Pipe bomb jolts Security Building; FBI, IBI to assist in investigation

by K.J. Pringle

A two-inch pipe bomb early Tuesday morning ripped a five-inch hole in the double steel doors behind the Security Building.

There are no suspects in the case and police said Tuesday they were continuing the investigation.

A telephone operator was the only occupant in the building at the time the bomb was detonated and was not injured.

Campus Police Chief John Pauley said Tuesday he did not receive threats or warnings prior to the bombing.

The FBI has been brought into the case since it is a federal offense to detonate an explosive device on any state owned property or buildings.

Joe Ondrula, an FBI officer in Springfield, said Tuesday two agents from the bureau's Champaign office were sent to assist in the investigation.

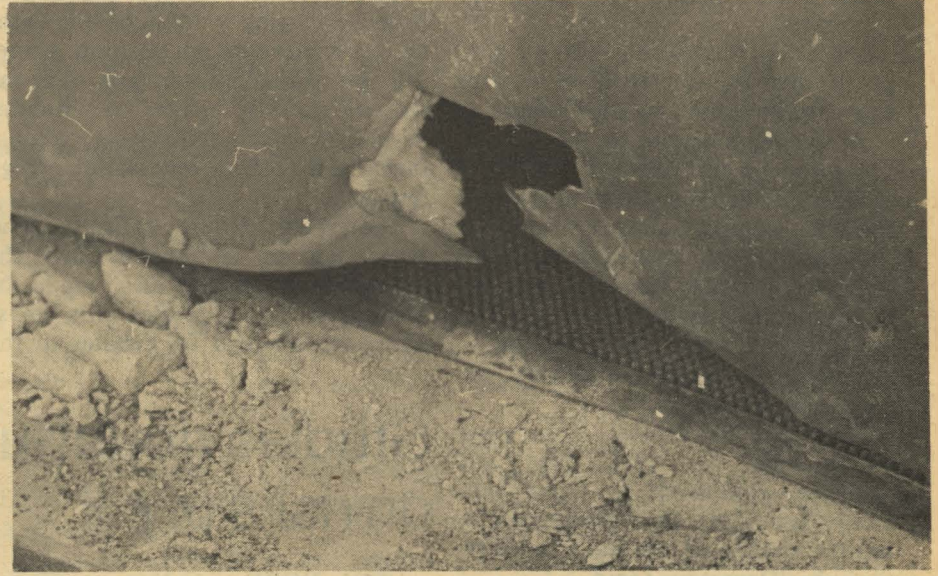

"From the information we have, the bomb was a two-inch pipe bomb and it looks as if smokeless powder was used in it. There is a possibility that an electric fuse was used to detonate the bomb," he said.

Ondrula said the information found from the investigation will be taken to the United States Attorney to see whether or not the case will be prosecuted in federal court or by local courts.

"If he decides the case warrants federal investigation, then we'll handle it. Otherwise, it will be handled by local authorities and thus prosecuted," he said.

Although damage to the building was minimal, it tore several holes in the steel doors and cracked the concrete mortar at the bottom of the entrance.

the Illinois Consolidated Telephone Company.

Henry Bell, manager of the Charleston office of ICTC, declined to comment Tuesday on the bombing. He said the matter was being handled by campus police.

The name of the operator on duty at the time of the explosion was not given out by authorities and could not be reached for comment about the incident.

Campus police and other state authorities roamed the neighborhood Tuesday searching for fragments from the bomb. One unconfirmed report said fragments from the bomb were found as far away as two blocks.

"I know of no precedent for this. We got a number of bomb threats in the late 60's and we've had a few threats since then, but all of them were pranks," Director of University Relations Ken Hesler said Tuesday. "I don't know what reason there may have been for the bombing—it happened right out of the blue," he said.

The early morning explosion rocked the neighborhood and woke several residents who live near the building.

"I've heard artillery shells explode and that's what it sounded a little like," Robert Strange, who lives with his wife one house down from where the bomb exploded, said. "I thought it may have been a gas line explosion, but when I didn't hear any fire trucks I just went back to sleep."

Elizabeth Chontos, who lives across the street from Strange said it was so unexpected and so close that the explosion scared the "you know what" out of her.

16% drop by 1995

BHE predicts decline in enrollment

by Marsha Hauser and The Associated Press

The Illinois Board of Higher Education announced Tuesday that college enrollments could decline by as much as 16 percent by 1995. However, an Eastern official said it is too early to tell if Eastern will follow the trend.

"I have enough trouble predicting into next year to worry that far ahead," Samuel Taber, dean of student services, said Tuesday.

"Six to eight years ago they were predicting our enrollment would be 10,000 now. Predictions are never very realistic," Taber said.

The predictions presented to the BHE by its staff showed that enrollments would peak between now and 1982, then fall through 1995.

The staff said its projections, using one method, indicated that enrollments in state colleges and universities would increase by 21,000 students between now and 1982.

That 3.2 percent increase in students would bring the headcount to 683,400 in two years.

However, the total number of students will decrease by 8 percent, or 56,000 between now and 1995, the staff report said.

James Furman, executive director of the BHE, said the decline reflects an expected drop in high school graduates because of the lower birth rate.

Using another projection method, the staff said the enrollments would increase by 8,000 students this year, then decline by 49,000, or 7 percent, by 1995.

Those figures use the total number of students, not taking into consideration whether they are full or part-time.

"The projections for FTE (full-time equivalent) enrollments generally follow the trends of the headcount projections, but the size of the projected decline in FTE enrollments is somewhat greater," the report states.

The discrepancy "occurs because adults above the age of 24 are projected to account for a larger proportion of headcount enrollments. Older adult students tend not to enroll for a full-time course load," the staff's report also said.

Based on full-time equivalent enrollments, the colleges and universities will lose between 14 and 16 percent of their students by 1995, the report said.

Furman said the trend would be noticed at all universities in the state, including private and junior colleges. However, he said predictions of enrollment declines for individual universities were not included in the staff's report.

Furman also said state funding to universities would not be affected by the decline in enrollment because funding is not "enrollment driven."

Byrne elected Chicago mayor by landslide

CHICAGO (AP) — Jane Byrne etched a doubly unprecedented win Tuesday, capturing more than 80 percent of the vote as Chicago's first woman mayor only five weeks after the fiesty Democrat narrowly dumped the favored incumbent and flattened party regulars.

With 2,642 of the city's 3,100 precincts, or 85 percent of the vote reporting, Byrne, a political protege of the late Mayor Richard J. Daley, had 597,123 votes or 81.95 percent, Republican Wallace Johnson 118,605, or 16.28 percent, and Socialist Workers Party candidate Andrew Pulley 12,906, or 1.77 percent.

Truckers strike hits car industry

WASHINGTON — The government said Tuesday a two-day nationwide shutdown of major trucking firms was causing limited economic impact, but sharper disruptions were possible if the industry's contract dispute with the Teamsters union persisted.

