EDITORIALS

STUDENTS TO THE FORE
How fine it was to see the student chorus contributing its bit to the success of the Music Festival Friday evening! How proud E. I. should be, and is, of the Girls' Glee Club and the young men who assisted the glee club in some of the numbers. How it thrilled the E. I. portion of the audience to see and hear three of our own clan in the leading parts of the ever beautiful Sextette from Lucia! If it ever seemed ill-favored, and it sometimes did, to keep the chorus practices going during the past few months, all doubt concerning its advisability surely was removed as Friday evening's program progressed. The students may have become impatient at times, but after all it was Mr. Koch whose patience must have oftentimes been taxed to the limit. After it is to Mr. Koch's unlimited patience and overtime work that must be ascribed the major portion of the success of the festival.

The students like to see and hear their fellow-students do things. They like to hear their mates have a part in the chapel exercises. E. I. is blessed with an abundance of good singers and pianists, and perhaps violinists, and entertainers in other fields. A few of them have been invited to sing or play at the conclusion of the Saturday morning exercises from time to time. But why may they not appear oftener? The students like it, and the experience is good for the entertainer. So is it not justifiable from every angle? THE NEWS believes that it is.

THE JOY OF LIVING
So many people pursue the course of life at so swift a pace that they miss much of the joy of living. They are so dazzled by the gleam and glamour of far-off adventure that they miss the wonderful half-hidden delights beside them. Doubtless every one has at some time or other rushed over a wealth of pleasure trying to reach some rumored joy, just as the "Forty-niners" swept over the rich deposits of Nevada in their mad race for the California gold fields.

Spring is here—the season of joy. Buds are bursting, delicate flowers are glorifying grassy plots and rugged slopes, bees and streams are crooning gay little snatches of song, saucy little breezes swoop down; unannounced on one and as informally are off again, and the birds are singing songs of joyous life. "Life is real" and full. Yet even all these joys cannot lure all people from stuffy buildings and the indoor pleasures created by man.

Many are frantically seeking artificial beauty; all their senses are dead to the appeal of nature. Their ears are deaf to the notes of birds, the buzz of insects, the trickling of water over stones, the whir of wings, the low—almost whispered—message of swaying branches. Their eyes are blind to the delicate fern leaves, the faintly green etchings of tiny leaves on giant trees, the marvelous coloring

CHAPTER 29

How often have I been impressed by the progressiveness and up-to-the-minute movements of our advertisers! The mention of just a few of these innumerable proofs of the astuteness of advertisers will bring to your attention the generalization that it is the purpose of this chapter to convey.

R. P. Darigan, the genial grocery and market proprietor at Fourth and 10th streets, is sporting a brand new delivery car that reflects great credit upon the store as it darts up and down the local pavements. The Eagle Shoe Store is going to move up to the square and occupy one of the business rooms vacated by the National Trust Bank as soon as the latter moves into its new home. The Charleston Cleaners and Dyers will open a new plant tomorrow—the most modern equipped plant in Eastern Illinois. And there are many other proofs of progressiveness among our advertisers. Watch for more next week.

of flowers and insects, and the sudden glimpse of fairy-like spots that transport the nature lover to the heaven of delight. Their nostrils are never shut—a-quiver with the odor of freshly turned earth, the tang of woods, the invigorating whiff of running water, and the pungent odors of thousands of plants. Their fingers never tingle—the touch of cool velvety petals, soft crumbly loam, and moist sand. They never feel the witching spell of nature.

Why imprison one's soul in an air-tight dark, sound-proof vault? Open wide the doors and windows of the soul. Let it glow and expand in the balmy climate of life—a rich, full life. "The world is too much with us: late and soon, Getting and spending, we lay waste our powers: Little we see in Nature that is ours; We have given our hearts away, in a sordid boon! This sea that bares her bosom to the moon; The winds that will be howling at all hours; And are up-gathered now like sleeping flowers; It moves us not."

THE NEWS is most grateful for the receipt of several friendly suggestions and constructive criticisms from a veteran newspaper publisher who has been watching the E. I. paper all year from another state. A few of the suggestions were adopted by the staff, which readily recognized the value of the indicated improvements. One or two seemed impractical to the local management, because of the difference between college and independent newspapers.

