Mayor affirms tough stance on bar policy

By MIKE CHAMBERS
City editor

Charleston Mayor Wayne Lanman reaffirmed Monday his commitment to punish local bars that violate city liquor ordinances. His pledge came despite a recent "disappointing" ruling by the Illinois Liquor Control Commission to reduce penalties Lanman handed down to two Charleston bars last fall.

Lanman said he plans sometime soon to ask for a re-hearing on the Panther Lounge case, in which the state liquor board said Lanman's order to revoke bar owner Dave Isbell's liquor license was too severe and voted instead to reduce the penalty to a 30-day suspension with credit for time served. The Panther Lounge, 1421 S. Fourth St., had been closed since Oct. 25 following a Charleston Police raid two months earlier when 63 minors were admitted into the bar.

"I don't think (the liquor board) considered the flagrant violations involved when they made their decision," Lanman said, adding the board members didn't offer support for their decision.

The state liquor board also said Lanman's 17-day suspension of E.L. Krackers', 1405 Fourth St., was also too severe and instead issued a 10-day suspension.

In Monday's edition of The Daily Eastern News, it was incorrectly reported the 10-day suspension began Friday and continued until Jan. 14. Krackers' owner Ken Keating said Monday he is appealing the 10-day suspension and that Krackers' will remain open pending the results of a re-hearing.

Both Isbell and Keating appealed Lanman's penalties to the state liquor board.

Krackers' was originally penalized along with 10 of 14 local bars following an undercover

Ice continues its grip on campus

By SUSAN DIETRICH
Staff writer

Many students found themselves cuddling with the blanket of ice that covers the campus as they forged their way through Central Registration and Textbook Rental Service lines on Monday.

As the day progressed, Physical Plant workers fought the covering of ice with sand and shovels, although it was a downhill battle for Eastern faculty, staff and students attempting to cross campus via parking lots and sidewalks.

"I saw a lot of people slipping and everyone was complaining," freshman June Hering said. "I hope the ice doesn't stay once classes start."

Carol Strode, assistant to the director of the physical plant department, said the cold temperatures have prolonged the problem for workers and staff and students alike. As the temperatures fluctuate, the ice melts, only to refreeze.

"The grounds department has been putting down ice melt and sand," Strode said. "We have had quite a bit of sleet, but are doing the job to get rid of it."

Despite those efforts, though, the cold and ice have left most students burning up. "I think more should be done," senior Tim Wolf said. "It would have been a lot easier if the school could have plowed it better over break."

Local weather observer Dalias Price said the bad weather began during Christmas Break with the Dec. 22 ice storm that still coats area roads, sidewalks and trees. "There is a little less than two inches of ice," Price said, "and it depends upon how cool the air is - if it will remain."

Iraqi copter pilots defect as deadline nears

By the Associated Press

The United States, Britain and NATO insisted Monday that Iraq must heed the Jan. 15 deadline to withdraw from Kuwait. President Saddam Hussein again urged his nation to be ready for war, but pilots manning four Iraqi helicopters were reported to have defected.

Sources in Dhahran, Saudi Arabia, and in Washington said at least four airmen flew the copters across the Kuwaiti border and asked asylum in Saudi Arabia, the first major defections from Saddam's military machine. The sources spoke on condition of anonymity.

Iraq quickly denied any defections. The Iraqi News Agency, monitored in Nicosia, quoted Information Minister Latif Nusayif Jassim as saying, "What assures that this is untrue is that there were no Iraqi (air) exercises at all today."

An Arab diplomat in Baghdad said Saddam and PLO chairman Yasser Arafat asked a French lawmaker to help persuade the United Nations to reconsider its resolution authorizing the use of force to make Iraq leave Kuwait after the deadline.

But in New York, U.N. spokesman Francois Giuliani said Monday that the United Nations is considering evacuating the families of U.N.

staff and non-essential U.N. personnel from the Middle East under contingency planning.

Secretary of State James Baker, after meeting in London with British Foreign Secretary Douglas Hurd, rejected any extension of the deadline.

"We should not talk about postponing deadlines. This deadline is real. The only real chance that we have for peace ... is if Saddam Hussein begins to understand that the deadline is real and that we are serious," Baker said.

Asked to assess those chances, Baker said "I am less optimistic that we might achieve a peaceful solution that I was before

Registration to continue

Students who have not paid their tuition and registered for spring semester classes will still have the opportunity Tuesday.

Central Registration will continue from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. in McAfee Gym. Students will register according to the last digit of their social security number.

The schedule is as follows:

Students whose Social Security numbers end in either 0 and 5 may register beginning at 9 a.m.; 1 or 6 at 10 a.m.; 2 or 7 at 11 a.m.; 3 or 8 at noon; and 4 or 9 at 1 p.m.

From 1 to 2 p.m., there is no set schedule and students who missed their the above times can register then.

- Staff report

Full-time freshmen and sophomores must pay $1,057.10, and full-time juniors and seniors must pay $1,069.10. Students will be able to pay in two separate installments also, with the first $350 due when they register.

Those registering should enter the southeast entrance to McAfee and follow the signs to the North Gym.

In addition to Central Registration, students may continue to pick up their textbooks. The Textbook Rental Service will be open from 8 a.m. through 4:30 p.m. Tuesday through Friday.

Investigation has no timetable

Although a second investigation into alleged hiring improprieties at Eastern is continuing, an official with the Illinois State Police said Monday the agency has no way of predicting when its findings will be complete.

