Golf, tennis to be dropped? Mullally denies all reports

By Gene Seymour

Athletic Director Mike Mullally has denied reports that he will drop two intercollegiate sports at Eastern, golf and tennis, calling the report "unfounded".

The News learned from a source Thursday that Mullally had revealed intentions of eliminating the two sports because "golf and tennis can't produce revenue" and that as a whole there is "little student interest in the sports."

Mullally stated his position by pointing out that he is "not committed to dropping anything" and is "not going to make a commitment until I can take a long hard look at the program, and decide what has to be cut and when.

"As far as I can tell, your source is unfounded in saying that there is going to be a definite elimination of these two sports," Mullally added.

The source pointed out that a reason for the dropping of the two sports would be to consolidate the money from the two sports cut, and pump it into the remaining sports.

Funds totaling $6,000 were appropriated to these two sports.

The total athletic budget is roughly $190,000 with slightly less than $80,000 coming from student fees and the remaining $110,000 coming from state funds.

Last spring, former AD Tom Katsimpalis mentioned the possibility of doing away with the two sports in an effort to build up the athletic budget.

When asked if he was considering such a move, Mullally replied "there definitely has to be some changes made somewhere, but right now I just can't specifically say what is going to be changed."

"What I will say," Mullally continued, "is that we are going to finish this athletic season with every sport that we started out with."

Dutch Gossett, who was recently appointed as the new tennis coach, had little reaction to the report, stating that he "didn't hear anything about it.

"I also think if there was anything of that nature going on that I would be the first to hear about it," Gossett added.

Mullally, who was hired with the intentions of turning things around in the athletic department, made it clear in a July press conference after he was named to the position, that he was going to take some steps that he thought necessary to bring about changes.

"If I have to, I won't be afraid to step on a few toes," he told the media last July.

The source that revealed the report Thursday also pointed out that football and basketball, the "revenue" sports, would be given top priority to the additional $6000.

Possibly this is one of the "outside sources" Mullally was referring to when he revealed blueprints to put the football team up in a hotel the night prior to a football game.

Dunn elected senate speaker by 22-1 vote

Joe Dunn, student senator representing the at-large district, was elected Student Senate Speaker for the fall semester at Thursday's senate meeting.

Dunn, summer semester speaker, was elected upopposed for the fall semester, by a margin of 22-1.

The only negative vote came from Jim Price, a senator from the greek district.

In other senate action, Kevin Kerchner, financial vice president, reported to the senate that contributions of approximately $45 has been collected for the Voter Registration Drive.

Kerchner said contributions had been collected from political candidates ranking from U.S. Congressional hopefuls all the way down the political ladder.

The $45 contribution, Kerchner said, "will be for the paying of bills," created from the cost of the voter registration drive.

Kerchner said the contributions new raise the voter registration account to approximately $125.

He said the account, which has been untouched, is the soul bill payer for the voter registration drive.

"The voter registration drive does not involve any student government spending," he said, adding, "it (the voter registration drive) is going to run in the black."

Kerchner said the voter registration has cost about $60 so far but will run into more cost because of further work and some advertising that has yet to get under way.

Kerchner added that all the candidates that were solicited for contributions had not yet replied.

"The sheriff (Paul Smith) has called me and pledged a contribution," he said.

Contributions were made by Paul Komada, a candidate for state's attorney, Bill Young, a candidate for Congress from the 22nd district, Al Keith, a candidate for representative of the 53rd district, Sen. Tom Merritt and Fredrick Green, a candidate for appellate court judge.

He added that a voter registrar would be on campus Sept. 30-Oct. 4.

Anti-inflation tax hike considered by Ford

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Ford, emphasizing that the nation faces an uphill struggle in fighting inflation, was reported Thursday to be keeping open the possibility of an anti-inflation tax increase in 1975.

Responding to questions at a news briefing, White House Press Secretary Gerald F. terHorst ruled out any tax hike for this year but said it's the sort of question Ford must consider as he prepares to send Congress his 1975 agenda in January.

Ford emphasized the difficulties of putting the nation's economy in order in a statement that announced his appointment of Kenneth Rush, presidential counselor for economic policy, to serve as chairman of the new eight-member Council on Wage and Price Stability.

"One thing is already clear: there will be no instant miracles," Ford said.

"This is an uphill struggle. We're all in it together.

"We must be tough with ourselves, we must be ready for sacrifices, and we must be prepared to stick it out over the long haul."

Ford also signed with some reluctance a $4.5-billion public works appropriation for the fiscal year that began July 1.

Noting the total exceeds the budget by $80 million, Ford asked Congress to act under the new budget reform law to defer that amount of spending for a year.

To do otherwise, he said, "would contribute excessively to inflationary government spending."

President Ford

Asked if Ford might seek higher taxes, terHorst responded "at this time the President has no plans for asking for a tax increase."

TerHorst said it would be unrealistic to expect Congress to act on such a matter in the final weeks of its 1974 sessions, but noted that the President would be outlining his 1975 program in January.

The possibility of tax increase is the "sort of issue a president always has before him," terHorst said.

While terHorst was meeting with reporters, Ford was spending a half hour with president Leonard Woodcock of the United Auto Workers Union.

Woodcock, full of praise for the new President, later told newsmen, "I would be opposed to a tax increase across-the-board."

Secretary of the Treasury, William E. Simon, suggested on Tuesday that the new Council on Wage and Price Stability, of which he is a member, will have to consider adopting voluntary wage-price guidelines.

"The subject of guidelines has not come up yet," terHorst said, reporting that any move in that direction would first have to win Ford's approval.

The new council headed by Rush will monitor wage-price behavior in the economy.

Panther Lair to be open on Labor Day

While most offices will be closed at Eastern over the Labor Day weekend, the residence halls, food services and certain sections of the University Union will be open.

Booth Library, the Textbook Library and the Health Service, will all be closed on Labor Day.

Also closed that day will be the cafeteria, check cashing booth and bookstore of the union, along with most university offices, in observance of the holiday.

The Panther Lair, however, will be open on Labor Day, contrary to last year.

The Eastern News will not publish a paper on Monday, Labor Day. Publication will resume Tuesday.

News will publish winning lottery numbers

By John Ryan.

Winning numbers in the Illinois State Lottery will appear in the Eastern News every week, beginning with today's edition.

The News, located in the basement of Pemberton Hall, will post the lottery results, but will not give lottery information over the telephone.

Drawings have been taken from different locations throughout the state with Thursday's drawing coming at the Du Quoin State Fair.

To be a weekly Lottery winner, match any three of the five two-digit numbers and win $20. Match four out of the five two-digit numbers to win $100 and if a ticket matches all five two-digit numbers, the winner collects $5,000.

To become a qualifier and a sure winner of some cash in either the Millionaire Game or the Weekly Bonanza a lottery participant must match two of the winning three digit numbers.

Lottery contestants that are holding a winning ticket in the Weekly Bonanza automatically become eligible for prizes up to $300,000 ($20,000 for 15 years), $50,000, 10,000 or a $1,000 minimum at a special drawing.

Matching any two three digit numbers in the Millionaire Game means winning $500 and becoming eligible for prizes of $1,000,000 ($50,000 for 20 years), $100,000 ($10,000 for 10 years, $10,000 or $1,000 minimum at the millionaire drawing.

