Fund loses bucks

By JEFF BRITT
Administration editor

The fund from which Illinois teacher's pensions and retirement benefits are drawn lost $300 million because of the erratic nature of the stock market in October, an official said during the Board of Governors meeting Thursday at Northeastern Illinois University.

The loss affects 52,000 people statewide, said BOG spokesperson Pam Meyer. She said funds had been invested in the stock market, "and now those funds are gone."

The figures were made available by BOG member Robert Ruiz, who is also on the State Universities Retirement System.

The meeting was also attended by Eastern President Stanley Rives; Robert Kindrick, vice president for academic affairs; Verna Armstrong, vice president for administration and finance; and BOG Representative Mike Riordan.

In other business, approval to rename the Applied Sciences Building after Walter A. Klehm, former dean of Eastern's industrial arts and technology department, was given.

"I naturally feel good about it," said Klehm, who worked at Eastern 32 years.

"I was the head of the industrial arts department for a good many years," he said. "I was instrumental in setting up the school of industrial technology."

The school of industrial technology is now part of the College of Applied Sciences.

"He's very active in the Charleston Rotary Club and the Wesley United Methodist Church," said University Relations Director Daniel Thornburgh.

A trust Klehm and his wife, Lucille, donated to the EIU Foundation in October brought the Foundation to its 80 percent mark in its 10th decade campaign.

Since that time the Foundation has received another donation. "We are just under 88 percent," said Thornburgh, who is also executive officer of the Foundation.

The money from the trust will go to fund scholarships in industrial technology and home economics, Thornburgh said.

425 'pumped' for UB's Dinette Show

About 425 pumped up people packed Thursday as audience member Frank Karbarz won a raffle which was part of the "Pump Boys and Dinettes" musical comedy.

The musical, taking place in the Grand Ballroom Thursday, really made the audience feel part of the show," said audience member Elizabeth Boersma.

The raffle, won by an Alpha Delta Phi fraternity member from the University of Illinois, chose a "picture of a Penthouse blond" after his seat number was picked as raffle winner.

A group of 10 men came to Eastern to see actor L.M. (Jake Daab), a former frat member, said Troy Franzen, also from Champaign.

Franzen said "L.M. is coming back to go to our formal, he's really close to everyone," at the house.

The cast from the smash hit musical, was performing their last show of his tour, agent Debra Sharn said.

"Pump Boys," which cost Eastern $5,000 started in July touring all over the country, Sharn said, adding "So many people are interested in the show. It's been real successful."

The audience, consisting of 425, really seemed to enjoy the show, Performing Arts Coordinator Janelle Limper said.

Lawson Hall residents respond to accidents

ERIC WEDEKING
Reporter

Things are gradually coming to normal for some residents on Lawson's fifth floor after two women who fell on the floor were both seriously involved in serious accidents.

But the pain still felt, with the death of one student and severe injury to another, is shared with many of the residents on the fifth floor.

"People have been acting odder, but people were shocked. It's still scary," said Wainman Valerie Mathes, a fifth floor resident at Lawson Wainman Zastro, who was a freshman elementary education major, died Friday in a fatal car crash Nov. 24 in Los Heights.

The driver of the automobile which hit the car Zastro was in has been charged with second degree homicide and driving under the influence of alcohol.

Sophomore Stacey Wainman, a pre-business major, is in a Springfield hospital reportedly in stable condition, after she suffered internal head injuries following a fall from a fire-escape balcony Nov. 20 at Page One Tavern, 410 S. Sixth St. in Charleston.

Wainman and Zastro were fifth floor Lawson Hall residents.

At last reports, Wainman has been transferred from Champaign's Burnham Hospital in Champaign to a hospital in Springfield, her hometown.

But with things looking up for the fifth-floor residents who knew Wainman, one woman, who is presently occupying Zastro's room, is still feeling the loss of a close friend.

"I wasn't even going to come back to school (after Zastro's death)," said freshman Christy Barber, a nursing major, "I was so shook up about it."

"But I know Kristy wouldn't have wanted me to do that (quit school)," Barber added.

Zastro had moved to Lawson's ninth floor to live with friends prior to the accident and, as a result, told Barber of her vacated room. Barber moved in shortly thereafter.

A tearful Barber motioned to the photographs of Zastro with friends that still hung on the room walls.

"It was weird to see some of her things she had left behind when she moved," Barber added.

Mayor Sawyer used patronage

CHICAGO—Mayor Eugene Sawyer on Thursday reaffirmed his vow to fight political cronyism, but acknowledged he had used his influence to help relatives get city jobs under the old patronage system.

"Patronage doesn't exist in city government anymore. Patronage is dead," said Sawyer.

But he acknowledged under questioning by reporters that he had helped several family members obtain city jobs earlier in 16-year career as an alderman.

"Yes, I did. I'll be honest. I gave them letters. That was under the old patronage system. It gave them an advantage that maybe they shouldn't have had," Sawyer told reporters at heavily attended news conference, his first since becoming mayor.

At least 16 of Sawyer's political political allies and relatives—including his brother, sister, and daughter—work or have recently worked at city government jobs.

Thompson will take stress test

SPRINGFIELD—Gov. James Thompson, shaken by the recent death of Chicago Mayor Harold Washington, said Thursday he plans to take a stress test this month, try to lose some weight and cut back on his work schedule.

"I think the mayor's death ought to be a warning to all of us, not just in public life or in politics, that we ought to take as good care of health as we can," Thompson said.

Washington's death from a heart attack on Nov. 25 stunned Chicago.

His successor, Mayor Eugene Sawyer, said Thursday he plans to have a physical examination "very soon" and will try to quit smoking.

And all 50 members of Chicago's City Council were offered free stress tests Thursday by a suburban clinic, which cited the importance of early detection of cardiovascular problems.

The 5-foot-10 Washington weighed 284 pounds. His nearly 100 pounds of excess weight and the stress of his job contributed to his death from a heart attack on Nov. 25, his doctor said, noting the late mayor also smoked.

Heart transplant survival rates up

CHICAGO—It has been 20 years since the first heart transplant, and the procedure is now being done thousands of times a year with remarkably good results, Stanford University doctors say.

Where as only one-fifth of heart transplant patients at Stanford in 1968 survived a year or more after their operations, four-fifths of those undergoing the procedure at Stanford since 1980 have lived that long, the doctors said.

And 55 percent can be expected to survive five years or more, the doctors reported in Friday's Journal of the American Medical Association.

Reagan discusses possibility of superpower agreement in 1988

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Reagan said Thursday there is a reasonably good chance the superpowers can agree in Moscow next year to eliminate 50 percent of their strategic nuclear weapons, the most dangerous arms on earth.

He made the evaluation of prospects for such a far-reaching agreement in a television interview four days before Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev arrives for a summit and the signing of a treaty to ban intermediate-range nuclear missiles, known as INF.

Reagan was interviewed by the anchormen from four networks—

ABC, CNN, CBS and NBC.

Gorbachev, in an NBC interview earlier this week that was broadcast in the United States and the Soviet Union, also offered an optimistic assessment for a strategic arms accord next year.

"There are real prospects ahead of us. . . we believe that it is possible to do a lot of work with this present administration so. . . we could make headway on this major direction in the area of arms control," Gorbachev said.

Reagan said opposition to the INF treaty centered among conservative Republicans, including most GOP candidates for president.

"Some of the people who are objecting the most and just refusing even to accede to the idea of ever getting any understanding, whether they realize it or not, those people basically down in their deep thoughts have accepted that war is inevitable," Reagan said.

Despite the prospects of deep cuts in the superpowers' nuclear arsenals, Reagan said he still sees the Soviet Union as "an empire."

Korean air crash raises concerns over sabotage at Seoul Olympics

SEOUL, South Korea (AP)—The suspected bombing of a South Korean airliner has stirred fears that communist North Korea may attempt to sabotage the 1988 Seoul Olympics.

South Korean leaders have charged their archrival was behind the disappearance of the Korean Air plane and threatened to end all talks with the north on ensuring the success of the Seoul games.

"It is a plain fact that North Korea has intensified its provocative moves," President Chun Doo-Hwan told a special cabinet meeting on the lost plane.

Officials in Seoul say the disappearance of the KAL Boeing 707 on Nov. 29 somewhere near Burma had all the hallmarks of a North Korean attack.

They believe a bomb hidden on the plane tore it apart in midair with the loss of all 115 people on board and point to a long string of North Korean attacks on the south since the end of the Korean war.

The two Koreas, divided since 1945, technically are still at war since a peace treaty was never signed at the end of the Korean war in 1953 in which millions were killed and wounded. North Korea has said it is determined to "liberate" the south.

For years, South Korean leaders have used the threat of North Korean invasion or terrorism as justification for some of the more unpopular policies.

South Korea had long feared that the north would use terrorism to disrupt the games, which are a major symbol in the bitter struggle between the two Koreas.

Cuban inmates vote to approve agreement ending 11-day siege

ATLANTA (AP)—Cuban inmates holding 89 hostages at the U.S. penitentiary voted Thursday to accept an agreement with the federal government that could free the captives and end the 11-day siege, a federal official said.

