ISSC program may face financial problems

by Peggy Schneider

The Illinois State Scholarship program could be in financial danger again this year despite a $6 million increase in appropriated funds and the implementation of money-saving measures, an Eastern official said.

John Flynn, Eastern's Associate Director of Financial Aids, said ISSC funds fell short of obligations by $2 million last year, forcing the commission to ask nearly 22,000 students to refund part of their awards this summer. A total of 1,135 Eastern students were affected by the refund.

Although the commission's appropriations have risen from $85 million last year to $91 million this year, college tuition throughout the state has also risen an average of 14 percent, Flynn said.

"The ISSC won't be able to cover all the costs, even with the increase in funds. It won't be saving any money," he said.

Eastern's tuition and fees increased by 18 percent, Flynn said.

The maximum award a student may receive has increased from $1,900 last year to $1,950 this year, ISSC Assistant Director of Informational Services Sheila Pruden said Friday.

The commission remains "optimistic" that the $91 million will cover the increased college costs and the increase in the maximum award, she added.

The ISSC has adopted two new measures to save money, in addition to setting a flexible cut-off date for applications as it has in the past.

Applications which were received later than June 15 will only be considered for a one-semester award. Flynn said awards formerly would cover the entire year.

Flynn said he could not estimate the number of students affected by the change, but added the new rule would force some students to seek other financial aid or give up attending school at all.

The ISSC has also increased the expected parental contribution by 25 percent. That increase coupled with an increase in expected student self-help from $950 to $1,200 is expected to make more money available for the program, Flynn said.

Flynn also said he believes the program will appropriate all its funds before the Oct. 15 cut-off date.

Eastern's financial aid office has received 3,730 applications for ISSC. Of that total, 1,346 students will receive awards, while the remainder of requests are ineligible or disqualified, Flynn said.

The ISSC has received 155,000 applications to date this year, a figure equal with the number received by last year's cut-off date, Pruden said.

IGLP changes decrease number of eligible students

by Peggy Schneider

Three money-saving changes in the federal government's guaranteed student loan program will result in a reduction in the number of students eligible for the loans and also in the amount of a loan awarded to a student, Eastern's Director of Financial Aids Sue McKenna said Thursday.

Under the new rules, which were approved by the U.S. Congress this summer, a student whose parents earn more than $30,000 a year will not be eligible for loans unless need is proven, she said.

Financial Aids Counselor Elmer Pullen said a needs analysis is conducted for a student whose parents earn over $30,000 according to a formula which will be designed later by the federal Health, Education and Welfare Office and may be determined by taking into account family dependents, parental employment and family assets.

McKenna said the student may not be given an award for an amount greater than the amount the needs analysis indicates he may receive.

The income cap was eliminated in 1978, enabling students to get a loan regardless of income, McKenna said. The new rules reactivate the cap, she added.

Two other changes, the origination fee and the prepaid finance charge, will reduce the amount of loan a student is awarded, McKenna said.

"An origination fee of 5 percent of the total value of the loan will be deducted by the bank before the student receives the check," she said.

Pullen said the fee will save the federal government money because it will not be paying interest on as much money as it would have before the deduction.

The money taken from a student's check is payment for the processing of those checks, Pullen said.

McKenna said in addition to the origination fee, Illinois will deduct 1 percent of the total value of the loan for each year the loan must run.

For example, a loan for a freshman which would run four years would be reduced by 4.5 percent with the state deduction and by 5 percent with the federal deduction, for a total of 9.5 percent.

The government would assume payment for six months after the student graduates, which accounts for the additional .5 percent reduction.

The changes, which will begin in October, are designed to reduce the cost of the program by over $3.2 billion, McKenna said.

Applications received before Oct. 1 will not be affected by the changes, she said.

Pullen said Eastern has received (See LOANS, page 6)

National crime proposals have some roots in Illinois

CHICAGO—Several new proposals for fighting violent crime compiled in a national report, including creation of a federal "guilty but mentally ill" verdict, originated in Illinois, Gov. James R. Thompson said.

Thompson also said he will attempt to implement as many of the federal recommendations on the state level as possible.

The recommendations, which include increased spending for prison construction, were outlined in a report issued last week by President Reagan's task force on violent crime. Thompson served as co-chairman of the task force and he said he will instruct his staff to review the 64 recommendations to see how many could work in Illinois.

"Here in Illinois, we're going to take the report and go through our constitution and our statutes and make an effort to conform Illinois law in the next session of the General Assembly with the recommendations," Thompson said.

Khadafy calls for shutdown of all Mediterranean bases

TRIPOLI, Libya—Col. Moammar Khadafy called for a shutdown of all U.S. bases in the Mediterranean in the wake of the dogfight between U.S. and Libyan jets over the Gulf of Sidra, the official Libyan news agency JANA reported Sunday.

Monday's (AP) News shorts

The Libyan strongman was quoted as saying in a reference to President Reagan's career as an actor: "He is using international politics as if it were some theatrical play. We want to remind Reagan that performing in the Mediterranean is different from doing it on stage."

The news agency said Khadafy made the comments in a speech Saturday in Ethiopia, where he jeered the United States three days after two Soviet-made Libyan SU-22 jets were shot down by U.S. F-14s.

International air controllers urge reopening negotiations

AMSTERDAM, Netherlands—The International Federation of Air Traffic Controllers Associations again called for President Reagan to reopen negotiations with striking U.S. controllers Sunday but did not announce any world-wide action to back up its plea.

"It would not be in the interest of a negotiated settlement to publish in any way at all, whether by written or oral statement or otherwise, details of any contemplated or agreed action at this time," the federation said in a statement at the end of its two-day emergency meeting.

Federation President Harry Henschler of Canada told reporters that delegates voted "to give solid support to the re-opening of discussions with the U.S. administration." He did not elaborate.

Adopted boy returns home as Peace Corps volunteer

SANTIAGO, Chile—Rico Brooks is headed for Ecuador as a Peace Corps volunteer, and his parents couldn't be prouder.

They adopted Rico 17 years ago in Ecuador where they were Peace Corps volunteers.

"Mom and Dad are jumping up and down," Rico, 21, said in a telephone interview shortly before boarding a plane for Miami, the rendezvous point for his Peace Corps trainee group.

Rico was adopted at age four by Peace Corps volunteers Earle and Rhod Brooks who were assigned to Manta, Ecuador in 1964.

The Brooks now run Peace Corps operations in Chile, but lived in the Minneapolis area while Rico was growing up.

Rico was born to a poor fisherman and his wife who eked out a living on the beach in Manta. The couple eventually had nine children.

The Brooks befriended the family in the course of their volunteer work and eventually it was jointly agreed the Brooks should adopt Rico.

Clerical workers to vote on union issue

by Lola Burnham

Eastern clerical workers will vote Tuesday to determine if the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Workers will represent them in collective bargaining with the Board of Governors.

Balloting will take place from 7 a.m. to 3 p.m. in the Union addition Paris Room under the supervision of the Illinois Department of Labor.

The ballot will ask one question: "Do you wish to be represented for the purpose of collective bargaining by AFSCME?" with voters marking yes or no.

AFSCME will become the bargaining representative if the majority of those classifications voting vote yes.

Each civil service worker on campus was asked to fill out a white authorization card earlier this summer. To be represented by the union, 30 percent of the workers in each classification had to fill out a white card.

Those cards were tallied recently and 31 classifications met the required percentage.

Only workers of those classifications are eligible to vote Tuesday.

A few of those classifications are: accounting clerks I, II and III; clerk-typists I, II and III; computer aides II; stenographic secretaries; cold type operators I and II; and telephone operators II.

Wendy Meyer, secretary of the EIU Civil Service Organization, said Friday the majority of those voting must vote yes for the union to be accepted.

Entertainment starts Monday

by Linda Fraembs

Eastern's fall entertainment begins Monday night with the showing of the Alfred Hitchcock movie "The Lady Vanishes" at dusk on the south quad.

Booker Suggs, assistant director of student activities, outlined several fall highlights sponsored by the University Board and other organizations.

On Tuesday, Rumorz, a Chicago-based band, will perform at 5:00 p.m. on the north quad. The Rathskellar will be serving soft drinks and snacks at the same time.

Scott Jones, a guitarist, pianist and comedian, will be on hand to provide entertainment for students who may be waiting in add-drop lines in the University Union walkway lounge from noon to 1:30 p.m. Wednesday.

"The Shining" will be shown free of charge on the south quad at dusk by the UB movie committee Friday. The movie is being shown in "advance appreciation" of student support for UB activities during the rest of the year.

Eastern faces cut in '81-'82 higher education budget

by Yvonne Beeler

Eastern's portion of the higher education budget for 1981-82 is $29.4 million—$1.8 million less than the university's original request.

Gov. James Thompson signed a bill in July allocating $821.2 million to higher education.

Because the budget faced repeated cuts throughout the year, Eastern Vice President for Administration and Finance George Miller said, "This has not been a good year for higher education."

Miller said that although the national inflation rate this year averaged 12 percent, the Fiscal Year 1982 budget of $29.4 million is based on a 4 percent inflation rate in general costs.

