VARSITY NEEDS MEN WITH EYE FOR BASKET

With the steak roasts Tuesday evening marking the complete passing of the 1922 football season, all eyes turned to the gymnasium on the following afternoon when Coach Lantz began his titanic job of welding together a basketball team that will be worthy of the same praise that has been heaped upon his gridiron machine. The task, most confiding the E. I. mentor faces, is a hard one.

The students have become accustomed to a winning team in football, and are not anxious to return to the old order of supporting a merely ordinary team. They are expecting something from the Blue and Gray five, and the team will have to play like a house afire to satisfy their expectations. So after all, there are certain features about a winner that are unfortunate. It sets such a high standard as a precedent that a direct handicap is imposed on the team that follows it on the program. But E. I. is glad to have maintained one winning team this year, and is far from discouraged over the basketball outlook.

When Coach Lantz took his initial birds-eye view of the 28 men to whom he issued suits he saw that he had to make a wide selection of those who were lacking last winter. No opposing outfit can pass the ball around over E. I. heads this season because our players are too little to break up the second story style of game. No long offensive range. Last year, the team, though light and short of stature, was thoroughly satisfactory on the defense and passing the ball, but the fellows just couldn't hit the long kick. A team this year with the same offensive dependability and a more reliable attack would insure E. I. of a winning team. But it must have the improved attack, or it is doomed to mediocrity.

Some of the noses revealed the interesting, but not particularly appealing fact that there were some 20 guards on the floor, with only four or five fellows who even pretended to be forwards. Perhaps the reason for this is that it is necessary never brighter, but nobody has been discovered praising from the house-tops the offensive material that has reported to Coach Lantz.

PROSPECTS BRIGHT FOR H. S. BASKETBALL

The high school basketball candidates have completed their second week of practice. In those two weeks work-out they have convinced their followers that they have the material for a winner—a successor to the fast little quintet that created a big sensation in high school basketball circles last winter and proved to be the dark horse of the district tournament.

Those basketball fans who have watched Coach Spooner's thincads work out in the preliminary rehearsals saw only one member of last year's speedsters on the floor. Hall, who is a little forward, is the sole representative thus far of the near-champions of a year ago. But the observant fans have seen Emerson Wilson waiting over by the foul lines impatient for the injured hand sustained in the T. C.-Paris high school football game to heal so that he may take his old place at the other forward position. The officials at the tournament last winter picked Wilson as a hard on their selection of an all-star team, and Wilson's ability is so well known to need emphasis in these columns.

Gohring Lynch, Haddock, and Kerr are probably the best players from the squad this season. Lynch is not a new school, Haddock will have passed his age limit within a few days, and Kerr has graduated from the high school into the college. These three stand ready to complete the personnel of the '22-'23 combination will be missed, but Coach Spooner has the material that bids fair to replace them with their loss being felt to a minimum.

At this stage of the game Stone and Osborn appear to be the best bets for the guard positions. Osborn is a consistent player, always cool under fire, and a good shot at the basket. Stone is a coming star that may break into the lineup as a guard.

Other high school candidates for the squad are Hampton, Bails, Cooper, O'Hair, Kepner, McIntosh, Hall, and Hill. Foreman about 25 suits have been given out, but several of these will be surrendered when Coach Spooner makes his first elimination soon after the opening of the winter term. There are all that could be desired. There is not a job on the team that should be weak, judging from the form shown by the boys in the opening practices.

The team's schedule is not completed, but several hard games have been booked with more to follow. The first game scheduled thus far is with the champion Kansas H. S. quintet on the local floor Dec. 15. It is probable however, that Coach Spooner's bunch will start the ball rolling a week earlier when Ashmore has been invited over to tussle with the home boys in the first game of the season.

The art classes of the Charleston High School opened an art exhibit Monday afternoon on the second floor of the court house. A great variety of articles is displayed for sale. It is planned to buy a loan for the school from the receipts of the exhibit which will close on Dec. 22. The exhibit is open to the public between 8 a. m. and 4:30 p. m. each week day except Saturday.

