Rec center could cause fee hike

By STEVE SMITH
Associate news editor

Student fees could be raised as much as $75 to help finance the construction of a $7 million Lantz Gym recreation center addition, Glenn Williams, vice president for student affairs, said Tuesday.

Williams revealed two proposals that could increase student fees an additional $70 or $75 per semester to pay for 40- or 25-year revenue bonds, which would finance the proposed recreation center.

"They (the increases) would begin in January '89 and run throughout the bond," Williams said.

Students will have the opportunity to vote on the increases at the Nov. 10 student government elections.

Williams released the figures at a meeting with Student Body President Bob Camren; Senate Speaker Denise Vasetis; Financial Vice President Craig Lange and Board of Governors representative Mike Riordan.

The calculations were formulated on the presumption of a "liberal" 9-percent bond rate, Williams said. "If the bonds sell for less than what we project, this percentage would be less and the fee would be less," he said.

These proposals are greater than what the originally projected $25 to $50 fee increase. One of the options includes a fee increase of $70 for 40-year bonds. The other option, which administrators seem to favor, would raise student fees $75 for the 25-year bonds.

"In today's market, the recreation center and its operations will need to be supported by a $75 per-semester fee," said Verna Armstrong, vice president for administration and finance, in a press release.

Students attending summer sessions would face a $45 increase.

"The main thing is the marketability of bonds is good right now," Williams

Friend admits driving Jeep when it crashed

By CRYSTAL PHILPOTT

Robert Mitchell has admitted to driving the Jeep the night his friend Patrick Wixom was killed in an accident on I-57, according to Illinois State Police.

Mitchell's confession ends the search for the mystery driver, but not the investigation.

Mitchell made his confession at the end of a three-hour interview Friday, said State Trooper Mike Cooper, the accident reconstructionist investigating the case.

However, Mitchell said in a phone interview Tuesday afternoon he was still unsure in his own mind whether he was really driving the gray soft-topped 1980 CJ7 Jeep when it rolled at about 3:30 a.m. on Oct. 16.

"I don't know if I was driving or not.

Obviously I can't remember anything that evening of driving. I don't know how I can say that now (admitting to driving)," Mitchell said.

However, Cooper said, "He (Mitchell) admitted driving the Jeep."

Cooper then added, "Everything is up in the air right now. The boy's confused and scared right now. It was a good interview, but he's a confused person."

Cooper said although Mitchell has admitted to driving the Jeep, the investigation is not closed yet. Cooper said he is still not satisfied with every explanation Mitchell has given and wants to do more investigating himself.

"It's an unusual accident. I'm not completely happy with it because he doesn't remember completely. He cannot remember specific points about the accident," Cooper said, adding,

Senate wants grad students to buy textbooks

By JEFF SMITH
Staff writer

Eastern's Faculty Senate passed a resolution Tuesday urging President Stanley Rives and Robert Kindrick, vice president for academic affairs, to accept an amendment requiring graduate students to purchase textbooks for graduate courses.

The amendment states undergraduate students taking 5000-level courses or above would have to purchase textbooks for those courses. Graduate students taking courses below the 5000-level would be able to rent textbooks for those courses only.

In all other cases, graduate students would have to purchase textbooks.

The amendment also states

“ We want them (graduate students) to buy their books so they'll continue to use them in teaching so they won't just teach on memory.

—Nancy McMillan Faculty Senate member

these actions would not be implemented until graduate students' stipends were raised $50 a month or $200 a semester.

The motion, proposed at the senate's previous meeting by senate member Andy McNitt, passed by a 7-6 vote.

After passing the motion, another motion was made by Senate Secretary Gary Foster to hold off the first motion until a vote on Senate Chair John North's proposal was conducted.

North's proposal calls for each department to decide individually if it wants the rental or purchase of books required of the departments' graduate students.

Senate members hope by forcing graduate students to buy graduate-course books, the graduates will build a library for future use.

Senate member Nancy

McMillan said, "We want them (graduate students) to buy their books so they'll continue to use them when they teach and to aid them in teaching so they won't just teach on memory."

Graduate School Dean Larry Williams, a guest at the meeting, said this was the third time the subject of having graduate students purchase textbooks was brought up in the last five years.

Williams said the graduate council, which consists of graduate school faculty members, was opposed to forcing graduate students to purchase textbooks, but only because of problems with cost.

In 1985, the council met with Glenn Williams, vice president for student affairs, asking that textbooks be given space at the University Union bookstore which could be sold to graduate students, Williams said.

The request was turned down because it was thought a logjam might be created by adding graduate textbook sales in the bookstore, he added.

Hiring another vendor to sell textbooks exclusively to graduate students was attempted during the 1981-82 school year, but no vendor would agree to selling to graduate students only, Williams said.

"Other Eastern-type schools (that require purchase of textbooks by graduate students only) say we don't know how lucky we are," Williams said.

Dow Jones declines 50.56 points

NEW YORK— The fear that gripped the world's stock markets last month cast its shadow again Tuesday, but a late rally in New York spared the Dow Jones industrial average from another frightening loss of more than 100 points.

The Dow average of 30 blue-chip stocks ended the day down 50.56 points after losing as much as 102 points earlier in the afternoon.

Twelve stocks fell in price for every five that gained on the New York Stock Exchange.

The Dow's loss pushed the average back below the 2,000 mark at 1,963.53, ending a string of five consecutive gains. The average had gained more than 220 points over the stretch.

Analysts said the recent runup in the market may have precipitated the decline as investors, still shaken by the record 508-point decline in the Dow industrials on Oct. 19, sold stock to lock in short-term gains.

Tuesday's fall wiped out nearly $48 billion from the value of all U.S. stocks, according to the Wilshire Associates tally. It left the Dow average less than halfway back from its one-day fall on Black Monday.

Senate to fight over spending cuts

SPRINGFIELD—The Illinois Senate prepared Tuesday for a showdown over Gov. James R. Thompson's spending cuts, in the wake of Thompson's indication that he might be willing to compromise.

"It's really up to the Senate now," said Jim Brav, a spokesman for the governor.

Vetoed by Thompson in the final week of the 1987 session cut the state's $10.76 billion budget by $363 million. The governor said that would allow Illinois to finish the fiscal year with a $200 million balance and pay off a $100 million short-term loan obtained earlier in the year to head off a cash-flow problem.

But the Senate voted last month to restore $69.7 million in the form of a supplemental appropriation, including $21 million for elementary and high schools, $10.5 million for higher education and $3.2 million for the Illinois Math and Science Academy in Aurora.

The House restored $75.4 million, including $62.5 million for education.

McLaughlin's nomination brings woman back to Reagan cabinet

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Reagan on Tuesday nominated former Interior Undersecretary Ann Dore McLaughlin to succeed William E. Brock as secretary of labor and bring a woman back into his Cabinet.

Reagan called Mrs. McLaughlin, who also has held senior roles in the Treasury Department and the Environmental Protection Agency, a woman of "uncommon experience and competence . . . who has won my full confidence and support."

With only 15 months remaining in the administration, there appeared to be little sentiment among Democrats and labor unions for opposing the nomination.

"We're going to take a pretty good look at her, but it doesn't seem like she's drawing any serious opposition," said Paul Donovan, a spokesman for the Senate Labor and Human Resources Committee headed by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass. He added the panel has not yet decided when it will hold hearings on the nomination.

Sen. Orrin G. Hatch of Utah, senior Republican on the Labor and Human Resources Committee, called the choice of Mrs. McLaughlin "an inspired one, Ann has the ability and background to run the department." He added that "she is well-respected and her experience in government will bring a special expertise to the Labor Department. Mrs. McLaughlin gave up the No. 2 post in the Interior Department, a job she had held for three years, last March following several clashes with Interior Secretary Donald P. Hodel.

"When I left your administration earlier this year, I had no idea I would be back so soon," McLaughlin, 45, told Reagan in a White House Rose Garden ceremony announcing her nomination.

Neither Reagan nor Mrs. McLaughlin addressed any issues facing the department, including a large backlog of pending regulations in the Occupational Safety and Health Administration.

Carlucci favored for cabinet post

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senators of both parties predicted Tuesday that Frank C. Carlucci, President Reagan's national security adviser, would be easily confirmed as secretary of defense if nominated as expected to replace Caspar Weinberger.

Weinberger's resignation and Carlucci's selection are likely to be announced later this week, according to administration and congressional sources speaking on condition of anonymity.

Officially, neither the White House nor the Pentagon confirmed the reports, and both Weinberger and Carlucci declined comment.

Sources said Carlucci would be replaced as director of the National Security Council staff by Army Lt. Gen. Colin Powell, who is currently Carlucci's deputy. Powell would be the first black to hold that position and would be the sixth national security adviser in Reagan's presidency.

Weinberger, 70, plans to leave because his wife Jane is in poor health, suffering from cancer and from severe arthritis, the sources said.

Senate Minority Leader Bob Dole, R-Kan., predicted that Carlucci, a former deputy defense secretary under Weinberger and veteran of other top government posts, "will be well received" by the Senate.

Asked to compare the views of the two men, Dole said, "I don't see much difference."

Sen. Alan Dixon, D-Ill., a member of the Senate Armed Services Committee, said, "I shouldn't think Carlucci would have a problem being confirmed. He's a pretty solid person."

Regret expressed over attorney's resignation

By MIKE STEINER
Staff writer

Former City Finance Commissioner John Beusch expressed regret Monday night over the resignation of City Attorney Tony Sunderman two weeks ago.

Beusch, who is now employed as an executive assistant to Secretary of State Jim Edgar in Springfield, said he was disappointed to see Sunderman go, but he wasn't overly surprised.

In his letter of resignation, Sunderman cited reasons which involved the council members questioning his integrity in a case involving Beusch.