The auto industry remained the principal victim of a trucking industry lockout of striking Teamsters who haul much of the nation's general cargo shipments.

More than 60,000 auto workers at 18 plants were either laid off or working short shifts again Tuesday because of parts shortages blamed on the lockout. The auto industry faced the prospect of sharper production curtailments later this week, company spokesmen said.

According to trucking industry estimates, 235,000 Teamsters and 500 of the nation's largest trucking firms are affected by the lockout—a maneuver in which employers bar employees from working.

However, essential consumer goods—such as food, fuel and medicine—continued to move normally, and there were no reports of layoffs outside of the auto industry, the Labor Department said.

The Carter administration has said it would seek a back-to-work court order if the shutdown threatened national health and safety.

Carter to air oil control plan

WASHINGTON — President Carter has scheduled a nationally broadcast address for Thursday night to announce plans to ease controls on crude oil prices and possibly appoint a commission to investigate the Three Mile Island nuclear plant accident.

A White House spokesman said Tuesday that Carter arranged air time for what television industry sources said would be an address of 15 or 20 minutes, starting at 9 p.m. EST Thursday, to be broadcast live.

White House officials said Carter was expected to announce a gradual lifting of federal controls on domestic crude oil.

(AP) News shorts

This move would have the effect of raising gasoline prices by several cents a gallon and would be aimed at curbing the nation's growing appetite for imported oil.

The president also was expected to propose denying windfall profits to the oil companies through taxation. Carter said on March 24 that any such tax would go in part to finance development of solar energy, alcohol fuels and other renewable energy resources.

The White House officials, who asked not to be named, said the proposed tax money also would be earmarked as subsidies for mass transportation and for rebates to the poor.

Studies doubtful on risks of pill

NEW YORK — New statistical studies reported on the validity of British studies which said women who have used oral contraceptives are about four times more likely to die of cardiovascular diseases.

The authors of the new studies cautioned, however, that their findings do not mean there is no risk at all associated with use of oral contraceptives, but that the risk has been exaggerated and is affected by age, smoking and obesity, not "the pill" alone.

Now Tietze has analyzed U.S. vital statistics on death rates from cardiovascular disease of men and women aged 15-44 from 1950 to 1976 and concluded:

"Analysis of U.S. mortality statistics shows that since adoption of the pill, deaths among women of reproductive age from cardiovascular diseases have declined much more rapidly than have deaths rates for comparable men. This suggests that the high levels of risk of death from such diseases associated with pill use in other studies are exaggerated."

Tietze, in his report in Family Planning Perspectives, suggests that the fault in the British study lies in the small number of deaths it is based on—16 among pill users, eight among former users and five among controls.

Begin, Sadat to meet in Sinai

CAIRO, Egypt — President Anwar Sadat of Egypt and Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin decided Tuesday to meet in the Sinai and Israel's Negev Desert next month, defying an outraged Arab world by openly pursuing their campaign for peace.

The announcement was made just before Begin flew back to Israel, capping the first journey by an Israeli premier to an Arab capital.

Upon returning to Tel Aviv, a beaming Begin said he had received the "warmest possible hospitality."

"Wherever I went, they cheered, they waved," said Begin, clearly elated. "They really liked me."

The prime minister told reporters he had the feeling that he and Sadat had become "real friends" and that during their talks "we solved problems that may have needed 16 months of negotiations to solve."

Land trust fraud suing continues

SPRINGFIELD — In a ruling that could affect inner city blight, the Illinois Supreme Court said Monday that people who place their real estate in secret land trusts can still be sued by local governments for collection of unpaid property taxes.

The ruling came in a half-dozen cases where property taxes in Cook County were not paid, the property was put up for sale to pay the tax liability, but no buyer could be found.

"These cases have arisen. . . because for an increasing number of inner city parcels, the marketable price is well below the outstanding tax bills," said the court.

In the cases, the Cook County state's attorney sought to have banks and trust companies, as well as the "trust beneficiaries" or actual land owners, declared liable for the unpaid taxes on the property.

Land trusts are a legal mechanism in Illinois that allow a person to own and control property, but place the actual title in the hands of a bank or trust company. The trust arrangement generally allows the actual owner, or trust "beneficiary," to keep his identity secret.

BHE rejects Lewis' proposal

MACOMB — The Illinois Board of Higher Education voted 9-3 Tuesday to reject a proposal by Northern Illinois University to take over the financially troubled Lewis University College of Law at Glen Ellyn.

Lewis University officials told the board last month that if the proposal was turned down, the law school would be closed. It had an enrollment of 520 last fall, including 317 part-time students.

Robbers hold up Brinks again

TINLEY PARK — Authorities on Tuesday sought to determine if there is any connection between the robbery of a Brinks, Inc., truck here and a similar one in Hammond, Ind., six months ago.

John Staats, a Brink's vice president, said that between $200,000 and $350,000 was taken in the holdup of an armored car outside a Tinley Park furniture warehouse Monday. In the Hammond robbery, which is still unsolved, almost $350,000 also was taken.

Faculty Senate accepting award nominations

by Melinda DeVries

A Faculty Senate committee is now taking nominations for the Distinguished Faculty Award, which will be presented to two outstanding faculty members during the spring commencement exercises May 13.

Nominations can be made by faculty, alumni, or students, and the senate committee must receive all nominations by April 16, senate committee member June Johnson said.

"If a student feels that one of his teachers is outstanding he may present his or her name along with supporting evidence to the senate committee," Johnson said.

The senate committee consists of three Faculty Senate members, Phyllis Rearden, William James, and Johnson.

The Faculty Senate has developed a list of general criteria to aid in formulating nominations and identifying a distinguished faculty member.

Among the criteria is that a faculty member possess a comprehensive knowledge of his field, that he develops an interest, that he demonstrates resourcefulness and that he assists students in solving their individual and group problems.

"A faculty member can not be nominated just because a certain student thinks the teacher is a nice person, that is why we have established a list of criteria for the nominations to be based on," Johnson said.

After all nominations are received the senate committee will consider each one. The committee will then present 10 faculty members, whom they have selected, to be brought before the entire Faculty Senate. The Faculty Senate then selects two faculty members who will receive the award.

The Faculty Senate will select the two winners May 1, but the awards will not be presented until the spring commencement exercises.

The winners will receive an honorary award of $500.

AB approves funding for debate national trip

The Apportionment Board Tuesday approved a $1,048.94 request which will enable the debate team to attend the National Debate Tournament April 20-22 at the University of Kentucky.

The request was approved less any amount that President Daniel E. Marvin may contribute from general revenue funds to pay for the debate coaches' expenses.

Last year Marvin added $322.13 in general revenue monies to reimburse the coaches' expenses.

The AB also approved a request for $200 from student government to pay for membership in the Illinois Student Association, a state lobbying group.

The Student Senate voted to join the group earlier this semester.