Eastern's budget cuts could have been greater if the Board of Governors had not instituted an additional tuition hike of 4 percent in April.

Originally the BOG approved a 10 percent tuition increase. The was raised to 14 percent after the Illinois Board of Higher Education requested that all BOG universities institute a 14 percent tuition hike.

Eastern President Daniel E. Marvin said in April that the tuition hike would generate an additional $235,000 for Eastern.

Even though all areas of the budget faced repeated cuts, the percent increase for faculty salaries weathered the storm with faculty receiving an 8 percent pay hike in July and an additional 2 percent in January.

Miller said, however, that the percentage is deceiving because it is not based on 100 percent of FY '81 salary base, but instead on 89 percent.

The IBHE reduced the percentage 10 percent basing the decision on the thought that there will be a 10 percent faculty turnover rate.

An additional 1 percent was also reduced from the 100 percent base for productivity improvement, defined as making better use of faculty salary funds.

Miller said based on the reduced FY '81 base, in actuality Eastern's faculty will be receiving a 7.8 percent pay hike.

Commenting on the entire final approved budget, Miller said, "Even though we don't like it, we have to put up with it."

Welcome!

Changes await students new and old...

Eastern will look new to both new students and returning students this fall.

Over the summer, progress and growth has transformed the campus.

Unlike other years, when changes were usually subtle and cosmetic, and included blooming flowers and resurfaced parking lots, this fall is different.

Construction of the $1.4 million Tarble Arts Center just south of the Buzzard Educational Building is well underway.

The TAC, a visual arts center envisioned by Eastern alumnus Newton Tarble, is scheduled to be finished in the spring.

The university's accessibility renovations during the summer have changed the look of the campus in a number of areas.

A wheelchair ramp was installed near the union, along with curb cuts around the campus which will allow easier movement for those in wheelchairs.

And in a relocation which affected a number of areas, the Textbook Library has returned to its original facility in the south end of Pemberton Hall after extensive renovations were completed and a new check-out system for books was installed.

The space occupied by the Textbook Library for the past 1 1/2 years in the Buzzard Education Building has been taken over by The Daily Eastern News for production of the newspaper.

In addition, the journalism department and classes and the Warbler have been moved to Buzzard.

Work is beginning on the new Radio Television Center also in Buzzard.

This is not a stagnant university.

Eastern is forging ahead in more ways than one and that's good for students.

It creates a progressive atmosphere which students need to take advantage of now, while the semester is fresh.

Getting involved is one way to effect even more changes at Eastern.

The impact one individual can have on the university is unlimited. Through work in organizations such as student government, student publications, residence hall associations, University Board and others, students have the chance to break out of the mass and make their statement.

Like the white bricks comprising the Tarble Arts Center, students are assembling to form "Eastern, Fall 1981." Let's make an impression as lasting as the building rising between 7th and 9th streets by Buzzard.

Welcome back!

News Notes:

Marsha Hausser

As the dust settles, Eastern News press begins rolling again

(Editor's note: News Notes will appear here on an irregular basis. It will be written by various staff members with the goal of providing readers with insight into The Daily Eastern News' operation. Today's column is written by the editor in chief.)

We're sitting amidst unpacked boxes, dodging out-of-place furniture and yelling over the pounding and drilling that has gone on all week.

But it's exciting just the same.

The Daily Eastern News, along with the journalism department and the Warbler, has moved its operations to the Buzzard Education Building.

The move has been in the planning stages since last year.

The change of scenery was necessitated by the growth of the journalism department and student publications at Eastern.

It is an expansion that typifies the growth of the university which is evident everywhere you turn: south of Buzzard is the white brick Tarble Arts Center, a dream of a former Eastern student who donated $1.4 million for its construction.

Progress is always exciting, but in the case of the newspaper not only is it exciting for those of us who put out the newspaper each day, but for our readers too.

Because when we expand, our coverage can expand.

Some of the changes which will allow that include the addition of two new video display terminals, increasing production capability.

The VDTs, which were new to the Daily Eastern News last year, will make copy preparation and management more efficient. With six tubes and one from the journalism department which will be used occasionally, the news can be processed quicker.

The amount of space the newsroom, advertising and business facilities take up is almost doubled from our Student Services days.

Which means that when you come in to take out a classified ad, drop off a letter to the editor or ask a question, you won't be standing elbow-to-elbow with six other people.

Our press is adjacent to the newsroom now, further consolidating all the operations of the newspaper.

Previously, the paper was printed in the Applied Arts Education Building.

We're excited about the "new" Daily Eastern News and we want you to be too.

We'd like you to see where your newspaper is produced each day. So stop in at our new offices in the southeast part of Buzzard. If you've been at Eastern before, it's the same place you used to go to pick up or return your textbooks last year.

Remember, we're here to serve our readers, so come by and check out our new Buzzard location.

... as Eastern's faculty gains new faces

The new school year brings with it some changes in the teaching, coaching and administrative staffs.

The experience of those from inside the university and the ideas new people can bring to Eastern hopefully will prove an asset to the entire college community.

Nearly 70 new faculty members have joined the campus staff, with the sports scene getting a new look with the addition of four new football coaches, a volleyball coach and a field hockey coach.

Two important administrative positions were filled this summer when Jon Laible was appointed dean of the College of Arts and Sciences and John Beabout was chosen as the director of the new Radio and Television Center.

Laible was officially named dean after he had spent over a year as acting dean, filling the vacancy caused by the retirement of Lawrence Ringenberg last summer.

Laible's familiarity with the needs of the school following his year as acting dean should be an asset to a college that affects nearly half of Eastern's academic departments.

The Radio and Television Center, a new facility, is being constructed under the guidance of Beabout.

Beabout comes to Eastern from a similar position at Kutztown State College in Kutztown, Pa.

His experience with a similar center there will benefit students and faculty involved in speech communications at Eastern in getting the center off the ground.

We welcome those who are new to Eastern, and urge them to put their experience to good use. We also hope the new ideas these staff members bring with them can be implemented to the advantage of all of Eastern.

New sorority to recruit fall pledge class

by Linda Fraembs

Eastern women will have a chance to become the ground blocks in the building of a new sorority this fall as Alpha Sigma Tau begins recruiting its first Eastern pledge class.

Ann Marie Cavanagh, assistant director of student activities, said the recruitment will begin September.

Although the dates for formation of the sorority are Sept. 16 through Sept. 20, Cavanagh said, "we encourage anyone interested to go through sorority rush anyway."

She explained that formal rush for Eastern's already-established sororities gives potential rushees a chance to see what rush and Greek life in general is like.

Formal rush began Saturday and will continue through Sept. 1.

An informational meeting reviewing Alpha Sigma Tau will be held in the University Union Addition Charleston-Mattoon Room Sept. 16 at a time that has not yet been set, Cavanagh said.

On Sept. 17 and 18, interested women will be assigned an interview

Greek community schedules rush activities

Fall sorority rush activities have already begun while fraternity rush drives will begin soon, Ann Marie Cavanagh, assistant director of student activities, said.

Sorority formal rush began Aug. 22, and will run through Sept. 1.

Cavanagh said that after Saturday's "It's Greek to Me" presentation, the first day of sorority rush, 401 girls were signed up.

Cavanagh said this figure was "down a little bit" from last year, but said however, "I think this will be an excellent year for rush."

time with the sorority. Interviews will be conducted in the University Union Addition Neoga Room, Cavanagh said.

Sorority bids will be made Sept. 19, and pledge night is Sept. 20, she added.

"We hope for 60 or 70" new members, Cavanagh said.

Fraternity rush will be held Sept. 8, 9 and 10. Notices of fraternity rush events will be advertised in the Daily Eastern News, Mark Drahl, vice president of the Interfraternity Council, said.

He added that the various fraternities will be holding rush parties to introduce the houses to prospective rushees.

Drahl said anyone interested in rush should either come to the parties or submit his name, campus address and campus telephone number to Cavanagh.

Although there are restrictions on the number of pledges, she said the national chapter would "definitely" like to have more than 30.

The pledges will have a two-week training session during which they will be assisted by an Alpha Sigma Tau graduate student, Cavanagh said.

Hospital costs raise questions

It has not yet been decided if Charleston or Coles County will pay for the hospital costs of a local woman whose leg was allegedly broken by police as they attempted to place her in a squad car.

Betty Wilson, 55, of Charleston, was arrested April 25 by city police as she allegedly urinated in an alley in the 700 block of Monroe Avenue near the Will Rogers Theater, Charleston Police Chief Maurice Johnson said.

Chief Johnson said officer Mark Jenkins and intern Charles Brumleve attempted to place Wilson under arrest but met with resistance. It was while the police were trying to put her in a squad car the injury occurred.

Chief Johnson said no action has been taken against the officer or the intern, and no trial date has been set to hear the charges against Wilson.

Wilson was placed in the Coles County jail and later moved to Sarah Bush Lincoln Health Center for treatment.

Catholic class slated

A course describing what it means to be a Catholic will be offered by the Newman Community during the fall semester.

Those participating in the course will study issues such as the Catholic notion of God, incarnation, salvation, church, sacrament and morality, Sister Maria Regis, instructor, said.