THE NEWS believes in making any changes that will improve the publication just as soon as it is convinced that the change is really an improvement. It will introduce an improvement in the very last issue of the present staff's control if it recognizes the benefit to a change will produce. The staff has changed the hour of its weekly meetings from 4:15 on Tuesday afternoons to 1 o'clock on those afternoons.

Social Events

By CATHERINE LITTLE

Friday evening after the concert an informal reception was held in the parlors of Pemberton Hall in honor of Mrs. Madden.

Miss Gardiner was the luncheon guest of Miss Ewalt Sunday evening.

Pearl Isenberg was a dinner guest at the Hall Sunday.

BASEBALL PICTURE TAKEN FOR WARBLER

The varsity baseball picture was taken by Mr. Lainsor on Schahrer Field Friday afternoon. This is the final group picture for the Warbler, as the staff very considerably waited until the team was picked before of the picture. As is usually the case when an athletic picture is taken there are a few missing members, so were Clabaugh and Warner absentees Friday afternoon. It is very regrettable that the entire team was not out for the picture, but the players had received no advance notice that the photographer would be on the job.

Exchange Extracts

Normal U. Coach Resigns
H. H. Russell, coach of the Illinois Normal University athletic teams during the past twelve years, has resigned his post, according to The Vidette, the school's weekly publication. The announcement was received with surprise, not only throughout the conference, but at Normal U. as well. He has secured the position of basketball coach on the coaching staff at Clark University in Worcester, Mass. Mr. Russell's new position is advantageous for him, as he can work and study at the same time. He expects to stay here several years and will earn his doctor's degree in geography.

Mr. Russell's career at Normal U. dates back to the early nineteen hundred's when he entered that institution as a high school boy. He was an all-around athletic star, and has made a good record as a coach, considering the limited material that his school has had for him to work with. The retiring coach has always been an influence for good in the athletic realm, and his loss will be felt throughout the entire conference. He will assume his new duties Sept. 1, but will remain at Normal U. during the summer months until his successor is nominated.

Millikin Picks Williams

Roland K. Williams, one of the greatest athletes ever to graduate from the University of Wisconsin, has been elected to fill the post of athletic director at the James Millikin University, to succeed Norman G. Wann who resigned recently. Mr. Williams is a nine letter man at Wisconsin, says the Decaturian, and has been recognized as a great "find" for the school that would be fortunate enough to sign him as coach or athletic director. He will graduate from Wisconsin University in June. Mr. Williams captained the Wisconsin football eleven last fall, and is captain of the baseball team this spring. He was picked for a berth on the All-American football team, and won a place on the all conference basketball selection. The atmosphere at Millikin is filled with optimism concerning its future athletic activities. Mr. Williams will enter upon his new duties next September.

New President at McKendree
The McKendree Review devotes considerable space to the new president of McKendree College, Dr. Cameron Harmon. The college awaits with eager interest the improvements that are expected from the administration. Dr. Harmon graduated from McKendree in 1903, and was very prominent in athletics and student activities. The new executive plans to launch a vigorous student drive. He said he will take the field in person and before college opens next fall will have visited prospective students in every county in Southern Illinois. At the meeting of the Joint Board of Trustees and Visitors, at which Dr. Harmon's election occurred, Ex-Governor Charles S. Deneen resigned as president of the board of trustees. Mr. Deneen explained that his legal duties in Chicago made it impossible for him to devote the time which the interests of the college demanded.

The Knox Student announces that John Van Liew has been named athletic director at Knox College. During the past three years Mr. Van Liew has coached the Champaign high school teams. His specialty is developing winners in football, basketball, and track athletics. He will be remembered by Charleston track fans who saw his Champaign team win the annual meet on Schahrer Field last spring. Mr. Van Liew will have complete charge of athletics at Knox.

Wiley High from Terre Haute won The C. H. S. and T. C. High teams failed to place in any event.

TEAM DETERMINED TO "BEAT MILLIKIN!"

