Military leaders agree to quick POW release

SAFWAN, Iraq (AP) — Allied and Iraqi military leaders agreed Sunday to a tentative cease-fire and a quick release of war prisoners in a dramatic meeting of commanders at a captured desert airstrip in southern Iraq.

"I am very happy to tell you we agreed on all matters," U.S. Army Gen. H. Norman Schwarzkopf told a crowd of soldiers and journalists after the two-hour meeting in a tent beside the crushed-stone runway.

He announced that a "symbolic release" of POWs would be made immediately to show good faith, and that "all detainees," including several thousand Kuwaiti civilian hostages held by Iraq, would be treated as war prisoners.

Iraq's U.N. ambassador, Abdul Amir al-Anbari, said in New York that Iraq had released 10 POWs already, among them six Americans, "including one of them the young lady that was captured," Schwarzkopf, the U.S. commander in the Persian Gulf, and other allied chiefs refused to say whether they had learned how many POWs are held by Iraq. The U.S. command knows of at least nine Americans. The only woman U.S. soldier listed as missing in the war is Army Spc. Melissa Rathbun-Nealy, 20, of Grand Rapids, Mich.

He said U.S. troops would withdraw from occupied southern Iraq as soon as a permanent cease-fire was signed and Iraq has complied with U.N. resolutions. Those resolutions say Iraq must, among other

Interpretations differ in validity of petition to decertify UPI

By CATHY PODWOJSKI
 Associate news editor

Whether the University Professionals of Illinois' current status as Eastern's faculty bargaining unit will be put to the test is a matter of interpretation.

By mathematics Professor Lewis Coon's interpretation, the UPI could be decertified as Eastern's faculty bargaining unit by the end of the spring semester if the faculty vote to do so.

"More than 30 percent" — the state-required amount — of the UPI-represented faculty at Eastern filed a petition Thursday to the Illinois Educational Labor Relations Board to decertify the UPI, Coon said.

State law requires the signatures of at least 30 percent of faculty in a bargaining unit to accompany the petition before a decertification election will be held.

However, two UPI officials — Eastern's

UPI chapter president Jayne Ozier and state UPI President Mitch Vogel — said only about 15 percent of the necessary signatures accompanied the petitions.

Their interpretation defines Eastern as only part of the entire bargaining unit that includes all of the faculty at the Board of Governors' schools. By that definition, to hold a decertification election, more than 30 percent of the faculty at all of those schools represented by the UPI would be required.

Along with Eastern, the BOG governs and UPI represents Western Illinois University, Northeastern Illinois University, Governors State University and Chicago State University.

"It's (petition) dead," Vogel said. "A group of faculty filed insufficient cards to mandate an election."

Eastern's three-year contract agreement with the UPI ends Aug. 31. However, the law provides a "window" during which faculty may petition to end its representation by the bargaining unit. Ozier said that window closed after March 1.

But although the UPI said petitions filed by Eastern faculty — and some Western faculty, too — were insufficient, Coon still contends Eastern is an individual bargaining unit with the UPI.

"Unless someone has changed the regulation, there will be an election," Coon said. He added the Illinois Educational Labor Relations Board, which has final say over the matter, would like to have the election before the end of the semester.

The UPI has represented Eastern's academic professionals through two bargaining units since 1976. Ozier said approximately 580 faculty belong to bargaining unit A — those tenured and tenure-track faculty. Bargaining unit B consists of about 80 temporary faculty (those hired for one year with the option to be rehired) and academic support professionals (Counseling Center employees, some admissions employees, etc.).

Coon said the UPI is not the only option for Eastern faculty. "Good representation is not what we currently have," he said. Most universities' faculty bargain individually for their salaries instead of going through a bargaining unit such as the UPI, he explained.

"They (faculty) believe they should have a choice," he added.

Vogel claimed that the faculty who signed the petitions only number about 100 each at both Eastern and Western, though.

"The vast majority are continuing their support for the UPI," Vogel said.

If a decertification election is not allowed, another opportunity to oust the UPI would not come up until 1994, when the UPI's next three-year contract would run out.

Activist Molly Yard to speak for Women's History Month

By DEBBIE CARLSON
 Staff writer

One of America's leading women's activists and president of the National Organization for Women will speak at Eastern Tuesday in conjunction with Women's History Month.

Molly Yard is scheduled to speak at 8 p.m. Tuesday in the Grand Ballroom of the Martin Luther King Jr. University Union.

Barbara Poole, assistant professor of political science and a member of the Women's Study Council, said she didn't expect to get Yard to speak. "We had a program committee meeting last fall. We had a short list of (whom we wanted to speak); she was on the top of our list, but we thought there was no way we could get her to speak.

"We called her office and they said she was free," Poole said.

Yard has been involved with women's issues for many years and has been influential in many women's movements such as the campaign for state ratification for the Equal Rights Amendment in the early 1970s. Yard has been a member of NOW since 1977 and became its president in 1987.

Elecia Dexter, UB human potential coordinator, said, "She's free to talk about anything." The cost to bring Yard here for Women's History Month is about $4,000, Dexter added.