A line item transfer in the WELH budget was also passed by the AB. WELH requested a transfer of $160 from the travel line item to the public relations line item in order to pay for an open house planned for the station this month.

Carrie Chen knows the art of Chinese cookery and has friends who convinced her to go into the restaurant business.

Now she is about to open the first Chinese restaurant in Charleston.

Chen is starting the restaurant, which will be called Eggrolls and Pizza, in conjunction with Joe Adducci, owner of Adducci's Pizza.

The restaurant is located behind University Village and is scheduled to open Saturday.

Chen, a petite Oriental woman, Tuesday gave a demonstration on cooking a few test eggrolls.

She said she has lived in Charleston for 11 years and has had many friends who have encouraged her through the years to start a Chinese restaurant in town.

"I didn't know how to go about it until a friend told me to get together with Joe (Adducci)," she said. "Joe and I formed a partnership, he is in charge of the pizzas and I'm in charge of the eggrolls."

As she spoke, Chen turned the eggrolls over in the hot oil with chopsticks.

"I always cook with chopsticks," she said.

"I went to cooking school in Taiwan before coming to the United States," she said.

She said she would like to expand the menu someday, but first wants to wait to see how the eggrolls sell.

Eggrolls and Pizza will be pick-up and carry-out.

The pizza will be sold in slices only.

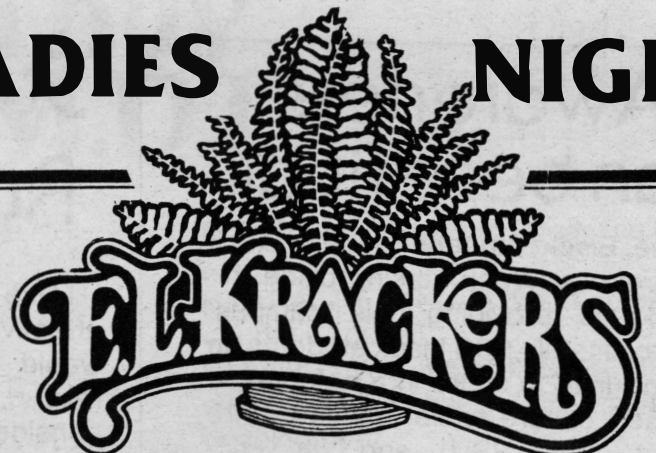

Chen said the restaurant will be just take-out at first but added she hopes to be delivering by finals week to the dorms.

The hours for the restaurant will be Monday through Friday from 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. and 4:30 p.m. to midnight, and Saturday and Sunday from 4:30 p.m. to 1:00 a.m.

Chen said to celebrate the opening on Saturday they will be giving away free fortune cookies.

State should meet funding needs

Now that the Board of Governors has raised tuition for Eastern students, the Illinois General Assembly in turn should fulfill its obligation to adequately fund higher education.

The BOG voted just before spring break to hike tuition by $48 per year for undergraduate students and by $64 per year for graduate students attending the universities under its jurisdiction, which includes Eastern.

The increase is probably justified; Illinois students were last hit with a tuition increase in 1977 and the 9.4 percent hike approved by the BOG will just cover inflation.

However, at stake here is a principle: that the members of the General Assembly need to commit sufficient funds for the state's colleges and universities.

For next year, Gov. Thompson has allocated just a 6.6 percent increase for higher education in his proposed budget, which includes a 6.2 percent increase for faculty salaries.

That meager increase, which obviously does not keep pace with inflation, is characteristic of the budgetary treatment the state's universities have received from the legislature.

Percentage increase of state appropriations for higher education during the past two years:

Northeastern Illinois University	29%
Chicago State University	26%
Governors State University	26%
University of Ill.—Med. School	25%
Western Illinois University	24%
Sangamon State University	21%
Southern Illinois University	21%
Illinois State University	20%
University of Ill.—Urbana	20%
Northern Illinois University	19%
University of Ill.—Circle	18%
Eastern Illinois University	16%

Source: The Chronicle of Higher Education

Illinois ranks 42nd of 50 states in its funding of higher education over the past 10 years. Last year, Illinois again rated 42nd in expenditures for colleges and universities per $1,000 in personal income.

Furthermore, over the past two years

Eastern has received the smallest increase, just 16 percent, in state funds of any Illinois university. Only the community colleges received a smaller increase and a fellow BOG school, Northeastern Illinois University, got a 29 percent increase.

A lack of state support not only deprives Eastern of the funds it needs, but also encourages good faculty members to look elsewhere for employment.

Although inflation and the unwillingness of people to pay higher taxes has affected all areas of public spending, other states have been able to adequately fund higher education.

The University of Delaware, for example, reduced tuition for in-state students by $60 this fall because of an increase in operating funds appropriated by the Delaware legislature.

Therefore, the members of the General Assembly, who will vote on the appropriation bills for the state in the next couple of months, must ensure that Illinois' universities receive the funds they need to continue to offer quality education.

Students are being asked to do their part by paying more in tuition. The state, therefore, must do its share.

Awareness can benefit all

The Black Student Union's Black Awareness Week, taking place this week, is providing this campus' approximately 600 black students an opportunity to share in a celebration of their culture while learning more about the BSU and its accomplishments.

Black students should not be the only ones to benefit from the events going on this week, however. The rest of Eastern's community as well as town residents can be enriched by attending the activities scheduled by the BSU.

Events still to come this week include a lecture by poet Nikki Giovanni Wednesday night, a movie and seminar on career development on Thursday and Friday nights respectively, and the Ms. Black EIU pageant followed by a semi-formal dance Saturday.

The BSU, a group open to all students, has expanded this year's Awareness Week to include entertainment, academics and poetry.

We urge all students to broaden their thinking and to support the BSU by taking advantage of these activities.

Start a 'new blood' drive: Run for student office

Have you ever complained about the effectiveness of student government or would you enjoy working on student-related problems and issues? If so, consider running in the April 25 elections for a position on Eastern's student government.

Petitions for all student executive offices as well as 18 seats on the Student Senate are available beginning Wednesday in the Union addition student government office.

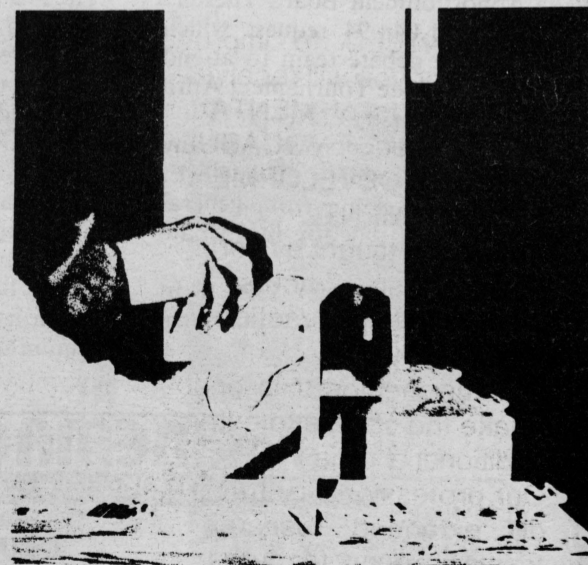

Take a petition if you want to have a voice in both local and state-wide issues and problems which affect you.