A spokesman at the lottery center in Mattoon said, that a ticket holder qualifying for the Millionaire Game wins $500 as soon as the ticket is presented at the center, located at 121 Charleston St.

The spokesman added that as soon as the claim is made a check for $500 is mailed from Springfield to that ticket holder. A $1000 minimum prize in the millionaire drawing goes to everyone who qualifies for the Millionaire Game.

She explained that the Claim Center only takes claims of a $100 or more. $20 Weekly Lotto winners must mail their claims to the store where the lottery ticket was purchased.

Winners must fill out claim forms for the $100 or higher prizes.

We also take the lottery tickets, give the holder a receipt and then send them to Springfield," added the spokesman who asked not to be named.

When asked about the lottery winners thus far for this area, she said, "We have had more $100 winners than anything else." However, the Mattoon claim center has had one qualifier for both the Weekly Bonanza and the Millionaire Game.

Virginia K. Kersey, 53, of 1010 Marshall, Mattoon has won $1,500 in the Millionaire Game and Robert Arrol, pharmacist, from Arcola has won $1,000 in the Weekly Bonanza.

Sallay's of Dolton win $300,000 bonanza lottery

DOLTON, Ill. AP - "We've never won anything before except each other," said Richard Sallay's wife when her husband got the phone call from Gov. Daniel Walker telling him he had won $300,000.

"The first thing Dick did when he finished talking to the governor was to give me a big kiss," she added.

An equipment maintenance man for Bell Telephone Co., Sallay was mowing the lawn of his modest ranch home Thursday when his wife shouted: "The governor is on the phone! Get in here as fast as you can!"

When Walker said, "Congratulations, you are the $300,000 bonanza winner of our lottery," Sallay could only say, "I can't believe it."

The governor had no trouble getting through to the Sallay home from DuQuoin, where the drawing took place, because, as Mrs. Sallay noted, "We have two lines into the house. He's with the phone company, you know."

Sallay, 45, has worked for Bell 26 years. He has a son, Steven, 19, a daughter, Tracy, 16, "and a few debts."

Although he received news of his good fortune shortly after 11 a.m., he said he planned to report to work as usual four hours later.

Tracy, home from school with the flu, exclaimed: "It's so really fantastic!"

The $50,000 winner, Roberto Fuentes, was at work when he received Walker's call. "I was waiting for the call. I knew I was going to win something big," he said.

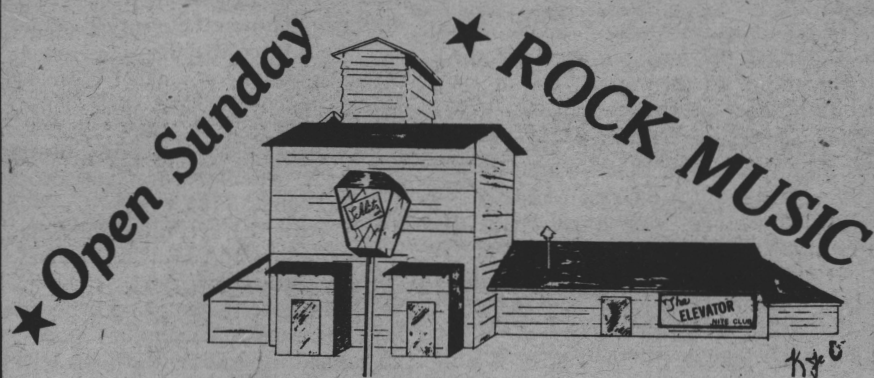

Fuentes, 37, who said he is a production metal foreman at a metal plant, came to Chicago from Puerto Rico 16 years ago.

3,000 add, drop requests cause long lines Thursday

By Susan Black

Add notices were running "eight or nine hours behind" Mike Taylor, director of registration, said Thursday because of the large number of add requests.

The add notice line was crawling along early Thursday afternoon at Old Main when the Eastern News checked on the situation.

"I've been here for more than an hour," one of the more than 100 students waiting outside the Sargeant Gallery said.

Taylor said, "The problem is that yesterday we took in over 3,000 adds a drops."

He further explained that each request has to be hand fed into one of four computer terminals to be processed by the main computer and entered on the class rosters.

The computer then issues the add notice which enables the student to enter the class and also pick up his textbooks.

"We're trying to warn students that their adds may not be ready," Taylor said in regards to the plight of those waiting unnecessarily in the line.

At 1:45 p.m. the Eastern News questioned students in four separate sections of the line in Old Main to see if they had received such a warning.

"Hell no," one student said and then added, "you mean I've been standing here for nothing?"

One girl said that she had heard someone yell "something" but that she thought it was just another student.

The other waiting students all said that they had heard nothing about the notices running behind.

"We plan on working until seven tonight to catch up," Taylor said.

He said that so far on Thursday the flow of add and drop requests in the University Union had been "a lot lighter" than the day before.

"It's the first time we've had this many requests on one day and truthfully I just don't know why," he said.

Taylor was sure that by working late Thursday his office would be able to catch up and keep up with the flow of requests by Friday.

Fite wants deal on water rates before giving city Eastern land

By Rick Popely

President Gilbert Fite told city officials Thursday he wants to negotiate a deal on Eastern's water rates before agreeing to give university property to Charleston for a new street.

Fite said at a meeting in his office that "some other arrangements are going to have to be made" on Eastern's water rates if the city expects Eastern to give up land for the connector street.

He was referring to the decision last April by the City Council to charge Eastern the regular water rate rather than a reduced rate that had been charged in exchange for contributions by the university for capital improvements in water and sewer facilities.

The decision by the council increased Eastern's water rate by more than 36 per cent.

The land the city is seeking for the connector street is in the southeast part of the campus. The street being proposed would connect Ninth Street with Illinois 130.

Originally, Charleston and Eastern agreed to share financing of a connector street between Fourth and Ninth south of the campus.

However, the city wants to include the street between Ninth and Ill. 130 in the same project and is trying to obtain a federal grant to obtain it.

Ed Buxton, city engineer, requested the meeting with Fite to see if the university was willing to give the land for the project.

"We are not opposed to building the connector street," Fite said. "We just aren't as enthusiastic about it now. But we must have some benefits if we give up the land."

"We want assurance that the rates won't go up again for some time or application of the value of the land toward our water bill."

Martin Schaefer, vice president for administrative affairs, said at the meeting that neither proposed street would be of much value to the university now because most traffic around Eastern is north of the area being considered.

Local schools seek volunteer tutors

By Debbie Pearson

Volunteer tutors are needed to work in local schools for the Charleston League of Women Voters' tutoring program, "Each One Teach One".

No formal education background is required but volunteers must attend workshops designed to explain the philosophy and methods of the program, Ginny Butler, the League of Women Voters' tutor coordinator, said Thursday.

Workshops will be held Sept. 17, Sept. 24, Oct. 1 and Oct. 8 from 7 p.m. until 9:30 at the United Campus Ministry Building, 2204 South Fourth St.

Butler explained that tutors are needed for remedial studies such as reading, math and spelling, and enrichment areas such as chemistry and foreign languages.

Tutors must be willing to spend an hour per week working with one or two children to whom he is assigned.

The purpose of the program is "to give the child a little special attention and approval."

For more information contact either the People Encouraging People organization or call the League of Women Voters' tutor coordinators Mary Ackerman 348-8343 or Butler 345-3533.

Parking tickets issued early

Eastern's security police began issuing parking tickets Thursday for all motor vehicles illegally parked in designated campus parking lots.

