Junior-Senior Picnic

The Juniors and Seniors held their annual picnic at the Rocks last Friday. About 175 spent the afternoon rowing, swimming and enjoying the scenery of this beautiful park. Quite a number of the faculty spent the afternoon with the students. The success of the picnic was due to the efficient work of the committees from these classes.

Spring Fantasy

A large and appreciative audience attended the fantasy which was given Thursday afternoon on the campus under the direction of Miss Agnes Stewart, physical director.

Miss Stewart, Helen Goff and Dorothy Nehrling gave solo dances which were enjoyed immensely. The readings were given by Lettie Jones, and music was furnished by Margaret Bolin and Harriet Tate.

We wish that the Spring Fantasy could be made an annual affair, such as our Music Festival, Field Meet and Ornamental Contest.

The afternoon was ideal, and the sun shining on the beautiful costumes made a delightful scene.

THE NEW AMENDMENT

The proposed amendment to the constitution of the student council remedies its serious defects of indefinite length of terms, unequal representation, entire absence of any provisions relating to vacancies and method of amendment. The above defects are cured in so clear and concise a manner that no wide interpretation can be put on them as was on the original articles. The sections of the constitution relating to what the amendments treat of are very vague, or some points are absent entirely. The constitution’s impossible and unfair length of terms is amended so as to leave no doubt. The balance of power in representation does not lie with any one group. The idea that any one group of classes should combine to force thru an act distasteful to a large minority is abused. No discrimination is made against any one class in voting power. The idea of representatives holding over into the next school year is fairly worked out in the amendment. The article on vacancies has been needed to make the constitution complete.

The old method of amendment by ratification by four classes out of six is changed to seven votes as represented in the council out of eleven. No group of classes has power to amend by themselves. The High School, Junior College and Senior College have respectively four, six votes, and one vote in the student council. The Seniors of the High School are made a class by giving them representation in the council. These Seniors and the Senior College class have lately shown a tendency to support the lower classes, instead of combining for upper class domination.

Suppose an amendment was proposed and approved by the Juniors and Seniors and two classes of the High School, eight votes. It is so passed. Suppose the support of the High School and Senior Colleges does not come in the Junior College. The amendment is not passed.

Next year there will be seven classes. Amendments by a majority of classes would not be fair. The High School would be in an unfair majority.

The need for this amendment has been so great that failure to pass it means a possible scrapping of the council’s constitution. The amendment, as regards the amended articles, is so indefinite, that almost any interpretation can be made. A tangle is almost certain to result.

The student or students who wrote the amendment deserve a vote of thanks for this excellent effort.

SIGNING PETITIONS

Several times during the last year, petitions have been passed around among the student body for them to sign. The writer has often noticed that most of the students sign without reading the petition. This is a bad habit to acquire. One entering school should begin by being careful what he signs. The writer once while in high school wrote out the following petition:

To the Board of Education

We, the undersigned members of the — High School do petition that the entire student body have a day’s holiday on May 26. Further, as we do not wish to live longer on this cold, cold earth, and since our presence is undesirable to coming generations, we petition that the Board of Education choose a firing squad, and that we, the undersigned be lined up on the east side of the building and shot on May 27, 1920.

This petition was passed around among the boys of the school and 52 signed it without reading it. Only four signed it after having read the petition. This example alone shows how careless some people are when it comes to signing petitions. Always read a petition before you sign it.

PLEDGES

Several weeks ago members of the student body pledged for class pictures. Some of these people have failed to get the pictures they signed for. If you signed a pledge, make it your duty to redeem it.

The Warbler will soon be out. The staff wants everyone to redeem his pledge. If you have signed a pledge, pay for your annual, or at least be courteous enough to tell the circulation manager why you can’t, take your Warbler.

Pome Number Two
A few little Freelines one Friday night.
Were fired with a zeal to yell and fight,
Two classes had a picnic, they had none;
That was the way the trouble begun.
"I have some eggs," said the one far from fat.
"Oh, let's throw eggs and see how they like that."
And throw some rocks, too," said a timid, wee one.
"We'll frighten the girls to see them run."
I told you before that 'twas Friday night.
When these little Freelines began to fight;
Their car broke down for Nehring's sake.
And soon the little Freelines were right in the lake.
The lake was full of sludge and mud,
And the poor little Freelines as soon as they could.
Waded out of the mud in the bright moonlight.
But the other boys' car was clear out of the fight.
And they crept home as quiet as mice.
All week all over and their clothes not nice;
They shook with laughter, better than Friday night.
To have stayed at home and slept than to yell and fight.

To E. L. Students
All students should stay at school all day next Saturday, Don't pack your traveling bag Friday evening to go home as soon as you have finished your work, but make up your mind to stay at school and help make our guests, the alumni, feel at home. All of these people who come back on May 28 are interested in this school, and if a majority of the students leave school Saturday noon to go home, what will be their opinion of the students who are now attending this institution?

Lake Amoweenah
The lake is becoming quite popular as a swimming pool. Friday night three boys satisfied their desires to swim by plunging into the depths of it, but decided to ask Mr. Nehring to remove the scum from the lake before they had their next swim.
