Police initiate off-campus party policy

by Patty O'Neill

In an effort to crack down on parties hosted by students and residents, the Charleston police department has initiated a new policy of issuing one warning before an arrest for disturbing the peace.

Charleston Police Chief Maurice Johnson, who was invited to discuss the off-campus party policy Wednesday at the Student Senate meeting said the police "like parties too," but they have to be controlled.

He said if a complaint is filed with the police department, an officer will go to the party and warn those giving the party.

If the officer has to return, all those warned will be arrested, he said.

"We try to give the people giving the party the benefit to comply with the complaint. We will give one warning and that is all," Johnson said.

He added the arrest would have to be justifiable. "If an officer can hear the music or noise two to three blocks away with his windows up, then it is justifiable."

Those in charge of the party can be arrested any time of the day or night for disturbing the peace, he added.

He said an officer can file a complaint for disturbing the peace.

He explained, "We don't go out looking for parties. We don't like to go to them, but if we drive by and hear the noise then we will give a warning."

Johnson told the senate he is looking into the possibility of using a party permit, but added he is awaiting further information on party permits in other cities.

A permit, if initiated, would be filed in advance with the police department with information as to how many people will be attending, how many kegs of beer will be served and who will be responsible.

Johnson said it is illegal to sell cups or beer at a party. He also added that as long as there were no minors present, donations could be accepted, if they are not solicited.

Spring plan to prevent class sales

by Yvonne Beeler

Eastern administrators have plans to develop a system to prevent students from offering money for business classes by the next registration period.

Eastern President Daniel E. Marvin said Vice President for Academic Affairs Stanley Rives, School of Business Dean Ted Ivarie and Student Academic Services Dean Samuel Taber are working together to develop a system whereby students will not be able to drop and add courses at the same time.

"The system will definitely go into effect by the next registration period," Marvin said.

Last week, students sold prerequisite courses to others in add-drop lines in order to enroll in the business courses for the fall semester.

The business department has been suffering from overcrowdedness this semester, resulting in sections closing with students unable to enroll in the courses needed.

Students were offered $20 and $30 for courses. One student was offered as much as $70 and a case of beer for her course.

"I've never known this to happen before," Marvin said.

Marvin said Rives had called him at home after the first day of drop and adds to inform him of students offering money for the business courses.

"He said we had a problem; a student had sold a card for a business class and that he was working with Ted Ivarie and Samuel Taber to solve the problem," Marvin said.

"With the system they developed, I think we'll get the problem under control," Marvin added.

City council approves mall permit

by Peggy McMeen

Charleston residents and students can look forward to a new shopping center after a conditional use permit was approved for the center by the city council at its meeting Tuesday night.

The center will be located near the intersection of routes 16 and 130.

Commissioner Wayne Lanman said the approval is the last step in city procedures before construction can begin. Construction is tentatively set to begin in March 1982.

The conditional use permit met with unanimous approval by the council.

The council waived a two-to three-week period for the permit to be on file to the public, to let the developer "go ahead and start drawing plans," he said.

Because of the time of the year, "the delay might hurt construction," he added.

As of now, the proposed shopping center, East Towne Square, is "similar to Eisner's" in size, Lanman said.

The shopping center will be located east of Route 130 and south of Route 16 on land owned by Ed Buxton. The developer is McKensie Properties, Inc., of Chattanooga, Tenn.

The council's approval was the end of a long series of actions, commissioner Clancy Pfeiffer said.

First, the council acted "a couple weeks ago" to annex the land into the city, he said. Then the developer had to show the construction plans to the Board of Zoning, Appeals and Planning.

"The zoning board really makes the decisions" on the plans, Pfeiffer said. The zoning board approved the plans and granted a conditional use permit last Thursday.

By approving a conditional use permit, the city council "showed we were satisfied with the use of the land," Pfeiffer said.

"There's been a few people upset that it went through so fast, but when no one objects, there is no reason to delay procedure," he said.

BOG cost study could increase funding

by Yvonne Beeler

If the Illinois Board of Higher Education approves a Board of Governors cost study adjustment request of $413,300 in the operating budget, Eastern within five years will no longer be the most underfunded university in Illinois.

The cost-study adjustment portion of the budget was designed to bring those universities in the BOG system which were either underfunded or overfunded to an equal level of funding, Eastern budget officer, John Morrissey, said.

The BOG's plan for Eastern using the cost-study adjustment is to allocate additional funds to the university throughout a five-year period, he said.

The $413,300 figure allocated to Eastern represents one-fifth of the university's underfunded state.

Thomas Layzell, BOG Deputy Director/Director for Administration and Fiscal Affairs, said the IBHE will use fiscal year 1981 data in order to review the current request.

"The BOG, in 1981, was the first to recommend positive cost studies," Layzell said.

Layzell said the cost-study is a standard point of procedure in determining the budget. However, due to Eastern's underfunded state, the BOG is requesting $413,300 for Eastern, the largest amount of all BOG schools.

Layzell said the cost-study amount is not a static number, and could change next year depending on increases or decreases in Eastern's enrollment.

"Next year, we'll take another look at Eastern and the enrollment and see if a different amount is needed," he said.

Chemical treatment tested for dissolving gallstones

NEW YORK—A chemical normally found in the liver and the blood has been shown to be effective in treating gallstones, which afflict some 20 million Americans.

But the substance also has several harmful side-effects, and doctors say it will probably not yet replace surgery as the principal treatment.