Public information officer Bob Fletcher, of the State Police's Springfield Division of Criminal Investigations, said the findings eventually will be presented to the State's Attorney's office.

The State Police were asked by Eastern President Stan Rives and Board of Governors Chancellor Thomas Layzell in mid-December to investigate the second series of hiring allegations levied against the university this fall.

That request was prompted by allegations made in an interim Civil Service report, where an unidentified source charged that some Civil Service job selections at Eastern may have been made on other than a merit basis.

The possibility that money may have been requested in exchange for the positions also was raised.

BOG spokeswoman Michelle Brazell said before Rives and Layzell asked the State Police to become involved, both the university and the BOG made unsuccessful attempts to check into the allegations. The nature of the allegations then warranted the request to involve an outside agency.

The State Universities Civil Service System routinely examines personnel matters at state universities every two years, Brazell said.

The hiring allegations raised by the report are the second to prompt an investigation during the fall.

The BOG currently is awaiting the results of an investigation by Bloomington attorney David Stanczak into alleged hiring irregularities in Eastern's office of the vice president for administration and finance.

A preliminary report on Stanczak's investigation was presented at the December BOG meeting and final results are expected at the Jan. 17 meeting at Chicago State University.

Commencement overcomes parking woes

By LORI HIGGINS
Campus editor

While there was a lack of available parking spaces at fall commencement because of construction on the rec center, Commencement Coordinator Brenda Cuppy said the ceremony ran smoothly.

"We were concerned about Lantz construction, but it didn't seem to affect commencement," Cuppy said, adding she didn't receive any complaints from anyone.

Cuppy said the graduation itself was successful and there were no major problems or concerns.

About 540 students participated in the graduation, which is about 64 percent of the total number of students who received letters saying they were eligible for graduation. Cuppy said the numbers vary so much because "some of the 850 (who received the letters) did not really complete their requirements."

She said the names are taken from a preliminary list, which can include students who have graduated.

During the graduation ceremony, Gwendolyn Brooks, a nationally-known poet, received a honorary degree along with William Warfield, a singer, actor and educator. Warfield was on Eastern's campus during the fall semester, serving as the visiting professor of cultural diversity. The two received honorary Doctor of Humane Letters degrees.

The graduates were also greeted with remarks by James Garner, Board of Governors representative, EIU Alumni President Barbara Haberer and Dan Riordan, student body president.

"sting" operation last March by the Charleston Police Department.

Keating said his decision to appeal the most recent ruling came about because he feels even a 10-day suspension is unfair.

"Everyone in the 'sting' operation (conducted in March of last year) was penalized with a one-week suspension, and we received a 17-day suspension," he said.

Keating said the city based its decision on a previous incident less than a year earlier in which Keating agreed to a voluntary one-week suspension and made a $200 donation to Charleston's Fifth Quarter (affiliated with the Charleston Recreation Department) as restitution.

In addition, Keating said there is the issue of possible entrapment in the "sting" operation because Kracker's was the last bar hit in the operation and the 19-year-old informant police used had numerous stamps on his hands from entering previous bars.

The city does not have plans to protest Keating's appeal. Lanman said he was more disturbed with the ruling concerning the Panther Lounge.

But Jim Adinamis, an attorney for the state liquor board, said the decision did take into account both the flagrancy of the violation and Isbell's past record.

"They had a few underage people in the bar, and one underage person drinking. Now if it had been 60 underage people drinking in the bar we would have revoked (it)," Adinamis said.

Adinamis said the board would revoke a license in cases of cocaine sale, repeated gambling charges, prostitution and in cases where a clear lack of caring was exercised by the proprietor.

In addition, Adinamis said that circuit courts, which could decide on liquor commission cases, won't even revoke licenses for the sale of cocaine in establishments that serve alcohol.

Adinamis added that in 99 of 100 cases brought before the circuit courts, the courts have upheld the board's rulings.

Christmas."

Hurd said his two-hour session with Baker confirmed that Britain and the United States held "identical positions" on demanding that Iraq withdraw from the Persian Gulf emirate.

He said Saddam must realize "one nation-state does not trample and wipe out another nation-state."

"They must withdraw totally and completely from Kuwait or they will be forced out," Baker said of the Iraqis.

North Atlantic Treaty Organization secretary-general Manfred Woerner met with Baker later Monday and told reporters, "Our member-countries remain in complete solidarity" in insisting on the liberation of Kuwait.

"There is not the slightest drift," said Woerner.

Saddam, in a speech to senior military aides Monday that was broadcast to the Iraqi people, warned there could be an all-out war if fighting breaks out between Iraq and the U.S.-led multinational forces.

Edgar slates homecoming

By TONY CAMPBELL
News editor

Gov.-elect Jim Edgar, who has proclaimed education as a top priority, will spend part of his first full day in office at Eastern - taking time to give an informal talk to students and area residents.

Edgar, a Charleston native and 1968 graduate of Eastern, will head to Charleston on Jan. 15, the day after his inauguration, for a 6 p.m. reception in the Grand Ballroom of the Martin Luther King Jr. University Union. A short program featuring an informal address by Edgar will begin at 7 p.m.