Beusch was awarded $12,000 for the destruction of a cabin he owned on Lake Charleston in May 1980. Members of the council questioned the amount of the settlement, which was drawn up by Sunderman, and wanted to ask for a second opinion.

Beusch said he probably could have gotten more money than he did for the cabin, considering he could have sought damages for the destruction of his property.

The cabin was condemned so that the council could obtain the land. Beusch said the interest he paid on the cabin after its destruction up to the court date was more than the amount of interest he was awarded in court.

The $12,000 awarded was justified, Beusch said, pointing out that he still paid for the lease and taxes during the time between the cabin's destruction and the court date.

"The house was the only cabin on the lake at that time that was at lake level and was also the largest plotted lot on the lake," he said.

Beusch said the proceedings he went through in court were normal for a condemnation case, but he was disappointed about the fact that no offer was made to him for the property before it was destroyed.

He said he owns a house on Lake Charleston, not at lake level and that is in worse condition than the cabin in the condemnation case, which had a value of $20,000 four or five years ago.

He said Sunderman was fed up with the questioning of the case. However, Beusch said, "That's probably not the only reason for him leaving."

Beusch said Charleston has too many good things going for it to not have the professional positions needed for a city this size.

He said the position of city attorney is definitely a full-time job, and not having the right legal advice can cost a city thousands of dollars.

"Sunderman was worth every penny the city paid him," Beusch said.

Knifing suspect could be headed for Chicago

By JEFF BRITT
Senior reporter

A Windsor man suspected in Thursday night's knifing incident remains at large and possibly boarded a Chicago-bound train, said Assistant State's Attorney Mark Novak.

William Hager, 32, was allegedly involved in a fight Thursday night in a parking lot in the 600 block of Sixth Street, across from Page One Tavern.

In the incident, three people were stabbed: two brothers, Kevin Spencer of Mattoon, 30, and Daniel Spencer, 23; and Hager's 17-year-old nephew, Andrew Kaczmarek of Windsor.

Kaczmarek said he doesn't know who started the fight, but his uncle accidentally stabbed him. Keven Spencer asserted he didn't start it.

Charleston Police Chief Maurice Johnson said he doesn't know for certain whether Hager ever actually boarded the train. "People call in when they think they see him," Johnson said. "It hasn't been verified."

Novak said Hager has been charged with two counts of attempted murder and two counts of aggravated battery.

Attempted murder is a class X felony punishable of no less than six years and no more than 30, Novak said. Attempted battery is a class B felony punishable of no less than two years and no more than five.

Both Kevin Spencer and Kaczmarek were listed in good condition at Sarah Bush Lincoln Health Center Tuesday. Daniel Spencer was released from the hospital Saturday.

The incident occurred as the Spencers were leaving Page One Tavern. Two of Kaczmarek's cousins, Les Burgess of Windsor and Frank Hager of Mattoon, were with him and his uncle, but they did not take part in the incident, Kaczmarek said.

"There might be further charges filed, but I don't know at this time," Novak said. "That's still under investigation."

Instructor lectures on Panama Canal construction

By COLLEEN BOLAND
Staff writer

"Efficiency" of the canal zone worker turned out to be basis for a lecture on the United States imposing segregation during the building of the Panama Canal in the early 1900s.

John Haley, a first-year history instructor at Eastern, gave a lecture entitled "The Creation of a Segregated Society: The Panama Canal Zone" at 7 p.m. Tuesday in the Coleman Hall Auditorium.

About 80 people attended the lecture.

Haley compared the intentional segregation of workers in the canal zone to South Africa's apartheid government system, which was initiated at the same time when construction of the Panama Canal began.

In the view of the contractors in charge of construction, Haley said the foreseen "ideal worker" who was to build the Panama Canal was supposed to be efficient, able to handle the hot climatic conditions and diseases common to the area, and work for the least amount of money.

In short, Haley said the white employers wanted their employees to be as "exploitable" as possible.

Since U.S. citizens were protected by the U.S. Constitution, U.S. they were not exploitable, and were not hired for the harsh work, and neither were the native Panamanians, because they belonged to a sovereign nation, Haley added.

In addition, Haley said American workers were in short supply because the Industrial Revolution was running at full tilt, using up most potential labor supplies in the United States.

But when the U.S. government went to purchase land for the potential construction, many native Panamanians forfeited their land and homes with little or no restitution.

Of the most exploitable groups of being as efficient a laborer as the white American worker, Haley said.

Most whites who were involved with construction were given supervisory positions and most operated the machines used in digging the canal, because of their "natural ability" in utilizing machinery, Haley added.

In truth, whites only obtained jobs supervising the construction of the canal, not by virtue of their work efficiency, but their ability to pass written tests not offered the other groups, he said.

To further the segregation, Haley said whites were made superior to the other groups involved in construction through economic segregation.

Whites were paid with gold while everyone else was paid in a lower form of silver coinage, he added.

The differences in the standard of living between the two classes was so vast, Haley said the gap was widened by whites who would not give up their standard of living, nor share it with the other groups.

"The only difference between the way a farmer feeds his pigs and the way these boys are fed is that a farmer feeds his pigs out of a trough," Haley cited an observer of the living conditions of some of discriminated canal laborers.

The building of the canal also began to take on a militaristic approach, Haley added.

"The American whites were officers on the gold roll, and the privates were everyone else," Haley said.

Eastern instructors elected to local board of education

By MICHELLE ZAWIN
Staff writer

Two Eastern faculty members were elected Tuesday to the board of education following local school board elections.

Five candidates competed for the three open positions. Placement Center Director Donald Schaefer and Educational Administration Professor Larry Janes were the candidates from Eastern who won.

Schaefer, who has worked in the school district as a principal for 10 years, was the leading vote getter.

He said that he was pleased with what he saw in the elections. "I am very thankful for the support the people have given me," Schaefer said.

Schaefer said that he hoped to get his feet on the ground first and then take a good look at the system.

"I am going to look at it with a conservative eye," he said of his future plans. "Hopefully we will be able to maintain and possibly improve on the existing (system)."

Janes said that he was pleased with the results because "pro-school people are ahead and they are very hard workers and have a great sensitivity towards kids."

He said that he ran to support the working cash referendum. "It is important to get the money for the schools."

The working cash referendum was sought to keep a tax of 44 cents per $100 assessed until 2005. The current tax is was scheduled to expire in 1995.

Expenditures and additions will have to be looked at conservatively, Schafer said, to avoid a financial bind.

Schafer was also in support of the working cash bond referendum because he said it is not a tax increase, only an extension of an existing tax. "Hopefully the state will come through. They have to come through, it won't last forever."

Janes said that at the present time he has no agenda planned.

G.C. Matzner, an retired Eastern instructor, also ran in the elections. Matzner taught education courses for 41 years, however he fell short.

Correction

It was incorrectly reported in Monday's edition of The Daily Eastern News that the university paid the University of Illinois Fire Service Institute to burn vacant structures at 1538 and 1602 Ninth St. The figure quoted was the amount that the university saved by having the U of I burn the buildings. The News regrets the error.

Reagan-Senate tug-of-war plays with high court

The Supreme Court nominating process has quickly deteriorated into nothing more than a political tug-of-war. Both President Reagan and his Congressional foes are to blame in using this procedure as a test of wills and political might.

Even before the president's first choice for the nation's high court, Judge Robert H. Bork, was officially dumped by the Senate, Reagan promised his next choice would be of similar ideology. At the same time Senate liberals such as Sen. Edward Kennedy, calling Judge Douglas Ginsburg "an ideological clone of Judge Bork," began training for another battle.

Reagan should be expected to nominate someone who reflects his beliefs for the role of the Supreme Court. At the same time, Reagan has, or at least should have, learned that the Senate's liberals are less than likely to see eye-to-eye with ideologues like judges Ginsburg and Bork.

Reagan's choice may have been a mistake. Ginsburg is inexperienced in comparison to Bork and the many other federal appellate judges who would also qualify. Still, the likes of Kennedy are premature in rejecting Ginsburg without having much upon which to base a rational decision.

Ginsburg's lack of published work and experience may be selling points for Kennedy's campaign. His appearance before the Senate Judiciary Committee and qualifications should, however, be the deciding factors.

The Supreme Court this fall will be considering a host of involved cases, which deserve the input of a full court.

During the month of November alone, the court will be hearing cases involving Medicaid payments, discrimination in firing an employee, child pornography, rent control and placing handicapped children in schools. Such cases deserve the benefit of a full court.

Reagan and his adversaries in the Senate should think about where an equally divided eight-member court would leave these constitutional questions as well as the ideologies of those making the decisions while they carry on with this bickering.

If the Senate and the president can't come to a middle ground, they will drag this process out again and an equal branch of government will be incomplete. Such would be to the detriment of the entire nation.

Take advantage of Parents' Weekend

Parents' Weekend is once again upon us.

For freshmen who have never had the pleasure of experiencing a Parents' Weekend, it goes kind of like this: Your parents arrive at your dorm (a.k.a. residence hall) at some ungodly hour. You don't even know what time it is; all you know is that the night assistant is still on duty.

At first, you may even be excited to see your parents. This will last for about five minutes (in dog years).

Your parents will want to do everything university-sponsored that they can. It doesn't matter if it's a session on the art of napkin folding, if it's in the Union, plan on attending.

Your parents, who probably haven't seen you for awhile, will act anxious to see you and will want to buy you things.

Freshmen often make the mistake of being timid when asked what they would like to eat/drink/stuff in their bolsters. This is not to say that all freshmen are shy in that respect, for I have seen many clean up on Parents' Weekend. Of course, I suspect older brothers and sisters may have provided them with cheat sheets.

