Fair to have something for almost anyone

by Debbie Thornburgh

Rides, side shows, cotton candy, grandstand shows and more can be found next week at the Coles County Fair. The state's oldest continuing fair will run from July 31-Aug. 5.

"There will be all the old rides at the fair" such as the ferris wheel, the scrambler, the paratrooper and the tilt-a-whirl, "and there will be some new ones, too," Delmar Baldwin, president of the Coles County Fair, said.

After you ride all the rides, eat at all the eating places, see all the side shows and try your luck at all the games along the fairway, you can do it all again or else go and see the evening grandstand shows.

The musical group "Common Ground" leads off the grandstand events Sunday night which is Family Night at the fair. "The group does a variety of music," Baldwin said.

"They're kind of like the Young Americans group," Baldwin said. "They're real good entertainment."

Monday's grandstand event is the WEIC Talent Show. Competitors will be vying for the $100 first prize. Second prize is $75, third prize is $50 and fourth prize is $25.

People on garden tractors will invade the front of the grandstand Tuesday night for the garden tractor pull.

Kimberly Burgess, Miss Coles County Fair, will be crowning a new Miss Coles County Fair Wednesday night in the grandstand. There will be 26 girls vying for Burgess' crown.

to the grandstand Thursday.

Friday's grandstand event is the Open to the World Tractor Pulling Contest. A purse of $2300 will be divided between the top finishers in the four classes.

The grandstand events end Saturday night with the annual Demolition Derby.

The grandstand shows Sunday through Thursday begin at 8 p.m. Friday's event begins at 7 p.m., and Saturday's activity starts at 7:30 p.m.

Gate prices for the fair are $1 for adults; persons under 16 get in free. The vehicle charge at the gate is 50 cents.

Admission to most of the grandstand events is $2. Admission to "Common Ground" is $3 for a box seat and $2 for general admission.

No campus candidates eligible for veep post

by Denise Hesler

The new Vice Presidential Search Committee voted Tuesday to exclude on-campus candidates from consideration in the upcoming search.

The feeling of the committee was that "the on-campus candidates had been looked at last time," Committee Chairperson Dave Buchanan said Tuesday.

The new committee which was just recently formed, met Tuesday with President Daniel Marvin for an organizational meeting.

Buchanan said that Marvin talked "in general" about what qualities he felt the new vice president of academic affairs should have.

"He stressed all the things he told the previous committee," Buchanan said.

The 11-member committee, which will meet again in early fall, consists of Buchanan, four faculty chosen by the Faculty Senate, two students chosen by the Student Senate and two deans and two department chairpersons chosen by Marvin.

The members of the committee are as follows:

Faculty: Tim Gover of the Management-Marketing Department, Shirley Neal of the English Department, Carl Sexton of the Health Education Department and Marian Shuff of the Secondary Education and Foundations Department.

Students: Debbie Smitley, Board of Governors student representative and Steve Murray, executive vice president of student government.

Deans: Vaughn Jaenike, dean of the School of Fine Arts and Donald Lauda, dean of the School of Industrial Technology.

Department Chairpersons: Louis

Grado, Elementary and Junior High Education Department chairperson and Victor Stoltzfus, Sociology Department chairperson.

Buchanan said that the advertisement for the position did not appear in the July 18 issue of the Chronicle of Higher Education as planned but did appear in Monday's issue.

The search will be for a replacement for Peter Moody, former vice president for academic affairs, who retired effective June 30.

The original search began in January but was reopened in May by Marvin due to a lack of fully qualified candidates under consideration and not enough candidates recommended to him.

Eastern only state school to increase fall enrollment

by Karen Griffin

The enrollment outlook for this fall is quite good in comparison to other state schools, Vice President of Student Affairs Glenn Williams said Friday.

However, the best guess at the enrollment figure is 9,350, an increase of only 100 to 125, Samuel Taber, dean of student academic services, said.

Williams said that after having taken a survey of institutions around the state there is "some likelihood that we will be the only one (school) in the state that will have an increase (in enrollment)."

Taber added that from all the reports he had seen, there were not going to be any institutions that are going to be up besides Eastern.

He said he did not know exactly how much of an increase there would be in the enrollment but added that it would depend on the variables.

Those variables include how many of the students can find acceptable housing, what the "show" rate of applicants is, how many of the students cancel their registration and the availability of financial aid.

Williams said that the number enrolled fluctuates daily so that he could not give an estimated total.

He said that the enrollment would be up "not a lot-but some is better than none."

However, enrollment will not be up as much as was predicted last spring, Taber said.

The projected enrollment was some 9,600, which would have been an increase of approximately 350, Taber added.

