and cause all that damage and desolation and damage to life ... without expecting to have to pay some compensation. ... Nor can you go and have your soldiers do some of the things that have been done without expecting them to be brought before the court and be answerable for their terrible deeds."

In Baghdad, Iraqi President Saddam Hussein ordered the release of nine French nationals believed to have been held at Iraqi targets as shields against attack - his second conciliatory gesture in two days.

On Sunday, he urged a peaceful international dialogue, and men-

Scholarship distribution to be studied

By RYAN CUNNINGHAM
 Staff writer

Eastern students excelling in academics are receiving drastically fewer scholarships than those playing in varsity sports, a distribution that Eastern's Faculty Senate will begin investigating at its meeting Tuesday.

According to reports in Eastern's Internal Governing Policies book, 76 percent of the tuition scholarships awarded by the university go to its athletes.

The rest are distributed among seven academic and extracurricular areas, according to the governing policy book.

The distribution is mandated by guidelines established each year by Eastern's President's Council.

David Carpenter, faculty senate chair, said he wants to "put some heat under (their) seats" in an effort to find out why the "huge imbalance" exists between academics and athletics.

Eastern President Stan Rives oversees the President's Council, and the question of scholarship monies is expected to be a topic of discussion when the Senate meets with Rives later this semester in executive session.

Eastern's four vice presidents serve with Rives on the President's Council.

Only about 2 percent of Eastern's students receive tuition scholarships.

That budget, as reported in the November 1989 issue of the governing policy book, distributes the scholarships the following ways:

- Art - 4.3 percent
- Athletics - 76 percent
- Journalism - 3.1 percent
- Music - 7.1 percent
- Radio-TV - 0.8 percent
- Speech Communications - 6.3 percent
- Student Leadership - 0.8 percent
- Theatre Arts - 1.6 percent

Vice presidential position in human resources filled

By SYLVIA BRATCHER
 Staff writer

After weeks of screening and interviewing, administrators of the Human Resources department have finally decided on James Pacino for its new vice president.

Pacino, who is currently the personnel director at the University of California in Santa Cruz, was selected to replace Drayton Justice, who has accepted a position at another university.

"The decision was a tough one," said Verna Armstrong, Eastern's vice-president for administration and finance, who also was instrumental in the decision-making process of the search.

“I will provide basic, fundamental, training programs that may enhance the quality of work life.”

James Pacino

Pacino was selected from five finalists who were interviewed by a screening committee and later met with the human resources staff, the civil service council, and the administration and finance council, Armstrong said. The final decision was then made by Eastern President Stan Rives. "The interviewing process is where we acquired the most feedback," Armstrong said. "We made our choice on the basis of experience, presentation and the needs of the department. We honestly felt James Pacino would best fit this position."

Pacino has worked as a personnel officer at the California College of Medicine in Irvine as well as in the U.S. Air Force. He received his master's in public administration at California State University and his bachelor's in philosophy at Loyola Marymount University.

Pacino will begin his duties, which include observing citizens' work environment and making sure they are paid on time, on Nov. 1.

"I will provide basic, fundamental, training programs that may enhance the quality of work life," Pacino said. He added, "I'm very honored to except this position and I'm pleased to be coming to Charleston and Eastern."

2 Live Crew dealer begins Florida trial

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) - An all-white jury on Monday began hearing the trial of a record store owner who is charged with selling a 2 Live Crew album to an undercover officer after a judge had ruled it obscene.

The trial is the first time the black rap group's album "As Nasty As They Wanna Be" has faced scrutiny in criminal court.

Charles Freeman was arrested in his E-C Records store by six undercover Broward Sheriff's deputies on June 8.

The arrest came two days after U.S. District Judge Jose Gonzalez said the Miami-based group's album was obscene.

The lyrics include sexually explicit language and have been criticized as promoting violence against women.

Using Gonzalez' ruling, prosecutors say they have a strong case before Broward County Judge Paul Backman.

"When you have listened to (the album), you will know that it is openly offensive to an average person," Leslie Robson, Broward assistant state attorney, told the jury in her opening statement.

If convicted of selling obscene material, 31-year-old Freeman faces up to one year in jail and a $1,000 fine. Freeman, who is black, said before the panel was chosen that he would be comfortable if other blacks were selected.

But he declined to comment about the jury's racial makeup after its selection. His attorney, Bruce Rogow, who also represents 2 Live Crew, said the defense was surprised that about 35 potential jurors, only one was black. Rogow said he was confident that if the defense's arguments are clearly presented, "whatever kind of jury we have will come back with the right answer."

The defense, which will present its case after the state rests Tuesday, will argue the album does not appeal to anyone's prurient interests and that it has literary and artistic value, Rogow said.

"They may be strong words, words that are not used in everyday conversation but they are spliced together into ways that are imaginative and creative," said Rogow. "The mistake here is to only hear the nasty words. You have to listen to the whole record."

Although Backman refused to allow a transcript of the "As Nasty As They Wanna Be" lyrics presented in court, he did allow the album to be played Monday.

Glenn Williams, vice president of student affairs, said repairs to school property due to vandalism are funded by revenue bonds which are derived through student fees - fees that increase as repair costs increase. "You break out a window in the union and we put it back with student's money," Williams said. Ealy said Tuesday the police force of 20 officers has increased their patrols of parking lots and residence halls. But he said more officers are needed to effectively curb the rash of "opportunity crimes."

tioned France as a possible negotiating partner.

U.S., French and British officials said Monday they wouldn't talk until Iraq withdrew from Kuwait.

Also Monday, Iran's official news agency said the foreign ministers of Iran and Saudi Arabia met Sunday in New York for the first such high-level talks since the nations broke diplomatic ties 2 1/2 years ago.

No progress was reported, but the meeting was the most positive sign yet the two countries may be moving toward a rapprochement. A reconciliation would help draw Iran into the anti-Iraq camp and intensify Saddam's isolation.

Saddam has been courting Iran, its war enemy from 1980-88, for help in puncturing the U.N. economic embargo imposed after Iraq invaded Kuwait Aug. 2.

In other developments:

• Oil prices tumbled $3 per barrel to $36.10 following Bush's speech at the United Nations, which was seen as raising hopes of a diplomatic solution to the 2-month-old crisis. As oil fell, the Dow Jones average of 30 industrials jumped 63 points to 2,515.84.

• Gold prices fell $15.90 an ounce, to $386.60, on the New York Commodity Exchange.

• Saddam addressed a message to participants in a U.N. summit on children, telling them U.N. sanctions are depriving Iraqi children of milk and food are "a matter of deep concern and regret."

• Iraq denied responsibility for a grenade attack Thursday on a Djibouti cafe in which a French child was killed. French Foreign Minister Roland Dumas said France would retaliate if Iraq was found responsible.

• Britain announced it is sending a 3,500-strong support force, including a 400-bed field hospital, to the gulf to back up an armored brigade, the Desert Rats.

City to designate Homecoming parade routes

By MIKE CHAMBERS
Staff writer

The Charleston City Council will vote on a resolution Tuesday night that will allow Eastern's homecoming parade to roll down its streets on Oct. 13.

The resolution will close a number of side streets along Sixth and Seventh streets, which will serve as the main parade route.

According to the resolution, traffic will be closed on Seventh Street from Monroe to Hayes avenues.

Sixth Street will be closed from Monroe to Lincoln avenues.

Monroe Avenue will also be closed from Sixth Street to Seventh Street. Jackson Avenue will be closed from Sixth to Seventh streets; Grant Avenue will be closed from Seventh to Ninth streets and Hayes Street will be closed from Seventh to Ninth streets.