So, the key here is to take everything your parents offer you during the weekend because THEY PROBABLY WILL NOT RETURN TO CAMPUS UNTIL YOU GRADUATE.

Something happens to parents when they send their children to college. Parents have this new-found freedom that allows them to park in the middle of the driveway and eat Captain Crunch with Crunchberries for dinner.

They will begin to actually like you being away. You may not notice this until your junior or senior year, although sudden changes have been occurring all along.

I just noticed it this year when I went home for my dad's 50th birthday party and discovered my room had been completely remodeled. "Do you like way your room looks, Jean?" my stepmother eagerly asked.

Jean Wright

It was OK. I mean, it didn't make me nauseous on or anything.

"You can put your coats on the bed in the guest room on the left," my stepmother cheerily called to visitors.

Funny, I didn't know we had a guest room until I saw all of the fur-covered people marching to my room.

Parents aren't the only ones eager to move you out. Siblings who are still at home enjoy their "right" to take anything you may have left at home, no matter how personal it may be.

Last time I was home, I had this crazy urge to brush my teeth. Upon arriving at the bathroom, I discovered there was only one toothbrush in the holder. I was confused because my two brothers and I share a bathroom which results in three brushes in the holder.

I was concerned, but feeling a little gutsy, I grabbed for my toothbrush.

It was wet.

Now, I'm no science major, but if a person leaves one toothbrush at school and one at home and the toothbrush that stays at home hasn't been used since the last visit (a month ago), shouldn't it be dry by now?

My room was gone and somebody used my toothbrush. Is nothing sacred?

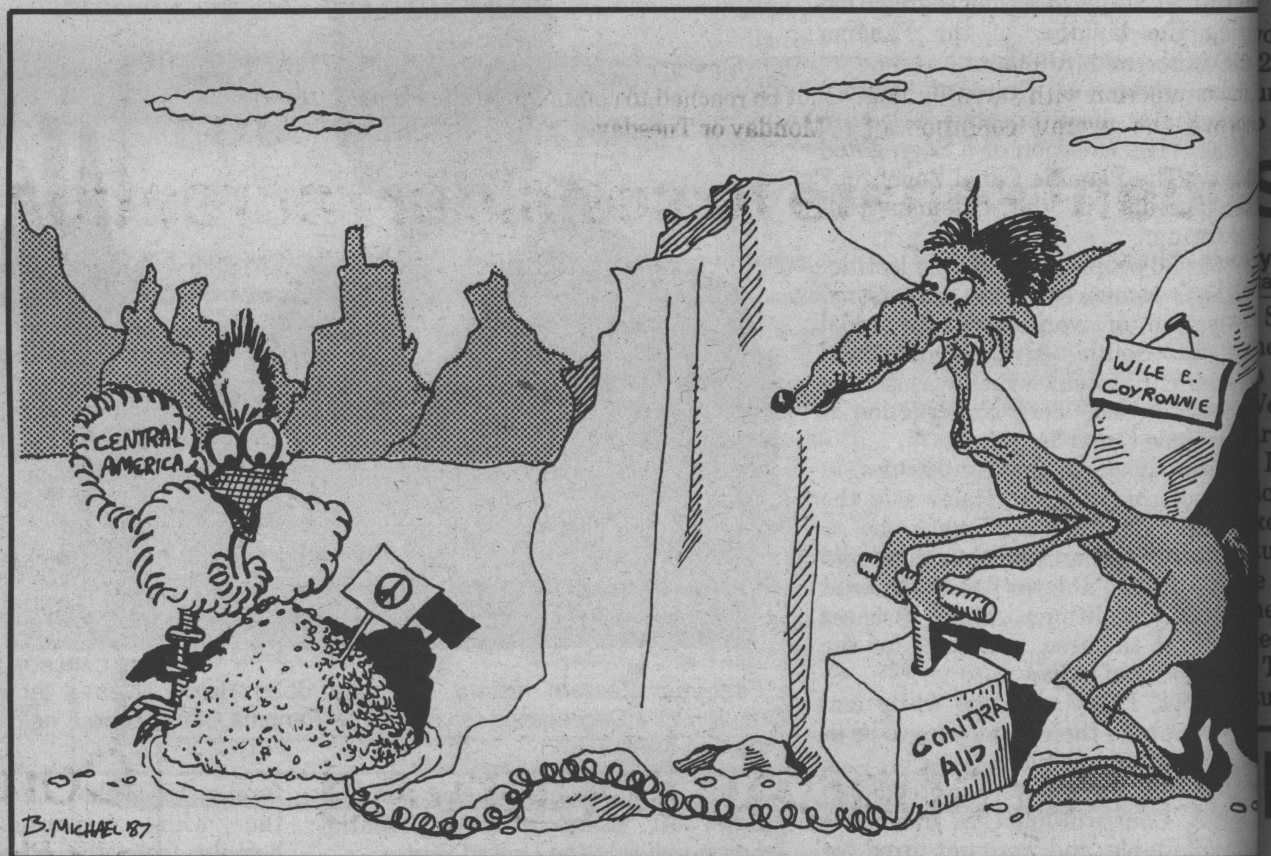

It's for reasons like this that you must take advantage of everything your parents offer you during the weekend. They will buy you things to rid themselves of the guilt they feel because they trashed your room and all of your hopes of good oral hygiene.

You will notice the change in your parents when they take you grocery shopping during the weekend. The same woman who, when you were a child, shrieked incessantly when you threw the Flavorice pops in the cart will now willingly offer you Ding Dongs and chicken pot pies.

Your parents will fill your cart to the brim and then announce as they write out a check that is larger than their mortgage payment, "With all of this food, you shouldn't have to come home for awhile."

Just nod and throw in the Flavorice pops when they're not looking.

Mom says new floats need recognition

Editor:

As a parent of an EIU student, I feel it is necessary to make a comment on some of the events of the homecoming weekend.

It was to be an exciting and challenging weekend for all involved; spirits were high, competition was keen, midterms were in progress. Pressure was strong for those deeply involved, but such is the meat of college life.

I was down for the weekend to view the parade and attend the football game, which I must add was a tremendous victory due to the outstanding efforts of the EIU team.

My dissatisfaction was not with the spirit of the school. The parade was most enjoyable with the efforts of each organization coming forward. You could judge the enthusiasm in the creativity of each float. Some you could see had been painfully planned, designed and assembled. Others were a passing or last-minute thought.

I had made my selections easily as to the organization's floats I would select. To my dismay when the results announced at halftime it was evident politics had entered into it.

The results were disgraceful, to those that had put weeks into creating a work of art representing the theme "The Big Apple."

Possibly the judges were not aware that "Big Apple" is not only a fruit, it also represents New York City. As king panther represented King Kong and Old Main (to scale) represented the Empire State Building. The creativity of theme was certainly ignored.

I believe those in charge should take a closer look at the new enthusiasm into school spirit and not just upon those that have lived on past lore.

What kind of example is being set for our young adults, if indeed this was the case.

I think the matter should be investigated and measures taken to remedy the situation. Our young people deserve as much.

City council appoints Dibley as city attorney

By JANE CLARK
Staff writer

The Charleston City Council approved the appointment Tuesday of John Dibley to the position of city attorney for Charleston.

The appointment, which was needed to fill the vacancy left by Tony Sunerman, was approved although there was some confusion about whether the appointment was interim or permanent.

Bruce Scism, Charleston public health and safety commissioner, said he was under the impression an interim attorney would be chosen to fill the position until a permanent attorney could be agreed upon.

"It is a surprise to me and I think it may well be a surprise to Commissioner Winnett (who was absent from the meeting) and we haven't until tonight, and I guess this is a good place to do it, discussed the working conditions and their input," Scism said.

"I'm ready to vote, I'm not going to vote against Mr. Dibley, I'm going to vote for Mr. Dibley, but I am a little disturbed."

Wayne Lanman, public works commissioner, said one consideration was the fact that the cost of hiring an interim attorney at this time would be more expensive than the cost of hiring a permanent attorney.

The appointment was unanimously approved despite the concerns registered by Scism.

The council also approved a plan that would authorize the spending of $26,000, from the city motor fuel tax fund, in conjunction with state funding to improve the overall condition of Fourth Street from 800 feet north of Cedar Drive South to Lincoln Log Cabin State Park.

Jerry Ripp, who was officially appointed city engineer at the meeting, said the improvements would include the movement of utility lines to below the road surface.

Several presentations were also given at the meeting including a report on the work of the Charleston Area Economic Foundation, which helps to secure and attract new industries to the Charleston area, and a report on preparations for negotiations to secure a new contract for cable service around the area.

The council also heard a statement from Andrew McNitt, Eastern political science professor, concerning the results of a telephone survey conducted to determine the feelings of Charleston residents on various issues.

The survey used two Eastern students who called Charleston residents, both home owners and apartment dwellers, asking questions dealing with cable television service, park clean up, and other issues affecting the community.

The resolution to allow the closure of streets for the planned monument dedication and march by the Veteran's of Foreign Wars from 10:30 a.m. to noon on Nov. 11 was also unanimously approved.

During the march, portions of Seventh street, Sixth street, Monroe avenue and Jackson avenue will be closed.

Representatives from the VFW could not be reached to comment on the event Monday or Tuesday.

Student senate to consider recreation center addition

By JEFF MADSEN
Staff writer

Student Senate will concentrate on the recreation center addition proposal at Lantz Gym when it meets at 7 p.m. Wednesday in the Union addition Arcola-Tuscola Room.

In a meeting with Glenn Williams, vice president for student affairs, the executive officers drafted two separate student fee increase proposals that will be voted on in a student referendum in the Nov. 10 student government elections.

The first proposal will increase the student activity fees by $70 and will be assessed starting in the spring of '89. The second proposal supports a $75 increase, also to be assessed in the spring of '89.