Building hours to change over three-week break

Various buildings on Eastern's campus will be closing at the end of summer session and some buildings will be operating on revised hours.

The University Union closes Aug. 3 at 5 p.m. Lantz Gym closes all facilities at 6 p.m. Aug. 2. Lantz will reopen Aug. 20 from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m.

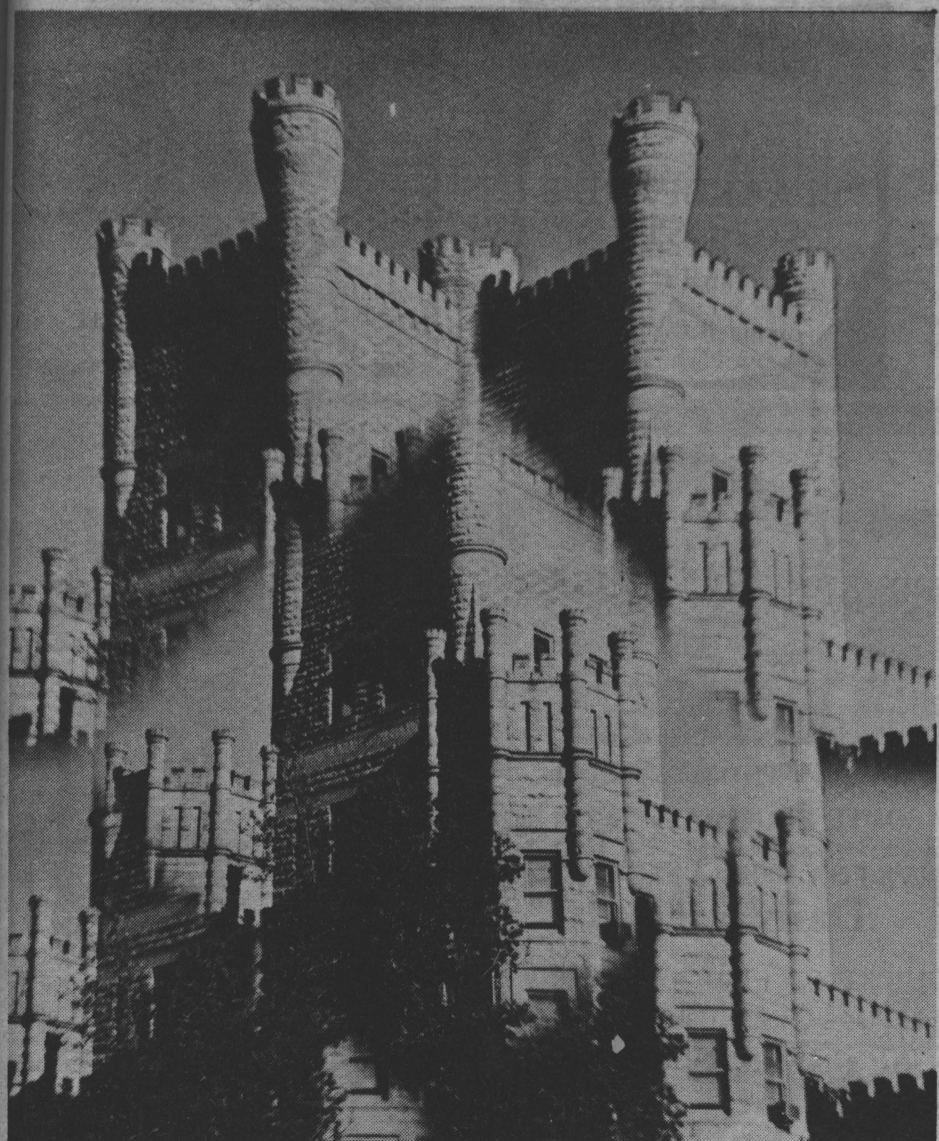

Booth Library will be open Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. and closed on the weekends during the break.

Regular library hours will resume Aug. 24.

The Textbook Library will be open during its regular hours, 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., but will not be receiving textbook returns Aug. 6.

The residence halls close their doors at 8 p.m. Aug. 3.

The Health Service will be open during the break from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Friday and no night nurse or Saturday nurse will be available.

Governor approves seven per cent increase FY 78 operating budget

by Denise Hesler

An overall FY78 operating budget increase of seven per cent, including a five per cent increase for faculty and staff was recently approved by Governor James Thompson.

The Illinois legislature had recommended to Thompson a five and one-half per cent increase for faculty and staff but Thompson cut that figure back to his original proposal of five per cent.

The approved budget for faculty salaries is $16,650,000.