The closings will take effect from the hours of 3 a.m. to noon on Oct. 13.

Also scheduled for the 7:30 p.m. meeting, to be held in the conference room of the Municipal Building, will be voting on a resolution that may allow operation of a local recycling service.

The not-for-profit service would be established by Michael Kuo, a part-time English teacher at Eastern, and would be operated through a telephone answering machine on which area residents could leave addresses for recycleable goods pickup the following morning.

Previously, Kuo had asked for $850 for start-up costs which include a truck, insurance, a telephone line and an answering machine.

The service was welcomed by city leaders, and Commissioner Bruce Scism suggested during the last council meeting that Kuo may want to ask for more money to expand the service.

"If we're going to get it started, we might as well do it right," Scism said.

The council also suggested that the service solicit donations from area businesses.

"I'd like to give him more to buy buckets," Scism said, referring to 5-gallon color-coded buckets used by at least two Champaign-based recycleable material collection services.

The color-coded buckets are used to separate materials, such as glass, aluminum and paper.

The council will also look at a proposal to spend $50,000 on a new computer system for the city.

Scism said the current system is more than 20 years old and needs updating.

He said the city has been looking at several systems and will make a recommendation of a system that would fit the needs of the city best, but, Scism added, its costs may be over budget.

AB set to tighten up spending

By RUDY NOWAK
Student government editor

Financial Vice President Ken Wake has written a proposal that would punish boards that spend money from a designated line item for something different without the Apportionment Board's permission.

Wake said the proposal could be passed after Tuesday night's discussion and sent to the fiscal agents from the different boards.

Wake wrote in the proposal that after the first offense a written warning would be issued to the fiscal agent.

After the second offense that occurs in the same budget year, the line item that was overspent would be frozen until the fiscal agent comes before the board to explain the actions, Wake added.

AB makes the budgeting decisions for the University Board, Student Government, Student Publications, Sports and Recreation, Student Government and AB.

The board also oversees the allocation of additional funds and the movement of money from one expense line item to another.

In other business, the AB will get the requests for additional allocation and line item transfers that will be presented at next week's meeting.

"We only have a few requests and they are all from the UB (University Board)," Wake said.

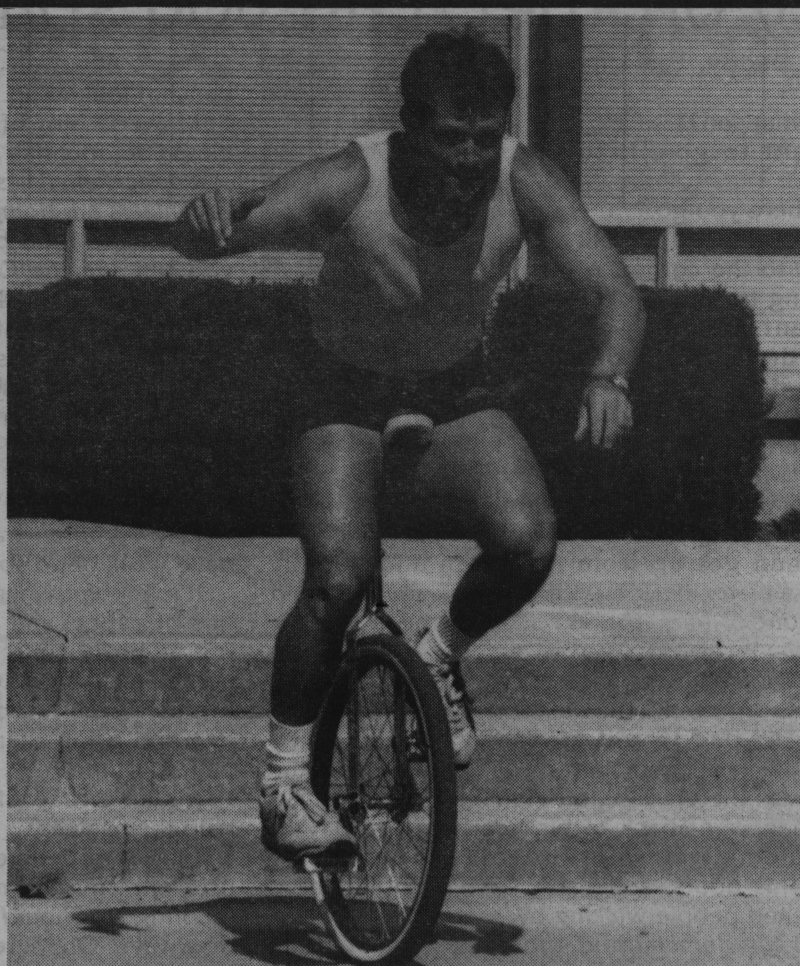

There are only two times of year that boards can request money which is additional to their approved budgets from the previous year.

This year the deadlines for applications for additional allocation are Oct. 1 and Feb. 1.

Wake said the requests are given a week in advance for AB members to read through the requests.

"The main reason for this is so the board can ask questions and have the questions answered," Wake said.

Next week the board will hear presentations from the boards asking for additional monies and transfers.

IBHE to discuss funding for occupational council

Eastern may receive $25,000 from the Illinois Board of Higher Education to use for the Illinois Occupational Information Coordinating Committee, which is designed to disseminate career information in Illinois.

Established in 1977 in response to federal legislation, the committee makes labor market and occupation information available to educational organizations and career planning services throughout the state.

The Board of Governors is represented on the committee by Eastern, which acts as the fiscal agent for the committee. The Board of Governors is the governing body for Eastern, Western Illinois University, Northeastern Illinois University, Chicago State University and Governors State University.

The IBHE then, oversees the Board of Governors and three other university systems in Illinois.

About 80 percent of the committee's funding is derived from its member agencies, which include the Illinois Department of Commerce and Community Affairs and the Department of Labor.

In other business, the IBHE will also review Gov. James Thompson's actions for the 1991 fiscal year, in which Eastern was appropriated just over $52 million, which was $17 million less than the university's initial request.

Because of a tightening state budget, funding for education has lessened during the past five years. However, a temporary income tax surcharge that was approved a year ago has funnelled more than $100 million to education and largely responsible for a tuition freeze at Eastern for the past two years. Prior to the tuition freeze last fall, tuition rates at Eastern have increased by more than $1,000 in a decade.

The Illinois General Assembly will vote this summer whether to continue the 20 percent income tax hike.

If it not approved, Eastern may be facing a tuition increase next fall.

Russ Hodel, a spokesman for the IBHE said it is essential that the General Assembly vote to continue the tax surcharge.

Bar owner faces 68 charges in hearing

By BOB McKEE
City editor

Panther Lounge owner Dave Isbell will answer to 68 counts of Charleston liquor code violations during a 9 a.m. hearing on Oct. 16 in the City Council Chambers of the City Municipal Building, 520 Jackson Ave.

City Attorney Brian Bower said Wayne Lanman, Charleston's mayor and liquor commissioner, will preside over the hearing, which likely will decide the fate of the Panther Lounge, 1421 Fourth St., and possibly Roc's Tavern.

At this hearing, Lanman will be sitting in a judicial capacity, hearing the case and determining if Isbell was in violation of charges stemming from an Aug. 31 bar raid of Panthers.

The raid generated $6,725 in fines, $100 each from 67 individuals under the age of 19 who were in the bar, and $125 from a 20-year-old found to be drinking.

It is up to Lanman what penalties, if any, will be imposed. He can either choose to fine Isbell up to $1,000 for each offense or suspend his license for up to 30 days on each count — a total of $68,000 in fines or a 68-month suspension.

