BOG gets $250,000 for project

By BOB SWINEY
 Administration editor

The Illinois Board of Higher Education approved the allocation Wednesday of a $250,000 grant to the Board of Governors to be used for marketing purposes.

"The board approved it unanimously," said Ross Hodel, IBHE spokesman. Actually, the money was appropriated to IBHE in June by the General Assembly, but "when money is appropriated to IBHE, we have the legislative authority to appropriate grant funding," Hodel said. "Our board has to approve the amount of the grant and the purpose of the grant."

The BOG, Eastern's governing board, will be using the money to fund a marketing plan for its five universities, which include Eastern, Governors State University, Chicago State University, Northeastern Illinois University and Western Illinois University.

Siegel & Gale, a marketing firm based in San Francisco, has been hired by the BOG to head the plan.

"We have spent $5 million on things that are actually marketing techniques," said Michelle Brazell, BOG spokesperson. "They (Siegel & Gale) are going to look at what we are doing now and what we can do to improve things," she said.

Brazell said the main reasoning behind the plan is focusing on the amount of money there is to work with, and getting the most out of the resources. However, "most of the plan is targeted at enrollment management," she said.

Kenneth Majer, executive vice president of Siegel & Gale, will be coordinating the marketing plan. Brazell said Majer should have a preliminary report to present to BOG by October. "We are anxious; it is going to be an interesting report," she said.

Eastern has already appointed its own committee for the marketing plan. The Eastern Illinois University Marketing Advisory Committee "is beneficial to have - it is good for the various constituencies to sit down and think about Eastern," University Relations Director Dan Thornburgh said.

