Jurors chosen, Gacy trials scheduled to begin

CHICAGO (AP) — The murder trial of John W. Gacy Jr., which may last two months, on Wednesday goes before seven men and five women jurors who must determine if he is innocent by reason of insanity, or guilty and is imprisoned or executed.

Gacy, 37, a former remodeling contractor, is accused of more murders than anyone in this country's history.

He was indicted on charges of slaying 33 young men and boys, deviate sexual assault and taking indecent liberties with a child.

The remains of 26 decomposed bodies were exhumed from the crawl space under Gacy's modest ranch-style home which was dismantled in the search a year ago. Another corpse was found under the flooring of an added room, another under a patio, and another beneath a concrete garage floor.

Four bodies found in rivers were linked to him.

Twenty-two corpses have been identified, mainly by dental charts. All the victims had been strangled except one. He was stabbed to death.

Because of extensive news coverage in the Chicago area, jury selection was shifted to Rockford, 85 miles northwest. Jurors, including four alternates, were impaneled last week after four days of intensive questioning by the presiding judge, Louis B. Garippo of Cook County Circuit Court.

The jurors' ages range from 21 to 71 and include five factory workers, two housewives, a widow, a truck driver, an insurance salesman, a telephone service employee and a computer specialist.

Only three of them have college educations but none graduated. All attended high school. Eleven are Protestants and one is a Roman Catholic.

The jurors are sequestered in Chicago and will be permitted visits from friends and relatives on Sundays. Although the trial will be held six days a week, Garippo told the jurors that it will last "from six to eight weeks, and possibly longer."

The judge also emphasized that Gacy is presumed innocent and the state has to prove otherwise beyond a reasonable doubt. "The jury's sole function is to determine what the verdict is to be....The defendant need not do anything, and does not need to testify unless he desires to do so."

Congressman criticized

Voelz, Stuffle lash out at leadership of Crane

by Mike Nolan

Two Charleston Democratic candidates for state and national public office, criticized Congressman Dan Crane, R-Danville, Tuesday night at a local meeting of the Young Democrats.

Peter Voelz, congressional candidate, and Larry Stuffle, incumbent state representative, blasted the leadership of Crane and his representation of the district's people.

Voelz, Eastern journalism instructor, entered the race in January as a write-in candidate. Voelz said Crane has represented his district poorly during his term and has not voted on major issues in congress. He said Crane has missed sessions where his vote on an issue would have been an important factor in deciding the issue.

Voelz added that Crane had more money coming into his campaign from outside his district and the state than any other congressman in Illinois.

Voelz said the major difference between the Democratic and Republican parties is that the Democratic party is a party of the little people.

Voelz started out as a Republican and was president of the Young Republicans Club while attending college in Iowa. He worked on the Humphrey campaign in 1968 and for McGovern in 1972.

Larry Stuffle, speaking second, urged students to register and vote, because this was the only way for them to get a voice in congress.

Stuffle said the newspapers in this district are run by the "mindless Republicans." He said none have shown support for the Democrats, saying the Eastern News has done a terrible job in the past in regards to bringing the issues out front.

Republican Congressman Dan Crane's performance in office is questioned by Democratic opponent Peter Voelz and Democratic State Representative Larry Stuffle.

Stuffle said he has consistently voted for budget increases for Eastern while opposing tuition hikes.

He added that the Board of Higher Education proposal to cut enrollment is a crazy idea. "Democrats have been the people who work for students, not the Republicans," he said.

Both candidates stressed their opinion that Crane has done a poor job and that they are determined to win the upcoming election.

Civiletti to meet with Congress on corruption

by the Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Attorney General Benjamin Civiletti scheduled a meeting with congressional leaders on Capitol Hill late Tuesday, to discuss the FBI's political corruption investigation in which eight members of Congress have been implicated.

The meeting at the Capitol was not on Civiletti's original schedule for the day and he was forced to postpone another meeting which had been delayed beyond its original starting point.

On his way to the Capitol, Civiletti told reporters that he had initiated the meeting.

"I asked the speaker Thomas P. O'Neill if he would be interested in having a brief meeting with me and Phill Heymann about the process" in this case, Civiletti said.

Heymann is assistant attorney general in charge of the department's criminal division.

The meeting with congressional leaders followed by several hours Civiletti's appearance before a Senate subcommittee where he ran into criticism because of the leak that led to publication of details of the FBI investigation.

On Monday, ethics committees of both the House and Senate met to discuss the reports that members of Congress were implicated in the FBI investigation.

The chairman of the Senate ethics panel informally asked Civiletti for Justice Department help with its own investigation.

Sources have said FBI undercover men posed as aides to a wealthy Arab sheik willing to buy favors from congressmen and other public officials.

In all, some 20 public officials and 10 businessmen and lawyers have been implicated sources say. Undercover agents paid out almost $500,000 in cash, but sources said fewer than half the officials actually took money. Some transactions were videotaped by the FBI agents.

Besides state and local officials in New Jersey and Pennsylvania, sources say subjects of the FBI investigation include Sen. Harrison A. Williams Jr., D-N.J., and Reps. John M. Murphy, D-N.Y.; Frank Thompson Jr., D-N.J.; Michael O. Meyers, D-Pa.; Raymond F. Lederer, D-Pa.; John W. Jenrette, D-S.C.; John P. Murtha, D-Pa., and Richard Kelly, R-Fla. Most of them have denied any wrongdoing.

Highschoolers seize embassy

In two swift raids, high school students occupied the Education Ministry here Tuesday and claimed to have taken 1,000 hostages, and about 20 leftists seized the Spanish Embassy, in San Salvador.

The students were demanding lower tuition and other concessions from the government, while the leftists, some of them armed, were reported demanding freedom for political prisoners.

A spokesman for the students at the ministry, whose hostages included Education Minister Eduardo Colendres, described the occupation as "peaceful." He said the approximately 100 youths, aged 13 to 18, were members of the Secondary Students' Revolutionary Movement. It was not known whether any were armed.