Aside from the annual field meet next Saturday, certainly the big event of the week will be the Millikin-Lantamen baseball game Thursday afternoon. For years the teams from these two schools have fought for blood when they stacked up together in contests, and the most bitter sort of rivalry has long existed between the men of Wann and the men of Lantz. This game Thursday promises to be no exception to the rule, and it is expected that a large crowd of townspeople will turn out to re-enforce the student attendance, with the hope of seeing E. L. retained the victor. During recent years Millikin has surpassed the "Blue and Gray" in athletic achievements, but the local team this year is the strongest one that has represented our school for several moons, and has the best chance to wallop Millikin that an E. L. team has had for several years.

The Lantamen are a peppery combination and believe in themselves. The students, too, have caught the team's spirit and are enthusiastic over the prospects for a winning season. It has been a long time since a baseball team at E. L. has displayed the fighting qualities that feature the team in the present combination. Juncan, the bustling catcher of a year ago, entered school Monday, and jumped right into the harness. He is a star at any position on the diamond and is primed for a big year. Green, the infielder that was expected in from Oblong, was unable to get away from his duties there, so he is lost to the team. But with four pitchers going in mid-season, a dependable trio of catchers, an ever improving infield, and an outfield that scorches the pasture with its speed, the Lantamen are conceded an unusual opportunity to balance the scales with Millikin for some past reverses.

While any one of the four pitchers may be assigned to the firing line to stop the Millikin hitters, Clabshaw's brilliant showing against Mattson last week causes him to look like the best bet. But the twirler that warms up best will be the final choice at game time. Pfaffor, the snake ball beaver who trimmed the Lantamen a couple of times last year, will doubtless test the mound for the Decatur team. Ye students of E. L., if you have the fighting spirit that the team has, Millikin will see E. L. supremacy Thursday. It is the biggest game of the season. Show your colors: Truly is the time-honored battle cry revived, "Beat Millikin!"

COUNCIL ENGINEERS

FACULTY RECEPTION
The Student Council assembled for three meetings last week—Tuesday noon, Thursday noon, and during the chapel period Saturday. The absentees were Eugene Stillions Tuesday and Ella Mae Jackson at the Saturday session. The principal business that occupied the council's attention was preparations for the student reception to the faculty to be held in the parlors of Pemberton Hall this evening at 8 o'clock.

President Foster appointed the following committees—Music and Program: Harry Jackson, Catherine Lytle, Margaret Merrer, Harold Kerr, and Dorothy Hackett; Refreshments: Paulina Mitchell, Elsie Sloan, Lucille Starr, Ogden Brainard, and Fred Adams. The following persons were picked for the receiving line at the doors: Roy Stillions of the Student Council, Catherine Lytle of the senior class, Elsie Sloan of the juniors, Luke Crouse of the sophomores, Kieth Emery of the freshmen, Beulah Tittle of the twelfth year, Ella Mae Jackson of the ninth year, Hale Coyle of THE NEWS, Leila Armstrong of the Young Women's Christian Association, and A. F. Goldsmith of the Young Men's Christian Association. Although this reception for the faculty is unusually late this year, yet it comes at a particularly appropriate time, for the new students will be afforded a special welcome and a chance to get acquainted.

The council voted to share its stand at the field meet with the Warbler staff on a 50-50 basis, thus aiding the latter in its efforts to meet the heavy expenses connected with the publication of the annual. A committee of members Goldsmith, Jackson and Phipps was appointed to cooperate with the Warbler staff in the management of the stand. The council is considering the approaching selection of editor and business manager for THE NEWS next year. Thus far no applications have been made for the position, but the council must make its choice this week, so that the heads of the new staff may familiarize themselves with the work before school closes. The election occurred during the first week in April a year ago.

MID-TERM REGISTRATION

BRINGS 96 NEW STUDENTS
The mid-spring enrollment shows another slight decrease from the corresponding total of last year which showed 99 new students. This year 92 have registered and four more have filed cards previous to entering this next week. These, with those enrolled at the beginning of the spring term make a total enrollment of 665 students in our school now.