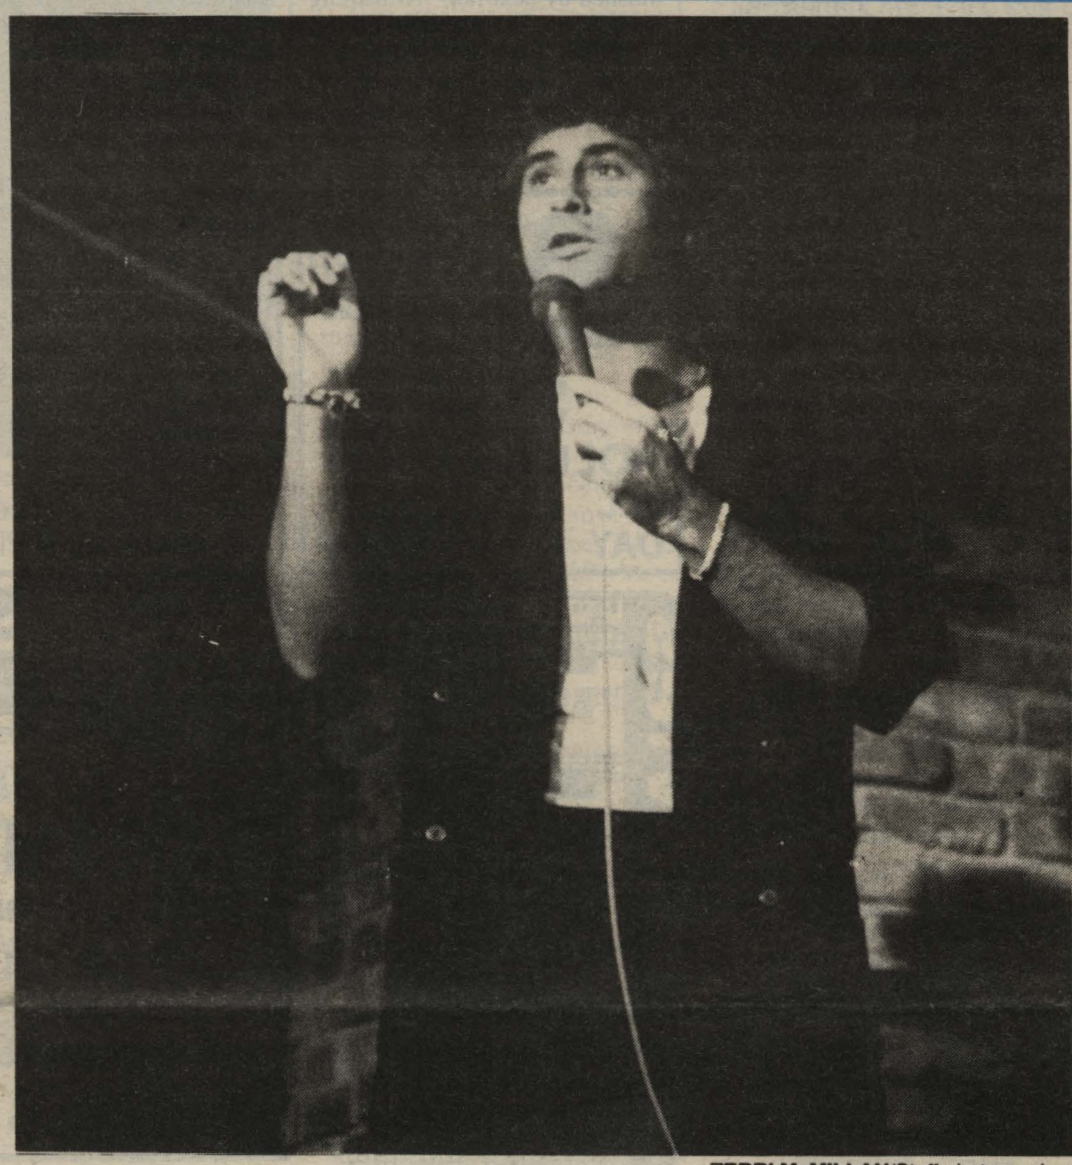

Thornburgh said Siegel & Gale will provide assistance in helping Eastern identify students, helping attract students "who will do well here."

Thornburgh said there were some marketing proposals made in the Study on Undergraduate Education report, which was completed last year, that made suggestions concerning all aspects of undergraduate education.

"We are excited about what can happen here; there are some very good things that can happen," Thornburgh said, adding that the goal for Eastern is to be a "public Ivy League institution."

Members of Eastern's committee will be meeting with Majer Monday to discuss the marketing plan.

Brazell said Siegel & Gale have a considerable amount of experience in marketing universities. The firm has helped market the University of California at Davis and Hofstra University at Hempstead, N.Y.

Eastern wins grant for repairs

By CHARLA BRAUTIGAM
 Campus editor

Several campus buildings will receive long awaited repairs soon thanks to additional funding granted through the Build Illinois program.

Each year, for the next three years, Eastern will receive $635,000 to be used toward repair and renovation of campus buildings.

"We're very glad to get it (the funding)," said Verna Armstrong, vice president of administration and finance. The funding shows the state "recognizes that we need more funds to take care of repairs and upkeep."

Buildings on the list for repairs include Booth Library, Buzzard Building, the Fine Arts Center, Klehm Hall and the Life Science Building, Armstrong said.

In the repairs, Booth Library will receive a new roof. The present roof, which is 21-years-old, leaks and has already caused damage to the building and is risking the preservation of library materials, Armstrong said.

Physical Plant Director Vic Robeson estimates the project will cost $351,000 to complete, Armstrong said.

Next on the list is the Buzzard Building auditorium. Since the building was once used as a grade school, the seats in the auditorium were designed for elementary-school-size children, Armstrong said. When repairs are done, the 456 seats will be replaced with 342 seats sized for college-aged students, Armstrong added. The seats will also have sidearms for note-taking, and carpet will be installed to aid in noise abatement Robeson estimates the project to cost $83,300.

An elevator to help handicapped students and faculty reach the second and third floors of the Fine Arts Center, will be installed outside the building by the northwest stairwell, Armstrong said.

The university is very concerned about making campus more accessible for the handicapped, Armstrong said, adding "we will continue to ask for funds for handicapped accessibility."

Robeson estimates installing the elevator will cost $108,400.

Truck gets tangled in telephone wires

By MATTHEW MAYNARD
 Senior reporter

Charleston avoided a near telecommunications disaster Wednesday afternoon when a truck became tangled in some phone lines along Lincoln Avenue.

Charleston police said an Illinois Consolidated Telephone Communications semi driven by Raymond Walton was pulling out of Hardee's, 315 Lincoln Ave., at 1:29 p.m. Wednesday afternoon when the top of the truck he was driving did not clear the telephone lines, and pulled them as well as the poles they were connected to down onto the truck. No one was hurt.

The accident blocked traffic in the right lane of Lincoln Avenue near the entrance to Hardee's for about two hours, said Willard Hall, an employee of the restaurant.

Dan Trelz, construction supervisor, headed the 15-man emergency repair crew. The problem the crew hoped to avoid was an actual sever in the line. In that event, the crew would have to splice the cable together, which is a very long process, he said. Trelz added if that was the case, "it could take some time before service is restored."

Illinois Consolidated will run a systems check Thursday to determine the extent of any damage, Trelz said.

Eastern ran no risk of losing telephone service, according to an Illinois Consolidated spokesperson.

BANJO BONANZA! A taste of the south could possibly show up in Charleston, thanks in part to a gung-ho Eastern student who wants to form a dixieland jazz band.

Yep, UNIV. heard recently that Mark Syoen, a senior speech communications major, is trying to find people who are interested in playing music - down home, dixie style.

"To join something like this would be really unique," Syoen said. "I've been playing the banjo for 10 years and (decided) to organize a dixieland jazz band (in Charleston)."

Syoen told UNIV. that he's kept track of different musicians from Illinois for eight years, including Chicago-based drummer Vern Rind and trumpet player Rick Bendell.

