Rives' evaluation to continue...

By STUART TART
Editor in chief

President Stan Rives will appear before the Board of Governors for a third time Thursday to continue his annual performance review.

Rives' evaluation is expected to be conducted during an executive session of the BOG's regular meeting, which will begin at 8 a.m. Thursday at Northeastern Illinois University in Chicago.

BOG spokeswoman Michelle Brazell said the board expects to complete Rives' evaluation Thursday.

"That's what they anticipate — it will be wrapped up before the regular meeting," she said.

However, she added the board does not guarantee that Rives' evaluation will be finished.

"The board will take as much time as it needs to," Brazell said.

Rives and the four presidents of the other BOG colleges — Western Illinois, Governors State, Northeastern Illinois, and Chicago State universities — met with the board on Sept. 26 for their annual performance reviews. Rives, the third of five presidents to be evaluated, was the only president whose evaluation was not completed by the board.

Rives met again with the board during an almost four-hour executive session on Oct. 17, but BOG Chancellor Thomas Layzell said after the session that Rives' evaluation was not finished.

Although performance reviews are conducted in closed executive session, the board may not take any action within that closed meeting. If the board takes any action regarding Rives' employment, the Illinois Open Meetings Act requires it to vote on and take that action in an open meeting. The act reads, "No final action may be taken at a closed meeting." Brazell said the board will abide by the law.

"Any action by the board, any action regarding anything, has to be done at the (open) meeting ... as a matter of legal procedure," she said.

Rives again this week declined to discuss his evaluation, maintaining that personnel evaluations, including his, are "confidential."

"My expectation is that the evaluation should be completed at this meeting of the board," he said.

Booth Library may have a new air conditioning unit in place by May 1 if the Board of Governors at its regular monthly meeting Thursday gives Eastern permission to go ahead with the purchase.

The university accepted a bid Monday for a Crane air conditioning unit to be constructed and installed in the library next year, said Vice President for Business Affairs Charles Colbert.

Colbert added he expects the unit itself to cost between $140,000 and $150,000, and the total cost of the project may be between $170,000 and $200,000, he said.

However, he noted the university will pay the costs over three years.

"It comes out of our appropriated budget," he said. "All that is budgeted for this year is $28,000."

"We're not going to (the BOG) to ask for the money," Colbert said. "All we're asking for is permission to make the purchase."

Eastern is required to obtain BOG approval for any purchases of $25,000 or more.

President Stan Rives said the unit is desperately needed as books and periodicals could suffer heat damage without it.

"I don't know of a single building on campus as important as the library," he said. "Its usability is questionable without air-conditioning."

Eastern will also seek board approval for costs associated with the scheduling of two home

Eastern will hold its fall commencement ceremony at 2 p.m. Sunday in Lantz Gym.

President Stan Rives will award diplomas to graduates from Eastern's six undergraduate colleges, Graduate School and School of Adult and Continuing Education.

Commencement rehearsal is set to begin at 2 p.m. Friday in the Lantz Fieldhouse.

Graduates can pick up graduation caps and gowns from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Thursday and Friday, or from 10 a.m. to noon Sunday in the Charleston/Mattoon Room.

A professional photographer will be available Thursday and Friday for cap and gown portraits.

Bertrand P. Holley, a retired associate professor in Lumpkin College of Business who taught at Eastern for 41 years, will be awarded an honorary Doctorate of Humane Letters degree during the ceremony.

Consumer report: Eastern is doing its job

By TYLER PIERCE
Staff writer

In hopes of attracting new students and informing current Eastern students' families, Eastern has released its second annual consumer report.

The report provides information about Eastern's programs, student success rates and enrollment statistics, along with other information about the university.

It is a university-wide effort prepared on a staff level by Camille Compo of Planning Services and reviewed by the President's Council.

Copies are available to students and the general public in room 109 of Old Main.

Last year, the Illinois Board of Higher Education asked Eastern and other state institutions to put out a consumer report for the first time.

"The idea of it was to show what we have to offer at Eastern available in one concise report that hopefully would be fairly accessible," Compo said.

"The state and the taxpaying public are looking to us to be more accountable for results and to be able to show (the results of the year at the university)."

Compo said the report is prepared by November each year and distributed to prospective students and their parents. She said because of more available time, this year's report is broader than the initial report last year.

“The idea of it was to show what we have to offer at Eastern available in one concise report that hopefully would be fairly accessible

Camille Compo

"This year I contacted all programs, colleges and departments," she said. "I tried to pick a range of numbers from different programs that would give an idea of what we have in a measurable way."

According to the report, there are 10,450 students enrolled at Eastern this semester, ranging in age from 17 to 90.

That student population is comprised of 56 percent women and 44 percent men with a 6.6 percent minority population. Although Eastern students come from all over the state of Illinois, 38 percent are from the Chicago area.

The report also discusses the academic resources available at Eastern.