U.S. Justice Department spokesman Patrick Korten said the agreement was approved by a majority of the inmates, and officials were waiting for word on when the pact could be signed.

"They want somebody to come in from out of town," Korten said, an apparent reference to Bishop Austin Roman of Miami, a Cuban native credited with helping end a similar prison siege in Oakdale, La. Roman booked a 7:35 p.m. flight to Atlanta.

About 150 cheering detainees waved from the roof and sang the Cuban national anthem.

Foreign students not affected by tuition bill

By COLLEEN BOLAND
Staff writer

A bill in the Illinois Senate to have international students pay out-of-state tuition rates wouldn't affect Eastern international students, because they already pay the increased rates. The new rates would have international students paying the rates students from Illinois don't pay, which is about three times what tuition costs for resident students, said Ross Hodel, deputy director of the Illinois Board of Higher Education.

However, Brigitte Chen, adviser for Eastern's international students, said they already pay those rates, which makes tuition about $2,200 per semester. Williams confirmed this. "Right now, the students' tuition levels are approximately one third of educational costs," Hodel said. "Public taxes pay two thirds." He said parents of Illinois students pay taxes in Illinois, which pays the extra two-thirds of the tuition; however, international students don't pay taxes in the states. So they, as all other out-of-state students, have to make up the extra two thirds. "They would have to pay full costs. It would probably be about three times what tuition is for a resident student," Hodel said. "They would have to pay the same thing an out-of-state student pays." The bill, proposed by Sen. Jeremy Joyce, D-Chicago, is set to triple the cost of tuition for non-resident aliens. The rate of the increase would be based on what the bill calls "actual education costs."

These would be determined by the Board of Regents or Board of Governors, and would be based on the amount of tuition, faculty costs, library costs, activity fees and equipment costs, among other things. In a Nov. 4 news release, Joyce said Illinois is not in a position to subsidize college education for out-of-state students. He also said that because of budget restrictions, higher education programs should be tailored for Illinois residents.

Party Patrol idea not 'feasible' for Eastern

By BILL LOOBY
Staff writer

Parties will go unpatrolled, at least for the time being, said Senate Speaker Denise Wasetis. Wasetis said the party patrol idea has been scrapped, but Student Senate is open to any ideas and suggestions to alleviate the problem of out-of-control gatherings. Information the Senate has received from Illinois State University has been helpful, but it would not be "feasible" at Eastern, Wasetis said. She said the party patrol at ISU is aimed at fraternity parties, because that is where the problem lies. Eastern's problem is in "individual, after-bars" type of parties, Wasetis said. The major problem area the Senate wants to reach is off-campus students. Wasetis said reaching the off-campus students has been an on-going problem for the Senate. "We don't have the staff to run it (party patrol)," Wasetis said. ISU has a lot of faculty involvement in its project Wasetis said. "We only have one adviser." Also, ISU furnishes its patrol with university cars and radios. Wasetis said she did not know how the project is funded at ISU. The larger enrollment at ISU (about 20,000) was the reason for such an elaborate patrol, Wasetis said. According to the information ISU sent, the program has worked well and served its purpose. Wasetis said the Interfraternity Council has already established rules the fraternities have to follow. The only answer at the moment, Wasetis said, is to make students more aware of the problem and how they can alleviate it by following certain rules.

Assistants to be given study break

By DAVE DaICASON
Staff writer

If the books are getting students down, Eastern graduate assistants can take a "Study Break" at a pizza party sponsored by Eastern's educational administration department. The study break will be held at 5 p.m. Sunday at 19 Deerfield Lane, the home of graduate assistant Laura Miller. Miller, host of the party, said there is a $3 admission covering the cost of pizza and beverages. The study break is intended to give "different people from different backgrounds" a chance to meet before the semester winds down, Miller said. She added the party will also include a variety of activities, including cards and other games. She said there is also a possibility the group will try to get into the holiday spirit by singing Christmas carols. This is the second event of the semester for graduate assistants, Miller said. The Elementary Education department sponsored a wiener roast, which was similar to this one, Miller said. The atmosphere at the weiner roast was "real mellow," she said. "We are going to try to have a different department do it (hold an event) each time," Miller said. If there is left over admission money from the party, "it probably will be put into a fund for the next group" deciding to hold a study break, Miller said. The party will be kept brief because of time demands put on graduate assistants with finals coming up, Miller said.

Heart Assoc. earns second for excellence

By MONICA McADAMS
Staff writer

The Coles County Heart Association received a second place honor in its Quintile for Excellence performance. Coles County received $26,257 in contributions in the past fiscal year. This amount is the most ever raised in Coles County, according to Betty Davis, president. "The members of the board are very pleased with this award, but we are not satisfied. We are working for stronger efforts in all areas and top billing in our Quintile for 1988," Davis said. Counties of similar population compete in the areas of community service programs, fund raising, organization and communication, Davis said. Residential campaigns in Charleston and Mattoon and special events held at area schools and on Eastern's campus contributed to the success.

Minority hiring might increase minority figures

In an attempt to alleviate the decrease in Eastern's minority enrollment percentage, a plan to continue accepting applications from minority students after closing admissions was presented at the Board of Governor's meeting Thursday.

Eastern President Stanley Rives said the minority enrollment level is now at 6 percent, following a slight decline from last year.

While this is a serious issue that must be addressed, the Faculty Senate may have come up with a more immediate problem, which if rectified, could also better the minority enrollment situation.

At Tuesday's meeting, members of the senate discussed Eastern's deficiency in minority hiring. In fact, Eastern has the worst rate of hiring minority instructors out of all the BOG schools. The major reason cited for this deficiency is lack of funds for instructor salaries.

Ideally, hiring more minority instructors will increase our chances of attracting more minority students to Eastern's campus. Some minority students have said in the past that they have felt more comfortable having a minority instructor.

It was also brought up at the meeting that "students benefit more from a myriad of ethnic backgrounds." Therefore, increasing minority hiring will give all students the opportunity to experience diverse cultures.

These same minority instructors can also be utilized for minority student recruiting. However, the senate pointed out that travel funding for department chairs to recruit is also unavailable.

Herein is where the real problem lies—no money. Efforts need to be directed toward this financial situation which seems to be the underlying factor of many of this university's problems.

It's true that minority recruitment needs to be addressed and the problem needs to be rectified. However, the best attempt at doing this would be to start at the cause of the problem.

Letter policy

The Daily Eastern News welcomes letters to the editor from any reader addressing issues relating to the campus community.

The name and telephone number of at least one author must be submitted with each letter to the editor.

Mayor Washington was a great leader

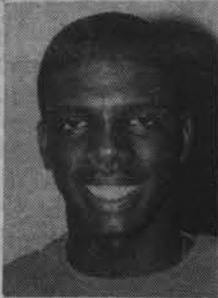

Washington, D.C., a great capitol. Washington, a great mayor. Washington the capitol and Washington the mayor are very much alike. Washington, D.C. is a great political center, and Washington the mayor is a great political hero.

The late great mayor of Chicago was more than just a politician, he was a leader. Columnist Steve Smith wrote a crucial and unrespectful column on the late mayor in the Monday edition of The Daily Eastern News.

Smith failed to realize that his column contained several exaggerated facts. He said that Washington did not become a political hero in Chicago until after he died. That's not true at all. As a citizen of Chicago for the last 19 years, I know Harold was a savior to most Chicagoans. Sure he was disliked and even hated by some. Aren't we all?

If Washington was not a political hero in Chicago, then why was he elected to a second term? Keep in mind that there are more whites in Chicago than blacks. Richard Daley will always be remembered as one of the great leaders of Chicago, but it was Washington as the leader for the last 5 years.

God is the last person any writer should use to support his opinions. However, in Smith's column I quote him as saying, "and then, as if a blessing from God, Washington is dead at the age of 65." How could any human being thank God for allowing someone to die? I wonder if he'll thank God when an inspiration in his life dies (like his father, for instance).

I asked Steve if he lived in Chicago. He told me, "No I live 15 minutes outside of Peoria." That's just like me saying I live in Charleston, but I don't go to Eastern. Who would you believe? Someone who lives near Chicago, or someone who lives in Chicago and is in touch with the people?

Smith also said, "if Washington had lived out his full term he would be remembered as a lousy mayor who ate too much and didn't do enough for blacks." When Washington was first elected, he cut his salary by 10 percent in order to decrease the city's deficit. Does that sound like a lousy mayor?

What's the definition of enough? He said Washington didn't do enough for blacks. Washington appointed more blacks to top city positions than any other Chicago mayor. If that's not enough, then I don't know what is. OK, the guy was overweight at 284 pounds, but what does that have to do with him being mayor? Weight was never an issue in his political career, but for some reason Smith made it an issue in his column.

Mayor Washington may be gone physically, but spiritually, he's still here. He will be missed by many Chicagoans and will never be forgotten, no matter how much he weighed.