In addition to his faithful following of Illinois musicians, Syoen said he took banjo lessons for three years from one of the best in the banjo business, Ann McIntyre.

"She (McIntyre) is a member of a dixieland band in Chicago called 'The Banjo Buddies,'" Syoen said. "She's very successful and definitely one of the top three banjo players in Illinois."

Currently, the band consists of Syoen and his brother, Jim, a Tuba player; however, Syoen is looking for young, semi-experienced trombone, trumpet, clarinet, drum and other banjo players.

"I'd like good horn players who know how to improvise and do solos," Syoen added. Syoen also told UNIV. that if he were to form a dixieland band, he would like to perform in Eastern's homecoming parade and at tailgate parties before football games.

If his dream were to come true, Syoen added that he would also try to continue the dixieland band in the Chicago area for future gigs.

So, if you happen to play the trombone or clarinet, and would be interested in joining Syoen in some dixieland fun, call Syoen at 345-5832 for more information.

IT'S T-SHIRT TIME. . .AGAIN Last year, Eastern students were welcomed with a new item of clothing, the "Late Night at Eastern" t-shirts sporting a top 10 list of lies told at Eastern. Well, get ready for a follow-up t-shirt coming soon to an Eastern student near you.

Inventor Jeff Davis, an Eastern graduate student, will soon unleash his second shirt in as many years; however, there is a catch.

Davis told UNIV. his new Eastern garb will be available by Nov. 1 "if I sell (the remaining) shirts from last year. I probably have 60 left." His shirts sell for $10.

A UNIV. columnist asked Davis to disclose the details pertaining to his new line of clothing, but was unable to comment because "they haven't been copyrighted yet." Davis could say, however, the new shirts will be similar to last year's fabulous fad.

"My aim is to please," Davis added, when asked if he was in this business solely for a money-making venture. He mentioned he hasn't made a profit, but has only broken even from his t-shirt sales.

If anyone is interested in purchasing a "Late Night at Eastern," while supplies last, contact Davis at 348-5691.

in Klehm, Buzzard and Life Science will be upgraded. This means the removal of obsolete equipment and replacing that equipment with newer and more efficient equipment, Armstrong said.

The mechanical upgrade will cost about $92,000, Robeson said.

"We hope to have it (the work) finished by next fall," Armstrong said. However, it depends on how quickly the funds are released and how soon the architects can be hired,

Armstrong added.

Yet, Eastern is not the only university to receive the additional funding. Under the program, a total of $20 million will be made available each year and divided among the public colleges and universities in the state, said Mia Jazo, executive assistant for public affairs of the Illinois Capital Development Board.

The Illinois Capital Development Board, an agency that oversees all state construction such as prisons and state offices, allots money to universities and colleges based on campus size and the project's necessity, Jazo said.

"Each university gained a different portion," Jazo said. However, she was uncertain how much money each school will receive.

Eastern requested more than $1.5 million for renovation costs in the 1989-90 fiscal year. Since the request was not met, Eastern will "ask for it again next year," Armstrong said, in the 1990 fiscal year request.

Senate votes down using time clock for executive officers

By RUDY NOWAK
Government editor

The Student Senate voted down a by-law change that would have required senate executives to use a time clock to keep track of hours worked per month but did approve the increase in the number of hours they could work with pay from 40 to 48 hours.

"The senate is here to represent the student body, and student fees account for the pay for the executives and 49 percent of the student government budget goes to paying the executive officers," senate member Brian Moushon, who originated the by-law change, said.

Moushon added the change was not directed at any executive past or present but is a way to make sure that the money is earned.

According to Moushon, at the end of every month many of the executives filled their hours out.

"There has to be a better way. Who can remember how many hours a person worked at the beginning of the month?" Moushon added.

Heavy opposition to the by-law change concerned the fact that most executives put in more than 48 hours in a month.

"As Board of Governors representative last year I spent 36 hours off-campus representing

Moushon resigns from senate

Senate member Brian Moushon announced his resignation at the end of Wednesday night's Student Senate meeting.

While he enjoyed being on senate he said he looked forward to working on University Board.

"I wish to thank several people on senate, but I want to remind you that your main responsibility is to the students, not to organizations and not to yourself," Moushon added.

He also nominated first-year senate member John Metzger to replace him as chair for the Internal Affairs committee of senate.

and how long the executives work.

Senate Speaker Brett Gerber ruled that the by-law change was not actually a change, but a by-law by itself and ruled it invalid.

The senate also voted down a resolution concerning a University Relations board to review any material that would be printed for university use. The members voiced concern over the possibility of censorship.