Lanman also has the option to revoke the bar's Class C license, which would also affect the license for Roc's, since Isbell also owns it under the name of Casablanca Management Co.

A city ordinance prohibits anyone from holding a liquor license if he has previously had one revoked.

In the raid, three Panther's employees also were charged with allowing a minor to frequent a drinking establishment — a penalty carrying a maximum fine of $500.

Tavern employees Richard J. Jablanski, 9H2 Stevenson Hall; Brian P. Van Vooren, 1427 Ninth St. No. 1; and Timothy S. Flanagan of River Forest, are being represented by attorney S. John Muller, and are scheduled to begin a jury trial in Coles County Circuit Court on Nov. 19.

Gulf crisis counseling available to students

By LARRY LITRELL
Staff writer

Eastern students who are worried about friends and relatives serving in the armed forces in Saudi Arabia will have the opportunity to receive free advice from a counselor at 7 p.m. Tuesday in the Gregg Triad food service.

Bud Sanders, from Eastern's Counseling Center, will give advice and answer questions students might have concerning the difficult situation.

"There is a great amount of fear and anxiety because of the potentially dangerous situation," Sanders said. "There is a lot of uncertainty, and not knowing what will happen is very frustrating."

Sanders hopes to help students find constructive ways of coping with the frustration and anxiety.

"College students may find it hard to go about their normal lives," Sanders said. "When faced with such a situation they may feel that things such as studying and classes are unimportant."

The discussion is being organized by Paul Krapf, a resident assistant in Weller Hall.

"People on my floor have friends who are in the National Guard that have been called into active duty, and they have come to me for help," Krapf said.

He added other resident assistants have had the same experience.

"We thought we would try and get them more professional advice," Krapf said.

At least four Eastern students and four university employees have been called to duty in Paris' Army National Guard unit, the 1544th Transportation Company. The unit is scheduled for deployment to the Persian Gulf.

Illinois prison population rise highest in nation

CHICAGO (AP) — Illinois' prison population grew faster than any other state's during the last fiscal year and posted its greatest increase ever, corrections officials said Monday.

Drug offenders serving longer sentences increased the state's prison population from 22,576 to 27,295 — a 20.9 percent increase, Illinois Department of Corrections spokesman Nic Howell said. "More drug offenders are coming in for longer periods of time. It's going off the scale," Howell said.

The U.S. Department of Justice conducted the comparison, released this week by the department's Bureau of Justice Statistics. Illinois' increase surpassed Texas, where the prison population grew 18.9 percent, and New Jersey, which posted a 16.5 percent.

State voter registration down sharply

CHICAGO (AP) — Chicagoans yawned at voter registration efforts this summer, and thousands of Illinois residents have dropped off the voter registration rolls after the 1988 presidential elections, officials said Monday.

Statewide voter registration dropped by about 42,000 people between the November 1988 general election and this year's March primary, a state Board of Election official said.

"We won't be able to recover the ground we've lost since 1988. A lot of voters just aren't impressed with their choices," said Ray Andrade Jr., president of one of Chicago's largest voter registration efforts.

Officials noted that registration usually declines during years without presidential elections.

But voter registration leaders and public policy experts also said voter apathy was a primary reason people failed to sign up this summer.

Nearly 6,015,000 voters statewide registered to vote in the March primary, down from the 6,356,940 in November 1988, said Ronald Michaelson, executive director of the State Board of Elections.

The March figure is just 11,000 higher than the number registered to vote in 1986, the last non-presidential general election in Illinois, Michaelson said.

Statewide, nearly 2.5 million eligible voters aren't registered, he added.

A registration drive this summer by the Chicago Board of Election Commissioners failed to meet its goal of 100,000 new voters, leaving the city with fewer registered voters than at anytime since 1942, spokesman Tom Leach said.

"It's been disappointing. It's been slow," Leach said. During a registration drive, the board sent 4,000 volunteer deputy registrars into the field and two-man teams to supermarkets and parades.

But the effort netted just 65,000 new voters, Leach said.

And in October, he said, a door-to-door review is expected to remove 50,000 to 150,000 ineligible voters from the registration rolls. Andrade's organization, the Midwest-Northeast Voter Registration and Education Project, oversees registration efforts for almost 100 community groups and for 500 to 600 deputy registrars.

The group managed to sign up only 20,000 new voters, a figure Andrade called alarming.

"I don't know of any other efforts that are doing better than we are, and that worries me," Andrade said.

More than anything else, apathy is driving voters away from the registration tables, said Paul Green, director of the Governors State University Institute of Public Policy.

"There's just a general belief the politics of today can't solve the needs of today," Green said.

"There may not be a need for any deep philosophical analysis," he said. "People just don't care."

Ratings system needed revision to avoid stigma

Last Wednesday, the Movie Picture Association of America announced it was dropping its dreaded X rating from the ratings system. The MPAA is replacing the X rating with NC-17 (No children under 17 admitted).

The change was due in part to several recent controversial movies that the MPAA had rated X. Often, theater owners and newspapers won't run or advertise X rated movies, thus cutting into the picture's audience.

Many of the recent films, "Tie Me Up! Tie Me Own!," "Henry: Portrait of a Killer" and "The Cook, the Thief, His Wife and Her Lover," were slapped with an X rating.

An X rating on these films put them in the category with adult movies such as "Debbie Does Dallas" and "Deep Throat." The two sets of movies are, unarguably, completely different.

In the past, advertisers have exploited the X rating, advertising movies as XXX to show just how pornographic their films were. The viewing audience came to associate X ratings with only one type of movie. Film makers would often edit their movies to avoid that stigma.

Now, the MPAA is going to trademark the new rating. The X rating wasn't trademarked and advertisers and producers could do with it as they pleased, including slapping triple X ratings on their films.

Hopefully, the trademarked rating will prevent such abuse, thus avoiding any stereotypes the X rating had developed.

Now, with the new rating, film makers no longer will have to edit their work in order to avoid the stigma of the X rating.

"If it's rated X, it must be one of them pornographic movies."

The film will still have the same available audience, but people who are turned off by X-rated movies, generally thought of as hardcore pornography, may discover some of the best current moviemaking.

Hey brother, can you spare a dime?

"Hey Daddy, can I have a dollar?"

"For what son?"

"I want to give it to the bum."

"OK, here you go."

The kid grabbed the bill and ran back to the corner. A man was sitting behind a low fence on a vent covering a heat tunnel, drying his shoes out after the damp night. He looked like an exhibit at the zoo, some animal going about his business while people walked by.

"Here you go mister," said the kid, smiling, leaning over the fence with the dollar bill.

The man got up from his perch and humbly walked over to the kid with a styrofoam cup held out in front of him. The kid stashed the bill in the cup.

"Thank you and God bless you."

"You're welcome," the kid answered. Then he ran back to his daddy and grabbed his hand. They crossed the street and started walking off across the Mall toward the Washington monument.

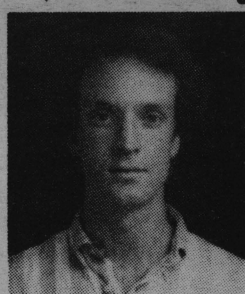

The man went back to his heat vent quickly to keep others away from his prize location. He checked his boots, still damp, and then sat there and watched people walking by.

Mitch Snyder claimed there are almost three million homeless people in the United States.