John Morrissey, budget officer, said Friday that, with the $1,342,700 increase, the total operating budget for FY78 of $19,097,800 was brought up to $20,564,500.

Also in the budget was a two per cent increase in student help.

Sue Sparks, director of financial aids, said she had not heard about the increase and did not know how it would affect student workers.

However, she added it "might (be used to) take care of the difference between" the minimum wage of last year and this year.

The minimum wage last year was $2.10 and this year it is $2.30.

There will also be an additional two per cent increase for low paid civil service.

Thompson also cut the legislature's recommendation of a 12 per cent increase in utilities to his original proposal of 10 per cent.

The utilities increase totaled $122,700 with a base of $1,349,200.

Morrissey said that this 10 per cent increase will not cover the utilities cost during the 1977-78 school year and added that the five per cent increase in faculty salaries is "not enough" in that it does not cover the increased cost of living.

This year's budget is based on the fact that there will be a tuition increase, Morrissey added.

Twenty-six per cent, or $5,316,300, of the total budget will be from tuition, he said.

Morrissey said the budget will now be sent to the vice presidents who will break it down to their respective deans who will then divide it among the departments.

"We hope to have the entire budget completed by the first of August," Morrissey added.

Faculty Senate axes grade appeals board

by Debbie Thornburgh

The Student Senate proposal to create a university-wide grade appeals board failed last week in the Faculty Senate because of a lack of a motion.

Currently, the procedure to change a grade is to first, discuss the matter with the class instructor and then with the department chairperson if the matter is not resolved at the first step.

If the teacher and student cannot solve the problem during those steps, they go before the Departmental Personnel Committee (DPC).

The Student Senate proposal was to retain the first two steps but substitute the seven faculty and four student member university-wide board for the DPC.

The Faculty Senate had discussed the grade appeals board previously but returned the proposal to the Student Senate for additional information.

Julie Sullivan, chairperson of the Student Senate academic affairs committee, read a letter from Steve Murray, executive vice president of the Student Senate, which listed the departments which had DPC meetings this year and urged the Faculty Senate to approve the grade appeals board.

Sullivan also mentioned other schools which had grade appeals systems similar to the Student Senate's proposed system and gave her reasons why the Faculty Senate should approve the board.

"There would be more continuity with the grade appeals board than the DPC," Sullivan said. "The board would also offer some objectivity outside the first two steps."

However, Faculty Senator Hank Pierson said, "The system as it stands is quite sufficient."

Senator Mike Goodrich said if any change was to be made in the grade appeals system it should not be made now because "you'd run the risk of not giving the revised system a full chance."

The revision Goodrich referred to occurred fall semester when the Faculty Senate voted to let the executive vice president of the Student Senate sit on the DPC as an advisor to the committee.

"The Student Senate realized the executive vice president might not have academic knowledge in the department where the DPC might be called, but they felt a student on the DPC might give the student a bit of moral support," Goodrich said.

"Although Steve (Murray) didn't have an academic knowledge of some of the areas that had DPC meetings, he knew now a DPC was supposed to be run, and he was able to help them run it," Sullivan said.

In other action, the Faculty Senate unanimously approved the appointment of four faculty members to the Vice Presidential Search Committee.

The faculty members selected are Carl Sexton, Health Education; Tina Gover, Marketing and Management; Marian Shuff, Secondary Education; and Shirley Neal, English.

CAA delays vote on approval of 'Death and Dying' course

by Pam Olson

The Council on Academic Affairs (CAA) decided Thursday to delay voting on course approval for Home Economics 4820 "Death and Dying."

The council wanted to consider further the possibility of the course being taught by a different department and has invited the chairpersons of the Philosophy, Psychology and Sociology departments to attend Thursday's meeting.

However, some CAA members objected to the course being taught in the school system.

Council member Herbert Lasky of the History Department said he "always believed in separation of the church and state," and felt that "universities attempt to do a helluva lot of things that are not their function."

Student CAA member Steve Murray disagreed with Lasky and said the topic of death should be covered at the university level but "in a different department."

Murray questioned the propriety of "field trips and musical interpretation" as part of the course curriculum submitted by the Home Economics Department.

To further clarify the course outline, Robert Butz, who would teach the course if approved for the Home Economics Department, was also asked to attend Thursday's meeting.

Also discussed at the meeting were proposed new courses in Earth Science, Geography and Geology.

Walter Duffett, chairperson of the Geography-Geology Department, submitted two course additions in Earth Science--Independent Study and Special Topics--and two new courses in Geography--Computer Mapping and Independent Study.

Principles of Geomorphology, Principles of Stratigraphy and Principles of Sedimentation were also proposed by Duffett under a Geology heading.