There are 643 faculty members at Eastern, 65 percent of whom have doctoral degrees. That provides a faculty/student ratio of 1 to 17, with an average class size of 22 students.

In other data in the report, of the 1,629 personal computers in use on the Eastern campus, 676 are used for classroom instruction and student labs. The majority of those are located in the Lumpkin College of Business, which has 135.

Eastern, which was listed as one of the top 100 public colleges and universities in the United States in the 1990 Money magazine guide to America's best college buys, has tuition and fees that are 6 percent below the average for public four-year institutions in Illinois.

President Stan Rives writes in the introduction of the report that "the fundamental goal of Eastern is to provide quality, affordable higher education for the citizens of Illinois."

According to the North Central Association accreditation report, which is quoted in the consumer report, Eastern "is accom-

Famous choral group to perform

By CASSIE SIMPSON
Activities editor

An internationally acclaimed vocal sextet will perform a holiday concert in celebration of the Christmas season in the Martin Luther King Jr. University Union Grand Ballroom at 8 p.m. Thursday.

"The Western Wind Vocal ensemble is a six-person acappella choral group that has no musical backup," said Shannon Hamman, University Board performing arts coordinator.

Hamman said group has a quite a musical range and will perform medieval, Renaissance, early American and contemporary Christmas music and will also include Hannukah music in their concert.

"They're rather accomplished," Hamman said. "They've played in several well-known places."

A few of the places where the group has performed at Carnegie Hall, Lincoln Center, the John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts, New York's Metropolitan Museum and Frick Museum and the Library of Congress.

They also have a radio programmed entitled

"The Western Wind on National Public Radio."

In addition, the group has appeared on the "Today Show" and has made many award-winning recordings.

Hamman said the sextet's performances are not just limited to the United States; the group has also performed concerts abroad.

"They've been all over the world," Hamman said. "They've played in Europe in the opera house in Venice."

Hamman said the group has "played a significant role in rekindling American's awareness of the special beauty and variety of acapella music."

The sextet recently released a new recording called "The Hannukah Story." Their music can also be heard in the new film "Koyaanisqaisi."

Members of the group are Phyllis Clark, soprano; Cheryl Bensman, soprano; William Zukof, counter tenor; Michael Brown, tenor; William Lyon Lee, tenor; and Elliot Levine, baritone.

Tickets for the production are $3 for students with an ID, $3 for senior citizens and $5 for general admission.

football games against Central State University of Ohio in 1994 and 1995.

The schedule changes were necessary to allow Eastern's football team to play the Naval Academy in Annapolis, Md., on Sept. 18, 1993, said Athletic Director Mike Ryan.

"Originally, Central State was going to play us in '93," he explained. "They agreed to shift the '93 game to '94. While having discussions, we agreed on a '95 game. That necessitated that a new contract be drawn up."

Eastern is asking for a total of $32,500 from the board for the games: a $15,000 guarantee to Central State for the Oct. 15, 1994, game, and a $17,500 guarantee for the 1995 game.

It is common practice for universities hosting home games to pay guarantees to their traveling opponents except for conference games, when the two teams generally switch off which team travels from year to year, Ryan said.

"That's common practice," he said.

However, Eastern will take in more than it spends for these guarantees during the next two years, he added.

"Next year we're receiving a minimum of $50,000 for two road games," Ryan said. "On other hand, we pay nobody for coming to us next year."

"In 1993, we will receive approximately $135,000 in income and pay out nothing again," he added.

The board will also consider a systemwide change in accrued vacation and sick leave payouts.

The change would entitle BOG employees who are leaving jobs within the system to payment of these benefits only if they are not reemployed at the same place of employment within 30 days.

The current policy allows payment of these benefits if the employee is not reemployed within seven days.

The policy change "brings the board into line with an amendment to the State Finance Act," Brazell said.

The proposed change does not "specifically address a problem occurring in the BOG system," she noted.

The Board of Governors is the governing body for Eastern, Chicago State, Governors State, Northeastern and Western Illinois universities.

Weaver speaks to senate

Weaver: Higher education can't expect more funding

By JAMIE RILEY
Administration editor

A surge in Christmas sales is the only thing that will help the state avoid raising taxes or taking a short-term loan to stay afloat economically, State Rep. Mike Weaver, R-Ashmore, told the Faculty Senate Tuesday.

Weaver was invited to the senate to discuss the state of higher education in Illinois and the financial troubles facing the state.

Rising unemployment in the state and more people signing up for state aid are a kind of double-edged sword for Illinois, Weaver said. "With the rise in unemployment, we have fewer taxpayers to pay more people on state aid," he said.

Weaver said education was the only department that did not get funding cuts this year. "As bad as it seems on Eastern's campus, it really was not a bad year for education," he said.

According to Weaver, of the money allocated to education, two-thirds goes to elementary and secondary education and one-third goes to higher education. He said the state needs to arrive at a logical method of funding for higher education.

"If we're going to have 12 campuses with admittedly different missions, then let's fund them," he said.