If the referendum fails at the polls Tuesday, Student Speaker Denise Wasetis said the recreation center idea will be scraped entirely.

"The main focus of the entire project is what the students want," Wasetis said. "Williams stressed that in our meeting, and we're going to stress it to the students."

A small scale model of the addition is expected to be displayed in the University Union by the weekend and Wasetis said photographs and floor plans of the center will be displayed at the five polling places.

"We want the students to see what they're going to be voting on before they cast their ballots," Wasetis said.

The proposed addition is a two-level structure and encompasses more than 78,000 square feet. If the students support the referendum, initial construction is expected to begin this summer and the entire project is expected to be completed within 19 months.

The new recreation center would house an indoor jogging track, two large multi-purpose rooms, five racquetball courts and six basketball courts, two of which would be enclosed in smaller gyms.

"I'm hoping the students will react positively to this," said Student Body President Deb Camren. "When Lantz was originally built, it was meant to service 5,000 students. We have twice that many students now and I personally feel there is a great need for the addition."

In other business, Student Senator Bill Helmbacher is expected to present three revisions to the Student Conduct Code for senate approval.

Parking spaces reserved for disabled at Berry show

By JUDY WEIDMAN
Activities editor

Handicapped individuals who plan on seeing Chuck Berry Saturday night may have an easier time getting into Lantz Gym.

"We're in the process of reserving some parking spaces on the northwest side (main entrance) for people who are handicapped—especially those in wheelchairs," said Ceci Brinker, assistant activities director.

"We're trying to make it more accessible for them to get in," Brinker said.

Student Activities Director Anita Craig said there will be five entrances to Saturday's 8 p.m. concert, but only four will be general access.

"The east-side doors (ramp) will be a handicapped entrance only," Craig said.

She said the other four entrances will be at the upper and lower doors on the northwest and southwest sides.

Brinker said they plan on opening the doors for the concert at 6:45 p.m.

Craig said the Union Box Office will be open for inquiries from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. and the Lantz Box Office (located at the North Main Entrance) will open at 6:30 p.m.

Brinker said the box office will not be selling any tickets, but will handle last-minute problems.

"The biggest worry is when parents lose their tickets, but we have the information stored in the computer to verify it," Brinker said. "We have replacement tickets available."

The concert committee has also been finalizing crew details for the event.

"We have gotten more than 80 names of people interested in ushering, but we'll have the final list on Friday," said graduate assistant Anne Leslie.

Brinker said Delta Tau Delta fraternity will have 18 members working three shifts and Delta Sigma Pi will have 20 members on four shifts.

She said they will also try and battle the hot weather.

Comedian will appear with Berry for 1st time

By JUDY WEIDMAN
Activities editor

Although comedian Billy Riback has never met Chuck Berry, he will be the '50s rocker's opening act Saturday night in Lantz Gym.

"I have not met him yet, so I'll meet him on Saturday," Riback said.

"I know it seems kind of strange, but it happens all the time," he said. "Agents usually go with what looks good on the surface."

Nine-year comedian Riback was the head writer for the David Brenner Show last year and has done a home video called "Paramount Comedy Theater" starring Howie Mandell.

"I have opened for Chubby Checker, Jay and the Americans, and I have also worked with Jay Leno."

Riback, a Canada native, described himself as an observationist.

"The people I like best are Mel Brooks, Woody Allen, Johnny Carson and Don Rickles," he said. "Whether I pattern (my act) after them, I don't know."

Riback will cover a variety of topics during his monologue.

"I'm not sure how many Chuck Berry fans there will be but I'm planning to do some jokes about him—it all depends on how the crowd reacts."

"I'll also do stuff about the school (parking problems) and some stuff about parents," Riback said.

"I like to make people aware that I know what I'm doing and that I care about them," he said.

Activities director Anita Craig said Riback's act was included in the $30,000 Berry package.

"Bad" act takes first place in lip sync show

By RUSSELL STARE
Staff writer

The stars came out Monday night to perform in the first student government lip sync contest held at E.L. Krackers, 1405 Fourth St.

After a moment of silence for the men still missing in Vietnam, Jeff Eckburg, the evening's emcee, started the contest by introducing the Beastie Boys portrayed by Delta Tau Delta fraternity.

The contest drew a crowd of 201 and made $330-$350 to cover expenses of the Vietnam memorial service Monday, said Student Senate Speaker Denise Wasetis.

Wasetis said the expenses should be nominal and money left over will be donated to the POW/MIA League of Families.

Before the performance,

Wasetis recognized three members of the Patriots Flag Corps squad from Mattoon, who were special guests at the contest.

The Patriots will be conducting a candle lighting ceremony at the memorial service, Wasetis said.

Wasetis said money was raised from a donation by the Patriots, half of the cover charge collected and 50 cents of the price of the $1.50 cups for beer.

Eleven bands had paid a $15 deposit to perform in the contest, but Wasetis said some of the bands were unable to perform because of problems.

Their deposits will also be donated to the League of Families.

Assertion workshop slated

By KIM MIKUS
Staff writer

If you feel you're getting run over and can't say what you really want, the "Assertion Training Course" will teach you to stand up for yourself, said Counselor Claudia Lane.

The three-part workshop, sponsored by Eastern's Counseling Center, 1711 Seventh St., will be held on Nov. 5, 12 and 19, Lane said. All three workshops will be held at 4 p.m. in the Union addition Paris Room.

"Being appropriately assertive is to learn to take care of yourself and at the same time treat others with respect," said Counselor Eleanor McCabe, coordinator of the workshop.

She said students will learn the difference between "aggressive and assertive behavior," adding that aggressive behavior is hurtful.

Another topic to be discussed is trying to please others which also causes hurt, McCabe said.

"To please other people is hurtful to oneself, and work needs to be done on it," she said.

Graduate students in psychology and guidance, Maureen Ferriter and Paul Hanrahan, will lead the workshop, Lane said.

Hanrahan said a main goal of the workshop is "to teach students to learn new skills in communication."

He added "assertiveness is not a gift, but a learned way of communicating."

He said the workshop will be "very experiential" and that role-playing techniques will be used to learn the new approaches.

"The workshop includes learning a skill and then practicing it," Hanrahan said.

Students who will find the workshop helpful are those who let others take advantage of them, and then say, "I don't like what I did there," McCabe said.

She said a question students should ask themselves is, "In my relationship with people, do I function in a way that's good for me?"

McCabe said the seminar will teach students how to say no without feeling guilty, and will also assist them in taking care of themselves.

Pre-law minor could be added to curriculum

By BILL PRICE
Staff writer

The Pre-legal Studies Committee is working on a questionnaire to find out how many students are interested in a possible pre-law minor, a proposal first introduced by Student Senator John Barrett.

Peter Leigh, pre-law advisor and chair of the Pre-legal Studies Committee, said he believes this minor would improve a student's skills and ability to better perform at law school.

The Pre-legal Studies Committee is made up of eight students appointed by the dean of the College of Arts and Sciences. The committee and a few interested senators will be distributing the questionnaire to the students in a variety of classes.

The questionnaire lists the courses that would be required for the proposed minor. The total number of hours required would be 24 or 25 semester hours.

At the bottom of the questionnaire the students are asked if they would take such a minor in order to prepare themselves for a legal career.

If a positive response is received, the results will then be submitted to the Arts and Sciences Curriculum Committee. Then the recommended proposal would need to be approved by the Council on Academic Affairs.

Once passed by the CAA, the proposal will go before the Board of Governors, Eastern's governing body.

Many students, teachers and senators have already shown their support to the committee and the proposal. The pre-law minor would "provide Eastern students with specific skills as well as background information which will assist them in law school," Leigh said.