The chemical, called chenodeoxycholic acid, or chenodiol, completely dissolved gallstones in 13.5 percent of patients given high doses. It partially dissolved the gallstones in 40.8 percent of those patients.

The two-year study of 916 patients was led by John Lachin of George Washington University in Washington, D.C.

Chenodiol also raised the cholesterol levels of most patients who received it, and there were signs it was dangerous to their livers.

Reagan hopes to improve organized labor relations

CHICAGO—In an effort to improve relations with organized labor, President Reagan is poised to reaffirm his belief in collective bargaining and deny charges that his is a union-busting administration.

But in excerpts from a speech he will deliver Thursday, Reagan defends his firing of nearly 12,000 air traffic controllers by drawing a distinction between strikes in private industry and illegal strikes against the government.

"Our very freedom is secure because we are a nation governed by laws, not by men," he will tell the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners. "We have the means to change laws we find unjust or onerous. We cannot as citizens pick and choose laws we will or will not obey."

Thursday's (AP) News shorts

"I can guarantee you that this administration will not fight inflation by attacking the sacred right of American workers to negotiate their wages," he will say. "We proposed to control government, not people."

His speech to the carpenters and joiners will be Reagan's first to a labor group since he fired the air controllers. His only other face-to-face appearance before a labor organization since becoming president was March 30, the day he was wounded in an assassination attempt after addressing AFL-CIO Building Trades representatives.

Future justice already worth more than $1.1 million

WASHINGTON—Sandra D. O'Connor, who is expected to be sworn in as the Supreme Court's first woman justice, has disclosed that she and her husband are worth more than $1 million.

The O'Connor's financial statement listed total assets of $1.6 million and liabilities of $48,000, for a net worth of about $1.1 million. If confirmed as expected, she not only would become the first woman member of the court but would be among its wealthiest members.

Justice Lewis F. Powell Jr. has listed assets of well over $2 million and Chief Justice Warren E. Burger has said his assets are in the $1 million range.

The O'Connor home, located in Paradise Valley, Ariz., is valued at $300,000 and a joint partnership interest with her husband in a private law firm worth $342,850.

John J. O'Connor III, Mrs. O'Connor's husband, is a senior partner in one of Arizona's largest firms.

'Hog wild' interstates prove hazardous for motorists

CHICAGO—Traffic on two Illinois interstate highways was snarled Wednesday by truck mishaps that scattered hogs, beef carcasses and cat food on the pavement.

Pieces of slaughtered cattle fell from a truck on I-55 southwest of Chicago when it swerved to avoid a car. Several fender-bender accidents occurred when motorists slowed to look at the cattle leg rumps and other parts being trucked to Chicago from Taylorville.

In the same area, a truck overturned, spilling 73,000 pounds of canned cat food onto the pavement. The driver was charged with driving while intoxicated.

On I-74 near Danville, traffic went hog wild when a tractor-trailer loaded with porkers flipped over. Police said some of the 500-pound hogs fell onto the highway, tying up traffic for several hours until troopers rounded them up.

Medical care costs soar other governmental units

WASHINGTON—Government figures show the cost of medical care in the United States has been rising at a faster rate so far this year than inflation.

Analysts blame the gains mostly on higher labor costs, a shortage of nurses, an increasing proportion of elderly patients and widespread insurance coverage.

Not only did escalating medical costs outstrip the general inflation rate in the first seven months of 1981, the Labor Department's Consumer Price Index show they rose at a faster pace than any of the other six components the government tracks in measuring inflation.

Funds allocated to send senators to conference

by Lola Burnham

The Student Senate voted Wednesday to approve expenditure of student government funds for up to six members to attend a student government conference in New Orleans this fall.

Student Body President Bob Glover told the senate the cost per student will be $300—paid for by activity fees. Government members who attend will have to pay their own food costs, Glover said.

Round-trip airline tickets will cost $200 each, Glover said, and conference registration fees per person are $100.

Glover said three to six people will attend the November conference. The conference could cost from $900 to $1,800.

The conference will cover a variety of topics dealing with student government, Glover said.

The senate approved three other summer senate proposals and tabled one for further consideration.

A proposal to eliminate the collective bargaining representative position was routinely tabled until next week.

The senate also voted to discontinue research into the mass transit system proposal for this semester. This means the senate will have to vote again next semester to end research.

Also approved was a recommendation to build additional bleachers in O'Brien Stadium. The proposal calls for bleachers to be constructed on the east side of O'Brien to seat fans, marching band members and visitors.

Glover said the construction costs will be paid in part by private donations and by bond revenue.

The senate also approved a proposal requiring all student government members to maintain a 2.3 grade point average.

Previously, executive and judicial officers were exempt from this requirement.

Large-scale drug outfit is busted

SPRINGFIELD (AP)—Five men were held on bail of up to $1.5 million each Wednesday on charges they ran a wholesale marijuana outfit from a secluded farmhouse a few miles north of here.

Authorities described the arrests and the seizure of 2,200 pounds of marijuana as the biggest drug bust ever in downstate Illinois.

The five were arrested Tuesday after four-day stakeout at a farmhouse near rural Andrew, Ill.

Authorities said the house was headquarters for a multi-million-dollar operation distributing large quantities of pot to dealers.

"They'd established a good business climate," said a grinning Kenneth R. Metcalf, state Division of Criminal Investigation area commander.

State and federal agents seized a total of nearly $175,000 in three separate raids, he said.

The pot, neatly packaged in bales covered with plastic and burlap bags, was worth up to $2 million on the street, according to agent Jeffery R. Kildow of the federal Drug Enforcement Administration.