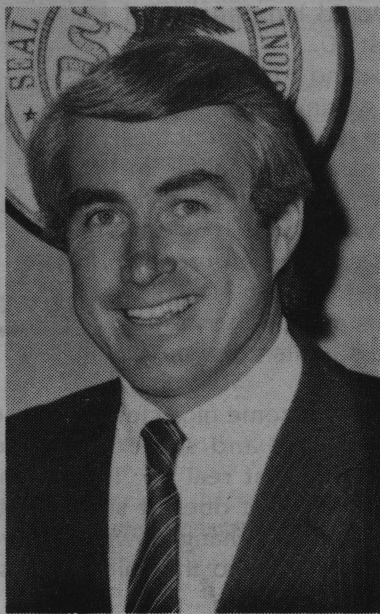

University Relations Director Dan Thornburgh said the university contacted Edgar in mid-November to ask him to visit campus. But the university didn't receive final word about Edgar's visit until Friday, so program details have yet to be finalized.

"He expressed an interest in returning to Charleston," Thornburgh said. "He is very close to the people here."

Edgar, also a former student body president, made his hometown a focal point of his gubernatorial campaign. In 1989, Edgar selected Eastern as the site to announce his plans to run for governor. He also returned to Charleston in October to participate in Eastern's Homecoming parade.

Thornburgh said students are invited to attend both the reception and informal program. "He would particularly like to see a lot of students there," he said.

IBHE recommends tuition hike

By TONY CAMPBELL
News editor

Eastern students may be paying an additional $80 in tuition this fall because the Illinois Board of Higher Education has recommended a 5 percent tuition increase for Illinois' public universities.

The increase, according to IBHE officials, would help offset the board's increased budget requests for the 1990-91 fiscal year that begins in July.

The IBHE, which oversees the state's universities and community colleges, has recommended an operating budget of $56,585,100 for Eastern.

The recommendation is 8.5 percent higher than last year's budget of $52,143,200.

A key element of the budget increase is to help fund a 7 percent pay increase for faculty and staff.

The IBHE is requesting that the Board of Governors, which governs Eastern and four other public universities, approve a 5 percent tuition increase to help offset the recommended budget increase.

The BOG is pleased with the IBHE recommendations and supports the tuition increase, BOG spokeswoman Michelle Brazell said.

The tuition increase could go into effect for the fall 1991 semester.

The increase would boost tuition costs by about $80.

"Any increase in tuition will be difficult for students," she said. "We believe a 5 percent inflationary increase is reasonable."

Brazell added the BOG hasn't had a tuition increase in two years.

Build Illinois funds destined for renovation of Old Main

By RYAN CUNNINGHAM
Administration editor

Of the more than $600,000 in Build Illinois bond funds released for three major capital development projects, $168,800 will be used to upgrade the third floor Mathematics center in Old Main.

The reparations will include installing central heating/air conditioning and to partition three existing offices.

"This remodeling was proposed a long time ago, but I'm not sure what all is going to be done," said mathematics professor Roy Meyerholtz.

The last time the mathematics department had been remodeled was nine years ago.

Since that time, additional said he will "support modest, inflationary tuition increases each year rather than not having increases some years and then having a massive tuition increase."

The IBHE also recommended a capital budget of $14.9 million to help fund three major projects on campus.

The three projects include the Buzzard Building rehabilitation, $10.7 million; coal conversion completion, $1.3 million; and upgrading the campus energy program, $2.3 million. Some funds will be used for thermopane windows in the Fine Arts building and for an elevator in Blair Hall.

The board's recommended budget will be submitted to Illinois full-time staff have been hired, leaving minimal space on the third floor west wing of Old Main to house faculty.

A total of $384,600 will be used to replace four cooling towers on the Life Sciences building, Coleman Hall and Klehm Hall, and repair five towers on Booth Library, the Physical Sciences building and the Fine Arts building and Fine Arts addition.

Another $81,700 will be used to repair the 22-year-old Coleman Hall roof.

The north, south and east sections of the roof are to be repaired to prevent further interior damage caused by leaking during rains and snow melting.

Additional funds are expected to be released for two other Eastern renovation projects.

Gov.-elect Jim Edgar and then the General Assembly for approval.

Brazell said it is too early to predict whether the recommended budget will be severely trimmed, but she said the Board of Governors is optimistic of Edgar's stance on education.

"We are optimistic that Edgar has education as his main priority," she added.

Brazell said an important factor in funding for education is the temporary income tax surcharge, which has provided Eastern with more than $5 million in funds for the past two years.

The General Assembly will decide whether to drop or extend the surcharge sometime this year.

Tuition increase might be best for state's future

The Illinois Board of Higher Education believes students in the state should shoulder more of the burden for the cost of their educations.

State college tuitions would rise 5 percent under a proposal made Thursday by the IBHE.

And while that may seem like bad news for students in Illinois, other measures might prove to be more cost prohibitive.

The IBHE's plan also is counting on the continuation of the 20-percent income tax surcharge passed by the General Assembly two years ago. That surcharge, which pumps about $111 million annually into education, expires in June.

But if that surcharge is not made permanent, students could face average tuition increases of up to 24 percent to compensate for the lost revenue.

Gov.-elect Jim Edgar already has said much money needs to be slashed from the state's budget. And Edgar also has proposed sifting money from the surcharge — earmarked exclusively for education — to other parts of state government.

Considering Edgar's statements, there's not much hope for the IBHE's plan to come through the legislative process unscathed.