Students interested in enrolling in the course may register at 9 a.m. to noon Monday and Tuesday at the Newman House, 909 Lincoln.

Students enrolling and completing the course can receive three credit hours granted by Quincy College.

EASTERN ILLINOIS UNIVERSITY WOMEN

You're a woman. A woman with energy, self-confidence and intelligence. You're interested in the ever-changing definition of femininity and you know that there's nothing you can't do once you set your mind to it.

If this describes you, you won't settle for anything less than becoming an Army officer. The Army expects an officer to expect a lot from herself. The Army will give her the chance to prove what she can do.

As an Army officer, you'll discover more about the management of people, money and technical skills than you would ever be exposed to in civilian life. As an officer, you'll grow as a woman, as a person. You'll gain a new perspective on life. You'll be responsible for the lives and actions of other people — a leader of men and women.

Of course there are more tangible benefits, like pay, travel, and all the others due a commissioned officer. Exactly the same benefits, incidently, due your male counterparts. Your Army service can have full time or part-time obligations, depending on your career plans and desires.

Sound interesting? Then start earning your Army Officer's Commission now, through Army ROTC. Learn more about the on-campus benefits of ROTC as well; State and Federal Scholarships, leadership and management training, financial assistance during the last 2 years of ROTC classes, and more. Seven senate seats vacant this semester

by Lola Burnham

Seven seats on the Student Senate are vacant this fall due to mix-ups in the election process last spring, graduation of two members and status changes for three senators.

The seven vacant seats include a vacant seat in the off-campus district, three vacant seats in the residence hall district and three vacant seats in the at-large district.

Two mix-ups occurred following last spring's election. Cathy VanTassell, then a freshman, lost her off-campus seat when she failed to file a financial statement.

Only five candidates ran for five open off-campus seats so VanTassell did not spend any money on her campaign. Because she spent no money, she did not file a statement.

However, all candidates must file a statement of campaign expenditures, regardless of how much money they spend.

Student Body President Bob Glover said Saturday another seat is vacant due to an oversight by the elections committee.

Glover said 11 senate seats are in the at-large district with five of those seats filled in fall elections and six filled in spring elections. For some reason, he said, the elections committee only named five senators last spring.

Tony Weber, who campaigned for an at-large seat last spring and garnered the sixth highest number of votes, is "technically" the sixth senator, Glover said.

Glover said he will ask the senate to approve Weber for the vacant seat and waive the petition process that will fill the other five vacancies.

Two seats opened up last spring when senators Bill Mueller (at-large district) and Ken Potts (off-campus district) graduated.

An additional two seats became vacant following the spring elections when Senator Tony Parascandola was elected collective bargaining representative and Senator Bob Erio resigned his residence hall seat following his successful bid for an at-large seat.

Erio was elected in Fall 1980 for a full-year residence hall seat. When he was elected in spring for a single semester as an at-large senator, he had to resign his residence hall seat, Glover said.

The final seat became vacant this semester when Senator Amy Bardis moved off-campus and resigned her residence hall seat.

Officials to decide fraternity's status

by Linda Fraembs

Members of Eastern's Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity are currently undergoing interviews with officials to determine if they can remain active members of the fraternity.

Ann Marie Cavanagh, assistant director of student activities said the interviews with Pi Kappa Alpha members, which began Friday and continue through Tuesday, will be conducted by Eastern officials and the fraternity's national office representatives.

After the interviews, the officials will decide in which of two status categories to place the fraternity, Cavanagh said.

If the interviewing committee decides the chapter remain active, then each member will be able to decide whether to remain with the fraternity.

The committee may also decide to give fraternity members "alumni status," which means members would be treated as if they are alumni and therefore, would not have the same privileges as active members, Cavanagh said.

Cavanagh also said the fraternity was disbanded after a number of occurrences including a disruption at Greek Sing, a hazing incident during pledge activation and a party which took place the weekend before finals in which furniture was burned in the driveway of the house.

Cavanagh said the fraternity was dissolved Monday of finals week and fraternity members were evicted from the house.

3,700 applications thus far, compared to 2500 at this time last year.

Pullen added that most students are requesting the maximum amount of $2,500, but the average loan is about $2,200.

Guaranteed student loans are paid by the federal government. Checks are sent in the student's name to the institutions where eligible students are enrolled, and the college or university disburses the funds, Pullen said.

Plan may strike student bargaining rep post

by Lola Burnham

A Summer Senate proposal to eliminate the position of student collective bargaining representative is being researched, Student Body President Bob Glover said Saturday.

The senate proposed eliminating the election and salary of the representative in order to save students money. The representative is currently paid about $1,200 a year.

Also, the representative is only active in collective bargaining for about two months each school year. After the two months, he is assigned other duties.

Glover said the fall senate must contact the Board of Governors and the University Professionals of Illinois because they may require the student collective bargaining representative to be elected.

The summer proposal gives the fall senate the option of making the position an appointive one or of turning the representative's duties over to the student body president or executive vice president.

Glover said if the position becomes appointive, he would appoint a student senator as representative with approval from the senate.

Beer jail newest promo

by Dan Brannan

Eastern's Athletic Director R.C. Johnson and Ray Smith, sports director for WEIC, are going to be held captive in a jail constructed of 100 cases of Miller beer in an effort to raise money for the Panther Club.

The 'jail' will be constructed at Gateway Liquors from 3 to 6 p.m. Tuesday.

In order to release Johnson and Smith all 100 cases of beer must be sold. Johnson said the castle of beer will spell out the letters EIU.

The gimmick will kickoff a 30-day promotion sponsored by H&I Distributing Company and WEIC radio station, in conjunction with Gateway Liquors. For every case of Miller beer sold, 25 cents will be given to the Panther Club, John Ward, representative of Gateway said.

Bob Swanson, of WEIC, said the beer is going to be sold at a minimum price of $7.50 a case.

"Any amount donated over the minimum price of $7.50 a case is also going to go to the Panther Club," Swanson said.

Swanson said each person who purchases a case of beer is going to be given a numbered certificate.

The day's activities will also be heard live on WEIC radio.

Tryouts scheduled

Baseball

A meeting for anyone interested in trying out for Eastern's baseball team will be held at 4:30 p.m. Wednesday in the west bleaches of Lantz Gym.

Players are encouraged to bring their own spikes and gloves to the tryout.

Baseball coach Tom McDevitt said there will be no spring tryouts except for players who wish to play baseball but are currently participating in a fall sport.

Volleyball

Tryouts for Eastern's women's volleyball team will be held at 9 a.m. Monday and Tuesday in Lantz Gymnasium.

Anyone interested in trying out for the team should contact women's volleyball coach, Carol Ann Gruber, in her office located downstairs in the northeast section of McAfee Gym.

Football

in the last three years.

But head coach Darrell Mudra, who in April considered leaving Eastern, has feelings similar to those of Christensen and Wojnowski about this season.

"We did lose a lot of people from last season, but potentially, we can become a better football team than we were last year," Mudra said.

Better than last year's 11-3 national runner-up squad which led the nation in interceptions and forced turnovers in all divisions?

"Yes, I did say better," Mudra emphasized. "We have a lot of good players. We have a lot of speed and good size and we have some experienced people in key positions."

Offensively, the Panthers will be led by the strong arm of Christensen, who, newly appointed offensive coordinator Mike Faulkner said the Panthers will use heavily this year.

"There is no hiding the fact that we will be a throwing football team, and a successful one," Faulkner said.

Christensen will be privileged in having to throw the ball to sure-handed senior tight end Rob Mehalic, a definite All-American candidate.

"I have coached in the Big 10 and the Big 8, and I have never seen a tight end with as much individual skill and talent as Mehalic," quarterback and receiving coach Tom Venturi said.

On the ground, Eastern is fortunate to have returning sophomore running back Kevin Staple, who led the squad in rushing last season with 576 yards.

Defensively, although the Panthers lost such greats as Pete Catan, Alonzo Lee, Clinton Davenport, Charlie Krutsinger, Don Pittman and Randy

Melvin, Mudra believes that overall, the Panthers' defensive unit is the strongest yet.

Maybe Christensen will be correct in his evaluation.

You see, Jeff does not plan on smoking his cigar until the Division I-AA national crown is in Charleston.

Gridders get set for journey down rough NCAA Division I-AA road

by Steve Binder

It seemed appropriate that Margret Ann Murray was born on Thursday, when Eastern's football program was in the midst of its annual press day.

Her father Tom, the Panther's strong side linebacker, came strolling in from the hospital at the end of the press session toting a box of cigars which were quickly distributed to team members and coaches.

