Absence policy changed

AMBER GRIMES
 Staff writer

Eastern's Health Service has changed their excused absence policy so instructors will have to call Health Service for verification of a student's absence rather than being notified by Dean Johnson's office.

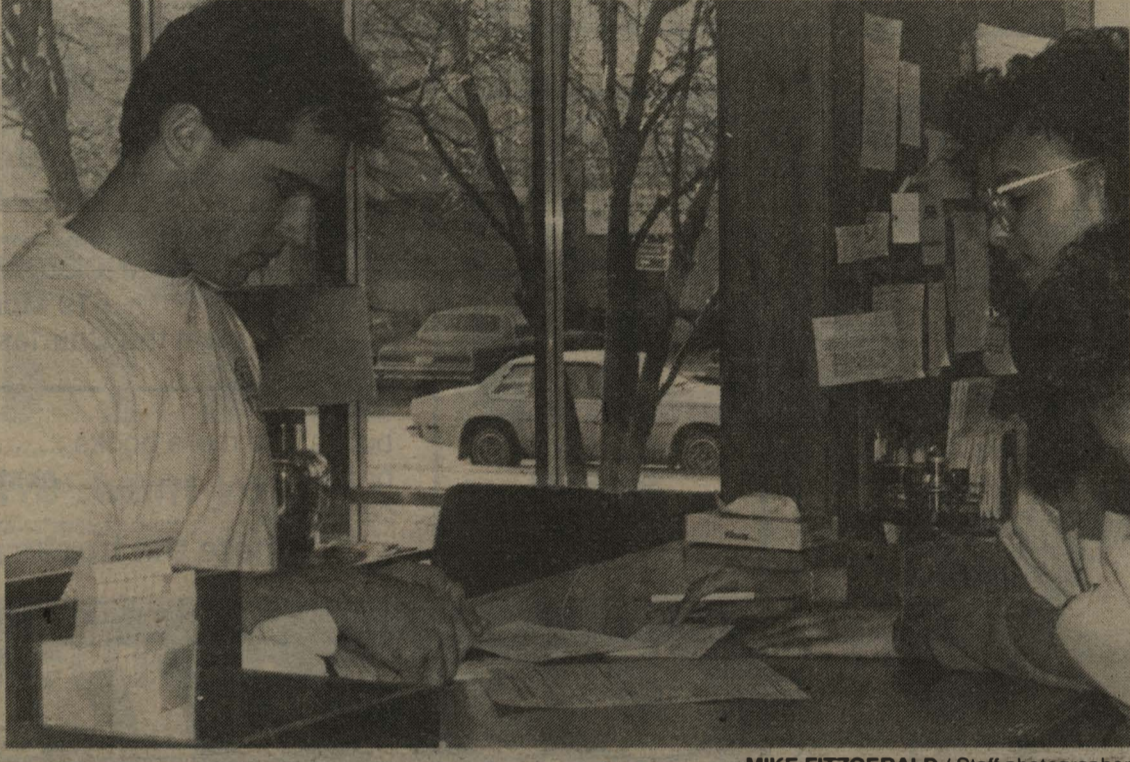

As students walk into Health Service they will receive a slip of paper explaining the new policy when they are given their medical records.

The explanation states that it is the student's responsibility to have the excuse validated at the reception counter.

According to the policy, "a student upon request, will be given a document indicating by electric time recorder (time clock), the time of arrival and departure from the Health Service."

"The new policy has been approved to be implemented for spring semester," said James Johnson, student services assistant dean.

One change in the new system is that the instructor should have the student sign the proper release form from the Health

Budget increase approved

By CRAIG EDWARDS
 Administration editor

The Illinois Board of Higher Education approved a proposal Tuesday which will increase Eastern's operating budget by 16.2 percent for the 1990 fiscal year and hopefully eliminate the need for any immediate tuition increases.

The budget increase, which was proposed by the IBHE staff, met unanimous approval during the board's Tuesday morning meeting in Chicago. Ross Hodel, IBHE deputy director, said the budget recommendations must now go to the General Assembly for final approval.

The IBHE budget recommendations, if approved by the state legislature, will bring Eastern's FY 90 operating budget to $51,803,300, an increase of $7,211,200 from the $44,592,100 FY 89 appropriation.

This 16.2 percent increase is the highest percentage increase among the state's 12 public universities, and compares with a 14.5 percent increase for all public universities.

In addition to the statewide 14.5 percent increase, the budget recommendation clearly restricts further increases in tuition. "No increase in public university tuition rates in the context of these recommendations will increase access to higher education and help contain college costs," said IBHE Executive Director Richard Wagner.

Access to higher education is an issue Eastern's Board of Governors has expressed concern over in recent months. At its Dec. 1 meeting, the BOG adopted a resolution urging the General Assembly to give high priority during the 1989 legislative session to higher education funding.

At that meeting, BOG Chancellor Thomas Layzell said "the need to raise tuition to compensate for inadequate state resources is adversely affecting access by low and middle income students at the five (BOG) universities." With a mid-year tuition increase of $120 now in effect, undergraduate students at the five BOG universities currently pay $1,572 per year for lower division coursework and $1,596 per year for upper division coursework.

Pam Meyer, BOG spokesperson, said Tuesday that if the legislature approves the IBHE's FY 90 budget recommendations, there probably won't be a need for any additional tuition increases.

Parking problems: no signs yet

By DONELLE PARDEE
 Campus editor

Although Eastern's new parking policy was scheduled to go into effect this semester, the 24-hour enforcement of all faculty and some student parking lots may not go into effect until next year.

Sgt. John Hensley of the University Police, said the only lots that can be enforced 24-hours, seven days a week at this time are the students lots adjacent to the residence halls and food services.

The faculty lots are checked between 7 a.m. to 5 p.m. After 5 p.m. students may park in those lots without having a permit.