ANNOUNCEMENT

THE NEWS staff will take advantage of the opportunity to rest along with the other students during the vacation between terms. As school closes Wednesday noon it is not probable that enough events of new value will have happened during this half week to warrant publishing the regular weekly issue on the following Monday. Especially in view of the approaching examinations for the term and there will certainly be a minimum of social and class activities during these 2 1/2 days. So there will be no issue of THE NEWS on Monday, Dec. 4.

REAL VACATION FOLLOWS CLOSE OF FALL TERM

The end of the fall term happened to come right at Thanksgiving time this year, so that by juggling the week's schedule a bit it was possible to combine the Thanksgiving holiday and the 1 1/2 days following the customary close of the term at noon Friday into a real vacation of 5 1/2 days. School was held today (Monday) in order that the entire term might be moved ahead to Wednesday noon, when the students and faculty will relax and enjoy a breathing spell until registration day for the opening of the winter term one week from today. This is the first time within recent years that the students have been granted more than a single day's lay-off at Thanksgiving time.

FAWLEY COMING BACK

Richard Fawley '22 has written from Cincinnati to E. I. friends that he will enroll in the senior college classes next Monday when the winter term opens. Fawley is a basketball player of proved ability, and his coming will fill one of the forward positions on the varsity that have been a source of concern to Coach Lantz.

SOPHOMORES SHOW SECOND PICTURE

The sophomore class presented the second of its three moving picture attractions in the assembly hall Monday and Tuesday evenings. "The Three Musketeers," featuring Douglas Fairbanks, perhaps the greatest picture, was well received by the handful of patrons that turned out to see it. The reason for the small attendance on these evenings seems to have been that there were so many events happening so close together at E. I. that the students could not attend all of them. Steak roasts and preparations for the carnival, along with anticipations of approaching examinations, are rather evident excuses for the lack of patronage of "The Three Musketeers."

The net profits from the two evenings' engagement were $123. Cath. Rosa Popham furnished appropriate music to accompany the picture Monday evening, and Chenault and Alice Kelly filled the musical roles Tuesday evening. The sophomore class will present its last picture of the series, "Little Lord Fauntleroy," on December 4-5, the Monday and Tuesday evenings of the opening week of the winter term.

FACULTY MEMBERS ATTEND HIGH SCHOOL CONFERENCE

Several members of the faculty attended the annual High School conference at the University of Illinois Friday. The attendance at the conference was over 3300—an increase of 600 over the attendance of last year. The E. I. teachers who went to Urbana for the session were Miss Johnson, Miss Ellington, Miss Hardin, Miss Neal, Miss Weller, Miss McKinney, Miss Ford, Mr. Loyd, Mr. Moore, Mr. Widger, Mr. Taylor, and Mr. Thomas.

WORD OF APPRECIATION

THE NEWS has been asked by official representatives of the sophomore class to express the appreciation of the entire class for the appropriate music furnished by Katherine Briggs, Freda Tipsworth, and Rosa Popham on Monday evening, and Alice and Chenault Kelly on Tuesday evening, for its moving picture, "The Three Musketeers." Without the music so generously given, the picture would have lacked very essential links for the complete enjoyment of its patrons, and the class feels deeply indebted to these musicians.

The Normal I. D. and DeKalb Normal school football teams battled to a neck-and-neck tie at Normal U. S. homecoming week ago. This was the third 0-0 game that Normal U. has played this season, one of which was against our own E. I. on Schaefer Field.

ANNUAL CARNIVAL NOW E. I. HISTORY

The 1922 E. I. carnival has come and gone. The big event was held in the corridors, class rooms, and assembly hall of the main building Saturday evening. A great variety of stunts and side shows had been prepared for the occasion, and the crowd had plenty of entertainment during the evening.

The opening number of the program was a wrestling match between Sylvester Hall and Lynn Sanders. This was followed by a symphony (or sympathy, as you please) aria. Galli-Curci had been advertised for the same role, but called at the closed hour that she had missed the boat at Liverpool, so would be unable to fill her engagement at E. I. Fortunately another noted celebrity was on hand, and Gertrude Lynch of Metropolitan Opera fame very gracefully substituted for the absentee.

The ninth grade conducted a candy auction which yielded a profit of more than $14. Four big stunts—titanic mammoth, gorgeous—were staged in the assembly hall by the senior college, junior college, high school, and Student Council respectively. The junior college stunt was a genuine scream and kept the crowd crying with laughter. The other stunts were also well executed and well received.