The council will vote on approval for these courses Thursday.

Faculty to attend BOG meeting to show concern about negotiations

by Denise Hesler

Faculty from the five Board of Governors (BOG) schools are planning to attend Thursday's board meeting to again show their concern about the negotiations.

Richard Dulka, Eastern's American Federation of Teachers (AFT) president, said Tuesday that the faculty are going to the meeting because of the "question of negotiations and the fact that the board is still refusing to negotiate items that we not only feel are important (to include)" but that are generally included in contract negotiations.

Dulka said he did not know how many faculty were planning on attending the meeting.

The AFT has asked to be put on the agenda "in order to critique the rewrite and to insist that all policy matters affecting the faculty should be the topic of negotiations," an AFT flyer said.

Council of Faculties Chairperson Jan Norberg of Eastern's Speech Department, who is on the rewrite committee, is on the agenda.

A number of the items which the AFT feel should be negotiated are included in the recent BOG policy rewrite.

The final draft of much of the rewrite is scheduled to be discussed by the BOG Thursday though "no action on them is anticipated until the fall," the flyer said.

Dulka said that there are items in the rewrite which deal with faculty workload and personnel matters and should be negotiated.

The policy rewrite committee recommended to the board that the policies be adopted by the BOG, the flyer said.

The faculty also attended the May

BOG meeting and held a demonstration there. Between 250 and 300 faculty were present then.

A negotiating session was held last weekend but Dulka said that as far as he knew, there "wasn't much progress."

It's almost over...

Farewell Eastern

The semester is almost over and a relatively quiet Eastern will soon become desolate as students pick up and head as far away from Charleston as they can get...until fall semester starts.

The only action-packed occurrences on campus this summer other than going to classes, have been the constant flow of high school camps that have filled empty halls on campus.

Eastern's recruitment program has definitely been functioning to the maximum as hundreds of visitors have been indoctrinated into the wonders of college life.

Reviewing the summer, Eastern has weathered the appointment of a president's assistant, Margaret Soderberg, the reopening of the veep search, Eastern's membership to a new athletic conference and faculty negotiations with the Board of Governors.

It's been a sluggish summer at Eastern.

To those students who will be leaving these hallowed halls, the Eastern News bids you good luck in your endeavors.

For the returnees who have yet to earn your skeepskin...see ya' in August.

As a result of this saddening experience the students who Glenn taught were left instructorless. To show how together the Guidance Department is Dr. Overton was there Monday afternoon ready to take up where Glenn left off. Bob Saltmarsh was also prepared to step in if needed. In our saddest moment of losing an instructor, it made us feel GOOD to see that the Guidance Department has REALLY GOT IT TOGETHER.

Bob Saltmarsh has also started a scholarship in honor of the late Dr. Hubele, and anyone interested in donating can send their contributions to the Department of Educational Psychology/Guidance, Applied Arts Building.

'Guys and Dolls' best way to end hot summer

Lady Luck has hit Eastern this week in the enjoyable production of "Guys and Dolls," currently being performed by Eastern's summer theatre company.

The show is set in the New York of the 1940's, and chronicles unlikely love stories and gambling luck.

"Guys and Dolls" is subtitled "A Musical Fable of Broadway," and as performed by this provided an evening of pure light entertainment.

The production under the direction of Gerald and Barbara Sullivan, ran smoothly, and the cast seemed to work well as an ensemble.

The company left their midwestern backgrounds and accents behind and picked up the New York gangster lingo very well, from the unobtrusive "New Joisey" speech to the gamblers' elegant avoidance of the contraction.

Giving the outstanding performance was Randy Haege, as the wily, slippery gambler Nathan Detroit. Detroit has successfully evaded marriage (maintaining a 14-year engagement), the law and his fellow gamblers. All three, however, catch up with him in the end.

Haege's characterization of Detroit never left him, and his quick, energetic performance dominated the stage every time he appeared.

Also giving a strong performance was Dawn Decker, as a somewhat Edith Bunkerish Adelaide, especially in her laments over her failure to lure Detroit into marriage.

Bev Benda and Mark Wallace as missionary Sarah Brown and gambler Sky Masterson were a beautifully melodic pair and seemed well suited as the romantic leads. The "guys" in the cast also provided some of the best moments in the show, as the odd assortment of gamblers, lawmen and missionaries.

Standing out in this group were Pat Richardson, as the gentle Arvide Abernathy, John Hightower as an oily, tough gambler, and Bill Pierson as Big Jule, a sore loser-gangster from Cicero.