Tickets for Yard's speech are $1 for students and $3 for the public.

Eastern steam plant head resigns

The head of Eastern's steam plant resigned Friday after being one of three university employees whose appointments were recommended for further inquiry by a Board of Governors special investigator.

Although the appointment of Charlie Smith, chief operating engineer for the steam plant, was apparently approved by the Board of Governors after its last meeting, Smith told a local newspaper Saturday that he resigned over fallout from a BOG special investigator's report.

The BOG recently completed a three-month probe into allegations of nepotism and unethical hiring practices at Eastern. Of 25 appointments investigated, three were referred back to Eastern officials for undetermined action and "further inquiry" because they apparently violated state law, BOG or Eastern governing policies.

Smith's appointment was referred back to Eastern after BOG investigator David Stanczak found evidence that his hiring may have violated the State Civil Service Merit Board's residency requirement. However, Eastern President Stan Rives convinced BOG members two weeks ago that Smith's hiring was not improper and did not violate the residency requirement. BOG members approved Rives' report.

Despite apparently being vindicated, Smith was quoted

Saturday by The Times-Courier, Charleston's daily newspaper, as saying that he resigned because "I am really disappointed with all the rumors and the way this investigation is turning out."

The Times-Courier went on to quote Smith as saying: "From all the rumors and false allegations, I'm really fed up."

Smith refused comment for The Daily Eastern News Sunday night.

He has been under fire since last fall, when an article in The Times-Courier quoted anonymous heat plant workers who alleged that Smith was a poor manager. Smith contested those allegations.

things, rescind its annexation of Kuwait and accept liability for war damages in the emirate.

About 12 hours after the meeting in Safwan, Baghdad Radio announced that Iraq accepted the tougher U.N. conditions. That acceptance could clear the way for a permanent cease-fire in the Persian Gulf War.

In other developments:

•Iran's official radio reported violence between Iraqis and government forces during demonstrations against Saddam Hussein in at least four cities. Tehran radio said refugees fleeing Iraq for Iran reported "severe clashes" in the cities of Basra, Al-Amarah, Nassiriya and Kut. Washington repeatedly has urged Iraqis to overthrow Saddam, but U.S. officers say they don't know whether civil unrest in Iraq has become widespread.

•Saddam began the long process of rebuilding his war-torn nation and restoring his image as a regional leader to be reckoned with.

Baghdad Radio reported Sunday that he led two meetings dealing with the restoration of Iraqi communications, the first report of his activities since Tuesday.

•A woman pilot and three other U.S. soldiers were killed in a helicopter crash in northern Saudi Arabia, U.S. military officials said Monday. Army Maj. Marie T. Rossi, 32, of Oradell, N.J., was the first woman pilot reported to be killed in the Gulf War.

Officials in Saudi Arabia did not provide details of the Saturday crash, two days after the alliance declared a cease-fire.

•French President Francois Mitterrand on Sunday proposed an unprecedented meeting of the leaders of the U.N. Security Council member nations to discuss Middle East issues such as the Palestinian-Israeli conflict.

In Safwan, two Iraqi army lieutenant generals, Sultan Hashem Ahmad and Salah Abbud Mahmud, led the eight-member Iraqi delegation to the tent rendezvous. U.S. sources identified Ahmad as Saddam's deputy chief of staff, third-ranking man in the defense establishment.

Expo offered variety of services for women

By EVETTE PEARSON
Activities editor

The celebration of Women's History Month began this weekend with the Women's Expo and Health Fair, titled "Focusing on You."

The expo, which is celebrated in conjunction with Women's History Month, provided a full day of events to entertain, inform, educate and benefit women of all different ages.

"The expo is a day centered around 'you,'" said Michelle Horstmann, a student volunteer chair for the expo. "All of the activities concerned women and each and every workshop could benefit them (women) in one way or another."

The keynote speaker for the event was Emory Austin, a business woman from North Carolina whose speech centered on the theme "Believing is Seeing."

"She was very inspirational, informative and an entertaining speaker who seemed to capture everyone's attention," Horstmann said.

Horstmann estimated there were more than 1,000 people at the expo, which is billed as one of the largest women's expos in the state. Booths and exhibits were set up in the Martin Luther King Jr. University Union and in the Buzzard Building.

The expo also provided free health screening for women to check their cholesterol level, blood sugar, stress level and any other health-related matters. Screenings were provided by the medical staff of the Sarah Bush Lincoln Health Center.

Horstmann said an added feature to this year's expo was a coffee time, where guests could gather and enjoy coffee before the opening of the expo.

To coordinate the workshops, Chair Sandy Rives, the wife of Eastern President Stan Rives, organizes 20 to 30 luncheons with a variety of women in different communities to see what they would like to learn at an upcoming expo, or what pressing events in the community they would like addressed.

"Every session changes and all of the workshops are updated, depending on women's needs in society," Horstmann said. "For instance, there was a new workshop added this year, 'Introduction to Computers,' because women wanted to know more about the computer industry."