A lady walked up to me last week as I walked up the hill to the Washington monument. She didn't say a word. Her clothes were old and dirty. She gave me a little card that explained the situation. "I'm deaf and I have three children. Will you buy this card?" Another guy ran by at the same time, screaming anything he wanted. The lady was walking away. He came up to me, pointing everywhere and said "If I had a rubber, I'd fk her!" Then he ran screaming down the hill again.

walking, not even glancing over at the pile on the bench. I looked up. "Ya got any change?"

I waved him off with my hand. He said "God bless you, friend."

Comic Relief has raised millions of dollars. The organizers are doing the best they can.

From the little park down Pennsylvania Avenue you can see the Capitol and monuments looming over the area. In the shade of a tree, the man sits up and pulls what's left of his shirt up over his shoulders. He sits by himself, ignored by most tourists, busy looking at monumental buildings.

Sometimes, someone looks over but their eyes steal away quickly before the man can catch their eyes. They know if he does, that he'll ask for something.

One common traits of the homeless is that they have weak or no social ties.

It's hopeful when a man comes up to me with a pile of papers and asks if I'll buy one for a quarter. It's a paper put out and distributed by the homeless. I open it up and one story tells about a former homeless person who now has a place to live and a job thanks to the profits raised by the paper.

It's an extraordinary effort by the homeless to help themselves.

Thanks to people like you and me, the homeless problem isn't getting any better. We have a habit of ignoring it. Should I just step over this guy in the doorway? Oh, sure, we might watch Comic Relief because Robin Williams is funny, and then pledge a few dollars. That's really easy.

But we're not going to do much more than that are we?

It's too bad that it seems to have come to the point that the homeless are the only ones who can help themselves. We could wish them well.

But it is sad to see so many homeless people around all vying for their own little space with what seems to be no regard for each other.

... they have weak or no social ties.

Ignorance clouds writer's opinion

Dear editor:

This letter is in response to a column written by Bob McKee titled "Fraternity isn't the one to be blamed." This article was written with some ignorance toward hazing and with some lack of common sense. You were correct in saying that all fraternities have parties and drink, but ones on social probation must do so with a little tact. In fact, of the 12 sanctions, 7 clearly stated that the use of alcohol at any social function would not be tolerated. By reading the police report it stated the pledge was, "incredibly intoxicated and very, very inebriated." Right there would be a good indication that the pledge was not "caught" outside McAfee Gym.

Also if you would have investigated the topic further, you would have found that an ambulance was called to the scene to see if the pledge was alright to stumble home. The festivities began between 9 and 9:30 p.m. Friday and the pledge was dragged back to his dorm by two campus police officers by 11:15 p.m. This was a little more than your usual social evening, but I would imagine all of this was just a slight oversight.

Basically your self-righteous attitude has clouded your ability to form a competent opinion.

Council to consider 20 course proposals

By JEFF MADSEN
News editor

The Council on Academic Affairs will review 20 course proposals Tuesday for the human behavior, social interaction and well-being segment of Eastern's new general education program.

The human behavior segment is one of eight that the CAA must approve courses for by Nov. 18 in order that they be listed in the 1991-92 course catalog. Freshmen who enter Eastern in August of 1991 will be the first subject to the new general education requirements.

course catalog, the CAA is now meeting on Tuesdays in addition to its regular Thursday meeting time. The CAA will meet at 2 p.m. Tuesday in the 1895 Room of the Martin Luther King Jr. University Union.

"We'll do what we can (to review courses)," CAA chair Larry Bates said Monday. "I think we're still rather optimistic about it."

Students will be required to obtain 46 credit hours in the general education core, which includes six hours in the human behavior, social interaction and well-being segment.

The 20 courses the CAA will review

Tuesday include proposals from political science, geography, sociology, journalism, speech, leisure studies and physical education departments.

"This is the final step in the president's (Eastern president Stan Rives') task force that was embodied three years ago," Bates said.

The adoption of the new requirements is based on Eastern's Study of Undergraduate Education, which was completed two years ago and recommends a broad core of classes to give students a broad liberal arts education.

Courses the CAA will review Tuesday include The Anthropological Perspective, which is "a comparative study of contemporary cultures of the world." If the course is approved, it would replace ANT 2730, Introduction to Cultural Anthropology.

The CAA will also review course proposals targeting global politics, the economics of social issues, human geography, world geography and the news, media and society.

Bates said the CAA still has to approve courses in the Foundations of Civilization, Quantitative Reasoning and Problem Solving segments in addition to courses in Cultural Experience, Science and Senior Seminar cores.

Support group begun for children's disorder

By RED REARDON
Staff writer

Local residents are beginning a support group in Coles County for children who suffer from a common hyperactive disorder called AD-HD.

The disorder, formally known as the Attention Deficit Hyperactive Disorder, is common among children who lack attention from parents and peers and display hyperactive habits.

"Some children are not hyperactive but still have the attention deficit problem," said Debbie Einhorn of the Family Matters counseling group based in Effingham. "They (children) may be unable to concentrate if there was a television or music playing in the background."

"It is what I always call 'flightiness,'" she added. "They aren't able to stay with a task for a given period of time and they usually flip from thing to thing. They may not be responsive when they are spoken to because their mind is someplace else."

Einhorn said the disorder is diagnosed by a medical doctor and is considered a learning disability that contributes to behavioral problems such as impulsiveness and frequent fits of anger.

"This is a chronic problem. It would have to be that way all of the time," Einhorn said. "And it is serious in that it affects school learning. If there are not modifications to the environment, that child could have severe problems learning."

The support group is designed for parents to exchange information about children who have been diagnosed with AD-HD and to provide techniques in helping to remedy it.

The staff at Family Matters will help launch the Charleston group, which will meet for the first time on Oct. 18 in the Gritti Room of the Sarah Bush Lincoln Health Center.

'Secret Affairs' tickets go on sale for shows

By LISA INMAN
Staff writer

Tickets are now on sale for Eastern's first theater production of the semester, "The Secret Affairs of Mildred Wild," to be performed Oct. 4-6 and 11-13.

"People of all ages are welcome to come and see 'The Secret Affairs of Mildred Wild' performance," said Jerry Eisenhour, director of the performance. "There will be lots of enjoyment for everyone and nothing to offend anyone," he added.

The comedy, which is being performed entirely by Eastern students, surrounds the lives of a husband and wife who own an old bakery/candy shop that is about to be demolished, Eisenhour said.

The protagonist of the play, Mildred, escapes into a fantasy world of movies whenever the world's problems begin to close in on her, Eisenhour added.

However, the cast members are not the only Eastern students in the production, Eisenhour said.

The assistant director, as well as the costume designers, are all Eastern students, he added. In addition, "The people in this production are not just theater majors," Eisenhour said, "because anyone could have auditioned."

To insure a good seat, Eisenhour suggests students buy their tickets in advance rather than at the door.

Tickets are $3 for Eastern students and senior citizens, $5 for high school students and $6 for adults.

The ticket office, located in the Doudna Fine Arts Center, is open from 1-5 p.m. Monday through Friday. Tickets also may be purchased one hour prior to each performance.

Construction workers Mark Evans and Jack Coon continue working on the Ninth Street sewers Monday as part of the work being done in anticipation of the connector road to Illinois Route 130.

Ninth Street repairs to continue

By GEOFF T. MASANET
Staff writer

Students who live near Ninth Street and Taft Avenue should get used to traffic woes, since construction for a connector road there to Illinois Route 130 will not be complete until Christmas of 1991.

Dan England, resident engineer for the project, said about 10 percent of the construction for the $1.2 million project is complete, but Ninth Street traffic will remain restricted until the second stage of the project is complete.

In early September, Ninth Street was narrowed so construction crews could lay storm sewers for the connector road project.