How to get your stickers

- What: Student parking stickers on Eastern's campus.
- When: Stickers will be on sale from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Wednesday, Thursday and Friday.
- Where: University Police station, at Seventh Street and Grant Avenue.
- Cost: Stickers for the spring semester are $12.50.
- Amount left: There are 250 to 300 stickers.

However, once the enforcement of the policy goes into effect fall semester, student cars must have a permit to park in all lots after 5 p.m.

The enforcement policy, which was to go into effect at the beginning of the 1988-89 school year, was not enforced in the fall for faculty lots because the new signs stating parking by permit only with 24-hour enforcement were not delivered for all the lots.

The student lot signs were delivered in time for the fall semester, however only some of the faculty lot signs arrived by the start of the spring semester.

Williams said "hopefully they (the signs) would have been here by now," but because it was not a big order the company fills it in between larger sign orders.

"It is kind of frustrating. We cannot enforce laws where there are no signs," Williams said, adding, it is better to begin enforcement at the beginning of a semester. "It's like switching the rules in the middle of the ball game."

Hensley said if the policy is to be enforced in the future it will probably not be until next fall and

First day of Add/Drops expected to be hectic

Students who were not able to get into a desired class will need to go through Add/Drops Wednesday, Thursday and Friday in the Martin Luther King Jr. University Union Ballroom.

Students wishing to drop a class during this week need to do so in the Union Ballroom during Add/Drops. The Add/Drops schedule is determined by the last digit of the social security number.

Director of Registration Michael Taylor, said there was no need for students to arrive hours early because they do not let people in before their scheduled time.

If a student is scheduled for 11 a.m. he could go to Add/Drops at 10:30 a.m., Taylor suggested.

Although he added that every year students will arrive at the line at 7:30 a.m., which is unnecessary.

Students should have an idea of what courses they want and have some alternates, he added.

"If a student really needs a course for graduation they can go to the department head to work something out," Taylor said.

Taylor added the first day of Add/Drops is always hectic.

The schedule according to the last digit of the student's Social Security numbers for Wednesday is as follows: 6 - 8:30 a.m., 7 - 9 a.m., 8 - 9:30 a.m., 9 - 10 a.m., 0 - 10:30 a.m., 1 - 11 a.m., 2 - 11:30 a.m., 3 - 12 p.m., 4 - 12:30 p.m., 5 - 1 p.m.

The doors close at 3:30 p.m.

Add/Drops will be open to all students from 1 to 3:30 p.m. on both Thursday and Friday.

Pan Am bomb exploded by wing

LONDON (AP)—The bomb that destroyed Pan Am Flight 103 over Scotland was located in a front cargo hold in front of the wing, Transport Secretary Paul Channon said Tuesday.

Channon told the House of Commons that the fact that Semtex plastic explosives were probably used to make the bomb pointed to a highly organized terrorist group planting the device.

The Boeing 747 exploded over the Scottish town of Lockerbie on Dec. 21, killing all 259 people on board and 11 people on the ground.

The Department of Transport's Air Accident Investigation Branch had narrowed "the area (of the bomb's location) to that of the No. 1 cargo hold just forward of the wing," Channon told lawmakers.

He said it was too early to tell where the luggage or article that contained the explosive originated.

"It is essential that we discover who put the bomb in the aircraft and how it got there...The signs of the use of high-performance plastic explosive—which was very probably but not certainly Semtex—point to a well-organized and well-supported terrorist group," he said.

Channon did not say how investigators determined the location of the bomb.

Western terrorist experts have said they suspect Semtex, an explosive made in Czechoslovakia, was used to sabotage the jumbo jet.

Although Czechoslovakia denies Semtex was used in the Lockerbie incident, it has promised to send experts to help in the investigation.

A Foreign Office spokesman speaking on condition of anonymity, said four Czech experts planned to arrive Wednesday for a one or two-day visit.

In Lockerbie, police said Tuesday they had recovered and identified another body from the crash. They said they were still searching for the bodies of several local residents and 21 passengers.

Police released for burial the body of Rosaleen Somerville, 40, whose husband, John, and children, Paul, 13, and Lynsey, 10, also died in the crash.

FBI arrests Navy officer

WASHINGTON (AP)—A retired Navy chief petty officer was arrested Tuesday on charges he tried to sell highly classified information about anti-submarine warfare tactics to the Soviet Union, the FBI said.

Craig D. Kunkle, 39, of Virginia Beach, Va., was arrested by FBI agents from the Norfolk, Va., field office on charges of espionage, gathering or delivering classified information to a foreign government and disclosure of classified information, said FBI spokesman Charles W. Steinmetz.

Senators reorganizing committees

The Student Senate will start off the first day of classes this semester with an orientation meeting Wednesday to announce the new committees and their members.

Student Senate Speaker Jane Clark said the meeting will be held at 7 p.m. in the Union addition Arcola-Tuscola Room. It will follow a regular agenda, but will mainly serve to reorganize and prepare for the rest of the semester.

Clark said the committee members were chosen on the basis of a preference sheet naming the committees each senate member wanted to be a part of which each senate member filled out before Christmas Break. The senate members also filled out forms for committee chair, which Clark said would be picked on a basis of past accomplishments.

In addition, the senate members will vote on the resignation of Carrie Curtis from senate, who resigned because she is no longer attending Eastern, Clark said.

The senate will also decide on other unfinished and new business at the meeting.

Registration said to be less confusing

By MATT MANSFIELD
Activities editor

Central Registration was a little lighter than last year as less students needed to register for classes, a director said.

Michael Taylor, director of registration, said Central Registration was a little slower than in the past.

Faculty members who worked at Central Registration said they think it went well this semester.

"I think it went quite smoothly," business advisor Wanda Johnson said. Her view was shared by other faculty members who said they think this Central Registration was one of the easiest in some time.