Instructor returns from lecture in Costa Rica

By AMBER GRIMES
Staff writer

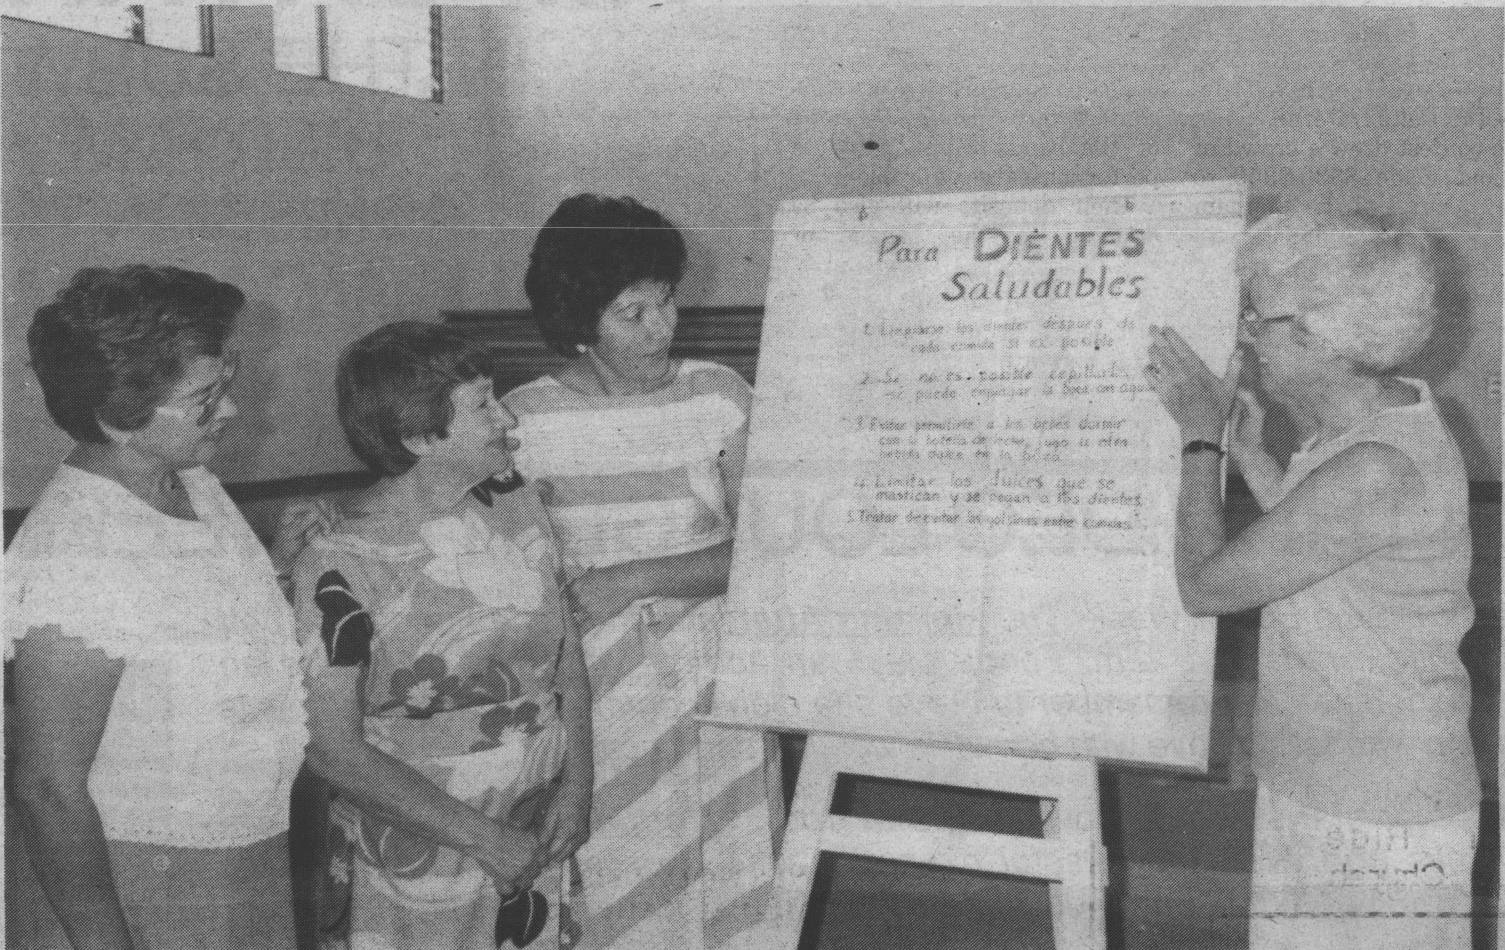

While some may consider Central America a bad place to be when many countries there are going through political and social upheavals, one Eastern professor recently visited there.

Home Economics Professor Ruth Dow spent an interesting spring in Costa Rica talking to women about nutrition and how to teach nutrition to others.

Northern Illinois University sponsored the two-month career development program for graduate students and faculty. Other specialists were represented in media, agriculture and nutrition.

College faculty were placed with families "who were instructed to speak to us only in Spanish," Dow said.

"There are several words to describe Costa Rica," Dow added. "Unique in that it has beaches, jungles and mountains and beautiful—not only scenery, but in that people are really friendly," she said.

Ruth Dow, right, who had this picture taken in a Methodist church in Costa Rica, gives a talk on nutrition in Spanish as she makes her point to her fellow colleagues using a chart.

posters." She said alfalit means "to make literate."

Dow worked with poor women in rural areas and with Nicaraguan refugees.

"Costa Rica did something unusual—they did away with their military and they put the money that would have been spent on military into health, education, housing and other human services," Dow said.

"They are more advanced than other Latin American countries in that they have what resembles our police and sheriff offices," said Dow. "Their medical services are provided for by their social security, because of not having a military."

Alfalit's point of view is once one learns to read they need to apply it. The learning is applied to nutrition, food and parenting to name a few, Dow added.

"A holistic approach is taken—a look at the whole family," Dow said.

She added another development is of passing on knowledge through leadership. When one learns to read, they can instruct other Costa Ricans.

"Every place visited there has an interest in nutrition," Dow said. "They are interested in the same things we are—good nutrition and heart disease."

Dow said she plans to return to Costa Rica for three months in February, March and April as a consultant to the University of Costa Rica.

"I am really looking forward to returning to Costa Rica and bring back information to share with colleagues and students," Dow added.

At 6 p.m. on Nov. 20, WEIU-TV will televise a taped program about Costa Rica. Another showing will be at 5:30 p.m. Nov. 21.

A potential exchange program for Eastern faculty and students has been discussed, Dow said.

Saxophone instructor will perform in Japan

By PETE SCALES
Staff writer

Daniel Goble, an Eastern saxophone instructor, has been invited to perform at the prestigious Ninth World Saxophone Congress in Kawasaki, Japan.

The congress, to be held Aug. 10-14, 1988, will consist of performances of new musical pieces, which were written especially for the saxophone, Goble said. It is held once every three years, with musicians traveling from all parts of the globe.

The purpose of the saxophonist festival is to "elevate the instrument's stature in the music world," Goble said. The saxophone, being a relatively young instrument in music, is only about 130-years-old, he added.

Goble was chosen for the congress after he sent in a resume and a program proposal of new music to be performed. An executive committee chose the performers according to their qualifications and selection of new music.

"It is a great honor for him, and for the school," said James Krehbiel, professor of music and music department chair. "It's an outstanding event."

Goble is expected to play two saxophone scores at the conference in Japan. "Divertimento," written by the Pulitzer Prize-winning composer Charles Wuorinen, is a very complex work in three sections, but it is "very accessible to the average listener," Goble said.

The second work, "Blue Caprice," written by New York saxophonist Victor Morosco, has a distinct blues theme, Goble said.

"Blue Caprice" has 11 variations, each being in a different jazz style, including Kansas City, Beebop, Cool and Chicago Blues, Goble added.

In preparation for the Ninth World Saxophone Congress, Goble said he will be performing "Divertimento" and "Blue Caprice" on Nov. 12 at the University of Illinois and March 31 at Eastern.

Jazz concert will be held Thursday

Two Eastern bands will perform a jazz concert at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in Dvorak Concert Hall.

The Jazz Sextet I and the Graduate Quartet will perform works by Rollins, Shorter and Montgomery.

"We usually do at least two concerts during the semester and this is the major concert of the semester," said graduate assistant Jonathan Schwabe.

Schwabe, director for both groups, said, "This is the first year for the quartet, and we've had small jazz combos since the program began three years ago."

He said auditions for the bands are held at the beginning of each semester.

"We (faculty and directors) try to find people that work together personally and musically," Schwabe said.

The concert is open to the public free of charge.

added.

Exploration into the feasibility of a recreation center was approved in March after a student vote proved favorable.

An 11 member exploration committee was established which contacted other schools. Eventually the committee presented its ideas to Champaign architect Bob Gruber.

"The move wasn't breakneck," Williams said of the elapsed time from the formation of the committee to the present proposal.

Gruber presented several designs to the committee, Williams said.

"The entire process went rather quickly and well considering the red tape we faced," Camren said in the press release concerning the addition of the referendum on the fall ballot.

"I think if they (students) vote favorably, the bonds could be marketed in the spring and preliminary work could begin within six months," Williams said.

However, Lange voiced concern over the increase. "Nine percent is definitely high right now," he said. Williams justified the percentage. "You can lower (the percentage), but you can't go higher," Williams said. "It would be unfortunate to go from 8 to 9 percent."

In both cases more than $1.5 million is needed annually to finance the construction of the recreation center, according to the proposals. Initial reports suggest the project could be completed in 19 months.

"It stands or falls on the will of the students," Williams said. He added that a drawing, and in some cases a scale model, will be displayed at polling places.

Friend

"There are other little things he remembers that he's not telling us."

Cooper said he is currently waiting on blood and clothing samples taken from the Jeep after the accident to return from the lab. He also said he plans to visit E.L. Krackers, 1405 Fourth St., the bar Mitchell and Wixom were last at on Oct. 16.

Exactly what charges will be filed is still uncertain at this point, Cooper said, adding he plans to visit the Coles County State Attorney's office Wednesday morning to discuss the case and possible charges.

"It's (the case) not closed. It's a long way from that," Cooper said. "We've got a lot more to do."

One other detail of Friday's investigation that Cooper and Mitchell offer different versions of is of a bargain lessening charges in return for Mitchell's confession.

"They told me admitting I was driving would lessen the charges," Mitchell said, refusing to confirm or deny whether he did admit to police that he was driving at the time of the accident.

However, Cooper said, "I never guaranteed him if we told the truth we could do anything." Cooper said he merely told Mitchell he would talk to the Coles County States Attorney's office and see what he could do.

Survey finds owners using bonus clauses in contracts

NEW YORK (AP)—Lance Parrish of the Philadelphia Phillies went 1-for-4 in a 9-3 loss to the Atlanta Braves on July 12 and made $200,000 for it.

Andre Dawson of the Chicago Cubs went 1-for-4 in a 12-0 loss to the Los Angeles Dodgers that afternoon and made $150,000.

All had incentive bonus clauses in their contracts that added substantially to their salaries if they were not injured by certain points of the season.

A study of baseball salaries published in Tuesday's editions of the New York Times and contract details obtained by The Associated Press reveal that several players earned more in bonuses than they did in salary.

According to the Times, there were 57 players who made more than $1 million and six of them made more than $2 million—Dan Quisenberry, George Brett, Jim Rice, Eddie Murray, Mike Schmidt and Gary Carter.

The $200,000 Parrish received for being in that July 12 game was a bonus for not being on the disabled list by the All-Star break, and it made him a 1987 millionaire. His salary was $800,000.

