Salary question marks departure of administrator

By KEVIN McDERMOTT
News editor

Charleston City Administrator Mike Steele announced Wednesday he will not renew his employment contract when it expires this year, a decision several council members believe stems from recent controversy over Steele's salary.

At a public hearing Tuesday, council member Richard Corbin called for the modification of the city administrator's position on the basis that the $40,000 salary was too extravagant. Several council members also said they had received complaints from residents about the expense of the salary.

Steele called council members Wednesday to inform them of his decision to leave his position, and gave written notice to Mayor Murray Choate.

Commissioner John Winnett said Wednesday the issue of Steele's salary was discussed during a closed session following Tuesday's council meeting.

Winnett said none of the council members at the session openly pressured Steele to resign at the end of his contract, but added, "He (Steele) got the idea" that residents were increasingly opposed to his salary.

Steele would not comment specifically on his decision Wednesday, saying only that he "certainly enjoyed working in Charleston."

Steele was hired in 1983 by the previous city council to replace City Planner Larry Stoeber. Although Stoeber's salary had been $28,000 per year, Steele was hired with a $30,000 salary, which was later raised to $40,000.

Although Steele had been promised a salary increase when he signed his original contract two years ago, the $10,000 raise was criticized by Winnett and council member Wayne Lanman when it was approved during the last administration. Lanman and Winnett were the only council members from that administration to be re-elected in the municipal elections in April.

"I thought he (Steele) did a decent job," Winnett said, "but I thought he was overpaid."

Winnett added that public opinion—particularly that expressed during Tuesday's council meeting—was probably a major factor in Steele's decision to leave.

"In a town this size, when you reach the $40,000 (salary) level, people start to frown," Winnett said. "When some laborer or shoemaker in town hears that someone got a $10,000 raise, he says, 'That's $10,000 more than I ever made working in any job all my life.'"

However, Winnett stressed that no one is questioning Steele's performance as city administrator, adding, "There was nothing wrong here except the size of the town and the (average of Eastern salaries, page 7)

Illinois Secretary of State Jim Edgar, left, and Eastern President Stanley Rives kick off an O'Brien Field fundraising campaign Wednesday to raise $440,000 for several improvements to the stadium, including the addition of lights and a new artificial track. Edgar, an Eastern graduate, will head the six-month campaign.

O'Brien ends dark age Stadium will be lit by '86, Rives says

By JEFF LONG
Sports editor

Beginning next fall, fans will be able to attend Eastern football games at O'Brien Stadium under lights.

Stadium lighting was one of several improvements announced by Eastern Illinois University officials Wednesday under the "Brighten O'Brien" campaign.

The $440,000 athletic fund-raising campaign, which featured an appearance by Illinois Secretary of State and Eastern alumnus Jim Edgar, is the second capital improvement project of Eastern's Tenth Decade Campaign. The project's goal is to raise $5 million in five years.

In addition to lights, primary improvements will include a new artificial track, renovation and expansion of the pressbox, artificial turf along the sidelines a flag and flagpole.

"This project will not only benefit the people of Eastern Illinois University, but the people of Illinois," said Edgar, who will serve as National Chairman of the six-month drive. "A lot more people around this area will be able to take advantage of Eastern athletics."

"This is a historic moment for Eastern Illinois athletics," Athletic Director R.C. Johnson said.

Eastern president Stanley Rives said $180,000 will be allotted for resurfacing of the track and $150,000 for the installation of lights.

The track will be paid for solely by the university, Rives said, adding that no tax dollars will be used.

Improvements on the track will begin next June, immediately following the IHSA state track meet which is held here annually.

Rives said the track is expected to be completed by the time the St. Louis football Cardinals arrive for training camp in late July.

"The track is in a state now where if we let it go further, it would cost us more to repair later," Rives said. "It's important for us to keep the state track meet here. It brings good students from all over the state, many of whom end up being students at Eastern."

Installation of the lights is expected to be completed by next fall. The stadium will be supplied with eight separate light-pole units, which Rives said resemble "the kind you see lighting interstate highways.

"We need lights to help increase attendance at home football games," Rives said. "We are the only (See O'BRIEN, page 13)

Administrators debate tuition pay plan

By DOUGLAS BACKSTROM
Managing editor

While Eastern administrators are still considering the fate of a tuition plan, other Board of Governors universities have already instituted plans which officials say are advantageous to students.

A tuition installment plan would allow students to pay their tuition and fees in two installments instead of one bulk payment.

According to a report issued last Friday by Verna Armstrong, Eastern's vice president for administration and finance, there are several reasons a tuition payment plan is being considered at Eastern:

- To help students who have financial difficulties.

- To provide a potential positive effect on enrollment.

- To provide consistency with other BOG schools.

However, the report also points out some negative results related to the proposed plan. They include:

- Increased paperwork.

- Increased debt collection activities by the business office, student affairs office and faculty.

BOG universities agreed that their plan has worked to students' advantage.

Chicago State University has a deferred payment plan. Business Operations Director Geri Brooks said she believes the payment plan works for all students.

Brooks said full-time students pay a down-payment of $300 during registration. The rest is due in October, she said.

"All students with 11 hours or less put $200 down," she said, adding that there is a $6 service charge when students pay their first fee.