Rainy weather dampens crowd of War mourners

By KELLY SEIFERT
Staff writer

While people throughout the country and many parts of the world are celebrating the apparent end to the Gulf War, about 20 people in Charleston mourned those who died because of the War and urged others to do the same.

"You must mourn the deaths before going through the victory celebration," said Ha Poong Kim, a professor in the philosophy department and one of those who marched through the rain Friday afternoon from Klehm Hall to Old Main.

The march, organized by the Eastern Illinois Coalition for Peace in the Middle East (EICPME), quietly ran throughout campus, ending with the group circling Old Main and several students and faculty addressing the others.

The marchers were given black arm bands to represent their mourning for the deaths that took place in the Gulf over the course of the war and before it began. Many marchers also chose to wear black clothing to create a funeral-like atmosphere.

The speakers at the march emphasized that although a cease fire is in effect and it appears Iraq has accepted the U.N. resolutions, a strong need for Americans to mourn the loss of lives still exists.

And that includes not only those killed as part of the American and allied forces, but for both sides, said Jennifer Berkshire, a member of the coalition.

"We still have no accurate figures on the casualties on either side," Berkshire said.

Robert Barford, the chair of the philosophy department, said now that the war is over people should be more willing than ever to listen. "I think our real task starts now," he said.

Along the same lines, the group also discussed the potential for future wars.

Summer conference positions available

By AARON R. COMPTON
Staff writer

Students who plan to attend intercession or summer school have a chance to receive partial room and board as a summer conference assistant for Eastern's camps and conferences.

Mary Smith, assistant director of housing and the director of camps and conferences, said the position of conference assistant should not be considered as a resident assistant, although some of the duties are similar.

Smith said the job of conference assistant allows the student to gain knowledge in the public relations aspect.

"Conference assistants are people that are responsible, have a good personality and are willing to meet a lot of new people," Smith said. She added, "We do hard work, but at the same time, have a lot of fun."

Although it does involve a lot of work and responsibility, anyone can apply for the position. The applications will be available on Monday and can be picked up at any residence hall desk or in Smith's office in Thomas Hall. The applications will be due back in on Monday, March 11.

The conference assistants' room and partial board are paid for. In addition, the students are paid for doing linen and working at the front desk. In order to become a conference assistant, students must be in good academic standing with the university, have two recommendations and interview with the camps and conferences committee.

Students who are considering applying for the job may get more information by attending one of several informational meetings on campus. The times and days for the meetings are 6 p.m. Monday, in Taylor Hall; 9:30 p.m. Monday, in Stevenson; and 6:30 p.m. Tuesday, in Carman Hall.

'Taste' satisfies summer cravings

By LORI HIGGINS
Campus editor

With the chilling temperatures in the mid-40s range, most students were not thinking of eating a snow-cone. Instead, thoughts of hot chocolate were probably ringing on many minds.

But at the Taste of Taylor Sunday evening, many students opted to get into the spirit of summer by buying snow-cones from a Danville vendor.

John Grygiel, owner of Sno-Dog, sold a variety of 28 snow-cones at the Taste of Taylor, enticing students with flavors such as strawberry daiquiri, lover's delight and polynesian pineapple.

In addition to Sno-Dog, places such as Dominoes, Max's Munchies and Golden Dragon set up tables in the Taylor/Lawson food service in order to sell Sunday dinner to students.

Grygiel said he enjoyed the opportunity to come down for the event. "We always come down here at Celebration, but it was canceled this year."

Tony del Alcazar, a resident assistant in Taylor Hall and organizer of the event, said he was pleased with the turnout. "I think a lot of kids didn't have to order out and they had a variety of foods to choose from."

He added about 300 students came in to sample the foods. "I think it's been a good response. A lot of kids wish we could have this every Sunday," del Alcazar said.

BACCHUS director to offer comical lecture on college

By LAURA DURNELL
Features editor

David Leschke, the director of chapter services at BACCHUS (Boost Alcohol Consciousness Concerning the Health of University Students) International Headquarters, will speak at 8 p.m. Monday in the University Ballroom of the Martin Luther King Jr. University Union.

"He focuses on college life; he's a really funny speaker," said Debi Narske, the adviser of Eastern's chapter of BACCHUS. "He will hit on alcohol and drug issues and focus on college life in general."

His video messages to college students have tackled alcohol and drug abuse problems through "Eddie Talks;" greek life through "This is My House;" and other problems met through on-campus life in "Confessions of an RA."

"The students really enjoy him," Narske said. "He'll go through something realistic and relate it to something funny. He can really relate to college life very well."

The speech, titled "Everything I needed to know they never taught in kindergarten," is sponsored by Eastern's Office of AIDS, Alcohol and Drug Information and BACCHUS.

In a letter to the editor published last Wednesday there was an error. The letter, written by Lewis Coon, should have read that his group needed "to obtain about $500 in advance funding ..."

In a story published Friday, Faculty Senate Chair David Carpenter should have been quoted as saying, "While the president is at it, he may also request that he share the Dunn report with the entire community and tell us how much that cost the university." The News regrets the errors.