Committee to view reports

By JEFF BRITT
Administration editor

Chairs of the committees studying undergraduate education will meet Saturday with Robert Kindrick, vice president for academic affairs, to discuss the preliminary reports of a faculty survey.

"We are not ready to make any specific recommendations," said Kandy Baumgardner, chair of the committee on language proficiency, general education and the major.

She said the committee is looking for the strong and weak points of general education at Eastern. It sent out a faculty survey, which is due Dec. 15, and is sending out a student survey.

She said all five committees will present faculty surveys. "We will analyze the results when the next semester begins.

"From my committee, we are just going to solicit faculty opinions on the way we are doing general education and to see how we can do it differently," Baumgardner said.

The student surveys seek answers to "whatever course it is that they are in when they are filling out the survey."

Questions include "is this a general education course? Why they like the course? What kinds of things do you think an educated person should learn in college?" she added.

Dave Buchanan, who chairs the committee on faculty priorities, classroom creativity and learning resources, said, "We've discussed several areas we will like to go into in better detail.

"Based on info that will come from there, we will talk about other topics also."

He said the committee thinks there's a need for faculty development. "Many faculty feel they could do more if resources were available.

"Another thing we've been looking at is equipment and library facilities," Buchanan said. "We feel we are way behind where we should be in instructional equipment and the funding of Booth Library."

He said his committee is interviewing the department chairs, adding it is a better way of getting information than having the chairs send the committee memos.

"We have started a student survey," said Steve Whitley, who chairs the committee on recruitment, admission, orientation and retention. "We have developed questions for a faculty survey."

The student survey, which was for first-semester freshmen, is expected back at the beginning of next week.

Maurer was not available for comment.

3 officers elected to RHA posts; begin duties at Dec. 10 meeting

Senior Jim Tremmel was elected the new president of the Residence Hall Association, Thursday.

Two other positions were filled in the election. Freshman Teresa Craig was elected treasurer, and senior Glen Flanagan won the vice presidential position when sophomore Chris Robinson, prior to the election, declined to run.

Tremmel said his goals as president evolved around having RHA work as a collective group. "I want to get everyone involved in the organization . . . by getting people on committees, working on projects," he said.

Santa's

death has not been easy to cope with, Barber said, especially when she overhears students in class talking about Zastro's death.

"It hurts so much to hear people talk about it as news, like in the paper," Barber said.

But she said others are very supportive, however she notices that many are "still uncomfortable" and don't say anything.

She said that after missing two school days to attend Zastro's wake and funeral, a college dean was not very sympathetic when he demanded documentation she attended the funeral.

"He was really rude," Barber noted.

Barber said she will carry fond memories of her lost friend.

"Kristen was quiet, but she was really determined," Barber said. "She was close to her family and she was close to God. She wanted to teach elementary education—she loved kids."

Mathes said she has noticed many of her floormates have change their lifestyles somewhat, because of the two accident that both occurred within four days of each other.

"Maybe it's just because of finals, but I haven't seen too many girls going out," Mathes said. "The attitude (on the floor) has changed."

"Everytime you come back to the floor, you start thinking," she added. "I walk by Kristen's room and it's really weird."

Many of the women voiced the same opinion as Mathes, saying that after the two incidents, they believed they had a different outlook toward the other residents on the fifth floor.

Sophomore Trish Curly, a fashion merchandising major, said, "Everybody (on the fifth floor) has been saying that you don't know how many friends you've got till something like this happens."

She said residents have been pulling together during the stressful time.

One woman said she believed many young women came to the realization of their own mortality.

"It makes you think," said sophomore Candice Cain, a psychology major. Fifth-floor residents have become closer because "you watch out for your friends more."

Many of the women said false rumors were circulating throughout campus and many were distraught that the false stories were being given credence by many Eastern students and faculty.

Sophomore Julie Johnson, a home economics major, said contrary to rumors being spread that Wainman was dying, and friends have visited Wainman in the hospital and said Wainman's condition was improving substantially.

"She's doing a lot better," Johnson said. "She's slurring (her speech), but slowly coming around."

Johnson was told by Wainman's father that the woman should be recovered from her head injuries in a few weeks.

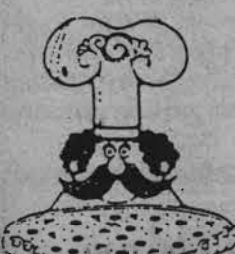

Although Johnson said Wainman appeared disoriented when she saw her in the hospital, she was told Wainman's father that she recently been "running all over the place" in the hospital hall at Springfield.

After a hall meeting, flowers and cards were sent to the parents of the two women on behalf of the residents of both Andrews and Lawson halls.

History show planned

AMY SMITH
The Student Senate is working on a presentation of Eastern's history and traditions to help freshmen orientation in the fall of 1988, Senate Speaker Wasetis said.

The members working on the project got the idea in February at the Conference of Student Government Associations at Texas A&M University. At the conference some students presented a slide show about the history and traditions of Texas A&M. Wasetis said she was impressed by the knowledge A&M students had about their campus and thought it would be a good program to instill at Eastern.

Wasetis said the program would hopefully "spark more school loyalty," and students would have a "sense of pride if you know what's happened here before."

The presentation, which will be completed in time for the summer orientation tours, will consist of a slide show accompanied by a lecture. The program, lasting from 30 to 45 minutes, will be presented by Eastern students.

Wasetis said at this point no funding is needed for the project because it is still in the research stage.

The only real expense would be the cost of the slides.

Wasetis said the funding would come out of fees for FLASH (Freshmen Learn About School Here) camp or the senate budget.

Roger Thomson, chairman of the Student Awareness Committee, said Wasetis and student senator Troy Mayfield have been going through old yearbooks in the library to find out "exactly what's taken place in the past that people have forgotten about."

Thomson also said next semester older faculty members and those recently retired will be interviewed in order to find out more about Eastern's past.

One tradition that has been forgotten is the senior class gift. Wasetis said Daniel Thornburgh, director of University Relations, was working towards renewing that tradition. The gift would be voted on by the seniors and then individuals would pledge money to an endowment.

Wasetis said her research has been interesting and it is possible to find out about Eastern by reading about the individuals the buildings on campus are named after.

Thomson thought the program would be helpful for those just entering Eastern because, as he said, it would be "a kick in the pants" to let them know that there's "a lighter side to education at EIU."

Former Eastern Student Christine Korsgaard, a distinguished philosopher, explains Kant's ethics to 75 people Thursday in the Coleman Hall Auditorium.

Kant philosophy explained

A lecture entitled "Morality as Freedom: Acting on the Categorical Imperative" was given Thursday in the Coleman Auditorium.

Christine Korsgaard, a distinguished philosopher and former Eastern student, gave the lecture which explained Kant's ethics to about 75 people. Kant is a famous philosopher that has the theory if a person lies to someone, he is not treating that person as a rational human being.

"Kant claims that you ought not tell a lie to a murderer of a would-be victim," Korsgaard said. "Kant distinguishes a rational human being as one that acts not only on laws but on the conception of laws," she added.

Korsgaard went on to say when a person acts, it is for a reason. Kant calls this principle a maxim.

Complete Early Enrollment

If you pre-enrolled for Spring Semester, complete your early enrollment in the University Union Ballroom. Present your I.D. card according to the following schedule by last digit of social security number:

0-1 8:30 a.m., Mon., Dec. 7
2-3 12:00 noon, Mon., Dec. 7
4-5 8:30 a.m., Tues., Dec. 8
6-7 12:00 noon, Tues., Dec. 8
8-9 8:30 a.m., Wed., Dec. 9
ALL STUDENTS 12:00 noon, Wed., Dec. 9
ALL STUDENTS 8:30 a.m., Thurs., Dec. 10
DOOR CLOSES AT 2:30 P.M. EACH DAY.

STUDENTS MAY REPORT AFTER THEIR SCHEDULED TIME BUT NOT BEFORE.

Completion of early enrollment INCLUDES PAYMENT OF SPRING FEES AND TUITION. The deadline for completing early enrollment is 2:30 p.m., Thursday, Dec. 10. FAILURE TO COMPLETE EARLY ENROLLMENT (HAVE FEE BILLS PROCESSED BY THE CASHIER) BY THE DEADLINE WILL RESULT IN CANCELLATION OF SCHEDULED SPRING CLASSES. ALL STUDENTS must stop at the cashier station—EVEN IF NO PAYMENT IS REQUIRED.

To avoid inconvenience, do NOT have checks for Spring tuition and fees sent to the University. You should have the check in hand when going to complete early enrollment.

Michael D. Taylor, Director
Registration

Fee Assessment

You are responsible for providing accurate and current information so you will be billed for tuition and service fees. Pre-enrollment fee billing is based on the type and amount of scholarship, the course load, the class level, and the residency type DURING THE FALL TERM.

If there are changes in the way you should be billed for Spring

Term, you should give the new fee information to Registration Office personnel. A student who pre-enrolled has two convenient opportunities to correct fee information: a student may complete a new fee certification form (1) during pre-enrollment OR (2) at early enrollment (Wrap-Up) JUST BEFORE paying the cashier.