A uniform tuition plan, followed by all BOG schools, requires students pay the same tuition amount.

Lower division, full-time, in-state students pay $706.95 per semester. Part-time, in-state students pay $55.15 per semester hour. Lower division, full-time, out-of-state students pay (See ADMINISTRATORS, page 9)

Crew plans inspection of Titanic

WOODS HOLE, Mass.—The chief scientist whose expedition found the Titanic said Wednesday he plans to return to the site, possibly next summer, and inspect the wreckage close up in a small manned submarine.

Dr. Robert Ballard, a geologist, also said a remotely controlled camera yielded vivid color pictures Wednesday of wine bottles, undamaged plates and a small flagpole on the bow "still standing there totally pristine" on the upright ship, 2.5 miles below the surface of the Atlantic Ocean.

Ballard told associates at the Woods Hole Oceanographic Institution on Tuesday that an unmanned submersible was doing only preliminary exploration of the ocean liner, according to a transcript made available Wednesday of a ship-to-shore telephone call with the Navy vessel Knorr.

Indian official slain in massacre

NEW DELHI, India—Three suspected Sikh extremists firing machine guns burst into a city council office Wednesday and killed a prominent politician who was a close friend of the prime minister. A bodyguard also was slain and six people were reported wounded.

Slain councilman Arjun Dass, 46, was a Hindu and a member of the Congress Party of Prime Minister Rajiv Gandhi. Gandhi called and emergency meeting to review security in New Delhi.

In Punjab state, which has been beset for Sikh violence for more than a year, two terrorists riding a motor scooter opened fire in an industrial area of Jalandhar city. Police in the northern state said two people were injured, but gave no further details.

USSR to start anti-satellite tests

MOSCOW — The Soviet Union announced Wednesday it will consider itself free to deploy anti-satellite systems in space if the United States goes ahead with its planned test of an anti-satellite weapon.

Then-Soviet leader Yuri V. Andropov announced two years ago that the Kremlin was adopting a unilateral moratorium on the testing and deployment of anti-satellite weapons.

Andropov had said the ban would remain in force as long as other powers including the United States refrained from similar testing and deployment.

Progress made in teachers' strike;
Chicago schools remain closed

CHICAGO (AP)—The Chicago Teachers Union said Wednesday that its negotiators reported progress toward a tentative agreement to end the walkout in the nation's third-largest public-school system as a marathon bargaining session stretched into a second day.

Classes for the system's 431,000 elementary and high school students had been scheduled to begin Wednesday, the second day of the strike.

Instead, the union representing 28,000 teachers instructed members really have lost faith. "...No one has the heart for this anymore," said Mary Almer, a former PTA president.

"I'm so mad," said 13-year-old Ellen Almer, an eighth-grader. "I think we should go on strike."

Some community centers offered free instruction to locked-out public school students, and Chicago's City Colleges' television station planned educational broadcasts ranging from

"Sesame Street" to videotaped high school math and composition classes.

Richard Guerin, principal at St. Bede's Catholic Elementary School on the city's Southwest Side, said he already had fielded his first 11th-hour entrance plea from a beleaguered parent.

"I have to say, 'Sorry.' We don't want to be just a place for students to run every time there's a strike."

Meanwhile, the talks that began Tuesday among negotiators for the Board of Education, the union, and James Reilly, Gov. James R. Thompson's chief-of staff, passed the 24-hour mark by midday Wednesday.

"The process is still continuing," said union spokesman Chuck Burdeen. "if the settlement comes down right, schools could be open tomorrow."

Leaders discuss FarmAid profits

CHAMPAIGN (AP)—Farmers and farm leaders from around country were getting together Wednesday with singer Willie Nelson and Gov. James R. Thompson in an effort to find the best use for the millions of dollars expected from the FarmAid concert.

FarmAid-featuring such headline talent as the Beach Boys, Billy Joel, B.B. King, Waylon Jennings and Bob Dylan—was suggested by Nelson as a way to call attention to the plight of the nation's struggling farmers and to raise cash to help them out.

A key question is how the FarmAid money will be spent—and who will have final say.

FarmAid is modeled on Live Aid, the trans-Atlantic concert that raised millions of dollars for starving Africans earlier this year. At least 25 percent of American farmers are in serious financial trouble for a variety of reasons, including high interest rates and declining land values, authorities say.

"Willie called tonight's meeting to get the input from farmers and grassroots organizations on what to do with the money we raise," said Vince Petrini, a spokesman for the governor. "This is just an organizational meeting."

He said Larry Werries, the Illinois director of agriculture, had been talking with his counterparts in other states to get ideas.

"It is a concern of ours and we are working hard to establish a plan," said Petrini.

"But the final say will have to come from the performers; this is their effort."

He said it was "difficult to speculate on how much money a concert like this could raise," but that it might generate $40 million to $50 million.

Eastern's freshmen learning to cope with university living

By JULIE LEWIS
Staff writer

With the first week of classes finishing up, Eastern's first-time students are settling into the daily routine of college life and deciding what they like, don't like or would like to change.

Freshmen Connie Anderson and Dawn Marovich, roommates in Andrews Hall, said, after the first few days, they are adapting well to the university's surroundings.