Faculty Senate deserves chance to review core

Last week we praised Eastern President Stan Rives for returning parts of the new integrated core to the Council on Academic Affairs.

Rives was unsure, as apparently was much of the faculty, about how the emerging core looked, so he sent five of the nine segments back to CAA for further assessment.

That decision means the new core won't go into effect until the spring semester of 1992.

The president gave the CAA until Aug. 15 to come up with its new version of these remaining segments, saying this would "provide adequate time for reflective judgment."

A statement like that could be construed to mean that the president would allow the Faculty Senate, a body that has demanded a voice on this new general education, a chance to review the core.

But that kind of speculation was put to rest by the president. Rives said at Thursday's CAA meeting he would not allow the Faculty Senate "to review specific course proposals" because that would not be appropriate.

The Faculty Senate maintains that, according to its constitution, it has the right to a 90-day review period before any new academic program goes into effect.

Rives says that it would have been right for the Senate to review "the definition of the integrated core as recommended by the CAA." But the Faculty Senate did not make that request.

So the president believes that the senate does not have any right to review courses now. And Rives remains concerned about the "climate of confrontation between the leadership of the Faculty Senate" and himself.

The president also said he wants "cooperation and communication."

We urge the president to allow the senate a voice on the core curriculum because, as Rives has said, this is the most important academic decision the university will face in this decade.

If the president really wants "cooperation and communication" then he will try talking to the Faculty Senate, try listening to the concerns of the representatives of the people who will be teaching this new core.

The president needs to remember that the administration can't teach all those courses, needs to keep in mind that the people teaching those courses will be much better able to benefit students if they are given more of a voice on what will be taught.

Post-game hype from the key players

All right, we'd like to welcome our viewers back to historic Persian Grounds, site of the 42-day season of war games in which the American Patriots soundly routed Saddam's Scuds by about eleveny zillion to one.

We'd like to personally thank you viewers for sticking with us this long, considering this big matchup didn't live up to its pre-game hype. As a matter of fact, the contest fell a few notches below Bud Bowl III in the suspense department.

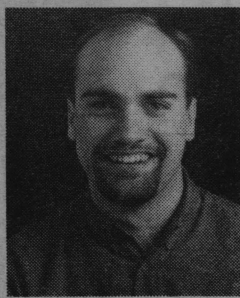

And we'd also like to apologize once again for our 48-hour telecast of 1973 World Series highlights during the first two days of the ground war. But what are you going to do during a media blackout?

Nevertheless, the Patriots have to be rather pleased to resume a winning streak that was snapped nearly 20 years ago in the Vietdome. Wait, player-coach Norman Schwarzkopf is exiting the locker room now. He's wearing a neon "Desert Storm: We came; we saw; we kicked your ass" T-shirt, and maybe we can get a few words with him.

Coach Schwarzkopf, this was quite a one-sided affair. Is there maybe one or two things to which you can attribute your resounding victory?

"Well, we took things one day at a time and our players really did a nice job on the fundamentals. Of course, our flyboys garnered a lot of attention, but, as in all sports, the big boys underneath really made the difference.

"I think head coach Bush also really should be credited for doubling our roster in November, and our farm system consisting of British, French and Saudi players was invaluable."

OK, Coach Schwarzkopf, thanks a lot for your time and good luck next season.

We expect Coach Bush to be with us momentarily, so we'll just keep it here and not go to a break.

It's important to realize that for us in the press box it's going to be a little difficult to sort out the statistics of this contest that will be regarded as revolutionary in many respects of war games. Perhaps an asterisk will be used for that perplexing "killed tanks" category.

OK, like we told you earlier, Coach Bush should be passing press row any time now.

In the old days, it seems that war games weren't as popular as they were this season. Back then, you could grab a head coach for an interview just about any time you needed. This year, however, the response of fans was just tremendous. It's likely a good thing that the contest was a short one, since it would be most unfortunate if fanaticism reached the suburbs and youths were killing each other for the trendiest yellow ribbons.

Well, here's Coach Bush, drenched apparently in champagne but still sporting a smile and his "Sultans of Sand '91 World Tour" hat.

Coach Bush, if we could ask just one question before we turn things back over to the network for "America's Funniest Home Videos." Looking at problems like unemployment, homelessness, education, civil rights and general economic dysfunction, it could be a rough off-season for your organization.

Do you have any immediate plans?

Support group can be truly helpful

I am 22 years old and have been at Eastern for three and a half years. I'm well-respected and pretty popular. I am also bisexual.

One of the most difficult things for me was being on such a small, conservative campus where I felt alone and unable to share this "shameful" part of myself with anyone. While none of my friends or acquaintances had any idea of my internal confusion, I knew and it became a living hell trying to suppress such an important part of my being. The internal struggle was ripping my life to shreds. Destructive comments I made to myself such as "C'mon man. Snap out of it! What's wrong with you?" or "Why in the hell can't you be like everybody else?" became hourly occurrences. The worst part about being bisexual, though, was not being able to discuss my inner turmoil with anyone. It was an incredibly difficult battle to fight but it was nearly impossible to do it alone.