According to Weaver, Illinois ranks high in allocating money to private colleges and universities, but ranks as one of the lowest states in allocating money to higher education. He said that more than half of the money in student financial assistance goes to students at private colleges or universities because the aid is awarded on the basis of tuition and not a set amount per student.

Weaver, who is a part-time faculty member at Eastern, pointed out to the senate that most of the members of the Illinois legislature's education committee have not attended college, and that the chair of the committee, Wyvetter Young, D-East St. Louis, hasn't visited many of the college campuses in Illinois.

"The general attitude in Springfield is that higher education is a luxury, and if we're going to cut, we're going to cut where it's a luxury," Weaver said.

He also said the state universities in Illinois may face problems in 1993 because the admissions standards for the IBHE are different than those for the Board of Governors, the Board of Regents and individual universities, whose standards are different than those of the high schools.

"Students graduating from high school will not get into a state university in Illinois," Weaver said.

He said one of the goals of higher education and legislation should be for each to better understand how the other works. "If I didn't teach, I'd have no idea what (teachers) do," Weaver said. He suggested legislative members to visit college campuses and for teachers to learn about the legislative process.

In other business at Tuesday's meeting, the Faculty Senate discussed the contract settlement between the BOG and the University Professionals of Illinois, the union representing the BOG faculty.

The senate received a communication from math Associate Professor Bob Megginson that broke down information about the contract settlement for faculty to better understand.

Megginson said he has been compiling and analyzing information since the settlement of the contract, and he will present an analysis of the contract to the senate when the final details of the contract are worked out and released to the public.

Although Megginson's information was a breakdown of statistics that are still being disputed, senate member Marietta Deming said, "In light of the fact that there is a lot of speculation, it's nice to see someone's analysis of what we're speculating on."

In addition, the senate received a communication from Gail Mason, associate professor of speech communication, about the proposed areas in the university for funding cuts to create money for the contract.

"I am dismayed that administrative cuts were not referred to, when their budgets are generally the only budgets that have fat," Mason said in the letter. "It has been brought to my attention that most, if not all, administrators have discretionary funds as well as greater budgets (than faculty) for travel, supplies and so on."

The senate also appointed John Faust, professor of political science; David Carpenter, associate professor of English; and Lynda Kayser, associate professor of educational psychology and guidance, to the Board of Governors' Policy Monitoring Committee. All three appointments have previously served on the committee.

Weaver says BOG system is unnecessary

By JAMIE RILEY
Administration editor

State Rep. Mike Weaver, R-Ashmore, told the Faculty Senate Tuesday the Board of Governors governing system is unnecessary and needs to be eliminated.

Weaver has a bill in the House of Representatives that would, if passed, eliminate the Board of Governors and the Board of Regents. The BOG governs Eastern along with Chicago State, Governors State, Northeastern Illinois and Western Illinois universities. The BOR governs Illinois State, Northern Illinois and Sangamon State universities.

The bill is currently in a committee, but will be killed when the new legislative session opens in January. Weaver said he plans on reintroducing the bill in the next session.

Weaver told the Faculty Senate that a task force has been created to study the system of systems in Illinois and discover the purpose behind such governing bodies as the Board of Governors and the Board of Regents.

According to Weaver, the Illinois Board of Higher Education created the governing system in 1961. "Perhaps at that time there was a logical reason for putting the schools in the systems we have now," Weaver said.

Weaver said the only purpose he could find the BOG serves is to manage the central computer system that links the three Chicago schools in the BOG - Chicago State, Governors State and Northeastern.

Weaver and senate member Craig Eckert said the role of the BOG is to lobby on behalf of the five universities within the system, but that the BOG is not fulfilling that role. "The lobbying efforts of the Board of Governors and the Board of Regents leave a lot to be desired," said Weaver.

"Higher education does not have a strong advocate in Springfield," Weaver said. "You guys don't have anyone banging down doors for you."

Weaver said he will hold hearings on the eight BOG and BOR campuses next spring to discover the effectiveness of the governing bodies.

Weaver was invited to the Faculty Senate meeting to discuss problems with higher education and state legislation.

Extended Rives evaluation raises some questions

President Stan Rives will face the Board of Governors to continue his annual performance review Thursday for the third time this fall.

After a year in which Rives' administration has faced nepotism charges under an Eastern vice president who was later terminated with notice, a "discrimination" complaint filed against the university and the board after alleged administration mishandling of a sexual harassment complaint and questioning of its handling of hirings under at least two other vice presidents, a delay in the completion of Rives' evaluation raises some concerns.

Editorial

Now, Rives may have to weather another controversy as allegations of nepotism and financial mismanagement in Eastern's Peace Meal program surface on the eve of his third evaluation meeting with the board.

Rives and the presidents of the other four BOG universities met with the board Sept. 26 for their annual performance reviews. Rives, the third president to be evaluated, was the only one to have his evaluation continued.