Some examples of these which student government members faced this semester include the movement to raise the state's legal drinking age, landlord-tenant problems and lighting for a stretch of Ninth Street.

Also, if you have been critical of the performance of past student government members, this is an opportunity for you to change the situation from the inside.

Student government can be a voice for the needs and desires of students, but only if it is staffed by hard-working, caring individuals.

If you feel you are such an individual and have the time to work on student-related problems, take a student government petition.

It probably would be more satisfying to you than complaining.

Faculty contract negotiations going slowly

by Jim Holland

The early stages of the American Federation of Teachers-Board of Governors negotiations have "started out slowly and have not gotten down to business yet," an AFT member said Monday.

Carole Elder, chairman of the communications committee of Eastern's chapter of AFT Local 3500, added that not very much had been accomplished yet and that it would not be unreasonable to expect the negotiations to continue until fall if the

Tom Layzell, deputy executive director for administration and fiscal affairs for the BOG, said that it was too early to tell how long the negotiations will continue, but that the meetings were going as well as could be expected at this stage of the negotiations.

The BOG has made some response to the total package of proposals which the AFT presented on Feb. 2, Elder said.

She said the AFT package included proposals on the three most important areas of the contract: personnel policy-working conditions, the grievance procedures and salaries.

Frank Abell, Eastern AFT Federation Council representative, said the BOG has not presented counterproposals regarding the three main areas but has responded on less significant "housekeeping and management" items.

Abell said he did not know when the BOG would present counterproposals to any of the three main areas, but that he expected it to be in the "not distant future."

Abell said he had no quarrel over the BOG beginning with the smaller items.

Abell added, however, that the BOG and the AFT were further apart on the small items than he would have thought.

He added the AFT is seeking only a few changes in the grievance procedure and that the AFT will ask for a salary increase because of "inflation and the erosion of buying power."

Abell said that he could not comment on any proposed changes in the area of personnel policy working conditions.

The next AFT-BOG bargaining session will be April 12.

Student Senate petitions available today

by Pat Sheehy

Petitions for students who wish to run in the April 25 student government elections will be available Wednesday from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. in the Student Government Office in the University Union.

A student petitioning for an executive office must obtain 100 signatures, while 25 signatures are necessary to run for the Student Senate, Linda Phillips, elections committee chairperson, said.

"Students wanting to run for the senate must get 25 signatures from people in the district they wish to represent while the signatures needed for an executive office may be from any student regardless of district," she added.

In addition to the petitions, students must also fill out and return a grade release form.

Five executive student government offices, president, vice president, financial vice president, Board of Governors representative and collective bargaining representative will be open, Phillips said.

Eighteen seats in the Student Senate will be vacated at the end of this semester. Five seats in the Residence Hall District are open, seven in the At-Large District and six in the Off-Campus District, she said.

"The newly elected officers and senators will be seated this summer and their executive officer's term will run until next spring," she said.

"The petitions must be returned to the student government office by 5 p.m. April 11 and ballot order will be chosen by lot," she said.

Formerly the ballot positions were determined by the order in which the petitions were returned, but due to a bylaw change this semester the order is now selected by lot.

Student wins music scholarships

Senior voice major Hillary Nicholson won $5,000 in music awards in two separate scholarship competitions over the weekend.

Nicholson won a $1,000 scholarship in the annual Music Teachers National Association college division competition held in Seattle, Wash.

She also won a Corbett scholarship from the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music worth $4,000 plus tuition and fees.

June Johnson of the music department said Nicholson was performing in Seattle Tuesday at a concert for the winners of the competition.

"She will be back tomorrow (Wednesday)," Johnson said. She will also perform in the music department's production of Hansel and Gretel.

Library science option tabled after debate

by Dyna Cole

The Council on Graduate Studies Tuesday tabled consideration of a library science option to the master's degree in education after heated debate between library staff and CGS members.

The proposal being considered would include courses from the library science program as an option in the master's degree program in education.

Frances Pollard, Beverly Miller, and Jashu Patel, members of the library science department, which is being phased out, agreed that "the university would be engaging in fraudulent activity" by offering the library science courses through the school of education.

"Such a program will not get (library science) students certified to work in anything except possibly a school library," Pollard said.

Students would graduate with a master's degree in education when most employers require prospective employees have degrees in library science, Pollard said.

"We would be telling students they would be certified librarians but they would not get public librarian jobs," Pollard said.

The CGS also refused to vote on a proposal to add three electives to the list of professional education courses students may choose from to complete requirements for a master's degree in English education.

These courses are methods of teaching English (ENG 4906), independent study and/or theses on subjects related to teaching English.

However on February 27 the proposal failed to pass the Council on Teacher Education.

CGS cannot consider the proposal until COTE approves it, CGS Chairman Jon Laible said, and so it "refused" to do so.

Seminar students start on Lincoln biography

by Karla Woodsides

A biography of Thomas Lincoln, Abraham Lincoln's father, is being written by students in the Civil War graduate seminar, instructor Lavern Hamand said Tuesday.

The 11 students in the class hope to have the manuscript published in book form after it is completed.

The idea for the manuscript came when the class heard of a set of unpublished notes collected by Charles Coleman, a former member of Eastern's history department, before his death in 1972.

The notes were given to a member of the history department by Coleman's wife after his death in the hope that the notes would be finished and published, Hamand said.

The notes, which are collected in 62 folders, have been divided into four sections: Thomas Lincoln's youth and the Kentucky years, the Indiana years, the Illinois years, and the relationship order to distinguish the true statements from the false statements," she said.

Another student, Steve Zartler, said,

"The idea (writing the biography) is great because everyone is having fun doing it. This is a worthwhile project and it is good experience," he added.

Zartler said the only disadvantage to the project is that the class was supposed to be a seminar on the Civil War.

Because of the project, Zartler said, the class will not be studying the Civil War at all.

CAA to hold open forum

The Council on Academic Affairs will hold an open forum Thursday for discussion of Eastern's general education requirements, CAA Chairman Herb Lasky said Tuesday.

The CAA will meet at 3 p.m. in the west end of the University Union Ballroom.

"We're inviting everyone who would like to advise us or offer an opinion," Lasky said.

He said the CAA has not specifically decided to revise the requirements but is considering all options.

"We want to discuss the whole question—should they be revised and if so, what should they be?" Lasky said.

Eastern currently requires all students to complete English 1001 and 1002, health education 1200 and speech-communication 1310.

In addition, nine hours each are required in the fields of humanities, social studies and mathematics or science.