"We can dress and act anyway we choose and still feel comfortable here," Anderson said.

Freshman Charlean Hines said, "It seems like I've been here before," adding that college life is everything she expected it to be.

Although the biggest complaint among the first-time students is adjusting to the residence hall food, freshman Todd Bliss, who described himself as a "general student," said, "I'm eating very well."

But Hines, an Andrews resident, said, "I hate the food with a deep purple passion. They serve that same patty everyday only changing the name."

Freshmen students also said the noise level in the halls is a problem.

Freshman Robbie Cornwell said the noise in Carman Hall is "almost unbearable."

"I really hate the lack of privacy," he said. "But, I guess Carman is adequate."

Sometimes freshmen start college a bit intimidated by the number of upperclassmen on campus and find it hard to be "the youngest" again.

Nichols begins new post seeking funds for faculty

By BILL DENNIS
Staff writer

Former Eastern student Cynthia Nichols began her duties Tuesday as assistant to the provost for academic planning and development following her selection by a search committee.

Edgar Schick, vice president for academic affairs, who created the new position, said Nichols' responsibilities include finding private and public funding for faculty retraining and needed academic equipment.

She will also be in charge of working on academic reviews and budget planning and management.

Her most important function, Schick said, will be interacting with administrators in Springfield and communicating with other Board of Governors schools.

Nichols will be paid a $24,000 annual salary.

Both Schick and Walt Lowell, chairman of the five-member search committee, said they were impressed with her qualifications and confident she would do well in the new position.

"She appeared to know the subject well and had experience in this kind of work," Lowell said. "She gave indications she was willing to learn and cooperate."

Schick said her experience in post-secondary education and in proposal writing weighed in her favor with the search committee.

She has served as coordinator and editor of a self-study for the North Central Association at Lake Land College in Mattoon and has also worked as a grant writer for the National Science Foundation.

"She impressed the search committee as a person who has a good handle on the issues that are confronting our university and who knows how to be more effective in getting the funding that is needed," Schick added.

"She was a fine candidate all the way," Lowell said. "Personable. Relaxed. She came out as well at the end of the day (of interviews) as she did at the beginning."

Although Nichols was a student here—she received her bachelor's and master's degrees at Eastern in 1974 and 1975 respectively—she still has a feeling of newness.

"It's been quite a few years since I attended classes here," she said.

"It's familiar, yet it's all very different," she added. "This is only my second day and I'm still familiarizing myself with everything."

There is another element of familiarity for Nichols at Eastern. Her father, Lawrence Nichols, is an instructor in the history department.

"I never imagined that would happen," Nichols said. "It is a pleasant surprise."

Her husband, James Filkins, has a doctorate from the University of Illinois where he is also a student, having re-entered for retraining.

Nichols is currently working on her doctorate at the U of I.

Kegs will be allowed again at football tailgate parties

By RUDY SCHELLY
Staff writer

In a major policy change at the close of the spring semester, Eastern's administration announced a decision to allow pony kegs during tailgating time at football games this season.

Starting with the first home game Saturday, 21-year-old Eastern students who possess game tickets will be permitted to have pony kegs in the tailgating area west of O'Brien Stadium.

The policy, designed by Glenn Williams, vice president for student affairs, says students of legal drinking age, possessing a ticket to the game, will be allowed pony kegs between 10:30 a.m. and 15 minutes prior to kickoff.

Eastern President Stanley Rives called the policy "very workable."

The tailgate policy revision came after a decision last October which banned all kegs in the tailgate area. The change was approved without any student consultation.

President's Council members said students were staying past the time limit, bringing more than one keg into the tailgate area and forming large party groups. The change did allow students to have cans and bottles at the pre-game celebrations.

Returning to the original definition of tailgating, Williams said the new policy should encourage small social gatherings at home games and spur attendance.

"Originally, tailgate parties were a picnic, with a minimal amount of alcohol," Williams said last fall. "The kegs do not have to be finished to enjoy the game."

Campus police chief Tom Larson said campus police security officers will check drivers' licenses and game tickets at the tailgate area entrance and enforce Illinois drinking laws with no exceptions.

"Anyone under the drinking age will be turned away," Larson said. "Those with alcohol will find it confiscated and charges may be filed under certain circumstances."

Last fall Larson said liability was a major factor in the October policy change.

To assist in monitoring the area, Williams said, student marshals will be also be present to distribute information and remind tailgaters of the time limitation.

Williams noted the student government's interest in the issue last year helped to push the new decision along.

Security plans should address liability issue

Student Body President Floyd Akins is proposing a security program which, like many of its predecessors, will not take root.

Akins is likely to pursue a campaign promise he made in the spring that calls for students, equipped with two-way radios, to patrol campus. The students would not interfere in a confrontation but instead alert campus security.

The proposal, as is, will not work because there are too many unresolved questions, including the most important stigma: university liability with such a program.

Even though a student patroller may be instructed not to get involved in a crime, if he witnesses a rape, a likely first response may be to stop it. If the student were then injured during the incident, the university would be held ultimately responsible.

The threat of possible lawsuits stemming from students' injuries would be magnified because the police do not have adequate personnel to train patrolling students. Despite Akins promising that an officer will be added sometime soon, Campus Police Chief Tom Larson said the hiring is unlikely.

