Homecoming Queen Candidates to Be Chosen Wednesday

Candidates for Homecoming Queen are to be selected at special class meetings this Wednesday morning, acmeetings this wednesday morning, ac-cording to arrangements agreed upon at a meeting of the Homecoming committee last Wednesday afternoon. Changes have been made in the rulings whereby all classes will vote on the Queen this year, instead of the three upper classes as it was last vear.

Each of the two upper classes, junis ach of the two upper classes, jun-lors and seniors, is to select two can-didates for Queen at the meetings Wednesday. At the regular class meetings next Wednesday each class will vote on the four candidates, the one receiving the highest number of votes being made Queen. Each class will also elect a Maid-of-Honor from their own class next Wednesday to serve as escort to the Queen.

The election of a Homecoming Queen has been sponsored by the News for several years and this year's elec-tion and coronation are likewise being conducted by the News.

Tentative Homecoming programme plans include vaudeville sunts on Friday night, October 13, and, on Satday ingn., Cecocer is, and, on Sat-urday, special chapel exercises, a football game with State Normal, a tea, presentation of a play by the Players, and the annual Homecoming, dance. T. C. Gridders in 32 to 0 Triumph

T. C. High school folded up before a powerful running attack offered by Oskland at Oskland Saturday after-noon and lost its opening game of the senson by a 32 to 0 score. After playing Oakland on even terms in the first quarter, T. C. crumbled before the end run attack of Jones and Annin as three touchdowns scored. Oakland added another counter in the third quarter and climaxed the upset with a touchdown in the final period.

Oakland's speedy backfield coupled with its heavy line proved superior to the Angus-cosched team throughout the fray although the Blue and Gold held its own except when Jones or Annin broke loose for long runs, was in this manner that the "Pinh Pigskinners" started the disastrous second quarter. It was Jones, lightning fast fullback, who started T. C.'s downfall by sweeping wide around right end soon after the quarter opened and continuing all the way to the ed and continuing all the way to the goal line. Jones was the hero of the Paris-Oakland game a week ago, giv-ing his team a 6 to 0 victory over the Tigers in a similar manner. A long pass from Jones to Annin was also mixed in the second period scoring.

Although T. C.'s light line was hattered and the backfield failed to hit the holes opened by the line, the Angusmen looked impressive at certain stages in the game. For this reason Coach Angus is hopeful that his gridders will show a reversal of form and put T. C. in the win column this season. The locals have a game with Lovington scheduled for this Priday afternoon at Lovington, Lovington also lost its initial game of the season by a heavy score, succumbing to Tuscola by a 26 to 0 margin.

There are reasons, many of them, why teachers and students alike grow gray. The best one of all, we think, is English 20, that rollicking sequence of headaches and mornings after. Everyone takes it, quite a few fake it, and some try to abake it. Like sleeping sickness, it first gives you a pain in the neck, and later attacks the brain. For twelve weeks you are on your back, during which time you are never yourself, but rather a combination of a kangaroo, a dove, and the Sunday supplement. To Conquer Depression?
It is hard to see any reason why this programme will not conquer the depression in large part within the next year, if it continues to be enthusiasti-cally received and is either honestly lived up to or effectively enforced. The major portion of our great industrial-ists have seen the need for such action for some time but each hesitated to shoulder the losses incident to being the first to lead off. As the less-thanthe first to lead off. As the less-than-living wage is abolished and room is made for more and more thousands of workers to share in the weekly pay-rolls more buying power is automat-ically created. All of this will be im-mediately spent resulting in a bigger overturn for retailers and more orders goods which will call for more rkers and thus bring us back one are to security and happiness. Th more workers and thus bring us back once more to security and happiness. The rise of prices due to increased costs of production is in itself a powerful stim-ulant to people to buy who still have money and one suspects there are more such in the country than many would suppose. Merchants are encouraged by rising prices to lay in substantial stocks of goods realizing that they will make oney on them even if they lie for me time on the shelves. But before these benefits can be enjoyed the question must be settled whether the N R A can be honestly obd or effectively enforced. The an-to this question will depend on how completely the American ople are converted to the new econ-nics of collectivism, just how far they e or may become social-minded; whether we are ready as a people to conduct our business with the welfare of the whole society in mind or whether at the first opportunity our business men are going to follow the old game of "dog eat dog" and "the devil take the hindmost."