Earl Halbe, as Nicely Nicely Johnson was the best of the gamblers, and turned

-30-

In the newspaper world of jargon, "scoop," "copy" and "hold the press" is commonly understood by the public. But to some people with little knowledge of journalistic terms, "-30-" is a mystery.

Well, I can relate very well to the meaning of "-30-" as it signifies an author's version of "the end." "-30-" is the symbol used to show the end of a story.

When this paper finally reaches the hands of its readership, I can heave a sigh of relief and put "-30-" on my desk calendar as the summer publication of the Eastern News is now complete.

Being the editor this summer has been what many educators refer to as a "true learning experience."

Tension and fatigue marked with moments of manic depressions plus periodic fits of rage have highlighted the production days of eight editions.

It's still a mystery to me at times how I landed into the editor's position. I was

Express thanks

Editor,

We would like to express our appreciation to the Black Student Union for successfully staging a Black Reunion this past weekend. Our thanks to the actors and participants involved in the presentation of the play "Black Girl," for giving a very stimulating and well acted performance.

visiting the office before summer session started and asked a simple question, "Do I have any mail?"

The secretary answered with, "Well, it depends. Go see D.T. (the advisor) first."

Perhaps those next few steps I took up to D.T.'s office were a mistake. But being the inquisitive and striving young journalist and sucker for punishment that I am, I sought the advisor.

Now, if I had any visions of a fun-filled summer beside a swimming pool with a cool beverage in my hand, then perhaps I am a fool. Journalism and spare time are not common partners.

The "yes" to being summer editor, was not a mistake. It was a sacrifice and yet an honor, couples with tons of responsibilities.

I feel quite pleased with what the staff has produced this summer. Being small, 95 per cent female and freshmen-sophomore rank, we started out with the cards stacked against us.

The Eastern News prevailed, however, and met each publishing date. We even managed to add our own touch to the Eastern News style.

Nostalgia photographs, colored ink, two-page photography sections and not one crusade against student government highlights this summer's newspaper over previous ones.

We've had problems, we've made mistakes. But through it all we've "learned by doing." No one can ever take the experiences we've shared away from us.

We've learned to cherish sleep, survive on university food, whip up a story in five minutes, use the push-button phones and how to cry "D.T." loud enough to be heard on the second floor.

I can't speak for the staff, but my disposition has changed, so says my roommate. All those late hours at the office and the press have taken the twinkle out of my eye at times and therefore I have been dubbed a grouchy "bear."

Eastern News has been reknown for its "Tell the Truth and Don't Be Afraid" slogan that they picked up from something Former President Livingston C. Lord once said.

Well, telling it like it is...-30-

The Eastern News encourages letters to the editor so that we may provide a daily forum of opinion on campus. Letters should be typed (double-space) and must carry the author's signature, address and phone number for verification purposes. Authors' names will be withheld upon request. Letters are subject to editing for length and libelous material and will be published as space permits.

Ceide resigns to resume teaching; Affirmative Action directorship vacant

by Karen Griffin

Applications are being accepted for the position of Director of Affirmative Action because of a vacancy due to the resignation of Gloria Ceide, President Daniel Marvin said recently.

The position is a half-time administrative position which has responsibility for making sure that institutional policies are followed concerning the rights of employees and applicants as individuals rather than on the basis of race, color, religion, sex, or national origin, except where sex is a necessary occupational qualification.

The director is also responsible for making sure that all of the above conditions are not involved in hiring, recruitment and promotion policies and practices.

The director reports directly to the president who has delegated the following major responsibilities to the director:

--Developing policy statements, affirmative action programs, and internal and external recruiting techniques.

--Assisting in the identification of problem areas by organizational units and job classifications.

--Dealing with matters relating to the compliance with, evaluation of and implementation of federal and state statutes upon which funds and recognitions of the campus community (Title VI, Title IX, section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973 (Handicapped Law) Marvin said.

The position will be filled with a full-time faculty or staff member who will continue in his or her previous position half-time and fill the Affirmative Action position half-time, Marvin said.

Applications will be accepted until August 15 and should be sent to the president's office.

Ceide resigned the position to return to the Foreign Language Department as a full time teacher.

She was Director of Affirmative Action for the past year.

Ceide was in Puerto Rico Tuesday and could not be reached for comment.

No problem in getting funds for Vehicle -- Financial VP Ingram

Funding for the Vehicle, Eastern's literary magazine, and the possibility of a short course in "Lobbying" being offered were the main points of discussion at Thursday's Student Senate meeting.

Rick Ingram, financial vice-president, said that funds for the Vehicle are still under consideration.

Ingram said that a substantial surplus of money was left over from last year's budget and he assumes that funds will be provided in some way.