Added to the liability issue is another pitfall: cost. Akins, who estimates the program will require $25,640 to implement, wants corporations to swallow some of the proposal's expense. So far, none have pledged monetary support.

If no sponsors can be found, the question of whether students would be willing to fund the plan must be asked. Since there have been no recent reports of violence and most campaign promises have been forgotten, students may not be pre-occupied with security.

That aside, Akins' plan, or a revision of it, deserves some attention. Last year, two rapes were reported on campus. While that does not include numerous unreported rapes, it is two rapes too many.

Until an effective solution with campus support is enacted, the best security plan is using common sense to nip crime before it strikes.

Evangelists go by different books

REPORTER: Hello, Eastern, and welcome to our show. I'm Ted Kopper, and I'm speaking with three of the evangelists who preach on Eastern's campus every fall. My guests are Brother Frank, in the three-piece suit, Brother Clyde, with the phony hairpiece and Brother George, in the ragged jeans holding the big wooden cross. Gentlemen, welcome.

FRANK: Honored to be here.

GEORGE: What's up, man?

CLYDE: Hallelujah.

REPORTER: Now, you have all made a career of coming to Eastern each year and preaching Christianity. Why Eastern, of all places?

FRANK: Well, Ted, I have seen Jesus, and he has laid on me the burden of spreading the gospel to those who need it most. The kids at Eastern need it more than anyone I've ever seen, and so I am here to save their souls by telling them the word of God.

REPORTER: And what is the word of God?

FRANK: Execute all the homosexuals and build more missiles.

REPORTER: God said that?

FRANK: Matthew 6:18

CLYDE: Hallelujah!

GEORGE: You're both wrong, man. Jesus is about love. Jesus is about hope and caring and legalized marijuana. . .

CLYDE: Hallelujah!

REPORTER: So you think religion should not be so rigidly structured?

GEORGE: That's right. Jesus isn't about cathedrals or three-piece suits or television cameras.

FRANK: Oh, pa-lease, George! We've got to change with the times. Besides, Jesus sure as hell didn't walk around carrying a big, dorky wooden cross everywhere he went.

GEORGE: Jesus never had any problems with the IRS, either.

FRANK: Oh, sure. Throw that in my face.

CLYDE: Hallelujah!

REPORTER: But what about the traditional religious ethics? What about the idea that religion should enlighten people and help mankind?

Off the record:

FRANK: That's my mission in life: to enlighten these kids through the power of God.

REPORTER: But in your last sermon at Eastern you spent two hours telling the kids they would burn to hell if they voted Democratic, and you called all the girls in the audience whores.

REPORTER: The Bible says you can't wear shorts?

FRANK: John 11:3

GEORGE: That's wrong. Jesus isn't about what you wear, man! Jesus is about what you are, he's about what your essence is and where your karma is located and how poor you look! You have no concept about what Jesus is about. . .

FRANK: (reading from Bible) "And Jesus said unto his disciples, 'This is my blood. . .'"

CLYDE: Hallelujah!

Senate needs people to fill 10 vacant seats

By DIANE NOWAK
Staff writer

The 10 open seats of the Student Senate were one of the topics discussed at Wednesday's first senate meeting of the fall semester.

Following opening speeches by Student Body President Floyd Akins and Executive Vice President Kim Swanson welcoming students back, Senate Speaker Larry Markey read out loud from the letters of resignation from six former senators.

Markey said LaRon Wilhelm's reason for resignation was "due to classes, organizations and lack of time." Markey added, "Laura Arman's reason was because she had to move from an off-district place to a residence hall. Barry Shawgo had other responsibilities, Jill Arseneau received a new job at Taylor, Julie Beard had the responsibility of her work and classes and Teresa Collard has to teach two classes this semester and responsibilities of other committees."

The three vacancies in residence, three in at-large and four in off-campus should be filled by Sept. 16, Markey said.

Markey said, "The key to choosing a person for one of these positions through an interview is dedication and responsibility."

"A sincere person with good ideas has a good chance, but dedication and responsibility is the key," he added.

Another topic discussed at the meeting was the new chairmen and co-chairmen of the senate committees for the fall semester.

They are: Co-chairman Christy Wolfe for auditing, Chairmen Michelle Long and Shari Busboom for academic affairs, Chairman Scott Franzgrote and co-chairman Steve Hogan for elections, Chairmen Teresa Papa and John Carmin for housing, Chairmen Suzanne Murrie and John Durante for student awareness, Chairman Joe O'Mera for student legislative and Chairman Mike Regan for university relations.

UB signing up students

By CAROL ROEHM
Staff writer

The University Board is signing up students for UB committees in the Union walkway to prepare for this year's entertainment agenda.

Interested students can get information about the committees at the table in the Union or attend a student meeting Thursday at 6:30 p.m. in the Subway Nightclub in the Union.

"This year we have added a new committee that will coordinate the activities in the Subway," University Board Chairman John Allston said.

Scheduled UB activities for this year include Union Happy Hour, "We Can Make You Laugh," Homecoming activities and a show by hypnotist Tom Deluca.

Movies and videos will also be shown throughout the year. The schedule is as follows:

•Sept. 2-6—"The Empire Strikes Back," shown on the big-screen television in the Union Walkway.