So while Edgar's transition team — a group in which our soon-to-be governor has placed a considerable amount of power — sets lofty goals for attracting "the best and brightest" to state government, the bottom line seems to be that funds for the places where the state's "best and brightest" learn will be trimmed.

The future of Illinois, and not just its schools, depends upon how much the state's residents are willing to fund education because students are what will happen.

So the place for spending cuts is not in the future, but in the antiquated legacy of a state government bureaucracy that's become too soft.

Ordinarily, we would not endorse a tuition increase — especially considering that tuition rose at triple the rate of inflation in the 1980s — but the alternatives to a 5 percent increase seem to be too costly for us to endorse.

It's that time of life when you get a tie

OK, so maybe I am 25 and maybe it was time. But I didn't think it would happen until I was at least 30.

It was bound to happen. All I've been getting for Christmas for the past few years is clothes and this year was no different. For the first time I can honestly say I have a wardrobe. I couldn't say that before now because all I really had was T-shirts, jeans and one semi-nice pair of dress pants that I never wore.

This year I got some nice clothes and some accessories like a belt and something else I wasn't expecting — my first real tie. It isn't one of those clip-on bow ties that doesn't sit straight or one of those long ones that hang down to your knees. It's not even painted on to the shirt. It's just a regular tie.

Like I said, I didn't think it would happen until I was at least 30. When you're in your 20's you feel like you can go back (don't know where though). But when you're 30 you know there's no going back. Like the song says, "You're an adult now." I use to tell people I would never wear a tie.

It came from The Limited and it even matches up with at least two of my shirts, which is another reason I can look in my closet and see a wardrobe. It has flowers on it. The tie that is. I've even worn it once already, for New Year's Eve.

This was one time I was going out and was actually going to have to spend some time getting ready. I had to dress in accordance with the tie, so I actually ironed my shirt and pants and then I actually combed my hair and put gel in it. I was trying to

Then it was time for me to put the tie on. I was at my fiancée's house so I couldn't get my dad to tie it for me. Fortunately her father was there and was a great help. It's a little embarrassing asking your future father-in-law to tie your tie for you, especially when I asked him to just loosen it up and slip it off his neck so that I wouldn't have to retie it. And I think he's giving me his daughter.

When we showed up at the party there was a roomful of guys in suits and ties and women in black dresses and I was feeling kind of self-conscious until I remembered that I too had a tie on. Of course, the tennis shoes detracted from the moment a little. I was paranoid when I first put it on, thinking that it would hang down in the soup or in a beer, or maybe it would be hanging off to the side and I would spend all evening straightening it. But there were no problems and I even had the sense to throw it over my shoulder when I went to the bathroom. I didn't have the style though to hang out in there with the older guys and talk about parking and driving work downtown. I don't have that problem. I hope my tie doesn't ever make me feel inclined to hang out in bathrooms and talk about parking.

Of course, I haven't become a complete slave to fashion yet and it's unlikely that I will. I still have my ripped jeans stashed away in my closet just in case I need something to keep me from going completely overboard.