Following the assembly hall stunts the high school seniors put on a 30-minute exhibit of high class vaudeville. Each class operated a side show of exceptional merit and the W. C. A. sold ice cream cones, sandwiches, and other eatables. The climax of the evening's activities was a dime dance which was well patronized. The music for the dance was furnished by Katherine Briggs, Freda Tipsworth, Florence Aye, Ross Popham, and Glenn Moore.

The gross receipts from the carnival amounted to $158.50 which is somewhat shy of the figure expected. But everybody had a good time, and that really is the most important consideration. Consider that the several ways in which this year's carnival was handicapped, the event was more than moderately successful.

MARIONETTE NUMBER ADDED TO COURSE

True to the predictions made in THE NEWS a few weeks ago the T. C. entertainment committee has added another number to the course that it has provided for its patrons this winter. The newly-signed attraction is Tony Sarge's Marionette Theater, which will be presented in the assembly hall Tuesday evening, Jan. 30.

This company of entertainers is the only one of its kind that has survived all of the inconveniences of traveling about the country. Other marionette organizations have experimented with road exhibitions, but Tony Sarge's outfit is the only one that makes a practice of showing from coast to coast. It is booked by the larger universities of the country, and has an 8 years contract for the month of December each year in the Panel and Judy Theater in New York City. In its New York performances the company charges from $2 to $3.50 for single admissions.

The organization carries eight or nine people, most of them ventriloquists, to operate and talk for the marionette creatures. This will be a very unique attraction for E. I. and Charleston, and the faculty committee in order to get the maximum benefit for adding this number to the entertainment course. The course, consisting of ten numbers, is an unusually long series of entertainments, three of which have already been given.

In order to get the Tony Sarge company here it was necessary to sign it to a two performance contract. The company will present "Rip Van Winkle," Tuesday afternoon, Jan. 30. This performance will be independent of the entertainment course. Special rates have been made for the matinee engagement—50 cents for adults and 25 cents for children below the ninth grade. In the evening session tickets will admit the holders to the entertainment course number, "Don Quixote."

A few years ago E. I. celebrated Thanksgiving Day by being a train load of students up to Decatur to root for the varsity football team in its annual game with Millikin. Those days are in striking contrast with the way E. I. will celebrate Turkey Day in 1923.

Y. M. C. A. AT E. I. RETURNS TO LIFE

The Y. M. C. A. at E. I. returns to life, the initial steps towards the formation of an E. I. unit of the Young Men's Christian Association were taken during the past week. Last spring a committee of 11 men students was appointed to keep the organization alive in our school. Only eight of these students returned to E. I. this fall, and they have awaited the arrival of an officer of the Y. M. C. A. in order to revive the organization. The representative has not yet appeared on the scene, so the remnants of last year's committee got together and began the reorganization program unaided.

The committee is planning a stag party for an evening some time this week. The men of the faculty and student body are urged to attend this "get acquainted" meeting in the main building. In this session a nominating committee will be selected to pick the most likely candidates for officers. It is probable that this party will be held Tuesday evening. The chapel platform as soon as a definite date is decided upon.

The committee that is promoting the interests of the organization consists of Arthur Forster, Harold Smith, Claude Combs, Dale Coyle, Harold Whittemore, Robert Shoemaker, Earl Lee, and Tilford Dudley.

'JUNIOR FROLICS' AT C. H. S.

FRIDAY EVENING, DEC. 8. The junior class of Charleston High School announces to the public that it will stage its Junior Frolics in the high school building Friday evening, Dec. 8. A big time is promised with plenty of stunts, acts, and all kinds of opportunities to spend your money. This event is certain to give its patrons an evening chuck full of enjoyment. See the junior class advertisement on page 4 of this issue.

EDUCATIONAL WORKS IN RECEPTION ROOM

Mr. L. J. Rood of Wausau, Wis., arrived at E. I. Thursday to spend several days. He is agent for Educational Works of Teachers' Reference Books, in which public school methods are outlined in detail by more than 50 of the country's most noted educators. These books present typical studies, primary to each grade inclusive. This is an unusual opportunity for the members of the college graduating classes to secure helpful material. The books are available at the following places: A. M. Claxton, Jessie Elizabeth Bagley, P. P. Claxton, and the students who expect to teach next year are invited and urged to see Mr. Rood in the reception room, where he is the set of volumes for which he is salesman.

