INVOICE

It is a common practice for the business men to make an inventory of their stock in trade at least once a year. Perhaps students could imitate this business activity with profitable results to themselves. Mid-year is a very appropriate time to make a serious invoice of one's educational standing.

After such an examination, many will feel the exhilaration of unexpected prosperity; others will find a safe margin with which to continue their work for the remaining half year; still others will see the wisdom and necessity of retrenchment in social affairs, and of the expenditure of more effort on the real business of the year. And as in business, so in school, an invoice will reveal a state of bankruptcy in one or more departments of their business to a few. What are your prospects?

—Mary M. F. Whalen.

THE INEVITABLE

Once upon a time there was a football and basketball player at T. C. High, who repeatedly incurred the displeasure of the powers that be, by committing petty offenses that were direct violations of good law and order. Repeatedly he had been given another chance to prove that he was willing to trod the straight and narrow path. And repeatedly he had violated the confidence of the powers that be, by straying from the road that led to his reinstatement in the good graces of those powers.

Ever since last March, when the conviction became general at E. I. that its high school team ought to be favorites for the district championship in basketball in 1922-23, the players and their followers have been eagerly awaiting the current season. Certainly T. C. High never faced a better chance for the high honors, and perhaps never would enter another schedule with such bright prospects. The setting was made to order for a rousing triumphal march to the championship, and the team started off with a rush that promised great joy for all the rosters that were backing the team in the drive for the district honors.

And then, two of the mainstays of the team, grew careless with the conservative idea of easy picking before them, and became indifferent. Perhaps the hero worship of their small army of admirers was responsible. Anyway, the glare of popularity and hero worship was so great for them, that they dropped with a thud in their studies. Both were placed on the ineligible list, and the team slumped woefully. Then the person to whom this article is dedicated, fell by the wayside again. Another penalty was tacked on by the powers that be, and then came the crowning blow. With the full knowledge that he was on a very rigid probation, with everybody watching his every move, if he really did intend to get in step, he kicked over the traces again. This was "the straw that broke the camel's back." He was made to see the Correct fitting footwear is not exactly easy to find. Yet that is what Howard Mitchell, our cast side shoe merchant, promises the readers of THE NEWS. This is a promise that ought to bring him the opportunity to prove to you that his message is sincere and truthful.

What have you that needs the touch of an expert cleaner and dyer? R. Westenbarger is equipped with the facilities for the cleaning and finishing of silks, velvets, and plushes, and anything else along that line that you need.

If you want a dazzling shine that you can see in the face, it's not over-look "Brownie" Shackelford. He also cleans and polishes suit cases and hand bags. He caters to T. C. patronage. Nearly everybody at E. I. already knows "Brownie's" ability.

advisability of leaving school and his basketball activities. And so he shook the dust of E. I. from his shoes as gracefully as possible.

If the powers that be have been patient with any student in the past, they have been patient with this one. But had he been forgiven another offense or two, the established order in the high school would have been upset and chaos would have reigned. The welfare of the mass could not be further threatened to save an individual. There is another side that ought to be exposed to the student consideration. If some other student made the first disorderly move in this instance—a move that challenged the respectability of the school, and especially if the other student cared a rap for the welfare of the team and the school, he ought to have known better than to tempt one whom he knew did not have sufficient moral courage to resist doing the thing that resulted in his final plunge into disorder. It seems reasonable to think that everybody who wanted to see this player restored to good standing would have exerted every effort to aid him in accomplishing that end, and would not have tempted one who could not resist such temptation.

Now the player has gone, and has gone with regret from all sides. He was liked by everybody, and was a good fellow—too good for his own welfare. He never did anything really bad, but a long series of petty offenses, most of them trivial in themselves but serious when reviewed in summary fashion, spelled nothing less than inevitable disqualification when the scales had reached the limit. E. I. wishes him every success in his subsequent activities. E. I. knows the player was at fault, but recognizes that the welfare of the whole must take precedence over that of any one or any other basketball player. The wheels will continue to turn just the same.

—Dale D. Coyle.