Surplus money from last year's budget goes into a reserve account for emergency situations, Ingram said.

He added that the Apportionment Board, (AB), can allocate that money into the budget for 1977-78.

Ingram said that an allocation from the AB to the Vehicle, if approved by the summer senate will be contingent upon the fall senate's ratification.

He added that "there won't be any problem" in getting funds for the Vehicle.

In other business, Mary O'Connor of the Political Students Committee, discussed the possibility of the Office of Continuing Education offering a short course in "Lobbying" for any interested students.

A student in taking the short course can earn up to three credit hours and if taking an overload will be subject to paying overload fees.

O'Connor said that Joe Connelley, of the Political Science department would teach the course.

She added that it would be up to the instructor's decision on what material would be covered in the course.

Student Body President Dan Fowler said that an Inter-Racial Relations Committee had been formed to help deal with racial crises and problems similar to the "rape scare" last spring.

The final senate meeting for summer session will be at 6 p.m. Thursday.

News publication to resume in August

As the end of the 1977 summer session draws to a close, so does the publication of the Eastern News.

Publication will resume on Aug. 24, the first day of classes.

Dave Shanks, a senior journalism major from Milford, will be the fall editor.

Former campus, government and city editor, Lori Miller will hold the position of news editor.

The position of managing editor will be held by Norm Lewis of Princeton. Lewis is the former government editor of last year.

Marcel Bright, former activities editor, is the campus editor for next semester.

Sue Nasenbeny, former Eastern News reporter and co-editor of selected supplements, will be the activities editor.

Richard Foertsch will remain as photo editor for fall semester.

Ed Cobau, former reporter for the government staff, will hold the position of city editor, and Rudy Ruetigger and Brian Nielson, former sports writers, are the sports co-editors.

Glenna Neubert, summer editor, will be the editor of the weekend supplement "On The Verge."

Eastern News advisor for the school year will be Dave Reed of the Journalism Department.

A new campground with 40 gravel pads and 15 walk-in tent camping sites opened recently at Fox Ridge State Park.

The park is located about seven miles south of Charleston on Illinois 130 and the campground is just west of the park office.

The new campground, named Wilderness Campground, has playground equipment, picnic tables, campfire blocks, water hydrants, a sanitary dumping station for trailers and vault-type toilets.

No electrical service will be available, however.

Wilderness Campground will replace smaller campground, Shadey Ridge, which will be closed for camping due to overuse.

Union Planning Committee to study possible renovations

by Karen Griffin

A Union planning committee made up of administrators, staff and students has been formed to study and visit other state school unions and student centers, Bill Clark, area head, student activities and University Union, said recently.

He added that the group is trying to come up with a lot of ideas to make the union a more interesting and useful place for students and other people who use it."

Clark said that the committee, which consists of seven students, four staff members and three administrators, was broken up into three teams which will visit two other institutions.

He added that a team has gone to Southern, another team went to Western and Illinois State University Monday and Tuesday while the third team will go to the University of Illinois and Northern Illinois University.

Clark said that the committee is meeting twice a week until the last Wednesday in July at which time they will bring their ideas together "as to how to change" the union, such as remodeling and renovating.

Clark added that some of the areas of the union have not been remodeled for 10 years and the committee really wants ideas for remodeling these areas.

Once the plan is approved, priorities will be set up for the improvements.

"After the plan has been formed, I'm going to take the plan to President (Daniel) Marvin and Vice President (Glenn) Williams for them to look at," Clark said.

"I'm sure it will be eight months to a year before all the initial changes can be made (after the plans are approved)," Clark said.

Eastern student Jaenike selected for state summer fellowship program

Kurt Jaenike, Charleston resident and Eastern student, is participating in Governor James Thompson's Summer Fellowship Program.

Jaenike, a Political Science major, was one of 85 individuals out of 660 applicants chosen to participate in this summer's program.

Basis for selection to the program included an individual's academic credentials, extra curricular activities, letters of recommendation, writing ability and expertise in an area or field.

The program is comprised of juniors and seniors in college and graduate/professional students who are Illinois residents.

Fellowship participants work for a two-month period from June 15 to August 15 and receive a minimum salary of $550 per month.

Participants can also earn college credit and work study assistance.

Jaenike is working in the Governor's Office of Manpower and Human Development.

There are a wide range of fellowship assignments in over 35 participating state agencies, boards, departments and commissions in Springfield and Chicago.

The fellowship assignments include weekly seminars on aspects of state governments such as budgeting, reorganizing, legislative relations and education.

The program also includes an all-day field trip to a mental health facility.