"We haven't had as many students in as we've had in the past and everyone seems to be getting a full schedule with less confusion," said John Messer, school of technology.

Central Registration is the time when all students who have not pre-enrolled must attempt to get their class schedule. For various reasons students sometimes have to go through Central Registration.

"We had a student who just transferred and got here today and we were able to put a schedule together," Art professor Al Moldroski said.

Sometimes students aren't able to get all the classes they want because the pre-enrolled students have taken all the spaces.

"We had quite a few sections of classes and everyone seemed satisfied that they were able to put a schedule together," Messer said.

Although some students may not have gotten the class times they desired, they did get classes.

Transfer student Brad Poiriez said he got all the classes he wanted. "I was pretty happy with what I got since I waited."

"Some of the students didn't get exactly what they wanted but that's to be expected," Moldroski said, "but I think it went well. Of course from a student viewpoint it may not have."

By the faculty gauge, Tuesday was busier than Monday. "We had more students today than yesterday, maybe some people waited to come back," business advisor Doreen Nelms said.

Keep chemical weapons away from Libyans

Col. Moammar Gadhafi and the Libyan government have accused the United States of beginning a vile campaign spurred by U.S. allegations that the Libyan government maintains and operates a chemical weapons plant in Rabata, 60 miles southwest of Tripoli.

In an international conference on chemical weapons, Libyan Foreign Minister Jadhah Azouz Ettalhi dismissed U.S. charges that Libya has a chemical weapons plant as "clearly false." Ettalhi then condemned the U.S. of downing two Libyan jet fighters last week and encouraged other nations to charge the U.S. with acting in military aggression rather than self-defense.

However, the Libyans have yet to prove the alleged plant produces pharmaceuticals, as they maintain. On Saturday, three busloads of journalists were taken to the plant, but only allowed to view it, not to physically tour the facility. Later Saturday afternoon, 100 of those visiting foreign journalists were expelled from Libya.

This arouses only further suspicion.

Both the United States and the Soviet Union have acknowledged having large stockpiles of chemical weapons, but they are the only two countries who admit to the charge. Twenty other countries are presumed to have stockpiles of chemical weapons.

Stockpiling of chemical weapons has created widespread fear that nations without nuclear capability will instead stock chemical arms. At that same conference, Israeli Foreign Minister Moshe Arens charged that Iraq, Syria, and Libya, have chemical arms and represent a "direct threat." Arens charges that Iraq and Libya have already used poison gas in violation of the 1925 Geneva protocol banning the use of chemical weapons.

Both the United States and the Soviet Union have called for an international ban on chemical weapons. Meanwhile, the Libyans may be consistently manufacturing the deadly threat.

Chemical weapon's technology does not belong in the hands of terrorists.

Quote of the day...

We're not as bad off as we think

I've never met anyone quite like the boy I'm about to introduce you to.

I met him while I was working as a general assignment reporter for McHenry County's Northwest Herald over Christmas break.

His name is Danny Gough, he's 16 years old and lives in McHenry, about four hours north of Charleston. Danny's story truly is a remarkable one.

On a balmy August day when he was 14 years old, Danny went to see his doctor to get a routine physical. The physical was mandatory for him to enter McHenry Community High School as a freshman and required in order to participate in his two favorite sports - soccer and basketball.

Danny was a typical, healthy, young kid. He worked on a neighbor's farm bailing hay and spent most of his summer days fishing in a nearby stream. He had everything going for him and couldn't wait to start high school.

The doctor gave Danny a clean bill of health. That wasn't a surprise.

But ironically enough, just seconds after he stepped out of the doctor's examination room, Danny blacked out and hit the floor. Minutes later, the doctor managed to revive him. He thought Danny might have had a bad reaction to a shot he had given him.

But when Danny woke up, he clutched his head, broke out in an uncontrollable sweat, began vomiting, and screamed out in pain. At the tender age of 14, Danny was suffering from a brain aneurysm. A blood vessel had burst in his head. One side of his brain was literally crushing the other.

He was rushed into emergency surgery and then spent the next three weeks in a deep coma. Doctors weren't optimistic about Danny living and did not offer many words of encouragement for his parents. "They didn't give us much hope for anything," his mother

Jeff Madsen

Marcie said. "But we refused to believe that."

His parents were right.

Danny gradually pulled out of the coma, but encountered an even more serious setback. Doctors discovered he had experienced a total memory loss. For him to survive, Danny would have to be taught everything all over again - how to eat, read, walk, talk, go to the bathroom... everything, beginning from infancy.

Today, almost two years later, Danny can read. He now spends one hour a day with his classmates at McHenry High School and plans to graduate with them in 1991. This past fall, he worked hard enough to make the honor roll there.

He can talk very clearly. And although he's still a little unstable, he can walk too.

"It's been really weird. It's like I've lived a kid's life over again in just a few short months," Danny said.

In just a year and a half, he's progressed from being a helpless infant trapped in a 14-year-old's body to an intelligent 16-year-old. Doctors have no medical explanation for what happened to him and simply credit his recovery "miraculous."

There's so much to tell about Danny Gough, but what I'll remember most about him is that he overcame much more drastic odds than most of us will ever have to face in our lives.

In college, we can get caught up in trivial things that make it seem like the end of the world to us... a bad grade, a fallen romance, a miserable roommate, a professor who enjoys making life difficult.

I don't know how most of us would have reacted if we were in Danny Gough's shoes a year ago. Then he was a 15-year-old confined to a wheelchair and unable to physically or mentally function without help from others.

Those truly are some difficult odds to overcome.

But Danny Gough dealt with them. And no matter what happens to us this semester, hopefully we'll have enough courage to deal with them too.

Pombert misses role of condoms

Dear editor;

I think it's great that Jeff Pombert has such high moral and principles. I wish that we all were as high and mighty as he, but the sad fact is that we aren't.