Recently, I heard about the gay and lesbian support group on campus that meets weekly. I decided to go to a meeting. Sure, I was scared to death but I decided to go anyway.

Going to that meeting was one of the best decisions I've ever made.

I discovered there are many wonderful people who have struggled through situations similar to mine. There were guys and girls there — some business majors, some education majors, some were involved in the Greek system, some in athletics, some were students, others were not. The people in the gay-lesbian support group were at various points on this continuum of acceptance. Many of these people were (and are) happy and even proud of their homosexuality while others were quite unsure of themselves.

GUEST VIEWPOINT

GAY AND LESBIAN SUPPORT GROUP

The reason I have decided to write is because there remains a segment of people at Eastern who may be struggling with their sexuality alone, as I did. That saddens me because I hate to see people suffering unnecessarily. There is no reason why someone has to suffer through something so stressful without a kind ear to listen. I would like to make a plea to those people. Gather up the courage to attend a meeting — call the Counseling Center at 581-3413. You are a unique individual who has something to offer and others in the group may be able to help.

Personally, I still find it difficult dealing with my homosexuality. There are still times when I'm incredibly hard on myself. I don't, however, want to deal with this situation alone. And I don't have to. Now realize there are plenty of people available to lend a hand.

South African delegate calls for U.N. vote

BY PHILLIP LAIRD
Staff writer

ST. LOUIS — The South African representative to the United Nations said Friday during the keynote address to the 31st Midwest Model United Nations that U.N. sanctions removing South Africa's voting rights are illegal.

Jeremy Brown Shearar, who has been the South African representative for the U.N. since 1974 when the country's voting privileges were removed, said the action was a "misapplication" of U.N. rules. "The built-in voting majority of the Soviet Bloc has effectively barred us from exercising our full rights," Shearar said.

The Midwest Model United Nations is a conference of university delegates from across the United States which meets each February in St. Louis. Eastern students have attended the event since 1967 under the advisement of political science Professor John Faust.

Approximately 20 students from Eastern attended this year's conference representing the countries of Libya, the Philippines, and the international press corps.

The United Nations acted in 1974 to remove South Africa's voting rights because of its policy of apartheid. Shearar and the South African government believes recent improvements in racial policy requires the United Nations to reinstate voting privileges.

In an interview Thursday, Shearar said the recent changes in his country were inevitable.

"We are moving down a positive path (toward change) quickly. We have a totally new constitution linked to a bill of rights and Parliamentary elections," he said.

U.S. economic sanctions against South Africa were approved partly because South Africa denied voting privileges to the black majority, and virtually denied the black population representation in the Parliament. More than 80 percent of the nations people are black.

Shearar said it is time those sanctions were lifted, because they are hurting U.S. corporations as much as hurting South Africa.

Shearar told the conference delegates the time had come to reinstate full membership.

"It is opportunity to consider whether ostracism of a member state serves a positive purpose," he said. "It is your task to put the errors of the past behind you. As we approach the 21st century your optimism is needed to make world peace a reality. But you will need the active participation of every nation."

Dean Johnson to retire after 21 years of service

By LANCE HANFLAND
Staff writer

James Johnson, Eastern's assistant dean of student personnel services for 21 years, will begin administrative leave on March 1, followed on Sept. 1 by his official retirement.

During his 21 years at Eastern, Johnson has served more than 400,000 students, who he said have always come first. "Working at Eastern is something I have especially enjoyed," he said. "I've liked working with the faculty and staff, but mostly the students."

As the assistant dean of student personnel services, Johnson has been responsible for areas concerning parking, student absences and withdrawals, as well as student, faculty and civil service identification cards. Johnson also has served as the supervisor of Eastern's International Student Services office and the Afro-American Cultural Center.

A graduate of Eastern, Johnson said he was pleased to return to campus from New York City in 1970. "I graduated from Eastern, and what person doesn't want to return to their alma mater?"

During the past 21 years, Johnson has seen the physical appearance of the university change vastly, including the addition of such new buildings as the Tarble Arts Center and Lumpkin Hall. However, he said the one thing that never changes is the group of students who attend Eastern. "There's always been a good group of students at Eastern," he added.

And students and co-workers seem to feel the same way toward Johnson, including his supervisor, Glenn Williams, the vice president for student affairs.

"We all wish Jim the best in his retirement," Williams said. "His friendly smile and 'can-do' attitude will be missed generally and I will miss him personally very much."

Johnson said while he will miss the students and friends here, the time has come for somebody else to take over. He plans to relax and spend time with his grandchildren and added, "I'm going to spend a lot of my time on the golf course and at Eastern's golf outings."

Pump it up Fourth annual bodybuilding contest slated for Friday

By DAN FRIGO
Staff writer

Eastern students have a chance to show off their muscles — and maybe win something for it.

Eastern's Fourth Annual Bodybuilding Championship will be held at 8 p.m. Friday at the Charleston High School Auditorium.