The Governor's Summer Fellowship Program began in 1969 under Richard B. Ogilvie's administration.

Caving in... Southern Illinois

Although spelunking is not widely participated in, it is still a popular hobby for many. About two weeks ago, Guy Berndt, Konnya Farris, Mark Mancini and Steve Replogle, all Eastern students, spent a weekend exploring Illinois Caverns and Salt Peter Cave in Southern Illinois near Waterloo. In the top left photo, Berndt looks out the entrance of Salt Peter Cave. Above, Farris, Replogle and Berndt check out the bluff line, 200 feet above the Mississippi Valley. Below, Farris, Replogle and Berndt explore a water side passage of a cave; and below left, Berndt walks through a narrow part of a cave.

"Deadline" is the name of the game for this journalism workshoper who participated in the orientation picnic for EIHPA workshop sponsored by journalism studies. (News photo by Suella Kirkham)

by Mark Mancini

"Guest Time to Press Time" is the theme of the 12th annual High School Publications Workshop here at Eastern this week.

About 75 students from various high schools in the state are attending the workshop for instruction in yearbook, newspaper and photography.

Heading the workshop is Eastern graduate Judy Kaczor, and teaching the sessions are 15 Eastern students enrolled in Journalism 4800, Supervision of High School Publications.

Also participating in the workshop are Student Publications Adviser Dan Thornburgh and some guest lecturers from Eastern.

While at the workshop, the students will produce an eight page newspaper and an eight page yearbook under the guidance of four Eastern students.

Suella Kirkham, journalism major, and Glenna Neubert, Eastern News Editor, will supervise the newspaper.

Student co-editors of the newspaper are Larry Heath of Robinson, and Sherry Burns of Cahokia.

The two advisers for the yearbook are Betty Browning of Charleston, and Ron Harper, both students at Eastern.

The co-editors for the yearbook are Sharon Jenkins of Chrisman, and Julie Moore of Mattoon.

The workshop is sponsored by Eastern Illinois High School Press Association (EIHPA).

Woman hired as security officer

by Suella Kirkham

A recently hired civil service worker has chalked up a "first" for Eastern. Twelve days ago, Kathy Warren became the university's first, and so far, only female security officer.

For the next six months, Warren, like all security officers, will be on probationary status. During this time she must attend and successfully complete a six-week program at the Police Training Institute (PTI) held at the University of Illinois, Urbana.

Presently, Warren is receiving on the job training by working with the other officers learning routine procedures. She also assists in all emergency calls.

Warren said that perhaps "there's too much being made of it (her acceptance of the position)" because most universities in Illinois already have one or more women on their campus security staffs.

Although she is the only woman on the security force, Warren said, "They want more girls on the force. They can apply through civil service." Warren was the first woman applicant to rank high enough to qualify for the job.

Warren is a 1975 Eastern graduate. She received a BA in education and is currently working toward her masters degree in high school guidance and counseling.

Since she has wanted to teach since she was a child, Warren said she doesn't plan to pursue a police career. "I am interested in probation work. I thought the experience might help me later," Warren said.

Warren will be leaving in October to attend the PTI.

Blood drive falls short nets 167 pints-33 short

Last week's Red Cross Blood drive fell 33 pints short of its 200 pint goal.

The drive, which was held one day at the Moose Lodge, was sponsored by the Charleston Jaycees.

Jaycee Jim Grant said 167 pints of blood were collected although 180 people had volunteered to give.

"Big Drip" awards went to St. Charles Catholic Church for first place and Wesley United Methodist Church for second place.

Moose club took the first place trophy for the civic organizations while the Jaycees and Kiwanis tied for second place.

In the industry division, Calderwood won the first place trophy with the Reasor Corporation finishing second.

Sabina McNutt passed the three-gallon donation mark by giving blood.

In addition, Dale Boisso, Mike Decker, Dave Lowell, all Eastern students, and Cheryl Setti passed the one gallon mark.

loaded in the truck of your car, the lid up and it begins to rain.

But then after a few days of steamy Coles County weather the inside dries out and all that is left to do is scrape the mildew from the truck walls. A minor detail, and besides, that's devotion.

Devotion is hard to remember after you are chased by Security police.

This happened to me only once, but that was enough. The only morning we finished the paper before 6 a.m., Security saw me leaving Coleman Hall and concluded I was guilty of criminal acts.

Not knowing what to do nor what I had done, I got out of the car, threw my hands in the air and yelled I give up. Immediately the police recognized who I was and apologized for their mistake. It was too late though, and as I turned to get into my vehicle once again the eyes of everyone in Taylor Hall south south were upon me.