Giovanni to recite

Poet Nikki Giovanni will read from her works and discuss poetry at 7 p.m. Wednesday in the Union addition Grand Ballroom.

Giovanni, a noted poet, author and most recently a recording artist will lecture as part of the Black Student Union's Black Awareness Week, a University Board spokesman said Tuesday.

An ice cream social will follow the lecture, BSU president Cedric Chester said.

Admission is 75 cents for students and $1.50 for the general public.

Harrisburg decreases chance of explosion

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — A troublesome gas bubble no longer poses any significant danger of explosion at the disabled Three Mile Island nuclear power plant, a federal official said Tuesday.

"I think the danger point is considerably down from where it was a few days ago," said Harold Denton of the Nuclear Regulatory Commission. "We no longer consider a hydrogen explosion a significant problem. The site remains stable."

Meanwhile, speculation arose that the crippled reactor might have to be junked, but one NRC official said he doubted that.

While Denton, President Carter's special representative at the scene, held the briefing, tension was easing in the week-long crisis caused by the worst nuclear mishap in U.S history.

Civil defense officials estimated that between 80,000 and 250,000 of the region's 950,000 people had tem-

Radiation drug ordered

DECATUR (AP) - A Decatur firm filled an emergency order for potassium iodide sufficient to treat 250,000 people if harmful radiation escaped from the crippled nuclear reactor on Three Mile Island at Harrisburg, Pa.

The drug was produced at Mallinckrodt Inc.'s Pharmaceutical Products Division under confidential federal orders from the Nuclear Regulatory Commission and the Food and Drug Administration.

Plant Manager James Hughes said Tuesday the firm received the order at 1 a.m. Saturday and that 50 employees, pledged to secrecy, porarily pulled out, but thousands were returning Tuesday and some schools were reopened.

worked on an emergency basis from 7 a.m. to midnight filling the order.

He said the order for secrecy "was because nobody wanted to contribute to a potentially dangerous situation by possible causing panic."

The secrecy order was lifted by the FDA, he said, after the danger of massive radiation contamination apparently passed.

Hughes said potassium iodide when injected acts as a "thyroid blocker" to flush radioactive iodine from the thyroid gland of the exposed person to prevent development of cancer.

Asked when the emergency would be over at Three Mile Island, Denton said, "We are right now developing and looking at plans of the most effective way to bring this reactor to cold shutdown."

Asked about concerns that some safety instruments have failed because of intense radiation in the reactor, Denton said some sensors were lost but most are redundant "and we have other means of getting the information."

Whatever success authorities have in achieving a cold shutdown, Denton said the plant's crippled No. 2 unit was not likely to be back in operation for "a considerable period of time."

Denton said the temperature in the nuclear core remained stable at 280 degrees Fahrenheit.

Robert Bernero, an NRC decontamination expert, arrived from Washington to assess ways of eventually cleaning up the radiation in the facility—a task he said would take "many, many months, maybe a year or two."

Explanations of power plant accident confusing

Analysis

WASHINGTON (AP) - There's an old joke about the airplane piloted by a computer that assured passengers nothing can go wrong - go wrong - go wrong.

The messages from the crippled Three Mile Island nuclear power plant near Harrisburg, Pa., were just about as reassuring.

What turned out to be the most perilous power plant accident of the nuclear age was described at the outset as a minor mishap, nothing to worry about.

and government explanations of what had happened were confusing and conflicting.

No one was in charge; the facts depended on whose version you chose to believe. On Wednesday, March 28, for example, there was word of a general emergency at the plant, along with an assurance that there had been no leak of radiation.

No, wait, some radiation has been released, but not much, and nothing significant away from the plant. By nighttime, that turned out to be wrong, too. Above-normal radiation levels had been reported as much as 16 miles away.

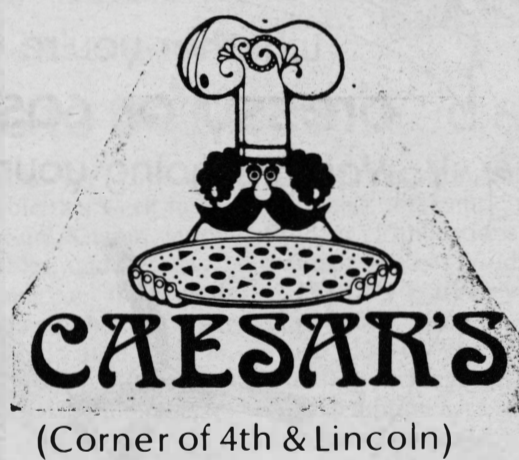

Or take Friday's release of radioactive gas from the stricken plant. Gov. Dick Thornburgh called it uncontrolled. An official of Metropolitan Edison Co. said it was controlled.

The director of the Pennsylvania

Radiological Protection Bureau said it was unexpected. An official of the Nuclear Regulatory Commission said it was not unexpected.

Through it all, government and industry agreed that radiation had not reached the danger point or anything close to it, even in the plant itself.

But it took them five days to agree on a system to inform people what was happening and what it boded.

Employment opportunities workshop set

by Greg Kaefer

Employment opportunities for minorities and the handicapped will be discussed at Eastern's first Affirmative Action Workshop Thursday and Friday in the University Union.

Representatives from 312 colleges in six states have been invited to participate in the workshop, Robert Barger, Affirmative Action director, said.

Five discussion sessions will allow participants to learn from one another what employment strategies are successful at other colleges, Barger said.

"Through small group discussion and interaction, we want to trade off workable ideas from other campuses," he said.

Topics for discussion include faculty recruitment and employment, promotion of women and minorities, and student recruitment.

Other discussions will center on administrative recruitment, civil service employment issues, and federal regulations which prohibit discrimination in hiring.

The two HEW regulations, Title 9 and Section 504, outline standards for preventing sex discrimination in athletics and adapting public buildings to accommodate the handicapped.

Federal officials from the Department of Labor in Peoria and HEW in Chicago will attend the workshop, Barger said.

Registration will be held at 1 p.m. Thursday in the Union addition Tuscola-Arcola Room. Vice President for Academic Affairs Thomas Bond will open the workshop at 1:30.

The five workshop sessions, which will each last approximately one and one-half hours, will begin at 2 p.m., 3:45 p.m. and 8 p.m. Thursday and Friday's sessions will start at 9 a.m. and 10:45 a.m., Barger said.

The sessions will be repeated to encourage participation in all discussions.

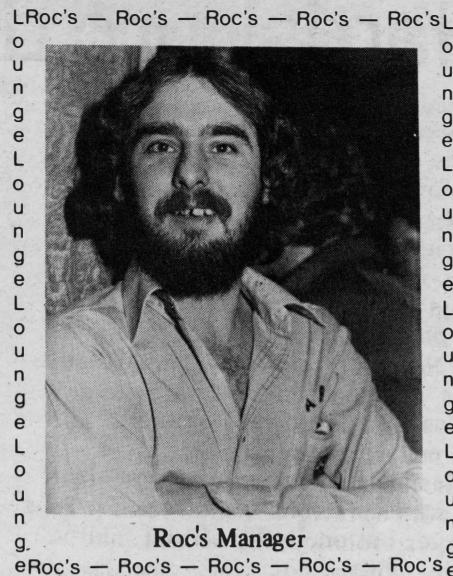

Lunch and an informal session will conclude the workshop.