A student who has questions regarding fee assessments should call the Registration Office.

A current sophomore who expects to become a junior at the close of this term should check UPPER DIVISION on the fee certification form in order to be billed for upper-division fees.

Michael D. Taylor, Director
Registration

Jewish Vocational Scholarship

The Office of Financial Aid has received an announcement of scholarship grants from the Jewish Vocational Service. Information concerning the eligibility for applying for such scholarships is available in the Office of Financial Aid, Upper Level of Student Services Building. Deadline for submission of application is March 1, 1988.

John Flynn, Director
Financial Aid

Financial Aid Recipients

As a service to Financial Aid Recipients I am taking this opportunity to advise you of an important change in the Internal Revenue Code (IRC).

The IRC was amended by the Income Tax Reform Act of 1986 to provide that only scholarship and grant amounts (not loans) used directly for tuition and fees, books, supplies, and necessary equipment required for educational courses, are EXCLUDABLE from income. Funds received for other expenses such as room, board, travel, personal, etc. are now subject to taxation.

Scholarships and Grants include, but are not necessarily limited to Pell Grants, Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grant, Private Scholarships or Grants, Grant-In-Aid, Socio-Economically Disadvantaged Scholarship, E.I.U. Foundation Awards, governmental agency grants, etc.

Tuition and fees are the actually assessed basic charges by the college for your enrollment. Directly related costs however include required texts or supplemental books you purchased (i.e. were not part of service fees), and required "supplies". Equipment includes tools, uniforms, and other items which are a required part of the program for which you are enrolled. If required, you should be able to produce the necessary receipt or other documentation which can substantiate your claim. For the future it is strongly recommended that you retain copies of all receipts associated with your cost of education.

The reporting of financial assistance received to meet the costs of education is the responsibility of the recipient. The amount received may not cause a tax liability unless total income is in excess of the minimum allowable for a tax payer.

Beyond only the most general of terms it is not my intent to officially explain or interpret the tax laws of the IRC. Rather, it is my intent to bring this matter to your attention that you may be better informed of your responsibilities with the Internal Revenue Service (IRS).

Financial Aid recipients are encouraged to confer with the IRS or an income tax consultant regarding any potential tax liability. For information contact the IRS at (800) 424-1040.

NOTE: Free income tax assistance for persons with simple tax returns (1040A or 1040EZ) who cannot afford professional help is offered by the Volunteer Income Tax Assistance Program (VITA). Contact the Retired Seniors Volunteer Program (RSVP) at 234-3324 (Mattoon) or 345-9530 (Charleston).

Tankers take to Wheaton Invite

JOE LEWNARD
Staff writer

Eastern's tankers travel to Wheaton College Friday for a two-day invitational meet against six Midwestern schools.

The Wheaton Invitational will include host Wheaton College, Western Illinois, Bradley, Northern Illinois, DePaul College, Northern Michigan and Eastern.

Since there will not be as many teams in comparison to other invitational meets, Eastern swimmers will have the opportunity to qualify for the finals and events, Padovan said.

"We ought to enter this and feel better than we normally do," Padovan said. This will be the first meet of the season to include the 100-yard freestyle. The long swim is usually only in invitational meets.

Since the graduation of distance swimmer Scott Conover last year, Lance Krall and Jim Berryman have taken over distance swimming on the Panther's squad.

Berryman, a senior, swam backstroke last season, so this will be the first time in the 1,650.

Krall said he has been doing better in longer races this season. He has been swimming the 500-and the 1,000-yard freestyles this season.

Last season Krall swam the mile in 17:44, and Padovan has estimated his seed time to be just 30 seconds longer this weekend, which is not much slower for an early season meet.

"He (Padovan) kind of puts us where he thinks we should be at half way through the taper," Krall said.

Grapplers off to U of I Open

By BRENT FEENEY

Eastern's wrestling team travels up Interstate 57 this weekend as they participate in the Illinois Open.

The meet will be held at the Huff Gym on the campus of the University of Illinois.

The Panther grapplers placed seven wrestlers, including one champion, at the Southern Open last weekend at Chattanooga, Tenn.

Still, wrestling Coach Ralph McCausland would like to see his troops continue to improve.

"Certainly, we'd like to keep improving ourselves," McCausland said. "We need to be consistent in our intensity levels during the matches we wrestle."

Fifteen schools are scheduled to be in attendance at the meet, including all of the schools in Illinois that have wrestling programs except Illinois State.

"We always look forward to the Illinois Open," McCausland said. "It's a good chance for our kids to compare themselves to other wrestlers in the state and see how they stack up."

The tournament will be divided into two sections, a freshman division and an open division. The freshman division begins competition at 7 p.m. Friday, while the open division commences at 9 a.m. Saturday.

Final bouts in the freshman division are set for 1 p.m. Saturday, while open division title bouts begin at 6 p.m.

In the open division, McCausland will have junior Craig Sterr, who finished second at last year's meet, going at 118 pounds. Sophomore Craig Campbell will see action at 126, and junior Dean Souder, who finished fifth in 1986, goes at 134.

"Dean's had a few tight matches lately," McCausland said. "I think that if he can win a few this weekend, he can really bust out."

Senior Chris Simcox will go for the Panthers at 158, and junior Marty Molina, who had a second last year, gets the nod at 177. Junior heavyweight Copache Tyler, who placed second last year, will also see action.

In the freshman division, Ray Serbick will be at 134, David Marlow will be at the 142 weight class, Mike Papes gets the nod at 150, and Bob Johnson will compete at 158.

"We're hoping the freshman division will be really good for us," McCausland said. "All of the freshmen will get some good match time in without worrying about facing a more experienced wrestler."

"Getting match time in is the key to success in wrestling," McCausland said. "This will enable them to hopefully develop good habits that will lead to winning matches for us."

there is no way we will not be conference champions again," Akers said.

The team has been working since September," Akers said. He said the meet is an opportunity to work out over the Christmas break when some have a tendency to get out of shape.

Senior, who owns the AMCU 440-yard dash record at 49, will run in the 500-yard race Saturday.

Off Gennarelli, described by Akers as a "senior leader," will compete in the shot-put and 35-pound weight throw.

Senior Lonny Vickery leads a state contingent of pole vaulters including junior Mark Ellton, sophomore Bob Miller and freshman Darren Wagner.

Senior decathlete Darren Wagner will compete in the 100 and high jumps and the 400-meter hurdles.

Sophomore Mike Hamman, who broke the Eastern record in the high jump last year with a leap of 6-foot-10, will lead the Panther high jumpers.

The 5,000-meter run will see John Wells run after a week layoff from the cross-country season.

Akers said he expects "solid performances" out of the runners like they had last year.

The team will be without the services of some key athletes this year.

Sophomore Eric Childs is out with a sprained ankle. Childs is one of Eastern's "top sprinters," Akers said.

Also out are senior Scot Johnson, a long sprinter, and senior middle distance runner Johnson.

Panthers shock UW Badgers 59-52

By DAVID LINDQUIST
Staff writer

Games this early in the season aren't supposed to be this good.

The Eastern Panthers showed 4,793 Lantz Gym fans a lot of emotion, dedication, and intensity in defeating Big Ten opponent Wisconsin 59-52 Thursday night.

Eastern came back from a 31-22 halftime deficit and outscored the Badgers 37-21 in the game's second frame.

Panther Coach Rick Samuels said that defense was the game's key.

"It was a tale of two halves," Samuels said. "We struggled with their defense in the first half and they struggled with our's in the second."

The Panthers reeled off 12 unanswered points in the second half, all dozen coming from juniors Mike West and Jay Taylor.

West, a 6-8 center, hit four consecutive field goals in the stretch and finished the evening with nine points, seven rebounds, and four steals in what is likely his best performance to date in an Eastern uniform.

"We knew coming out at halftime if we stuck together and pecked at their lead—not try to make it up all at once—we would get the job done," West said.

Badger guards Trent Jackson and Rodney Tapp combined for 16 of Wisconsin's 31 first half points, but an aggressive Eastern defense held the duo to just five points for the remainder of the game.

"It was a team defensive effort," Taylor said. "We played pressure defense for forty minutes and I think they cracked."

Where the Jackson and Tapp offensive show left off in the first half, Taylor's bombarding for Eastern took over.

Playing in his first game of the season due to disciplining during the Panthers' 88-60 victory over Olivet Monday, Taylor scored 23 points, hit two three-point goals, and connected on seven of nine free throw attempts.

The 6-3 forward also shot 70 percent from the field and collected five rebounds.

"I was anxious to play and do everything I could to help us win," Taylor said. "This victory is the highlight of my life."

Eastern lost 72-68 at Wisconsin last Dec. 22, and Thursday's visit marked the first time a Big Ten conference member had visited Lantz Gym in its twenty-year history.

"All wins are good wins," Samuels said. "This one is emotional because Wisconsin is a recognizable name."

"Everyone put in what they needed to for the win," senior forward Dave Stein said. "The fans were also great and really got us going."