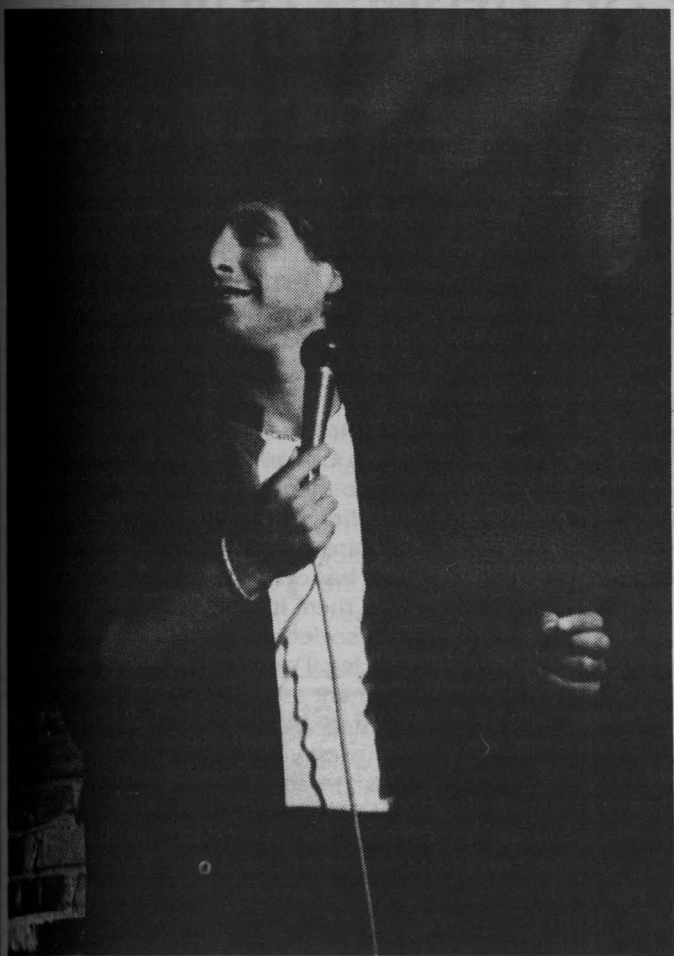

"I think any board looking over the publications is a form of censorship and I don't think senate should support this," senate member Martha Price said.

Moushon responded by saying that the resolution was written with the intent of enhancing the university. Gerber agreed with Moushon on this point.

The senate concern included last-minute publication material to promote senate-sponsored activities.

"The way senate committees operate it would be unlikely that we would have materials ready a month in advance to be looked over," Price said.

The senate resolution would have voiced the approval of the senate to the University Relations board. The senate turning down the proposal will have no effect on the outcome of the President's Council's decision.

Easy-going comedian Moss packs Rathskellar

By STEPHANIE CARNES
Staff writer

The University Board sponsored another successful event as comedian Stu Moss performed in a packed University Union Rathskellar Wednesday.

Moss gave an enthusiastic crowd of about 85 a taste of his easy-going style of comedy to a crowd so large that extra tables were needed for seating.

Moss, who appears at about 50 colleges a year, said, "my comedy is derived from everyday occurrences. It's about everyday life and growing up."

He provided the crowd with a constant barrage of jokes. "You know something fun to do while you're out shopping?" Moss asked. "Throw something in someone else's cart when they're not looking, and then watch their expression when they check out."

Moss said he would be performing with Gregory Hines Friday, and later this month will appear with Dolly Parton at Caesar's Palace in Lake Tahoe.

Video tape illustrates crime prevention tips

By CLARK CARLSON
Staff writer

A crowd of about 180 people gathered in the Carman Hall lounge Wednesday night as Campus Police Crime Prevention Officer, Mike Ealy, presented a short video tape on crime prevention in residence halls.

The presentation showed students how easily valuables in their rooms can be stolen and how to prevent thefts from occurring.

Aside from just the tape, Ealy spoke briefly on crimes that happen outside of residence halls. He said sexual assaults do happen on this campus and can be prevented if the right precautions are taken.

He suggested women not to walk on campus after the late hours (11 p.m.) if they can help it and not to walk alone.

"If women do decide to walk on campus after 11 p.m. they should walk in well lit areas," said Ealy.

Ealy will show the presentation again in Carman Hall Monday Sep. 11 at 6 and 7 p.m. and in Andrews Hall Tuesday and Wednesday at the same times.

"As far as turnouts go for these presentations, it should be a really good year," Ealy said.

Other presentations such as D.U.I. programs will be done throughout the year.