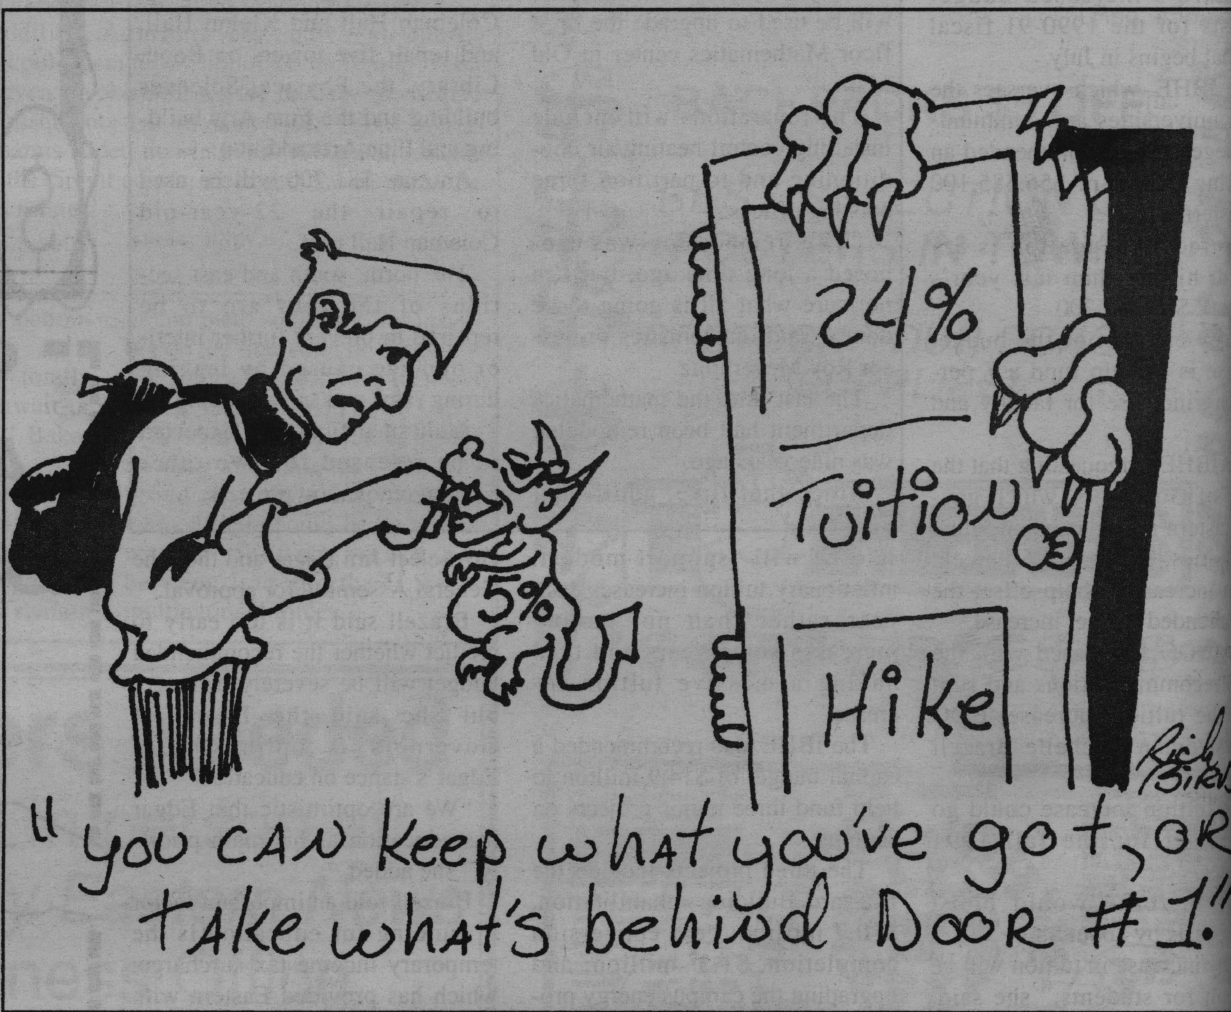

I use to vow that I would never wear a tie. Of course, I didn't have one either. But now I do have one.

And you know what? It isn't so bad.

Dear editor:

This letter is regarding Mike Brown's column "Americans will solve their problems" that was recently published in the Journal-Gazette.

I am amazed there weren't more responses to Mr. Brown's sick article. Mike no doubt reflects a reporter still "wet behind the ears," and probably other places. He has done a "tongue in cheek" article about a very delicate subject.

Mike leaves one with the impression he is one of those youths from the "good times" era, one who has never done without, never worked, achieved and been rewarded, an educated "idiot" who feel he knows all about everything but actually knows very little.

I am saddened at the youth today, and their attitudes, as well as their reluctance to defend themselves, their country, and their world. This certainly is a "me" generation.

I feel Mr. Mike Brown owes the community a public apology as well as an explanation as to just what he was trying to express. I'm sure some of us with families involved in the protection of our country would like to know.

If this is a product of the attitude Eastern Illinois University is cultivating, woe be to us all. Whatever happened to compassion and dignity? Obviously, Mr. Brown is in no danger of being sent "over there," nor does he have anyone he knows personally involved. He will not have to live "on hold" and do his job as is required of so many of our young men and women and their families.

Minorities voice views at luncheon

By SUZANNE OLIVER
Student government editor

Eastern and student government officials are hoping a multicultural luncheon held before Christmas break will help boost cultural diversity on campus.

The purpose of the Student Senate-sponsored luncheon was to create a better communication link between minority organizations and the senate. Participating organizations included the Black Student Union, National Panhellenic Council, Apportionment Board and student senate.

Last semester, Eastern President Stan Rives declared that improving minority participation would be a priority at Eastern and encouraged campus organizations to explore ways to enhance cultural diversity.

"We wanted to know how and why some minority students feel uncomfortable with some of Eastern's program, specifically student senate," said Dan Riordan, student body president.

Because there are no minorities currently on senate, Riordan said he hoped to increase minority interest by having the luncheon.

"I will go to the BSU meetings and talk with them to make them feel welcome to come to our meetings," he said.

Riordan added that two minorities members on his presidential cabinet are interested in getting involved in student senate.

Some of the topics discussed were to have cultural programs for the incoming freshman, student representatives talking with high school students and more involvement with minority organizations.

BSU member Patrick Adkins said he agreed with the proposed programs but also stressed that communication was the key for the programs to be accomplished.

"It was good of them to find information about our organizations. However, we don't work together as a whole. We need to bring organizations together to talk about the issues," Adkins said.

One opportunity that turned into a reality for BSU was gaining office space in the same office area as student senate.

"We didn't have an office before, but now it will be more accessible for us to work together," Adkins said.

Civil service employees receive pay raise

Wage increases for more than 450 Eastern Civil Service employees from three separate union locals were approved at the December Board of Governors meeting.

Chemistry department secretary Pat Beaulieu said Eastern's 241 members of local 1271, for which she serves as president, were satisfied with the 3 percent increase approved by the BOG.

The union members, employees in various clerical and technical positions, will receive a 2 percent base adjustment and 1 percent market adjustment, Beaulieu said. The base adjustment is retroactive to July 1, while the market adjustment is retroactive to Oct. 1. BOG spokeswoman Michelle Brazell said.

The increase helps close the gap between the amount earned by clerical and technical employees at Eastern and employees holding similar positions in the state, Beaulieu said. "I think a lot has been done to close that gap," she said.

A 2 percent increase in base pay also was approved for the 200 members of local union 981, which along with local union 1271 is represented by the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees.

Along with the 2 percent base increase, a non-recurring lump sum payment of $20 also was awarded to the members. Union local Danny Cross said the Building Service sub-foremen also received an equity adjustment of 23 cents per hour. Those increases are retro-active to Oct. 1.