Project Safety never said that there is anything wrong with abstaining from sex, it is the best form of birth control. The problem is that most people choose not to abstain from sex, thus not having the same beliefs and principles that Mr. Pombert has. Mr. Pombert states that if people would just stop pre-marital sex, we would stop sexually transmitted diseases all together. That's untrue, and Mr. Morals knows it. The sad fact is that one out of every 5 people will get some form of S.T.D. (sexually transmitted diseases) before they are 25. This includes married couples. Over 25 percent of all adults have some form of S.T.D. Yes, Jeff, this includes married couples also.

America is the land of choice. If Mr. Pombert chooses not to engage in pre-marital sex, that is fantastic. However, I think it is very selfish of Jeff to inflict his "mightier than thou" attitude on those who already made the choice to have pre-marital sex. Quite frankly, Mr. Pombert is in the minority. Just because the machine is available in the residence hall does not mean everyone would or should use it.

Mr. Morals also states that there is no education in buying a condom. Obviously, he never read our plan. We would have lectures prior to installation. Part of the profits would go to Planned Parenthood to further promote education. There is education involved, when you care to look.

Jeff also doesn't understand how the machines would be paid for. They would be paid through each hall's council. This way the machines would be owned by the halls that want to have them at no price to those who do not wish to have them. If they are damaged, there would be a fee, just like if a pool table was broken. Not everybody plays pool, but they still must pay to have it fixed. It is obvious that Mr. Pombert either didn't do his homework, or just doesn't understand what is happening.

Mr. Pombert also infers condoms are sold only to people who aren't married. Wake-up Jeff, over 400 million condoms are sold each year, making them the top selling contraceptive. About 25 percent of condoms are bought by women. Our guess is that at least a few of them are married. Now, if Jeff wants to call every unmarried person who ever bought a condom immoral, that's his prerogative. Who is allowing him to say what is moral or immoral? Labeling millions of people immoral is wrong whether he admits it or not.

Jeff states that if Eastern would put condom machines in the halls, they would lower themselves to the level of truck stops. This is ludicrous, we would be raising ourselves to the level of Ohio State, the University of Iowa and numerous other schools who see their importance as an effective method of stopping disease.

Mr. Pombert let his personal religious preference blind him to the facts. If he would have taken his own advice and gone to the library to do some research on the subject, Mr. Pombert would have read some of the recent statements that C. Everett Koop, the U.S. Surgeon General, recently made. One statement read, "Yesterday's morals won't save today's lives." Jeff, it's important to realize that while we all are striving to become the Cleavers of the 90s, "Leave it to Beaver" is and old rerun.

Schools have had Mr. Pombert's view for years, recently they realized that they were wrong. Isn't it time we woke up too?

John Dietrich and Dan Dunhamell Project Safety

Better safe than sorry

Dear editor;

I am writing in respect to a column written by Jeff Pombert.

Mr. Pombert's effort to continue connection between condom machines and loose morals was in vain. I laughed all the way through his article. Jeff Pombert used the argument that we won't understand AIDS any better by using a condom. This is true Jeff, but what ever happened to better safe than sorry? I truly cannot believe that he is that closed-minded to think that people are going to stop having sex before marriage. That has been going on forever, but never has it been so open than in recent years. And never has the fact of sexually transmitted diseases been so advertised, as it well should be.

Grow up Jeff, this is the 80s. Let's deal with problems realistically. People's morals have changed with the times and so should our ways of dealing with the problems of the times.

Putting condom machines in bathrooms will only reinforce the message of safe sex.

Seminar dropped

By TONY CAMPBELL
Staff writer

Senior seminar classes scheduled to be taught by Ralph McGinness have been canceled and students enrolled in the classes have been reassigned to different senior seminars.

McGinness, who died Monday at Burnham Hospital in Champaign, was to teach a seminar on Abraham Lincoln. The seminar was canceled after McGinness became extremely ill several weeks ago, a spokesman for the registration office said.

Students who are dissatisfied with the new class must go to Add/Drops to find another seminar.

The seminar, "A Lincolnian View of American Democracy," discussed Lincoln's speeches that reveal dominant philosophies and how the philosophies relate to contemporary American democratic societies.

Carlos Harrison, owner of Harrison's Schwinn Cyclery, 303 Lincoln Ave., and a personal friend of McGinness, said that McGinness' true love was the history and lore of Abraham Lincoln.

McGinness was also very active with the debate team and won many matches by using quotations from Lincoln. McGinness said in an interview, which appeared in the May 6, 1988 issue of On the Verge of the Weekend, that he had around 12 good quotes from Lincoln.

He added that the judges seemed to pay attention when he began the sentence with "as Abraham Lincoln said."

Harrison also said that one key reason that McGinness moved to Central Illinois from Montana was so he could be surrounded by Lincoln's past.

McGinness also took a strong interest in politics as he was a devoted republican and ran for a U.S. representative position.

Robert Hennings, professor of history, said that McGinness was a long time member of the historical society and was currently the vice-president. Hennings said McGinness taught several sections of his senior seminar class.

McGinness stated in the May 6 article that he enjoyed class discussions and loved to sit back and listen to students argue points because it stimulates thinking.

Harrison said, McGinness was a very nice man and he will be missed by all.

Post Office raises reward

By CHRIS MORDI
Staff writer

The reward for information on recent Post Office burglaries has been raised from $1,000 to $5,000 by the U.S. Postal Inspection Service.

On the night of Dec. 22 or the early morning of Dec. 23, the stamp vending machine in the Charleston Post Office, 320 Sixth St., was broken into and robbed of cash, said Postmaster Jim Isbell.

Isbell estimates that cash in excess of $800 was removed from the machine. No stamps, however, were taken.

er, were taken.