Stevenson blasts investigation

Sen. Adlai E. Stevenson on Tuesday accused the Justice Department of attempting to lure innocent members of Congress into its underground investigation of political corruption.

The Illinois Democrat, a former chairman of the Senate Ethics Committee, said he believes the FBI has been "trying to harass and entrap innocent citizens, and to play games with U.S. senators."

Italian gunman takes hostages

A lone gunman broke into the Milan office of a U.S. subsidiary Tuesday, killed one employee and was holding seven persons hostage, police sources reported.

Reinforced by sharpshooters and police dogs, heavily armed riot policemen clad in bullet-proof vests ringed the offices of Ralston Purina Italia, a subsidiary of Ralston Purina Co. of St. Louis, Mo.

The police sources said five of the hostages were women employees. One of them told a reporter on the phone that the man had killed one employee. She did not give any other details.

Building materials and equipment worth tens of thousands of dollars have been stolen from the construction site of a new state prison being built at Hillsboro, the St. Louis Globe-Democrat reported Tuesday.

Ghost who haunted bar sent to rest by 3 priests

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Three Roman Catholic priests insist it wasn't an exorcism. They say they "blessed" a local nightclub only to dispel fears among the living that the ghost of a bartender who killed himself there in 1968 haunted the place.

But Tom Blasko, an owner of the Sober Duck Disco and Rock Club, says the holy water and prayers last August worked like a charm, that the ghost, Rudy, hasn't been seen, heard or felt since by him or workers.

"We took a step to ease their minds...and apparently it worked," said the Rev. John Corredato, of St. Patrick's Church of Kankakee. "We just said the prayers, had a 7-Up and went home."

But Blasko swears they did more than that, that Rudy was real—not just the product of active imaginations.

He says the blessing ridded the club of the "restless soul" of bartender Albert "Rudy" Cranor, who shot himself in the chest at the club on June 27, 1968, and died the next morning at a hospital.

"You just had the feeling you were being watched," Blasko said. "It would be 90, 95 degrees in the club and you'd get the coldest, weirdest chills you ever felt go right through you."

Blasko said Rudy would play a piano stored in the back of the club or blow on an invisible trumpet, throw glasses across rooms, give off bone-chilling cold in certain areas of the place, and even once appeared to a waitress to warn that someone would die soon.

Barbara Lard, the waitress, said she saw Rudy's transparent-like head floating one night in an unused part of the club. She said it warned with an inhuman voice that "an owner is going to die."

"For a long time I thought I was cracking up," she said. "When something like this happens to you, you just have to go 'whoa.'"

Several weeks later, with Blasko fearing he was marked for death, an owner of the building who leased the space to Blasko died at age 69.

Blasko, a Catholic, said after that incident he sought the priests to get rid of the ghost "because Rudy was Catholic and suicide is the worst sin you can commit."

At a Griffin High School class of 1959 reunion, Blasko told fellow classmates Corredato and the Rev. Gary Dille, of Fort Worth, Texas, of the weird happenings at the club. He asked them to bless the club and pray that Rudy would find eternal rest. The Rev. Gerald Leahy of Griffin said he "went along for the ride."

Leahy, Dille, Corredato and an aide to Bishop Joseph McNicholas of the Springfield Diocese all said Catholic doctrine is not necessarily contradicted by believing that a person's soul can roam the earth after life until it finds atonement for its sins.

"We are in the realm of the mysterious here," said Monsignor Paul Sheridan, the bishops' aide.

Zeigler appointed affirmative action director

by Holly Headland

Jane Ziegler, coordinator of cooperative education, has been appointed the new director of affirmative action for Eastern, President Daniel E. Marvin said Tuesday.

Ziegler, who has been coordinator of cooperative education for the past three years, will retain this position in addition to taking over the responsibilities of Robert Barger, former director of affirmative action who resigned in October 1979.

Director of affirmative action is a half-time position that will allow Ziegler to keep her current position, she said. She will work on a 12-month basis and at the end of the year, her contract will be renewed unless she leaves or is replaced.

"As director of affirmative action I will advise the President on affirmative action matters; I'll make sure Eastern is an equal opportunity for faculty, staff and students," Ziegler said.

"I'll help make sure that women and minority groups are not overlooked for new positions," she said.

Ziegler also said she will carry on Barger's duties and will work with the administration internship program that Barger started.

"I want to carry on the programs and high ideals Barger had. I haven't planned anything immediate. We'd like to see civil service people get interested in the administration internship program," Ziegler said.

Ziegler will currently operate both duties out of her cooperative education office, but she said she thinks the office of affirmative action will eventually be moved.

"We may end up on the third floor in Old Main, but I'll act from here until Old Main is done," she said.

"I'm really pleased" about being named the new director, Ziegler said. "I am going to help recruit qualified women and minorities for promotion jobs. I hope we'll continue to find qualified people in women, minorities and handicapped people."

LeDuc to take position as chairman of IDDDAA

Eastern instructor John LeDuc has been elected chairman of the Illinois Developmental Disabilities Advocacy Authority.

LeDuc, a member of Eastern's mathematics department and a graduate of Eastern, has served as president of the Coles County Association for the Retarded, the Coles County Community Mental Health Board, and as an active member of the Illinois Association for Retarded Citizens.

The Authority is a non-profit corporation providing protection and advocacy services for persons with developmental disabilities.

After a major reorganization, IDDDAA now maintains sixteen regional offices throughout the state, including one in Charleston, IDDDAA spokesman Carolyn Harmon said Tuesday.

LeDuc has also served on the Governor's Planning Council for Developmental Disabilities.

LeDuc received the CCAR (Coles County Association for the Retarded) Gaylord Tull Award for Voluntary Service in 1975.

Senate to discuss fee increases

The Student Senate will consider various fee increases at Wednesday's meeting, Senate Speaker Bill Mueller said Tuesday.

The Intercollegiate Athletic Board and the Publications Board will both present proposals involving fee increases.

The IAB has approved an increase in athletic fees, which must be approved by both the Student Senate and Faculty Senate before going into effect.