"We're sure it involves a large-scale operation capable of trafficking in massive amounts of marijuana," Kildow said.

He said the investigation continued, based on records captured at the house.

"We'll be looking beyond these individuals. We want to implicate the highest level of dealer that we can," said Kildow.

Ordered held on $1.5 million cash bail each were Hector Silvera, 46, of Miami, and Richard Schair, 26, of Carbondale.

Survey results can foster action

Last spring's Housing Office survey to discover the complaints and problems of Eastern residence hall residents is worth repeating. The prompt action by the office to remedy some of the problems brought to light in the survey is also commendable.

The Housing Office took a survey of 20 percent of last year's hall residents to find the most common problems encountered by the residents.

One of the more frequent complaints, concerning the poor conditions of walls in Carman Hall's north tower, resulted in the hiring of three painters over the summer to paint the rooms.

Hopefully, other legitimate complaints brought to light in the survey will also result in some changes and improvement.

Surveys covering everything from Presidential popularity to favorite foods are a penny a pound these days, and the only notable aspect of many of them is that the survey takers cannot or do not act on the results. It is refreshing to see that at least one survey is not pitched into the wastebasket and the complaints and ideas contained in it sent sailing into oblivion.

The Housing Office's example should be followed by other areas on campus to find what student needs or wants may be. Instead of filing the results away, use them to improve student services. Such action would increase communication between factions on campus and help to improve Eastern's efficiency.

Student reaction is often the best gauge and a valuable tool to improving services or instituting new, more efficient ones. That includes not only housing, but food services, textbook library service, health service and many others. Students experience problems which staff supervisors may never discover and should be given a voice to express their concerns.

We also urge students, even though they may be faced with countless surveys, to take each seriously and provide reasonable answers, rather than hurriedly and thoughtlessly answering them.

Surveys can be an effective forum for airing complaints and to providing a chance for those problems to be solved. You have complaints and suggestions, so why not use them to your advantage?

Sports coverage varies like audience

Fall—it's probably the most popular time of the year with football being the center of attention.

And with football at the center of attention, other fall sports often tend to get lost in the news.

Readers have pointed that out, both in letters to editor this fall and in previous years and by verbalizing their concerns about sports coverage to The Daily Eastern News staff.

We're glad you're concerned.

Being a student newspaper, we're out to meet your needs as a student reader. Thus, we want to provide you with the sports coverage that will best serve your concerns, while giving each sport the coverage it warrants.

As readers with a variety of interests, we realize that our coverage will not necessarily reflect the emphasis that each reader feels a sport should have.

Avid soccer fans will obviously believe soccer should receive additional coverage, just as volleyball enthusiasts would look for more spiker articles.

Sports coverage in the Daily Eastern News is based mainly on the significance and importance of a sport or activity to the campus community. This judgment of significance is determined by the sports editor in conjunction with the news editor.

Consequently, because football continues to be the campus community's foremost sport interest, the grid program warrants more coverage than other fall sports.

News notes:

Steve Binder

The same will be true of basketball in the winter and baseball in the spring.

Conversely, because such sports as field hockey, tennis and rugby, deemed minor sports by the athletic department, are not of as great an interest to as large a segment of the university, they receive less coverage.

But the results of all these games will be covered on a prompt basis.

However, while significance and importance of the sport or activity is the main guideline in determining the amount of coverage given, they are not the only factors that determine coverage.

Space availability is also an important consideration which sometimes determines the content of the sports pages.

Occasionally lack of space does limit the extent of our coverage. However, no sport will be ignored simply because of lack of space on a given day.

We hope to fill our sports pages with up-to-the-minute coverage of all sports this year. In addition, we plan to expand our coverage to include intramurals and more features on individual players and sports-related features.

It is with you, the student reader in mind, that we planned these changes. Let us know what you think of our coverage.

Are you afraid of ♀ classes?

What is it about women's studies classes that scares the people, especially men, away and tends to draw only a handful of students to each class?

It has to be the image of hard-core feminists sitting in a classroom holding "ERA now!" signs that get them.

Please don't tell me it's anything worse than that. It can't be that guys are intimidated by the class or because the word "woman" is in the title.

But then why does a class like sex and politics, which had an enrollment of 22 students last fall and 20 in 1979, drop down to seven students this fall?

Well, the name of the course changed to women and politics. Could that be it? Please, no.

But that's the obvious reason.

And the chairman of the political science department said that he thought the name change could have resulted in the lower enrollment.

That doesn't speak too well about the students here—not singling out either sex.

Maybe the word "women" in a course title tends to limit the potential scope of the course and give it a "specialized" appeal that turns off but the most fanatical women's libbers on campus.

I can't buy that though. I've taken three women's studies classes at Eastern and I am far from being a fanatic or a women's libber.

Yet in each of those classes I've found myself surrounded by only a few women and a total of about five men in all three classes.

Another interesting fact is the enrollment in sociology's women's studies class, sex roles and social change, was much higher—about 25—than in classes with the word women in the title.

Yet the sociology class focused mainly on women's roles in different societies.

Maybe Eastern students aren't ready to know more about women and the roles they play in a number of different areas.

Maybe there's some hidden biases deep within some of us that even we don't recognize.

Letter Policy

The name and phone number of at least one author must be submitted with the letter. Letters submitted without a name (or with a pseudonym) will not be published. Names are withheld upon request.

Letters should be typewritten and not exceed 250 words. Letters longer than the 250-word limit will be cut with the writer's permission. Handwritten letters will be accepted but must be legible.