Post offices in Tuscola, Sullivan, Shelbyville, Rantoul, Fairmont and Salem have also been hit with similar crimes, said Springfield Postal Inspector Ron Tuttle.

"We have no suspects right now, but we do have a possible description of the burglar," Tuttle said. He added that witnesses saw a man acting in a "peculiar manner," who may have been "casing" the Paris Post Office. The suspect is described to be a white male between 20 and 30 years of age, five feet six inches tall, 180 pounds and of stocky build.

Local authorities are investigating the robberies as well as the U.S. Postal Inspection Service in Springfield.

Authorities believe that the other post offices may have been observed before the crimes were committed and believe there may be more than one person involved in the robberies.

If convicted, the criminals may face up to 10 years in jail, a $250,000 fine or both penalties Tuttle said.

Anyone with information concerning the robberies is asked to call the Postal Inspection Service at (217)788-7450.

6th St.
• Highway Commissioner - Tarry James, 43 Circle Dr.

ty.

Spillway meeting to discuss deadline pay

By ROBERT SWINEY
Staff writer

A meeting between the Charleston mayor, city engineer and the construction firm working on the spillway project will take place in the next week to discuss the project not meeting its Nov. 1, 1988 deadline, Mayor Murray Choate said Tuesday.

The construction company of Mautz and Oren of Effingham have until October to complete the project, Choate said.

However, in the contract for the project, the city is to receive $250 a day for every day the project goes past deadline, Choate said.

Choate did not say exactly what will be discussed, but definitely the details of the deadline pay.

"We will be discussing the terms of the contract and negotiate an agreement of the $250 a day for going past deadline," Choate said. "We will also discuss extra work to be done on the spillway."

Choate did not say when the meeting will take place but he will announce the results after the meeting, he said.

In addition, a settlement was made between the city and the engineering and construction firms which designed and built the spillway cofferdam project in the summer of 1986.

The settlement was made at a meeting last Tuesday in which the city will receive about $43,000 from the engineering firm of Beam, Longest & Neff of Indianapolis. According to City Attorney John Dively, about $34,000 was needed to cover the project, and about $7,000 for emergency engineering work.

The settlement is the result of a lawsuit filed against the city by A.J. Walker, the construction company which did the actual building of the cofferdam. The city countered the suit by filing against A.J. Walker and included Beam, Longest & Neff in the suit.

A.J. Walker will receive about $20,000 which was owed to them by the city in the original contract, Dively said.

The suit was filed by A.J. Walker after the city refused to pay for the construction because the cofferdam began to leak soon after completion of the project.

A private engineer was hired by the city to investigate who was at fault for the leak, either the engineering firm or the construction company. The engineer said Beam, Longest & Neff was responsible for the leak.

After two years of debate, Choate and the council are pleased with the settlement.

"I am very pleased of the outcome of the settlement and I think the settlement was to the advantage of everyone involved," Choate said.

AB handbook planned

By CATHY PODWOJSKI
Government editor

A handbook that will explain where student fees go and how they are used is in the planning stages, Financial Vice President Tim Gorman said.

Gorman, the chair for the Apportionment Board, said the handbook would break down the amounts each student pays for tuition and fees at the beginning of each semester, so students will know how the university is using their money.

"It'll be a brief explanation of what we're paying these fees for and a breakdown of the fee structure," Gorman said.

Some of the individual groups in the fee structure, Gorman said, are the athletic department, textbook rental service, health service and grant in aid, or the scholarships the university awards.

The fees are explained in the student handbook, which is issued to all students when they register as a freshman. But Gorman said most students either don't take the time to read this or don't realize it is even included in the book.

"When you pay your fees, you pay a one-time fee that is never really explained," Gorman said. "This will provide better information for the student."

Gorman said he is working on the book with Student Body President Mike Riordan, who was one of the first people he discussed the idea with.

Tarble hosts Hayter exhibition in January

An exhibition of original prints by the innovative printmaker and painter Stanley William Hayter is on exhibition now until Jan. 29 at the Tarble Arts Center.

The exhibition, "Stanley William Hayter and Atelier 17," features works by Hayter and his students at Atelier 17, a workshop he began.

The collection of prints is on loan from art professor Walter Sorge, who studied with Hayter at Atelier 17. Sorge will talk about the exhibition and his personal experiences with Hayter at 2 p.m., Sunday at Tarble's Family Sampler Sunday.

Hayter died last year at the age of 86, his obituary in Art in American stated: "His experiments have expanded the tonal possibilities of etching and engraving, techniques he felt to have been long neglected. Influenced by Surrealism, the British-born Hayter practiced automatic drawing in his own prints and paintings."

Motivational lecture set for Wednesday in Rathskeller

A presentation, "Becoming a Winner: Motivation to Succeed, Yes I Can," sponsored by the Office Staff Support Group will be presented at 12:15 p.m. Wednesday on the Rathskeller Balcony.

Gene Creek, Athletic Director at Lake Land Community College, will make the presentation which is designed to boost office moral.

Aleta Donley, office staff support group chair, said the talk is supposed to help "inspire people to do their best work." Anyone is welcome to attend, although the presentation is aimed at clerical and civil service workers.

"I think a motivational lecture such as this at the beginning of the new semester is a fine idea," Donley said.

Donley said she wanted to invite people to get their lunch and come over to listen.

Life skills seminar targets stepfamilies

By TONY CAMPBELL
Staff writer

During the next century, stepfamilies will be the norm that is one issue an education professor said he will discuss at one of the Life Skills Seminars this semester.

How to cope with everyday problems is what the Life Skills seminars and workshops, sponsored by Eastern's Counseling Center, are based on.

All seminars are free and will be held at noon in the Union addition Arcola Tuscola Room on the assigned date.

Ronald Gholson, secondary education and foundations professor, will present "Living in a Stepfamily" on Jan. 31. The problems that stepchildren face in everyday life will be the focus of this seminar. Sanders said the seminar will help stepchildren live successfully and happily.