Rives also met with the board during an four-hour executive session on Oct. 17, but the board emerged with the evaluation not finished.

Performance reviews are confidential, so neither the board nor Rives has discussed details of his evaluation.

Meanwhile, Eastern has been left to wonder what the delays mean.

The News believes it is imperative that Rives' evaluation be completed Thursday.

Because of the unusual circumstances of this evaluation, we also urge the board to issue a statement about Rives' future as Eastern's president.

If the board were to take any action as a result of its meetings in executive session, the Illinois Open Meetings Act would require the board to do so in an open meeting.

The act reads, "No final action may be taken at a closed meeting."

The News hopes that the board will abide by the law and take any action it chooses to take during its regular meeting.

QUOTE

The day you write to please everyone, you no longer are in journalism. You are in showbusiness.

True meaning of Thanksgiving found

I had a really good Thanksgiving break.

Lots of turkey, visiting with friends and plain old R and R.

Thanksgiving has always been my favorite holiday. It's a nice day off, a purely American tradition, it's secular and it's not as commercialized as say, another holiday that happens in oh, about a month. But most of all, it's a time to do just what the holiday says to do: Give thanks.

Now I have lots to be thankful for — friends, family, food specials, the chance to say almost whatever I want to on page four with a swell mugshot and a great job.

Time to time I will complain about how much I have to do and the small amount of pay I receive to do it — but for the most part working at The Daily Eastern News is really fun.

I didn't realize how lucky I was to have a job until Thanksgiving Day.

The day started out fine — making dinner and getting the house straightened up — but then I went out to buy something for dinner at the store. While driving over there I saw a man standing at the side of the road with a sign saying "Will work for food."

I've seen people standing out on the road with signs like that before and the thought does linger too long in my mind. I think that I wish I could give them a job, but after awhile something else captures my attention. But this time was different.

Maybe it was the fact that I saw him standing on

Debbie Carlson

Thanksgiving Day. Or maybe it was the fact that my sister just lost her job and that's on my mind. Or maybe it's a combination of both.

Then throughout the week I heard stories on how we're-really-still-in-a-recession-but-everyone-says-were-not and how-Bush-wants-to-lower-credit-card-rates-and-perhaps-screw-up-the-financial-scene-of-this-country-even-more and on and on and on.

It gets to be a little depressing when you hear the average American is one to two paychecks away from being homeless and at soup kitchens this year more people arrived because they've just been laid off.

Then there's stories of how people are paying cash for Christmas gifts (although it's not a bad idea) because they're afraid of putting the purchases on plastic because gee — that Christmas bonus or December check just might be a little lean.

Stories like this made me realize just what the holiday "Thanksgiving" means.

Which brings me back to how the real meaning of Thanksgiving hasn't been totally obscured by the 100th made-for-T.V.-holiday-special of someone's way to make a few dollars.

With the passing of Thanksgiving 1991 I hope that the man I saw standing in the cold holding the "Will work for food" sign gets a job. I hope he and everyone appreciates even just a little bit of their jobs; no matter how bad their job is, there's always someone else who can use it.

Reader responds to minority business scholarship

Dear editor:

I am replying to Jerry Walker's letter "Minority Business Scholarship Raises Some Concerns" published Nov. 19. He says that because the over 4,000 women students at Eastern are not included in the consideration for the award, they are being denied equal opportunity. He even calls the scholarship "selective discrimination."

No, Mr. Walker, I do not believe this award is a "precursor of the new order at Eastern." Why not? Because since the inception of Eastern, there have been scores of scholarships that the donors advertently earmark for specific groups. Just take a look at the Awards and Scholarship pages of Eastern's General Catalog and find dozens of them. If, for example, a Mr. Walker who is a doctor of 'myopia' has some money to spare, decides to create a scholarship fund and mandates that the award should go to the 'myopic' club members at Eastern, that is his choice and his right, and the award will go to the 'myopia' majors only.

I see nothing illegal or discriminatory about this, nor is this an administrative error. What I see is that whenever people of goodwill try to help the disadvantaged minorities of this country, someone is going to cry foul or reverse discrimination. Being denied equal opportunity is not having books, computers or qualified teachers in minority schools across the nation, but expecting the same minorities to compete equally for college admission with those who have had all the privileges ever since the formation of these United States. You will understand what I mean if you took a tour of a suburbia school and an inner city school; separate and unequal funding!

Lately, there have been many noble deeds by well-meaning white philanthropists for many blacks and other minorities. Take for example Mr. Patrick Taylor, a rich oilman from Louisiana, and Mr. Eugene Lang, a businessman from New York. Both have donated more than $30 million of their own money to put hundreds of blacks and Hispanic high school kids through college, paying all their expenses. The city of New York did not come out to say there are hundreds of thousands of other high school students in the city who will not benefit from the scholarships therefore Mr. Lang's good gesture is illegal, discriminatory or condemnable. Mr. Taylor and Mr. Lang could not stand the wasting away of the minds of minority children who have been virtually abandoned by society. That is how I see the laudable gesture taken by the concerned business school faculty members who see the disparities here at Eastern and want to do something about it.