The Publications Board has approved a plan for streamlining the three student publications budgets and restructuring the publications board. It too must have both student and faculty senate approval before further action can be taken.

Also on the agenda, are appointments to the judicial and housing boards.

The Senate will meet at 6:30 p.m. Wednesday in the Union addition Arcola-Tuscola Room.

Blue Grass band to perform free

The blue grass band Buck's Stove and Range Company will perform free at 8 p.m. Wednesday in the Union addition Grand Ballroom.

Special events coordinator Anne Logan said the four-piece band will perform a mini-concert.

University Board chairman Jean Goodwin said if the turnout is good, the UB may stage more mini-concerts that will be free to students.

Secret court decays judicial framework

The Carter administration is on the verge of proposing a major blow to individual liberties. President Carter intends to propose a secret court which would have the power to authorize intelligence agents to break into homes and offices and open the mail of certain Americans.

Those "certain Americans" are targeted as people who may be agents of a foreign government or who may be involved in criminal activity.

This is a dangerous precedent if the proposal goes through. Dangerous, in the wake of intelligence agencies' abuses in the early 70s and the cloak of "national security" to hide or evade government's own criminal activity.

Carter wants a comprehensive charter governing the activities of the FBI, CIA, and the National Security Agency. The establishment of a seven-member panel (court) two years ago would serve as the secret body that would authorize warrants for wiretapping and other eavesdropping cases.

The secret court concept is counter to the pattern set in American jurisprudence. The open court concept, where prosecutors bring witnesses in front of the defense, the defendant being judged by his peers, and then an objective verdict is reached, is under fire.

The secret court takes out most the objective power that has characterized the judicial branch from the beginning stages with Chief Justices John Jay to the protection of individuals against government that was the trademark of Justice John Marshall.

The court system may be a slow and cumbersome process, but it has an equality about it. It truly works as a check against the two other branches of government—the executive and legislative. By creating a secret court, the administration wants to bypass the safeguards of the Constitution in order to facilitate the intelligence gathering process at the expense of individual Americans' rights.

But the national security backing should not erode the foundations and principles of the justice system of the United States. The present system does take in all the requests for warrants and wiretaps intelligence agencies or the Justice Department would request.

If the Carter administration follows through with this proposal, the intelligence community in Washington will have its own rubber stamp for covert actions against Americans. The ramifications of this move are too dangerous, too outside the basis of the framework of the Constitution to be acceptable.

Some courses contain the hidden cost of education

Some students are misled about how much their education is going to cost each semester when they look at Eastern's $394.20 tuition price tag.

Some say, "Hey, this is a good deal," and then end up paying more than they had bargained for.

Because of a student's major field or elective class selection, a student must sometimes shell out additional money for things such as class materials or fees in order to meet the requirements.

After taking a required photography class last semester that cost approximately $25 for film and photography paper, I was glad to have the only class in my major field requiring funds from my own pocket behind me.

However, after the expense of photography last semester and my vow to never take a costly class again, this semester I took a bowling class that extracted $15 from my funds.

After again promising myself to never take a costly class, I researched and found out which classes are off limits for me in my remaining semesters at Eastern.

Almost all art classes are off limits. Painting would cost approximately $100, jewelry $45, lettering $30 and drawing $20.

I really do not know how art majors do it, but I guess if a person wants something bad enough it does not matter what the cost.

Other courses such as trap and skeet shooting is off limits with a price tag of $25 and officiating would cost $15 if I wanted to become a registered official.

I could name other classes that could take a big chunk out of anyone's budget, but the ones named are among the most common.

Could you imagine taking a number of these costly classes all in one semester?

How about a schedule with additional costs like this one: bowling-$15, painting-$100, jewelry-$45, photography-$25, skeet and trap shooting-$25 and officiating-$15. That is an additional $225 which makes the total cost of the entire semester $519.20!

I agree strongly with what Vice President for Academic Affairs Thomas Bond said at a Council on Academic Affairs meeting last semester.

I will borrow his quote to say that, "It is grossly unfair to offer a course that costs a student when they are already paying for it."

I am aware that Eastern is underfunded and has been that way for approximately five years, but I believe the institution should provide all material in its package price of $394.20.

If Eastern is not going to receive additional money from the state to cover these costs, then I believe tuition should be raised in order to cover additional material and fee costs.

If tuition is raised, I know that will make students unhappy, but if a student wants to major in a certain area, lack of money should not stand in his way.

Letter to the editor

Pro-life stand

Editor,

It's been seven years since the Supreme Court ruling disenfranchised states from protecting unborn human life.

In spite of the media blackout, the Right to Life Movement is growing each year and has become a political force to be reckoned with. Astute politicians recognize this. Pro-lifers believe that a candidate whose thinking is so flawed that he doesn't realize that there is essentially no difference between a pre-born and a newborn child is not fit to hold public office.

Although abortion has been legal for seven years, there has not been widespread public acceptance of the practice, even among women who have had abortions. "Women Exploited", an organization of women who regret having had abortions and are now trying to dissuade other women from making the same mistake, has grown to twenty-two chapters nationally.

Dr. Bernard Nathanson, a physician who was a "kingpin" in NARAL (National Abortion Rights Action League) and was instrumental in achieving abortion on demand, in his book "Aborting America" states that the abortion movement consists of killing and lying and he says that he sold this country a "bill of goods". He later writes "I now regret this loss of life" and admits that he "presided over 60,000 deaths" as director of a big abortorium. He demands that the Supreme Court reverse itself, and failing that, he advocates a Constitutional Amendment protecting life in the womb except when the woman's life is endangered.

Nathanson cogently refutes the pro-abortion arguments of overpopulation, a woman's control over her own body, maternal deaths from back-alley abortions, the unwanted child, eugenics, poverty, pregnancy from rape and incest and child abuse. He says he rejected these arguments and arrived at his present pro-life position reluctantly. Incidentally, Nathanson is an atheist.

We in the Right to Life Movement certainly do not celebrate death; we celebrate LIFE! We mourn for the seven million babies that have been killed in their mother's wombs and we mourn for the women who have been seduced into thinking that they can kill their babies with impunity.