The final contract approved affects the 17 members and Eastern employees of Teamsters local 26, who are classified in grounds work.

Those employees received an hourly salary increase of 2 percent retro-active to July, Brazell said.

Civil Service wage contracts are negotiated every year by the BOG, which governs Eastern and four other state universities.

Reporting guidelines placed on Gulf media coverage

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Pentagon on Monday released new guidelines for war coverage in the Persian Gulf, setting rules that will be imposed on the media - including a controversial requirement that journalists submit their war coverage to military review.

Gone from rules issued last week was a provision that prohibited reporters from approaching military officials unannounced for spontaneous interviews, sometimes derided by the Pentagon as "ambush interviews." Also dropped was an outright ban on publication of photographs or video showing troops in agony or "severe shock." Instead, the Pentagon requested that such photographs or video not be released before next of kin have been notified.

"These are not necessarily final," Pentagon spokesman Pete Williams said in a telephone interview. "We just wanted to put them out and see what people think and take it from there."

VP says Shevardnadze might remain

MOSCOW (AP) - Vice President Gennady Yanayev suggested Monday that Foreign Minister Eduard Shevardnadze might withdraw his resignation and stay on and reiterated that Soviet foreign policy will not change.

If Shevardnadze decides to stay, it may be because President Mikhail Gorbachev persuaded him to do so. The two have spoken by phone and met several times since Shevardnadze announced his resignation on Dec. 20 in a speech to parliament, stunning Gorbachev and the world.

"In politics and personnel issues, prognoses of things are dangerous," Yanayev told the Associated Press.

Then, he added, "I never said anywhere there would be a new foreign minister. Why do you exclude that Shevardnadze might remain?" Shevardnadze's aides have quoted him as saying his decision was "irreversible." Other officials have held out the possibility that he would remain in the government, possibly in some other job.

Shevardnadze met for about a half-hour Sunday with U.S. Ambassador Jack Matlock at Matlock's request, a spokesman at the U.S. Embassy said.

The official declined to release any other details. The state news agency Tass said the men discussed the arms control treaty that is to be signed at the U.S.-Soviet summit scheduled for Feb. 11.

Matlock also gave Shevardnadze a note from U.S. Secretary of State James Baker, Tass said.

The officials had met on Jan. 4 at Shevardnadze's request. Tass said they also have been in "regular working contact" by telephone for the last few days.

Yanayev, a career Communist Party official picked last month to become the country's first vice president, heads a committee working on a law to define the powers and membership of a new Cabinet.

The new body is part of a reorganized executive branch of government recently approved by the national parliament. The foreign minister would be a member of the new Cabinet.

Pay raises in store for Illinois lawmakers

SPRINGFIELD (AP) - When members of the 87th General Assembly pose for inaugural photographs Wednesday, many will have good reason to smile - they'll be in line for pay raises of as much as $6,000 a year.

The increases for legislative leaders and committee chairmen and spokesmen were approved in June 1989 and were intended to take effect that year. But Attorney General Neil Hartigan blocked payment during the 86th General Assembly and was upheld by the state Supreme Court.

Justices said it was unconstitutional for lawmakers to collect salary increases in midterm. Lawmakers argued the raises were merely stipend increases for legislative leaders, including committee chairmen and others.

The court's decision allows 118 House members and 20 senators elected Nov. 6 to collect higher pay, depending on their status in their party's delegation, as they begin new terms this week.

Thirty-nine senators are ineligible because they are in midterm. Chairmen of standing and select committees and minority party spokesmen, who now receive no extra pay, will be paid $6,000 in addition to the lawmaker's basic salary of $35,661 a year.

Currently, the House has 37 committees and the Senate 18, but the number for the new session is unsettled.

Partisan leaders and their deputies in the House and Senate already are paid anywhere from $6,584 to $10,972 above the base legislative pay. However, those beginning new terms this week will be eligible for pay raises.

In the House, lawmakers holding 21 leadership posts will get pay raises ranging from $3,916 to $5,271 a year. In the Senate, lawmakers who hold any of 15 leadership posts and are beginning new terms will get increases ranging from $5,028 to $5,416.

Illinois Marine unit activated

GLENVIEW (AP) - About 175 Marine reservists at the Naval Air Station in Glenview are being mobilized in support of Operation Desert Shield, the military announced Sunday.

The reservists are assigned to the Marine Aerial Refueling Transport Squadron 234 and are attached to the Marine Air Control Group 48 at the Glenview station.

A commanding officer said in a statement that his unit's members scheduled for mobilization Wednesday would get their orders very soon.

Edgar says law cut number of uninsured drivers in half

SPRINGFIELD (AP) - The state's year-old law requiring drivers to have auto insurance has worked better than expected, cutting the number of uninsured motorists by more than half, Secretary of State Jim Edgar said Monday.

About 850,000 of the state's 1.5 million uninsured drivers have gotten insurance since the law was passed in 1988, with most of the change coming last year, he said.

"In the last year, we have seen ... the number of uninsured motorists drop from 19 percent to less than 6 percent of Illinois motorists," said Edgar, the governor-elect. "We're very pleased with these figures." Insurance industry spokesmen offered mixed reviews of the mandatory insurance law, with some cautioning that it's too soon to declare success.