If Mr. Walker is so concerned about the 4,000 women at Eastern, he is free to "put his money where his mouth is" by establishing a scholarship fund for them. It is perfectly legal!

Bylaw to be debated in senate

By CHARLENE BURRIS
Staff writer

The Student Senate may vote this week on a controversial bylaw change that would move three senate appointments from the student body president to the speaker of the senate's jurisdiction.

The senate will meet at 7 p.m. Wednesday in the Arcola-Tuscola Room of the Martin Luther King Jr. University Union.

The controversial bylaw change concerning the joint Faculty-Student Senate committee, which was tabled at the senate's last meeting, is expected to be voted on Wednesday. Speaker of the Senate Blake Wood said.

"I'm confident it will be passed," Wood said. "It is a compromise between the two sides of the issue that disagree."

The bylaw change states that "at the beginning of every semester, the speaker of the senate will appoint three senators to serve on the (joint) committee." Currently the positions are appointed by Student Body President Martha Price.

The change also states that the committee will deal with issues concerning both senates and other campus issues.

Elections for speaker of the senate will also be held. Wood is up for re-election at Wednesday's meeting. The speaker of the senate is nominated within the senate each semester with a 2/3 majority approval.

No one is running against Wood in the speaker elections.

The senate will also nominate and award a Senator of the Semester Award and a Legislative Leadership Award to recognize an outstanding senator and chairman.

Also, the 19 newly-elected senators will be seated at the senate meeting. The one open seat in the off-campus district which was not filled in the November election will be appointed at the beginning of next semester, Wood said.

Final committee reports will also be given to wrap up the senate's last meeting of the semester.

In addition, Student Body President Martha Price is expected to conduct interviews this week to appoint a new senate member to the Charleston City Council.

Senate member Jim Reimer sat on the council as an ex-officio member for the past year, but has resigned.

Concert to close season

By STEVE LYSAKER
Staff writer

Eastern's University/Community Orchestra will perform their final concert of the fall season at 7 p.m. Thursday in Dvorak Concert Hall.

"I'm very pleased with the orchestra," said Donald Tracy, director of the group. "They have been working hard and are doing a very good job."

According to Tracy, the orchestra - which includes faculty members, students and community members from Charleston, Mattoon and the surrounding area - will feature two new faculty members.

Tracy said "Winter Concerto" by Antonio Vivaldi, "Concerto in D Major" by Guiseppe Torelli, and "Symphony No. 1" by Gustav Mahler will be the works featured in the concert.

The concert will be free of charge and open to the public.

Poet to read works at Tarble

By ANDREW VERCOUTEREN
Staff writer

Award-winning poet David Clewell will read his works at the Tarble Arts Center Wednesday afternoon.

English Professor Bruce Guernsey said Clewell will read selections from his book "Blessings in Disguise" at 4 p.m. Wednesday. "He will be reading from his book (and) will be reading some new poems, too," Guernsey said.

Clewell's book, which is his third book, was a 1989 selection in the National Poetry Series in New York.

Guernsey said Clewell is the poet in residence at Webster University in St. Louis.

He completed his undergraduate work at the University of Wisconsin at Madison, and his graduate studies at Washington University in St. Louis.

The English department sponsors the poetry program, which brings visiting writers to Eastern at no charge, Guernsey said.

Clewell's presentation is the last of the semester. Other readers this semester included Pulitzer Prize winners Charles Simic and Maxine Kumin, and noted poets Donald Hall and Seamus Heaney.

CIPS plans electricity interruption

CIPS has announced that electric service for a section of Charleston will be interrupted Thursday morning from 4 to 6 a.m.

The area to be affected is from Madison Avenue north to Maple Street between E Street and Seventh Street.

If the outage is rained out or delayed for any other reason, the company said it will be rescheduled for Friday at the same time.

The company said it has tried to set up this outage on two days before.

The previous planned outages, however, were cancelled due to rain.

The company occasionally cuts power to some of its service areas while making repairs.

Meningitis check-ups available

By CHRIS SEPER
Campus editor

With a recent incident of meningitis in Champaign, Richard Larson, a physician at the Health Service, urges any student who suspects they have the disease to get a check-up.

Last year, the disease took the lives of two University of Illinois students and hospitalized another. Greg Mank, one of the two students who died, reported to the hospital and died the same night.

"They (University of Illinois) had another (meningitis case) in Champaign late last week," Larson said. "Everyone had left for break. We've not had anything to suggest (there have been any cases at Eastern) at all.

"(The symptoms) are so vague, if you went by that, half the people on campus could have it," Larson added. "There's fever and cold symptoms, headache, stiff neck and behavioral changes. It's not specific until it's quite advanced. (If students think they might have meningitis) they should be seen by a physician and ask a few more questions."