Ninth Street will remain constricted at least until stage two of the project, paving over the roadwork, is complete.

Presently, students who live in University Court cannot access Ninth Street and have to enter and exit the complex on an access road off of Seventh Street.

"We've completed installing the storm sewer and poured half of the cement (west lane of Ninth Street) for stage one," England said. "We have also begun construction of the north lane of Taft Street, which is part of stage two."

He added the entire project has been broken down into five stages.

Mark Dwiggins, Charleston

city engineer, said the connector road from Fourth to Ninth Street will tentatively be named McKinley Avenue and the portion from Ninth Street to Route 130 is tentatively named Taft Avenue.

"We hope to construct three lanes of Ninth Street, from Taft to McKinley, and all three lanes on Taft Street, from Ninth Street to 800 feet east," England said.

England said that construction hasn't been delayed as of yet, and that work should continue on schedule.

"Construction will continue right on through the winter as long as the weather permits," England said.

Congress, Bush begin selling budget

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Bush and congressional leaders of both parties began the tough election-year task Monday of selling their painful $500 billion deficit-reduction compromise to wary rank-and-file lawmakers.

Democrats said the task of building support for the package of tax increases and spending cuts would be helped greatly if Bush would deliver a television address explaining to Americans why the nation's ailing economy needs such bitter budgetary medicine.

"We in Congress can't prepare them," said Sen. Wyche Fowler, D-Ga., a participant during most of the four months of budget bargaining this year. "It is only the president going on national TV who can convince the public it is in their long-term best interest. ... If he convinces them of that, it will pass."

Democrats had asked Bush at the White House Sunday to make the speech, participants in the meeting said. Bush told reporters in New York that he had not yet decided whether to go on television. "But if it would help, I would be glad to do that," the president said.

Bush, meanwhile, signed a stop gap spending resolution to keep the government going for five days while more work is done on the budget. He called the compromise "the right package at the right time" and "our best chance to get the deficit under control."

Wall Street reacted favorably to the agreement. The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials rose 63.36 points.

The leaders' sales effort was dealt a blow when one of Congress' leading conservatives, Rep. Newt Gingrich, R-Ga., announced he would oppose the proposed tax increases and spending cuts.

Gingrich had left the White House Sunday shortly before Bush and congressional leaders announced their five-year agreement.

Gingrich complained on Monday that the plan - the largest deficit-reduction package ever - would enact permanent tax increases while leaving spending cuts up to Congress to enact in the future.

He was also upset that the plan did not contain enough measures to help businesses. "We can do better for America," said Gingrich, the No. 2 House Republican. "This package will lose jobs, raise taxes and deepen the recession."

The plan's $134 billion in new taxes on gasoline, alcohol, tobacco, airline tickets, incomes of the wealthy and other items have angered many Republicans.

They also complained that defense cuts of up to $182 billion were too deep, and that domestic programs were not pared enough.

Numerous Democrats don't like the packages $105 billion in spending reductions for benefit programs such as Medicare and the fact that many of the taxes - such as those on gasoline and alcohol - take a deep bite out of poor peoples' incomes.

Lawmakers of both parties expressed anger that home heating oil was among the petroleum products that would be subject to a 2-cent-per-gallon tax.

"Obviously it is not a proposal that most members of Congress want to rush out screaming in the streets with joy about," said House Speaker Thomas Foley, D-Wash.

One justice shy, high court tackles a deep, varied load

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Supreme Court, opening its 1990-91 term one justice short, agreed Monday to decide whether juries may impose stiffer sentences because of a crime's impact on the victims or their families.

The court said it will use a case from Ohio to consider reversing recent rulings banning such victim-impact evidence.

The case was among some 1,000 acted upon by the eight justices as they returned from a three-month summer recess.

They rejected appeals in the vast majority, agreeing to hear and decide just 25. David Souter, President Bush's first nominee to the high court, is expected to fill the vacancy created by the July retirement of Justice William Brennan.

The Senate is expected to confirm Souter on Tuesday, making him the 105th justice in the court's history. The court in this term plans to hear arguments in key cases involving abortion counseling, fetal protection, school desegregation and the war on drugs. The justices previously granted review of appeals in those cases.

For the first time in 34 years Brennan was not on the bench as the court convened for a new term. He walked into the courtroom using a cane and sat in a section reserved for special guests as his former colleagues paid tribute to him.

Chief Justice William Rehnquist praised Brennan for his personal warmth and wise counsel as he read an exchange of letters between Brennan and the other justices. Brennan, 84, the court's leading liberal voice, retired because of failing health.

In other matters, the court agreed to consider letting state outlaw all barroom-style nude dancing. The court will consider reinstating such an Indiana ban.

The court also refused to free Southern Baptist seminary in New Orleans from having to grant divinity degree to a man the seminary says is unfit for Christian ministry.

The court also refused to block the possible rebroadcast of part of a television documentary about the internationally publicized child custody battle over Hilary Foretich.

Germans prepare to unite

WEST BERLIN - Germans on Monday got ready for the nation's party of the century - a celebration of unity that could be disrupted by thousands of radical street fighters in Berlin.

In Hamburg, West German Chancellor Helmut Kohl said the powerful new country will have to take on a greater international role. "Everyone must know that there is no withdrawing into a comfortable niche of world politics," Kohl told a convention of his Christian Democratic Union.

In other developments:
• East German authorities began releasing some prisoners under an amnesty program designed to make amends for sentences imposed by the Communist system.

• The U.S. commandant, Maj. Gen. Raymond E. Haddock, formally deactivated his West Berlin command at a ceremony attended by top-ranking diplomats and his two Allied counterparts, Maj. Gen. Robert J.S. Corbett of Britain and Maj. Gen. Francois Cann of France.

• Tens of thousands of Poles flooded into West Berlin, on one last, wild shopping spree before visa requirements are imposed on unification day. When the clock strikes midnight Tuesday, the two German states will become a single, sovereign nation, ending more than 45 years of postwar separation.

What started with church-sponsored protests in the gritty East German industrial city of Leipzig last year has led to the merger many had considered only a nostalgic dream. The result: an economic powerhouse of nearly 78 million people in the heart of Europe. Kohl is given much of the credit for bringing about unification less than 11 months after the opening of the Berlin Wall.

The chancellor was able to calm Polish and Soviet fears enough to remove potentially sticky obstacles coming from the East. That included an unusual agreement to let Soviet troops stay in what is now East Germany until 1994. At the same time, Kohl joined with President Francois Mitterrand of France in pledging an even greater push for European integration in the West.

Kohl will lead the celebrations starting Tuesday night in front of the Reichstag, the historic German parliament building that still bears the scars of fighting between Soviet and German soldiers at the end of World War II.

Beer will flow and fireworks will light up the night sky. Police were bracing for trouble from thousands of leftist and rightist radicals. The mass-circulation Bild newspaper said that 10,000 leftists were expected to go on a rampage, breaking store windows and looting merchandise.

Police fear they will clash with rightists who have also vowed to march through Berlin. West Berlin police spokesman Joerg Gallas said he thought the number was "exaggerated," but acknowledged authorities will be on the alert.

As Kohl's Christian Democrats merged Monday with their East German sister party during a convention in Hamburg, Kohl looked ahead to the country's place in international affairs. "A united Germany must become more involved than it was possible to do during the separation," he said.

For decades, West Germany and East Germany followed the lead set by Washington and Moscow. Lately, there have been growing demands for Germans to help secure the world stability from which its businesses profit handsomely.