It would be more appropriate, however, if the process were in reverse. The security police should be the ones ticketed for picking a poor time to begin issuing the pink cards.

Granted, there has been a tremendous parking problem on campus this week with students moving in and attempting to get their class schedules squared away.

However, the security police could have easily waited until Tuesday (no tickets will be issued Labor Day) to begin the ticketing process. By then, most of the parking congestion will have been eased as things get back into a normal routine.

Classes began only Wednesday, and as is usually the case at the beginning of a semester, everyone has a million and one things to do during the first three days of classes.

For example, all students have to pick up their textbooks after securing their schedule cards. Many students have been packing out 20 or more books at a time when they leave the Textbook Library, which would even make Mr. Universe groan a little.

Students living off-campus or some distance from the Textbook Library should have been allowed to temporarily park on campus this week while obtaining their books.

With the add and drop process continuing this week, even more students have been needing temporary access to campus parking facilities.

Again, the majority of those students who might have needed parking facilities this week would not cause a problem next week as most students will be finished with the add and drop process.

Although there are approximately 2,400 parking spaces on campus, many are located in lots such as Carman and married student housing, which are nowhere close to the Textbook Library or the union.

With the construction of the new union addition, the number of parking spaces near the center of campus has been reduced even more.

The ticketing process on campus is indeed an important function in order to allow students who do purchase a parking sticker an opportunity to use it.

During the first three days of classes though, parking facilities should be on a "first-come, first-served basis" to allow all students to fully complete the registration process.

After the first three days, parking tickets should then be issued to all violators.

Ghana tourism business booming

Tourism in Africa today would help one to see Africa as it is, not as the movies portray. Since African states attained political independence tourism business has been booming in many African states, and Ghana is no exception.

Ghana is on the west coast of Africa. The area is 92,000 square miles, with nine million hospitable people, having a refreshing tropical climate. You can reach Ghana, the gateway to Africa, from all points of the world by land, air and sea. At any point of arrival you come in to the open hands of friendly people with the usual greeting of "Akwaaba" (welcome).

To be in Ghana would not only be an enjoyable trip but would give you the privilege to see some historical places. Accra, the capital, has been the scene of many events. It was in Accra that the first All-African Conference was held. It was the result of this conference that the Organization of African Unity was founded.

Roberta Flack sang her Freedom Song at Christian Borg-Castle, Osu. It had been the burial place of great Pan-Africanists like George Padmore and W.E.B. DuBois. Great leaders have come from all over the world to see the capital of the Black Star of Africa, men like Ho Chi Minh, Chou-en-Lai, Abdul Nasser, the Queen of England, Mohammed Ali, Louis Armstrong and many others.

A few miles away from Accra lies Tema, which is the heart of Ghana's industrial development. There are over 60 factories and industries at the Tema Industrial Area. These include a vehicle assembly plant, a cocoa products factory and a factory for producing aluminum sheets.

In Ghana you are in the home of a rich cultural life. The traditional African arts and crafts, gold and metal works, all in rich design, depicts the significance of our cultural heritage. The city which is noted most for the above description is Kumasi.

Kumasi is the administrative, commercial and traditional capital of the Ashanti region. One of the places of interest in this city is the Kumasi fort, built in 1816, with the stones from the palace of the Asantehene Nana Osei Tutu, founder of the Ashanti Kingdom. The National Center is a place worth visiting. It houses some of the paraphernalia of ancient chiefs-swords, talisman, talking drums, gold weights and dust.

After the Staple Singers made a trip to Ghana they could not describe their impression, but simply told the American people that they would take them to a land of smiling faces in their song, "I'll Take You There", which was a hit in 1972.

X rated movies are not for wives

Jack Valenti of the Motion Picture Producers Association has done a fine job with his rating system of films. In order to protect children, his association now informs people through the advertisements and outside the theater whether they are suitable for the whole family or just the adult part of it.

The ratings start with G for the family, then go to M for mature audiences and finally to X where human beings under 16 are not admitted.

I am not criticizing Valenti's ratings but actually trying to improve on them. I think he should add another category to warn husbands what to expect. This rating on a film could be X-NFW—which would stand for "Not for wives."

I say this because I went to a film the other night with my wife only to discover when we got to the theater that it had an X rating.

"What does that mean?" she wanted to know.

"It means that this picture is an adult film, and only those of us who are mature enough and grown up enough to understand the implications of what the producer and writer and director are trying to say are permitted to see it."

"You mean it's a dirty picture?" she said.

"We must not use the word 'dirty' in describing a film. It is an art picture, aimed at a specific audience who wants more out of life than Doris Day and Rock Hudson."

"Those billboards out front look pretty dirty to me."

"What's the matter? Haven't you ever seen a girl tied behind a bulldozer before?"

"Not while it's knocking down a building."

"Well, billboards never really show what the movie is about. It's just a way of getting you into the theater."

"I'd rather see 'Oliver,'" she said.

"Don't be square. If adults don't support X-rated films, who will?"

Before she could change her mind, I bought the tickets, and we went in.

"The popcorn even looks dirty," my wife said.

"Will you stop behaving like someone who ONLY attends movies for the entire family?"

We sat down just behind six members of a motorcycle gang and next to an old man who was reading 'Candy' while the lights were on.

Finally, the movie started. It opened up with a woman being whipped by 10 members of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police.

"Let's go," my wife said.

"We can't go until we've found out what she's done. Perhaps that's they way people are punished in Canada."

"Nelson Eddy never whipped Jeanette MacDonald."

The scene shifted to a pair of lumberjacks walking through the forest with their arms around each other. They stopped in a clearing.

"That does it," my wife said. "I'm going."

"But there's supposed to be a big scene between two girls from Toronto and three women from French Canada who want independence from the Commonwealth."

She was on her way up the aisle, and I followed her.

"I just want to ask you one question," she said as we were driving home. "What was the point of that Mountie kissing his horse?"

"Oh, come on. Haven't you ever seen a man kiss a horse before?" I said.

"On the lips?"

Campus has ways to beat inflation

Why are the bike racks at Andrews and Lawson on the sidewalk?

Richard Enochs of the housing office said that the bike racks were put on the sidewalk during mowing. However, they will be moved to the grass.

Enochs added that there are new bike racks for the residence halls which will be delivered soon.

Can a person or agency that is considering hiring an Eastern student look at the student's records from the Health Service?

Joan Ceren, secretary to Dr. Jerry Heath at the Health Service, said that no one may look at a student's health records without the authorization of the student.

OK—you left Eastern last spring and prices on just about everything were outrageous.

You came back this week and prices were even more outrageous. Not only that, but everyone seemed to be hyper over this thing called inflation. What do you do?

Well, you could decide that as long as everybody else is worrying about inflation, you probably won't have to. Wrong!

You may even decide that even though you'd like to do something about inflation, you can't because you're "just a student." Wrong again!

Our campus provides many, many ways to beat inflation. Take movies for example. The University Board sponsors movies at least once a week for students, with admission usually only 25 or 50 cents.

How much money do you spend going to a theatre off-campus? A lot more than 50 cents, I'll bet.

Other forms of entertainment on campus, such as bowling, billiards, etc., are cheaper than at public facilities. Some activities, like swimming, are even free.

These activities are here for you, the student, to use. After all, your fees help pay for them.

