CARBONDALE LOSES TO BLUE AND GRAY

The varsity five triumphed over their ancient foe at Carbondale last Thursday, 25-8. The southern teachers could do little to the stalwart defense of the Lantzen and were decisively outplayed by the basket throwing of Hall and Phipps who were ably seconded by the other basketballers of the team. The victory is the third of the year over Carbondale and the second in basketball.

During the first half with only a 10-4 margin, the attack brightened up and accounted for a big part of the final total in the closing period. Hall sent the ball swishing through the net three times at the start of the game while Foreman could only locate it once from long range and Towles twice from the penalty mark. The E. I. N. U. players consisted of the five field goals by Hickey and Pyatt. Keeping through the last half of the game Phipps sank three from outside the end zone, and Towles with two, Hall, one and Cochran, one made up the rest of the E. I. total. Grimm's nager and Furnell's free tosses were the only successful enemy efforts.

A working five man defense in which Brown and Cochran had the most important parts held the Egyptians to long and hurried shots during most of the contest. The E. I. five was in a shooting mood, and although its easy chances were not many they were converted into points. The play was rough enough to suit the most rabid scraper, but there was no bad feeling and members of the local quintet gave Carbondale credit for a much better, hard fought game than they exhibited here.

WARBLER NEARS COMPLETION

Discounting the possibility of phenomenal and immediate sales, the staff plans to print only 625 Warblers. As about 40 of these remain yet unsold, you may order yours until they are gone. If you want the imitation leather cover on your Warbler, it must be ordered Tuesday or at class meeting time Wednesday morning, as present prospects for the class clothing are not bright, the 600 goal not having been reached. The final order will probably be sent away Wednesday.

On account of the marionettes here Wednesday, Warbler payments will be received only on Tuesday afternoon from 1 until 1:30 and from 2:30 until 4:00. Although the goal of 600 was not reached, the editors have had more snapshots and cartoons prepared and have sent to the engraver a special border design which will be printed in color. As high grade ink is possible will be placed in all the books, and every cent possible is being put into the contents, to make the inside truly represent the twenty-fifth anniversary of E. I. All the material is now in the editors' hands, being prepared for the printer. The last rush order of pictures will be sent to the engravers this week and will be ready by the time the editorial work is completed. Then the staff will be able to rest easy for a week or so, till the proofs begin to come back for correction.

MISS MORSE TO LEAVE SOON; MISS ARMSTRONG IN CHARGE

The first grade will soon be in charge of Leila Armstrong, as Miss Morse leaves the last of this term to sail for Europe. The prospective supervisor is a member of the senior college graduating class who is specializing in primary work and who will receive her degree in that work. She has had teaching experience prior to her enrolling as a student here and is quite capable of her new position. All this year she has been taking a directed supervisory course in which she has become better acquainted with our primary system.

Miss Morse expects to sail on March 8 from New York on the Colombia. She will go to Italy where she will meet with Miss Fern Daringer. The latest report of the latter is that she is now in Florence.

SOPHOMORE MINSTREL PROVES FAIR SUCCESS

While the sophomore minstrel was quite entertaining in itself, much of it was lost to a large number in the audience because of failure on the part of the minstrels to get the words but clearly and strongly enough. Because of this it was not the success it should have been. The redeeming feature was the catchy tunes which accompanied the songs.

In the first part of the entertainment Carroll Dunn as interlocutor with Ross Popham, Thomas Gilbert, Harold Kerr and Paul Hall as end men gave "Cut Dat Mellon" which was followed by a line sung from "When You and I Were Young, Maggie" by Harold Kerr. Then a pleasant yodling song was rendered by one of these colored soloists; "Rocked in the Cradle of the Deep" was equally as humorous.

Two oddly costumed darkies paraded through the audience and up on to the platform to witness the above performance. Finding they were not needed at that time they disappeared for awhile. Then the end men engaged in a group of songs including "I'm Coming, I'm Coming," "This is a Night of Revelry," "Tis the Last Rose of Summer," "Too Slow, Too Slow," "Tosador, On Guard Now," "Not So Bad, It Could Be Worse," "Let Us Sing" and "Willie, Willie Wictum." They were assisted in these by the rest of the male minstrels who came in and formed a semicircle on the stage. With "I Like You, Honey" the monopoly of the men was over, for "Hats, Hats, Hats" brought in the girls who displayed hats of all descriptions, formed a semicircle behind the boys and proceeded to assist in the choruses. Two more songs were given, jokes were told and the curtain signaled the next division to start.

