BALL GAME

There was a game of base ball on the Normal school diamond Wednesday afternoon, between the "clerks" and a team representing the Normal school. The game was fast and furious by spurts. No one would think that clerks could make so many errors and still hold their respective jobs with the present cash register system of the stores. Yet at times the clerks did remarkably well. A hit made by Goodman off Bowman was so unexpected that the fans supporting the clerks nearly fell off the bleachers. Jenkins at third, Norris pitching, and Goodman catching, did the best playing for the clerks. These three handled the horse hide like professionals and made only occasional errors.

For the Normal school team it is a harder proposition to pick stars. Coach Lantz's nine has had practice and several are ball players of experience. A new asset, however, is Bowman, of Greenup, a southpaw who has both smoke and curves. He allowed only three hits the entire game. It is to be hoped that we can have him in for the regular game next spring. R. Hampton, M. Hampton, Glosser, Markle, Cook, and Ed Harris have all played on the team of the regular school year. These men played in their usually consistent way and it would be needless to say that they all starred. "Shine" got his home run, "Rocky" got his walk, "Cooky" scored and "Slim" fell down. In the seventh the clerks gave out and the game was called.

By the way, the score was 18 to 0 in favor of the teachers.

PICNIC AT ROCKS

Twenty-two teachers from Crawford county enjoyed an outing and picnic at the Rocks last Monday. The party went by automobile and spent the time in boating and swimming. A delightful picnic supper was enjoyed by all, after which the trip was made back to town. Every one enjoyed himself and all are hoping that the picnic can be repeated again next year.

TO OUR READERS

We wish to thank the Normal School faculty, students, and townspeople who have given us their loyal support. We also wish to announce that the Normal School News will be published each week of the coming school year, and will be under the management of John Hawkins, '17, Lyman Ritter, '18, and Frank Harris, '17, with Mr. Howard De F. Wider as Faculty Advisor. Hand your dollar to Frank Harris or mail it to the Normal School News.

BANANA TREE

There is now growing in the green house a full fruiting banana tree. This tree, which goes by the scientific name of musca sapientium, is perhaps fifteen feet high and some of the leaves are eight feet long and eighteen in wide. The banana grows only in a tropical climate. In green houses it fruits only every two years. The flowers are borne on a large nodding spike and are clustered together protected by large purplish bracts. The fruit, two well known to require any detailed description, grows upside down from the way which we see it hang in the market. The sight of a banana tree, with fruit on it, is well worth seeing. This and many other interesting things may be seen by visiting the green house.

RETURNS FROM CAMP

Treavor Serviss returned last Wednesday from Green Mountain Falls, Colorado, where he has been camping with the Allen party. The party have rented cabins and are enjoying themselves by taking trips, climbing mountains, fishing and camping. The party has lately been enlarged by the coming of Miss Mary E. Hawkins. It now consists of eight members. They are Mr. Mr. and Mrs. Fiske Allen and sons, Robert and Charles, Mayme Davis, a student here in 1914, Gage Carman, James Ford, and Miss Hawkins. Before coming home next fall the party will visit many points of interest in Colorado and other western states.

BUTLER GETS PRINCIPALSHIP

Grove Butler, '13, will be the principal of the Fairburg schools the coming year. This position is a rather responsible one and Mr. Butler is to be complimented on his selection for the position.

WORK IN GARDENING

A class of about fifty pupils was organized from the seventh and eighth grades this spring for the purpose of during work in gardening. The class was divided into groups of eight each. Each group took up the study of one or two vegetables. Each individual planted a garden ten by thirty feet and is caring for that plot during the summer months. The following arrangements of rotations for the groups was made:

- Group 1. Onions from seed.
- Group 2. Potatoes followed by turnips.
- Group 3. Head lettuce and cabbage followed by string beans.
- Group 4. Peas followed by celery.
- Group 5. Lettuce and radishes.
- Group 6. Beans followed by cucumbers.
- Group 7. Care of the lawn.

Arrangements have been made for the pupils to sell some of their vegetables through a cooperative club. Thus some lessons in business cooperation may be taught. Some have sold as much as ten dollars worth of products from the first crop on the small plots, others have sold very little but have had plenty of good wholesome vegetable food for the home table. The "money making" side is not the side that is being emphasized at all, though it is an important side. It is much more important that the child learn the lessons of economy, of good treatment of the soil, of care of the lawns, of the possibilities of the soil as a source of food etc., than it is to make a little money. As the amount of soil per individual decreases the yield per acre must increase. This is one of the factors that may be emphasized by the garden work.

No little value may come to the boy or the girl from the fact that some definite piece of work is laid upon his shoulders. If he is made responsible for one thing and does it well he may gain strength for bigger enterprises. Many cities are solving a large part of the problem of better community life by having the boys and girls take care of the back yards, the vacant lots, the garden spots, and the side walks of the community. The National Cash Register company of Dayton, O. has found that it pays them in dollars and cents and in extra efficiency in their factory to have the children of their workman trained in this kind of endeavor. They keep extra men on salary to look after the organization of the garden work among the boys because it pays as an investment. Other cities are making it a public enterprise. The cooperation of parents in this endeavor will go far toward encouraging the work and enlarging it to the advantage of the general welfare.