THANKSGIVING DAY

The dominant idea in Governor Bradford's mind, when he proclaimed the first Thanksgiving Day, was to set apart one day for solemn thanksgiving. And although a bountiful feast was one item of the day, it was of secondary importance, and not the central idea. There have been many Thanksgivings since that famous first one. Change has crept in. If the austerity and devotion characteristic of the observance of the Governor Bradford type of Thanksgiving Day were prevalent now, the present-day generation would utter its most spontaneous thanksgiving at its close.

The present conception of Thanksgiving makes the feast of primary importance. Days before the great event kitchens throughout the land are scenes of cooking orgies; time-honored recipes are brought forth, and the services of every available member of the family are commanded to make the event successful. Pies—apple, mince, and pumpkin are subjects of the gravest consideration, as are all the various items that go to make up a real Thanksgiving Day dinner.

Perhaps in the course of evolution the happy medium of the two extremes described above will be reached—moderate, prayerful and temperate eating.

—Mary M. F. Whalen.

ATHLETIC DUES

Now that the E. I. hopes for winning teams are being realized, the problem of financing the school's athletic sports is of prominence. A few years ago when E. I. was way down in the quagmire of athletic degeneration the assessment of one dollar per term was fixed on the students. At that time, a scanty year before the close of the World War, football was the sole sport attempted at E. I. The one dollar per term assessment was sufficient to meet the limited financial needs of the athletic association at that time.

Last year all three of the major sports were restored at E. I. and rather heavy schedules arranged. But the treasury was bent sadly out of shape before the start of each season. A home game resulted in a big bite being taken out of the fast shrinking A. A. pocketbook. It was only by the most careful economy that it was possible for the schedule to be finished each term.

And then this year the athletes that were necessary to put E. I. back in the select circle entered school. The football eleven went through the season without a defeat. And the prospects for winning basketball and baseball teams have not been brighter since the war. When E. I. has winning teams she wants plenty of opportunity to see them in action. The fans were disappointed to have the football schedule close so early. One of the most compelling reasons why the varsity and high school elevens made so few appearances on Schaeffer Field and why the season for each team closed before the week before Thanksgiving was that there was not enough money left in the treasury to

OUR ADVERTISERS SELL THE BEST

CHAPTER II.
Before John Wanamaker revolutionized the whole retail system of the late '70's the merchant and the buyer had always been at war with each other. There had been but one point of agreement between them; each had been trying to get the better of the other.

Wanamaker turned the entire system of the day bottom side up, and said, "Hereafter, no competition between buyer and seller to see who can get the best of the other, but cooperation between the man who wants something and the man who can get it, for the purpose of satisfying both, in profit and goods. No business can long endure where there is no mutuality of profit between the two."

His fellow-merchants welcomed the announcement with amused tolerance. Then they noticed the public going to Wanamaker's. Their next move was to hold indignation meetings in which they tried to undermine the "upstart innovation." They tried to get the newspapers to refuse his advertisements. Ah, but there was the keynote: endure where there is no mutuality of profit between the two. He was ushering in the new era of advertising. He was riding in the vanguard of the Twentieth Century Pageant of Progress.

pay the heavy expenses of visiting teams.

A hard basketball schedule has been arranged for both the varsity and d high school. It is probable that 16 games will be played on the local floor. The payment of one dollar for athletic support entitles every student to admittance to each home game. It is not difficult to discover that this means that each home game costs the student a few mill over 6 cents. These deductions need no further comment. Are our basketball games worth 35 cents to the townspeople and only 6 cents to the students?

Our sister schools charge from two to four times as much athletic dues as E. I. Our school has the teams now to compete on the same level with these sister schools. Shall E. I. take a back seat and pass up its chance to resume its place in the when an extra 50 cents per term from each student would save the day? THE NEWS insists that Coach Lantz and his athletes deserve the chance to compete on an equality with our sister schools. And this E. I. can do @ $1.00 per. Coach Lantz says the $1.50 per will do the business. THE NEWS says, "Let's make the athletic dues $1.50 next term." What do you say?