THE CRUCIAL TEST

Now is the time for the school to get behind its T. C. High basketball team and support it more heartily than ever before. From the atmosphere of gloom and dejection before Friday's game broke through the sun of cheer and encouragement when Coach Spooner's patched-up team almost pulled the score on Windsor, and put up the best exhibition it has shown since the early season contests.

Let's show the world that we are not quitters. The team proved correct Friday that it had not quit, but was back in the harness today, and with his addition to the lineup there is no reason for anticipating anything less than marked success in the remaining games and in the tournament. The team is fighting now. It realizes that it can not loaf one minute, but must travel at top speed the rest of the way. And if it travels at top speed the rest of the way, it is good enough to win the championship yet. Let bygones be bygones, and think only of today's task.

The team will get all the more credit from the rest of the district when it wins games from this time on. T. C. High has risen in the estimation of the entire district within the past week, and is entitled to the same applause from its own ranks. It's up to the students now to support with renewed vigor their team, and, win or lose, the players are entitled to columns of praise for grit-

"NEWSPAPER ENGLISH"
"It's amazing," says Dr. Walter B. Pitkin of the Pulitzer School of Journalism, "how little about even the elementary principles of the language average college instructors know. Not one out of 100 of them can write good enough English to appear in a newspaper."

This statement may puzzle some critics, who have anything but a high regard for "newspaper English." In fairness it should be admitted that there is a great deal of poor English printed in the daily press, and also in magazines, and that college professors usually think as little of newspaper style as the newspapers think of professional style. It is a fact, however, that the style dictated by the ordinary college professor or instructor is so academic so much drawn by the books and written in a sort of scholastic scale, that the ordinary citizen often has a hard time figuring out what it means.

The newspapers with all their hasty preparation and appearance of shallowness, and written in a style that is drawn from life, which approximates natural human speech, have solved the psychology of the reading public better than the style of the college. If the purpose of writing and printing is to convey ideas most effectively from one mind to another, newspaper writing is certainly superior—Chicago Tribune, quoting from the Rock Island Argus.

E. I. AND SHELBYVILLE
INBIBED TO ELSA DIEMER Mrs. Otto Wick, better known to E. I. as Elsa Diemer, left another bright spot in chapel exercises Thursday morning by singing four pleasing selections—nor was "The House That Jack Built" overlooked. Those who were not in this school last year and heard her sing at the Music Festival should be glad that they have had the opportunity of hearing her talented soprano voice.
Her help to the Girls' Glee Club with "The Dawn" was much appreciated. It gave the girls inspiration to accomplish more in the club. Mrs.
Wick delighted an appreciative audience at Shelbyville Monday night when she acted as soloist at the initial public program given by the Shelbyville Choral Society, of which Mrs. Wick's father, our own Mr. Koch is director.

PARIS TIGERS TAKE
MEASURE OF C. H. S.
The followers of the T. C. High basketball team who figured that C.
H. S. is the team that Coach Spooner's boys must beat in order to win the district championship discovered last week that another team stands between the future teachers and ul-imate victory. The north side bunch jowed to the prowess of the Paris Tigers in the Edgar county gym Friday night, 27 to 21.

The tournament will be held in Paris this winter, which gives the Tigers a considerable advantage and mitiles them to the most serious consideration as the coming champions. So not only must T. C. High prove its supremacy over C. H. S. but it must prove a better sticker than Paris. There should be great doings at the tournament with at least three evenly matched teams entered.

A NEW ENGLISH PERIODICAL.
The January, 1923 number of London Mercury has just been received in the general library. It is a general literary magazine, this number containing some modern poems, an article on Emily Bronte, an estimation of Alice Meynal with notes on many new books, including fine arts, architecture, literary history and criticism, biography and memoirs, politics and economics, furniture and antiquities. Read it to get the English point of view.

SURPRISE PARTY

Friday night the R. F. G.'s gave Emily Fox a good surprise by crowding into her room at ten o'clock the lay after her birthday. After a very useful and pretty gift was presented to "Em" the crowd produced the ice cream and cakes and a very informal uncheon was served, after which each girl had to wash her own dish and spoon, which was strenuous labor for some.