The Florodora double quintet initiated the next group of songs and their number was highly entertaining in its combination of dancing, acting and singing. Robert Thrall's solo, "M-T Pocket Blues" and "Mammy's Lullaby" by Jo Frances Tiffin were other high lights on the program.

The names of the remaining group songs should speak for themselves—"Any Old Place Where the Lights are Low," "In an Auto There's Such Sport," "I Could Care For You," "Let Him Lie! What do You Care?" "I Forgot My Umbrella," "Get Under My Parasol," "Everybody Gives Me Something" and "This is the End of Songs and Laughs."

For the most part the jokes were general ones, but a few on individuals in school were told—or rather assumed. The end men helped create fun by going through laughable actions at expected times.

Financially, the entertainment was a fair success—about three hundred people having come to see the show. The proceeds will go for the sophomore memorial fund as has been stated before.

POOR "DUMB DORA"

"Hello, Dora," said the young painter in the old story. "You look exactly like something out of the Italian Renaissance."

"Is that so?" Dora answered. "You don't look so well yourself."

"You know Dumb Dora don't you? She not only thinks Rex Beach is a summer resort; she also believes that Romeo and Juliet are a vanderbilt team; that Helen of Troy lives near Albany, and that Zane Grey is a color."

She says that reading books is "an awful waste of time."

Of course, you're not in Dumb Dora's class, and there's not much danger of your slipping into it. You follow what's going on in the world; and you are acquainted with the great events and the great persons of history and literature. You read good books. And, in selecting these books, you consult your library.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES

The members of the Young Men's Christian Association held a meeting last Tuesday evening and it is reported that "an interesting discussion on an interesting subject" was held. A resolution was passed which is to be added to the constitution of the organization. The next meeting will be held Tuesday night beginning at 6:45 and the plans are made to talk of "On what basis do you decide what to do and what not to do?"

Members of the Y. M. C. A. cabinet met Sunday afternoon at the home of Tildford Dudley and discussed the selecting of a nominating committee which will be privileged with considering recommendations for next year's officers.

During the time when the high school district tournament is in session the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. will conduct a check room in the lower corridor of Pemberton Hall. This will be for the accommodation of the general public. A small fee will be charged.

T. C. TRIUMPHS OVER WESTFIELD

Coach Hughes' tournament contenders took Westfield H. S. into camp last Wednesday by a score of 26-12 in the home gym. T. C. High's ability to connect for 12 field goals, Stone with 5 and Osborn with 2 doing most of it, and the work of the rival back guards, Stillens for T. C. and Stevens of Westfield, were the outstanding features of the game. The difference between the scores does not indicate the high quality of the visitors' team play or their failure to hit the basket consistently, only 6 of the 12 points resulting from field tries.

Gannaway led the scoring in the opening quarter with a pair of baskets and Stone sandwiched one between them to give the home crew a good start. Before the quarter was up "Gene" Stillens counted from the field for additional laurels to his prize-winning guarding game. Osborn took up the scoring burden in the second period by sending two ringers through the net, and subs began to appear in the lineup. Stevens, the Westfield star, made the lone rival basket of the half shortly after the period started, and free tosses brought the totals to 12-5 at half time. Stone accepted the responsibility for advancing the Purple and Gold score during the third quarter with two baskets and a free throw as the enemy scored on Green's basket and Rider's third free toss. The final quarter was another shoot-out for the victors, Stone collecting a brace of successful tries from the field and Veach and Osborn one apiece while Rider was cinching Westfield high point honors with a long shot.

The contest was far from slow and although the invading quintet trailed behind almost the whole of the game, they never let up and were going as strong at the finish as in the opening minutes of play. The Hugabums have definitely emerged from their mid season slump and are approaching the tournament in excellent shape.

TERRE HAUTE WINS LAURELS SATURDAY

The Blue and Gray suffered a humiliating defeat at the hands of Indiana Normal, 29-10, last Saturday at Terre Haute. The first half witnessed the E. I. bid for victory, score 15-10, but the succeeding period was little short of a rout with the additional disgrace of being held to a goose egg score. A bewildered defense and ineffective floor work combined to make the local crew easy targets for the Hoosier attack. Foreman was the sole E. I. representative to find the hoop with any regularity, scoring 7 points of the 10. Burris and Tudor with 11 points apiece accounted for most of the Hoosier total and Conover by his brilliant dribbling and passing copped the starring role.

(X) THEY HAVE A RIGHT TO DO IT?

Do those boys who have not earned a letter in athletics have the right to borrow a friend's football sweater? This question is one that is often discussed and one that should be until the right conclusion is reached. The sentiment pretty thoroughly felt is that the letter should absolutely not be worn by one who has not earned it.