"The competition is open to any Eastern student," said Darrell Latch, owner of Son Light Power Gym, 519 Seventh St. "We expect the auditorium to be filled to capacity."

Admission for the event will be $4. Proceeds go toward trophies to be given to the winners in four male categories and three female categories.

"An additional trophy will be awarded to the overall winner of each sex and the new champions will replace the reigning champs Larry Tischer and Angie Gerald," Latch said.

Latch is the sponsor for the event and says most of the competitors have had prior bodybuilding experience.

"They (contestants) will look back at the competition and say, 'Wow, I did that.' And that is what it's all about," he added.

Latch created the championship competition four years ago to provide students training for other contests an outlet to display their talents, Latch said.

"I felt it would be nice to have a contest so students could display their work," he said. "The contest is just for them."

Those interested in the bodybuilding championship should stop by the Son Light Power Gym or contact Latch at 345-1544.

Women's swim team finishes fifth in Gateway Conference meet

By DON FISHER
Staff writer

Despite placing fifth out of five teams at the Gateway Conference Championships last weekend, Eastern's women's swim ended up with an excellent season by chalk-ing up an 8-6 record and winning both the Panther and Indianapolis Invationals.

Southern Illinois University placed first, followed by Illinois State University, Western Illinois University, Northern Iowa University, and finally Eastern.

"We took 13 girls and a few people swam pretty close to what they did a week before (Indy Invite)," Eastern head coach Ray Padovan said. "A couple girls went considerably slower, but we had three or four individuals that went considerably better."

The Lady Panthers weren't surprised as to the overall outcome of the meet because they knew that they were up against some real talented and fully funded competition.

Be that as it may, many ladies swam there lifetime best times and felt that it was a real successful meet.

Some noteworthy performances included the 400-yard freestyle relay team of Michelle Stoppenhagen, Ronae Scheuer, Heather Hofman and Lee Singer. They missed breaking Southern's school record by a half a second and finished the race with a time of 3:41.6

Senior Stacey Peterson swam her lifetime best time in the 200-yard breaststroke by touching in with a time of 2:33.1 and Lana Brown placed ninth in the 400-yard individual medley, clocked at 5:07.82.

Singer also placed seventh in the 100-yard backstroke with a time of 1:03.49 and Colleen Roach placed 10th in the 200-yard backstroke.

Tracksters set records

Three new school records were set by Eastern athletes during the Indiana University Last Chance Track Meet. Seven individuals traveled to Bloomington to attempt to qualify for the NCAA national meet next weekend.

Braidy Miller set a new school record while placing first in the shot put with a throw of 58-6 1/2. Miller has already qualified for nationals in the 35 lb weight throw and had made the provisional mark in shot put.

"I think we did an outstanding job. We broke three school records and I'm happy about the prospect of taking Braidy to national," said head coach Neil Moore.

Nevin Govan finished first in the long jump with a leap of 24 feet 10 inches. Govan has already made the provisional mark in the long jump and was attempting to make the automatic standard.

Brent Bickhaus set a new school record while finishing fourth in the pole vault with a vault of 16' 2 3/4. Dan Steele set a new school record while finishing first in the 400 m. dash. Steele's time was 47.87. Jim Rong Fagan finished first and second in the mile run with times of 4:09.7 and 4:10.1.

Moore noted that this is the first time Eastern has had two people qualify for the national meet at the Division I level. The NCAA Indoor Track and Field Championships will be held this week in Indianapolis at the Hoosier Dome.

but then my shots felt easier. I think we need to play them more.

"Our team is gelling - we're playing well. If I play hard, things will happen for me."

Eastern coach Rick Samuels said that Eastern did the things it needed to do to win.

"We stepped up and made the key plays when they made their run," Samuels said. "Rowe and Jones are great players - they got a lot done. Rod McKinnis contributes and has accepted his role."

The win moves the Panthers to Monday's semifinals against the Phoenix, 85-61 winners over Akron Sunday. The game starts at 8:45 p.m. and follows Sunday's other winners, first-seeded Northern Illinois and fifth-seeded Northern Iowa.

"It's going to have to be the people that got us here, like Rowe and Jones," Samuels said. "It should be a fun game to watch if both teams are on."

Sunday's win was Eastern's fifth straight, and the Panthers have now won 12 of their last 16 games.

"The biggest factor in this is great chemistry," Samuels said. "They care about one another and have to do specific things to win."

Panthers hold off pesky Western Illinois 79-75

Eastern meets Phoenix in semis

By R.J. GERBER
Sports editor

GREEN BAY, Wis. — Led once again by the backcourt duo of senior point guard Gerald Jones and junior Steve Rowe, Eastern came away with a 79-75 victory over Western Illinois and set itself up for a semifinal match against host Wisconsin-Green Bay in the Mid-Continent Conference Tournament.

Rowe, a second-team All-Conference selection along with Jones, scored a career-high 32 points and Jones added 17. The pair combined for 30 of the Panthers' 38 first-half points as Eastern led by eight at the intermission.