Other events such as dances, ice cream socials, and music performances are sponsored, and many times no admission is charged, such as the Coffeehouse in the Union.

Many students on campus own cars, and they know the expense of driving one has risen. They might find that gas mileage is greater when short, just-around-campus trips are eliminated as much as possible.

If you are living in an apartment or off-campus housing, you have nearly the same opportunities to stop inflation and the energy crisis as your parents. After all, you're a consumer; you "consume" food, water, electricity, clothes, etc.

If you live in the dorm, don't you still buy most of your clothes, eat something besides what's provided in the food service and turn lights on?

Take electricity—you don't need lights on in three rooms. You can only sit in one room at a time, anyway!

And turning lights off and on frequently does waste more energy than just leaving them on, except for extended periods of time.

When cooking, energy can be saved by using an eight inch diameter pan with an eight inch diameter burner, instead of putting a small pan on a large burner.

Also, remember to take advantage of coupons, such as the ones for Eisner's which appeared in the News. A little savings here and there can add up to a lot.

Buyer, beware! A clothing bargain isn't a bargain unless you can make use of it. Just because an item is on sale does not mean it is worth your money.

What's that you're thinking? That these suggestions and ideas are little, common-sense items everybody knows?

If everybody knew them, we most probably wouldn't be in a situation to be reminded of them, would we?

Methods help counter spiraling inflation

(Ruth Dow, a specialist in Foods and Nutrition Management, joined Eastern's Home Economics School staff in 1965. The following article was taken in part from the spring Eastern Alumnus.)

If you knew methods to help counteract the spiraling inflation currently eroding even rising incomes, wouldn't you consider such methods a good investment of your time and effort? The 1973 inflation of 8.8% was the worst in 25 years, with the current picture scarcely brighter.

It should be evident that what we want, how we set our priorities, how much skill, time, money, and other resources we have, as well as how we utilize what we do possess will greatly determine how effectively we cope with inflation.

FOOD

Food expenditures take about one-fifth to one-third of the average income, so this is a good area in which to save. Only a comparatively few suggestions can be listed here:

Plan ahead, know what you have, keep a continuous shopping list, especially of staples needed, read ads carefully, and shop at one or two stores no more than once a week. Sound nutrition should be your first consideration, but be adaptable and take advantage of food specials.

When you Shop, go when you are not hungry, preferably at times of the day and week when shelves will be adequately stocked, store won't be overcrowded, and day-old bread and produce may be available.

CLOTHING

Clothing expenditures vary widely with age needs and interests of individuals, as well as being significantly related to money available.

Regardless of individual circumstances, these basic tips on clothing selection may be helpful:

Plan ahead for major purchases such as suits and winter coats. Spur-of-the-moment buying often results in unworn rejects.

Choose a few basic styles which can be dressed up or down with accessories. Build around two or three basic color groups. Fad styles should be added only after the basics are provided.

Remember that separates such as sweaters, skirts, jeans, shirts or blouses permit many combinations and are more versatile.

Read and follow all label and hangtag information. Most garments over $3.00 must have permanent care labels. Textiles sold by the yard also should have such labels.

Judge quality features according to intended use of garment. Price doesn't necessarily indicate quality.

Garment cut on grain. Especially check patterns, stripes, etc.

Full seam allowances, straight,

- even stitching
- Smooth button holes, not stretched out of shape
- Zipper smooth, lies flat, works well

TRANSPORTATION

In addition to the obvious, but often overlooked means of conserving both energy and transportation dollars — car pools, walking, bicycling, and greater use of mass transit—the following may be of value:

Plan trips to accomplish as much as possible by consolidating errands rather than making many separate trips.

Buy groceries no more than once a week (also saves time, food money).

Choose a car with the best gas mileage consistent with your needs, safety considerations, and resale value (resale of large "gas-hogs" has dropped precipitously in recent months).

ENERGY

To conserve energy is both ecologically and economically sound.

Wash clothes in cold or warm water when your equipment, deter-

Recognize factors which increase gas consumption: air conditioners add about 9% to gasoline consumption, and can add as much as 20% in city driving on hot days. Automatic transmission and extra weight increase gas needed.

gent, and situation permit.

Contrary to popular opinion, regular bulbs are more efficient in terms of electrical energy than the long-life bulbs, which produce only about 80% as much light for the same energy.

CONSUMER PRACTICES

Shopping with firms that back their products and provide reliable service usually saves money in the long run. Be sure to read and understand all contracts and guarantees. Beware the "super bargain;" there is usually a trick. If you know regular prices, it will be easier to recognize bargains. By planning ahead, you will be able to buy at sales. Knowledge of traditional sales should aid your planning:

January—Sales: After-Christmas inventory sales, furniture, winter clothes, white sale—sheets, small appliances, sports equipment.

February: furniture, rugs, housewares.

March: clothing and home furnishings are expensive before Easter.

April: After-Easter clothes clearance.

June: TV sets, refrigerators.

July: used cars, washing machines, refrigerators, summer clothes, shoes.

August: tires, white sales, furniture, air conditioners, rugs

September: cars, hardware, housewares.

October: cars (lowest of year).

December: toys and gifts in mid-December, women's and girls' coats, men's and boys' suits.

Test your consumer knowledge

- You sign a contract for a $50 purchase from a salesman appearing at your door unsolicited. You change your mind the next day, but it is too late to cancel the contract. T or F.
- You need a loan to purchase a car. Financing charges usually will be less with a bank than directly with a car dealer. T or F.
- Current law requires most clothing to have a permanently-attached label with instructions for care. T or F.
- If you estimate a five-minute wait for a passing train, stopping the car engine and restarting would require more fuel than letting the car idle. T or F.
- Turning lights and appliances on and off frequently often requires more energy than leaving them on. T or F.

Brooks says Union addition will open next year (Sigh!)

By Scott Weaver and Rick Popely

Yes, Virginia, the addition to the University Union will be completed, but you better stick around until the spring semester if you want to enjoy it.

Don Gillmore, the architect's representative at the addition, said earlier this week that the construction completion date for the $3 million building is now set for Oct. 15.

But Herb Brooks, director of the Union, said that the new building will not open until the start of the spring semester.

"We hope to start setting up new equipment in November and hopefully we'll be in full operation after Christmas break," said Brooks.

Opening of the facility will be delayed until January because it will take that much time to install new furnishings and move equipment from other places on campus, he said.

Originally the addition was supposed to open this month but completion was delayed because of the financial problems of the general contractor, Ray Benoit & Son of Kankakee.

Work was stopped for a couple of weeks last April when Benoit called his men off the job because of internal money

Students paying $9.75 per year for new building

By Scott Weaver and Rick Popely

Oh yes, Virginia, you are also paying for the Union addition through the fees you are charged during registration.

Full-time students pay $9.75 per year for the addition. The money comes out of the Bond Revenue Building Fee listed in Eastern's catalog as $33.50 for fall and spring and $22.25 for summer.

Money collected through these fees is used to pay off the $4.2 million bond issue for the building floated by the Board of Governors of State Colleges and Universities (BOG), Eastern's governing board, in 1971.

Harley Holt, vice president for business affairs, said Thursday that the actual cost of the addition will be less than the BOG anticipated when the bonds were issued.

The total cost of the addition, including moving expenses, new furnishings and all the legal work, will be $3,717,202.38, Holt said.