Parrish and Dawson were the only two premier free agents who changed teams last season. Dawson took a $1 million pay cut to sign a $500,000 contract with the Chicago Cubs, the team he wanted to play for. He earned an extra $150,000 when he did not go on the disabled list before the All-Star break and another $50,000 when he was named to the National League All-Star team.

He led the major leagues with 137 runs batted in and tied for the lead with 49 home runs. He is almost certain to file for salary arbitration. But because of owner's desires to reduce salaries, Dawson had to take a huge pay cut to switch teams.

Balboni was released by the Royals following the 1986 season. He earned $625,000 but hurt his back Sept. 9 and missed the remainder of the season.

Kansas City offered him a 1987 contract that guaranteed only $100,000, but included bonuses of $65,000 for every 30 games tht he did not go on the disabled list.

Jordan scores 36

SPRINGFIELD, Mass.(AP)—Michael Jordan scored 36 points to lead the Chicago Bulls to a 128-114 victory Tuesday night over the NBA champion Los Angeles Lakers in the seventh annual Hall of Fame game.

The game was played before a capacity crowd of 9,625 at the Civic Center.

The contest, which ended both teams' pre-season schedules, broke the Lakers' winning string at seven straight games. The Bulls finished at 5-4.

The Lakers played without 1987 league MVP Earvin "Magic" Johnson and center Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, both of whom were injured.

James Worthy, who led the Lakers with 31 points, staked Los Angeles to a 28-21 lead at the 2:03 mark of the first period. The Lakers maintained that advantage at the end of the quarter, 36-29, but then the Bulls took over.

Sparked by rookies Tony White, Scottie Pippen and Horace Grant, Chicago ran off a 20-5 spurt in 7:44 span to erase the Lakers' lead and hold a 67-60 lead at halftime.

Aided by strong second-half performances off the boards by Charles Oakley and Dan Corzine, Jordan scored 16 points in the third period as Chicago stretched its lead to 101-85 seconds before the end of the quarter.

The Bulls built their lead to as many as 17 points late in the contest.

The Bulls today also released sixth-round draft choice Doug Altenberger of Illinois as the team got down to the NBA regular season limit of 12 players.

Ditka tired on TV

CHICAGO (AP)—Mike Ditka says he was tired—not tipsy—when he taped a TV show after the latest Chicago Bears triumph, although a newspaper Tuesday said the spirits were flowing earlier at the coach's victory dinner.

"In the bag? No, says Mike," read the headline on the front page of the Chicago Sun-Times.

The newspaper said radio talk shows, newspapers and television stations were flooded with calls from people inquiring about Ditka's slurred speech, sing-song delivery and heavy eyes on WBBM-TV's "Bears Extra."

Told that viewers thought he was either drunk or overly tired following the Bears' 31-

28 victory over the Kansas City Chiefs Sunday, Ditka said, "Yeah, that's it. I really got tired. I fell asleep and just couldn't get back with it."

Witnesses said Ditka warmed up with champagne and song at a restaurant before taping the show at 7:30 p.m., the Sun-Times reported.

Morris, a former Bear player and teammate of Ditka in the 1960s, said he "noticed a bit of slurring" when he reviewed the tape, but decided it should air anyway.

"I thought most of the things he said made sense," Morris said. "He looked tired to me. I didn't smell alcohol or anything."

Green: Cubs OK

CHICAGO (AP)—Dallas Green no longer runs the Chicago Cubs, but when it comes to analyzing the team, he's still using the pronoun "we."

Green, who resigned last week as president and general manager after disagreements with club owners, said the Cubs are in good shape.

"Right now we are recognized as one of the top, if not the top, organization in all of baseball," Green said in an interview published Tuesday by the Chicago Tribune.

"Listen, I'm not ashamed of what we've done in six years here," he said. "The thing that I think most people have failed to do is look at what we have accomplished. Not at what we haven't accomplished."

Under Green, the Cubs won the National League East title in 1984, but otherwise they have failed to finish higher than third place.

Published reports have said Green wanted to hire coach John Vukovich as the new manager, but Tribune Co. Vice President John Madigan rejected the idea.

Green also was reportedly ready to name himself manager but declined when he decided his front-office authority would be lessened if he worked in the dugout.

The Tribune interview did not contain any comment on those topics.

Spiker adjusts to new role

By MIKE FITZGERALD
Staff writer

Eastern setter Donna Sicher, one of the top Gateway Conference freshmen a year ago, has handled the transition from being a starter to coming off the bench quite well.

Sicher led the team in assists with 624 and had 40 service aces a year ago.

Sicher, a 5-6 sophomore from Oak Forest, was moved to the bench when coach Betty Ralston switched from a six-to-two offense with two setters to a five-one offense with one setter—that being senior Jeanne Pacione.

"It was hard in the beginning, but I knew if I worked hard she would give me a chance if she needed another setter," Sicher said.

The opportunity knocked this past weekend when Ralston went back to the six-to-two offense against Northern Iowa and Drake.

Sicher responded to her first start of the season against Drake by posting a season high of 27 assists and 22 digs.

"The hitters knew that they would have to try extra hard to connect with the setter, and they made the extra effort to do that," Sicher said.

Ralston said she thinks Sicher's play resulted in middle hitter Gianna Galanti having one of her best weekends of the season.

"She (Sicher) used the middle hitters really well, and that's what we needed," Ralston said. "By setting Gianna up, there was an intimidation factor by getting more punch out of the middle."

Sicher said she is working on "a little bit of everything" to improve her game, but Ralston would like to see most of the improvement develop in her front-row play.

"With Jeanne leaving, Kelly (Stover) and Donna will be my only setters. Both of their major weaknesses are front row play, but we will be able to work on it in the spring," Ralston said.

"Donna's an excellent server," Ralston said. "The key as a setter is to be a consistent server, and Donna has been able to put the ball where we want her to."

Sicher's role as a setter and a server will become more important this weekend if Ralston decides to use the six-to-two offense in the Panthers' home matches against Illinois State and Indiana State Friday and Saturday night.

Winning the two matches is probably the only way to keep alive the Panthers' hopes of making the league's final four tournament at the end of the season.

"We have to play our game and play smartly," Sicher said. "We can't let up at all."

McGwire AL Rookie of Year

NEW YORK (AP)—Oakland Athletics first baseman Mark McGwire, whose 49 home runs set a major-league record for a first-year player, was unanimously selected Rookie of the Year in the American League, the Baseball Writers Association of America announced Tuesday.

McGwire, the choice of all 28 voters, is the second unanimous selection in the 40-year history of the award. Carlton Fisk of the Boston Red Sox was the first, in 1972.

McGwire's selection marked the first time since 1958-59 that players from the same team had won the AL award in consecutive seasons. Oakland's Jose Canseco was the 1986 recipient. Washington Senators Albie Pearson and Bob Allison were the last to be selected in consecutive seasons.

McGwire earned 140 points to 64 for the runnerup, third baseman Kevin Seitzer of the Kansas City Royals. Seitzer is a former standout for Eastern. Catcher Matt Nokes of the Detroit Tigers was third with 32 points.

McGwire broke Al Rosen's AL rookie home run mark of 37, set with Cleveland in 1950, then broke the major-league mark of 38 set by Wally Berger of the Boston Braves in 1930 and tied by Frank Robinson of the Cincinnati Reds in 1956.

McGwire, in fact, tied the Chicago Cubs' Andre Dawson for the major-league homer lead while driving in 118 runs and batting .289.

McGwire's record-breaking 39th homer was off 300-game winner Don Sutton of the California Angels on Aug. 14 at Anaheim Stadium.

With four homers in April and 15 in May, McGwire fell one short of Mickey Mantle's major-league record, set in 1956.

Parents cause ticket rush

The athletic department is encouraging Eastern students to purchase their tickets early for this weekend's game against Southern Illinois Saturday at O'Brien Field.

Associate Athletic Director Joan Schmidt said approximately 5,400 tickets have been sold to students who plan to attend the game with their parents as part of Parent's Weekend.

This year a section of the first 10 rows of the West side of the stadium, which accommodates 1,940 students, has been set up for students who plan to attend the game without their parents.

Schmidt said she is expecting a larger crowd than last year's 11,856. Therefore, students should plan ahead and get their tickets early.

Michigan State has inside track

CHICAGO (AP)—Michigan State has a half game lead in the Big Ten but that's not the only reason conference coaches feel the Spartans have the inside track for the championship and the Rose Bowl bid.

Most of the coaches in their weekly telephone interviews Tuesday felt Michigan State has the advantage over second-place Indiana because of the remaining schedule.

While both teams have two games at home and one away, the pivotal game a week from Saturday finds Indiana at Michigan State.

"No question about it," said

Illinois coach Mike White, "the remaining games and where they play them" give Michigan State the advantage.

White's Illini were responsible for the tie on Michigan State's 4-0-1 Big Ten record which put the 15th-ranked Spartans ahead of 4-1 Indiana, ranked No. 18. And this week Illinois journeys to Indiana.

"The key game in the race is Illinois at Indiana this week," said Michigan Coach Bo Schembechler. "If they can beat Illinois, the race will be decided the following week. There's no doubt about that. But if I were Michigan State, I wouldn't overlook Purdue."

While Indiana has to go against upcoming Illinois and its tough defense, Michigan State will be home against Purdue. If both Indiana and Michigan State win this week, the two will collide at East Lansing Nov. 14; Indiana then finishes the season at home against Purdue Nov. 21 with Michigan State winding it up against Wisconsin.

Iowa was responsible for Indiana's only loss, beating the Hoosiers 29-21 to knock them out of first place.

"I don't know, I think it's a long way from being over," said Iowa coach Hayden Fry.

co-captains Chris Simcox and Marty Molina.