Milberg targets growth for UB

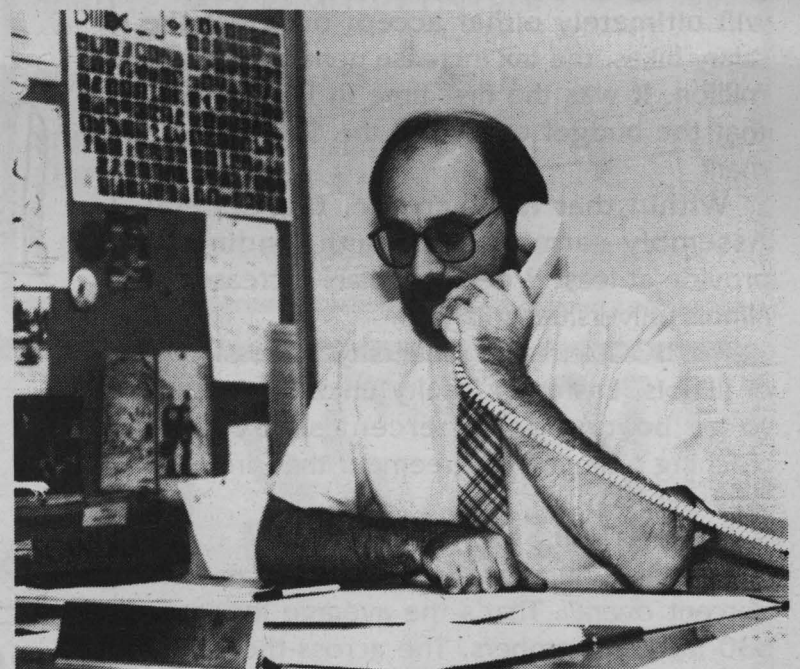

By STEPHANIE CINKE
Staff writer

In his first year as Eastern's director of student activities, David Milberg focused his efforts on expanding and strengthening the University Board.

Milberg said his initial goal was to expand UB's list of presentations and events when he joined the staff. The expansion methods included using different facilities on campus for events, booking different types of groups, simplifying the freshman orientation program, sponsoring workshops for new students and bringing back the annual Homecoming concert.

Milberg focused his efforts on helping the UB grow. "I wanted the UB to expand the types of entertainment they offered. They are off to a very good start this year and I foresee much more happening," he said.

Milberg said a new service will be provided for new students. An activities check list of student organizations will be sent to all new students for them to indicate what organizations they are interested. The lists will be collected and distributed to the organizations so they (the organizations) can get in contact with interested students. This service is scheduled to begin by the Fall 1990 semester, Milberg said.

Another idea in the works is a leadership workshop. The emerging leadership program will be targeted at incoming students. The students would be encouraged to build a base of leadership skills and to expand on them as they advance daily.

Milberg said he became the operations coordinator of the National Association of Campus Activities (NACA) this year. The NACA coordinates the regional conference for the UB.

Navy says sailor blew-up U.S.S. Iowa

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Navy has concluded that the explosion aboard the USS Iowa that killed 47 sailors last April was "probably caused by" gunner's mate Clayton Hartwig, who died in the blast, congressional sources said Wednesday.

The sources, who were briefed by Pentagon officials and who spoke on condition of anonymity, said the Navy investigation into the April 19 explosion in the battleship's No. 2 gun turret found foreign material in the immediate area of the blast.

The sources declined to specify the nature of the material.

But they said that "an unlawful and illegal act" by Hartwig, which they declined to specify, is pinpointed in the Navy's report on the explosion as the probable cause of the blast. The report is due to be released on Thursday.

The Navy was hampered in its four-month inquiry by the absence of any seamen who had survived the explosion at close quarters. But Navy sources had said in May that investigators were looking into the possibility of homicide or suicide resulting from a falling out between Hartwig and another sailor.

Members of Congress received details on the Navy investigation the day before the scheduled public release of the 1,100-page report. Navy Cmdr. Mark Baker declined to comment Wednesday night on the reports from congressional sources.

Pentagon sources have said previously that the report "cites a probability" that human action, calculated or otherwise, could have caused the explosion. The officials have also said they ruled out any specific mechanical cause for the blast.

The explosion occurred as the No. 2 gun, the middle gun of three in the second turret, was being loaded for firing practice while the battleship was near Puerto Rico.

The guns and turret were designed in the late 1930s and use powder and shells manufactured more than 40 years ago in World War II. There had been early speculation that the powder could have become unstable, but the Pentagon later discounted that theory.

Despite raise faculty pay still too low

Although Eastern's faculty members may receive an overall raise of 9.94 percent this year, they still fall far short of getting the salaries they deserve.

The Illinois General Assembly approved a temporary two-year income tax increase in July that boosted funding of education and paved the way for much-needed salary increases and program improvements.

For the Board of Governors, Eastern's governing body and whose Board of Trustees will ultimately either accept or reject the salary hikes, the tax increase generated $214 million. It was the first time in BOG history that the budget exceeded the $200 million mark.

Within that tax increase, the General Assembly earmarked enough funding to provide at least 8 percent salary increases at Illinois universities this year.

The BOG and the University Professionals of Illinois, Eastern's faculty union, managed to go beyond an 8 percent salary hike, reaching a tentative agreement that provides 9.94 percent.

But there's just one glitch.

The salary hike for Eastern faculty is 9.94 percent overall. That's the average for some 530 faculty members. The across-the-board increase, the one everyone will get, is 7.63 percent, with a .33 percent market equity adjustment.