Holt said that the $482,000 raised in the bond issue that probably will not be needed will be used to pay off part of the outstanding debt. However, last minute changes may require using the money.

Steve Grove, assistant director of the union, said that the $9.75 for the addition is part of the $25 full-time students pay per year for the entire Union, including the old building.

"This compares very favorably with what students have to pay at some other colleges," Grove said. For example, he explained that students at Illinois State University are charged $75 per year.

Financing of the building was approved by students in 1969 in a campus referendum, said Groves.

However, at that time there were projections that Eastern's enrollment would be around 10,000, he added.

Income from operation of the Union can also be used to help pay for the bonds of the Union addition, Herb Brooks, director of the Union, said.

problems. Subcontractors at the site also were not being paid by Benoit.

With the backing of Benoit's company, work by most of the subcontractors resumed in May and continued until July when a new firm was hired to complete the general contracting work.

Fisher-Stoune Inc. of Decatur signed an agreement with the bonding company to complete the rest of the building and work has progressed well since, said Gillmore.

"The building is coming along well considering the change of contractors," Steve Grove, assistant director of the Union said. "The original completion date was in July so it has been delayed only five to six months.

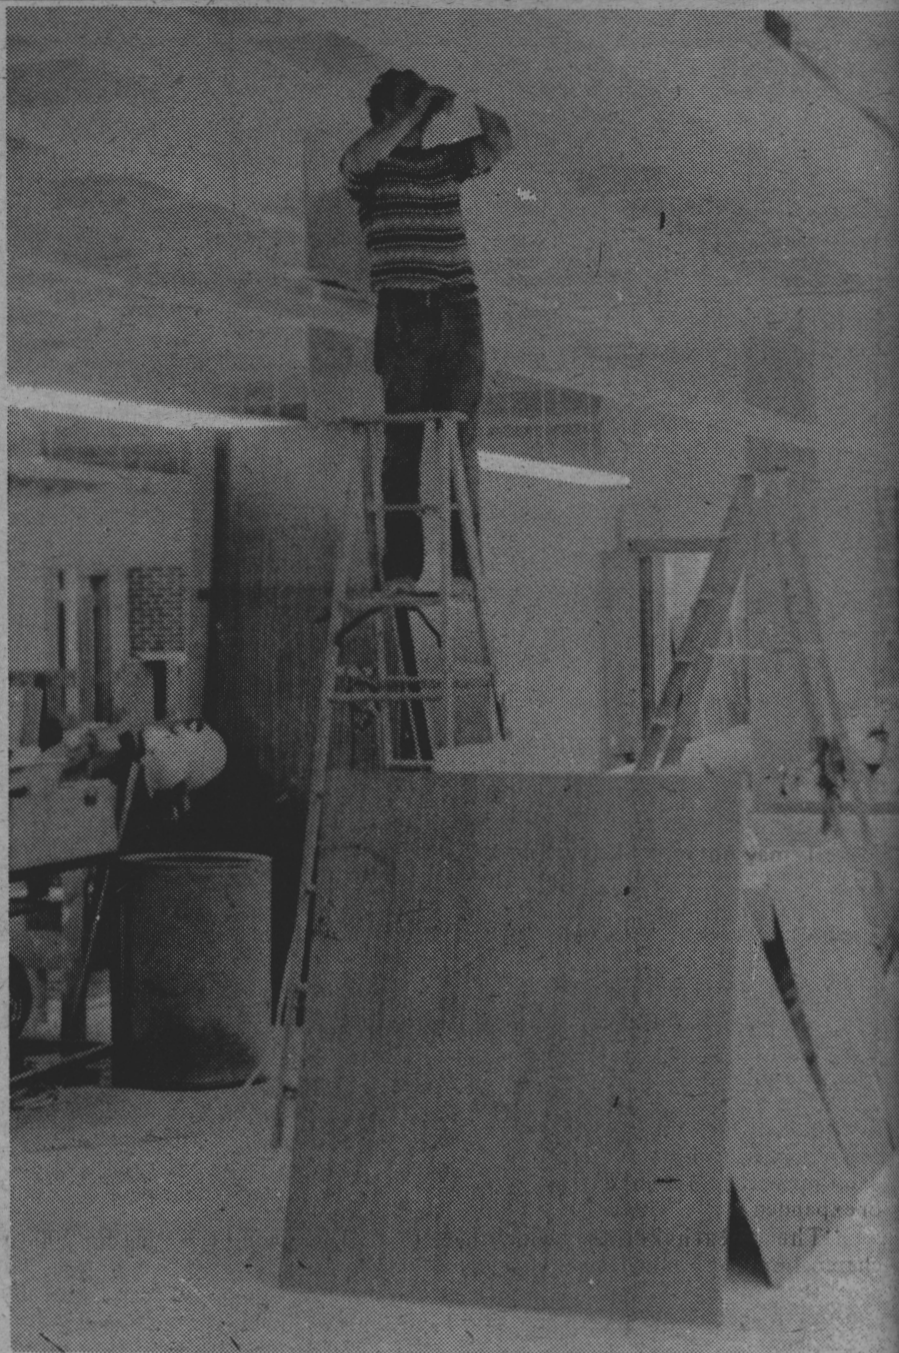

The addition, which will double the Union's floor space, will contain a new ballroom, offices and conference rooms, a vending lounge, a snack area called the Rathskeller and a complete duplicating center for students.