Stein only scored four points in the game, but Samuels said his two corner jumpshots with 3:05 and 1:45 left in the game were crucial to the victory.

"Those were the deciding points in the game," Samuels said. "They kept Wisconsin at bay."

Wisconsin Coach Steve Yoder was disappointed that his team could not seal the win.

"Once Eastern smelled it, they took the game," Yoder said. "They used a lot of guys and each played their role."

Wisconsin's record is now 2-1 while the Panthers are undefeated in their first two games. Eastern travels to Indiana State Saturday night for a 6:30 match-up.

"It's now our jobs as coaches to prepare the team mentally for Indiana State," Samuels said. "We're going to take one game at a time."

Eastern senior guard Norm Evans looks to make a pass during Eastern's 59-52 upset Thursday night in Lantz Gym. Evans scored two points and had two assists during the game. The Panthers, now 2-0, were led by the 23 points of junior guard Jay Taylor and the seven rebounds of junior center Mike West.

Tracksters start with Early meet

By BILL LOOBY
Staff writer

Assistant Track Coach Tom Akers says the Panther squad should be "an exciting team to watch" this year.

The track team will have a tune-up meet at 1 p.m. Saturday in Lantz Fieldhouse as the tracksters take part in the Early Bird Open.

No team scores will be kept but Akers said there will be plenty of competition running.

Individuals from Purdue University, Indiana State, Vincennes University, University of Missouri-Rolla and Parkland College will be competing in the meet.

This is the team's first meet this year. A time trial was held before Thanksgiving to see where the team stands, Akers said.

The 1987 indoor and outdoor AMCU Conference champions only lost three competitors from last season, throwers Dan Matas and Jay Flatt and middle distance runner Phil Maton.

Junior Jim Maton, who has already qualified for the Olympic Trials, will compete in the mile run.

Maton will be shooting for his third Indoor Athlete of the Year honor, having won the award in 1986 and 1987.

His main competition will come from Troy Lewis of Southern Indiana University and Brian Little of Vincennes, Akers said.

Lady cagers host home openers

By BARRY BOTTINO
Sports editor

Eastern's women's basketball team is singing "Home Sweet Home" these days as the Lady Panthers will host Butler and Bowling Green in a weekend series in Lantz Gym.

The Bulldogs of Butler, currently 0-2, will visit Lantz at 7:30 Friday night while the Bowling Green Falcons, who are 0-1 after losing 80-62 to Northwestern, will see action Sunday afternoon at 2 p.m.

"The kids are excited" to be back home, said assistant head coach Deanna D'Abbraccio. "And we should have some good fan support with the back-to-back weekend games."

"We're finally back to the confines of Lantz Gym," said D'Abbraccio, whose troops have toured the state of Indiana in their 95-74 loss to Purdue over Thanksgiving break and Wednesday night's 58-48 win over Ball State.

The string of Indiana opponents will continue with Butler of Indianapolis Saturday night.

"Butler is much improved over last year," D'Abbraccio said. Last season, the Lady Panthers bounced the Bulldogs 81-58 in Indianapolis.

"Their 0-2 start is not indicative of their play," said D'Abbraccio, who noted the Bulldogs four-point loss to 1987 NCAA Tournament participant New Mexico State Monday.

"They're fundamentally sound and they come ready to play," D'Abbraccio said.

The Bulldogs are led by junior forward Martha Kondalski, who has averaged 14.5 points in the two previous losses.

Sunday, the Lady Panthers will encounter the Bowling Green Falcons, who were also a participant in the NCAA tourney of a year ago.

The Falcons were beaten by Illinois in the opening round of the tournament last March.

"Bowling Green is very talented and experienced," said D'Abbraccio, who admitted, "we don't know a lot about them."

The high-flying Falcons finished the '86-87 season with a 27-3 record and a MAC American Conference championship.

The Falcons are led by 6-foot junior forward Jackie Motycka, who was the MAC Player of the Year last year and was the MAC's Freshman of the Year two years ago.

Motycka led the Falcons to their loss at Northwestern with 17 points and eight rebounds, while sophomore center Alan Bonner tallied 10 points and seven rebounds.

The Lady Panthers' leading scorer is senior forward Ann Brown, who is averaging 11 point and 8.5 rebounds, also a team high.

Philadelphia Here I Come' set for six performances

JOHN PLETZ
Staff Editor

The bittersweet comic play "Philadelphia Here I Come!" will open at Eastern on Friday in the Doudna Fine Arts Theater Playroom.

Eastern students will provide six performances, running until Wednesday. All except a Sunday matinee, will be at 8 p.m. The curtain will rise at 2 p.m. on Sunday.

The play was first presented in 1964 at the Dublin Theater Festival and was written by Irishman Brian Friel, a former elementary school teacher.

"Philadelphia Here I Come!" deals with the plight of Gareth O'Donnell, who tries to leave his homeland on a jet in hopes of finding prosperity while living with his aunt in America.

The young man is ready to leave, but has difficulty telling the family and friends he will leave behind how much he loves the play really is about human beings and the difficulty of being able to say to another human being "I love you," said Clarence Blanchette, director of the play. That's pretty much what the play is concerned with, the human experience."

Blanchette added the human experience of the main character, Gareth, is presented in a unique way. The character is played by two different actors who will portray the character's public and private self.

He thinks (the public and private self contrast) is difficult, but hopefully (the audience) will understand that coming in," Blanchette said.

Senior John P. Tabor will portray O'Donnell's public self and senior Thomas Rhett Kee will portray the young man's alter ego.

Junior Troy Mayfield will play O'Donnell's father, senior Laura Rubidge is his aunt across the Atlantic and sophomore

Heather Gladney and senior Ann Lloyd have been double-cast as the girl he loved, but failed to marry.

Junior Angela Snead has been selected as the O'Donnell's affectionate, but unrewarded, housekeeper.

but unrewarded, housekeeper.

Freshmen Kenneth Barnett, Jack Smith, Steve Echols and Kevin Peters; junior Ken Foster; and sophomores Gary Denton, Gerald Lunsford and Bruce Janu round out the cast.

Although the 15-member cast is ready for opening night, Blanchette was unsure at first whether he would have enough bodies to present the play at all.

"This is the first time I've done a show where I didn't have the full cast to start rehearsing with," the Keane State and University of Iowa graduate said of his fourth Eastern production.

"I was a little concerned we didn't have the full cast, but I felt the core of the cast was strong. It didn't really bother me, and we went right to work."

And Blanchette's cast has been working long hours since late October to prepare for Friday's show. He said the schedule of six rehearsals a week is tedious.

"Perhaps I do have more rehearsals than most," Blanchette said. "I feel I need the time. I'm so immersed in (the production). I'm not one who can turn it all off for a few days and then turn it back on. I'm either all go or not at all."

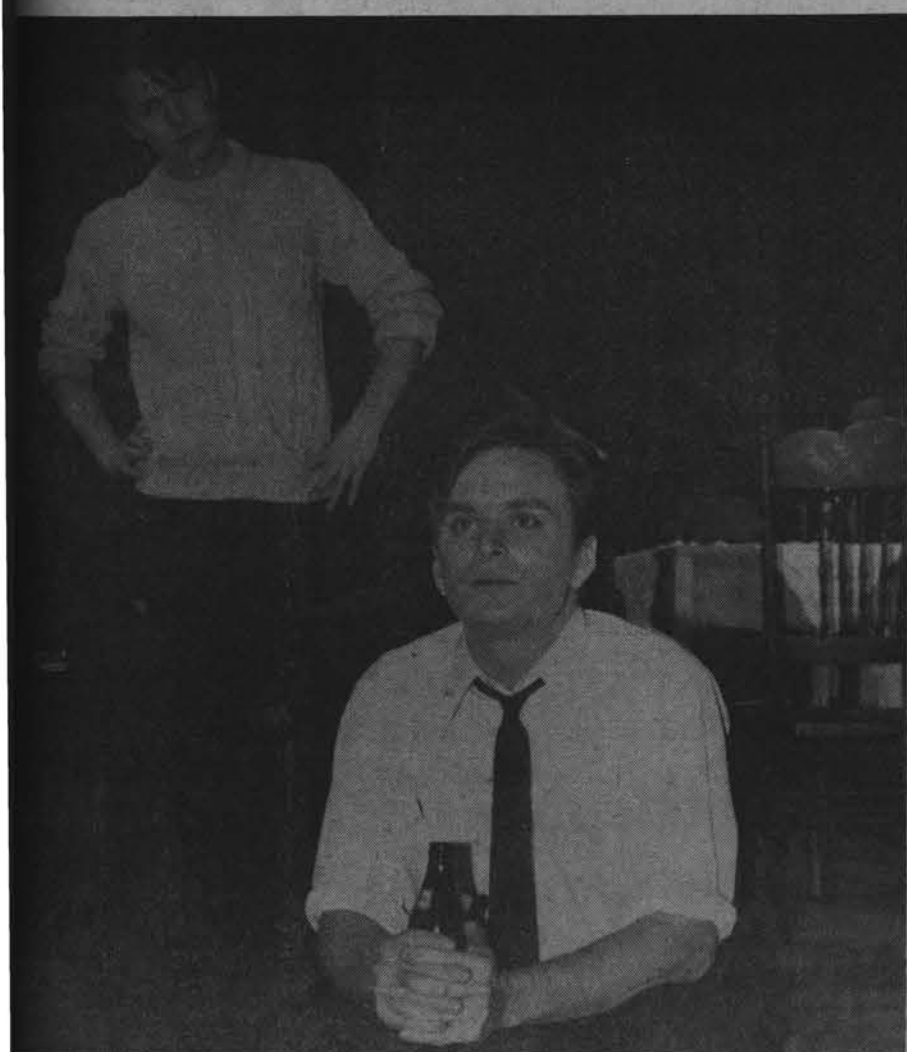

Hard work is not the only mark Blanchette has embellished on his latest production. As a stage design and lighting instructor at Eastern for 15 years, his first concern for the play was its set.