Soviets OK freedom of religion law

MOSCOW (AP) - The Soviet legislature gave final approval Monday to a law on freedom of religion, then began debating a bill that would reduce the influence of atheism's strongest advocate, the Communist Party.

Together, the measures would give the force of law to two of the key reforms introduced by President Mikhail Gorbachev: tolerance for religion and competition for the party.

The Supreme Soviet approved the law on freedom of religion by a vote of 341-2, with no abstentions. It forbids the government from interfering in the practice of religion, formally ending decades of repression.

"This is a law that affects millions of people ... and a major step forward for democracy," the legislature's president, Anatoly Lukyanov, said after the vote.

Debate is scheduled to continue Tuesday on a proposed law on public organizations, including trade unions and political parties. It would set procedures for forming new parties and guarantee them equal rights with the Communist Party.

It would also limit the influence of any party, including the Communists, on the armed forces, police and KGB. "People in military service and holding positions in law enforcement organizations shall suspend active political participation in parties," the proposed law says.

In the past, the Communist Party has kept a tight grip on the armed forces and law enforcement agencies - and through them, on the entire country. Yuri Kalmykov, head of the legislative committee that drafted the bill, said it would allow soldiers, police officers and KGB agents to remain Communist Party members, but they would have to stop taking orders from the party. The law would also strike at the Communist Party's privileged position in other government agencies, eliminating party membership as a condition of employment.

"A citizen's participation or non-participation in the activity of a (political party) cannot serve as grounds for limiting his rights and freedoms, including holding a position in a state organization," the proposed law says. It adds that the government shall not provide "any sort of privileges or advantages" to employees simply because they are party members. The 17 million-member Communist Party agreed early this year to surrender its constitutional hold on power. Since then, many smaller parties have arisen, including the pro-reform groups Democratic Platform and Democratic Union in Moscow and various nationalists organizations such as Rukh in the Ukraine, Berlik in Uzbekistan and Sajudis in Lithuania.

McDonald's nearly doubles Soviet price for Big Macs

MOSCOW (AP) - Feasting on a Big Mac is going to take even a bigger bite out of Soviet wallets.

McDonald's has nearly doubled the price of the two-patty hamburger in Moscow, where a meal at the restaurant has become "practically unaffordable for the average Soviet citizen," the government newspaper Izvestia reported Monday.

The price hike to 6.95 rubles - more than four hours' pay for the average Soviet worker - was attributed to the rising cost of meat, a newspaper reported Monday. The Oak Brook-based fast-food chain has been serving more than 1 million customers a month in Moscow since the restaurant opened in January.

Previously, a Big Mac cost 3.75 rubles. Restaurants in state hotels charge 2 to 3 rubles for an entree, while private restaurants may demand up to 50 rubles. The exchange rate for rubles varies greatly.

In Chicago, near McDonald's headquarters, a Big Mac costs $1.95. Officials at McDonald's headquarters could not be reached for comment.

The price-hike decision was made by the board of the joint Soviet-Canadian McDonald's venture after the Soviet government announced it was increasing prices for meat and other products this month, according to M. Tulupnikova, business manager of the Moscow McDonald's, the world's largest.

The ingredients are produced locally at a $50 million factory built by McDonald's of Canada. The newspaper said the line at the restaurant wasn't noticeably smaller Monday because of the price increase. During the summer, some customers waited up to 90 minutes to reach the counter. Last month, the official Tass news agency reported that "it would be wrong to say that all Muscovites are satisfied with McDonald's."

"Some are deterred by high prices," it said. "Visitors spend, on average, about 10 rubles in the shop. For many, this is much more than their daily pay." McDonald's plans to build 19 more restaurants in the Soviet capital.

Boston beats White Sox 4-3, clinches tie with Blue Jays

BOSTON (AP) - Boston clinched a tie for the American League East title Monday night as Dwight Evans snapped an eighth-inning tie with a run-scoring single to give the Red Sox a 4-3 victory over the Chicago White Sox.

The win moved the Red Sox two games ahead of Toronto with two games left for each team. The Blue Jays lost to Baltimore 6-3 and will be eliminated on Tuesday if the Red Sox win or they lose. The Red Sox won the AL East in 1988, but have not won a World Series title since 1918.

After the White Sox rallied for three runs in the top of the eighth, the Boston came right back. Reliever Ken Patterson walked Wade Boggs to start the eighth. Barry Jones (11-4) relieved and was greeted by Ellis Burks with a single off the left-field wall.

Boggs, however, was thrown out at third by Ivan Calderon, with Burks taking second on the throw. Mike Greenwell was walked intentionally and Evans followed with his third hit of the game, a ground single to center. Jeff Reardon (5-3) got the victory by bailing out Larry Andersen in the eighth.

Blanked on five hits for seven innings, Chicago rallied to tie the score 3-3. Calderon doubled to left center, and Andersen relieved Dana Kiecker. Lance Johnson bounced a ground-rule double into the right-field stands scoring Calderon.

Andersen struck out Carlton Fisk and Frank Thomas, but Dan Pasqua grounded a single to center scoring Johnson. Rodney McCray ran for Pasqua and stole second on Andersen's first pitch to Robin Ventura. On a 2-2 count, Ventura sliced a bloop double to shallow left scoring McCray with the tying run. Kiecker managed to escape in the first, although 12 of his 16 pitches in the inning were balls and two of the strikes went for a single and a double. The 29-year-old rookie then settled down and checked the White Sox on three hits for the next six innings. The Red Sox took the lead in the third with an unearned run off Greg Hibbard (14-10).

Baltimore 6, Toronto 3

BALTIMORE (AP) - Toronto moved within one game of elimination in the American League East on Monday night as the Baltimore Orioles beat the Blue Jays 6-3 behind the strong pitching of rookie Jose Mesa.

The Blue Jays, who have lost five of their last six games, entered the day trailing the Boston Red Sox by one game. The Red Sox beat Chicago 4-3 Monday night and now have clinched at least a tie for the division title as each team has two games remaining.

Mesa (3-2) gave up four hits and three runs in 7 2-3 innings for his second victory over the Blue Jays in 19 days. Kevin Hickey got one out and Gregg Olson finished for his 37th save.

Baltimore trailed 3-1 in the sixth before rallying for three runs against David Wells (11-6). Billy Ripken walked and Mike Devereaux followed with his 12th homer, one pitch after Toronto pitching coach Galen Cisco went to the mound for a talk with Wells.

After Cal Ripken fouled out, Randy Milligan singled, took second on a groundout and scored on Bob Melvin's double. Baltimore added a run in the seventh against reliever Frank Wills when Craig Worthington doubled and scored on a single by Billy Ripken. Sam Horn hit a pinch homer in the eighth for the Orioles' final run.

McCausland looks for success

By KURT GOODWIN
Staff writer

Although the first wrestling meet is more than a month away, Eastern coach Ralph McCausland is already looking forward to a successful 1990 season for his wrestlers.

McCausland said that he is quite confident of his team's ability and said "only injuries could hurt them." Right now, the team is concentrating mainly on weight training, building its strength and reducing the risk of injuries.

Only one senior will be starting this season - Mike Wheatly - at 126 pounds. However, McCausland said he has high hopes that sophomores John Webber (118) and Tom Hugunin (158) will be major contributors. Last year as freshmen, Webber was 18-10 and Hugunin was 24-12.

McCausland recruited two junior college transfers - Steve Grass (190) and John Hilkey (HWT). Grass and Hilkey were both All-Americans at their respective junior colleges. Ray Servick (134), Dave Marlow (142) and Bob Johnson (167) were all redshirted last season but will be starting this year.