—Dale D. Coyle.

RED CROSS ROLL CALL

In accordance with custom the Annual Red Cross Roll Call for the enrollment of the American Red Cross membership for 1923 opened armistice Day last evening at Thanksgiving Day. The American National Red Cross is a volunteer army of more than 4,000,000 American men and women who have enlisted under congressional authority to wage incessant battle against disease and disaster, misery and suffering in peace and in war. This mighty army with its auxiliary force of 5,000,000 junior members is always on the march in a never halting.

The Red Cross sees the country in many ways. As an auxiliary to the Government it provides comfort and good cheer for our enlisted soldiers and sailors at home and abroad. It has kept its pledge to the men who fought in the World War. During the past year it has spent more than $9,000,000 and used the loyal services of 50,000 volunteers in bringing comfort and care to the 30,000 disabled veterans in hospitals and in keeping their families from worry and privation. In 19 states at a cost of more than $900,000 it has, during the past year, rendered immediate and generous aid to multitudes suffering because of fire, flood, and other catastrophes.

The foregoing are only a few of the long list of achievements during the past year published by the organization for the public enlightenment. The Red Cross has appealed to the college and school press of the country to leave the following message with its readers before the enrollment period closes on Thanksgiving Day: "Red Cross duty never ends. Before our task is finished, another awaits. It is America's answer to

THE BARS AGAINST POETRY
Perhaps readers of THE NEWS would like to have some more inside dope on the policy of the management. The staff has used valuable space occasionally for the enlightenment of the readers of the paper on certain editorial policies on which the management has taken a firm stand. The staff now feels impelled to make clear its attitude towards poetry. During the past several weeks THE NEWS has received several contributions of poetry, from both students and faculty, for publication. But these have been sidetracked for those other articles and news items that have seemed of greater importance to the staff.

The only time the bars have been let down from this irrevocable policy was when an alumna sent in a breezy poem expressing the student viewpoint of Homecoming. This contribution was too optimistic and distinctive to shove aside and it was published a week ago. But this instance is a notable exception to an ordinary inflexible rule of THE NEWS. The management is sorry that it cannot spare the space to the future Longfellow and Whitman, but feels obliged to devote every inch of available space to the current news about E. I.

EX-FACULTY MEMBERS MAKE BOW AS AUTHORS

Mr. A. H. Edgerton, a former member of our faculty, has two articles appearing in current periodicals. One is in the Education Magazine for November on "The Present Status of Guidance Activities in Junior High Schools." The other is "Educational and Occupational Guidance in our High Schools" in the Detroit Journal of Education for October. Mr. Edgerton, who has been with the Lincoln school in New York City for a number of years, is now supervisor of vocational information and guidance in Detroit.

Mr. Carl Colvin (formerly an instructor in Agriculture here) and J. A. Stevenson have written a book on "Farm Projects." The following review of it appears in the current Education Magazine:

"This is a finely illustrated textbook in Agriculture for seventh and eighth grades and junior high schools. One chapter that will at once secure the attention of the pupils is a beautifully illustrated one on 'Planting the School Yard.' Throughout, the projects will appeal to the child's interest and stimulate habits of thought and action that will be of great value to him throughout life. The volume includes chapters on farm animals, birds, insect pests, machines, crops or various kinds, plant diseases, etc."

EDUCATIONAL DIRECTORY
Patterson's American Educational Directory for 1922 has just been received at the general library. The aim of this work is to give a complete and accurate index to the public and private educational system of the United States.

In the main geographical classification, in addition to the public school officials, will be found a complete list of all schools and colleges, together with information as to the kind of school, class of students admitted, religious denomination, year established, and the name of the governing head of the institution. A second complete list of all institutions is given in the Classified Directory in which the schools are arranged alphabetically by states, classified according to the kind of school, giving a ready reference or complete list of any particular class of institution, together with the name of the executive officers. A complete alphabetical index of all schools and colleges will be found at the back of the book from which any institution may be instantly located.