Although Larson said meningitis is an "entirely different bacteria" than the flu and cold viruses, the similar symptoms make meningitis a "mystery" disease.

The only way to diagnose a person with meningitis is with a spinal tap, Larson said. However, a basic check-up at Health Service could reveal some of the key symptoms of the disease, he added.

If the doctor thinks enough symptoms are present to diagnose the disease, that person will immediately be sent to the emergency room, Larson said.

"If you took several 100 people, you would find the organism for (meningitis) in them," Larson said. "Some never get sick from the organism. People who get these, develop acute systems.

They may have had these (organisms) in their throat for a long time and suddenly got ill. I really can't find out who they picked it up from."

Spinal taps are not available at Health Service, but free regular check-ups are available to students, he noted.

Although the disease's effects can be deadly, Larson said that once meningitis is detected, antibiotics are the only treatment for the disease.

"All I can suggest is if you have a concern, get in and be seen," Larson said. "There's no specific symptoms."

Larson said there recently have been many students visiting Health Service, but nothing has indicated a meningitis concern.

The Health Service is located in the Health Services Building and is open from 7:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. weekdays and 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday.

Leagues to discuss AIDS testing

NEW YORK (AP) — The NBA and NHL plan discussions this week on how to handle testing for the AIDS virus.

The NBA was to meet here Tuesday night with the players association in what a league spokesman termed "a planning session" on AIDS testing and the possible ramifications of the disease for the league.

An NHL official said Tuesday in Montreal that AIDS will probably be discussed at a meeting of the league's Board of Governors which starts Thursday in Palm Beach, Fla.

Gary Meagher, the league's communications director, said the NHL had no particular AIDS prevention program "but if a player comes to us for help, we'll do everything we can." That statement came in the wake of a revelation by a Montreal AIDS specialist that a women he treated told him before she died of the disease two years ago that she had had sex with about 50 NHL players.

No NHL player has thus far announced he is HIV positive, but Dr. Clement Olivier, who made the disclosure Monday during a seminar on AIDS, said the ease with which athletes can have intimate relations with a variety of people puts them in a high-risk group.

Nichelle Rogiers and Carolyn Hagerty all had a strong performances over the weekend, Hilke said.

Freshman point guard Nicky Polka got a positive review from Hilke as well.

"The Ole' Miss coach told the parents that he was awfully impressed with Nicky. She played better in the second than in the first game. She will keep on getting better and better as the year goes on," Hilke said. "She was upset with her shot. She had seven good shots and only made one of them, but we are confident she will be a four for seven shooter."

Northern Iowa

Marshall is 8-0 in the newly opened Marshall University Stadium and has won its last five in a row. Thundering Herd quarterback Michael Payton threw for 225 yards against the Western Illinois defense and a 28-yard field goal by Dewey Line in overtime sent the weathernecks, who battled back from a 14-0 first half deficit, home for the winter.

Allen said that he thinks the two successful squads mirror each other in the way they play the game.

"I don't expect a high scoring game," he said. "Both teams play good defense, they mix it up well on offense and have multiple threats on their special teams. I expect the game to be anywhere between the 15-25 point range.

"It was a pretty instructional weekend," Hilke said. "It gave us a sense of what have to get accomplished."

"It was a fun trip. It was a good time and as a team we are closer together, but I wish we could have won," Roller said. "It was good experience for the younger players to get in and see some playing time. And it showed us what we need to work on. We need to work on a lot."

The Lady Panthers, who didn't return home from California until early Tuesday morning, get a reprieve in their schedule and are off until Dec. 10 when they travel to Northeastern Illinois.

"We will have to adjust to their stadium though. It is in a valley and it will be as noisy as when teams come to the dome and play. So there will be a noise factor that we will have to adjust to."

The winner of Saturday's game will move on to play the winner of the Eastern Kentucky-Middle Tennessee State game in the semifinals on Dec. 14.

Panthers open indoor season with Early Bird Invitational

By BRIAN HARRIS
Staff writer

The men's track team will begin its indoor season Wednesday with the Early Bird Invitational scheduled to begin at 6 p.m. in Lantz Fieldhouse.

The Panthers are returning nearly the entire squad that won both indoor and outdoor Mid-Continent Conference championships last season.

Eastern as expected to dominate this early season meet which features squads from Bradley, Parkland, Vincennes and a number of smaller schools.

Among the Panthers top returnees are the unique foursome of the Miller and Steele brothers.

The Miller's, Braidy and Brent, are expected to lead Eastern's throwing regime this season. Last indoor season Braidy, now a senior, dominated the 35-pound weight throw and went undefeated in the event until the national meet where he finished third.

Brent redshirted the indoor season last year due to an injury, but is back this year better than ever. The Eastern junior won the shot put at Eastern's intersquad Turkey Trials last week with a 54-foot 6 1/2-inch effort, a personal indoor best by over two feet.