The team will be trying to make up for the loss of its two best wrestlers - Terry Murphy and Copache Tyler, both of whom went to the NCAA tournament last year as seniors. Even with the loss of these men, though, McCausland said that this year's team may be one of the most talented bunches in several years.

McCausland added that he plans to take one match at a time and is not really looking into the future. The team's season opener is Nov. 10 at the Illinois open tournament in Champaign.

Roberts paces women's harriers

By MIKE BRODERICK
Staff writer

Freshman Brooke Roberts has lived up to her potential of being one of Eastern's women's cross country team's best runners.

In fact, she is the Lady Panthers' best runner.

Roberts finished 26th at the 11-team University of Illinois' Invitation this past weekend after finishing eighth at Illinois State a week ago.

In Saturday's meet, she earned a personal-best time of 18:40. She has finished first for the Lady Panthers in each of their meets this fall.

"She is a very fine young runner," said head coach John Craft. "She is well aware of her potential. I am glad she chose Eastern."

Roberts was the 1989 Class A state cross country champion at Shelbyville High School, covering the two-mile course at Detweiler Park in Peoria in 12:22, and was ninth in the state 3,200-meter run at O'Brien Stadium in May.

Roberts was also a state qualifier in the 1,600-meters after running 11:33:2 and 5:35:2 respectively in sectional competition.

Roberts said her goal for the season is to make all-conference. Roberts added that she feels that she stands out as a good distance runner and believes she is doing well this year.

Roberts started running in Shelbyville as a sophomore. She credits her cross country coach in high school, Kevin Kramer, for keeping her involved in the sport and encouraging her to stick with it.

Roberts made a slight transition from the 2.1 mile in high school to the 3.1 in college. "The more she runs, the better she gets," said Craft.

At ISU, her first mile split was 5:46, her second a 6:11 and her third a surprising 6:09, two seconds faster than her second split.

Expos pound Cards 15-9

MONTREAL (AP) - Tim Lincecum's grand slam highlighted a seven-run seventh inning as the Montreal Expos, who had scored only 16 runs in their previous 11 games, used two seven-run outbursts to defeat the St. Louis Cardinals 15-9 Monday night.

It was the switch-hitting Lincecum's ninth homer of the season and fifth grand slam of his career. All his grand slams have been hit right-handed. Lincecum's blow offset four home runs by the Cardinals, two by Milt Thompson. It was the first time since April 11, 1987, the Cardinals hit four homers in a game.

Trailing 9-7, the Expos' seventh inning rally began when Delino DeShields, Tim Lincecum and Larry Walker hit consecutive singles against Ken Dayley (4-4), who was relieved by Mike Perez. Andres Galarraga singled to score DeShields and Otis Nixon walked, forcing Wallach home with the tying run.

DJ loses spot on Celts

BOSTON (AP) - Dennis Johnson, a member of three NBA championship teams, has lost his spot on the Boston Celtics as the team makes a push for younger players.

The Celtics announced Monday that Johnson will not return to the team for the upcoming season. Johnson, who played seven years for the Celtics, met with team officials over the weekend. They decided not to renew his contract, which expired at the end of last season.

"This was such a difficult decision to make, considering the stature of Dennis Johnson," said Coach Chris Ford. "I consider him to be the consummate professional and a fine example for present and future Boston Celtics."

With the return of Brian Shaw after a year in Italy, first-round draft pick Dee Brown and Reggie Lewis, Kevin Gamble and John Bagley, the Celtics have a young corps of guards to rely on during the coming season.

The 36-year-old Johnson said in a statement that he would pursue offers from other teams. He said the Celtics officials "presented this to me in the best possible way. They were up front, honest and professional with me, and gave me more consideration that I could ever imagine."

"My years in Boston have been great ones, and I'll always remember them," Johnson said.

Johnson was drafted by Seattle in 1976 and was the MVP of the 1979 playoffs, leading the SuperSonics to their only championship. After four years in Seattle, Johnson was traded to the Phoenix Suns. He joined the Celtics in 1983 and helped lead the team to championships in 1984 and 1986.

Johnson has been named to the league's all-defensive teams more than any other guard in NBA history.

"When Dennis Johnson was brought here to Boston, he filled a huge void in our team. His great defensive play and his leadership were major reasons why we were so successful in the 1980s," Celtics president Red Auerbach said. "No matter where else he has played or will play, Dennis Johnson will always be a Boston Celtic."

Sandberg hits 40th homer, but Cubs lose

PHILADELPHIA (AP) - John Kruk tripled, doubled and drove in three runs as the Philadelphia Phillies defeated the Chicago Cubs 7-6 Monday night despite Ryne Sandberg's National League-leading 40th home run.

Sandberg's two-run homer in the third inning made him the third player in major league history to hit 40 home runs and steal 25 bases in a season. The others were Hank Aaron of the Atlanta Braves in 1963 and Oakland's Jose Canseco in 1988.

However, Sandberg's homer wasn't enough to prevent the Phillies from taking a two-game lead over the Cubs with two games left in the race for fourth place in the NL East.

Philadelphia's Jose DeJesus (7-8) allowed four hits and three runs in the six innings. Loser Kevin Coffman (0-2) gave up six runs and seven hits in four-plus innings.

Doug Dascenzo's leadoff triple and Mark Grace's groundout gave the Cubs a run in the top of the first. Lenny Dykstra, who went 3-for-3 and raised his average to .326, opened the Phillies' first with a triple and then scored three runs on Darren Daulton's sacrifice fly, Wes Chamberlain's single, Kruk's RBI double and Ricky Jordan's single.

The Phillies added a run in the second on an RBI single by Dykstra. After Sandberg's homer pulled the Cubs to 4-3, Dykstra and Daulton walked in the Philadelphia fifth and Coffman was relieved by Randy Kramer. Kruk hit a two-run triple and scored on Charlie Hayes' single for a 7-3 lead.

The Cubs scored three runs in the eighth off Chuck McElroy. Two runs scored on Grace's bases-loaded double and the third came in on Andre Dawson's groundout. Dykstra, the Phillies' center fielder, threw out Grace at the plate when he tried to score the tying run on Derrick May's fly ball.

Roger McDowell, Philadelphia's fifth pitcher, got the final out for his 22nd save.

With the victory, the Phillies have clinched at least a tie for fourth place in the division.

The St. Louis Cardinals, in the midst of one of their worst seasons ever, have assured themselves of their first last-place finish since 1918.

Eastern defensive end Kent McIntyre tries to grab Illinois State running back Vic Northern in the Panthers' 28-7 loss to the Redbirds Saturday night in Normal.

Redbirds used blitz to defeat Panthers

By CHRIS BOGHOSSIAN
Sports editor

NORMAL — Blitzing was a word that was used several times Saturday night in Eastern's 28-7 loss to Illinois State in both teams' Gateway Conference opener in Normal.

Unfortunately for the Panthers, though, the Redbirds capitalized on their blitzes on offense and defense. Illinois State players said that they had planned to blitz and be blitzed the entire game.

"This week in practice, we put an emphasis on the blitz because (Eastern quarterback Jeff Thorne, a freshman) was young," said ISU linebacker Wilbert Brown, who led his team with 10 tackles, including one for a loss, and two broken-up passes. "A couple of times, I think he (knew we were going to blitz), but on several occasions, it was so fast — we didn't even get touched — he didn't have a chance. Today, everybody had a big play. We all just played together."

The Redbirds sacked Thorne six times for a total loss of 61 yards and put pressure on him the entire contest.

On the other side of the ball, Illinois State took advantage of three Eastern blitzes to score long touchdown plays of 46, 78 and 45 yards.