•Sept. 6—"Breakfast Club," 6:30 p.m. and 9 p.m. in the Grand Ballroom.

•Sept. 9-13—"Spring Break," in the Union Walkway.

•Sept. 12—"Gandhi" 7 p.m. in the Union Walkway.

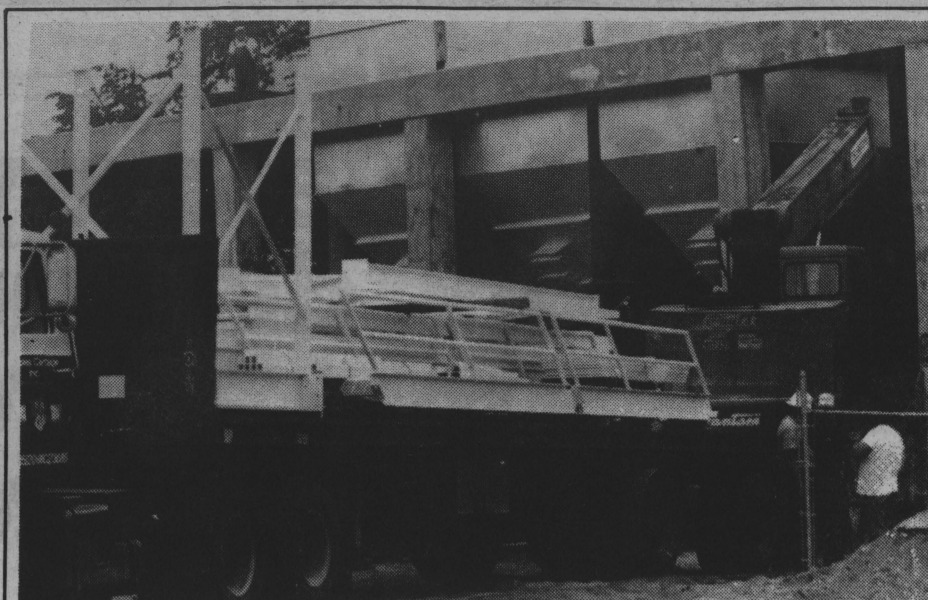

•Sept. 13—"Risky Business," 6:30 p.m. and 9 p.m. in the Grand Ballroom.

•Sept. 18—"Gone With the Wind," 7 p.m. in the Grand Ballroom.

•Sept. 20—"All of Me," 6:30 p.m. and 9 p.m. in the Grand Ballroom.

The UB has also scheduled a disc jockey to provide music in the Subway on Sept. 5, 6 and 7.

"UB is currently working on Subway events and we're looking at maybe having a concert."

Fulbright award offers students chance for year's study abroad

By COLLEEN BREHM
Staff writer

Eastern seniors and graduate students interested in studying in a foreign country for the 1986-87 school year may be eligible for a Fulbright Scholarship.

Wolfgang Schlauch, Eastern Fulbright advisor and history instructor, said applicants must hold a bachelor's degree before the beginning of the grant period and must demonstrate proficiency in the written and spoken language of the host country.

"Students with a strong academic background of 3.8 grade point average or higher are encouraged to apply," Schlauch said, adding that Fulbright scholarships provide round-trip transportation, tuition, books, and maintenance for one academic year, and in some cases language and orientation courses.

For graduating seniors and master's degree candidates, Schlauch said opportunities exist in France, Germany, the United Kingdom, Argentina, Columbia, Ecuador, Japan and New Zealand.

He said three or four Eastern students apply each year for the Fulbright award, which is presented annually through a national competition.

"Students all over the country have applied," Schlauch said. "The scholarship gives students an opportunity to broaden horizons and a chance for intellectual culture."

For more information and applications, students may contact Schlauch at Coleman 216 H, by Oct. 14.

New RHA members to learn about group

New Residence Hall Association members will learn about the group and how to serve students at RHA's first fall meeting, scheduled for 5 p.m. Thursday in Andrews Hall basement.

National Communications Coordinator Penny Jones said Wednesday that the new members, who were elected last spring, will learn what they can do for students living in residence halls and how they can benefit from RHA.

THEY ONLY MET ONCE, BUT IT CHANGED THEIR LIVES FOREVER.

They were five total strangers, with nothing in common, meeting for the first time.
A brain, a beauty, a jock, a rebel and a recluse.

Before the day was over, they broke the rules. Bared their souls.
And touched each other in a way they never dreamed possible.

UB UNIVERSITY BOARD

Before you make a long distance commitment, make sure you know what you're getting into.

If Fletcher Christian and Captain Bligh had known what being stuck in the same boat would mean, chances are neither would have set foot aboard.

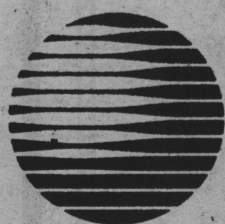

And if you're stuck in the same boat with a long distance company that doesn't give you all the services you need, it's easy to harbor mutinous thoughts.

But when you pick AT&T as your long distance company, you know you're in for smooth sailing.

You'll get trouble-free, reliable service. Immediate connections—even during the busiest hours. Guaranteed 60% and 40% discounts off our Day Rate on state-to-state calls. And operators to assist you with immediate credit for wrong numbers and collect calling.