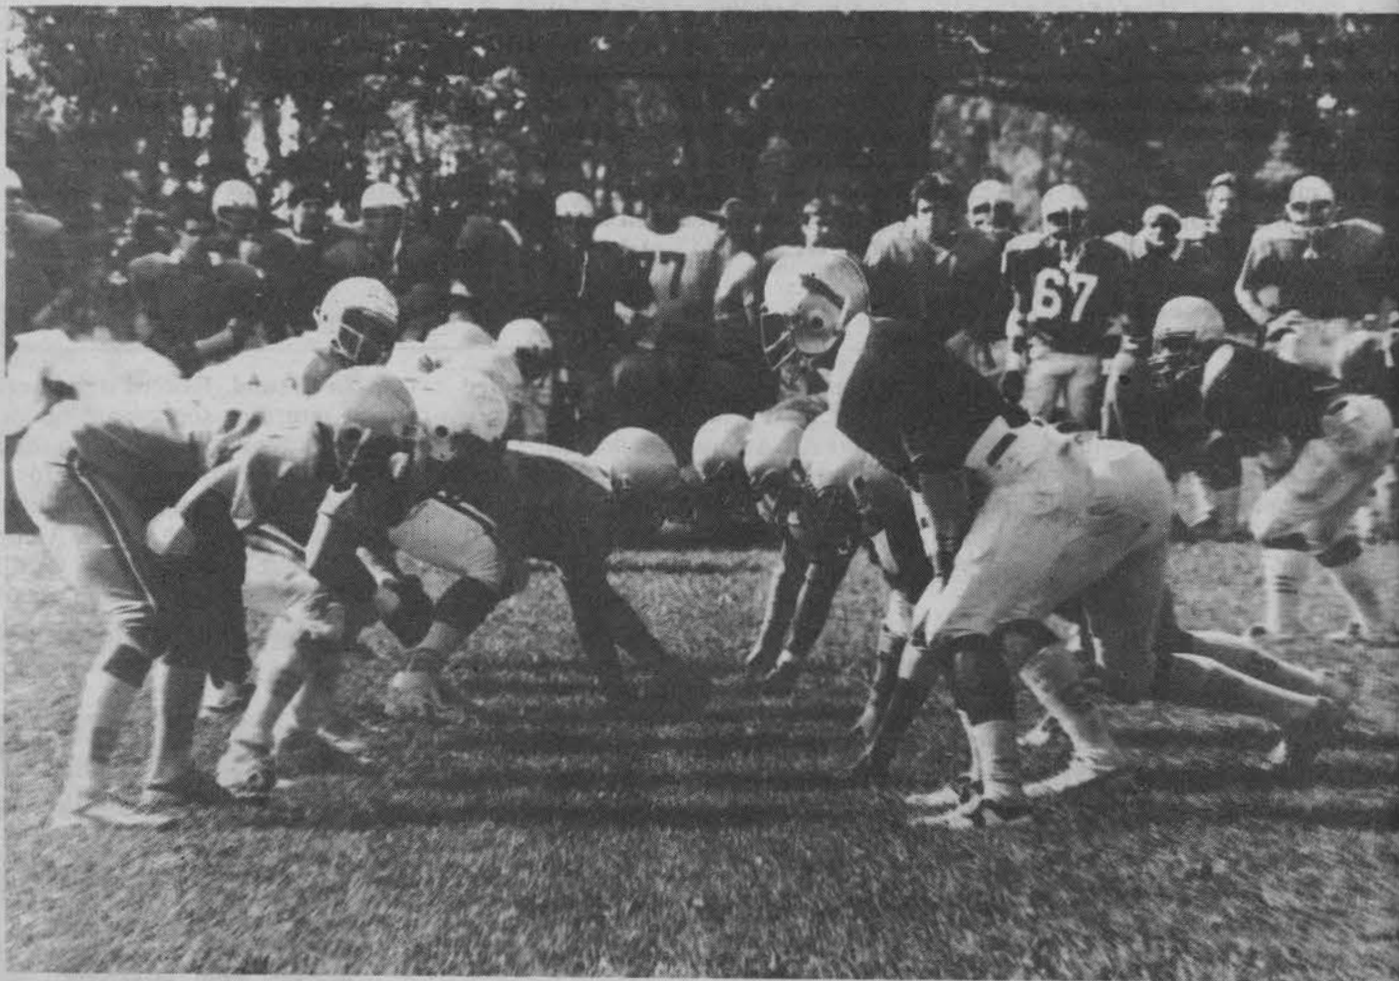

Those cigars were not just a result of celebration. Those cigars also symbolized the birth of Eastern's 1981 grid program into Division I-AA competition.

And while there were plenty of congratulatory handshakes given Murray, there existed just as much enthusiasm and optimism about the Panther's chances this season, which begin against South Dakota Sept. 5 in Vermilion, S.D.

"I really believe that we are going to have a super team this year," starting junior quarterback Jeff Christensen said. "I'm not the least bit worried about the potential of this squad."

"Here at Eastern, we have developed a habit of winning and I think that this will continue this season," defensive tackle Keith Wojnowski stated.

These are obviously confident statements, especially considering Eastern's grid history of a national championship and a runner-up finish (See FOOTBALL, page 11)

Eastern's 1981 football team, shown here lining up during a scrimmage, will rely on a sound defense to carry it through its first season at NCAA Division I-AA status. The Panthers, who will be led by a strong linebacking corps, will also boast an explosive passing attack behind the arm of Jeff Christensen. (News photo by Brian Cannon)

Despite line questions, defense looks strong

by Mike Prizy

Although Eastern's football program will change to Division I-AA this year, the Panthers' overall defensive strategy will remain the same, assistant head coach Chuck Dickerson said.

"At Eastern, we've developed the philosophy of attack and we are not going to change that philosophy," Dickerson promised.

Even though Eastern will be without the services of three of last year's phenomenal front four (Pete Catan, Charlie Krutsinger and Randy Melvin), Dickerson said he feels the defense will have at least the same success as last year's unit.

"We're going to play exciting turnover football. Our guys will constantly create problems with blocking schemes. We will blitz a lot. We are going to turn people over and give the ball to our offense," Dickerson said.

Newly appointed defensive coordinator Rick Schachner stressed that Eastern "will have exactly the same kind of football team defensively as last year. We won't change anything."

The only returnee in the front four is junior Keith Wojnowski.

Wojnowski started at left end last year, but will be moved inside to the tackle position.

"We believe he can read blocking schemes more effectively playing inside plus we need his experience at one of the tackle positions," Dickerson said. "He also has the quickest hands of any defensive linemen I've had at Eastern."

Head coach Darrell Mudra said he believes Eastern's defensively unit overall is stronger than a year ago.

"They obviously aren't as good as the people we had last year," Mudra said. "But defensively overall, I feel we are a much better unit."

One factor justifying Mudra's feelings are the linebackers.

This year's linebackers could be one of the best linebacker crews in the country. Linebackers Ira Jefferson, Tom Murray and Bill Mines are considered by Dickerson as "the best in the mid-west, bar none."

Jefferson and Murray are three year lettermen.

Mines is a two-year letterman although he shared playing time last season with defensive assistant Alonzo Lee.

However, Mudra and Dickerson's optimism about their defensive team extends beyond the linebackers to the secondary.

Eastern's defense led the nation for any division in interceptions and forced turnovers.

Schachner said the Panthers' secondary will be led by three-time letterman Wilbert James.

"Our reason for success will be because of James. He's our leader in the secondary," Schachner said.

Another reason for success will be free safety Kevin Gray.

The senior earned second team All-American honors for his performance last season.

Another reason for Schachner's confidence in the secondary is senior Kevin Jones.

"Jones has all the tools to be a prospect," Schachner said. "He has great size, speed and agility."

Freshman Elvin Carmichael uses his defensive maneuvers to work his way around his opponent during an Eastern practice. Carmichael is one of the Panther linemen vying for the three spots left on the eastern front four. (News photo by Brian Cannon)

The summer semester of 1981 produced a number of changes for both the campus and the community. The warm weather brought a number of summer students to the quarry in Charleston, and sparked a controversy on use of the "pool."

Workmen spent a lot of time renovating various campus buildings, and constructing new ones. The Tarble Arts Center is now being built behind the Buzzard Education Building.