Vehicle deadline set for Oct. 12

Student contributions of poetry, short stories, plays, non-fiction, artwork and photography are being accepted until 4 p.m. Oct. 12 for The Vehicle, Eastern's literary magazine. Co-editors Sheila Katty and Betsy Crist said all manuscripts should be typed and double spaced. A separate card listing the contributor's name, address and telephone number should be included with the manuscript, they said. The separate card insures impartiality in judging, Katty said. All photographs and drawings must also include a separate card with the title of the entry and the contributor's name, address and telephone number. Photographs must be black and white and drawings must be in black ink, since nothing else can be reproduced. Katty said five judges, who are members of the English honorary fraternity Sigma Tau Delta, will read each manuscript. All contributions to the Vehicle should be placed in the Vehicle box in the English office, Coleman Hall Room 304.

Coleman cooling system no match for the weather

by Mike Nolan

Although excessive heat and humidity in classrooms have caused many complaints from students and teachers, Eastern lacks the funds for the needed repair or replacement of air-conditioning systems in some campus buildings, a Physical Plant official said Tuesday. Physical Plant supervisor, Marty Ignazito said the air-conditioning system in Coleman Hall, the source of several complaints, has periodically malfunctioned, requiring repair work. However, the system is currently functioning properly, Ignazito said. Not enough funds are available to carry out a continuous check-up on mechanical systems to prevent future malfunctions, Ignazito said. Over $1 million per year would be needed to provide adequate regular maintenance or to replace malfunctioning units, but no allocations are specifically budgeted for such maintenance or purchase and the Physical Plant's budget is inadequate to cover the work, Ignazito said. The air-conditioning units have malfunctioned because they are not designed to operate under continually hot and humid weather conditions, Ignazito said. Ignazito said most of the air-conditioning systems operate efficiently up to an outside temperature of 94 degrees, with little or no humidity, and up to 75 degrees when there is a high level of humidity. Since school has begun, temperatures have consistently been in the 80s, with high humidity levels. Systems designed to operate under conditions of less heat and humidity are bound to operate less effectively when pushed past their limit, Ignazito said. Under those conditions, the Physical Plant can do little about the complaints, he said. Cooling units in individual rooms of Coleman Hall have also malfunctioned when clogged with papers and garbage, Ignazito said. Not all campus buildings have cooling problems, Ignazito said. The cooling system operating in the Science Building is more than sufficient to keep the building cool because the system is designed for a building much larger, and is not overtaxed by the weather, Ignazito said. The system is large enough and was carefully designed so that heavy drains on it will not cause a breakdown, Ignazito added. Some teachers or students in humid classrooms open windows to start the air circulating, but the open windows have little or no effect, Ignazito said.

WELH to request funds from AB

by Cathy Crist

Apportionment Board member Mark Hudson will conduct an orientation session Thursday to get board members acquainted with board procedures and policies. The Apportionment Board will meet at 7 p.m. Thursday in the Union Addition Effingham Room. Financial Vice President Mike Nowak said he will not be able to attend the first meeting because of a prior engagement but is letting Hudson run the meeting in his place. In addition to briefing members, which will include six new members that were appointed at the student senate meeting Wednesday night, WELH, the campus radio station will present a funding request. Station manager, Jeff Morris said about $1,100 is needed to pay back old bills and to purchase new equipment. "Because we were in between faculty advisers for a while, some of our bills from last year weren't paid and we had to pay for them out of this year's budget," he said. He said WELH will also request money for equipment "to make a more professional station" such as tape recorders, new typewriters, and a new control board. "I don't know exactly why WELH is requesting money again. But I don't want to give them money just so they won't go into debt from their own budgeting problems," Nowak said.

Marty Ignatzito: Elevator shaft needed barrier

by Elise Dinquel

Plywood safety barriers were installed Wednesday around the open shaft of an elevator under construction in Old Main after several requests from Eastern's safety officer to the contractor to provide barriers.

Marty Ignatzito, safety officer of the Physical Plant, said he had asked the contractor several times to put up the barriers before they were finally installed.

"We have asked him (contractor Harry Martin) several times to do something about it, (the safety hazard) but he certainly hasn't given me any reason for not doing so," Ignatzito said Wednesday before he learned the barriers had been put up.

However, Martin, who is president of the Harry Martin Construction Co., which was hired to build the elevator, said that temporary barriers had been set up previously but were taken down by other tradesmen to free the area for their own work.

The barriers currently in place meet all safety measures and will remain up until construction is completed in October unless other tradesmen take them down again, Martin said.

Ignatzito also said it was not the responsibility of the Physical Plant to put up the barriers because it would have to take limited funds from other projects to do so.

Martin said that the lack of barriers was not caused by a financial inability to buy the material, although he said the material was "expensive enough" and involved labor costs.

"I have a deep concern for all students. If someone was hurt it would be my fault," Martin said.

ROTC to become independent program

by Linda Fraembs

Eastern's ROTC (Reserve Officer Training Corps) will become an independent branch Oct. 1, James C. Kantor, assistant professor of military science, said Tuesday.

As of that date, Kantor said, Eastern's ROTC will gain "host institution status."

The program here was previously an extension of the University of Illinois program, he added.

He said Eastern's program is expanding with the addition of two new instructors.

ROTC membership this fall has also expanded, with about 50 students enrolled, an approximate increase of 30 percent over last spring, Kantor said.