So when you're asked to choose a long distance company, sign aboard with AT&T. With AT&T Long Distance Service, you'll never be left stranded.

Reach out and touch someone.®

his former landlord.

Frederick is charging that Butler and his roommates failed to pay for summer rent and need to pay for remodeling that Frederick alleges was necessary to restore the house.

Frederick, the owner of the house at 311 Monroe St., filed suit for $2,515 against Butler and roommates Christopher Constance and Graham Lewis.

But Butler is alleging that Frederick is holding personal property of his and his roommates' with value in excess of $2,500. He charged that a television, a stereo and a waterbed were taken between the end of the spring semester and his return. Butler also said he has not received his security deposit.

In a telephone interview Thursday, Butler said Frederick's $2,500 figure was "ridiculous," conceding the house was "in disarray," but looked like a normal, college-student house.

"Maybe you could start a fund to help me—like 'House Aid,'" Butler said of the suit for damages to the notorious "House of Reason."

"I was always messy—my mom used to yell at me for these kinds of things," he said, adding that after returning to clean the house two weeks after his spring graduation, he was informed that he had been evicted.

Frederick refused comment until after a settlement was reached. Frederick's attorney, John Elder, was unavailable for comment.

The charges leveled against Butler and his roommates are for back rent of $666—a number Butler called ominous because of long-held connections to the devil—and $1,709 in damages and repairs.

"I'm surprised (Frederick) doesn't need gold shutters over the windows," he quipped.

The current tenants of the house, former mayoral candidate Jack Turner and his family, refused to comment on the condition of the house. But they confirmed that several of the repairs listed in Frederick's suit had been made since they were first shown the house.

"I'm weighing my options," Butler said of seeking legal assistance. His father, an attorney, is currently working as his adviser, Butler added.

"(What legal assistance will be used) remains to be seen. It's unpredictable," he said.

The second Eastern student body president to be impeached and removed from office, Butler brought national media attention to Eastern after brandishing a toy pistol as part of his "Silly Party" campaign of "graft, corruption, decadence and lies" in April 1984.

In January, the "silly" president was removed from office by the Student Senate on charges that he damaged a hotel room while on a senate retreat. He was also charged with inappropriately answering a "confidential" survey conducted by a Northern Illinois University official.

resident's) wages."

Corbin agreed. "The (salary) increase that he (Steele) got a short time after he was hired. . . caused some problems for him" because of public resentment, Corbin said. He added that public opinion probably played a role in Steele's decision to leave: "I would imagine it did—it would have an effect on anyone."

Lanman also said the salary issue was Steele's "downfall."

"I hate to lose him," Lanman said, "(but) I thought the $10,000 (raise) was a little excessive. Public sentiment was against him."

However, former mayor Clancy Pfeiffer, who was in office when Steele was hired, said he was "surprised that it's happened."

"I thought he (Steele) had done a fine job," Pfeiffer said. "I know he had taken some heat for the money he made, but that was what anyone on that level makes."

Choate could not be reached for comment Wednesday night.

All city officials contacted Wednesday said it has still not been determined what sort of post will replace Steele's job. But there is agreement that the salary will have to be considerably lower.

This receiver is a real 25 watts per channel. It is not made with output IC's like most "watts per dollar" receivers, but real transistors. The benefit is tighter bass & cleaner highs. This type of construction raises the cost of building a great product. The VR2200 $229. is normally sold for $159 on sale.

$1,726.95 a semester. Upper division, full-time, in-state students pay $730.95 a semester. Part-time, in-state students pay $57.15 per semester hour. Upper division, full-time, out-of-state students pay $1,798.95 a semester. Part-time, out-of-state students pay $146.15 a semester.

Governors State Bursar Irv Roberts said he also believes the tuition payment plan is advantageous to students. At Governors State, students enrolled for nine or more hours without a scholarship pay half of their tuition during registration, he said.

"They pay the other half eight weeks later," Roberts said, adding that there is a $10 service charge for late payment.

At Northeastern University, the tuition payment plan is very similar to other BOG schools' plan. Bursar Helen Ritz said there is no payment plan for central registration. During Northeastern's pre-registration, students pay $300 or half the tuition cost. The remaining payment is due Oct. 2, she said.

Students pay their tuition according to their "individual finance resources" at Western Illinois University, Collections Specialist Linda Palmer said.

Although all students are eligible to become involved with Western's tuition payment plan, Palmer said a student's personal finance resources determines the due date for their payment.

Palmer added that once a student is late on their tuition payment, 1 percent interest per month or 12 percent per year is charged.

Palmer said students can either divide their tuition payment up or pay it in one lump sum.

institution in the new football conference (six-team Gateway) that doesn't have lights.

"We're trying to do for O'Brien what the Cubs have yet to accomplish at Wrigley Field," Rives added. "These will also allow us future flexibility such as televising and will be of use beyond athletic events."

Johnson said added benefits from the option to play at night would be to avoid conflicts with University of Illinois games and major TV games, as well as providing relief from hot weather in the early season. Lights will also allow those who work Saturdays a chance to attend games they ordinarily would miss.

Also planned to be finished next fall is renovation of the pressbox, which will consist of adding a second deck on top of the present facility.