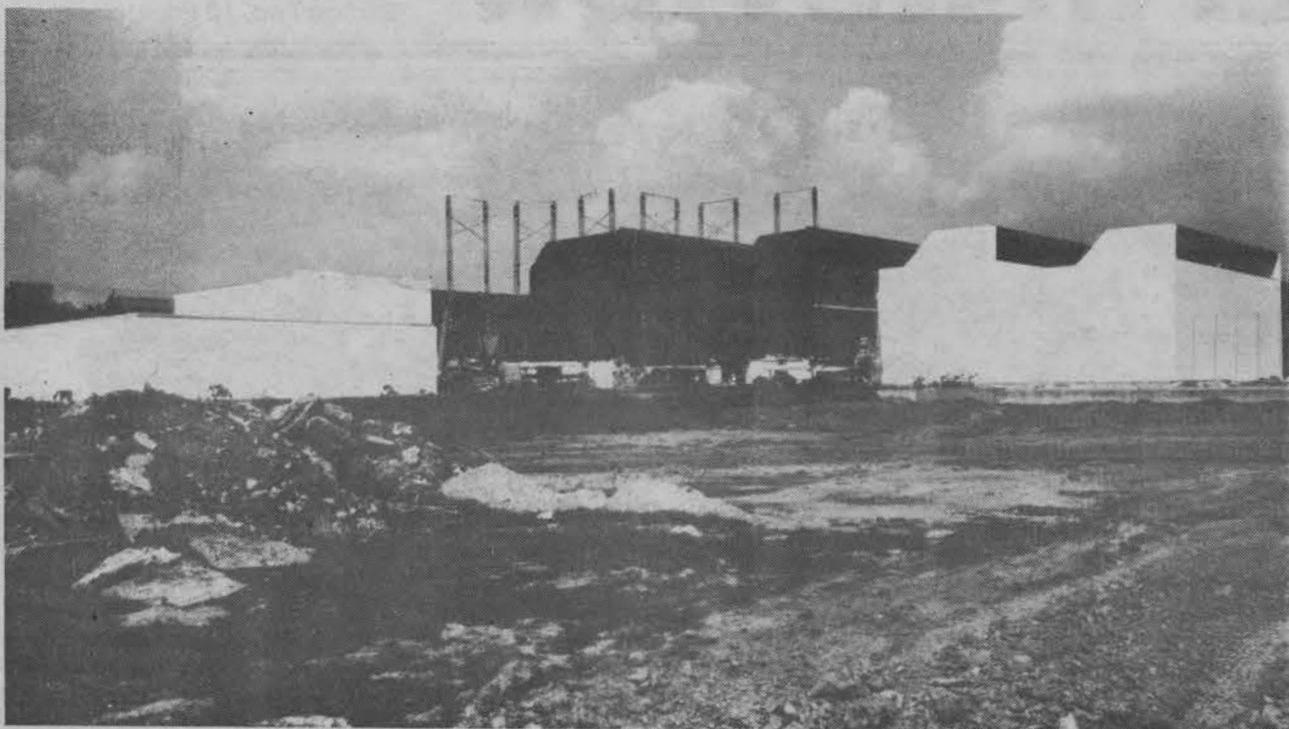

After school was out for the summer, the Eastern baseball team kept working to reach second place in the Division II World Series.

New businesses opened in Charleston, including a bicycle repair shop, a furniture shop, and fashion store.

National news like the end of the baseball strike brought both relief and anger to the people of Charleston, as some expressed it in store windows.

Eastern's facelift:

Summer construction on the Tarble Arts Center has shown the Eastern community that the reality of such a facility is near. Eastern officials have slated the building will be completed in the spring. (News photo by Tom Roberts)

TAC receiving funds as work continues

What was once referred to as Eastern's Tundra, the field south of Buzzard Education Building, will soon be partially occupied by the completed Tarble Arts Center.

TAC, which should be finished by spring 1982, will serve three main functions, Vaughn Jaenike, Dean of the School of Fine Arts, said.

The collection, exhibition and education of art will be the fundamental services provided by the center, Jaenike said.

The major portion of funding for TAC came from Eastern alumnus Newton Tarble, who, after his death in 1978, left $1 million in stocks to the University for construction of a cultural center.

After the initial donation by Tarble, which generated $200,000 in interest, fundraising campaigns were started and the total grew to more than $1.5 million.

Various alumni, faculty, civil service and student workers contributed to the campaign, which, although officially closed March 24, was still receiving donations over the summer, campaign coordinator Ken Hesler said.

"We are still receiving money from our mailing drives and other fundraisers," Hesler said in June.

Hardee's replaces PFM in Union food services

Hardee's Corporation took over management of the University Union food services in June, replacing Professional Food Management which had been operating the services since last August.

PFM pulled out because of financial losses.

Hardee's will be under a five-year contract which will be negotiated each year.

Hardee's will pay Eastern 8 percent of the adjusted gross in the Panther Lair and 3 percent of the gross in the Rathskeller. PFM returned 7.5 percent of sales to the university.

Prices will be comparable to the Hardee's in Charleston, Hardee's

District Manager Mike Dumbauld said.

Student will make up a large part of the employment force at food services, Dumbauld said.

Hardee's was considered last year when the university was looking for a manager of the services, but PFM was selected instead.

Buzzard work nearly finished after summer

by Melinda DeVries

Work completed during the summer allowed the renovations within the Buzzard Education Building to be "basically complete," Vice President for Administration and Finance George Miller said Friday.

In an effort to bring similar academic areas together, earlier this year four areas were allocated space in Buzzard—the School of Health, Physical Education and Recreation; Eastern's TV-radio station; and the speech communications and journalism departments.

The journalism department, including student publications, deemed as the area which would need the most work to move, completed its move last week.

Although the majority of the renovation was completed during the summer, minor work must still be finished in the area designated to student publications—mainly the Daily Eastern News.

Renovation work within the Buzzard Auditorium to convert the area into a TV-radio station is "a bit more involved and therefore needs to be phased in," Miller said.

Summer renovation work within the TV-radio facility included the erection of a wall to separate the stage from the classroom area.

Although offices were renovated during the summer to house five speech communication faculty members, Miller said those faculty will not move into the offices until the TV-radio facility is completed.

Miller said no renovation work needed to be completed in the areas designated to the School of Health, Physical Education and Recreation and classes will be held in the area this semester.

Pay back

Students repay awards to ISSC

by Peggy Schneider

Students receiving aid from the Illinois State Scholarship program were required to pay back part of the award to Eastern this summer to cover a $2 million shortfall incurred by the program last year.

Nearly 80 percent, or 930 of 1,135 Eastern students receiving the aid paid back part of their awards, Associate Director of Financial Aid John Flynn said last week.

Students who did not pay the refund will have their college records withheld until they do pay.

Students who had an unmet financial need of $600 or less had their awards reduced. The unmet financial need is determined by taking into consideration all the financial aid available to the student and subtracting it from the cost of education.

Originally, all students were asked to repay a straight 10 percent figure, but that plan was changed in May because of the negative feedback claiming unfairness that the commission received.

The commission then came up with a plan to reduce 33,000 awards of students with an unmet financial need of less than $1,000 by as much as $100, but that plan gave way to the present plan which reduced the number of students affected by the pay-back.

A request to the Illinois General Assembly to take $3 million from this year's budget to cover the shortfall was killed by the legislature in June.

BOG approves research funds for new building

by Yvonne Beeler

Due to space limitations and renovation barriers, the School of Business may be moved into a new facility.

In July, the Board of Governors approved $378,000 in planning money, which School of Business Dean Ted Ivarie said would be used to look into the possibility of constructing a new facility in the block between Seventh and Ninth streets, across from the heating building.

The money will be used to buy preliminary sketches from architects and determine the cost of the structure, he added.

Although the BOG has approved the money, the Illinois Board of Higher Education along with the Illinois Capital Development Board, General Assembly and Gov. Jim Thompson must approve the allocation.

In an effort to propose renovations for the School of Business' current facilities—mainly Blair Hall—the state Capital Development Board came to Eastern earlier this year. The board, however, told Eastern officials that the facility could not be expanded.

"Renovations are impossible; a new building is the only answer," Eastern President Daniel E. Marvin said.

Ivarie said the board's major reasons for not renovating Blair Hall were the building's age, lack of space and original design.

Fall Senate to hear summer proposals

by Lola Burnham

Proposals made in the summer concerning topics as varied as mass transit and stadium seating will be presented to the Student Senate for action this fall.

The Summer Student Senate, which makes recommendations to the Fall Senate, formulated proposals concerning the mass transit plan, grade requirements for student government members, bleachers in O'Brien Stadium and the collective bargaining representative position.

A recommendation to end research into the proposed mass transit system and turn all research over to the Coles County Regional Planning Commission will be made due to an increase in tuition and fees in fall 1981, Student Body President Bob Glover said during the summer session.

The Summer Senate will recommend that a grade point average requirement for all government members be presented to students in a referendum this fall.

Student senators are currently the only government members required to maintain a grade point average of 2.3 as a result of a referendum passed last spring.

A proposal will also be made that the Intercollegiate Athletic Board be requested to purchase bleachers for the east side of O'Brien Stadium.

Glover said money for the bleachers could be raised through bond revenue.

Additional seats may be needed if lower ticket prices draw larger crowds to football games this semester. The Senate will wait until several home games have been played to determine if the seats are needed.

A final proposal will be made to the Senate to consider eliminating the election and salary of a collective bargaining representative. Elimination of the position would save Eastern about $1,200.

Glover said the representative's duties only last two months of the school year. After the two months, he is assigned other jobs.

Eastern's facelift:

Jon Laible

John Beabout

Acting dean Laible appointed arts and sciences dean in June

Acting as dean of the College of Arts and Sciences since last August, Jon Laible was appointed in June as the new dean of the college.

The position became vacant as a result of the retirement of former dean Lawrence Ringenberg last year.

As part of his new job, Laible said he is seeking ways to accomplish more direct communication with the faculty.

The new dean said he would prefer that a faculty member come directly to him when a problem or concern arises, rather than having the department chairman or respective dean relay the concerns.

He added no drastic changes will be made within the college because the College of Arts and Sciences is currently "in good shape."