Redbird quarterback Brian Chaney, who scored the team's first second-half touchdown on a 46-yard run and threw to running back Vic Northern on two others, said that he knew when the Eastern blitz was coming and he adjusted.

"As soon as it was obvious they were coming, Vic got out of the backfield in a hurry," Chaney said. "As soon as he got past their line he was to turn and look for the ball."

That's exactly what Northern did. On both plays, the first for 78 yards and the second for 45, Chaney — under pressure — dumped the ball out to Northern, who followed his blockers for the long runs.

"Brian laid the ball into me perfectly and the receivers down field threw some great blocks," said Northern, who caught five passes for 147 yards. "Without their blocks, I wouldn't have made it."

Soccer team looks for answers

By R.J. GERBER
Staff writer

After going 1-5 on its recent roadtrip and dropping its last three games, Eastern's soccer team is looking for some answers.

The Panthers opened the journey at the Illinois State Soccer Classic in Normal. They left the tournament dropping both of their games while scoring only one goal.

Eastern tried to regroup at the Governor's Cup in Edwardsville. The Panthers defeated Western Illinois 3-0 and earned a berth in the championship match against host Southern Illinois. Eastern played almost half of the entire game with a man disadvantage. But it clawed its way back, only to fall 3-2 to the Cougars.

This past weekend, Eastern traveled to Texas to face nationally ranked Southern Methodist and Texas Christian. Eastern was beaten 3-0 in each contest.

During the roadtrip, Eastern only scored six goals in six games, but the goalkeepers have done an admirable job, allowing only 13 goals over the six-game stretch.

The Panthers returned to Charleston Monday with a bad taste in their mouths.

"We have been disgusted with our play," junior halfback Steve Baker said. "We know that we are much better than we have been playing. In the SMU game we had a chance to win it." (the game was scoreless at halftime). But they got a penalty kick and scored and we got a little down. After that, things just went downhill."

Baker said that Eastern came out working the ball well against TCU, but something happened.

"For the first 10-15 minutes we played pretty well," said Baker, who leads the Panthers with three goals and an assist. "Then we had a mental lapse and they scored. The goal never should have happened. After that we didn't finish our chances and we played really bad."

Senior forward Mario Mihalic said that the Panthers just seem to be missing something.

"I don't know what it is," Mihalic said. "It's always something. There is just something missing. The whole team just can't get it together."

Mihalic added that the team really had a letdown after SMU scored on the penalty kick.

"The first half was a great start," Mihalic said. "But the penalty kick bummed us out. We had a hard time coming back. We just haven't been getting lucky. Sometimes you have to have luck to win."

Eastern will put its Mid-Continent Conference unbeaten streak of 17 games (16-0-1) on the line Friday against Valparaiso at Lakeside Field. The streak dates back over the last four seasons.

Mihalic, who recorded a hat-trick against Valpo last season, said that the Panthers need to win this game.

"We haven't lost to Valpo since I've been here," Mihalic said. "I love playing against them. We need to go out and score as much as we can. We need to get things going to be ready for our big conference games against Cleveland State and Akron."

Baker said that Eastern has to play more as a team.

"We will have to come out firing against Valpo," Baker said. "Usually at this stage in the season we would be gearing towards an NCAA tournament berth, but now we want to make the season respectable and win the conference. We just need to learn how to play together."

Eastern hosts Valparaiso at 4 p.m. Friday at Lakeside Field.

Laidlaw leaves Wings

By CHRIS BOGHOSSIAN
Sports editor

For now, Garry Laidlaw is happy as a graduate student working for his master's degree at Eastern.

So happy, in fact, that he left the training camp of a professional soccer team to return to his temporary home in Charleston.

About two weeks ago, Laidlaw, who played four years of soccer as a forward at Eastern before graduating in May, went to Wichita, Kan., to try out for the Major Indoor Soccer League's Wichita Wings.

After impressing the coach in the team's practice and especially in a scrimmage game in front of 3,000 fans in which he scored two goals, Laidlaw made the first cut on Sept. 23.

But a desire to finish his master's degree and pre-arranged travel plans made Laidlaw decide against traveling with the team to Texas for two games against the MISL's Dallas Sidekicks.

Although he left, Laidlaw said he is not at all disappointed about with the tryout.

"I'm really happy with the way it went," said Laidlaw, who resides in London, Ontario. "I left because I thought I was going to get cut. It didn't look like I was going to get the last spot."

Laidlaw said that when he got to camp, there were six openings on the squad, but by the time he left, just one was left.

"They made the first cuts after the scrimmage game," said Laidlaw, who is an assistant under Eastern's head soccer coach Cizo Mosnia. "After that, (head coach) Terry (Nicholl) hadn't said anything to me."

"I only had about two more days before my plane reservations (Thursday), so I went up to Terry after practice Tuesday and I asked him if he could give me any indication of my chances."

Laidlaw explained to Nicholl that he had a flight planned for Thursday to return to Charleston, and Nicholl told him that he wanted Laidlaw to go with the team to Dallas last Friday.

"He told me he wanted me to feel like I had a fair trial, and I told him I thought I did have a fair trial," Laidlaw said. "I had an ample opportunity."

Laidlaw said the unexpected arrival of several veterans to the team lessened his chances of making the club, especially the acquisition of forward Steve Rowe, who had to return to the Wings after they traded him.

"Terry talked to me and told me there was one position left (out of 18 total on the team), and they still had not signed Jason Hasford, who is very good, a very talented player," Laidlaw said. "He said 'I'll tell you right now that it'll be hard to take his position.' He was honest with me, and he said he did want me to go to Dallas with them."

After being away from classes and his graduate assistantship in the recreational sports department for nearly two weeks, though, Laidlaw decided that returning to Charleston would be his wisest decision.

"It didn't look like I was going to get that last spot," he said. "I really want to finish my master's — I can be out of here in June. I'm looking to play for the Canadian League already because it's outdoor."

"I had a lot of catching up to do (here), and I was debating whether or not to come back. The main thing is, I got what I want."

Although he left camp, Laidlaw said he still wants to fulfill his dreams of playing professional soccer, at least for a few years. After that, he said he wants to go into collegiate coaching in the United States.

"I think that's what I want to do for a few years — maybe three or four or however long I can last," Laidlaw said. "(Nicholl) told me that he thinks I have a future in professional soccer."

Volleyball team travels to Butler

By ANN TASTAD
Staff writer

Eastern's volleyball team will be playing its last game before its conference schedule begins when they travel to Indianapolis to take on Butler University at 7 p.m. Tuesday.

"We're going to work on a couple things," said coach Betty Ralston. "We'll work on shoring up our right side blocking and left side hitting with different people and techniques. We'll try to attack out of the right side more because that's our strong side."

The Lady Panthers have taken on Butler many times over the past years and Ralston acknowledged that Eastern and Butler are very much alike.

"They are really comparable to us," Ralston said. "Their outside hitters are traditionally strong and they have a senior setter who is smart and very good. They run a quick offense so we'll have to block them and we'll work on putting the ball away more."

The Lady Panthers are coming off a long weekend in which they lost three matches in a row and are looking to pick up some momentum.

After Tuesday's match, Eastern has a 10-day break before its conference schedule begins. Eastern is 8-11 overall while Butler is 9-7.

"We could have won all three matches over the weekend because none of the teams are way above our heads," said Ralston. "And Butler is the same way. They have a pretty good record but they lost to Northern Illinois in three games, which I guess is good."

Eastern lost to NIU in four games over the weekend.

Eastern will open its conference schedule Oct. 12 when it travels to Indiana State.