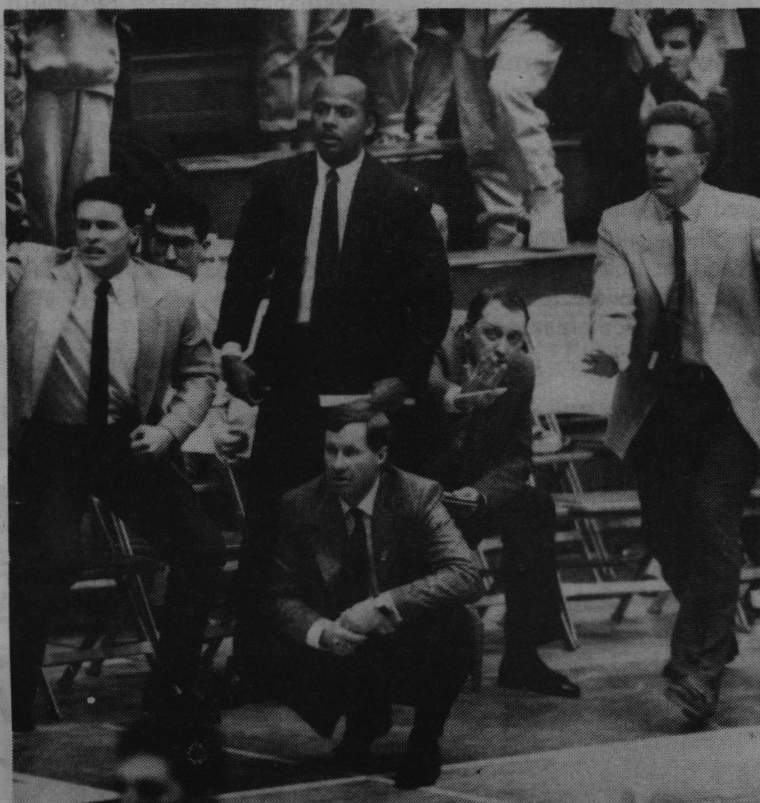

The Panthers (17-11) came out in the second half and grabbed a 55-42 lead on Dave Olson's jumper with 12:10 remaining, but the Leathernecks came back.

Western (13-15) went on a nine-point run to cut its deficit to four, but Eastern steadied itself and held on.

Jones stole the ball and took it the distance for a layup to make 59-54, then assisted on a Rowe 3-pointer, but Western again came back on the outside shooting of Kevin Higgins, who scored all 17 of his points in the second half.

Higgins shared team-high honors with first-team All-Conference member Ron Ateman. Preston Lewis pitched in with 10. Western coach Jack Margenthaler said that he was sorry to see his season come to a halt.

"I feel like the season's over, and it is," Margenthaler said. "It doesn't feel good. He added that Eastern has a legitimate shot at the title and an NCAA berth."

"They're playing very good basketball," Margenthaler said. "They're playing very good basketball. They are trying to win this thing — that's what the post-season is all about. That's what it's all about this time of year."

Margenthaler said that Jones and Rowe made the difference for Eastern.

"The guards are excellent," he said. "They hit the big baskets and we noticed that they read defenses so well. It was difficult to guard those two guys. We tried to contain them."

Forward Rod McKinnis added 12 points on four-of-four from both the field and the free throw line. Rowe said that he took advantage of what the Western defense gave him to set his new career high.

"I was working hard to get open," the 6-foot-1 guard said. "At the beginning I felt sluggish."

GREEN BAY, Wis. — Northern Iowa had to come from behind to score the first upset at the Mid-Continent Tournament as the fifth seeded Purple Panthers edged the number four seed Cleveland State 79-75 in overtime.

The purple Panthers earned the right to face regular season champs Northern Illinois in the semifinals Monday. UNI (13-18) trailed at the half 38-30, partly because of the Vikings' 64 percent shooting from the floor. But Cleveland State (12-16) shot only 35 percent in the second half enabling UNI to send the game into an extra session.

Senior forward Troy Muilenburg scored the first four points in overtime and finished the game with 13 points, and UNI never looked back. Junior forward Cedric McCullough led UNI with 20. Maurice Newby added 15. Brad Hill 10 for the purple Panthers, who are in their first year of Mid-Continent play.

Cleveland State was led by senior forward Steve (Gee) Givens with 23 points, and Anthony Reed and Shawn Ferch chipped in 10 each.

"We did a good job with offense, it was the kind of game like to be in. It was a great game and a great win for us," UNI coach Eldon Miller said.

After having problems finding the basket last Thursday against Southwest Missouri, the Eastern Lady Panthers rolled up the score Saturday afternoon with a 99-89 victory at Wichita State.

Tracy Roller and Stacy Friedrich poured in 24 points apiece, Beverly Williams added 17, and Karen McCaa chipped in 15 to pace the Lady Panther effort.