It might be well for us to stop a minute and think just what the school athletic monogram means. There are certain boys who have sufficient ability and have worked hard enough to uphold the school's name and reputation in the athletic world. Those others of school, unable to do what these boys have, try to show their appreciation by distinguishing with symbols of honor those athletes from ordinary students. Usually the symbols are in the form of school letters. So, the monogram really means that its wearer has done an athlete's part sufficiently well in playing the school's games to be given certain tokens of honor.

There is little doubt about whether a school athletic letter can have the above meaning and still be worn by a person not earning it. A boy who wears one without being entitled to it is telling a lie. He is pretending that he has done something that he has not.

What would it mean to allow such boys to continue this practice? Unless we show our disapproval of this, we are lowering the true value of the letter. If anyone is allowed to wear the monogram, we are no longer drawing a distinction between those who uphold athletics by their skill as players and those who do not. Thus, we cease to show our appreciation, in the form of letters, for what the boys do. Our school letter like the German mark will be practically valueless. In such a case, we are killing an incentive for boys doing their best in athletics. If no one appreciates what they do, why should they work and drill day after day to prepare themselves to win the school's games? If they do, it is because they, and only they, are true enough to stay by their school in athletics.

We should all do all we can to keep the practice of borrowing football sweaters rooted out. We can do our part whether we are the borrowers or the lenders. The owners as well as those who give the letter must not cease to recognize its value, and must not allow it to be worn by just anyone.

"THE FELLOWSHIP OF YOUTH FOR PEACE" MOVEMENT
When the Indianapolis papers headed convention reports with glaring headlines about the "Pacifist Bloc" in the convention, they probably did not consider it as one of the outstanding student movements of the time. Our christian college students demand above all a religion that is active for good. Since they see in war one of the greatest evils of our age, as a group they will oppose it to the extent of their ability, and it is possible for student America to make herself felt.

Christian students the world over feel that if Christianity means anything, it means the ruling of our lives by Christ. And they feel that war has become so destructive that it can no longer serve a useful purpose, but must defeat its own ends. We must consider and relate ourselves to the great social problems of our day in the light of the teachings and principles of Jesus, for therein lies the only solution. Professing christians have tried to solve their problems in a practical way, and have not given these principles a fair trial. But today this seems to students all over the world to be the only practical way.

Directly out of the convention grew "The Fellowship of Youth for Peace," which is uniting in a strong band those who believe that as christians they cannot again take up arms against their fellows in other parts of the world. Six thousand students returned to hundreds of colleges and universities more or less influenced by the four hundred or more young people who took a definite pledge not to engage in any war, but to fight with the arms of love and goodwill.

All of these delegates have received copies of the pledge and aggressive program of this movement, and wider and wider the Fellowship extends its influence. The convention leaders recognized the movement by giving the topic a great deal of attention in the program. Auxiliary discussion meetings had a wide influence on the student thought. Whenever students met to discuss the problem they came to the same conclusions. There was unanimous agreement that war served no good end and is unchristian, and differences were only as to the best means of serving it. Student thought is united in opposition to war as a means of settling international disputes, and while all do not agree that the policy of the "Fellowship of Youth for Peace" takes the right step to prevent war by its non-participation pledge, we cannot pass without mentioning so significant a movement, growing and putting into concrete form student opposition to warfare which can serve no other end than the destruction of civilization.

—Harold Emery.

ATHLETICS AND THE GAME OF LIFE
By R. N. McCord

A great many intelligent people have never stopped to think of the influence that athletics has on the game of life. They know that athletics has grown by leaps and bounds. They see boys grow up, develop into great athletes, graduate from college and go into business, and never give it a thought. That is the deplorable thing about our present system.

Let us analyze the situation. The boys of today will be the athletic heroes of our high schools and colleges a few years hence, and as the years go by will be our executives and business men. Just how will their business and their game of life be affected by their athletic careers?

It has been definitely agreed that habits formed during the formative period of a child's life will stay with him in the years to come.

The years our boys are competing in athletics are the impressionable years of their lives—it is the formative period. If they learn good sportsmanship, are taught good habits, develop high ideals, and play the game squares, these same habits will follow them through life. The unfair, unsportsmanlike player will seldom develop into the scrupulous business man who bases his success on ideals. Let the boy be successful in his play with his fellows, and he will take an unfair advantage of his associates when he enters the business world.