Beabout to head Radio-TV center

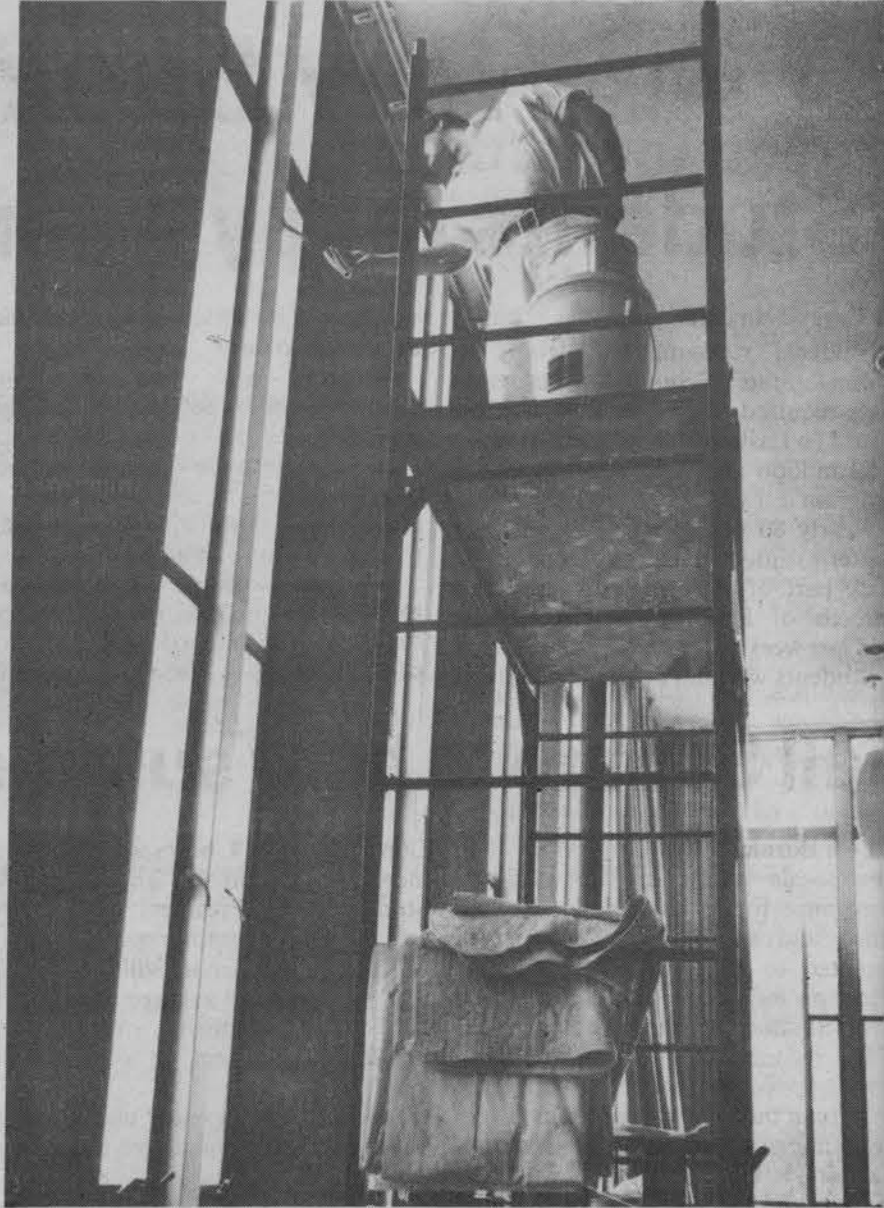

A former Pennsylvania college telecommunications department chairman was named director of Eastern's proposed radio-tv facility in May after a two-month search.

John Beabout arrived from his former post at Kutztown State College in Kutztown, Pa. in July to take charge of the proposed radio-tv station which will be set up in the old auditorium stage area in the Buzzard Education Building.

Beabout also held positions at Purdue University and universities in New York and Ohio.

He was chosen from a field of four candidates.

Workman, Fred Casner, spent his summer days painting in the Union Old Ballroom as part of the campus renovation projects this summer. (News photo by Tom Roberts)

Eastern's facelift: Union gets facelift as repairs continue

By Betsey Guzior

The sagging floor of the University Union Old Ballroom was repaired during the summer months, and plans for renovation of the first floor of the Union are underway.

The cause of the sagging floor, discovered last spring, was found to be a crumbling concrete base around the beams, University Union Area Head Bill Clark said.

Work began July 6, and lasted three weeks. The ceiling of the first floor of the Union below the Old Ballroom was removed, and new concrete was poured around the beams.

In its first renovation, the Old Ballroom underwent other changes.

New drapes and light fixtures are to be installed, and new tile was placed on the floor of the Old Ballroom.

The first floor of the Union, damaged by fire last year, is also currently in the process of being renovated into a lounge and craft area. Within the next school year, work will begin on the first phase—converting the area outside the cafeteria into a lounge area.

A second phase of the project will be construction of a craft area where the cafeteria kitchens are located.

Workmen chop out floor tiles in the University Union Old Ballroom in preparation for pouring new concrete. A say was discovered in the floor last spring and raised questions about safety. (News file photo)

Changes for disabled underway

Construction designed to make Eastern's campus more accessible to the handicapped continued throughout the summer, with the bulk of the work completed in time for the fall influx of students.

Projects included the addition of an elevator at the rear of Old Main, which remains under construction, sidewalk ramps, curb cuts, and the remodeling of classrooms into corridors for access to Old Main's elevator.

The construction is being done in compliance with Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973, which requires all Illinois university campuses to be made accessible to the handicapped.

General study math waived by CAA for high ACT scores

by Yvonne Beeler

In summer action, the Council on Academic Affairs established an exemption from the three semester hour mathematics requirement for students with an ACT math score of 26.

Currently Eastern students with an ACT score of 26 in English are exempt from three hours credit of English, and with the summer action, the CAA attempted to bring a math exemption to the level of the English exemption.

The difference between the two is that a student exempt from English is awarded three hours of credit, while a student exempt from math receives no credit.

The exemption does not excuse the student from other math requirement in the various disciplines, just the general education requirement.

The exemption will go into effect this fall.

In addition to the math exemption, the CAA also revised the academic appeals policy this summer.

The proposed policy met with no opposition in July and states that a student who disapproves of a given grade can appeal to the Academic Waiver Committee where action is final.

Marvin gives nod to senate issues

by Lola Burnham

Results from three spring student referendums and one Student Senate proposal were approved early in June by Eastern President Daniel E. Marvin.

Marvin gave his approval to the use of recall to remove a Student Senate member from office. Students voted in April for the ability to petition to recall a senator who is not doing his job.

Marvin also approved a student referendum that will require student senators to maintain a 2.3 grade point average.

Senate members previously had only to maintain a 2.0 gpa.

A revision to the Student Senate constitution that will allow vacant senate seats to be filled by petition was also accepted by Marvin.

Students seeking a vacant seat will need a petition with 25 signatures, a recommendation from the Legislative Leadership Committee and approval from two-thirds of the senate.

The senate proposal to change membership of the Publications Board was also approved. The board will now have 11 members: six students, two faculty members, one university administrator and five non-voting ex-officio members.

Old Main to receive funds as result of Register listing

Old Main, Eastern's own "castle", was designated in early July as a historic landmark in the National Register of Historic Places, a national listing of historically significant buildings across the United States.

The building, which stands at the north end of the campus, houses administrative offices, and Affirmative Action, foreign student advisement, admissions and records offices.

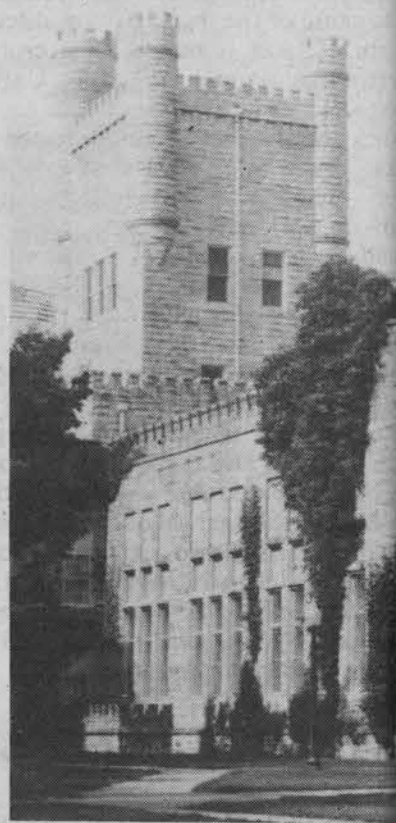

The math department and classrooms are also located there.

The structure, built in 1899, was first modernized with the conversion from gas lighting to electric lighting and installation of central air conditioner in 1963.

In 1979 a series of renovations began. Utility systems on the third floor and the west end of the second floor were completed in fall 1980.

Classrooms and offices on the second and third floors were also remodeled.

Current renovations include the construction of an elevator on the south side of the building's east wing as part of plans to increase handicapped accessibility to Old Main.

Old Main, Eastern's turreted "castle," was named to the National Register of Historic Places this summer.

Landlord charges make police watchful of parties

by Dru Sefton

Two Charleston landlords were charged with "letting premises for unlawful purposes" this summer as a result of the Charleston police keeping a closer eye on what they and area residents feel are loud or unruly parties.