The pressbox renovation has been allotted $70,000 and will be useful in several ways, Rives said.

"This will add more room for guests and expanded radio and TV facilities," Rives said, adding the current situation is at times "embarrassing."

A new flag and flagpole costing $15,000 was given to the university as a gift from the American Legion and will replace the old pole at the south end of the stadium.

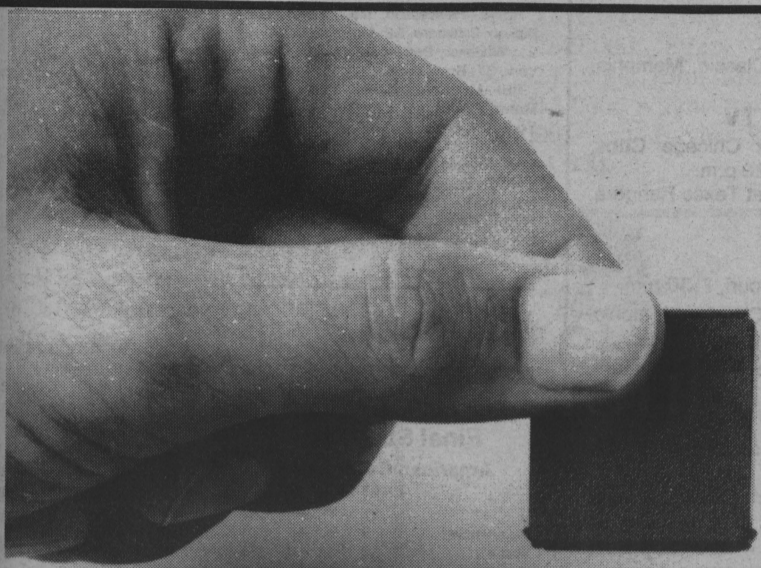

The flag is a 60-foot, spun-aluminum flagpole that will first be seen Sept. 14 against Indiana State in Eastern's first home game.

"(It) takes 12 guys to put up," he said. "It's simply inspiring."

While the playing surface will remain natural grass, the sideline areas, which according to Rives are where "we have problems with in bad weather," will be replaced with Astroturf out of the $5,000 remaining from the flag and pole allotment.

The campaign has already raised $200,000. The project received an added $146,000 Wednesday night at the "Brighten O'Brien" banquet, leaving the campaign with $94,000 left to achieve its goal.

Get our new $49* software module when you buy an HP-41.

It's a deal that has no equal, for a calculator that has no equal.

Our new HP-41 Advantage software module packs 12K of ROM. One and a half times the capacity of any other HP-41 module. Large enough to hold the most popular engineering, mathematical and financial programs ever written for the HP-41.

You get comprehensive advanced matrix math functions, roots of equations and polynomials, integrations, base conversion and logic functions, and time value of money functions.

Our new module is also sub-programmable. So you can quickly access just a portion of a program, or transfer that section to your own program.

And it's even menu-driven. That eliminates overlays and reduces the number of prompts.

In short, you get everything it's going to take to help you make the grade in everything from Linear Algebra to Physics to Electronics to Statics and Dynamics.

The HP-41 is a deal all its own. Its operating system is so advanced, it doesn't need an "equals" key. Little wonder it's preferred by more engineers than any other calculator.

This is a limited time offer. Call (800) FOR-HP-PC. Ask for Dept. 658B. We'll instantly give you the name of a dealer who has no equal.

Do it now. The phone call is free.

But our new module won't be for long.

I'm a student who has no equal. Here's my proof-of-purchase to prove it. Please send me my free software module.

Top PGA money-winner Strange looking for more

SUTTON, Mass. (AP)—Curtis Strange, who has turned the PGA golf tour into a private mint this year, heads a field of 154 in the $400,000 Bank of Boston Classic which begins Thursday.

Strange has set a single-season PGA record by winning $534,000 this year. Now he hopes to become the tour's 11th $2 million career winner in the 72-hole test at Pleasant Valley Country Club.

Since earning his PGA tour card in 1977, Strange has won $1,943,858 in official money. The 30-year-old former Wake Forest star has won three tournaments, including the Canadian Open this year and tied for runner-up in the Bing Crosby and Masters.

Strange, whose biggest local check was $12,775 for a tie for fifth nine strokes back last year, is taking aim on the $72,000 first prize offered on the PGA's 20th anniversary stop at Pleasant Valley.

Big George Archer, who won $2,062 in tying for 12th in the $200,000 Carling World on the tour's first visit to central Massachusetts in 1965, is returning as defending champion.

Archer became the oldest winner ever here when, just a couple of weeks shy of his 45th birthday, he tied the 72-hole course record with 270, good for $63,000.

Archer put together rounds of 69,

66, 70 and 65 over the 7,102-yard, par-71 course to win by six strokes, the largest victory margin at Pleasant Valley. By contrast, the late Tony Lema shot 279 for a two-stroke victory over Arnold Palmer in the first PGA event here.

The field this year includes eight of the year's top 24 money winners. Behind Strange, they are Calvin Peete, fourth with $354,000; Roger Maltbie, sixth with $351,000; Joey Sindelar, 11th with $249,000; Fuzzy Zoeller, 13th with $232,000; John Mahaffey, 16th with $213,000; Wayne Levi, 23rd with $186,000, and Payne Stewart, 24th with $185,000.