Associate home economics professor Martha Brown will present a workshop titled "Sensible Dieting" on Jan. 18. The seminar will focus on problems such as compulsive eating and weight control.

Counseling Center Director Bud Saunders said the diet of many students is unhealthy or unsafe. "Weight has become a national obsession," Sanders said, "and students must learn the proper procedures of dieting."

A workshop, "Sexual Harassment," will be presented by Rhonda Chasteen, assistant to the dean of graduate school and research. Sanders said Eastern is interested in ridding the campus of the problem. But added the difference between the power of a student and the power of a teacher make complete abolition of the problem difficult. "We're trying to inform more people."

"Student Stress Mess: What to do about it," will be presented on March 1 by psychology professor Bill Kirk. The seminar will attempt to aid students in coping with the stress associated with academic life. "As a profession, a student is one filled with a large amount of stress," Sanders said.

On Feb. 8, "Career Choice Workshop" will be presented at the Counseling Center to help students make career choices. Sanders said student who choose a goal to work for find it becomes easier for the student to do work and go to class. "The workshop might reinforce a persons career decisions if there are any doubts," Sanders said.

A workshop, "How Thoughts Affect Experience," will be held Feb. 28 in the Rathskeller Balcony of the Martin Luther King Jr. Student Union. Sanders said the workshop is designed to show how thoughts can change a persons' behavior and how a person can improve his/her thinking process.

"The Counseling Center is always trying to improve the quality of life and these seminars are step in that direction," Sanders added.

IBHE budget increase

"The Board of Governors is pleased with the recommendations. This budget is seen as an effective statement of the fiscal needs of higher education in Illinois," Meyer said.

But Meyer asked, "Just where will all of this additional funding come from?" she asked. "We cannot allow an erosion of the quality of education to continue because of inadequate funding from the state," she added.

She said it is the BOG's position that a tax increase is the only feasible solution to the problem. "We will once again make an all out effort to push for this increase and make sure the public is aware of the erosion that is taking place," Meyer said.

Eastern President Stan Rives was unavailable for comment Tuesday, but he expressed satisfaction with the recommendations prior to the meeting. "This is an excellent set of recommendations which, if approved by the General Assembly and governor, would enable us to make considerable progress in several areas," Rives said.

In addition to approving the operating budget recommendations, the IBHE also acted on FY 90 capital improvement budget recommendations.

A total of $4,944,500 in capital improvement funding was approved for Eastern, with $1,068,000 of that amount allocated to the purchase of equipment for the addition to Coleman Hall.

Although the state has already released $6.2 million for construction of the building, the FY 90 allocation will be needed to purchase classroom and office furnishings, microcomputers and other equipment to complete the new facility, which is expected to be complete by August 1990.

The remaining $3,876,500 in capital improvement funding will be used for remodeling projects in Buzzard Building, Booth Library, the Doudna Fine Arts Center and mechanical equipment rooms throughout campus.

Absence policy

information concerning a student without the student's written consent," the policy states.

Long term absences will be treated differently.

"When a student is absent for at least three consecutive class days due to illness, the Student Personnel Office will be notified," the policy states.

"That office, in turn, will notify the student's instructor of the reason for absence."

One thing that has remained the same, however, is the instructor still has the prerogative of whether to excuse the student or not.

"We discovered (Eastern) was behind times," said Richard Larson, director of Health Services.

"We checked all of the other area state schools under the BOG to see what kind of policies they had," Johnson said.

Other surrounding university health centers have excused absence policies not similar to Eastern's new one.

Illinois State University uses a form letter to excuse students from classes.

"We have a form letter. Any professor can call Health Service and we'll verify the time and date of the student's visit," said Laura Knoblauch, a registered record administrator at Illinois State University Health Service.

"We don't have time to write notes," Knoblauch added.

The process at the University of Illinois in Champaign-Urbana is also similar.

"We don't actually give out excuses. It's up to the disgression of the instructor whether to accept the excuse or not," said David Boyd, health center worker at McKinley Health Center at U of I.

Eastern instructors handle the issue of missing class for health reasons differently.

"If a student missed a test or class work they should be given the chance to make it up. I think no matter what, the student should be able to make up the work," said Al DiChiara, Eastern sociology/anthropology instructor.

The new policy is expected to have some initial problems, Larson said.

"It was an administrative decision. We'll try it (the new policy) for a year and see how it works out, then evaluate at the end of the year," Johnson added.

"Whenever you do something new you expect some problems," Larson added.

Bears cautious about title talk

By JEFF SMITH
Staff writer

The Southwest Missouri State Bears are two-time defending Association of Mid-Century Universities champions, and have been picked by every publication from The Sporting News to Dick Vitale's Basketball to win the title a third straight time.

The Bears in 1987-88 finished 27-7 overall, 12-2 in conference play, won the AMCU postseason tournament, nearly upset UNEV, losing 54-50, and placed three players on the All-AMCU teams. These accomplishments followed an '86-'87 season that saw Southwest Missouri go 24-5, 13-1 in the AMCU, win the conference tourney, upset top 20 Clemson and battle Kansas in a 67-63 defeat, while also send AMCU player of the year Winston Garland to the NBA's Golden State Warriors.

Yet, after listening to assistant coach Randy Stange, you'd think their situation was nearly hopeless.

"I don't know right now. It's awfully tough to do," Stange said of repeating as conference champs. "The conference is tough from top to bottom. We'll just have to wait and see."

Starting four seniors, including 1988 All-AMCU center Kelby Stuckey and last season's backcourt of 6-0 Doug Lewis (8.9 points per game, 4.6 assists) and 6-0 Keith Jackson (5.3, 3.8 assists), may make things easier.