Those dressed for the occasion were Emily Jane Fox and sister, Marjorie, Esther Lea, Dawn Jones, "Ginny" Shields, "Sal" Seitz, Louise Means, "Gert" and Louise Sharkey, "Cat" Lytle, Frances Craig, Velma Rains, Margaret Popham, Nera Gish, "Babe" Ashworth, Sarilla Temples, Ruth Champion, Louise Ring, and Virginia Rose Alexander.

CUMBERLAND CO. REUNION

There will be a supper and reunion of former Cumberland County residents in the Chamber of Commerce auditorium at 7:30 Thursday evening. The committee in charge of the reunion extends a cordial invitation to all E. I. students who are former residents of Cumberland County or whose homes are now in that County to help swell the attendance at this occasion. A thoroughly good time is promised at this homecoming "away from home."

DINNER FOR FLORENCE ROOT

Mrs. Earl W. Anderson entertained with a three course dinner last Monday in honor of her sister, Florence Root. The guests were Florence Root, Willa Henry, Dina McCall, Gertrude Traeger, Etanche Harmon, La-ella Starr, and Paulina Mitchell.
After the dinner the party went to the show.

Friday night Maurine Cline entertained with a dinner party for Pearl Isenberg. Those invited were Irene Garrison, Crystal Abraham, Bitha Spangh, Dorothy Kelly, Helen Stock-one, Ruth Ingram, Pearl Isenberg, Margaret Thompson, Thelma Franklin, and Maurine Cline.

Elsie Sloan, Lillia Fleming, Dorthy Jordan, and Lucile Nehring were Sunday dinner guests of Elizabeth Kerr.

Gertrude Nickle was the dinner guest of Neva Gish Wednesday evening.

AS CLEAR AS MUD

The man had just informed the agent that he wanted a Pullman berth.

"Upper or lower?" asked the agent.
"What's the difference?" returned the man.

A difference of 50 cents in this case," replied the agent. "The lower is higher than the upper. The higher price is always for the lower. If you want it lower, you'll have to go higher. We sell the upper lower than the lower. In that sense, most people don't like the upper. Most people don't like the upper, because it is lower on account of being higher. When you occupy an upper you have to get up to go to bed and get down when you get up. You can have the lower if you pay higher. The upper is lower than the lower, because it is higher.
If you are willing to go higher, it will be lower, and moreover, it will be higher than the lower.
But the poor man had gone outside for some fresh air!

PERSONALS

Mr. Lord made a business trip to Springfield Friday.

There were several chapel visitors Thursday morning. Evidently the news had leaked out that Mrs. Wick would sing.

Although THE NEWS endeavors to day.

Mrs. J. E. Francis visited the training school Tuesday afternoon.

The Rev. Walter Johnson, pastor of the local Presbyterian Church, was an E. I. visitor Thursday afternoon.

Dr. Abell visited his daughter, Miss Alice, at school Thursday morning.
Fred Staley has left school, returning to his home in Vermillion.

the half-term Saturday to begin his new duties as manual training teacher in the Longfellow and Bennett schools in Mattoon. "Gumps" expects to return to E. I. for the first summer term to complete his work for graduation.

Sara Seitz was the week-end guest of Iole Hurst of Mattoon.

Sylvia Ashworth spent the weekend at her home in Humbolt.

Lois Moore spent last week at her home in Humbolt.

Louise and Gertrude Sharkey spent the week-end at their home in Marshall.

Leslie Cook and Cyril Reed attended the basketball game Wednesday night.

Francis Craig was the guest of her cousin, Maxine, Saturday night.

DeVona O'Hair was a Terre Haute visitor Saturday.

Eva Nave spent the week-end as the guest of Mrs. Curry of Mattoon.

Irene Garrison and Lo Burrell spent the week-end with their sisters, who are teaching in Mattoon.

Miss Nellie Eric was the guest of her sister, Mrs. Beulah Bidwell at the Hall over Sunday.