What he is as a boy he will probably be as a man. Winning is fine, but if in the effort to win boys are taught habits that are bad or vicious, it is the price of winning at any cost. The boy who plays fair, is a good loser and a sportsmanlike winner would not stoop to an unfair act to win, will be an influence for good in the world of business. ### GIRLS' FEBRUARY DANCE SUCCESSFUL

The girls' formal dance held Saturday evening in the gymnasium was quite a success. About 70 couples were present.

The "bluebird of happiness" reigned in the "oil ole gym" which was transformed into a regular ballroom in which blue and white were the predominant colors. A drop ceiling effect was used. The walls were covered with white and groups of bluebirds were stenciled upon them in pleasing patterns. Numerous artificial bluebirds were also suspended from the ceiling. Lattice work was used to form punch booths and a special place for the orchestra and this was decorated with daintily colored paper flowers. Light was furnished by a number of bluebird lanterns.

Music was furnished by "Bud" Cromwell's orchestra from Terre Haute. Several novelty numbers were played.

Three favor dances added to the evening's enjoyment. The first provided noisemakers for the boys, the next brought out balloons for the girls and the last was a shower of confetti and serpentine.

The chaperones were Mr. and Mrs. Willey, Mr. and Mrs. Stover and Miss Besteland.

Throughout the evening punch was served by Katherine Shaffer, Bobbie Wyeth, Herschel Cook and Carl Ryan.

PEMBERTON HALL DINNER PARTIES

Sunday proved quite a popular day for dinner parties at Pemberton Hall, there being a number of the girls' dance guests who remained in Charleston for another day.

At the faculty table were Mr. and Mrs. Sellars, Mr. and Mrs. Modesitt, Mr. and Mrs. Widger, Mr. and Mrs. Willey, Miss Besteland and Mr. Daniels who enjoyed the party arranged by Miss Ewalt and Miss Molyneux.

Dorothy Sellars, of Oak Park, and Kathryn Sellars were guests of honor in another group consisting of Leila Armstrong, Jo Frances Tiffin, Lida Sparks, Florence Bennett and Helen Gaertner.

Two other special tables were made up of Mary Louise Durcan, Glenadine Weaver, Wilma Thornton, Frances Darrrough, Virginia Rose Alexander, Bernadine McKibben, Carroll Dunn, John Whitesel, Starr Cochran and Elmer Johnson at one table; and Christine Lively, Ruth Norcum, Florence O'Dell, Lorna Doune Spencer, Corinne Leonard, George Beam, Don Hunt and Clyde Hunter at the other.

For the most part the girls of Pemberton Hall not having guests also formed special groups among themselves.

A COASTING PARTY

A number of the winter sport lovers hiked 2 miles southwest of town Friday morning and celebrated Washington's birthday with a coasting party, thoroughly testing Edward Thomas' new bobbed. The snow proved excellent for coasting and also a snow ball fight in which all were victors as well as victims. The party was fortunate in having a domestic science teacher present to appease the hunger of the famished joyseekers with a luncheon at noon.

Those members of the faculty who enjoyed the morning were Miss Case, Miss Heller, Miss Theriot, Miss Jones and Mr. Hughes. The students were Virginia Thomas, Julia Thomas, Chennault Kelly, Alice Kelly, Edward Thomas, Theodore Whitesel and John Whitesel.

SENIOR COLLEGE GET-TOGETHER

Several members of the senior college had an informal get-together at the home of Ferne Huber on Friday night. Dancing and games furnished amusement for the evening.

TONY SARG HERE NEXT

Tony Sarg's new production, "The Chinese Willow Plate Story," will be the next number of our entertainment course, coming Wednesday, February 27. Two performances will be given, but only the evening one will be for those holding recreation or season tickets. That one will begin at 8 o'clock and admission for those without these special tickets will be 50 cents for children and $1.00 for adults. The afternoon performance will be a special matinee presumably for school children, and the same story will be shown. The afternoon admissions will be 25 cents for children and 75 cents for adults.

This company will come here from Peoria and they will go to Chicago from here. Their show is reported to be totally different from that of last year, for life-sized marionettes will be used. Then, too, the story is different, being based on an old Chinese shadow graph and dramatizing the pictures that are common on this special kind of china. All this will be accompanied by music furnished by Victor Herbert of the company.

It is interesting to note that no one is to be given the privilege of seeing these marionettes close up as attempts have been made to steal the secret until Tony Sarg has ordered that it be guarded more closely.

Mr. A. H. Edgerton, formerly teacher of manual training here and now of Teachers College, Columbia university, has prepared Pt. 2 of the 23rd Yearbook of the National society for the study of education entitled, "Vocational Guidance and Vocational Guidance for the Industries." Arnold Bennett writes of "The Place You Live In" in the Woman's Home Companion for March.