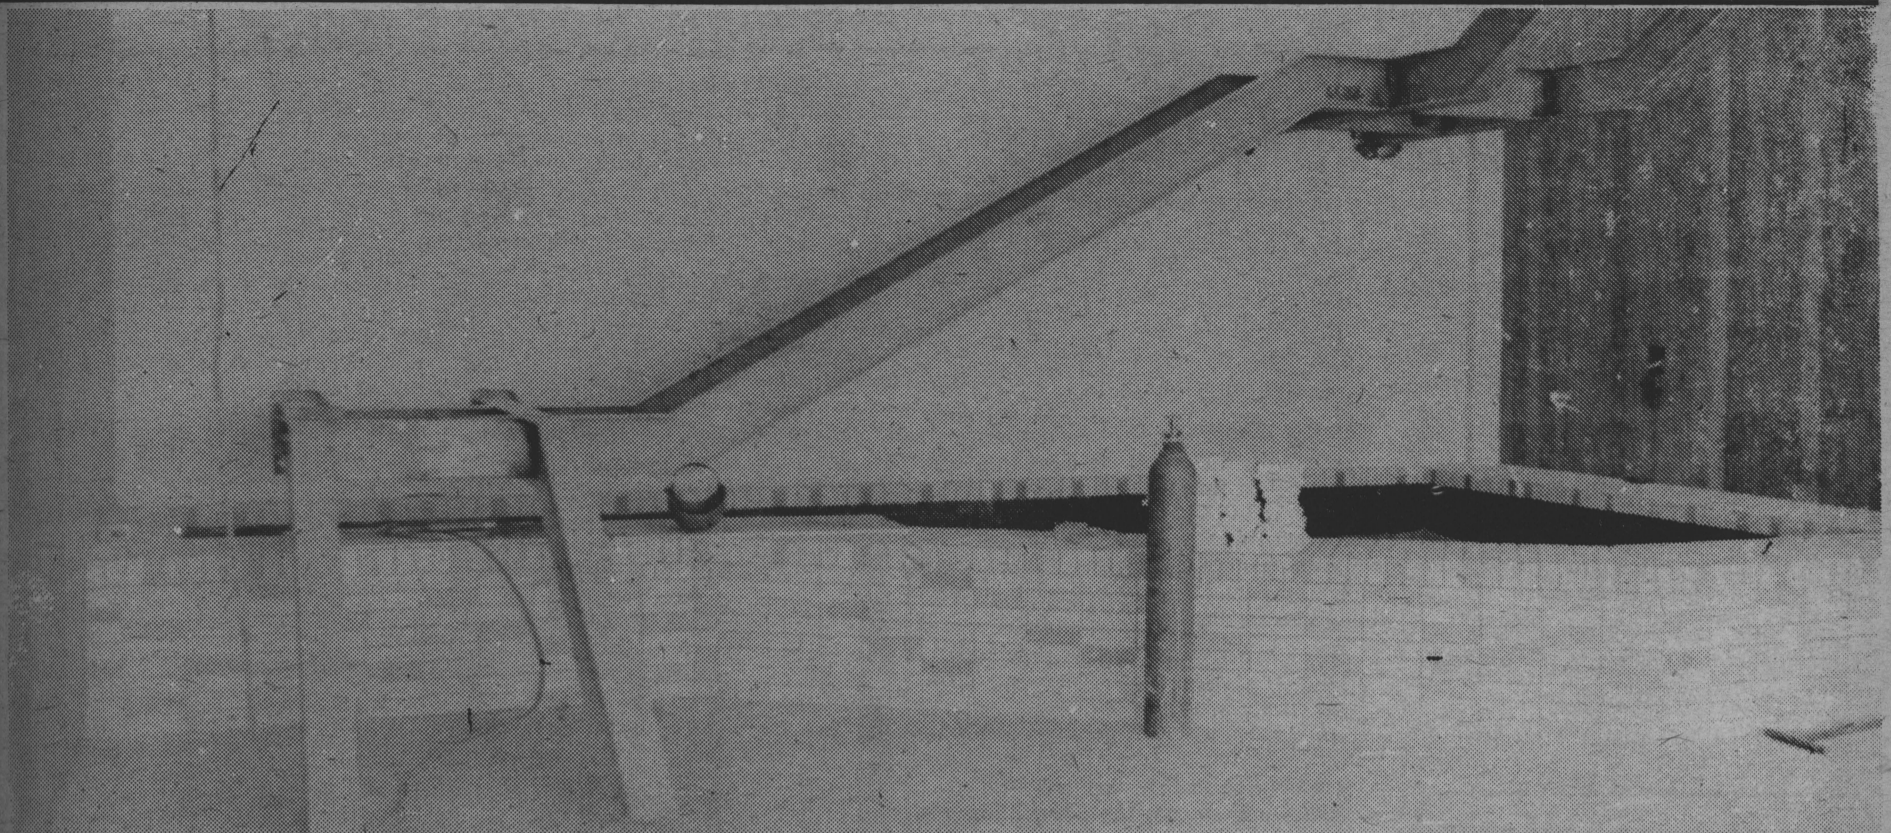

Brooks said the duplicating center for students is a new idea in college unions that he doubts is, well, "duplicated" anywhere else.

It will have electric typewriters, ditto equipment, master-copy makers, Xerox machines, adding machines, calculators and sign-making materials.

The Rathskeller, which will seat about (See UNION, Page 7)

It may not look like much now, but when it's done it will be a fountain under a staircase leading to the second floor of the new building.

500 people, will also be used for Coffee-House activities with bands and food specials.

As an example, he said a band may be hired and a special on pizzas offered for one night. Student reaction will determine if such plans will be continued or expanded.

"The Rathskellar will have charcoal-broiled sandwiches with a higher price than the Panther Lair but it will also feature higher quality food," Brooks explained.

"The trend will be away from 29-cent hamburgers toward tasty, top-quality food," Brooks explained.

A, larger lounge space and three television rooms will be designed to serve students who commute or live off campus and tend to spend more time at the Union.

"The grand ballroom in the addition will be larger than the present one and will be able to seat 1,000 people theatre-style. It will be saved for special occasions only," Brooks said.

"There will be seating for 700 (in the ballroom) for a sit-down dinner," Groves said. "We already have two dinners scheduled for next year."

Brooks also said that student workers will be hired to fill as many positions as possible in the addition and the "professional help (Civil Service employees) will be kept to a minimum."

Agenda for EFS meeting includes election of officers

By Barry Smith

Officers for the coming year will be elected by the Eastern Film Society (EFS) at its first meeting of the semester Tuesday at 7 p.m. in Coleman Hall 301.

The meeting will also be used to schedule work times for members to help run projectors and collect money at the film showings.

Dick Rogers, faculty advisor and president of the society, urges society members to attend this important organizational meeting. Interested film buffs and visitors are also welcome.

The EFS is made up of students and faculty members who share an avid interest in films, Rogers said.

Each year they sponsor a selection of film showings for the public.

The first in this year's series, "I Never Sang For My Father," will be shown in the Library Lecture Room at 7 and 9 p.m. on September 10.

Admission is 50 cents for students. General admission for adults is $1.00 and children under twelve will be admitted free.

Semester passes are $4.00 for students, $8.00 for nonstudents. Rogers admits that the semester passes are not an obvious bargain, but adds that "the passes enable the bearer to bring a friend free, which is a bargain."

Foreign films and other films that would not probably be shown by the University Board are the EFS's specialty, he explained.

Members choose films they feel are worth viewing, so that the films selected reflect the collective taste of the group. Rogers feels that the films scheduled for this semester are "all good films."

These films will be shown in the Library Lecture Room at 7 and 9 p.m.:

Sept. 10-1 Never Sang For My Father.

Sept. 17-Shop on Main Street

Sept. 24-Alice in Wonderland

Oct. 8-Black Orpheus

Oct. 22-All the King's Men

Nov. 5-Tristana

Nov. 19-Our Man in Havana

Dec. 3-Othello (Russian).

Few draft-dodgers will return - Saxbe

WASHINGTON (AP) - Atty. Gen. William B. Saxbe said Thursday that he doubts many Vietnam-era draft dodgers will return to the United States under President Ford's amnesty plan.

Ford has said that some form of amnesty will be offered to draft evaders and deserters and has asked the Justice Department and the Pentagon to make recommendations for such a program.

Saxbe, referring to his contention that amnesty should require at least an acknowledgment of wrong-doing by the individual, said he doubted many draft-law fugitives would take advantage of the offer because "they do not want to make this act of contrition. They don't want to have to come back and say 'We were wrong,'" Saxbe said in an interview on the NBC-TV "Today" show.

Discussing the nation's increasing crime rate, Saxbe said: "The problem is that we've tried to use gimmicks on crime. None of them have worked very well. We've got to go back to the old concept that society doesn't cause crime, criminals cause crime."

He urged police and prosecutors to concentrate on career criminals.

Students refunded insurance fees, if they have comparable coverage

By Linda Smith

All full-time students are automatically covered under a group insurance policy for major medical accidents and sickness, but students who already have similar coverage do not have to remain in the plan.

Of the $89.75 for student fees, $11.25 is for "major medical coverage for accident and sickness." At registration all full-time students are required to pay the major medical fee for the term for which they register.

However, students who can produce evidence of equal or better coverage may make application for a refund of this fee by contacting Ross Lyman, the director of financial aids. This application must be filled within ten days following registration day each session.