However, Edgar said the law has had as much impact in one year as he had expected it to have in its first two years.

"People will obey the law if they know it's going to be enforced, and it has been enforced in Illinois," he said at a news conference. "I see no reason that the pressure will be taken off people to buy insurance."

Panthers host winless Cougars

By R.J. GERBER
Sports editor

Eastern's men's basketball team takes a break from Mid-Continent Conference action when it hosts the Chicago State Cougars at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at Lantz Gym.

The 4-5 Panthers entertain the winless Cougars and first-year head coach Rick Pryor. Chicago State, 0-11, is an Independent. Pryor and his squad have played some of the top programs in the country this season. The Cougars have played three Big Ten schools including decisive losses to Iowa, Michigan and undefeated Ohio State.

Chicago State has also been beaten by Southern California, Bradley and Mid-Continent member Northern Illinois. Eastern coach Rick Samuels said that the Cougars are due for a good night.

"They have played a tough schedule," Samuels said. "It's been very difficult. A lot of those games have been on the road. They are a dangerous team."

Pryor said that his team has been making progress, even though it is without a victory.

"We are getting a step closer every day to where we want to be," Pryor said. "There is always room for improvement. I didn't expect to be 0-11, but I didn't expect to be 11-0 either. There have been some surprises."

Senior guard Rod Parker leads the Cougars with a 23.6 points per game average. Parker's back court running mate, junior Reggie Burcy, is averaging 16.3 points per contest.

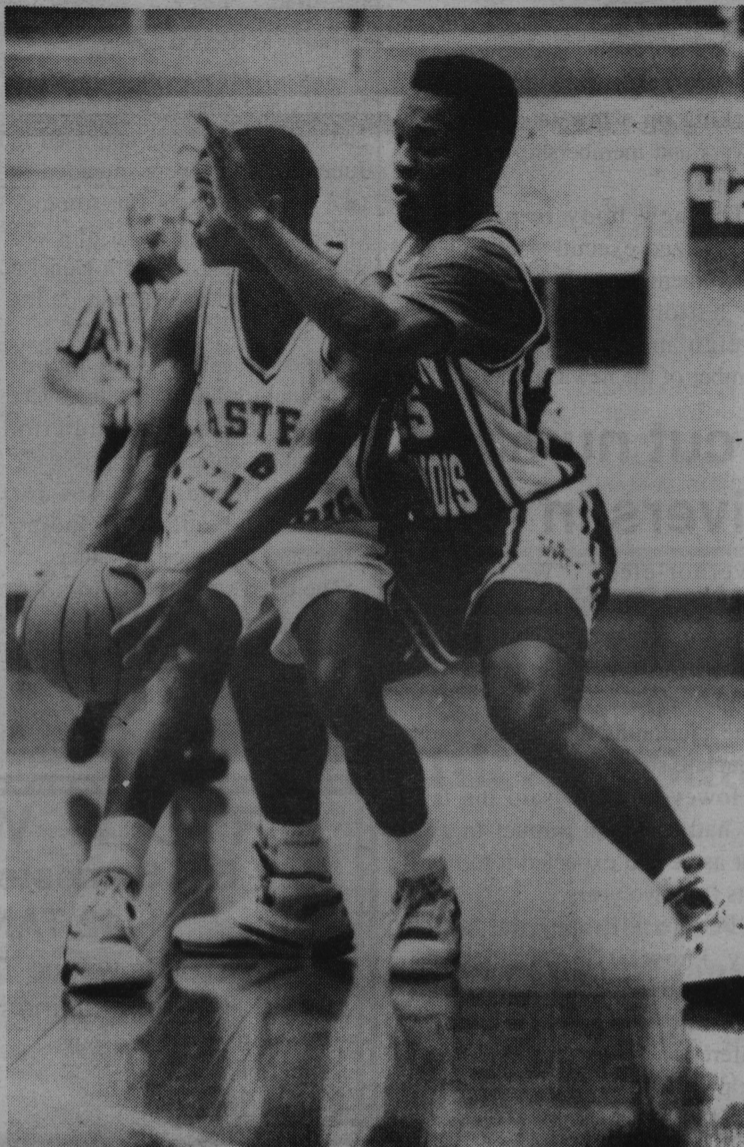

"Those two guys have taken the most shots," Pryor said. "We would like to see a different approach. We are trying to get more people involved. We need to combine the inside and the outside."

Pryor said that the Cougars would like to get their 6-6 junior center Tony Barnes more involved in the offense to balance out the scoring load.

Although Chicago State has lost its first 11, Pryor said that he is trying to keep up his spirits.

"I haven't accepted losing," the Chicago State alum said. "I hope that I never do. We just have to keep a positive attitude and keep things in perspective."

Eastern is led by senior co-captain Gerald Jones, who is averaging 15.3 points per outing. Junior forward Barry Johnson is scoring at a 12.8 clip and leads the Panthers in rebounding with 8.5 per game. Junior guard Steve Rowe, who leads the Panthers in assists and steals, is scoring 12.6 points per contest including a game-high 27 in Eastern's conference win against Western Illinois.

Rowe said that there will be a little added pressure on he and Jones because of the full-court pressure that Chicago State exhibits.

"There will be more pressure on us," Rowe said. "We worked on our press offense and we hope to be effective against it.

"If they make mistakes, then we hope to get some easy baskets. We want to win and get our confidence up going into the Green Bay game."