"Having done so much with scene design in my career, I think it makes me very practical (as a director)," he said. "I start with an environment. I have to get the visual scene in a show, and then move to the script. Everybody starts at a different point."

Blanchette started by moving the play from the 300-plus-seat University Theater to the more intimate 110-seat

Playroom next door.

The Playroom's smaller size presents a set design challenge to create "more with less," he said. However, intimacy and (See Philadelphia, page 6B)

Photography book reveals area's subtle beauty

JOHN PLETZ
Reporter

Champaign photographer Larry Kanfer will be at the Arts Center today from 2 to 4 p.m. to sign copies of his book, "Prairiescapes," and to introduce his exhibition which will be on display at the center until Jan. 1.

Larry Kanfer

The display, also titled "Prairiescapes," consists of color photographs of East Central Illinois landscapes.

"He's very concerned about capturing the mood," said Mike Watts, director of the center. "He's very selective about subject matter and of the scenes and moods he chooses in his photography."

All of the images are available within the walls of Charleston," Kanfer said. "There's a lot going on being in Charleston for a semester. If you go one day out of town, it's a whole different world—but you won't see that if you stay up 1-57."

Kanfer's book was first released this month by the University of Illinois Press and copies are available at the Tarble Gift Shop. All stock from the first two printings of the book has already been sold to retail stores, but a third run is scheduled for January.

"Three weeks ago, the first copies were delivered," Kanfer said. "Five thousand were purchased from the wholesaler, and the second printing is also spoken for."

Kanfer, 31, operates the Larry Kanfer Photography Ltd. studio in Champaign, and his work has also been accepted for exhibition at the Art Institute of Chicago.

He is a 1979 graduate of the University of Illinois, coming to Champaign from Portland, Ore. to study architecture. As a student he was captivated by "the subtle beauty" of Midwestern landscapes.

"The prairie landscape is not beautiful in the traditional sense," Kanfer said, "certainly there are no soaring mountains or rugged coastlines. But there is a gentle, subtle beauty apparent to those who take the time to discover it, to those who make an effort to look and then look again."

"(The landscape in this area) is very beautiful, but it is very subtle," he added.

"But once you can see it, I think it's more exciting than something that's very obvious."

"I'm from the Pacific Northwest," Kanfer said, "and you don't have to look very hard to find a 'pretty picture. When I photograph the West, I don't think it's as good a picture because I don't have to work as hard."

Kanfer said the most attractive part of the exhibition is its universal appeal. "I hope people from all different walks of life can relate to it."

Yah humbug, commercialism puts dent in Christmas cheer

DAN VERDUN
Reporter

Christmas means a lot of different things to a lot of different people.

It's a time to buy and wrap presents; a time of goodwill and peace. The holiday season brings colder weather and warmer hearts.

But Christmas isn't just about peace, warmth and peace. Indeed, it's also about commercialism, turning profits and Game Shows.

It begins around Halloween. Christmas catalogs arrive with the Great Pumpkin. They really kick in around Thanksgiving when the business hits us full force with advertising campaigns via the television waves.

It begins just after the first bout of the annual Thanksgiving Day football game featuring that NFL powerhouse, the Detroit Lions. One minute you're watching Pat Summerville and John Madden, the next it's Budweiser Clydesdales pulling a wagon through a snowy street or Jontu and later the band in a long line of sensual images.

It begins as a trickle, soon turns into a full-fledged flood of wines and colognes joining the flood of toys, gold chains and Bill Cosby sweaters. Stores are filled with holiday shop- and Elvis singing about his Christmas.

Now all this I can handle to a certain degree, but then comes the straw that breaks the camel's back—the ornament that pulls the cover off.

Yes, I'm talking about those Christmas specials! Sure, they're cute and funny and entertaining and bring a certain warmth into our hearts on a cold winter's night; BUT, it's gotten way too out of hand!

It was fine when we just had the old classics like Rudolph and Frosty and the Grinch, but in recent years we've had to muddle through the holiday season with the likes of the Smurfs.

In addition, every regular TV show has to have its special Christmas program—"Family Ties" has Christmas with the Keatons, Cosby has Christmas with the Huxtables. What's next, Christmas with the Colbys or Pee Wee Herman?

Or what about the He-Man Holiday Special? Or the A-Team Returns Just in Time For Christmas? Or maybe Haray Caray's Christmas on Rush Street (maybe every day is Christmas after all)?

Okay, so maybe I'm getting just a little bit carried away. After all, I used to watch every possible Christmas special I could get my eyes on.

I remember as if it were only yesterday...

It was my freshman year at Eastern and all the guys on second floor of Douglas Hall were rushing down to watch Rudolph's Red Nose on Bryan's color TV set.

"Come on Rudolph is going to be on any minute now!" somebody yelled as visions of buttered popcorn danced in our heads.

As we all packed into Bryan's room to watch the show, we all glanced over to see Robert Williams jogging down the hall.

"Hey, Rob, come on and join us. 'Rudolph the Red-Nosed Reindeer' is almost on!"

Now for those of you who don't know, Robert Williams was an All-American safety on Eastern's football team who would later play two seasons with the Pittsburgh Steelers.

"No man, I've got to go get my running in," Robert shot back.

"Aw come on Rob," we yelled. "It's too cold to go out and run, besides, Rudolph is only on once a year."

Robert's reply came back faster than a speeding snowball—"Hey, Rudy don't pay the rent next year!"

At first we all thought Robert was just another scrooge, somebody who would pull the football out from under Charlie Brown.

But a year later, Rob was with the Steelers making over $50,000 a year, driving a Corvette and wearing more gold than a Christmas tree.

And that same year later, we were again gathered around a colored TV set, but it wasn't Rudolph we were watching, it was Rob playing the the AFC Championship game.

Who says commercialism doesn't sell!

Super-human effort gives play set designer and co-lead actor

By BRENT FEENEY
Staff writer

Usually, someone who can do everything and do it well is regarded as some sort of a Superman.

Gordie Lockbaum, who plays football at Holy Cross, is a good example. He plays running back, defensive back and returns punts and kickoffs. In fact, he still has an outside shot for this year's Heisman Trophy.

The Theater Arts department at Eastern has a student who can do it all too. He's designed the set for this weekend's play, "Philadelphia, Here I Come!" and also has the co-lead in the production.

Who is this man? Well, meet Thomas Rhett Kee.

"I've been doing this since I was seven," Kee said. "My mother was into it and she got me interested in it. I guess it's been in my blood all of my life."

Kee has been designing sets for productions since his high school days at Rockford East. "That's when I really got into designing," Kee said.