Volleyballer Diane Eiserman bumps the ball in practice as Eastern's women's volleyball team prepares for the Lady Tiger Classic in Memphis.

Tenn. Opening round play begins Thursday for the Panthers against perennial national power Louisiana State University.

Head for the mountains!

Spikers face challenge in Memphis

Eastern volleyball coach Betty Ralston knows full well that her Panthers are in for an uphill battle when they travel to the mountains of Memphis, Tenn., for Thursday's opening round of the Lady Tiger Classic.

"Our biggest concern is opening up (the season) with maybe our toughest competition of all year," Ralston said.

"We will be playing some of the top teams in the country at Memphis State."

Eastern, one of nine competing teams in the two-pool tournament, will open its season with a 5 p.m. Thursday match against perennial national power Louisiana State.

The Panthers, 17-20 last year, must then face the task of playing three consecutive Friday matches against Clemson, Alabama-Birmingham and host-Memphis State.

The tournament will then continue Saturday with a playoff round based on the results of the pool phase. However, Eastern would be eliminated from the tournament if the Panthers finish last in their pool.

"We want to at least put in a good showing," Ralston said. "If we come out of the pool play 2-2, I'll be happy."

Not only will the strong competition take its toll on Eastern, but so will the heat and humidity of Tennessee's climate.

"It's going to be tough with no break at all Friday," Ralston said. "We'll probably go 10 (players) deep."

Ralston, in her third year at the Panther helm, said the key to Eastern's performance will depend on how setter Jeanne Pacione holds up in the Panthers' 5-1 offense.

"The problem is that being all over the floor, the demands of the position wear on you," Ralston said.

Eastern's inexperience and lack of height also have Ralston concerned.

"The freshmen will have jitters especially going up against such strong competition in their first match," Ralston said. "But the upperclassmen and starters should have no problem."

"We're really short. The blocking is just not there, but we're being a lot more aggressive this year."

Spearheading Eastern's attack will be all-Gateway Conference performer Maura Lefevour. The junior middle hitter was ranked among the conference leaders in kills (378), hitting percentage (.321) and block assists (81) last season.

Other probable starters will be senior Lori Berger at middle hitter; senior co-captains Misty Buckhold, Judy Planos and sophomore Diane Eiserman as outside hitters; and Pacione at setter.

Freshmen Gina Knoke, Gianna Galanti and Leann Thomas will likely be the first Panthers off the bench.

Big Mac rolls, Shriver upset at U.S. Open

NEW YORK (AP)—Defending champion John McEnroe, his dazzling and devastating display of tennis halted momentarily by a controversial call, advanced to the semifinals of the U.S. Open Tennis Championships Wednesday night with a 6-1, 6-0, 7-5 victory over Sweden's Joakim Nystrom.

He will meet third-seeded Mats Wilander, who advanced to semifinals earlier in the day when yet another seeded Swede, Anders Jarryd, retired in the third set with an upset stomach.

The women's semifinal pairings were completed when young Steffi Graf of West Germany surprised fourth-seeded Pam Shriver.

The 11th-seeded Graf, a 16-year-old who a year ago was knocked out in the first round of her first appearance in women's singles here, outlasted Shriver 7-6, 6-7, 7-6, earning her the unenviable task of taking on Shriver's doubles partner, two-time defending champion, Martina Navratilova.

The other women's semifinal will pit top-seeded Chris Evert-Lloyd, going after her seventh U.S. Open singles crown, against No. 3 Hana Mandlikova of Czechoslovakia.

In the day's opening match, Navratilova, showing off championship form, crushed sixth-seeded Zina Garrison 6-2, 6-3.

Then, Wilander and Jarryd began play on the Stadium Court with the temperature in the high 90s and high humidity. The No. 3 seed in the men's singles, who captured his second French Open title earlier this year, was leading 2-6, 6-2, 5-0 when his Davis Cup teammate retired with an upset stomach.

It appeared Jarryd began cramping midway through the third set, shortly before he retired. He failed to chase down balls he earlier had reached.

Still, the end came suddenly, one point into the sixth game. Wilander hit a service winner and Jarryd walked to the net, telling his fellow Swede that the match was over.

But the shocker of the ninth day of this Grand Slam tournament was Graf's two-hour, 46-minute victory over Shriver and the way it was accomplished.

"My effort couldn't be any more," Shriver said. "It was about two points too less."

"I don't think I've ever gone into a match wanting to win so much in my life. I haven't played a semifinals of a big tournament in two years. I've fallen short in a lot of quarterfinals."

Graf, who won the exhibition tennis event in the Los Angeles Olympic Games last year, hit 80 percent of her first serves and was almost perfect on her groundstroke off both sides. Everytime Shriver, a serve-and-volley specialist, came to the net, Graf found that small space for a passing shot, being especially accurate with her cross-court backhand.

Graf broke Shriver's service to begin the match, then dropped her own second game.

It was Graf's turn in the 11th game as she broke Shriver's service, then served for the first set.

But Shriver broke back and the two went into a tiebreak—the first of three for the day—which Graf won 7-4.