Samuels said that Eastern is a little less up-tempo than it was earlier in the year.

"But our depth is depleted so we are a little more patient on offense," Samuels said. "We will run more half court offense."

"They (Chicago State) are up-tempo and they like to press full court and half court trap. They also have a big, strong, inside player that just became eligible." That player is 6-4 Artis Culverson.

The Panthers will be looking to even their record at 5-5 before getting back to Mid-Continent Conference action when they travel to Wisconsin-Green Bay to take on the Fighting Phoenix Saturday.

Eastern's womens' basketball team traveled to Southern Illinois Monday night with hopes to avoid its first 0-3 Gateway Conference start since the league opened play in 1982.

Unfortunately for Eastern, Southern won.

The Salukis, led by senior forward Amy Rakers' 24 points, beat the Lady Panthers 70-54. Eastern dropped 5-6 overall, while Southern moved to 3-0 in the Gateway and 8-3 overall in front of 316 fans at SIU Arena in Carbondale.

"I'm terribly disappointed in our play and our effort," Eastern head coach Barbara Hilke said. "I thought Southern played a great ball game. Amy Rakers put on a show."

Eastern's Stacy Friedrich opened the game with an eight-foot jump shot, but the Salukis went on a 16-3 run and led 29-25 at the half.

But Rakers, who had 11 points at halftime, took over in the second half. The 6-foot-3-inch Belleville West graduate finished the night making 11 of 14 shots from the field. Anita Scott pitched in with 12 points and forward Angie Rougeau added 11 for Southern.

"We didn't start the game very well, but you have to hand it to Southern," Ralston said. "We played tired and we looked tired."

Friedrich, a center, Eastern with 12 points, seven rebounds, while forward Heather Youngman and Beverly Williams added 10 points each. It was Eastern's first loss to Southern in four years.

"Our kids were looking the other way and the ball was going another way," Hilke said. "It was one of those games where nothing was in sync for us."

The Lady Panthers were plagued by turnovers, especially in the second half, when they gave Southern 12 of their 24 points late in the game, but a late run by Eastern's deficit to 16.

With Eastern down four at intermission, Southern went on a 10-2 run and held a 39-29 lead with 16:23 left in the game. Southern held on the rest of the way.

The Lady Panthers continue their three-game road trip with a visit to Bradley Thursday and Western on Saturday.

Serbick, Marlow lead wrestlers over break

Last year, Ray Serbick and David Marlow were the odd men out.

Although the two Eastern wrestlers showed promise during their freshman and sophomore seasons under head coach Ralph McCausland, they redshirted last year because their weight classes were filled by seniors.

But the year off didn't hurt; in fact, McCausland thinks it helped. And their records this season back up McCausland's views.

Serbick, a junior, placed fourth in the Midlands Tournament over the holiday break with a 5-2 record, and Marlow, also a junior, followed with a top-eight finish at 4-2 to lead the Panthers.

"(Midlands) is the premier holiday tournament in the country," McCausland said.

And although the Panthers placed 22nd overall in Evanston, the team rebounded at the Redbird Duals last weekend with a 3-1 record, and Serbick led the way.

He finished the weekend with a 4-0 mark at 134 pounds, upping his team-leading victory total to 23 with just nine defeats. Marlow went 3-1 at 142 pounds and is now 20-10 on the year, good for the second most Panther wins.

After beating Southern Missouri State 29-14 at the duals, the Panthers lost to Central Michigan 26-11, then rebounded with a 33-14 win over Chicago State and a 22-17 victory over the Central Missouri.

"(Serbick) has placed in the Midlands tournament except one this year," McCausland said. "He shows a lot of promise his first two years, but we redshirted him last year. We expected good performance from him."

Serbick and Marlow were the only Panthers to continue over the weekend. Senior Steve Wheatley wrestled to four victories without a loss at 126 pounds.

Sophomore John Weber wrestled 2-2 on the weekend at 118 pounds. Gino Fioravanti wrestled to a 1 mark at 150 pounds. Senior Tom Huginin (167) finished the duals at 1-3 and 177-pound sophomore Tom Carroll went 1-2.

Tim O'Malley grappled his way to a 2-0-2 record at 134 pounds, while heavyweight Skye Hilkey, a junior, went 2-2.

Rose leaves Marion prison camp

MARION (AP) - Pete Rose left a federal prison camp Monday morning with little fanfare after serving five months for income-tax cheating.

The former Cincinnati Reds manager and baseball's all-time hits leader said freedom felt "great," but declined further comment as he was driven away from the prison administration building at 8:30 a.m.

Rose was taken to a place on the prison grounds where he was met by his wife in another car. Warden John L. Clark said the couple then headed for Cincinnati, about five hours away.

Rose was scheduled to arrive at a Cincinnati halfway house this afternoon to begin serving the second part of his sentence for tax evasion.

He will do 1,000 hours of community service teaching physical education at inner city elementary schools.

"He tells us he is eager to return to the community and work with youngsters in Cincinnati," said Clark, warden of the minimum security facility where Rose was imprisoned.

The warden declined to comment on any specific activities that Rose was involved in during his stay, except to say that his term was "unremarkable." "While he was with us, Mr. Rose worked hard every day at a manual labor job," Clark said.

Rose earned 11 cents an hour working an eight-hour day in a prison welding shop.

"He neither asked for nor was granted any special privilege or condition and was cooperative with our staff," Clark said.