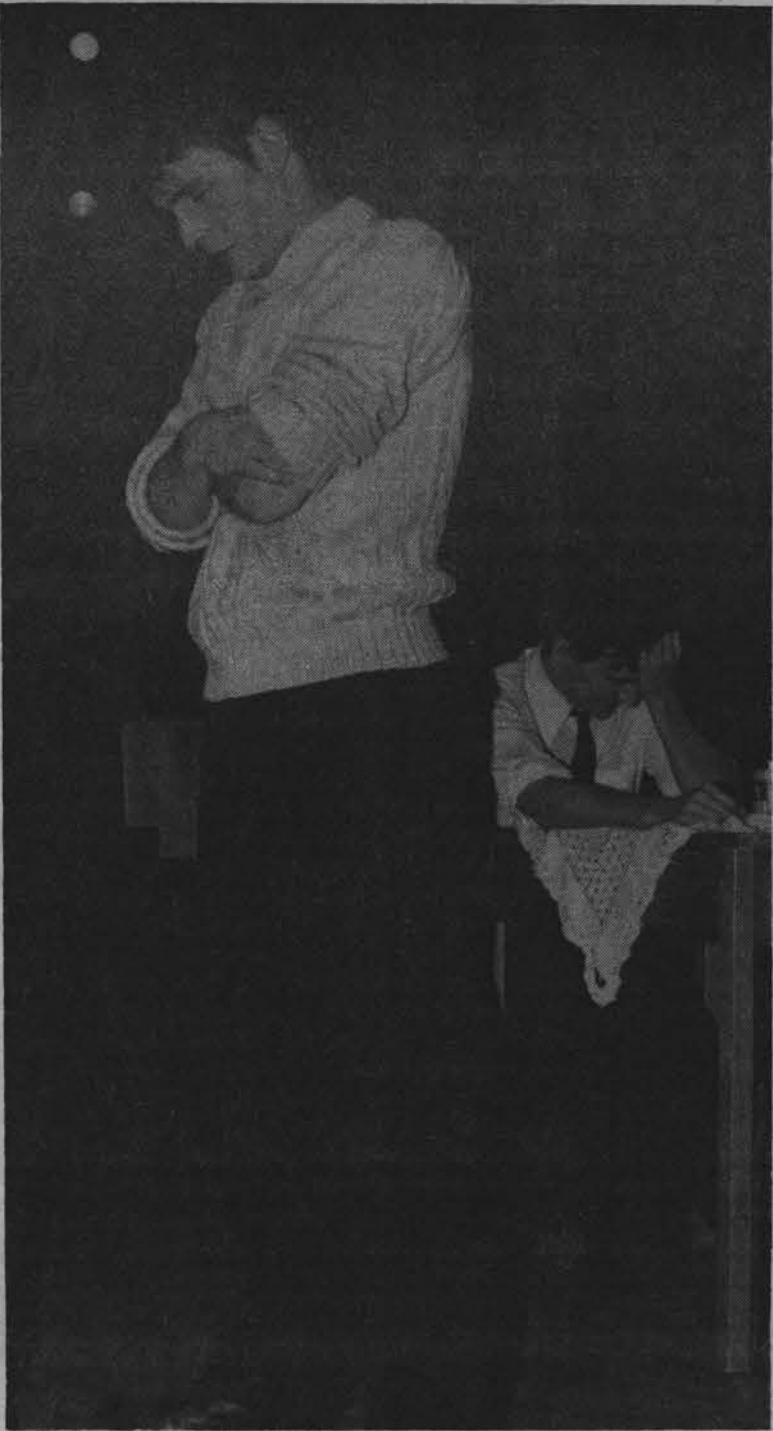

It's not unusual for Theater Arts students to design sets. "Most of the people in the cast have done this before," Kee said.

But having the co-lead role is a challenge for Kee. "It's probably the biggest role I've had since I've been at Eastern," Kee said. "It's a role that really hit close to home for me and I hope that the audience can get something out of this."

Kee feels that acting in live stage plays is very emotionally involving for the audience. "Unlike watching a movie or a TV show, an audience can get emotionally involved in a live play. I think that people are becoming bored with films and television, mostly because they're becoming the same thing over and over," Kee said.

"There's just something about a live play that's exciting," Kee said. "Live theater is picking up all over the country, especially in places like Chicago and St. Louis," Kee said.

After his graduation from Eastern, Kee would like to attend graduate school in the East.

Thomas Rhett Kee (left) as Private Gareth, looks down as John Tabor as Public Gareth, sits at the table. 'Philadelphia Here I Come!' will be featured in six performances at Eastern.

"The Ivy League schools have good theater departments, as well as Iowa and Indiana," Kee said.

Following that, Kee would like to get into regional reportory theater. "The Reportory Theater in St. Louis is really good. There're some good regional theaters in Chicago, Minnesota, and on the Atlantic Coast. I'd like to get involved with that," Kee said.

"Philadelphia, Here I Come!" begins Friday night at 8 in Doudna Fine Arts Center. Performances are also set for Saturday, Sunday, Monday and Tuesday. Curtain time is 8 p.m. for all performances except Sunday, which commences at 2 p.m.

Dvorak concert to set season mood

By PETE SCALES
Staff writer

Eastern's music department will sponsor choral, jazz, orchestra and percussion performances next week at Dvorak Concert Hall in the Doudna Fine Arts Center.

The Annual Christmas Choral Concert will be presented at 3 p.m. Sunday. The Chamber Singers, the Concert Choir and the Mixed Choir will be singing seasonal songs.

The price of admission is $3 for adults and $2 for students and senior citizens.

The concert "will help students get into the mood for Christmas," said Concert Choir Director Robert Snyder.

The Eastern Illinois Jazz Ensemble will follow with a concert at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in Dvorak.

Directed by Allan Horney, the 18-member group will be playing a variety of big-band music. Ten selections from the old style of Count Basie to contemporary jazz will be explored.

The show will feature the saxophone section playing a Phil Woods piece. Tenor saxophonist Steve Wunder will play a solo gospel selection and graduate student David Champouillon will perform. "Winter Recess" by Jeff Beal on trumpet.

The cost of the concert is $2 for adults and $1 for students and senior citizens.

The Eastern Illinois University/Community Orchestra will be performing works from Bach, Tchaikovsky, and Sibelius at 7:30 p.m. Thursday. Admission is free.

The opening piece, Bach's Brandenburg Concerto No. 5, will feature the baroque group the Arcadia Ensemble.

Three percussion groups will close out the series with their second performances of the semester at 7:30 p.m. Friday. Admission is free.

'10 Minute University' provides quick education

By STEVE SMITH
Staff Editor

Passing that tough economics class may be only one minute away.

Of course passing this course also requires attendance in the biology, psychology, philosophy, political science, Roman studies, physics, visual arts and comparative literature courses—each of which take a minute as part of the 10-Minute University.

Enrollment in the university is simple. No cumbersome enrollment forms have

We realized what a great public service we were providing.

—Jim Becker
Co-founder of 10-Minute University

to be filled out and no nervewracking entrance exams are given. All that is required is $5.95 and a trip to the cash register (which takes much less than 10 minutes).

"It's about time the cost of higher education was brought down to a reasonable price," said Jim Becker, co-founder of the 10-Minute University.

Becker, 32, admits he never had a job since graduated from Brown University with a biomedical engineering degree. Instead he gained the support of Andy Meyer, and together they produced the 10 Classics in 10 Minutes cassette.

This tape is similar to the 10-Minute University in that the fast-talking John Moschitta critiques 10 best sellers in, well, you guessed it, 10 minutes.

In fact, the tape was so popular that it made the best-seller list for an audio cassette, said Workman Publishing Spokesperson Cindy Adelman. She noted the 10 Classics in 10 Minutes tape sold about 100,000 copies since its introduction in 1986.

From this humble beginning, the duo decided to create the 10-Minute University.

"We realized what a great public service we were providing," Becker said.

Classes begin promptly at 8:59 with an orientation. Biology follows with a one-minute capsule summary of 3.5 billion years of evolution.

From here, classes are taught at the blistering pace of a class a minute, leaving the average student a little older (by about 10 minutes) and a little wiser.

Commencement begins promptly at 9:10 and ends with a tear jerking message. "The world needs you, don't waste a second."

Following the commencement, the diploma can be cut out and presented to the new TMU graduate.

"It (a TMU education) saves a lot of money," Adelman said.