DRAMATIC CLUB MEETS

The Dramatic Club held its usual meeting Wednesday evening with Catherine Lytle acting as chairman. The Harvard Dramatic Club and 47 Workshop was the topic for discussion. Talks on this subject were given by Mary Wilson, Marie Stewart, Louise Ring, and Gertrude Lynch. A membership committee was appointed to recommend new members for the club.

STREAK ROASTS

Tuesday evening the two football teams and their friends enjoyed a steak roast in two different sections of Wilson's woods. Although the high school squad had a terrible time getting the "casts" collected, they were able to satisfy everyone's appetite and then some. The trip was made, for the most part, on foot. Steak, diced potatoes, rolls, marshmallows, doughnuts, and cider, (gallons of it) were the main features of both "roasts."

BIRTHDAY DINNER PARTY

Tuesday evening Miss Moynaux was hostess at a surprise dinner party in honor of Miss Goldman's birthday. A delicious two course dinner was served, after which the cake was brought in, but to the disappointment of some, minus the candles. A shower bouquet of fragrant onions was presented to the honored guest. Miss Gardiner, Miss Weller, Miss Johnson, Miss Jessie Forde, Miss Thomas, Miss Burrell, Miss Baird, Miss Ewalt, Miss Goldman, Mr. Daniels and the hostess comprised the party.

CRITIC TEACHERS ENTERTAIN

Miss Jessie Forde, Miss Coffman, Miss Woodfill, Miss Gardiner, and Miss Harden surprised their student teachers with a party Thursday afternoon. Stories were told about teaching experiences and a teacher's alphabet was worked out. Upon the board was written this plan—

Aim: To have a good time.
Procedure: Smile, talk, and forget tests.

Assignment: Nobody knows but Mr. Allen and he won't tell.

Later Miss Gardiner supplied part of the procedure that had been left out. The word, "eat," was added and ice cream and angel food cake were served, so that the guests might execute this part of the procedure. The hostesses proved to be delightful entertainers, and the surprised student teachers left their final "general conference" of the fall term with a somewhat revised attitude towards their work.

THANKSGIVING DINNER

Sunday at 1 o'clock about 100 people enjoyed the delicious two course Thanksgiving dinner at the Hall. The center of the tables were adorned with beautiful yellow chrysanthemums.

The menu was as follows:
Roast chicken and dressing
Mashed potatoes Buttered peas
Giblet gravy
Pineapple salad Cranberries
Celery Olives
Coffee

Mince pie a la mode

Among the many guests who enjoyed the dinner were Mr. and Mrs. Lord, Mr. and Mrs. Taylor, Mr. Johnson of Columbia University, Mr. and Mrs. Lantz and daughters, Natalie and Mary Jane, Mr. Awty and children, Jack and Inez, Miss Thomas, Mrs. Ernst, Hazel Garrison of Mattoon, Geneva Williams, Emily Heistand, Elizabeth Kerr, Lucile Nehring, Betty Hull of Mattoon, and Catherine McMunn.

Marjorie Fox, Jo Francis Tiffin, and Genevieve Leseman were 1 o'clock dinner guests of Bernadine Abel Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Marvin entertained Lillie Fleming, Marjorie Fox, Miss Armstrong, and Miss Baird at tea Sunday afternoon.

Lucile Nehring was the hostess at a 6 o'clock dinner party Sunday. The guests were Elizabeth Kerr, Dorothy Jordan, and Elsie Sloan.

Mr. and Mrs. Lord were host and hostess at a dinner and reception Saturday night in honor of Prof. Johnson of Columbia University.

STUDENTS REGISTER FOR WINTER TERM

The machinery of registration for the winter term was set in motion Thursday and Friday. On the afternoon of each of these days the faculty advisers were kept busy helping the students fill out their programs for the coming term. This will facilitate the registration activities on opening day, and will enable the faculty advisers to give more attention to the new students who must go through the entire enrollment process.

Among the E. L. students and faculty members who witnessed the Illinois-Ohio game at Urbana Saturday were Earl Lee, Starr Cochran, Robert Shoemaker, Charles Clabaugh, Miss Rooke, and Mr. and Mrs. Lantz.

PERSONALS

Mr. Allen delivered an address at a county teachers association meeting in Jonesboro Saturday.

Miss Ruby Sharp of Loza visited school Friday. She is planning to resume her school duties at E. I. next term.