Students who take part in ROTC can spend "as much time as you want to put into it," Kantor said.

In addition to military science classes, there are extra-curricular activities that include an honorary fraternity and a rifle team, he added.

Kantor said an advantage of being involved in ROTC is the management and administration experience it gives students who want to enter the business world after graduation.

Although ROTC is a non-degree program, students who take the necessary courses can graduate with a minor in military science, Kantor said.

The minor gives students opportunity to earn a commission second lieutenant in the United States Army, he added.

Although ROTC experience does count as military service, Kantor said those who go directly from the ROTC program to active military service not have to spend any enlisted time.

There are two phases of the ROTC program, Kantor said—the Basic Phase and the Advanced Phase.

Freshmen or sophomores wishing to enter the Basic Phase can just "walk in and enroll in the basic classes" at the beginning of the semester, Kantor said.

Radio-TV plans progress

by Madeleine Doubek

Eastern could gain a national reputation for radio-TV facilities and for turning out competent, skilled radio-TV graduates if the new director of the Radio-TV Center has his way.

John Beabout, who arrived on campus in July to accept his new post, said Tuesday his planned improvements will be beneficial to both the university and the students.

Although he said he had some plans formulated, he said definite long-range plans will be devised between himself and an ad hoc advisory committee of faculty members.

The committee met Wednesday for the first time and offered suggestions and expectations for the center, he said.

Beabout said he would evaluate those recommendations and formulate his own definite long-range plans.

Beabout said he feels updating Eastern's old, inadequate facility is vital if Eastern wants to gain a national reputation in the area of radio-TV.

"A good national reputation will insure greater job placements for graduates and aid in recruiting many new students," he said.

A better equipped, larger radio-TV studio and lab facilities are currently being constructed in the auditorium stage area in Buzzard.

Beabout said he expects the television component of the center to be operable by Fall, 1982, and the radio station facilities to be ready in about two years.

Beabout added the proposed 3,000-watt FM radio station will take longer to begin operations because a Federal

John Beabout

Communications Commission license is required.

Applying for a license is a complicated process and is expected to take about one year, Beabout said.

Beabout said the purpose of the university-funded center will be to give on-hand training to students. Students will, therefore, receive training through their course work, he said.

He also said the television station, which will broadcast through cable, may also make community programming available to the students through Liberty Cable in Charleston and Mattoon Cablevision.

Beabout said he hopes to use the Radio-TV Center to, "improve relations between the Charleston community and the campus community."

Remedy wretched writing

Coleman Hall's Writing Center has solutions to paper problems

by Cathy Crist

Anxious freshmen receiving their first English 1001 assignment, history majors working on a term paper or anyone with a writing problem can turn to the recently established Writing Center for help.

The center, which opened Monday in Coleman Hall room 305, will provide assistance with any writing skill, whether required in a composition or a term paper, Jeanne Simpson, Writing Center director, said.

The center is staffed by eight graduate assistants. At least one, usually two, graduate assistants are available during the hours of 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Monday through Friday, Simpson said.

She said she hopes to expand the center's hours if the number of graduate assistants can be increased.

Ray Wallace, English graduate assistant, said, "We officially opened the center on Monday and we have already had several students coming in for help."

He said 12 students came in Tuesday to use the center during the first two hours it was open.

Simpson said she expected the center to be even busier when the first composition papers come due.

Graduate assistant Jim Lawlor said there is really no "typical" problem that students come to the center for help with.

"We don't write their papers for them or proofread their whole paper. We just help them write the papers themselves," Lawlor said.

Wallace said the graduate assistants may give out exercise sheets to help a student in an area, such as sentence structure; help students with theme ideas; point out and help correct problem areas in a student's writing skills, or just encourage the student.

Lawlor said, "The center is really a nice, relaxed atmosphere where students can get help without feeling like they will be yelled at or graded."

As an additional service, the center will soon be installing a Grammar Hotline to answer questions over the telephone about grammar, spelling, or punctuation.

Students are welcome to come to the center on a walk-in basis, but Simpson said most are referrals.

"We sent information about our services throughout the campus and we hope teachers will feel free to send students to us. The Writing Center will really help the teachers as well," Simpson said.

Besides saving the teachers time because they can spend less time covering basics such as grammar, teachers can also use the center as a source for teaching materials or skills.

"We have information on just about everything here," Simpson said.

She added that the center is not just for the use of English students. The center is available to any student needing help with writing skills.

Currently the English department is financing the project but Simpson said the center may soon be maintained through a New and Expanded or Improved Program Requests (NEIPR's) grant.

Low bids given for project

by Dawn Morville

Bids opened Wednesday for the construction of a two-mile section of the Humboldt-Bushton road project and Huckaba & Sons Construction Co. of Charleston offered the lowest bid of $282,445.

Darrell McMurray of the Springfield Bureau of Local Roads and Streets said Huckaba's bid "was considerably lower than the estimated cost of the project."

McMurray said the two-mile section of the road is estimated to cost $341,000.

He said a contract will be awarded on the project within three weeks.

Other bids on the project included $341,186 from Elton A. Wagner Co. of Danville; Howell Asphalt Co. of Mattoon bid $317,773; and a bid of $307,857 was received from Mautz & Oren, Inc. of Effingham.

A.J. Walker Construction Co. of Mattoon bid $298,766; Baren Fanger, Inc. of Vandalia bid $294,700; Ne-Co Asphalt Co., Inc. of Charleston bid $291,151; and a bid of $283,915 was received from Frank C. Feutz Co. of Paris.