AB questions UB Human Potential committee

by Linda Charnesky

Eastern's Apportionment Board will continue to study the results of a research commission on minority involvement, in order to determine whether to dissolve the University Board's Human Potential Committee.

The Human Potential Committee came under fire by the AB last spring when the AB was allotting funds for the 1979-80 school year.

The AB questioned the value of funding a committee whose purpose is to schedule events aimed at minorities.

The Research Commission on Minority Involvement in Organized Student Activities began last summer help make the overall student activities program more relevant to all students—especially minority students'—needs, Assistant Director of Student Activities Booker Suggs said Tuesday.

Suggs said the commission's purpose was to gather information on those student activities that are paid for by student activity fees.

Some of the campus activities researched were the Student Senate, University Board, WELH and the Eastern News.

Members of the commission, which concluded its research in mid-October, were Suggs, former Black Student Union President Cedric Chester, Board of Governors Student Representative John Grant, former Black Student Union President Bonita Page and the former Director of Affirmative Action Robert Barger.

Other committee members were Johnetta Jones of the sociology department, Jimmie Franklin of the history department and Don Cook, director of student activities.

Members on the research commission were assigned to go to the fiscal head of the activity and determine how much of a role minorities played.

Four basic questions were asked by the commission to determine the compiled information.

The commission wanted to know the level of minority participation in the organized student activity, kinds of programs available to best meet the needs of minority students, type of structure in the type of programming which would guarantee minority input and how the participation of minority students could be increased.

"The commission showed that minorities are not being represented in all student activities," Suggs said.

He said this is all the more reason for the AB not to do away with the Human Potential committee because the committee speaks to minority issues.

"The committee provides programs, speakers and lectures and strives to meet the needs of minority students," Suggs said.

Some of the performances sponsored by the committee were Arthur Langford on Tuesday and Julian Bond last semester. NBC correspondent Carl Simpson is scheduled to speak on campus in March.

Suggs said the activities that lack minority participation should hold orientation sessions so that students will be aware of what the organization is doing.

At the Dec. 14 AB meeting, members of the committee tried to explain how important the Human Potential Committee is to student activities.

"We explained to the AB that they were doing an injustice if they did away with the Human Potential committee because they would do away with leaders in it," Suggs said.

The AB at that time, tabled further discussion on the committee until its first meeting this semester.

AB chairman Kevin Sandefur said that the committee will not be discussed at Thursday's AB meeting, but will be the only subject discussed at the next AB meeting.

"It (the issue of whether to abolish the Human Potential committee) still needs to be discussed extensively and I don't know what the decision will be," Sandefur said.

UB chairperson Jean Goodwin said that the committee is a vital part of the University Board.

"The committee is adding to the programming by giving good entertainment to all students, not just minorities," she said.

"Why should we cut something that is helping us," Goodwin said.

The committee is a recognized organization where minorities have a say and they have an opportunity to be leaders, she said.

Sandefur said that the AB questioned the committee because it is a special committee set aside for minorities.

"The Human Potential provides a high visibility for minority involvement in the UB," Sandefur said.

He said the budget is not the question but the AB felt that the events that the committee provides could easily be handled by the other committees of the UB.

Democrat focus is on efficiency, accessibility

by Sandy Young

Efficiency and accessibility are priorities expressed by the two Democratic nominees for states attorney.

Local attorney John Elder said recently it is important to handle the county's large caseload efficiently, and to do this, it would be necessary to review the way the states attorney's staff operates.

"It would be necessary to review the way the cases are assigned among them to give all the staff input and experience at all levels," Elder said.

Elder said he would also consider using a computer to control the large caseload and keep track of it.

"I would like to make the office work efficiently so that everyone is treated fairly," Elder said.

"No matter how much money they have or their situation in society, they could feel they are treated fairly in the office—it will be run like the people's office," he added.

Assistant Public Defender Lonnie Lutz said he would try to make the office "cost efficient" by making changes in existing programs rather than trying costly new ones.

Lutz and Elder will oppose each other in the March 18 Illinois primary. The winner will battle the Republican candidate for the Coles County states attorney's seat in the Nov. 4 general election.

Lutz said one of his top priorities as states attorney would be more accessibility to the people.

He said he would achieve this by extending office hours.

Another of his priorities would be to designate one assistant states attorney to act as a liaison with police agencies.

"This would be an attempt to hopefully get the police agencies in the county to work together better and to improve cooperation between them," he added.

Lutz said he would hold more seminars with the police to inform them of late court decisions and how to prepare testimony and police reports.

He said he would also set up seminars in conjunction with the university to inform students of the consequences of actions such as pulling fire alarms.

"The purpose wouldn't be how to defend themselves after they are charged, but to give them information on the law and to discourage them from getting involved," Lutz said.

Petitions available for senate seats

by Dyna Cole

Petitions for two vacant seats in the at-large and off-campus districts in the Student Senate will be made available at 9 a.m. Wednesday, Senate Speaker Bill Mueller said.

Mueller said although there are three seats open, one seat would probably be filled by the last person whose name remains on the list of succession.

The list of succession is a list of candidates from the previous senate elections ranked according to the number of votes they received. In case of a vacancy in the senate, the next person whose name appears on the list is chosen to fill the post.

Mueller said attempts to contact a former senate candidate have been unsuccessful.

"I'm almost sure she's going to take the seat," Mueller said. "I just haven't been able to get in touch with her yet."

He declined to give the student's name.

After the list of succession has been depleted, petitions will go out to the student body.

Mueller said students wishing to be considered for a senate seat must have at least a C grade average.

Elder said he would employ paralegal help to improve investigation and liaison with the police and social service agencies so that important long-term investigations could be coordinated as best as possible.

Elder said he would attempt to emphasize the prosecution of serious cases and to downplay plea bargaining in felony cases.

He said, however, that because of the heavy caseload in the lower court he would try "to manage the cases through the states attorney's office so they can be settled as best as possible before the trial date to relieve congestion."