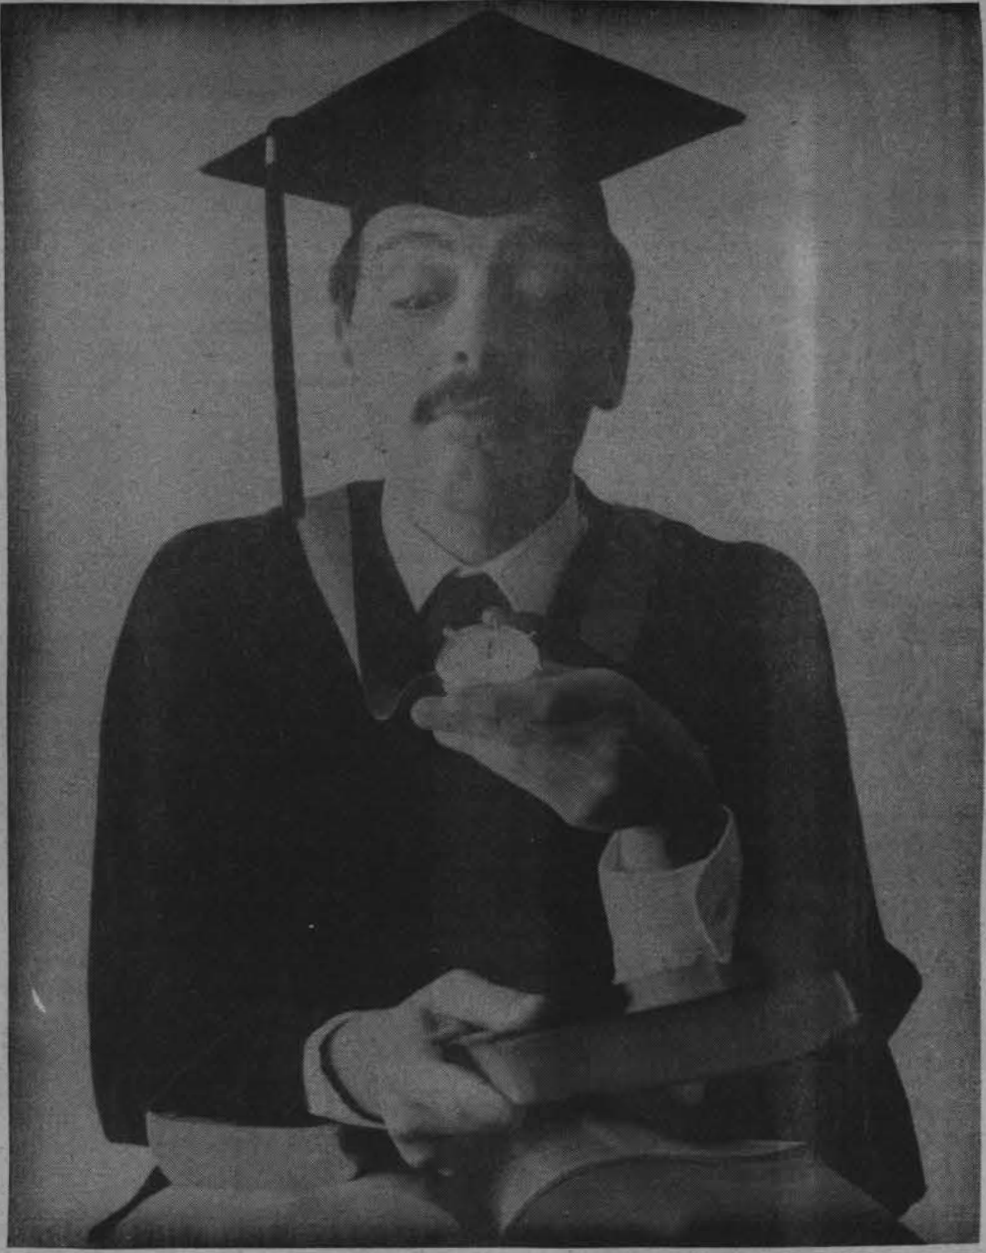

Not only do humor seekers buy the tape, Adelman said students may also purchase a copy. "Obviously someone looking to get a top-notch education" would purchase the cassette.

Would-be students of TMU need not travel far to enroll, locally the tape can be purchased at, among other places, Waldenbooks in the Cross County Mall and the Horizon Bookstore, Champaign.

Horizon Bookstore Manager Dale Tolliver admitted his supply of TMU tapes was not selling very well, and added he has heard only limited response about them.

Sales or no sales, a 10-minute bachelor's degree may only be the first step, as a 10-minute doctorate may soon be produced.

"You might have to take a couple of minutes for the thesis," Becker joked.

Time is of the essence for Professor John Moschitta who teaches one-minute educational courses on his tape, 10-Minute University. Four years of college have been condensed on this manageable 10-minute tape.

fewer design elements may also mean smaller audiences and smaller box office receipts.

"Audience size is one of the things you give up," he said. "But I think this play works well in close quarters. I've only directed one play in The Playroom."

"It's more intimate, and I think the actors need that audience-actor relationship," Blanchette added. "It's also a different design and lighting experience."

The Playroom's small size will be a different experience for the audience as well. Unlike the proscenium stage in the main theater of the fine arts center, The Playroom's thrust-type stage invites more participation than spectation from the audience.

"In The Playroom we can rearrange the audience/actor relationship."

"The audience also has a different relationship with the audience. You can look across the action on stage and see audience on the other side," he added.

"In a theater, you can only see the backs of people's heads, but (The Playroom) is a totally different kind of theater experience."

Thomas Rhett Kee (left) as Private Gareth, performs a dance to get Troy Mayfield's attention. Mayfield will play the part of S.B. O'Donnell during the performances of 'Philadelphia Here I Come' which begin Friday.

COLLEGE STUDENT INCOME.

A good part-time job that doesn't interfere with class schedules, student activities and study time is pretty tough to find in most college towns. That's why the nearby Army Reserve makes so much sense to students.

After completing Basic Training and Advanced Individual Training, you serve one weekend a month (usually two 8-hour days, so Saturday and Sunday evenings are yours). And you earn over $75 a weekend to start. You go to two weeks of annual training at full Army pay.

TALE-END

Fruit-shaped clips offer alternative for women with bouffant mishaps

By JEAN WRIGHT
Staff editor

I've always been jealous of my brothers—not just because they had better toys than me or because my parents liked them better, but because they could wear hats.

Mind you, it's not that they had heads that were superior in shape or size for sporting a chapeau, it's because they are of the male persuasion.

Don't get me wrong, I'm not saying women can't wear hats for I've seen some outlandish fedoras that would put Chiquita Banana to shame. I'm just saying that women haven't been able to don the hats which America's favorite pastime has made famous—baseball hats.

Of course, they have become acceptable for women on the baseball/softball field, but only if it's sunny enough to burn your retina out.

It's not so much that I'm hell-bent on sporting a cap, it's just that men can wear a baseball cap anytime their hair is messed up, be it from oversleeping or an encounter with a machete-wielding beautician.

But, if a woman has a bouffant mishap, she is forced to be scorned by her peers causing her to weep openly which in turn causes her mascara to run which results in still more needless jeers.

It's a vicious circle.

Perhaps I am overreacting, but look around any campus food service or the lobby of McDonald's at about 11:30 on a Saturday morning.

The first thing you will notice is that everybody is wearing sweat-pants. Then you will notice that all of the men are wearing baseball caps. This is so you will not notice their hair, which at this point in not unlike some Suddenly Salad Pasta Mix gone bad—with extra olives.

The women, on the other hand, are forced to blatantly display their dos in which small sea urchins have built permanent condos—with a pool.

These hair faux pas have generally resulted because people in college flat-out refuse to shower before American Bands-stand.

But, lucky for us women, a female counterpart to the basball hat has been invented. It's called the banana clip.

Maybe you even own one and didn't know that now you, as a woman, can wear the 29-cent piece of molded plastic, which is shaped much like a half-eaten Moon Pie.

The best thing about these fruit shaped clips is that while men must hide their matted tresses under clumsy hats, women can pull their dirty locks back into a vibrant style which results in hair that looks quite a bit like the mane of a rabid horse.

The clips may not make your brothers jealous, but they beat looking like the wayward home for sea urchins.

Clockwork Orange and 1313 scheduled to rock local bar

By MIKE O'KEEFFE
Staff writer

This weekend, Ted's Warehouse, 102 N. Sixth St., will host more live entertainment from 9:30 p.m. to 1 a.m. Friday and Saturday night.

Friday night Chicago-based 1313 will be performing and Clockwork Orange, a frequent performer at Ted's, will follow Saturday night.

From 8 p.m. to 10 p.m., there will be free admission with a coupon. After 10 p.m., the cost is $2.

1313 will be performing "hard rock but upbeat music," lead guitarist Rob Lewis said. Some of the show will contain original music and cover songs will include tunes by Bon Jovi, Journey, Rod Stewart, Thin Lizzy and The Outfield.

Other band members are Rob's brother Chuck (drums), Guy Dominic (keyboards), Tony Vincent (bass) and Moe Carrara (lead vocals).

When asked about the origin of the name 1313 Rob said: "It's from the T.V. show called the 'Munsters.' 1313 Mockingbird Lane was their address."

The band has played in Peoria with video-jockey Alan Hunter and REO Speedwagon in a concert to raise funds for Multiple Sclerosis.

In addition, the band opened for The Kind, a band also based in the Chicago area. However, the partnership was short-lived because The Kind told them to get off the stage when 1313 stole the crowd, Rob said.

"The early stages of 1313 was a heavier sound and had more guitar but now the keyboards have been added and people can dance and rock at the same time," Rob added.

The band had released single in its early stages called 'Silent

Hero" and the flip side "Nation of Strangers" which gained international attention in England, Italy, France and West Germany, to name a few countries.

"My earlier influences were Foreigner, early Loverboy, Aerosmith, Rush, UFO and Michael Schenkner, but each one of the band members has different influences," Rob said.

"My brother, Chuck listened to what I listened to, but he was into heavier music, too. So it's kind of hard to pick cover songs we all like."

"This is the first time 1313 has ever played at Ted's," Manager Rob Wilson said. "The band has currently been touring the Midwest and the East Coast, but Charleston was a town we just wanted to play because we have never been there."

Rob Lewis said: "Come open-minded, tell us if we're bad or good and have fun. We're there to have fun and provide entertainment."

The band also has a new album in the works with a scheduled release of spring 1988. Featured on the album are producer and bass player of Cheap Trick, Jon Brant, Wilson said.

Lewis added: "We also like to bring people into the show. Moe sometimes will let people sing and we do use silly string or confetti."

Clockwork Orange will be performing some originals as well as songs by Ted Nugent, Led Zepelin, Whitesnake, Triumph, Billy Idol and ZZ Top. Band members include Andy Bailer (guitar), Eddie Eselby (drums), Mike Hussler (lead singer) and Peter Bailey (bass).

The band usually performs in the central Illinois area and its music is "danceable rock 'n' roll but a little heavy," Hussler said.