If every boy and girl who is big enough to care for a plot of ground ten by thirty feet would become interested in producing something from the soil which would be of intrinsic value in the home, they could literally bring thousands of dollars worth of products right out of the soil and place them in the home. It is a project worth thinking about in these days when the cost of living is so high.—T. D. C.

GAVE GOOD TALK

Dr. Hyeronimus, head of the department of better community conditions at the University of Illinois was a visitor at school Thursday morning. He gave a very interesting talk in chapel on the movement that is on foot for the betterment of the communities of the state of Illinois.

ENTERTAINMENT COURSE

The management of the Entertainment Course has secured several numbers for the next year. These entertainments are all first class and were secured with considerable trouble on the part of the managers.

The first of the series of entertainments comes October 16th, which will be a concert by Madam Tilly Koenen a celebrated Dutch contralto.

The second number will be a concert by the Zoellner Stringed Quartet, which plays here on April 19. The Zoellners have played here before and are too well known to require any recommendation.

On March 1 Leland Powers will be here. Mr. Powers has been here several times and has always proven a delight to those who have heard his readings.

The Coburn Players, who played here twice in the last year will be here early in May.

The Students Transfer Co. will be on the job next week. Don't forget to let them haul your trunk. Operated by Cooper, Bails and Hawkins.

We received a letter from J. Edward McGurty, former sporting editor of The Normal School News. "Eddie" is now in Chicago where he will probably locate.

At the present time athletics are taking a prominent place in the schools of this country. The critic of the past century would not have given athletics the prominent place it now occupies in our schools. However that athletics do play an important part in the life of the student, is conceded by men whose opinion is respected by the public in general. Even the laws of our state require the teaching of gymnastics. This is a great aid to athletics.

Some people have attacked athletics for no other reason other than that they do not understand what athletics are. Others have more reasonable grounds for their attacks. One attack made is, that too much time is taken from study for practice or other athletic drill. Some attack athletics from the standpoint the athletes' strength is overtaxed. Critics say that the athlete comes from practice completely worn out by his exertions and unfit for the mental activity which his studies demand.

Still another angle of attack is that people who are physically unfit for athletics are greatly harmed thereby.

All attacks may be answered by any person with a reasonable knowledge of athletics. Recreation in some forms is indulged in by practically every one. Is it not better to have the student on the athletic field under the watchful eye of a careful coach than loafing about the rooms of his associates dawdling away his time to no purpose at all? Should athletics be condemned because of the excesses of a few who spend too much time at practice?

Now days the athlete is usually subject to a rigid medical examination before he is allowed to practice with the team. In this way any one who is unfit for physical exertions is disqualified. It is a safe statement, it would seem, that the person who spends a certain given time each day at physical exercise will be a better student than he would otherwise be. The athlete learns to cooperate with others in his work. He must become a part of a machine, the efficiency of which depends on how well each unit performs its part.

It requires a certain amount of will power to stay with the grind of practice day after day. The quitter is soon found. Only the ones who can develop will power will be able to stay.

The value of athletics as a factor in the physical development of the student, should not be overlooked. There can be no doubt that athletics develop and build up the body.

From the moral stand point, athletics are above reproach. The intemperate can not hope to hold out. The cigarette fiend has not sufficient endurance to stand up with the clean liver. In order to be a good athlete one must be temperate in all his habits and regular in his daily life. Surely athletics are valuable from an educational point of view and are worthy the serious consideration of all students.

DANCED AT PARK

The Junior-Senior-Alumni dance given at Urban Park last Monday evening was enjoyed very much by all those present. Chaperoned by Miss Hansen, Miss Farrer, Mr. Peterson and Mr. Cowen, the party left here at 7:45 and returned at 11:50. About forty couples were present, of which about ten were alumni. Music was furnished by Flannigan's orchestra of Mattoon.

Charles Conrad, a former student of this school, and a member of the foot ball team of 1910, called on friends here last Saturday. Mr. Conrad is taking work at the U. of T. this summer. Next year he goes to Oakland as principal of the city schools of that place.

LIBRARY EXTENSION

Nearly all teachers of small town and rural schools feel handicapped, either by having no library in the school, or by having no suitable material in the scanty library which they possess.

The following information offers greatly increased library opportunities for small town and rural districts. Library information and advice, and traveling libraries may be had by sending to the address here given: The Illinois Library Extension Commission, Springfield, Illinois.

Each traveling library consists of twenty five books selected by expert librarians. These books contain material for all the grades. The library is loaned, free of charge, for the full term. If, however, the teacher wishes, the books may be exchanged for a second lot of twenty five books. A library of fifty books can be secured for the use of patrons. A teacher can add seventy five books to her school library for a very small cost, the only charge being transportation charges to and from Springfield.—H. M.