McCausland said he hopes that Simcox, one of only two senior Panthers, can continue his success as he moves up to the 158 class.

"Chris is a three-year starter for us," McCausland said. "He was held back by a knee injury last year, but recovered to lose a hard-fought 15-14 regional match at 150, just one step from qualifying for nationals."

Molina, one of six Panthers with over 20 victories last year at 22-11-2, will start at 177 pounds for the third year.

"Marty did a tremendous job," McCausland said. "He beat several national qualifiers last season and one All-American. By coming up short at the qualifying tournament, he's hungry already for this season."

At the top of the Panther 10-man lineup this season will be junior transfer Copache Tyler.

Tyler, a Lincoln Community College graduate, won the national junior college championship last year and was the runner-up as a freshman at the heavyweight level.

Joining Tyler as first-year starters for McCausland are a trio of freshmen.

David Marlow (142), Mark Pflug (148), and Bobby Johnson (158) will each wrestle at the Michigan State tourney.

McCausland also said his squad is eager for competition.

"We're relatively young," McCausland said. "The guys are getting tired of wrestling the same people in practice and are ready for some fresh blood."

Perry's weight up

LAKE FOREST, Ill. (AP)—They call him "The Fridge" for short and if you want to talk at any length with William "The Refrigerator" Perry, don't ask him about his weight.

"I don't talk about that," said Perry, who appears to be nowhere near the 315 pounds that Coach Mike Ditka of the Chicago Bears desires.

Guesses on the defensive tackle's weight run from 325 to 340 pounds and one indication that he is not anywhere near form is that Ditka has not worked him on offense, even in practice, this season.

Two years ago when he was a rookie out of Clemson, the Bears got his weight down to 315 and Ditka used him in the backfield on goal line drives.

Twice in a Monday night game against Green Bay Perry blocked for Walter Payton touchdowns. He also rushed for a touchdown against Atlanta and caught a pass for another touchdown in the second game against Green Bay that year.

He topped that by rushing for a touchdown in the Super Bowl XX victory over New England.

Although he apparently is not concentrating on his weight these days, Perry is working on his defense and had his best game of the season in last Sunday's 31-28 victory over the Kansas City Chiefs. The Fridge had six tackles and one assist.

"I'm doing everything possible to get better," said Perry of his play. "I won't get to where I want to be until I make the Pro Bowl six or seven times."

Perry has not made All-Pro yet and although he had a solid season last year, he revealed "I played hurt and my knee cap was almost blown out."

Illinois prepares for Indiana away game

CHAMPAIGN (AP)—Illinois has momentum and confidence this week as it prepares to meet Indiana, while the Hoosiers know they nearly "have to beat us" to stay in the Big Ten race, Illini Coach Mike White said Tuesday.

"There's not a lot of pressure on us, I'll tell you that," said White. "We're in a pretty good frame of mind right now."

The Illini meet Indiana on Saturday at 11:30 a.m. CST in Bloomington, Ind.

Illinois is 3-4-1 this season, including 2-2-1 in the conference after a 27-17 victory over Minnesota last weekend. The Hoosiers lost 29-21 at Iowa, dropping to 6-2 for the year. However, with a 4-1 mark, Indiana is in second place in the Big Ten behind Michigan State.

"We've got to snap back and get on with the rest," said Indiana Coach Bill Mallory. "We've got to come out and play well. Iowa got out on us and we didn't respond well."

White said a tie at Michigan State followed by the homecoming victory over Minnesota showed improvements in all areas of the game.

"We're gaining some momentum and our level of confidence is fairly high," said White, whose team struggled in the first quarter against the Gophers. "Maybe this confidence will help us start faster."

Indiana is second only to Iowa in passing offense in the Big Ten, completing 61 percent of its passes for 2,314 yards and 13 touchdowns.

But the Hoosiers will face an Illinois team that has the best pass defense in the conference.

Seniors lead booters to top

By BRENT FEENEY
Staff writer

Four years ago, two people arrived on Eastern's campus anxious to keep the soccer program at the same heights former coach Schellas Hyndman had taken it.

Mark Simpson had excellent athletic ability, which led him to a successful career at Schaumburg High School.

John Glendinning had just led Wheaton Central to a berth in the 1983 Illinois High School Association Soccer Championship, losing the championship match to Glenbrook North.

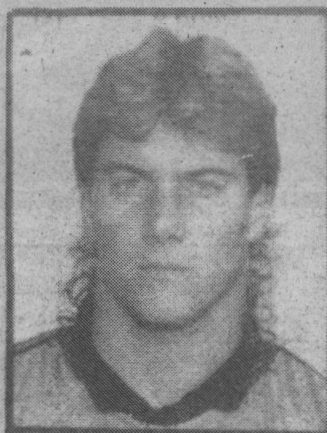

In four years, these two have led the Panthers to an overall record of 39-21-7 with two regular season matches to go.

Now, for Simpson and Glendinning, the only two seniors on the Panther roster, the future awaits.

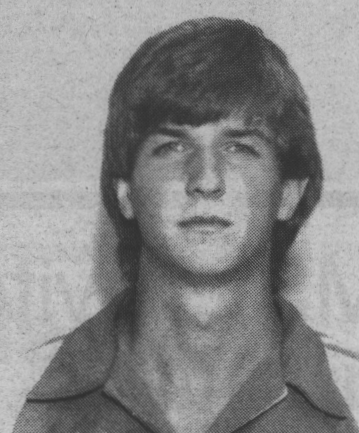

"I wasn't looked at by very many schools," Simpson said. "I asked George Gorleku, who used to play at Eastern, to put in a good word for me. He told Albert (Adade, who was an All-American for the Panthers in 1985), who told the school about me."

Simpson was contacted by Hyndman, who left in the spring of 1984 for the job at Southern Methodist University in Dallas. "(Current Eastern soccer coach) Cizo (Mosnia) kept pursuing me, and I came down to visit. I've had no regrets since," Simpson said.

"I had my heart set on coming," said Glendinning. "Schellas recruited me, but I had heard he left. Cizo talked to me that summer, and I decided to take my chances. Things have just worked out for me since then.

Mark Simpson

"People are really friendly here," Glendinning said. "The social aspect of school, like meeting other students, is much more relaxed here. Everyone seems to go out of their way to say hi to you and tell you that you're doing really well."

"It's a really friendly school," Simpson said. "I like the town and the school. If anyone wanted to come here, I'd recommend it."

Both of their most memorable moments came in 1984, when the team knocked off old rival St. Louis University at Lakeside Field.

Simpson made a key save on a penalty kick, then Neil Swindells scored late to give the Panthers a 1-0 victory.

"It was a very memorable game for me," Glendinning said. "It was our big rival, and we were driving for a playoff spot at the time."

This year has had some memorable moments also, such as the wins over Quincy College Sept. 26 and Evansville Oct. 21. "It's been a spectacular year," Simpson said.

"I'd like to teach and coach high school soccer," said Simpson, a physical education major. "Eventually, I'd like to come back and get my master's degree, then open my own soccer business."

"I'd like to get a job in public relations," said Glendinning, a speech communication major. "I've been a disc jockey for WEIU radio, but getting into radio or television is tough."

Both would also like a career in pro soccer, though. "I haven't thought about it much," Simpson said. "If I can keep playing steadily, we'll see what happens as far as that goes."

playoff game. I know that Eastern will be ready for this, and I think that we will be," Clarke said.

Their two strikers, (Garry) Midlaw and Noffert, are excellent. They have a good distributor in (Bill) Trager, and (David) Kompare is a really good attacker. They also have a really good goalie in (Mark) Simpson. They've got a really good team, and we should be in for a battle."

One thing the Panthers have is momentum in their favor. The booters haven't lost in their last eight matches, winning seven and tying one.

Eastern's varsity wrestling team will be looking for the right blend of youth and experience when its 1987-88 season begins Sunday at the Michigan State Invitational in East Lansing, Mich.

This will be the Panthers' fifth season opener under coach Ralph McCausland, a former Eastern All-American who previously coached at Wheaton Central and Downers Grove North high schools.

Eastern's 1986-87 squad finished with a 5-8 dual meet record, with McCausland sending two qualifiers, heavyweight Demetrius Harper and 118-pound Craig Sterr, to the national championships.

Harper placed 8th at the Division-I tourney to earn All-American honors and will serve as Eastern's student coach this winter.