A student may also arrange for coverage for his spouse and other dependents under the group plan.

The total amount payable under the medical plan is limited to $10,000 for any one injury or illness. Benefits for mental or nervous conditions are up to $5,000.

A pamphlet which may be obtained at Financial Aids outlines the coverage, benefit provisions, eligibility and claim procedures. Also included in the pamphlet is a list of exclusions, those medical services which are not covered by the insurance plan.

Alpha Beta Alpha to meet; will show Antarctica in color

An Eastern student will present an illustrated lecture about Antarctica at 7 p.m. Thursday in Room 74 of Booth Library at a meeting of Alpha Beta Alpha, the library science fraternity.

It will be the fraternity's first meeting of the semester. All members and prospective members are urged to attend.

The lecturer will be John J. Smith; and "he has an exciting program in store for us," Frances M. Pollard, sponsor of Alpha Beta Alpha, said.

The meeting is open to anyone who is interested, she said, and graduate students are invited also.

Smith, a senior from Mattoon, has been to Antarctica several times for extended visits.

Officers will be elected in the near future, making every member a potential officer, Pollard said.

Female cops gripe about dress rules

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago police department, which hired more women after being accused of discrimination, now finds them exercising a feminine prerogative — beefing about their uniform styling, hairdos, hats, shoes and purses.

Officials said the women are complaining that their skirts are too confining, hats are bulky and slip off, and hairdos under the dress code are ridiculous.

James Zarowski, director of research and development for the department, said the department rule about a hair length was set after a patrol woman leaped out of a squad car to make an arrest and got her long hair caught when she slammed the door.

"They can keep their long hair if it is tightly pinned up while on duty," he said. "Also some of the women said they have to wear earrings or their pierced ear lobes will close up. Can you imagine wearing a police-type uniform with earrings? Aslet them wear very small button type earrings."

The women, he said, also think the raincoat is inadequate and they are not exactly crazy about the purse, either. Sgt. Howard Knight, who is assisting in uniform code problems, says that a variety of hats have been modeled for the women.

3-act drama about Lincoln to be presented

By Debbie Pearson

Eastern's Speech-Communications Department will present a historical drama entitled "A Look at Lincoln" for four nights beginning next Thursday.

The drama will be in three acts, based upon historical events from Lincoln's own stories and speeches, said Ralph McGinnis, a professor and director of the Lincoln Studies Program in the Speech-Communications Department.

Tickets may be purchased beginning Tuesday at the Fine Arts Ticket Office, McGinnis said. Tickets for students will be $1 and for adults $2.

Performances will be given next Thursday, Friday, Saturday and Sunday at 8 p.m. in the Dvorak Concert Hall.

Lincoln will be portrayed by Richard Blake, a Lincoln actor and a recognized scholar on the life and work of Abraham Lincoln, McGinnis said.

Blake will also portray Lincoln in the re-enactment of the famed Lincoln-Douglas Debates of 1858, which is being presented in shortened form in Buxton said planning for the connector street has been halted until the city can get the property it needs.

An agreement was reached to share the cost of having the land appraised to determine its market value. Once the land is appraised, further discussions on giving the land to the city will be held.

Schaefer pointed out that Eastern would not benefit by selling the land, about 5½ acres, to the city because the money would go to the state government.

Buxton said he will wait until the land is appraised and he talks to Eastern's legal counsel before doing further studies.

seven Illinois cities where the individual debates took place.

The debate slated for Charleston will be re-enacted on the Coles County Fair Grounds at the original site on Sept. 8.

When the debates are re-enacted, they will be shortened from the original three-hour version down to 45 minutes, McGinnis said.

McGinnis has edited and produced the shortened versions of the debates to be presented.

Ken Aubens, graduate assistant to McGinnis, reported that the re-enactment held Aug. 25 in Ottawa was filmed and recorded for further education purposes.

Aubens received his master's degree in speech-communication with emphasis on Lincoln Studies last summer and will be assisting McGinnis with the staging of the drama.

The drama is being presented for colleges, high schools and civic groups throughout Illinois during August, September and October.

McGinnis explained that "we're putting on the drama to pay for the re-enactments. We had no budget for the re-enactments."

FALL DEPENDENT INSURANCE

To avoid any interim of lapsed dependent health and accident insurance coverage, application and payment of premium must be made no later than August 28, 1974. In any event, the final date for payment is September 6, 1974 in obtaining this coverage; payment made after August 28, 1974 will result in the effective date of the coverage being the date of payment.

Ross C. Lyman
Director of Financial Aids

OFFICIAL SCHEDULES

Pre-enrolled students WHO RETURNED THEIR REGISTRATION FEE CARDS FOR FALL SEMESTER BY MAIL BUT DID NOT PICK UP their official schedule and paid fee receipt, and have their I.D. validated at Lantz gym on August 26 or 27, may obtain these materials in the following manner.

Present your I.D. card at the office of the Dean of Men (3rd floor Student Services Building) during normal office hours.

Michael D. Taylor
Director, Registration Office

DROPS AND ADDS

All drops and adds must be processed through the Registration Office. Any student attending sections for which they are not officially registered will not receive grades in those courses at the conclusion of the term.

Samuel J. Taber, Dean
Student Academic Services

STUDENT TEACHING-SPRING

All elementary, junior high, EMH, or LD majors who are planning to student teach during spring semester 1975 should plan to meet with their coordinators on September 11, 12, or 13 to reserve an assignment. Lists of students who have applications on file are posted at Room 223, Lab School. Office hours during September, 11-13 are 9:00 to 12:00 and 1:00 to 4:00.

Spring semester applications verified or received after the above dates will be assigned only if locations remain available after those who have confirmed their applications are assigned.

R. Zabka
Director, Student Teaching

FULL-TIME STUDENT

In order to be considered a full-time student ACADEMICALLY a student must carry at least 12 semester hours each semester and at least 6 semester hours during a summer term. It is obvious by these minimum amounts that a student can gain 30 semester hours or one-fourth of his ACADEMIC CAREER of a minimum of 120 semester hours required for graduation. For any number of semester hours less than 12 during a semester and 6 during a summer term a student is considered a part-time student academically. This is the rule by which Records Office certifies students as full-time to such agencies as Selective Service System (as applicable), Social Security System, Good Student Discount, etc. Please note that the fee structure is based on a different set of hours. If you have questions concerning any of this, please contact Records Office.

Signs for $3 million

High-schooler Malone turns pro

NEW YORK (AP) — In one of the most ballyhooed signings in the history of professional sports, Moses Malone, the remarkable high school basketball player, came to terms with the Utah Stars Thursday on a contract estimated at more than $3 million.

The formal signing took place at the Royal Box of the Americana Hotel, a room usually reserved for the world's highest paid entertainers.

The 6-foot-11 Malone was flanked on one side by James A. Collier, the new owner of the American Basketball Association team, and Bucky Buckwalter, the club's director of player personnel and rumored to be the leading candidate for Utah's coaching vacancy.

In front of him were a battery of sports reporters and columnists, photographers, and radio and television microphones, cameras and kleig lights.

At the same time in Salt Lake City, Utah-home of the Stars-a news conference was held to announce Malone's signing.

The entire New York contingent, including Malone, side-stepped virtually all questions concerning the terms of the lucrative contract, while in Salt Lake City, Arnie Ferrin, the team's general manager, admitted only that its length was five years.