The 6-7 Stuckey (15.2, 7.2 rebounds) and 6-10 senior forward Hubert Henderson (16.6, 4.9 rebounds) give Southwest Missouri strong inside play, the Bears' main strength, Stange said.

"He's (Stuckey) been with us four years, and as a senior has played very consistent," Stange said. "Along with Hubert Henderson, the two guys have had good success.

Stange also mentioned 6-7 junior Lee Campbell (7.6, 5.9) and 6-6 senior Caleb Davis (5.3, 3) along with Henderson as players giving Stuckey a hand in performing near the basket.

"Henderson and Lee Campbell have provided inside strength and are good athletes, and Davis had a good year last year and comes off the bench," he said.

Junior 6-5 forward Chris Stange (5.3, 1.6), Randy's brother, rounds out the starting lineup.

In regard to the AMCU race, Stange said the key to taking the title is to "win all your home games and find a way to win some games on the road."

Stange said he sees the conference regular-season championship hunt as there for the taking by any of the eight member schools. "Eastern looks really tough, UIC (Illinois-Chicago) is talented, Western looks tough, Northern Iowa's played very well as a team and gone to some tough places to play: Iowa, Iowa State," he said.

"Wisconsin-Green Bay is so well-coached by Tony Bennett. We think he's done a really good job up in Green Bay. And Valparaiso beats Notre Dame, a top 20 team. It got everyone's attention (too). And Cleveland State's always good. It's (AMCU) as good as it's ever been," Stange added.

Injuries slow WIU

By PHIL CHAPARRO
Staff writer

Even after a 4-22 overall record and last place finish in the Gateway Conference last season, Western Illinois head coach Kelly Hill was looking forward to the Westerwinds' 1988-89 campaign.

After a great recruiting year and a squad with four returning starters, Hill said this was the season Western would turn its program around.

Only 12 games into the season and league play less than two weeks old, Hill might have to wait for next season to do any damage in the Gateway.

The Westerwinds are 2-10 overall and 0-3 in the Gateway — a record that Hill attributes directly to some injuries at key positions.

"We've been playing well but ran into some injury problems," Hill said. "Our starting center and starting guard both went down to injuries, and it has put a damper on what we wanted to do."

Center Debbie Kirsch, who averaged 8.3 points per game and 2.2 rebounds in her sophomore year, suffered a knee injury in the Westerwinds' second game of the season and will miss the rest of the year.

Starting guard Joe Haing, also plagued by a knee injury, is expected to return to the Westerwinds' line-up sometime this week.

Even with the dismal start, Hill is getting solid play from last season's Gateway freshman of the year, Robin Hasemann, and consistency from Dale Blask and Ruth Aicher.

Hasemann is averaging 17.8 ppg and 6.3 rebounds, but Hill said the forward is going to have to play better defense.

"Offensively, Hasemann has been playing well," Hill said. "However, defensively, she has to work a lot harder."

Gail Blask has replaced injured starter Kirsch in the middle, is the Westerwinds' second-leading scorer, averaging 10.1 ppg, while leading the team in rebounding, grabbing 6.5 per game.

In the backcourt, seniors Tanya Giovanetti and Lori Schrock give Hill some experienced ball-handlers. However, even with four solid starters, Hill has still had to play freshmen in key situations.

"It has been a frustrating year because we expected to have a good one," Hill said. "A lot of freshmen have been getting some quality minutes, and are gaining some experience."

DePaul, WGN await EIU

By JAMES BETZOLD
Sports editor

Basketball M

Eastern will be trying to gain a measure of respect Wednesday when the Panthers play the DePaul Blue Demons in Rosemont.

"Our biggest task is to prove that we are a pretty good team," Eastern coach Rick Samuels said. "There are (high school) coaches who don't know we're a Division I program. If we can beat DePaul it will show them something."

And Samuels said he believes his team has the physical ability to beat the Blue Demons.

"I've told these kids all along we aren't going to play anyone who is far better than us athletically," Samuels said. "In all reality, I think we match up reasonably well with them. The test will be whether we can get mentally ready to play."

The game will be of equal importance for the Blue Demons, who need every win they can get to qualify for the NCAA tournament as an at-large team.

"Being an independent, we have to win every game," DePaul coach Joey Meyer said. "We can't think about winning our conference to get into the tournament."

DePaul's need for a victory is magnified since by a current three-game losing streak, including losses to Seton Hall, North Carolina and Louisville.

"The thing that I hope helps us will be that we've lost three in a row," Meyer said. "We should be ready anybody."

But Meyer said he also respects Eastern.

"I think Eastern Illinois is an excellent basketball team," he said. "I can't think about winning our conference to get into the tournament. That's your part of coaching. If you don't come ready, we'll get beat."

"In some games we've been on the other end. We've played some top teams, and we're nowhere near the top 15. I'm sure Eastern is saying 'This isn't the DePaul of the past, and we got an excellent chance to win.'"

The game will be broadcast on WGN-TV (cable channel 10) starting at 7:30 p.m.

Upsets, forfeits dot the AMCU

By JAMES BETZOLD
Sports editor

The biggest boost for the Association of Mid-Continent Universities over the Christmas break came from a most unlikely source.

Valparaiso, picked to finish last in the AMCU preseason poll, on Dec. 17 knocked off then-No. 18 Notre Dame 71-68 in overtime. The victory was the first for the Crusaders over the Fighting Irish since 1921, and first-year Valpo coach Homer Drew called the win "a Lutheran miracle" for the tiny private institution in northwest Indiana. A record crowd of 4,913 was on hand at Valparaiso's Athletics-Recreation Center for the contest.

Despite the win Valparaiso still sunk to 3-8, tied for last place with Cleveland State in the AMCU during non-conference play.