Identical twins Dan and Darrin Steele, both seniors, are both back this year. Dan, a 1990 All-American in the 400m hurdles, has used up his indoor eligibility and will be absent from Eastern's roster until the outdoor season.

Darrin, however, should be a major asset to this year's indoor team. With his multi-event talents, which brought him a fifth place finish in the NCAA decathlon last season, Darrin should contribute significantly in the sprints, hurdles and relay events.

Senior Jim Sledge, the conference champion in the 110m high hurdles last spring, has a good shot at qualifying for the national meet in the 55m high hurdles and also competes in the relay events.

Nevin Govan and Neal Trentman represent a strength for Eastern in the jumping events.

Govan, a national qualifier indoors last season in the long jump, set a personal best this summer of 25-feet 11 3/4-inches in the winning the long jump at the Prairie State Games.

Head coach Neil Moore said that after a long preparation during the fall his team is ready to compete.

"I think everyone is really hungry to compete," said Moore.

"We've been training all fall and are tired of running against each other. This meet will determine the line-up for our first meet in January. The competition should be good. We'll dominate in some events but it won't be a walk over."

Eastern's distance runners have been taking it easy since cross country season, but now are ready to get back to the track.

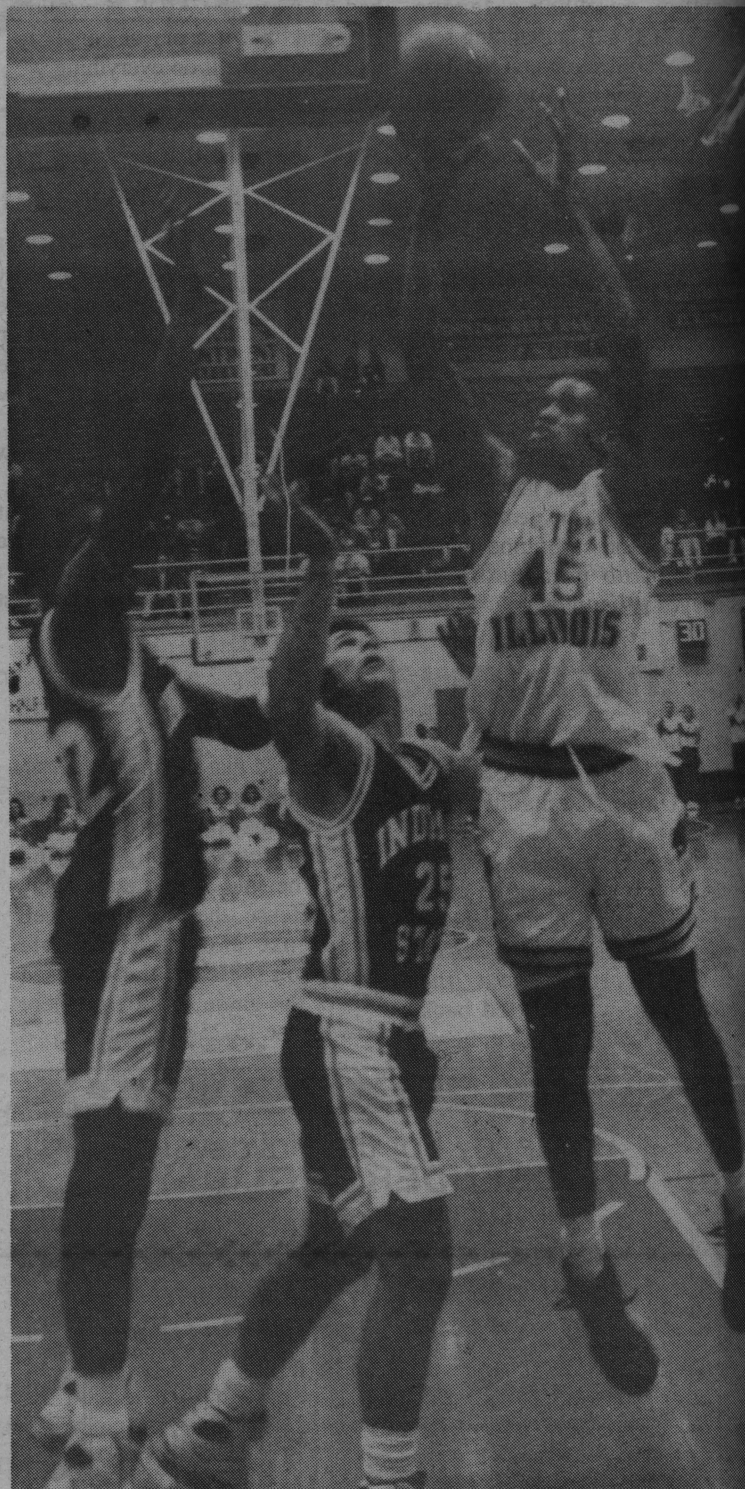

"We just want to get everyone a first race and have some fun," said assistant coach John McInerney.