The remainder of the 9.94 percent overall increase goes only to faculty members who earn promotions, complete their Master's and Doctorate degrees, win excellence awards and tenured faculty service awards and are at minimum pay scale levels.

Historically, the BOG has been one of the lower paying systems in Illinois higher education, with Eastern salaries averaging at $3,366 monthly based on a nine-month pay period.

With this most recent raise, provided the BOG approves it, faculty at Eastern are satisfied - at least for the meantime.

TODAY'S

QUOTE

We must have teachers - a heroine in every classroom.

Fidel Castro

There is no war on drugs, only talk

There is no war on drugs; there is hardly a scrimmage.

President Bush addressed the issue of drugs Tuesday night in his first scheduled TV appearance. What did he say? What does he always say? What does every person associated with the "drug war" ever say?

They say: It's time to get tough on drugs.

And how does the drug industry (and it is an industry, both the Colombian and Bolivian economies could collapse should the drug trade be removed) answer Bush's pleas to stop the importing and use of drugs? Both the dealers' and users' reply is always the same. They "just say no" to the president and law enforcement officials.

But the problem is that it's only talk, and as far as I'm concerned, Tuesday's address was more talk.

In true American tradition, and that's American Democrat and American Republican, President Bush intends to throw more money at the problem without reevaluating it.

First of all we must look at the drug element, or the pusher, or THE BADGUYS.

The bad guys used to be the Commies. Now it's people who use and sell drugs. I wonder who the badguy will be next.

These badguys are not your average run of the mill badguys. Unlike the Communists, drug pushers are not fighting for a political ideology. And unlike the fundamentalist zealots in the Middle East, the drug pusher doesn't mind selling his wares to Muslims, Christians or Jews. Drug pushers are equal opportunity criminals.

What motivates drug pushers - brace yourself for this startling revelation - is money. Some might even consider it their religion.

They are not guided by any constraints other than to get and stay rich. In a drug pusher's world, job advancement means murder. Job security means murder. The business of drugs is murder.

Matthew Maynard

With that in mind, President Bush's vow to continue his war on drugs is meaningless. Bush is talking a war of rhetoric. The drug cartels are talking war of blood, and they are prepared to take the war to our doorstep. If Bush is going to talk about a war on drugs and the Colombian cartels, then he better be talking about a war with guns and tanks and planes.

Let's not forget that this scourge the president speaks of and intends to eradicate is more popular than ever with the poor people in the inner cities, the suburban middle classes and the very rich.

It's been reported that marijuana (pot, reefer, hooch) is the third largest crop - not in Bolivia or Colombia - but in California. Hooray for Hollywood!

What do we do then?

Prohibition did not work in the 20s. The drug prohibition we are experiencing now will not work either. All you have to do to get a society to do something is tell them it's illegal.

So what does society do about the drug problem?

First, make it legal and eliminate a large portion of the criminal element associated with the drug trade. It could be regulated and should also make for (and I can't believe I'm saying this) safer drugs. Second, wherever drugs are sold, make available information about programs for those who wish to kick the habit.

Putting aside all hopes of ever being a Supreme Court Justice, I will say this. I have been exposed to the "drug culture," and it is a culture.

Contrary to "this is your brain on drugs" propaganda, there is a developed subculture in America who uses drugs. They are not junkies or criminals. They are responsible professionals who use drugs casually and do not bring it into the work place.

Of course drugs have ruined lives, but so has nicotine and alcohol, which is America's number one drug problem. The only difference between legal and illegal drugs is legal drugs are government sanctioned and illegal drugs are not. One is already too firmly established in our economy and culture to be removed, kind of like cocaine in Colombia.

Matthew Maynard is a senior reporter and a regular columnist for The Daily Eastern News.

Your turn

Hutson's column makes no point

Dear Editor:

I am writing in response to a column written by Wendell Hutson entitled "Sex, Drugs and the American Justice System," in the Aug. 31 edition of The Daily Eastern News.

For starters, I am quite unsure as to the point of Hutson's argument. It is hard to tell whether he is trying to get prostitution legalized, or whether he wants to publicly complain that his sexual desires are not satisfied by his girlfriend (if he has one).

I also cannot see Hutson's reasoning behind the statement "...but she's a saint if she has an abortion." Since when does abortion constitute canonization? I can understand feeling empathy for an individual who has to go through the traumatization of an abortion, but to praise someone for destroying the product of an illicit act is ludicrous.

And last, but not least, I am outraged by Hutson's assumption that girlfriends are not much different than prostitutes. His statement "...and even then there's no guarantee that you'll get ANYTHING." Who ever said that Hutson DESERVED anything?

Just because he takes a woman out, it does not mean that she owes him anything except her company, unless it is clearly stated that dinner, the movies and dancing are payment for sex.