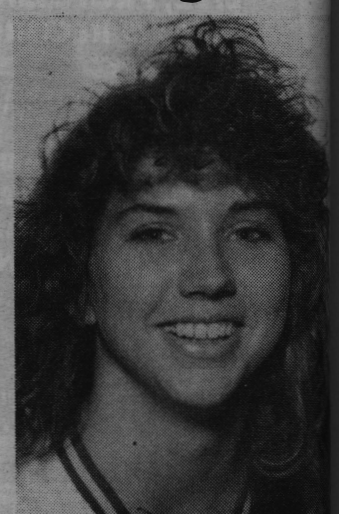

The Lady Panthers close out the season tied for fifth in the Gateway Conference at 9-9 and piled up a winning record for the 13th straight year finishing at 14-13 overall.

"It was a pleasant turnaround from Thursday night," said Lady Panther coach Barb Hilke, who has guided Eastern for 12 of the 13 consecutive winning seasons. "The team connected on offense all game long. I thought the team finished off the season well. It is a nice end for our seniors. They can walk away knowing they gave it their best shot and that they were winners."

The Lady Panthers opened up a 10-point spread midway through the opening half after a Carolyn Hagerty jumper form the top of the key. The lead didn't hold for long though as the Shockers' Tonya Lane scored ten of her game-high 30 points over the final eight minutes of the half to pull Wichita State within two points of the Lady Panthers at 44-42 by halftime.

The inside-outside combination of Friedrich and Heather Youngman broke the game open for the Lady Panthers in the second half. Friedrich scored 18 of her points in the second half thanks to the passing of Youngman, who finished the game with six assists.

"It was tremendous team chemistry for the end of the season," said Hilke. "The whole team pumped up and excited for another. They played for pride and it made the trip back home a lot more pleasant."

Friedrich finishes her career the ninth leading scorer in Lady Panther history with 1,110 points. She also became the fourth Lady Panther to accumulate over 1,000 points and 600 rebounds for a career.

"Stacy was one tough competitor for us throughout her career," Hilke said. "Not only for what she did for us while she was on court, but her leadership off court was a big help to us."

Serbick, Marlow qualify for nationals

By KEN RYAN
Staff writer

Juniors Ray Serbick and Dave Marlow have both accomplished a lot this season. Now both can add a trip to nationals to their list.

The two juniors took different paths to getting past Saturday's Midwest Regionals in Normal Saturday, but both will be making the trip to Iowa City, Iowa, for the NCAA National Championships on March 14-16.

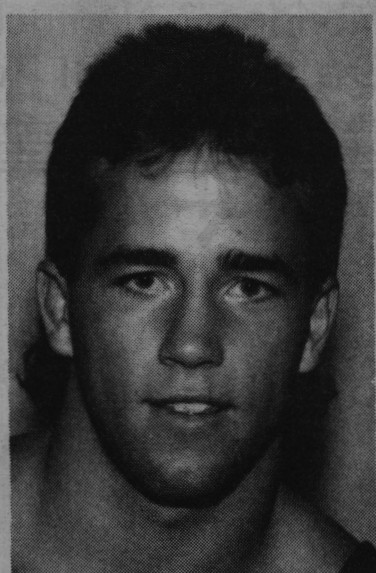

Serbick came out victorious in all three of his matches on the day and recieved an automatic bid. The bid enabled him to reach his goal of making nationals after falling just short the previous two years.

"It feels pretty good," Serbick said. "I won all three of my matches. The toughest one was the one for the championship."

Serbick defeated Scott Hassel of Northern Iowa by the score of 11-8 in the finals. He had some idea of what to expect against Hassel as he picked up a 10-7 victory earlier this year.

Marlow had to sweat it out a bit as he was chosen as a wildcard by the competing coaches.

"I had to sit around two hours waiting for the coaches to make their decision," Marlow said. "I was kind of worried."

Dave Marlow

Marlow had a longer path to making nationals, wrestling five times in one day.

One of the matches was against Steve Hartle of Northern Iowa, who went on to win the regional at 142 pounds.

"I had kind of a long road — I had to wrestle five matches," Marlow said. "I lost to the eventual champion 3-2. The score was tied at the end of regulation but he picked up a point for riding time."

Eastern head coach Ralph McCausland, who has now coached 18 national qualifiers, believes Marlow had a shot at winning in the semifinals.

Serbick goes into nationals with a 32-11-2 record at 134 pounds and Marlow will be looking to improve upon his 30-16 record.

Although Serbick and Marlow are pleased with making it to nationals, both are hoping to pick up some additional victories.

"I'm just hoping to win some matches," Serbick said. "I think if I wrestle well, I can possibly place."

Marlow believes that he, too, can win some more matches.

"I'm hoping to get on a roll and maybe place," Marlow said. "I'm just happy to be going (to nationals)."

McCausland believes that the two wrestlers have a good shot at nationals.

"Chances are good," McCausland said. "Anything can happen at the nationals."

As far as the team goes, the Panthers finished a respectable fourth as they finished the day with 37 3/4 points.

Northern Iowa, with 113 1/2 points won its sixth consecutive regional title, followed by Notre Dame and Illinois State.

The outstanding wrestler of the regionals was awarded to Northern Iowa's Rich Powers, who was the 177-pound champion.