Barger said, "Affirmative Action seeks to prevent discrimination and ensure equal opportunity for all minorities. In an effort to represent minorities in all facets of employment within the university, we advertise nationally to bring them to Eastern."

The educational workshop is a new concept, Barger said, and this type of workshop has never been held at Eastern before.

All students, faculty, administrators and civil service personnel are invited to participate at no cost.

The Affirmative Action Office was instituted at Eastern in August, 1973.

Dorm exemptions offered

by Heather Ayres

Sophomores who believe their academic progress is being hindered by overcrowded residence halls can apply for exemptions to the housing policy, Mary Smith of the Housing Office said Monday.

The housing office has already received 250 more applications for fall semester housing than at this time last year, Smith said.

Housing placed 1100-1200 students off campus this year due to the crowded conditions, Smith added.

Smith said housing has not given any thought to other alternatives to help relieve overcrowding.

Some colleges may ask people to leave the dorm or propose some other plan, but that would not be fair to students because Eastern does have housing requirements, Smith said.

The requirements for students who want to apply for exemptions to the policy are 30 semester hours or two semesters in a residence hall, Smith said.

Illinois wildlife population continues to decline

by The Associated Press

Illinois wildlife, long the victim of progress, has dwindled sharply within the last decade and experts say there's no indication things will improve in the near future.

Where 200 pheasants used to live per square mile of Illinois in the early 1960s, fewer than 20 per square mile remain.

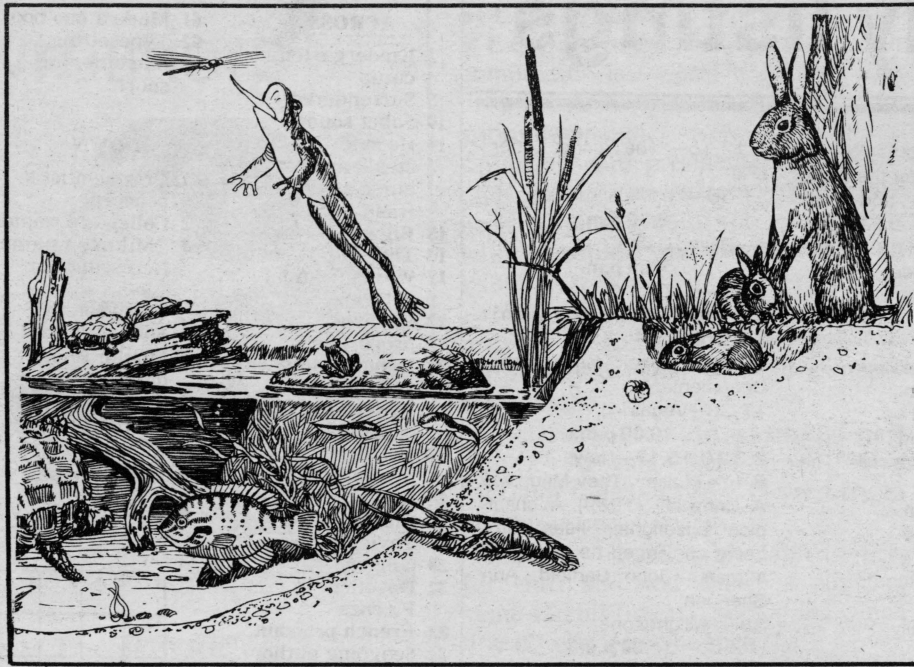

The same is true for rabbits, according to studies by the Illinois Natural History Survey and the Department of Conservation which document their demise.

"I think we're going to see continued declines," said Glen Sanderson, wildlife chief for the Natural History Survey.

"We're still going to be cutting down timber, improving pastures, straightening streams, all of it detrimental to wildlife habitat."

Sanderson said the number of rabbits in the state has dropped steadily for two decades, largely because of changing farm practices.

Farmers who once rotated their crops between hay, oats and grain now are concentrating on row crops of corn and soybeans.

According to roadside censuses by survey biologists in Ford and Cumberland counties, between two and six bunnies were spotted per 100 miles of driving last year.

In 1962, the number was near 50 per 100 miles of driving.

"It's not at all unusual to go quail-hunting and find more deer than rabbits," said Sanderson.

At Allerton Park in Piatt County where habitat has remained virtually unchanged amid the enormous transformation of the rest of the state, the rabbit population appears to have remained relatively stable.

Similar survey checks of pheasants last year revealed they no longer are the game bird they once were.

A count of ringnecks in 74 northernmost counties of the state averaged 0.8 ringnecks per 100 miles, compared with nearly 5 in 1973 and nearly 10 in 1963.

The big decline in pheasants in the Midwest came between 1963 and 1973 when farmers were encouraged to begin planting fencerow-to-fencerow.

There are some bright spots, he said. Squirrels have survived despite dwindling timberland, and both the deer and Canadian geese are faring relatively well in Illinois. But the further rapid decline in the number of pheasants, rabbits and other species has Sanderson worried.

"We don't know how little it takes for a species to survive, how little land, how little food," he said. "We may not find out how little until the species is gone."

Faculty Senate approves election results

by Janet Janes

The results of the March 21 faculty council elections were officially approved by the Faculty Senate Tuesday.

New council members are Herb Lasky, Jon Laible, Dan Hockman, Fred Preston and Gerald Sullivan to the Faculty Senate; Dale Downs to the Council of Faculties and Richard C. Funk to the Council of Graduate Studies, arts and sciences.

Elected to the Council on Teacher Education were Ronald E. Gholson from the School of Education, Russell D. Fischer from the physical education and recreation department, and Ray Griffin from the School of Technology.

Run-off elections for positions on the Council on Academic Affairs, the University Personnel Committee, and the Council on Graduate Studies were held Tuesday.

However, because of a scheduled shut down in the computer system Tuesday evening, results of this election will not be available until Thursday, Faculty Senate Elections Chairperson Carol Helwig said Tuesday.

In other business, Bob White of the English department presented the Faculty Senate with a petition containing approximately 100 signatures of faculty members, calling for a re-vote on article one of the Faculty Senate constitution.

Article one was voted on Nov. 7 as a unit and was rejected. The article contained the definition of faculty and defined the structure of and the election to faculty committees.

Senate Chairman Robert Shuff and the majority of the senate said at an earlier senate meeting that the article was rejected because of the definition of faculty. The proposed definition eliminated certain administrators from qualifying as faculty and eliminated them from running for faculty council seats.