Lutz also said he would "speed up the disposition of cases" through methods such as alternate sentencing.

An example of this would be if someone vandalized a graveyard, they would be made to clean up the damage rather than go to jail or pay a fine, Lutz said.

Both candidates said they would make more use of student interns from Eastern.

"They cannot appear in court, but they can do office work or research or assist in trials," Lutz said.

The interns could be also used "to increase investigation and coordination with the police agencies," Elder said.

ERA speaker scheduled

An informational meeting on the Illinois Equal Rights Amendment Ratification Project, sponsored by Eastern's equal rights action committee will be held at 7 p.m. Wednesday in the Union addition Charleston-Mattoon Room.

Kathryn Railsback, statewide campus coordinator of the project, will discuss the controversy over the Equal Rights Amendment and its ratification in Illinois.

The main point to be touched upon will be women and the draft, Jennifer Schulze, a member of Eastern's National Organization for Women, said.

"Hopefully this meeting will clarify

Shooting death warrants inquest

An inquest is pending in the apparent suicide late Wednesday evening of Coles County resident Tony Moreton, 23.

Moreton, a resident of the Country Manor Mobile Home Park on Route 316, was found late Wednesday night by his roommate.

Coles County Coroner Dick Lynch said he pronounced Moreton dead at the scene at 11:55 p.m. Wednesday.

Moreton died from an apparent self-inflicted gunshot wound to the chest, Lynch said.

He said authorities have no reason to believe that there was foul play.

He said the inquest will be scheduled within the next two weeks.

to students ERA and its implication with the draft. Many are unaware that as it stands at the moment, Congress has the power to draft women," Schulze said.

Other facets of the issue to be discussed are equal pay, labor laws and benefits of ERA for the homemaker as well as for the working woman.

The floor will be open to the public for any questions or discussion, Schulze added.

Anyone interested in organizing an ERA ratification chapter on campus should attend the meeting.

There will be no admission fee charged.

Access, special programs key Republican slate

by Jane Meyer

Greater accessibility to the public and maintenance of special programs within the states attorney's office are two of the major priorities that the three Republican nominees for that office would like to see accomplished.

Jim Dedman, 31, one of the two current assistant states attorneys for Coles County, said the present states attorney's office has been run efficiently and that special programs are a major part of the office.

"There are a number of special programs that are in operation at the present time," Dedman said. "Some of the programs need to be revitalized. To determine whether other programs are needed, we need to examine the existing operations and see how they are working."

"One of my hallmarks has always been to operate programs on existing resources," he said.

Rick Hobler, 26, the other assistant states attorney currently said he has been working on a number of programs within his office, including one for child abuse and a task force against domestic violence to stop spouse abuse.

"I'm trying to get a 'safe house' established for those women exposed to abuse. I want this to be a place where they can go for counseling and shelter," Hobler said.

"The other program I am in close contact with is called SCAN or suspecting child abuse and neglect," Hobler said. "In this program we try to teach better parenting so that kids aren't abused."

Nancy Owen, 38, Mattoon attorney and Coles County public defender, is a third Republican nominee. Owen said she is already involved in a number of the programs but at the present time just wants to see those programs run efficiently.

"I want to see the criminal programs continued and be run and operated as effectively as before," Owen said.

Owen said she sees serving the public as the main duty of the states attorney's office.

"I feel that the office exists to serve the public," Owen said. "Once a person is brought to trial for a crime, we are the bottom line in enforcement. That's why we need a strong states attorney's office that maintains its clout and credibility."

Dedman, Owen and Hobler are vying for the Republican nomination in the March 18 primary.

The winner in the primary will face either Democrat Lonnie Lutz or John Elder in the Nov. 4 race for states attorney.

Hobler said he felt the office should be more open to the public.

"Accessibility to the public is the Union Board to decide budget

The final meeting on the fiscal year 1981 budget for the University Union will be held at 5 p.m. Wednesday in the Union addition Greenup Room.

The Union Board will vote on the proposed increases of the check cashing, returned check and operations fees for the Union.

After the board's action the budget will be forwarded through Vice President for Student Affairs Glenn Williams to Eastern President Daniel E. Marvin for final action.

major concern of the office," Hobler said. "I feel that I can make the office more accessible to the public."

Dedman echoed the sentiments of the other nominees.

"I feel the role of the states attorney is to continue to represent the people of Coles County by providing them with the highest quality of law enforcement which they have come to expect and to which they are entitled,"

Dedman said.

Hobler said that becoming states attorney for Coles County has been a major goal of his for some time.

"I feel like I have proved myself by my performance as assistant states attorney," Hobler said. "The office involves the same type of work that I've been associated with in my capacity for several years."

Independent study programs benefit students

by Scott Hainzinger

Independent study programs were designed to adapt to the needs of students who are interested in doing research into a particular topic or who are unable to obtain a needed class.

In independent study, the student helps to create the course guidelines, works primarily by himself and works pretty much at his own pace, department chairmen coordinating the programs said recently.

Students can obtain from one to six hours of credit through independent study, generally within the area of their major. Students who demonstrate a need for independent study in an area outside their major, however, often will be accepted by the chairman or dean of the department they wish to work in.

Requirements for independent study programs vary slightly within the various departments and schools, but generally the procedures are the same.

A student who wants to pursue independent study approaches an instructor whom he feels is most knowledgeable in the area he wished to study. Together the student and the instructor work out a program which the student will follow in studying the particular subject.

Generally, the student will write a research paper or do extensive research for credit in independent study, the department chairmen said. Once the student and the instructor have reached an agreement on the way in which the student will pursue his interest, a "contract" is filled out outlining the project and what it will entail.

Jack Richardson, of health education, said this can be the hardest part of the independent study. Identifying the problem the student would like to research can be difficult.

The student and instructor then bring the contract before the dean or department head for approval. These officials can then make any recommendations which they feel are necessary for the student to receive credit. Once the dean approves the contract, the student may begin working on his project.

The student is not left totally on his own however, most departments require that the student meet periodically with the instructor to discuss progress in research, various deans and department heads said Monday.