If all you want from a woman is sex, I suggest that you go to one of those prostitutes you are so adamant about legalizing. At least that way, the women who are not prostitutes are not shown disrespect by one less man.

Christopher Thelsen

Student victimized by Hutson column

Dear Editor:

On Aug. 31 I was an innocent victim of your newspaper. I was sitting in the cafeteria eating my breakfast and leafing through The Daily Eastern News.

Then it happened. As I turned to page four, I was struck by a sight that sent a chill through me like a cold dagger. A face that I had spent my summer trying to forget was there once more. Yes, I was staring face to face with Wendell Hutson.

In this column, Hutson informs that the difference between a girlfriend and a prostitute is only "slim." In fact, he suggests that paying a prostitute is a better deal because, "With a prostitute your chances of getting what you pay for are greater than with a girl-friend."

I think one of the main problems with your column is that you do not have a clue of what it is you are trying to say. First you tell us that we should legalize prostitution. Then you tell us about the risk of AIDS and how prostitutes have rights.

Wendell, can I ask you what world you are living in? I ask because surely nobody could have such a disillusioned view of the same world in which I live.

A special day is rapidly approaching for many Central Illinois residents and more volunteers are needed to make the day even more special.

The Illinois Consolidated Telephone Co. is sponsoring its 11th annual Special Olympics Family Festival Saturday at Lakeland College in Mattoon and would still use more volunteers to spend the day with a Special Olympian, said Carol Carter, coordinator of the event.

The Friends for a Day (the volunteers) "are really important," Carter said. "That's where we really need help. And if a volunteer isn't sure of what they are doing then they can pair up (with another volunteer) for one Olympian."

Carter said volunteers need to be at least 16-years-old and be willing to spend the entire day at the event.

The event, which begins at 11 a.m., is designed to bring together Special Olympians from around Central Illinois to enjoy a day of fun with each other and their families. The volunteers are each assigned to a participant and spend the day with that person, going to the games, rides, shows and other activities, said Carter.

Carter said the festival offers a variety of events, starting with the opening ceremonies and a parade. Carnival-type games will be set up, and clowns, juggling acts and magic tricks will fill a "big top tent." The Olympians can also watch a dog and pony show and go on camel rides.

Last year's event attracted 685 participants and 870 have already signed up for this festival, said Nancy Purdy, public relations coordinator for ICTC. All of the participants must belong to a Special Olympic program to take part in the events, she said.

Purdy said although the primary sponsor is ICTC, other businesses and organizations throughout the area have provided much-needed supplies and equipment to the event, including t-shirts, hats, food, refreshments and other valuable supplies, Purdy said.

The festival isn't open to the general public, but admission is free to all the participants, their family members and volunteers. Purdy said all the activities and refreshments are free, as well as the items such as t-shirts.

Anyone interested in volunteering for the festival can call (217) 235-SOFF or show up at 8 a.m. Saturday to be assigned to one of the Olympians.

Bars get OK to finish specials

By CARL WALK
Staff writer

Although a law banning happy hours in bars throughout Illinois went into effect immediately after the governor signed it, Charleston bar owners will be allowed to finish any advertised specials which the law now bans.

Charleston Mayor Wayne Lanman said that if bar owners have already advertised drink specials or happy hours, the enforcement of the legislation will not be immediate.

Gov. Jim Thompson signed the bill one week ago that amended the Liquor Control Act of 1934 and ultimately prohibited "happy hours" in Illinois.

"The city will enforce the legislation next week at its own discretion," Lanman said. "There could be some consequences."

At Tuesday's City Council meeting, City Attorney Brian Bower presented the new legislation and requested that a copy be made available for the bar owners.

"The text of this statute is not in the public domain," Bower said.

The new legislation not only banned happy hours, but also discouraged selling an unlimited amount of drinks to a person at a fixed price within a certain time period.

Reducing prices as part of a promotion to encourage alcohol consumption was banned, as was increasing the size of a drink without proportionately increasing the price on that particular day. Games and contests awarding drinks as prizes or advertising these games also were prohibited under the law.

Bars found in violation of the new legislation or the remaining provisions of the Liquor Control Act are subject to suspension or revocation of the bar owners' liquor license.

Lanman said he has been in contact with many Charleston bar owners in an effort to deal with future liquor control problems. He has plans to meet with every bar owner, and has already received input on how to handle problems, but nothing has been settled, he said.

U.S. evacuates Beirut embassy

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — The U.S. ambassador and his last 29 American staff members were forced out of Lebanon on Wednesday by Christians, including about 1,000 massed outside the embassy, who claim the United States supports Syria.

Two helicopters landed at the compound about 7:30 a.m. and a third hovered overhead, apparently providing cover, while the 30 Americans were evacuated, a witness said.

It is the first time an American ambassador has been pulled from Lebanon since the sectarian civil war began 14 years ago, and the move at least temporarily ended the American diplomatic presence in the country.