Landlord Ron Tarvin was found not guilty after a complaint was filed against him by the Charleston police. The complaint stemmed from a party that was held April 10 at 1605 Ninth St., property Tarvin owns.

Charleston police have said they will be watchful of students' loud parties this fall and warn that charges in connection with the loud parties could be filed against both the tenants and landlords.

Construction bids to be let on upgrading of local road

by Mickey O'Connell

Construction bids for the Humboldt-Bushton road project will be let Sept. 2 after the Coles County Board submitted its approval for the repairs on Aug. 12, Coles County Highway Superintendent Randal Malone, said.

The Humboldt-Bushton road, which stretches eight miles between Routes 130 and 45, will possibly become a major east-west passage after the upgrading has been completed, he said.

Currently only two miles near the center of the stretch have been let for construction bids. The repaving and widening of the section will cost an estimated $320,000 in the form of a federal aid grant designated for the secondary route.

Other area construction projects include a new bridge on Route 130 by Lake Charleston, Jim Fizer of the Illinois Department of Transportation, said.

The bridge will replace the covered through-tress structure located over the Embarras River.

New surfacing on either side of the bridge site and improved road grades will also be included in the renovations which are scheduled for completion in October.

The cost of the project is estimated at $2 million.

New shops have opened in the area over summer

by Dru Sefton

Several new businesses moved into the Charleston area over the summer months, Charleston Area Chamber of Commerce representative Joan Wright said.

One of the new businesses is Sycamore, a shop offering junior fashions for both men and women. The shop is located on Lincoln Avenue in the Charleston Plaza, the same plaza housing the Eisner and Osco stores.

Pages Plus, a bookstore featuring paperbacks, is another new store in the plaza. Sit N Sleep, a shop offering bedding, furniture and chairs, is also a new business in the plaza, Wright said.

Pinderosa, located on Jackson Street just east of the square, is a new store specializing in pine furniture. Also new on the square is Super-Sav, a discount warehouse food store.

Wright said two more businesses, a bakeshop and an arcade, are planned to open on the square later this year.

Construction of a mall proposed to city council over the summer

by Mickey O'Connell

Construction for a new mall located 1,300 feet from the intersection of Route 130 and Lincoln Avenue was proposed in July at a Charleston city council meeting.

Jerry Bennett, of Eli Sidwell and Associates developers of the mall, said the shopping center will cover over 120,000 square feet and is approximately one-third the size of the Mattoon Mall.

Stores in the new mall will include a

Wal-Mart, a supermarket-drug store, which has not yet been contracted, and 10 smaller shops, Bennett said.

Bennett speculated that the opening of the shopping center will provide more than 200 jobs for area residents.

The cost of the project is estimated at $6 million which the city council recently agreed to issue in the form of industrial revenue bonds.

Construction will begin in March 1982, with a tentative completion date near the end of that year.

Fourth place finish makes handball dream come true

by Dave Claypool

What began as a distant dream became reality for 15 Eastern students this spring.

The Eastern handball team, in its first competitive outing since becoming organized last February, finished fourth in the six-team Chung Jeng World Cup International Youth Handball Championship in Taipei City, Taiwan in April.

"We played super and received several fine comments from people, especially when they found out that we hadn't played much," Eastern faculty member and handball trip coordinator Bill Buckellew said. "We lost the first three games, but then won the last two in the tournament."

Eastern's squad, the only one from the United States at the championships, was organized and coached by Chen-Hsing Haung, world famous handball coach currently on leave from Kaohsiung, Taiwan, and serving as a visiting professor in the physical education department here.

"We improved every game scoring 13 points the first game and 25 in the last," Buckellew said. "We did get invited back next year plus we received an invitation to the world's largest tournament in Italy in 1982. But it's too early to make any commitments."

While the competition was fierce, it was incidental compared to the hospitality of the Taiwanese who wined and dined the visiting teams, Buckellew said.

The teams, which were housed together in a Taipei hotel, attended banquets hosted by organizations such as the Amateur Sports Association, Bureau of Education, Taipei County Government and Olympic Committee.

Netters fare well in tournament

Eastern's women's tennis team finished with an impressive 12th place in the Association for Intercollegiate Athletics for Women national championships in Charleston, S.C. in June after capturing the regional title in Detroit, Mich.

The squad finished with a 5-1 overall record in the spring. The team's only loss during the regular season was a close 5-4 decision to Illinois State.

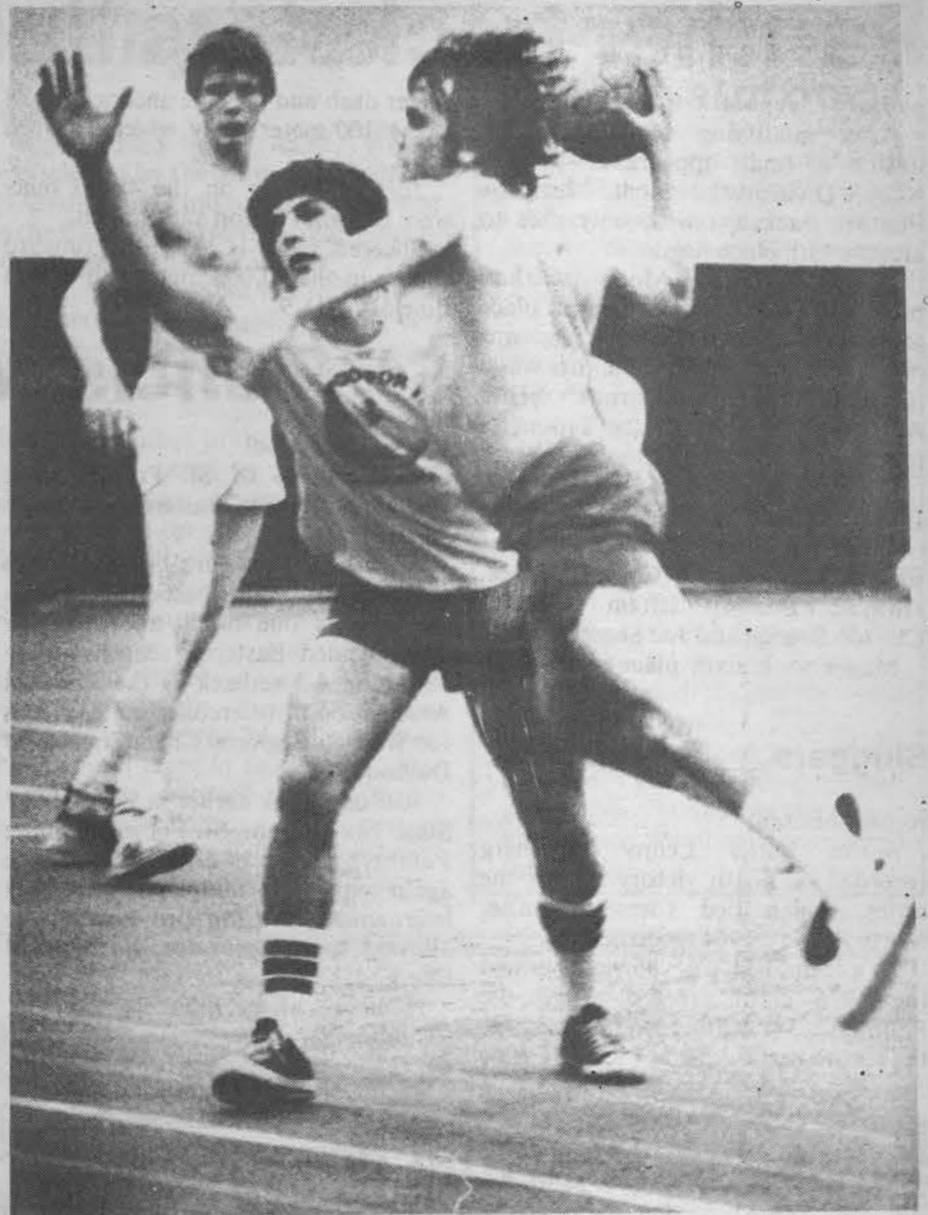

Eastern's men's netters highlighted its 1981 season by taking three first places and finishing third overall in the Mid-Continent Conference Tournament.

The squad ended the season with a 11-8 overall record against senior colleges and a 14-10 slate against community colleges.

No. 4 E.J. Karsten and No. 5 Rob Hopkins emerged victorious in their respective singles division.

Hopkins and Tim Buick were the only other MCC victors, winning the No. 3 doubles competition.

Panther tracksters finish 13th at nationals

by Dave Claypool

After qualifying 16 runners for Eastern's final appearance at the NCAA Division II National Meet, the Panther tracksters were only able to attain a 13th place finish.

Panther Coach Neil Moore, who had predicted his squad would place somewhere in the top 10, was disappointed as only one Panther was a national champion, that being Augustine Oruwari in the 110-meter hurdles.

Oruwari captured the title with a 13.9 timing in the event.

Other All-Americans from the Eastern group were Claude Magee, Dwayne Brown, Efrem Horton, Clayton Branch and Joe Sheeran.

Magee took sixth place in the 100-meter dash and was the anchor man of the 4x100-meter relay which finished sixth.