Reportedly, however, the contract could amount to $3.3 million, counting stock options, insurance policies and "contingency provisions."

Collier emphasized that one of the contingency provisions included a total of $120,000 set aside for Malone to use to attend college whenever he desired.

The highly sought youngster, who had averaged 39 points, 26 rebounds and 12 blocked shots last season in his senior year at Petersburg, Va., High School, had signed a grant-in-aid with the University of Maryland in June.

He was scheduled to begin classes Wednesday, but made only a brief appearance on campus, only to talk and play some basketball with the school's top player, John Lucas.

Meetings for intramurals referees, track hopefuls announced

By Dave Shanks

Head Track Coach Neil Moore has announced a meeting for those returning members, as well as those interested for the first time to be held Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. in Room 304 of the Lantz Building.

Neil Moore, new head track coach, will open his first season in that position here at Eastern. He had been an assistant under former head coach, Pat O'Brien, who retired at the end of last year.

Can 'Skins' come back?

That leaves Sonny Jurgensen, the aging but marvelous passer, apparently headed for the taxi squad. He said it would be demeaning for him, at 40 and with 17 seasons behind him, to be relegated to the cab squad and hinted that he would retire instead.

The other bright spot has been the kicking of free agent Mark Mosely.

Assisting Coach Moore this year will be John Craft. Craft is a former Olympic gold medalist in the triple jump.

Organizational and rules interpretation meetings for both men and women interested in officiating fall intramural sports are scheduled for the upcoming week.

A meeting of women officials for flag football will be held Wednesday at 6 p.m. in Rm 136 of McAfee Gym.

Officials for men's flag football, as well as soccer, will take place in Room 304 of the Lantz Building at 6 p.m. on Thursday.

Nate to be on the tube Friday

By Gene Seymour

Eastern football fans will have a chance to watch a former Eastern great, Nate Anderson, on national television Friday as the Washington Redskins will host the Pittsburgh Steelers in an 8 p.m. telecast carried by CBS.

WCIA, channel 3 in Champaign will carry the game locally.

Anderson, who will be wearing No. 35, is listed as the number five running back on the Washington depth chart, this, despite the fact that he is the team's second leading rusher, is probably attributable to the fact that "the veterans are back in camp", Mike Menchel, assistant public relations man for the Skins, said Thursday.

"Allen has trimmed the squad to about 75 people", said Menchel, "and with the cutting of Duane Thomas from the team, this increases Nate's chances of remaining, greatly."

Menchel also pointed out that despite his number five position, Nate "will probably play some". In a game played last week, Anderson failed to log any playing time.

To date Anderson has rolled up 82 yards in 26 carries, a 3.4 yards per carry average, while his longest run from scrimmage was a 29 yard jaunt.

"Allen has been real high on Nate all along," said Menchel, "and that 29 yard run impresses him a lot."

Lantz Gym to be open on holiday

Tom McDivett, Charleston-Mattoon Twins assistant coach, has said he thinks the Mets will call up Trapp before the end of the season.

Redskins give Allen tough year

WASHINGTON (AP) The Washington Redskins came upon bad times in 1973. Things could get worse in 1974.

After reaching the Super Bowl two seasons ago, the Redskins had dreams of returning and taking the pro football championship. Instead, they tied for the National Football Conference East title with a 10-4 record, became a wild card addition, and lost in the first divisional playoff against Minnesota.

Even before the NFL player strike put a crimp in Coach George Allen's style, the Redskins lost starting running and blocking back Charley Harraway to the World Football League.

The day after the veteran players returned to camp, Allen lost his starting offensive tackle Terry Hermeling for the season because of a knee injury on a blocking sled.

Then, earlier this week, Duane Thomas, the talented but controversial running back, got into an altercation with an assistant coach and was released by the Redskins, although he had been the starting replacement for Harraway.

"I thought last year was my most difficult year in coaching," said Allen, after the Thomas incident. "I've been in it something like 25 years. Now this one is even more difficult than the most difficult one."

Even one of Allen's bright spots could cause the Redskins more problems.

Joe Treisman, the ex-Notre Dame All-American who spent three years in Canada, appeared to have nailed down the No. 2 quarterback spot behind Bill Kilmer, who led the team into the playoffs and one Super Bowl in three years.

Easter to lead experienced defensive line

By Tom Jackson

A veteran crew will compose Eastern's defensive line this fall.

Jim Easter, who head coach Jack Dean described as "probably the best defensive lineman in camp," is suffering from a sore knee but should be ready for the opener against Central Missouri.

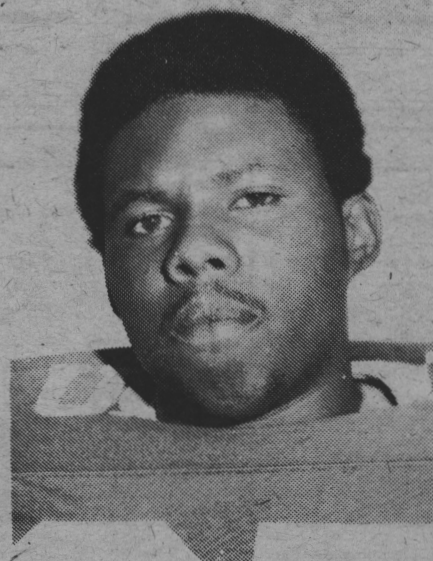

Easter is a 6-1 235-pound senior from Wichita, Kansas.

Alex Russell, a defensive tackle, at 6-4 and 285 pounds probably has the most potential on Eastern's defensive line.

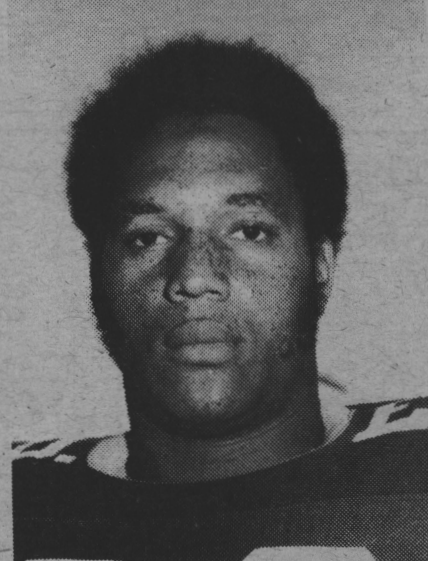

"Russell has the capability of being one of the top defensive tackles in this bracket of college football," said Dean.

Russell while showing flashes of brilliance last year did lack consistency.

"Alex has been much more consistent this year," reported Dean.

Jim Easter

Alex Russell

In what Dean earlier described as a "heck of a battle" for middle guard Wayne Ramsey has an edge of Mark Gedraitis.

Gedraitis has been hampered by a series of minor injuries, a problem which seems to be shared by a number of Eastern gridders.

"We're just finishing up two-a-days and a lot of people will start feeling better," said Dean. Ramsey and Gedraitis are quite different types of middle guards.

At 5-11 and 190 pounds Ramsey relies on speed more than Gedraitis who checks in at 6-2 and 230-pounds.

Kevin Hunt will take care of the defensive end position.

Hunt, a 6-5 and 240-pound junior, played four different positions last year and Dean feels that Hunt is a good potential end.

"We expect Hunt to have a real good year," said Dean.