Frank Abell, past chairman of the Faculty Senate Constitution Committee, said some faculty members said the article was rejected due to the low voter turn-out and that the vote was unrepresentative of the entire faculty.

Klemm to work out with AAU wrestlers

Eastern's heavyweight wrestler Dave Klemm was selected to compete with the U.S. Amateur Athletic Union team that will tour Germany in July.

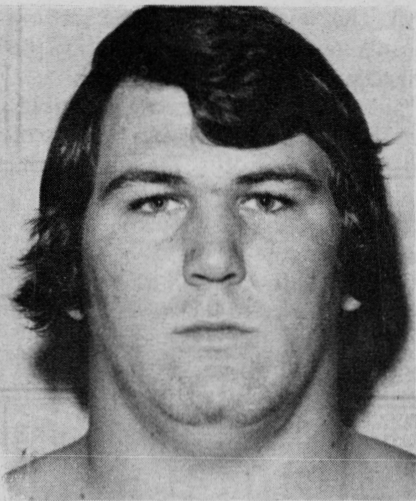

Klemm and UCLA's Fred Buhna were selected to practice with Jim Jackson, who will represent the team at the heavyweight position.

Klemm was selected by Dan Gable, the head wrestling coach at Iowa State University.

Jackson is a former three-time national champion who wrestled for Oklahoma State. Jackson defeated Klemm at the Oklahoma State Cowboy Classic last season by a 4-2 margin.

Buhna, who wrestled for UCLA this season, defeated Klemm in the Division I national championship held at Ames, Iowa 9-5.

Eastern's assistant wrestling coach Rudy Ruettiger said that Jackson had already been selected to compete, but if something were to happen to him Klemm would be the next in line.

Dave Klemm
AAU alternate

Practices were held over this past spring break in Toledo, Ohio, which is the national headquarters of the world cup.

Rugby Club drops three

by Doug Seymour

Eastern's rugby club ran into tough competition last week in Arizona and dropped its first three contests of the spring campaign.

Eastern club president Jay Mackin said each of the Arizona squads had been playing games for nearly two months, while Eastern was just starting its spring season.

"All those teams started their seasons in early February and two teams played better than 30 games," Mackin said.

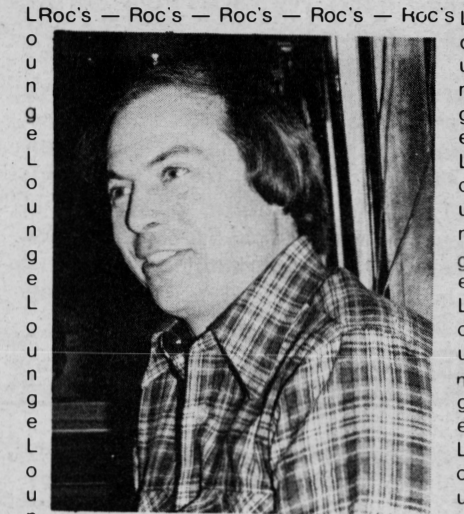

Eastern got off to a strong start against Arizona State when Steve McGann rolled in for a 35 yard try to give his team a 4-0 lead.

Mackin lauded McGann's performance and said "that was his first game and his first try, something which doesn't very often happen."

In its second game, Eastern fought to within four points of Arizona on a hard-fought 20 yard try by inside center Mike Hummert and a kick by Mike Jones which made the score 10-6. But Arizona scored the last 15 points to put the game away.

The Old Pueblo club had little trouble coasting past Eastern's worn-out charges for its 28-0 shutout.

Women netters face 'grim' spring schedule

by Jane Meyer

A depleted Eastern women's tennis team will open its spring season Saturday at St. Louis with matches against St. Louis University and Southeast Missouri State University.

The women netters will be without some of their key players from their 6-1 fall season.

"Our short spring season looks grim," coach Joyce David said. "We lost freshman Sue Moore, our number one singles player from the fall season when she transferred to the University of Nebraska. Another player Debbie Belton, who played No. 4 this past season, is out with mononucleosis, but she may see limited action," David said.

David also said that team captain senior Kathy Holmes will not be playing this weekend due to a previous commitment. Holmes held the No. 5 spot in action during the fall season.

The Panthers will still have freshman Jill Anderson who played No. 2. Anderson and Moore teamed as the fourth rated doubles team in the state last fall.

David said that she has not seeded the players for the Saturday meets but sophomore Patti Groth will be in contention with Anderson for the top two places.

"Jill and Patti are probably our top two individual players right now, but as to who will be playing in the No. 1 spot, I'm not sure," David said.

Other players returning for action this season are Mona Etchison, Janet Haberkorn, Maureen Fitzpatrick, Julie Krueger and Nancy Thompson.

All the members of the spring season's team saw action during the fall except Thompson.

David said that the only doubles team that she had lined up is the duo of Anderson and Groth. David said the other doubles pairing will be chosen later.

David said that the spring squad is not ready for its opponents Saturday.

"We aren't in condition because we have had very limited practice time," David said. "Opening with a triangular will be a killer."

The coach said she does not know what to expect from the two St. Louis teams because Eastern has not played them before.

"I have heard that St. Louis University has an extensive spring season so I assume they will be very strong," David said.

Eastern will have only two home matches during their spring season. The Panthers will host Augustana on April 25 and Indiana State May 2.

In addition to Saturday's match, Eastern will have another match April 20-21 at the Western Illinois Invitational.

Eastern Eyes to meet

Eastern wrestling coach Ron Clinton and his three NCAA Division I All-Americans will be the featured speakers at the Eastern Eyes meeting noon Wednesday at the east cafeteria of the University Union, Eyes spokesman Steve Whitley said.

Clinton was this year's Division II 'Coach of the Year', while the other three guests, Dave Klemm, Bob Holland and Geno Savegnago all gained All-American status at the Division I championships.

Tennis deadline set

The deadline for entering the intramural doubles tennis tournament will be 4:30 p.m. Wednesday.

There will be separate competition in both men's and women's divisions in the single elimination tournament. All matches will be the best two out of three sets.

Baseball

Shortstop Tom Detmer's walk was followed by a perfect hit-and-run by Ken Saxe, putting Panther runners at first and third. After Paul Franson walked, Pulley shot a two-strike pitch up against the fence in center field clearing the bases.

However, the Panthers committed some mental mistakes that McDevitt said only time and experience will relinquish.

"We're still making the little mistakes that beat you. This is still a game of hit and catch and throw and run. Those are only done right with experience," the coach said.

"We have new people at positions and it's going to take time for them," McDevitt added.

Wesleyan's offensive attack started in the first inning when starter and losing pitcher Paul Kastner yielded a lead off single to James Shaw then walked Steve Ring.

Swearingen's one-out fly ball to right carried beyond the reach of Panther outfielder Cam Kennedy scoring one run. Mark Robbins then lofted a sacrifice fly scoring Ring.