Joining Magee on the 4x100 relay were Brown, Horton and Branch.

Sheeran, who is a senior, finished fourth in the 10,000 meter run with a time of 30:11.9.

Winning the overall championship for the second straight year was California-PolySan Luis Obispo.

Yet, while Moore was disappointed with the Panther showing at the national meet, he said he felt the overall season was a success.

"The season was highlighted with Oruwari's performance in the hurdle at the national championship," he said. "We also had an excellent showing from the relays at Drake and we won the conference championship as a team."

Eastern's track team will move to Division I status next year.

St. Francis ends softball bid in tourney

by Dave Claypool

The College of St. Francis twice spelled doom for Eastern's women's softball team.

In the Panthers' final two tournaments of the season, St. Francis was always one notch ahead as the Saints ended Eastern's season with a 12-inning 4-3 setback in the Midwest Association of Intercollegiate Athletics for Women Regional Championship at Dayton, Ohio.

Just one week earlier in the IIAW State Tournament, St. Francis kept the Panthers from capturing a crown once again with a 2-1 nudging, but in that tournament, the top two teams were allowed to compete for the regional title.

However, at the Panthers' expense, St. Francis' regional title was the lone ticket to the national tournament.

Thus, the lady Panthers finished a most productive season with a 22-11 slate.

An added positive note to the season came when Eastern's junior center fielder Penny Berg was named to the AIAW Division II All-American team.

In 29 games, Berg posted a lofty .311 batting average with 11 RBI.

Attaining All-State honors from the Panther squad were Berg, shortstop Nancy Kassebaum, catcher Kelly Waldrup and pitcher Donna Ridgway.

And while Panther coach Deanna D'Abbraccio was pleased with her squad's 1981 showing, the prospects for 1982 seem even brighter.

"We had only one senior on the team and I am really excited that everyone is coming back next year," she said.

Senior hurler Lenny Lundberg recorded his tenth victory during the series, which tied former Panther Marty Pattin's 1964 record.

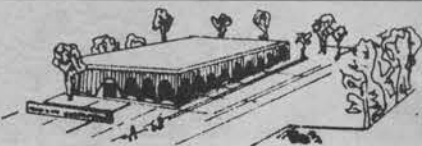

As a team, Eastern's 36 victories tied the 1976 club's record while the Panthers' .341 batting average became the season best.

Three former sluggers nabbed by pros

by Dan Brannan

Three former Eastern baseball players, who helped lead the Panthers to a second place finish in the NCAA Division II World Series, are currently playing for the pros.

Tim Pyznarski, a first round selection by the Oakland Athletics and the 15th player chosen in the Major League Baseball Draft, currently plays for the Modesto A's in the California League.

A First Team Division II All-American, Pyznarski was drafted higher than any Eastern athlete in any sport. He hit .443 last season while smashing 12 Panther season and career records.

Dan Kiser, general manager for the A's, said Pyznarski has been struggling with his hitting since joining the squad in June.

"Pyznarski has been playing the outfield primarily so far," Kiser said. "He has a great attitude and plenty of talent, but he has had a hard time adjusting from college to professional baseball."

Righthanded hurler Randy Weibel was selected by the Minnesota Twins in the 25th round, and has been stationed in the Class A Midwest League playing for the Wisconsin Rapids.

Weibel compiled an 8-3 record with the Panthers last season, striking out 70 batters in 78 innings of work while earning Division II All-District honors.

Pitcher Elliot Skorupa was Eastern's final player taken in the draft. Chosen in the 36th round by the Montreal Expos, Skorupa is now playing for Jamestown in the Class A New York-Pennsylvania League.

Eastern currently has six former Panthers playing professional baseball.

Pat Rooney is an outfielder with Denver, Montreal's Class AAA team in the American Association. Ken Westray pitches for Montreal's West Palm Beach team in the Florida State League and catcher Marty Pulley competes with Toronto's Class A farm club in the Carolina League.

Marvin requests removal of box

Physical plant workers dismantled the president's box at O'Brien Stadium this summer to acquire more room for reserved seating.

The box, which seated 136 people, was torn down at President Daniel E. Marvin's request. Marvin said the box was demolished to accommodate a greater demand for reserved season tickets.

Most people request good seats with their tickets and the box was located on the 50 yard-line directly in front of the press box on the west side, Athletic Director R. C. Johnson said.

Johnson said the move would help with ticket sales.

The box was used to seat the president's guests at home football games. Marvin and his guests will now watch Panther games from the south end of the press box.

Sluggers end with best year ever

by Steve Binder

As many students began their hometown occupations over the summer, Eastern's baseball squad unexpectedly became the second best Division II team in the nation, the Panthers finest performance ever.

On May 17 Eastern defeated the University of Nebraska—Omaha 14-7 for the Midwest Regional title and the right to appear in the NCAA II World Series.

"The season has been a tremendous success regardless of what happens from here on," head coach Tom McDevitt said following the victory.

After a disappointing 12-3 loss to Troy State in the opening round of the series, Eastern bolted back with three straight victories over LeMoyne, Troy State and the University of California—Northridge, setting up the Panthers' championship contest against Florida Southern.

Despite losing the title game 9-0, Eastern's seasonal performance surpassed its fifth place finish in 1978, the only time a Panther team competed in the NCAA II World Series.

The 1980-81 sluggers also set or tied 15 individual and team records, with NCAA II First Team All-American Tim Pyznarski smashing 12 of those (See SLUGGERS, page 10)

New faces:

Grid, netters, field hockey hire new coaches

by Lola Burnham

Six new faces were added to Eastern's coaching line-up during the summer.

Four coaches were hired to fill vacancies in the football staff, and head coaches were hired for women's volleyball and field hockey.

Football

On the football scene, Mike Faulkner was hired as offensive coordinator to replace Dennis Shaw who resigned at the end of last season.

Faulkner was formerly head coach of the Carolina Chargers of the semi-pro American Football Association.

Before that, he assisted in coaching the New York Giants, Washington Redskins, and the Toronto Argonauts of the Canadian Football League.

Faulkner is a 1969 graduate of West Virginia Tech where he captained the football team as a quarterback and safety.

Tom Venturi joined the staff this summer as quarterback and receiver coach, a position he held for the past three years at Northwestern University.

Before taking his job at Northwestern, he spent two years at the University of Missouri as a part-time assistant coach.

He graduated from Western Illinois University in 1976 where he lettered two years as a wide receiver under current Eastern Head Coach Darrell Mudra. He earned his master's degree while at Northwestern.

Tom Westhoff was hired as the tight end coach.

He comes to Eastern after coaching tight ends at Northwestern for one year. Prior to that he directed tight ends and linebackers at Centerville (Ohio) High School.

While attending Dayton University, Westhoff was named an all-conference linebacker and lettered three years.

A face which will be familiar to Panther fans, but new to the coaching scene, is Alonzo Lee. Lee will act as defensive assistant.

For the past three years, Lee has been the Panthers' middle linebacker, earning First Team All-Conference honors last season.

Volleyball

An experienced Carol Ann Gruber was hired as head volleyball coach. She replaced Lynette Nevins who resigned in mid-season last year.

Gruber brings five years of experience to Eastern. Most recently she coached volleyball and track and field at the University of Northern Iowa. She also served as assistant track coach at the University of Southern California and junior varsity volleyball coach at Whittier College, Calif.

She graduated in 1975 from California State University and earned her master's degree in 1978 from the University of Southern California.

Field Hockey

Beth Reichel was hired as field hockey's new head coach after former coach Betty Temple resigned in June.

Born in New Jersey, Reichel graduated from Slippery Rock College in Pennsylvania and is currently doing graduate work at Northern Illinois University.

Although new to college coaching, she has coached at summer camps in New Jersey for the past three summers. She has also participated in the Central Illinois League which oversees field hockey clubs.

"I'm really optimistic about the team this year because we have eight returning starters which is a good base for the program," she said.

Mudra shelves resignation idea

by Steve Binder

After his re-evaluation of Eastern's football program, head coach Darrell Mudra, once anxious to leave the Panthers, decided in June that he will remain at the helm for at least another year.

In April, Mudra stated that he probably would resign his post after spring practice because of personal and administrative reasons.

"I didn't intend to coach this football team," Mudra said Thursday. "I thought about doing other things I wanted badly to do."

"There were a number of factors that prompted my decision to remain as head coach. First, I'm excited about the program's advancement to NCAA Division I-AA. We had an above-average recruiting season and have put together a new offensive coaching staff with some enthusiastic ideas.

"Spring practice was encouraging, plus the administration has been supportive of the coaching staff's efforts to improve the program. My decision was based on these positive factors."

Athletic Director R.C. Johnson and assistant head coach Chuck Dickerson expressed their satisfaction with Mudra's decision.

"He has done an excellent job," Johnson said. "There is no one else I would prefer to lead our football program into Division I-AA."

"As long as he is here," Dickerson stated, "we are a national championship caliber team. Darrell is our catalyst and without him, we are just separate parts."

In 19 seasons of coaching experience, Mudra has compiled an impressive 140-59-2 record, and while Eastern's grid program competed in Division II, Mudra won the most games as the division's active coach.