Sources of Opposition
Already several sources of opposition re showing themselves. There will saturally be a certain amount of prosets on grounds of principle by the remaining "rugged individualists" of test on grounds of principle by the remaining "ruged individualists" of whom Henry Ford is the first to stand out with prominerce. In our own state the powerful and influential Chicago Tribune, representing the same school of opinion, continues to express a discreet skepticism of the programme and to remind its readers that we used to think highly of the wisdom of Thomas Jefferson. It is hard to guage the power of this voice of tradition but such a call to return to the religion of the Pathers should never the religion of the Fathers should never be left out of account. If it is insignifi-cant in itself it will always offer a respectable ground of contention for many who have other less noble griev

Op to now the American business man has seemed to enter into the President's programme in a spirit of wholehearted co-operation but one wonders how much of his expressed spirit is genuine and how much subilic spirit is genuine and how much as due to his well-known reluctance to risk a profit by falling to do what is expected of him. He has his blue sagie prominently displayed but is he actually imbued with the spirit of the thing? I have a suspicion that many factories are planning their work so as > ison with the inconvenience from which he suffers. Then there is the farmer. N R A is already boosting the prices of all manufactured commodities, but it cannot conceivably effect farm prices except at a remote future and that will not suffice. The new farm relief programme may well carry along with it the success or failure of the N R A Eve in the face of victor prices. For, in the face of rising price unless some way can be found to raise farm prices, and that drastically, the farmer's plight will be worse than ever. Mr. Roosevelt must bring off the two programmes together or there may be a sharp reaction against his party in the next Congressional elections, to the ire of the still unsatisfied farm-er. Such an outcome would probably prove fatal to his whole programme for most of his special powers hen granted for a two-year period only and must be re-granted by the next Congress if the New Deal is to continue.

Speed a Major Item

No one realizes better than Roosevelt that speed is a major neces-sity from now on. He actually does not have four years in which to justify not have four years in which to justify the confidence the people have placed in him. He has but two. All talk of our having a dictator in this country is of course bosh. The President and his party must face the test of a free election next fall and a hostile Con-gress after that election could, and probably would upset the whole "plan-ned economy." Mr. Roosevelt knows ned economy." Mr. Roosevelt knows too that such a plan as the N R A can-not be enforced entirely by federal police power. If the mass of business nform, the few cheaters may be haled into court, but it remains doubt-ful what the Supreme Court might hold on the constitutionality of the Recovery Act.

During the Koch became a member of a company of opera singers from the Royal Opera in Kassel and Hanover and made a number of concert tours with the group.

In the spring of 1888 Mr. Koch was required to take an examination for military service, as was customary in Germany at that time. Fortunately, he was declared physically not strong enough for service and ecaped duty for one year. In the fall of 1888 he re-ceived his chance to come to America. The Harris Academy of Music in Baltimore offered Mr. Koch a con-tract for a series of concerts. This pleased him very much, as three of his brothers had come to this country in 1879. His grandparents with their family had also emigrated to America in 1860 and were then living in Balti-more. Here was a chance to join his relatives in the new country. With the influence of his father's friends he attempted to get a pasport, but as Mr Koch says, "only a German knows the red tape one had to cut to get any-thing pased officially in those times."

Finally a passport was issued to Mr. Koch and he came to Baltimore to give the series of concerts. Following the engagement in Baltimore he moved to St. Louis, where from Sept. 1888 to January 1889 he was engaged as ac-companist and soloist with the famous