Mary Ruth Swope, dean of the School of Home Economics, said, "We expect the student and the instructor to work together in fulfilling the terms of the application (for independent study)."

Ali Jamily, a graduate assistant in the math department who has taken independent study in the computer sciences, said he was able to learn more in the independent study program because he was free to do a lot of research on his own.

Carla Hillman, a graduate student in mathematics, said she felt the program was worthwhile because it enabled her to spend more time applying the principles she was learning. She said independent study may sometimes involve more hours than regular classes, but since the students work at their own pace, they learn better.

Lori J. Leonard, senior, said she thought independent study was a good idea because it enabled her to take a course which, because of limited student interest, she would have otherwise been unable to take.

Auditions slated

Auditions for the 5 o'clock production of "The Open Window" will be held from 3 p.m. to 5 p.m. Wednesday and again from 4:30 p.m. to 6:30 p.m. Thursday at the Doudna Fine Arts Center Green Room.

There are parts open for three men and three women, J. Sain, of the theatre department, said.

DEADLINES

The deadline for the indoor track relays is Friday, February 8.
 Men's and women's water polo deadline is Wednesday, Feb 13.
 The deadline for co-rec volleyball is Wednesday, February 20.

NEW WEIGHTROOM POLICY

Due to the extremely crowded conditions in the Lantz Weightroom, the Intramural Office is initiating a weightroom usage policy in an attempt to 1) provide a more safe environment for lifters and 2) provide an educational program for persons with limited lifting background.

Beginning today, Wednesday, February 6th, only serious, knowledgeable lifters will be allowed in the Lantz Weightroom between the hours of 3:00 p.m. and 6:00 p.m. on Monday, Wednesday and Friday and 4:00 p.m. and 6:00 p.m. on Tuesday and Thursdays. Special instructional sessions in weightroom etiquette and fundamentals of lifting will be offered Monday thru Thursday from 8:00 p.m. to 9:00 p.m. beginning February 11th. Instructors will be Barry Albert, Larry Bernstein and Terry Conroy. Weightroom supervisors have the authority to ask a user to leave the room and do his/her lifting after 6:00 p.m. and also to attend the training sessions. Any user who attends three (3) training will be given written proof which can then be used to gain admittance to the weightroom anytime it is open for recreational lifting.

I would like to encourage everyone's cooperation in making this new policy an effective means of eliminatng the sometimes hazardous conditions which seems to have become the rule so far this semester, particularly between 3 and 6 p.m. Also, I remind you that the Weightroom located on the lower level of McAfee is open for use during free-play hours throughout the week.

David C. Dutler, Ph.D.

WATER POLO

Men's and Women's League deadline is Wednesday, February 13. Men swim; women use inntertubes. Seven persons on a team. All participants must be able to swim two lengths of the pool. Four 6 minute quarters. Five minute sudden death periods in case of tie game. All goals score 1 point, including penalty goals. Continuous clock except when a penalty throw is called.

All matches played at Buzzard pool. Four team leagues play doouble round robin tourneys followed by All-University playoffs.

For further information refer to the Intramual Handbook, page 27.

MEN'S BASKETBALL

There is room for one "B" league team to play in a Monday/Wednesday league at 11:00 p.m. in McAfee. Game dates are February 13, 18, 20, 25 and March 3rd. Come to I-M Office to enter if interested.

Williams: BHE assuring private school survival

by Bonita L. Gower

Vice President for Student Affairs Glenn Williams expressed negative feelings about the recent enrollment proposal by the Board of Higher Education in a Faculty Senate meeting Tuesday.

"I feel that the BHE wants to guarantee the survival of private schools," Williams said.

The BHE proposal states that Eastern may be required to decrease the enrollment by 400 students beginning in fall semester 1980.

Williams said students' college choices would be limited if the proposal is approved because Eastern will not be able to accept some students and other state schools may not have enough funding.

"Eighty-seven percent of the Illinois State Scholarship money goes to private schools now anyway," Williams said.

He said he thinks the only way to reduce enrollment is to cut off applications. He added that Illinois is expected to have the largest number of potential college-bound students in the next decade.

"Once we go down in enrollment," Williams said, "we will not come back like we did in 1973. I would rather cut the graduate school than comply with the BHE proposal."

Williams said he disagrees with a program where students would be assigned to attend state colleges and universities that have lower enrollments.

This system is designed to lessen competition between schools and assures that no seats will be empty in one school while another school is over-enrolled.

Williams said he thinks such a program would be harmful because "if the students cannot make a personal choice, we will have open rebellion."

Williams said he thinks the BHE means well, and added that "I can understand their proposal as it relates to the whole state, but not what it does to Eastern."

Union food director post to be filled by March 1

by Leesa Freeland

A replacement for the former Union Food Service Director John Hall will be announced by March 1, after qualified applicants have been interviewed, Union Area Head Bill Clark said Tuesday.

Clark said the selection committee, made up of student and faculty union board members and union staff, reviewed 21 applications. The committee met Monday to select the three most qualified persons.

The duties of the food service director includes administering the program, staffing, budgeting, answering correspondence and managing food production.

"An applicant with a strong background in cash food operations is preferred," Clark said.

A bachelor's degree and several years of experience in food service or retail food operation is also required for the job, Clark said. He added that several women have applied for the job.

The three top applicants will be invited to the university to be given a tour of the facilities and to be interviewed by the Union Board, Vice President for Student Affairs Glenn Williams, the selection committee and Clark.

Applications available for Open Stage

Applications are available for the University Board's Open Stage at 7 p.m. on Valentine's Day in the Union addition Rathskeller.

Applications can be picked up in the Student Activities Center on the second floor of the Union, and they must be returned by 2 p.m. Monday, Coffeehouse Coordinator Jan Knoche said.

It is hoped that enough quality acts will perform in order that one will be picked to be an opening act for the coffeehouse on March 6, she said.

"We will have some kind of contest in which the person or act receiving the most support from the audience will be chosen as the opening act for a professional performer," she said.