Eastern's distance crew lost two big guns from last year's squad in Jim and Ron Fagan, but has a deep pool of talent in the multi-circuit events with seniors Eric Baron and Scott Touchette leading the way.

Baron specializes in the mile indoors while Touchette runs the 5,000 meters, although the two together make could make powerful force for Eastern in the 3,000.

Other Panther distance aces include sophomores Kenric Bond (800m), John Eggenberger (5,000m) and Eric Graham (mile) as well as senior Mike Haars (800m).

Eastern also has a talented group of newcomers looking to make their mark this season. Nate Shaffer, who won the mile at Turkey Trials, should be a presence in the distance races as well as a contender for the 2-mile relay team. Neal Garrison, who also proved his talent at the trails, will compete in the high hurdles and long sprints.

Northern Iowa travels for quarterfinal game

By DON O'BRIEN
Sports editor

Usually when teams are seeded in tournament play the higher seed is usually assured of playing at home. Unfortunately for the Northern Iowa purple Panthers, the Gateway Conference's lone remaining team in the Division I-AA playoffs, this isn't the case.

The third seeded purple Panthers (11-1) have to travel to Huntington, W. Va., on Saturday to face the unseeded Marshall Thundering Herd (9-3) in a quarterfinal contest.

"Unfortunately Marshall is in a situation where they will get 30,000 people to attend," said Northern Iowa head coach Terry Allen in reference to the Thundering Herd's artificial turf Marshall University Stadium which seats 28,000.

Allen was upset at the NCAA's decision to hold the game at Marshall, which knocked off the Gateway's other playoff team, Western Illinois, 20-17 in overtime, instead of having the game played at the 16,400 seat capacity UNI-Dome.

"Obviously money still plays a factor with the NCAA," he said. "I don't know why they seed teams if they do things this way."

The purple Panthers defeated Weber State 38-21 in the first round on the strength of three touchdown passes by First Team All-Gateway quarterback Jay Johnson and the running of Tank Corner, who rushed for 137 yards on 26 carries.

Fortunately for the purple Panthers, their coach has confidence in what his team can do on the road. "One good thing is that we have played well on the road," said Allen, whose team has won its last five games in a row away from home on their way to a 5-1 road record this season.

Lady Panthers look for jump start

By KEITH FARROLL
Staff writer

A combination of slow starts and a poor transition game doomed the Lady Panther basketball team this past weekend as Eastern lost two games at the St. Mary's Classic in Moraga, Cal.

The Lady Panthers' losses came to tourney champ St. Mary's, 72-66, and to the University of Pacific, 79-61.

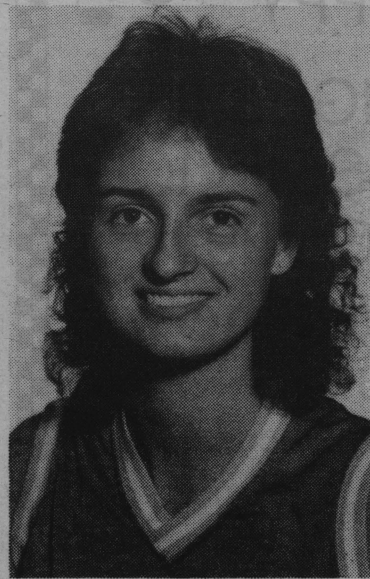

Head coach Barbara Hilke said her team got beat down the floor on defense.

"The transition game beat us both games," Hilke said. "It was not as much a matter of conditioning as it was court awareness. The only person that got back on defense was Heather Youngman."

"We have to work on defense all around especially for me. That's one of my major weaknesses," said Tracy Roller, a third year starter.

"We started out both games extremely slow," Hilke said. "We need to find an explosive group who can help us jump out to a quicker start."

"This is a resilient group of kids. I was surprised to see that they started as slow as they did in the second game," Hilke said. "I thought we would shoot better. We had a lot of good shots, but they wouldn't go in."

Although the team had to play comeback in both games, Hilke was impressed with the way the team stuck together and fought back.

"We don't stay down. The comebacks weren't due to sloppy play on either team. Tracy Roller and Carolyn Hagerty shot better with more confidence and led the comeback," Hilke said.

Roller, who is the lone senior on the squad, reached a personal milestone against St. Mary's as she connected on her 1000th career point. She became only the 12th Lady Panther to accomplish that feat, needing only six points going into the season to reach the mark. She proved to be Eastern's most consistent scorer over the weekend as she pumped in 13 points in the losing cause against St. Mary's and 15 points in the loss to Pacific.

"I didn't think about it during the game, I was thinking more about winning," Roller said. "It feels pretty neat to be part of a list of all the players who scored 1000 points. It'll mean more after I graduate."

"It's a milestone for her. She's been a great career shooter," Hilke said. "It's nice to have a player like that on your team. If other teams want to key on her, we have other shooters who can score."

Hilke was pleased to see battles under the basket for rebounds. Sherial Brown, Shannon Baugh,