The Titans' chased Kastner from the hill in the third on two-run doubles by Ring and Robbins which produced a four-run inning. That brought Lenny Lunberg to the hill in relief.

Veteran Wesleyan coach Jack Horenberger said after the game he wasn't at all surprised with his team's hitting exhibition.

"We haven't hit that good. But actually, we feel our first six hitters should give us power. When we get it, we're not surprised when we score runs," Horenberger said.

Horenberger also said pitching usually is the strong point for his teams and the addition of two newcomers has strengthened his staff.

"Moore is a fine pitcher and Bromann is much improved. We also added Dave Hood and Rich Hagen this year, so we're set on the mound," Horenberger said.

Swearingen added to the Titans' lead in the late innings with a solo home run in the seventh and a two-run shot in the ninth.

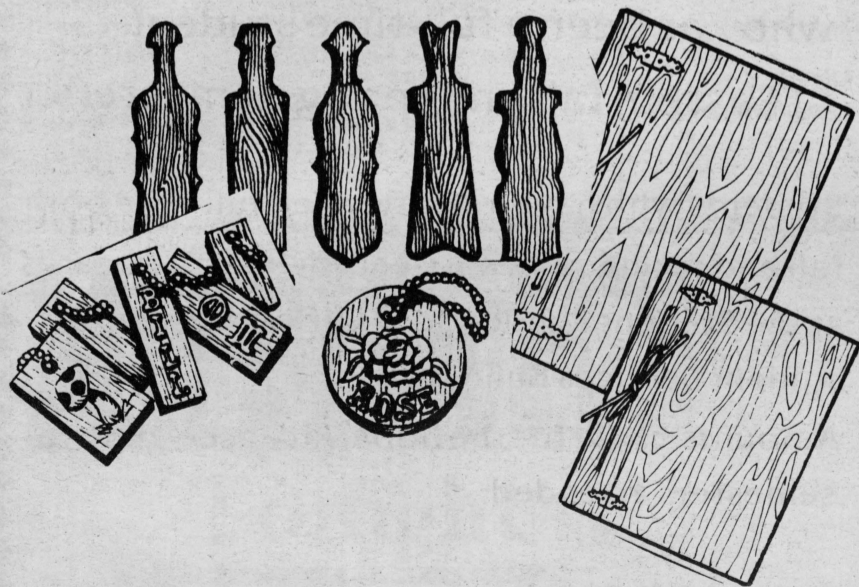

Eastern will look to reverse its losing habit Wednesday when the squad travels to Indiana State University-Evansville for a double-header.

McDevitt said he will start seniors Furmanski and Tom Ozga on the mound for the twin-bill.

Baseball team drops home opener to Titans

by Carl Gerdovich

Illinois Wesleyan's Tim Swearingen hit two home runs and drove in four Tuesday to lead the Titans to a 9-3 win over Eastern in the Panthers home opener at Monier Field.

Swearingen's three for four performance at the plate added to an 11-hit attack by the Titans, which extended a mild Panther losing streak to five games.

Eastern now stands at 2-7 while the Titans up their season mark to 2-6.

Wesleyan's starting and winning pitcher Rick Moore held Eastern's hitters in check throughout the first four innings on three hits, before the Panthers' Marty Pulley's bases-loaded double chased him in the fifth inning.

Dean Bromann relieved Moore and blanked the Panthers the rest of the game.

Eastern managed just six hits on the afternoon, although five hard-hit balls were chased down by the Titan defense.

"We're not hitting the ball good at all," Panther head coach Tom McDevitt said after the game. "We have some improving to do."

"That Rick Moore is an awful good college pitcher though. He kept the ball where he wanted it. And actually, I was surprised to see him get in trouble in the fifth inning," McDevitt said.

Eastern's only productive inning came in the fifth after two were out.

Mullally, Eddy should stay at present positions

Despite speculation, do not look for either Eastern athletic director Mike Mullally or head basketball coach Don Eddy to be anywhere but Charleston next year.

Mullally is among the final six candidates for the Illinois State University athletic director position, and Eddy is among the people mentioned extensively for the Oklahoma State University head basketball job. But neither Mullally nor Eddy seem ready to leave Eastern, unless a better opportunity arises for both.

Mullally was interviewed for the position at ISU last Thursday, and obviously, the Illinois State administration is interested in him for a number of reasons.

Mullally has built up quite a record here, turning the Panther program into a national Division II powerhouse. Plus, one of his prime advantages is his fund raising ability. Before coming here, Mullally was the regional director of the University of Oklahoma's Alumni Association, and worked closely with the Big Eight school's athletic department as a fund raiser.

Finally, Mullally is well known in central Illinois, and that would also be a big plus in his favor as far as the ISU alumni would be concerned.

But would it be a step up for the Mullally?

He would be going from an institution that has the potential to win national championships in at least four sports, gain some television exposure, and perhaps (finally) get some national media coverage, to a school which is supposedly

Brad Patterson

"major" in athletics (meaning ISU is Division I), but with an athletic program that is slipping in a hurry.

Eastern embarrassed the Redbird football team 42-7 last fall, and Ron Clinton's wrestlers easily defeated ISU this season.

The same with baseball, track, cross country, and in most of the women's sports. And, next December, the Panther basketball team will have a chance to meet ISU in the Illini Classic in Champaign.

The Eastern job is one of the best in the nation, and until bigger than the ISU job comes up, I think Mullally will be here.

The same with Eddy.

Eddy will enter his twelfth season at the helm of the Panthers next November, and besides being the dean of Illinois coaches, Eddy is rapidly gaining respect nationwide.

Eddy has said himself that Oklahoma State would have to "make me a real good offer" before he would take the Cowboy job.

OSU has been down the past few seasons on the hardwood. It has enjoyed only one winning season in the last 11, and the administration is searching for someone to turn the basketball fortunes around.

But on the Stillwater campus, basketball is third on the list behind football and wrestling. If that wouldn't discourage a prospective basketball coach, then the fact that OSU is the "second" school in the state behind Oklahoma University should.

Weighing all those factors, and with almost an entire squad returning next season, I think it is safe to assume that Eddy will be occupying his usual seat on the Lantz Gym bench next November.

All of this could be wrong, and either Mullally or Eddy or both could be working elsewhere next season. But don't bet on it.

Notes:

Recruiting is Eddy's primary concern right now. The Panther head coach stopped at the national junior college championships last week in hopes of landing a juco guard to add to the Eastern roster.

Eddy, who has shied away from transfers the past few years, is apparently looking for a player who can step in right away and be the take-charge type of leader the Panthers lacked this year.

Eddy said that he had three such players in mind, but wanted only one.

The national signing date for high school players is nearing, and the Panthers are still in the running for such high school standouts as Nashville's 6-foot-7 All-Stater Roger Stieg, Olney's Darnell Jones, and Decatur Eisenhower's Mike Sain.