CAREER OPPORTUNITIES

Danners operates 52 3D Discount and Variety stores throughout Indiana. We're still small enough to know who you are and to watch you progress into the opportunities that our planned growth will afford. We will interview graduating students with a strong interest in beginning an individualized 12 week training program in Retail Store Management. Related degree or experience helpful but not necessary. Sign up at the Career Placement Bureau for interview. Danners will be on campus Thursday, February 21, 1980. If unable to interview on that date, send resume to: Gary Lenard/Danners, Inc., P.O. Box 1146, Indianapolis, IN 46206.

Meyer's, Driesell's waiting games finally pay off

by The Associated Press

De Paul's Ray Meyer and Maryland's Lefty Driesell have been playing a waiting game and it's finally starting to pay off—at least in the Associated Press college basketball poll.

Meyer waited more than 37 years to reach the No. 1 spot, and now that he's there, it appears he's planning to stay for a while.

Meyer's unbeaten Blue Demons were tabbed No. 1 on all 59 ballots and collected a perfect score of 1,180 points from a national committee of sports writers and broadcasters Tuesday in easily outdistancing runnerup Syracuse.

The vote also marked the third consecutive week De Paul, 19-0, has been the unanimous selection of the board and fourth week overall it has been ranked No. 1.

"There's no monkey on our back anymore," Meyer said after last week's victories over Creighton and North Texas State.

It wasn't on Maryland's back either last week.

The up-and-coming Terps, No. 12 a week ago, jumped into the No. 7 spot this week with 844 points. The surprising leaders of the tough Atlantic Coast Conference posted victories over conference rivals Virginia and Duke in action last week, boosting their record to 16-3.

But it was the victory over Duke, a 101-82 blowout, that Driesell had waited for.

"I've been coaching for 25 years and this was one of the best games a team of mine has ever played," he said.

The remainder of the Top 20 is basically the same as last week, although it has been scrambled.

Syracuse, ranked fourth last week when it posted triumphs over Temple and Providence, replaced Oregon State in the No. 2 position with 1,066 points.

Louisville, ranked No. 7 for the past three weeks, leaped into the No. 3 spot this week with 1,001 points. It's the highest ranking the Cardinals have held this season and came just one day after their thrilling 76-71 victory over St. John's on national television.

Oregon State, upset by UCLA last week, fell to fourth with 946 points. Kentucky, No. 3 last week, slipped to fifth with 865 points—five more than No. 6 Louisiana State, which was ranked 10th last week when it upset the Wildcats 65-60 at Lexington.

St. John's, N.Y., and Notre Dame switched positions this week with the Redmen taking over the No. 8 spot with 697 points. The Irish, knocked off by La Salle last week, were ninth with 660 points—two more than No. 10 Duke, ranked No. 5 last week.

North Carolina headed the Second Ten for the second straight week. Purdue was 12th followed by Ohio State, No. 6 last week, Brigham Young, Missouri, Clemson, Weber State, Virginia, Arizona State and preseason favorite Indiana.

Last week's Second Ten was North Carolina, Maryland, Virginia, Missouri, Weber State, Clemson, Purdue, Indiana, Brigham Young and Kansas State, the only team to fall out of the Top 20.

Arizona State is the only newcomer to this week's poll.

This week's poll was conducted before Monday night's games.

Purdue left little breathing room in hotly contested Big 10 race

by The Associated Press

The chase is on again in the harrowing Big Ten basketball race where there is virtually no breathing room, but Purdue Coach Lee Rose remains philosophical.

Purdue's lead in the Big Ten is a precarious one. The Boilermakers are 7-3 and only one game ahead of Minnesota, Ohio State and Indiana, all of whom are deadlocked for second place with 6-4 records.

And there's little breathing room behind that trio with Iowa, Michigan and Michigan State hanging on with 5-5 records and only another game away. All of which means only two games separate the top seven teams in the race.

One example of how the Big Ten is going involves Michigan State's Spartans, the national champions who weren't given a thought this season after losing Magic Johnson and Greg Kelsey to the pros.

The Spartans lost their first four but have since won five of six to vault back into contention.

"The Big Ten might be a jumble and I don't say we're a strong contender, but we are a contender," said Spartan Coach Jud Heathcote after successive victories over Ohio State and Illinois.

But the true test for the Spartans comes this week when they hit the road to face Iowa on Thursday night and Ohio State on Saturday.

Women cagers to face Illini

Eastern's women's basketball team will shoot for its tenth victory when it faces the University of Illinois at 7 p.m. Wednesday at McAfee Gym.

The Panthers currently sport a 9-9 record on the season, and will be vying for their second straight win over Illinois after defeating the Illini 64-58 last season.

Head coach Bobbie Hilke said she didn't know too much about the Illinois squad, but said "We can hold our own with them very well."

"We've played a lot of Division I schools this year, but the only team that has blown us out is the University of Dayton, and they are the number one ranked Division II team," Hilke said.

The Panther head coach also said she thinks her women cagers are "coming into their own."

"I think we've got people who are now starting to work well together. We're playing a smarter defensive game, and cutting down on turnovers," Hilke said.

Hilke also said the cagers schedule, which features six of its eight remaining games at home "will really help us."

Interviews to begin for 4 unnamed AD finalists

by Andy Savoie

The interviewing process for the four finalists competing for Eastern's athletic director position will probably begin next week, Jimmie Franklin, chairman of the search committee said Tuesday.

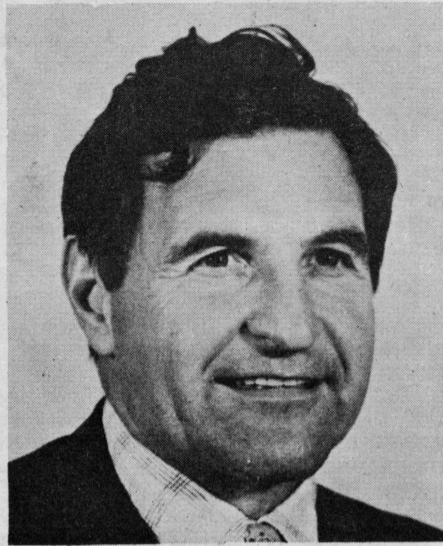

Although a formal interview schedule has not as yet been completed, Franklin said he and Eastern President Daniel E. Marvin discussed some tentative dates on Monday.