UPI to discuss year's objectives

by Susan Ellison

Eastern's chapter of the University Professionals of Illinois will meet Thursday to discuss last year's accomplishments and plans for this year, Chapter President Don Dolton said Tuesday.

The meeting will be at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in the Union addition Charleston-Mattoon room.

Dolton said two major UPI goals which will be discussed are increasing membership and continuing "good working relations with the administration."

Other items to be discussed at the meeting are increased legislative activities and improvement of the chapter organization, Dolton said.

UPI president Margaret Schmid will be present to discuss the legislative program. Carol Elder, executive vice president of the Board of Governors schools in UPI, will discuss the process of developing new contract proposals.

High court to review service tax

CHICAGO (AP)—The Illinois Supreme Court on Wednesday agreed to hear an appeal of a lower court decision that upheld the constitutionality of the city's new 1 percent service tax.

The high court said the ruling issued Tuesday by Circuit Court Judge Richard Curry upholding the tax and lifting an injunction he issued Aug. 5 that barred the city from penalizing those who failed to collect the tax.

The appeal was filed by several groups led by the Chicago and Illinois state bar associations which contend that the levy is illegal because it taxes professions and is unconstitutionally vague. State law prohibits municipalities from taxing professions.

WHAT'S THE RUSH?

Getting started in classes, waiting in line and hurrying to get to the food service is a real rush.

To make lasting friends and become involved in the year's activities, many groups on campus are giving you the rush too.

That's Okay. We'll wait. Many United Methodists are also members of other groups on campus, too.

We're concerned about you as a person. But then you already know what an open congregation and a group of committed Christians can offer.

We'll be here when you're ready. We're open every week without fail... in this life or the next.

See you Sunday... whether you're a Greek, independent, faculty staff, a townie, or international.

UB recruitment

University Board Vice Chairman Bob Becker explains UB committees to student Sharon Kean during UB recruitment. Recruiters for UB will be in the Union video lounge until Friday. (News photo by Lisa Owens)

UB to recruit new members until Friday

by Lisa Maday

The University Board is looking for interested people to work on all of their 13 committees, UB Vice Chairman, Bob Becker said Tuesday.

The UB, which is totally a student-run organization, is designed to provide programming and services for students at the lowest possible cost.

A recruitment table is set up during the daytime in the Union until Friday for people to sign up for committee work. Students may also join the UB any time during the year, Becker said.

Becker said only 150 people have signed up for committee work so far, although he said a larger number is needed to staff the committees.

"The more people they have the more activities that can be planned and the better they'll be," Becker said.

Since UB is totally supported by student fees, Becker said he feels students should get involved.

Members give as much or as little time they can, he said.

matches held before the season's first meet.

The lineup includes Josie Riberto at No. 2 singles, Janet Haberkorn at No. 3, Kristin Peterson at No. 4, Julie Krueger at No. 5 and Raeann Huhn at No. 6.

Riberto, a walk-on two years ago, will move up from the No. 4 spot last season.

"Right now my thinking is that she will be teamed with Jill to play No. 1 doubles," Earley said.

Haberkorn and Peterson, doubles partners for the last three years, should be on the courts in the No. 2 slot and, according to Earley, "have fared well in state, regional, and national" competitions in the past.

Peterson, a walk-on her freshman year, has advanced in the lineup "quite a bit. I think she's ready for it. I'm expecting a lot of her," Earley said.

No. 5 Krueger was "not quite able to break into the lineup last year" after competing at No. 3 her freshman year, Earley said.

"But she's definitely got the desire and the ability" to be competitive this spring, the Panther coach said.

Krueger and Huhn will take over the No. 3 doubles spot after competing at No. 4 last year.

"They played No. 3 occasionally last year and were successful," Earley said. "I'm confident in putting them at No. 3."

Freshman Dawn Pavlik has been tabbed by Earley as a first year player with "a lot of potential".

"She's got beautiful ground strokes and fairly good speed. I can foresee her breaking into the lineup this season," Earley said.

Freshman netter recruits Pavlik, Lori Lyon, Nancy Abney, and Judi Szymanski "are going to be really productive for Eastern once they get some college exposure," Earley added.

moving to the east side, and having the sun in her eyes.

"I can't understand why there is a need to change things around, but I won't watch if I can't see the game," she said.

Sophomore Ron Siniscalchi said, "I don't think that's right making the students sit somewhere else. After all, we're supposed to be the supporters."

"At U of I, the students get to say where they want to sit, and then everyone else can sit where they want after that," Siniscalchi said.

"Why can't Eastern students have the same right to choose where they want to sit?" he questioned. "Somehow it's not fair in my mind."

Sophomore Rusty Lain said, "I'm really comfortable sitting on the west side, and I don't want to move."

The overall reaction towards Johnson's plan for lights was favorable, as many students said they would enjoy watching night football.

Sophomore Roger Boswell said, "I'm in favor of night games because it's too hot during the day early in the season."

Under Athletic Director R.C. Johnson's renovation plan for O'Brien Stadium, these east side bleachers will be moved to behind the endzones while new bleachers, used for student seating only, will be purchased to take their place. (News photo by Tom Roberts)

Stadium renovations cause mixed reactions

by John Humenik

Eastern Athletic Director R.C. Johnson's "capital improvement plan for O'Brien Stadium" received mixed reactions from students Wednesday.

However, students mainly spoke in favor of the addition of stadium lights while opposing the movement of themselves to bleachers on the east side.