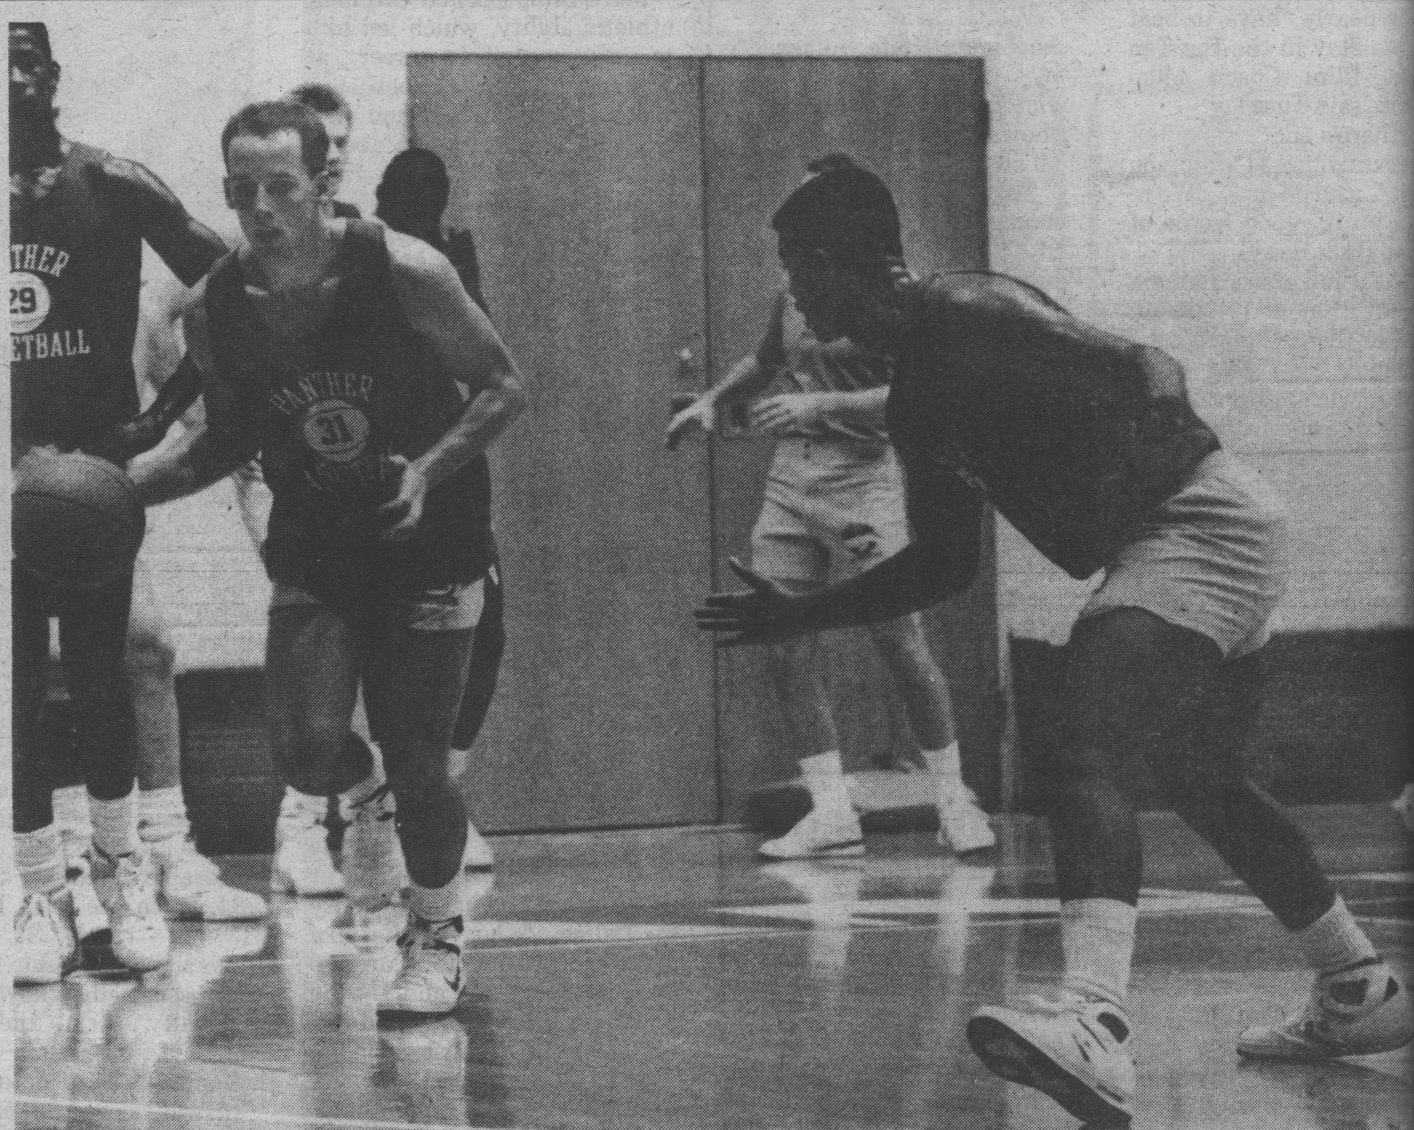

Sterr, a junior this year, placed in five tournaments in 1987 and had a 26-8 season mark.

Sterr will wrestle at 118 pounds this winter for McCausland.

"With Sterr leading off for us we're confident of having a good year, although we're still pretty young," McCausland said.

Booters to meet Billikens; playoff bid at stake

By BRENT FEENEY
Staff writer

Traditionally, soccer games between St. Louis University and Eastern have had much on the line.

Playoff bids, bragging rights and even advancement in the NCAA Soccer Championship tournament have been determined in past matches between the two rivals.

This year, things aren't much different.

The Panthers, ranked fourth in the Midwest region, and the Billikens, ranked second, will meet Wednesday night at the St. Louis Soccer Park in Fenton, Mo. with a possible playoff bid on the line.

Game time is 7:30 p.m.

"It's going to be winner-take-all match," said Panther Coach Cizo Mosnia. "We're pretty well evenly matched, and I think it's going to be a great game."

St. Louis has a tradition of excellence in the past. When soccer became a recognized sport in the 1950s, the Billikens won 10 NCAA championships in a row.

"They were, and still are, the role models for college soccer in America," Mosnia said.

"They've got a great tradition over the years, and I really like to play them."

The 11-3-3 Panthers are coming off a 2-1 overtime win against Wisconsin-Green Bay Saturday, with junior Mark Noffert scoring both goals. For his efforts, he was named AMCU-8 Player Of The Week in soccer. Noffert leads the Panthers with 12 goals.

The 9-5-2 Billikens defeated Southern Illinois-Edwardsville 2-0 last Friday night in the annual Bronze Boot contest, a traditional match between the two St. Louis area rivals.

"They play a very similar style to us," Mosnia said. "The only real difference is that we go to the goal a bit more than they do."

Stopping St. Louis's main scoring threats, Dan Walters and Tim Miramonti, will be the keys for Eastern.

Walters has tallied nine goals and four assists for 22 points while Miramonti has four goals and five assists for 13 points.

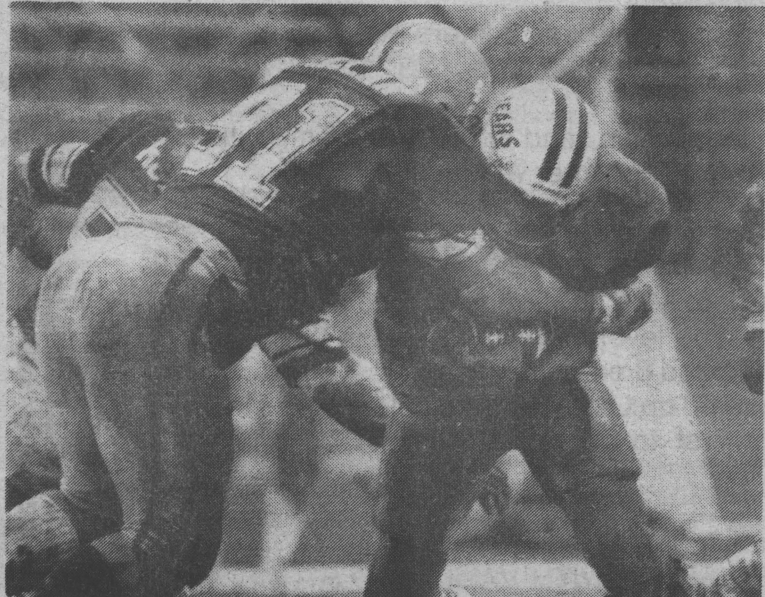

The Billikens split net time between Tim Cashel (1.13 goals against average in 10 games) and Kevin Johnston (1.72 GAA in nine games).

"Walters is very quick and has a nose for the net," Mosnia said. "Miramonti is their playmaker. We'll have to neutralize them if we want to be successful."

Billiken coach Joe Clarke rated this game "an eight on a 1-10 scale."

"Our seniors have really come forward for us this year," Clarke said. "They've done a really good job of keeping going."

Even though the Billikens are ranked second, Clarke and his troops are approaching this season with a playoff bid at stake. (See BOOTERS, Page 15)

Panther defensive tackle Mike Bollan wraps up Southwest Missouri fullback Mark Thomas during Eastern's 7-3 October 24 victory. The Panthers host SIU Saturday at 1:30 for Eastern's parent weekend game.

UNI has chance at Gateway title

Football Notebook/ Barry Bottino

The Gateway Conference championship race is now down to two teams after Eastern's 19-17 loss at Northern Iowa Saturday.

The Purple Panthers of UNI are now on top of the league heap with a 3-0 conference mark with three remaining teams to play (at Southwest Missouri and at home against Southern Illinois and Illinois State).

If UNI wins all three, they will finish 6-0 in the league and win the title over second place Western Illinois, who finished league play two weeks ago with a 5-1 mark. The Leathernecks' only conference downfall was a 52-7 loss to Northern on Oct. 24.

Eastern's Panthers are now in third place tied with Southwest Missouri with 3-2 records.

The Bears are in fourth place, however, after losing 7-3 to Eastern on Oct. 24. The Panthers will host Southern Illinois Saturday at O'Brien Stadium while the Bears will finish league play Saturday in Springfield, Mo. versus UNI.

Player of the Week

Saturday's UNI-Eastern contest provided more than just excitement for the Gateway Conference.

On the defensive side of the ball, Eastern's Tim Lance was named the Gateway Defense Player of the Week with school record-tying 17 tackles and one forced fumble.

Pitts closes in

Senior Panther tailback DuWayne Pitts needs only 17 yards to move into fourth place on the all-time rushing list.

The Detroit native is currently in the fifth spot with 2,498 career yards, while Northern Illinois' Anderson's 2,516 yards put him ahead of the 1971-73 Panther in fourth place.

One more win

If the Panthers win Saturday versus Southern or Nov. 14 against Western Kentucky, Eastern will clinch its 10th consecutive winning season.