Miss Bernice Autherrieth, a member of the '22 T. C. high school g. adunating class, resumed old acquaintances at E. I. and attended the carnival Saturday.

Miss Lillian Myers of Saybrook and Stephen Turner of El Paso came back to E. I. for the carnival Saturday evening.

Charles Frather of Urbana, Leslie Cook of Arthur, and Robert Williams of Kansas were among the former students who attended the carnival Saturday evening.

Volma Hughes '21 was a chapel visitor Saturday.

John Whitesel '21 of Newton spent Saturday here.

Cyril Reed '22 of Rose Hill spent his week-end in Charleston.

Among the alumni and former students who attended the carnival Saturday evening were Otto Schmaszic, Jidays Brading, Merle Root, and Pauline Iemogie.

Hazel Garrison of Mattoon was the week-end guest of her sister, Irene.

Prof. Johnson of Columbia University, New York City, was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Lord over Sunday.

Geneva Williams was a visitor in Casey Monday.

Louise Means, Harriet Tate, Hugh Johnson, and Lewis Seaman motored to Paris Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Merrell McCabe and daughter, Marjorie, of Chicago attended the carnival Saturday evening.

DU-U-NO?

That tomorrow is the last day of the fall term.

Why they call Irene Garrison "Imp"

Who the D. D. D.'s are.

A remedy for Paul Johnson's 2nd story salutations.

How Hovey gets his pull at the Lincoln street boarding club.

That this column is the "Du-u-no?" and not the "Do-u-no?"

Why Florence O'Hair and Helen Redman always look across the hall during French class.

How long it is until February, the amethyst month, rolls around—Ruey does.

Why Paul Johnson keeps one eye closed in chapel.

Why everyone in Geography 21 laughed Tuesday when Miss Weller said that dates belong to the oases of the desert.

Why Blanche Larrance replied so quickly, "Oh, it's too hot there!"

Why Pauline Iemogie talked so long to one of our high school football boys at the west entrance to the main building before school Thursday morning.

Why Stub Hadcock has a fondness for C. H. S.

That Bill Creamer's rival is Creacher's son.

Who carried Luella Starr across the mud hole on Tenth street.

If Paul Ridgely's father runs a chewing gum factory.

Why Polly Mitchell blushed at the Student Council meeting Friday.

If a girl would be green if she wore a yellow hair ribbon and a blue dress.

Why Blanche Henry sat up until 2:30 a. m. Friday.

Why she didn't send him home earlier.

That the joys of the practice teacher are just about one-third over.

That they are all "up in the air" about their grades and their assignments for next term.

That they lived through one term, and they can also survive the next one.

Why Neva wants it to rain if Mr. Moore likes cider.

What girl's wearing apparel "Chick" had on Thursday night.

What happened to Louise Means and "Gilly" after they rolled down the hill.

That Miss Ellington lighted her candle just in time Tuesday night.

Why the student teachers on the second floor of the training school building enjoy Thursday afternoon conferences.

That Harold Snyder, Kenneth Watara, Orville Donaldson, and Albert Crove are real rams.

Down in a little Arkansas village an old lady wrote this post-script in a letter to her niece, "If I had a knowed you was a goin' to want, I would have come down to the train and saved you off."

Portrait of MR. LORD NEARING COMPLETION

Mr. Root has returned to Shelbyville after spending several days at E. I. painting the sophomore's commercial portrait of Mr. Lord. He took the portrait to his own studio to add the finishing touches. Mr. Root has written to Mr. Ashley that the picture will be ready for delivery within another month. Everybody at E. I. is eager to see this unusual and distinctive portrait that the class of '23 has so tastefully selected.

Togs for the Campus

"Where are you going, my pretty maid?" "I'm going shopping for my Campus Togs, sir," she said, I'm going to Parker's. They specialize in collegiate apparel at very modest prices, you know." So on she tripped to our Girls' Shop, and thither what she bought—a swanky Mohair topcoat, a Prunella cloth skirt and two bright slipover sweaters, and a smart Jersey dress to wear on the campus. She didn't forget a clever cloth frock or chic silk frock for sorority teas. A fur-trimmed suit to wear to town and a bouffant dancing frock for fraternity formals completed her outfit.