Under Johnson's plan, which has yet to be formally written and proposed, O'Brien Stadium would undergo major renovations, including the purchasing of new bleachers and constructing of restrooms and concession stands for the east side, where students would be required to sit.

Also included in the plan is the remodeling of the press box, the adding of a club room for visitors, and the purchasing of lights.

Senior Dave Winfrey said, "I'm not in favor of the plan. Something like that would be unfair to the students if they were forced to move."

Winfrey said he did favor building bleachers on the east side, but mainly for the booster club or the general public's use.

Sophomore Kevin Aten said, "From what I thought, the west side bleachers were built for the students. Why not leave the students where they have always been?"

Many students said they felt that they would be responsible for the funding of the renovations, Johnson stressed that funds for the project would be collected from the students.

Senior Vince Smith said, "Somehow the students are going to pay. What does he (Johnson) want to do, turn this place into a Soldier Field or something?"

"There's other things this university needs more than renovating the field," Smith added.

Sophomore Perry Casalino said, "I would really like to see them renovate the stadium, providing they don't get stuck paying for it."

Freshman Lori Lyon said she would not be

Striders to receive stern test against alumni

by Mike Prizy

Eastern's young cross country squad will attempt to continue the varsity's undefeated record against the alumni 5 p.m. Saturday at the Lantz course during the 10th annual Alumni-Open meet.

"It's the 10th annual Alumni-Open and the varsity has never lost," Eastern men's cross country coach Thomas Woodall said.

The varsity should get a good test from what Woodall said he feels is "the best alumni team I think we've ever had."

In fact, Woodall said he feels his squad will receive more than just a test with such alumni as Reo Rorem, Joe Sheeran, Larry Shuldt, Mike Moore, Mike Viano, Jeff Wagner and Jase Travis competing in the race.

The seven are "very experienced" and have had great success with their post-collegiate competitive running careers, Woodall said.

To counter the alumni strength Woodall said he will "expect a lot from the upperclassman."

"I only have seven upperclassmen but I'm pleased with their running and their leadership that they've shown in practice," Woodall said.

The Alumni-Open will be the debut meet of the season for Eastern's striders.

"The Alumni-Open is a good opportunity for Eastern's students and faculty to run and meet the guys on the team," Woodall said.

"It will also give me a darn good idea on who will run next week at Southeast Missouri State and the Danville Junior College meets," Woodall added.

Over 100 entrants are expected for the four-mile race.

All male and female runners are welcome to run regardless of ability, Woodall said.

Registration will take place at 4 p.m. Saturday near the starting line with no entry fee. Former Eastern coach Maynard O'Brien, for whom O'Brien Stadium was named, will be the honorary starter.

Woodall said he expects more than 25 alumni to turn out for the cross country homecoming.

"I've heard from at least 25 of the alumni that will probably run," Woodall said. "The alumni could be real strong."

Tennis lineup undecided as '81 opener approaches

by Nancy Saegesser

All Karen Earley said she needs now is a little sunshine.

Earley, Eastern women's tennis coach, has had to dodge raindrops and put her 1981 squad through its first week of practices indoors.

But the Panther mentor is keeping her fingers crossed and hoping for some sunny afternoons before the team's Sept. 12 opener against Division III Principia College.

"I'm just very happy that our opener is not with a Division I school," Earley said Wednesday, adding that the matchup with Principia and St. Louis University "will be an experimental weekend."

"I'll be moving people around a lot," she said. "We're not as set this year as we were last year as far as positions go."

This year's regular-season slate is "about the same type of schedule" as in the past, Earley said. "We play several Division I schools and about an equal number of Division II."

Eastern has been "fairly dominant in Division II" and Earley said she believed her squad will continue to be competitive against Div. I opponents.

"We will be competitive with all the teams we play. We're not going to get and get blown out of the ballpark. And, in turn, we're not going to blow anyone out," Earley said.

Jill Anderson will remain a familiar face for Eastern fans, emerging from the early practices in the No. 1 singles spot for the third year in a row.

"She's the team leader," Earley said of Anderson's ability. "She knows the game very well and she's experienced in the No. 1 spot."

The Panther coach has established a tentative lineup which she said may change with a series of challenges. (See TENNIS, page 14)

Meetings scheduled for track

The women's track and field squad will conduct its first team meeting for those interested in participating this season at 7 p.m. Wednesday in the training room of Lantz Gymnasium, head coach John Craft said.

Craft also stated that at 7 p.m. Sept. 14 in room 304 of Lantz Gym, physicals will be given to all women interested in participating for the track and field squad.

Men's track

All interested candidates who wish to participate on the 1982 men's track and field team should attend a meeting at 7 p.m. Tuesday in room 146 of Lantz Gym, head coach Neil Moore stated.

Topics to be discussed at the meeting include pre-season training, eligibility, physicals, equipment policies and the 1982 schedule, Moore said.

In order to participate this season, all tracksters must be enrolled for 12 class hours each semester.

Change marks fall season

by Steve Binder

As many of Eastern's sports teams near the commencement of season competition, change seems to highlight much of the 1981 Panther squads fall editions.

The major switch finds the men's teams moving up this year from Division II status. Eastern's grid program will compete under the Division I-AA bracket, while the cross country and soccer programs will move to Division I.

The women's programs of field hockey, tennis, volleyball and cross country will be subjected to change after this year when their three-year commitment to the Association of Intercollegiate Athletics for Women expires.

Athletic Director R.C. Johnson stated that the athletic department has yet to decide whether the women will move to the NCAA or stay under the AIAW.