"We hope to get at least one or two candidates in next week," Franklin said. Franklin also said Marvin seemed "reasonably pleased" with the names of the candidates, and that he is now in the process of "contacting them, reviewing their credentials, and making appropriate contacts with other references."

The vacancy was created when former Eastern Athletic Director Mike Mullally accepted a similar position with California State-Fullerton.

Four committees, a campus at-large committee, a committee of Eastern coaches, a committee of alumni and community leaders, and the screening committee which Franklin heads will all interview the candidates.

Franklin said he plans to meet with his committee today to coordinate an interviewing schedule for each of the committees.

Darrell Mudra

Ron Paap

Still in the running?

"I expect the greatest difficulty in arranging interviews for the campus at-large committee (which consists of faculty members) because of their teaching and class schedules," Franklin said.

Franklin also said such problems could conceivably stall the interviewing, but the search committee chairman added he personally hopes the process is completed "no later than Feb. 25."

The names of the four finalists have yet to be released, and it is up to President Marvin whether they will be.

However, Franklin said the anonymity of the candidates will be hard to maintain once they start visiting campus, and that "I don't see why we should be unusually secretive at that point."

Two candidates from Eastern who have publicly expressed their desire for the athletic director position are interim Athletic Director Ron Paap and head football coach Darrell Mudra.

However, both Mudra and Paap said Tuesday that they do not know if they are among the finalists.

"I haven't heard a single thing. I don't have any information at all," Paap said.

Mudra also said he has "no idea" what the status of his candidacy is.

"It's a real important decision for the university, I know that," Mudra said.

The head football coach also said he would not be too disappointed if he does not get the job.

"I have plenty to do with football," Mudra said, adding that "I don't think it (whether he becomes AD) is going to affect the football program either way."

Mudra explained that there would be extra work involved in his becoming AD, but that it would be offset by the advantages of being the AD.

Panther cagers drop to honorable mention

Eastern dropped out of the top 15 and a new leader emerged in the ever-changing NCAA Division II basketball ratings.

The Panthers, now 16-4, were ranked seventh in last week's poll of athletic directors across the country, and won two of three games last week. But Eastern's 70-60 loss to nationally-ranked Youngstown State was enough to push the Panthers down to an honorable mention.

Youngstown, which was ranked 13th when it played Eastern last Thursday bowed to Western Illinois Saturday night, so the Penguins fell to 15th.

Western, now 14-6, received honorable mention this week after knocking off Youngstown.

Central Missouri and Wright State, ranked 1-2 in the polls prior to this week, were both beaten last week and fell to third and fourth respectively.

Central Missouri was knocked off by Southwest Missouri State, which Eastern has topped twice this season.

Taking over the No. 1 spot was Florida Southern, which is now 17-3 and received 117 points in the voting. Central Florida is No. 2 with a 20-1 record and 109 points.

The Mid-Continent Conference has four of its five teams recognized in this week's poll. Northern Michigan tops the MCC teams with its No. 7 ranking to join No. 15 Youngstown and honorable mention teams Eastern and Western.

Northern Michigan is 15-3 overall and leads the MCC race with a 3-1 mark.

Only three teams from the Great Lakes Region are among the top 15, but four others are listed under honorable mention.

Wright State (18-2), Northern Michigan and Youngstown are all from that region, while Michigan Tech and Indiana State-Evansville join Eastern and Western among honorable mention squads.

The Division II Great Lakes Regional post-season tournament will include only four teams, but a team can earn an at-large berth in another region.

Dickerson plans for aggressive defense

by Dan Brannan

When Chuck Dickerson arrived for his first official day on campus Monday as the Eastern football team's new defensive coordinator, he brought with him plans for an aggressive team oriented defense in 1980.

Dickerson replaces John Teerlinck, who accepted a defensive coaching position at the University of Illinois.

Dickerson is no stranger to loyal Eastern football fans, as he was defensive coordinator here in 1970.

Dickerson has coached at the high school, college and professional levels and his most recent coaching stint was with the Toronto Argonauts of the Canadian Football League.

"I plan to institute an attitude of aggressive, mistake-free, team-style defense," Dickerson said. "At the present time I would like to develop good depth in our defense."

Dickerson said he would not have returned to Eastern if it hadn't been for head coach Darrell Mudra.

"I have known Coach Mudra for a long time, and I have the utmost respect for him," Dickerson said. "He is the reason I am here."

Dickerson said he doesn't anticipate making any big changes as he will use the 4-3 pro-type defense that Eastern used last year.

"We will look at all the players equally," Dickerson said. "We will all start fresh."

Dickerson said he has been heavily involved in recruiting during the last few weeks.

"We are looking for well disciplined students as well as athletes," Dickerson said.

Dickerson doesn't anticipate any problems in adjusting from pro to college coaching.

"Nothing will shock me at Eastern," Dickerson said. "I have been there before."

In comparing the various levels of coaching, Dickerson said all are basically the same.

"Coaching is coaching. I coach no different at the pro level than I do in college," Dickerson said. "The only true difference between each level is of course the skill of the players."

Dickerson also said he has achieved many of his goals in coaching so far.

"Many of my players have went on as players and coaches," Dickerson said. "One of my defensive players at Toronto is now going to be their rookie defensive coordinator this year."

Dickerson said he does have a desire to be a head coach someday.

"I should have opportunities in the future, but I came here with the intent of making Eastern my home," Dickerson said.

Coaches to report on teams' progress

Various Eastern coaches will report on their teams' progress thus far this season at noon Wednesday at a meeting of the Eastern Eyes in the Rathskeller.

Spokesman Shirley Moore said Panther basketball coach Don Eddy, wrestling coach Ron Clinton and track coaches Neil Moore and John Craft will be among Wednesday's speakers.