Yes that's devotion...more aptly, insanity!

It's official ... by L. M. Rendok

It's Official...it's over. Life as a summer sports editor, press assistant and circulation manager. But the memories...What a consolation!

Being sports editor didn't create quite the problems normally inevitable simply because it was my second summer to hold this position.

Press assistant came as a total surprise--an area which I knew nothing about. My job was to remove the papers as they came off the press and to bind them in bundles for distribution.

Believe me, the first time is the pits.

There were more copies on the floor than ready for distribution. Being covered in newsprint didn't help matters

McDevitt accepts coaching position

Tom McDevitt, former minor leaguer in the St. Louis Cardinals farm system, has been named head baseball coach at Eastern Illinois University.

Currently an academic advisor at Eastern, McDevitt has previously been an assistant with the Charleston-Mattoon Twins of the Central Illinois Collegiate League from 1972-74.

Playing 50 games in 60 days, the league recruits the better college players from throughout the U.S. and is financed by the Commissioner of Baseball's office.

"I think we are fortunate to have someone of Tom's qualifications able to step right in and fill this vacancy," said Athletic Director Mike Mullally.

"Tom has been active in baseball in his community in several capacities. He is knowledgeable with our program, which should facilitate the coaching transition. He has a strong background in organized baseball and experience working with young men just starting their careers," Mullally said.

After dropping out of the Cardinal chain, McDevitt taught in the Stewardson, Effingham, Paxton, and Robinson school systems. He earned an M.A. in geography from SIU-Carbondale and an M.S. in physical education at Eastern.

McDevitt, a 1956 graduate of Eastern, lettered four years as an infielder with the Panthers. He once led the old Interstate Intercollegiate Athletic Conference with a .471 average.

McDevitt, named "Most Valuable" by teammates while at Eastern, was also named "All-Conference" (first team) in baseball two years.

In accepting his new position McDevitt said "J. W. Sanders (who recently resigned as Panther coach) is a tremendous organizer; one of the three best I've ever been around."

Originally from Effingham, Ill., Tom and wife, Marilyn, have five children.

either. Nor did the fact that when I first used the bundler I not only bound the copies but also my hands. Of course this was no fault of my own, but merely due to incompetent instructions. Revealing the name of our pressman will come at a later date, but he is the culprit.

After the Eastern News is bundled and ready for circulation, it was my job to see they were available at Taylor Hall, the food service, Coleman Hall, Old Main, the Union and to the student publications office.

No matter what the weather, the Eastern News must get out. Of course when it rains, problems do arise. Especially when you have the copies

Gossett improving baseball skills with Boulder Collegians

What do Roy Smalley, Alan Bannister, Frank Duffy and Jeff Gossett have in common?

Well, they are all shortstops. The first three people listed are in the major leagues. Smalley plays for the Minnesota Twins, Bannister for the Chicago White Sox, and Duffy holds the shortstop position for the Cleveland Indians.

Gossett, of course, is Eastern's shortstop. But why is he included in this list?

This summer Gossett is playing for the Boulder Collegians, in Boulder Colo., the team which Smalley, Bannister and Duffy played for before they went to the pros.

Gossett said in a recent article in the Boulder newspaper that "those are some big shoes to fill."

home runs in one game.

But Gossett is not satisfied with his defense. "I'm pressing too much," he said. "I've never made as many errors as I have this summer."

In order to solve his defensive problem, Gossett feels he needs to relax.

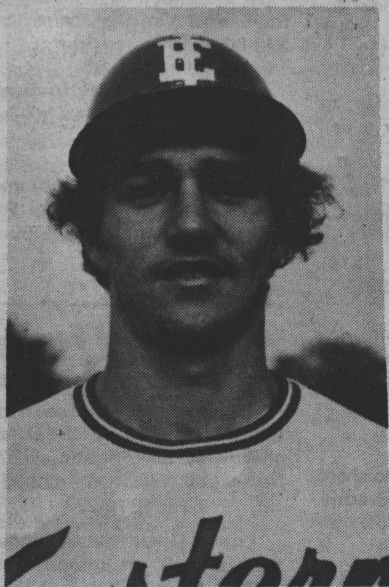

"I was so relaxed last summer that I made only two errors in the first 25 games," Gossett said.

If he gets over his problems with defense and has a good season at Eastern next year, he could be the next shortstop to go from playing with the Boulder Collegians to the major leagues.

"(Manager Bauldie Moschetti) mentioned it to me when I came out. He told me he'd had some good shortstops here. I hoep I can do as well," Gossett said.

Gossett appears to be filling their shoes, at least offensively. He was batting .375 as of July 12 and he recently hit two