In addition to the division changes, coaching switches also occurred. New head coaches for field hockey and volleyball were hired while the football program boasts four new assistant coaches.

This fall sports guide contains rosters, schedules and a season outlook for each of the seven Panther fall sports programs, in which approximately 180 students participate.

This guide is designed to inform Panther fans of when, where and against whom their favorite Eastern team will compete, while also lending insight into the 1981 season.

So let the changes begin, with good luck extended to all of the Panther fall sports squads.

Gridders optimistic entering new domain

by Dave Claypool

Following three years of dominance in NCAA Division II play, Eastern's 1981 football squad will have a new frontier ahead of it—the quest to make its presence known in Division I-AA.

But the chore will not be a simple one, for in the Division I-AA bracket there exists such perennial powers as Eastern Kentucky, Boise State, Grambling and Walter Payton's alma mater Jackson State.

However, this season Division I-AA will allot eight bids to post-season play instead of the previous four, enhancing the Panthers' playoff chances.

Also helping Eastern's drive to its third post-season appearance in four years will be the return of 28 lettermen, with talented personnel filling key positions.

And while Eastern will have the talent to qualify for the Division I-AA playoffs, a fairly easy schedule should help its chances.

The Panthers open up with four Division II opponents and conclude with three home games.

The Eastern grid program will also possess the talent of new coaches Mike Faulkner, offensive coordinator, Tom Venturi, quarterbacks and receivers, Tom Westhoff, tight ends and former Panther linebacker Alonzo Lee, defensive assistant, who were all hired over the summer.

Such player and coaching ability has head coach Darrell Mudra anxious and excited about the Panthers' upcoming season.

"I really feel that potentially we can be the best team ever here at Eastern," Mudra said. "I'm looking forward to an exciting and successful season."

Striders eager to succeed

Men's cross country

by Mike Prizy
Even as it moves into Division I standing, Eastern's young and inexperienced men's cross country team is eager to improve upon last year's performance, head coach Tom Woodall said.

Woodall was referring to his team's fifth place finish at the Illinois intercollegiate meet and its eighth place showing at the Notre Dame Invitational.

Woodall will find himself somewhat short of upperclassman experience this year.

"Mike Beresford and Terry Donahue are my only seniors with a lot of experience," Woodall said.

Juniors and seniors will comprise the "nucleus of the team," Woodall said, but "the bulk of the team has to come from the sophomores and the freshmen."

Woodall said he will count heavily on his sophomores, particularly five standouts from last spring's track season.

Enthusiastic and anxious are the two words Eastern women's cross country coach John Craft used to describe this year's group of runners.

"I haven't seen a team like this before. They're so excited," Craft said.

Craft will lead a young but experienced squad against some very tough competition this fall.

Craft added that most of the women have worked hard all summer in preparation for the strong competition awaiting them at both the Illinois State and Indiana University Invitationals.

With these big meets under their belts, Craft hopes the team can improve upon last year's 14th-place finish in the national tournament.

"We'd at least like to place in the top ten," he said confidently, "If we didn't feel that way, we wouldn't be going."

Spikers predict better season, netters stay hopeful

Women's volleyball

by John Humenik

Eastern volleyball followers can expect to see more of the topflight play the Panthers demonstrated last year, newly appointed head coach Carol Ann Gruber said.

Gruber, who boasts six returning starters from last season's squad, basis her optimism on the spikers' overall improved attitude and the experience this year's group possesses.

Women's tennis

by Nancy Saegesser

Eastern women's tennis coach Karen Earley is "optimistic" about the upcoming fall season but she is not ready to predict a repeat of last year's team's success.

"I'm very optimistic," Earley said, "but it will be hard to repeat last year's finish."

Earley's crew finished last fall with an 11-4 dual meet record after a shakey 0-4 start.

Returning players lend strength

by Nancy Saegesser

Beth Reichel will find herself on an unfamiliar end of a hockey stick this fall as she paces the sidelines in her first year as Eastern's field hockey coach.

Reichel, a New Jersey native who played collegiate hockey for Slippery Rock State College, Penn., is assuming her first coaching role.

She comes to Charleston after completing a graduate assistantship at Northern Illinois University last year and has inherited 12 returnees from last year's 14-13-1 squad.

"I'm really optimistic," Reichel said. "We only graduated 3 players so we have a lot of returners. The team was good last year so they've got that winning attitude already and that's important."

Eastern's soccer team should benefit from its overall team depth this season while relying on good defensive play, Panther coach Schellas Hyndman said.

The Panthers finished with an 11-5 slate last season, but Hyndman said he is confident that this season's squad is his finest yet.

"This team is really balanced and our overall depth makes us solid," Hyndman said. "We're looking to begin right where we left off last year, but this season we're better prepared."

Hyndman said he thinks his unit has the potential to work well together, but it may take some time to jell.

In relying on the team's depth, Hyndman said he places a lot of concern in the versatility of his players.

"If we are going to do well, we must have players who can play many positions," Hyndman said. "Then if we pick up an injury, we will be prepared to adjust the line-up."

Hyndman's group mainly consists of sophomores and seniors, but he said he feels the lack of experience his younger players possess will not be a factor.

Even before there was football, there was Stroh's.

Football has been around a long time.

In fact, the very first football game played in America was at Princeton University in 1869.

But the Stroh family has been making beer even longer; since way before that first kickoff. For over 200 years.

And how can you possibly improve upon two long-standing American traditions like football and Stroh's?

It's simple.

Combine them.