CSU was forced to forfeit two early-season wins over Clarion and Wagner for using an ineligible player, junior forward Maurice Harper. CSU is 2-2 since the return of guard Ken "Mouse" McFadden on Dec. 21 from academic probation. McFadden scored 27 in his debut, an 84-77 win over Toledo. McFadden was the AMCU Player of the Year and scoring champion last season.

The AMCU scoring leader so far this season is Northern Iowa center Jason Reese at 24.7 points per game. The purple Panthers have the best record in the AMCU at 7-3, with their only losses coming to Iowa, Iowa State and Southern Methodist. Reese has already been named AMCU Player of the Week twice this season.

Wisconsin-Green Bay freshman Tony Bennett won the Player of the Week award for the week ending Sunday. Bennett, the son of Phoenix coach Dick Bennett, scored 41 points in UWGB's 85-83 loss Jan. 2 at Loyola Marymount. Bennett is third in the AMCU in scoring at 21.8 points per game. The Phoenix are 7-4 overall.

Southwest Missouri State's record doesn't show how much the Bears have struggled so far this season. SMSU lost three straight games to Missouri Valley Conference members Wichita State, Southern Illinois and Illinois State.

It marked the first time the Bears lost three in a row since sixth-coach Charlie Spoonhour took over SMSU. In addition, the two consecutive losses to SIU and ISU Springfield, Mo. were the first consecutive losses at Hammonds Stadium Center since 1985.

The Bears also lost to Kansas in the BMA Holiday Classic, but rebounded Jan. 3 to beat Kansas State 58-55. The Bears, preseason favorite in the AMCU poll, are two-time champions of the AMCU.

Conference play begins Saturday.

Jurkovic overcomes injury, named All-American

By AL LAGATTOLLA
Staff writer

After suffering a career-threatening knee injury that caused him to miss the entire 1987 season, Eastern defensive lineman John Jurkovic came back strong in 1988, and received Associated Press first-team I-AA All-American honors.

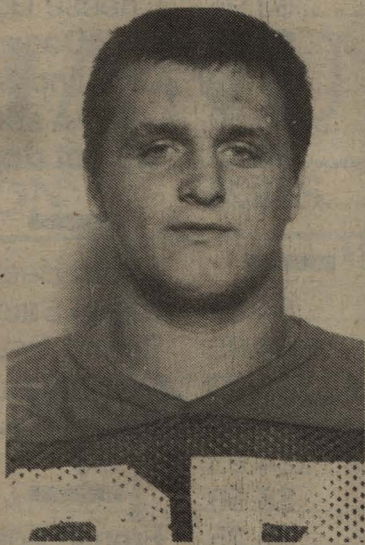

Jurkovic, the fifth Panther in the last eight years to win first-team honors, was the first Eastern player to do so as a junior.

"It's satisfying," Jurkovic said. "After the year I had and to come back, it's just ... words can't describe."

An honorable mention All-American in 1986, Jurkovic was also a first-team All-American choice of Sports Network and garnered the 1988 Gateway Conference Defensive Player of the Year in December.

While garnering personal awards are a tribute to his comeback, Jurkovic said that his goals for next season are team-oriented.

"Team goals are to win the conference championship and get into the playoffs," Jurkovic said. "The next four months and the spring are very important for the team."

John Jurkovic

Jurkovic, a 6-3, 270-pound tackle from Calumet City, was second on the team with 100 tackles, 60 of them solos, and led the team with seven quarterback sacks, giving him 21 for his three-year Eastern career.

More football awards

While Jurkovic seized first-team honors, the rest of the team did not wind up empty-handed, either.

Offensive tackle Dave Popp, defensive lineman Jeff Rolson and defensive backs Daryl Holcombe and Scott Johnson were named to the AP Honorable Mention All-American team.

Holcombe, a junior from Fort Lauderdale, Fla., finished third on the team with 75 tackles, 45 of them solos, and added three quarterback sacks and three interceptions. Holcombe also returned eight kickoffs for an average of 30.3 yards per return.

Johnson, a senior out of Newton, was also named to the first team All-Gateway Conference team. He had 52 tackles and four interceptions to go along with a school-record six blocked kicks.

Rolson, a senior from Farmer City-Mansfield, was fifth on the team with 66 tackles. Rolson added six quarterback sacks and seven tackles for loss.

Popp, a senior hailing from Libertyville, was also first-team All-Gateway Conference and an Honorable Mention All-American for Sports Network.

DAVID
Kompare, Laidlaw gain soccer awards

Not to be outdone by their football counterparts, Eastern's soccer team had two award winners of their own.

Junior David Kompare, a co-captain on the team, was named to a spot on the Association of Mid-Continent Universities All-Academic team for the second consecutive year.

Kompare, who has a cumulative grade point average of 3.26, is a three-time all-conference player.

Kompare tied for seventh in AMCU scoring with 18 goals.

"I wasn't surprised with David getting All-Academic because he is a good student," Eastern coach Cizo Mosnia said. "There was a total of eight players on the team with a GPA of 3.0 or above. The majority of the games were away, so I thought that was an achievement."

Also gaining a soccer award was junior Garry Laidlaw.

Laidlaw made the second-team All-Midwest squad for the second consecutive year despite suffering a groin injury for most of the year.

Second in the AMCU with 29 points, Laidlaw had 10 goals and nine assists.

"It is another achievement for him," Mosnia said. "It was somewhat of a surprise. It is an honor for him because he was injured last year."

T Bittle named All-Academic

Eastern golfer Todd Bittle, senior financing major from Harrisburg, received AMCU All-Academic honors for the second consecutive year.

Bittle has a cumulative grade point average of 3.58.

"Todd is very deserving of conference recognition because he's worked hard his entire life, not only on the golf course but in the classroom as well," Eastern coach Paul Lueken said.

Bittle was a medalist at the EIU Invitational on Sept. 6 and also received the Mazie Warren Presidential Award in athletics at Eastern last May.