State Department spokeswoman Margaret Tutwiler blamed the Christian army commander, Gen. Michel Aoun, for the move, saying he threatened to expose U.S. Ambassador John McCarthy and his staff to a "good dose of Christian terrorism." She said that before the evacuation, an unidentified telephone caller had threatened to shoot down the U.S. helicopter that brought supplies to the embassy and that an unidentified protest leader said people in the embassy entered and left "at their own risk." The Americans will return when "conditions permit," Tutwiler said.

On arrival at the U.S. military's Rhine-Main Air Base outside Frankfurt, a weary McCarthy told reporters Wednesday night that "as soon as those questions of security and safety can be resolved ... it would be important for us to resume the work that we were doing in Beirut." McCarthy and his staff flew in on a U.S. Air Force C-130 transport plane from Cyprus.

Bush tells critics to stop 'carping'

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Bush said Wednesday that skeptics of his $7.9 billion drug war were just "carping" and should "stop criticizing for partisan reasons." Democrats, meanwhile, said the government would have to raise more revenue to mount an all-out fight against illegal drugs but conceded it would be impossible to enact a tax increase for that purpose as long as Bush opposes it.

Rep. Dan Rostenkowski, D-Ill., chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, said, "Unless the president supports the tax increases that will be necessary to fight this war, the drug dealers are going to win." House Speaker Thomas Foley, D-Wash., said, "Without the administration's support, the idea of raising taxes is futile." Bush emphatically rejected the notion of higher taxes. "Every time you make a proposal," he said, "you have somebody jump up and say, 'Raise taxes.' I am not in a mode to raise taxes."

GREAT JOB!

A summer in Mexico: Students learn in a cultural experience

By KAREN MEDINA
Staff writer

Fue una experiencia increíble y educacional! Three Eastern students along with a Eastern alumnus had an "incredible" experience in Mexico this summer working at two hotels while enhancing their Spanish fluency.

Suzan Konopacki and Mary Feichtinger, both junior Spanish majors, worked as receptionists in a five-star hotel in Tuxtla Gutierrez, in the southern tip of Mexico.

Susan Paul, senior Spanish major, and Susan Blackford, an Eastern alumnus teaching in the Decatur area, worked at a hotel in San Cristobal de las Casas. The two women also taught English at a local school.

Richard Crome, assistant professor of Spanish, arranged the experiences through personal contacts at the hotel. "It was an arrangement that I have made with the management of the two hotels in Mexico.

Three years ago, the management asked me if I had any students who would come in the summer to teach English to hotel employees."

Since then, Crome has sent one student to Mexico each year - until this summer, that is.

The main purpose of the experience was to enhance the student's Spanish fluency. "They're put into a situation where they have to learn the language because many of their co-workers do not know any English," Crome said. "They are in a situation where communication is very important."

As a result of her summer in Mexico, Paul said, "I can hold a broad conversation." She added that she understands the language much better also.

"All four of them dramatically increased their language skills. I saw a great advancement," Crome said.

Simply speaking a language doesn't make a person understand it, Crome said. "The experience is also culturally enriching. A hotel has a lot of different opportunities for meeting the people of that country."

"I was motivated by the people and their generosity," Feichtinger said. "They always put others before themselves.

"I felt accepted by the people and by their culture. I also learned a lot about myself and the important things in life," such as family and togetherness, Feichtinger added.

Konopacki agreed saying that the Spanish's social values were quite strong. She said one surprising belief to her was the many people who felt their soul was being taken if they had their picture taken.

"Texts teach you only so much about culture," Konopacki said. "You can learn words from texts, but you can't learn the way of life and the way they think. You can't say it's wrong; it's just different."

"Living in another country opens your eyes. You realize how lucky you are to live in such a wealthy country compared to third world poverty," Paul said.

The trip was totally funded by the students. The total cost was around $1,000 including airfare. The hotels provided room and board in exchange for the students' work as receptionists, Crome said.

Mary Feichtinger and Suzan Konopacki

The students did not get university credit for the trip so it really is more of an experience than a program at this time, Crome said.

Crome said he hopes to make this a university supported program in the future, but much more research and planning needs to take place first.

He said he recommends the experience to any Spanish student, "who is really interested in improving language skills and observing foreign cultures first hand."

Crome does, however, screen the students very carefully to be sure they are right for the trip. He also talks to the parents.

The three women said the experience was quite worthwhile and educational, saying they've learned a lot about culture as well as greatly improved their language skills.

"I am more motivated to reading, writing and speaking Spanish," Paul said. "I listen to Spanish radio and all Spanish music because I don't want to lose what I learned."

CAA to discuss math revision

By BOB SWINEY
Administration editor

The Council on Academic Affairs will continue its discussion on a revision of MAT 1000, diagnostic math, at 2 p.m. Thursday in the Union addition Tuscicola/Tuscola Room.

Due to a lack of quorum last week no votes could be taken, so the focus of this week's meeting will be MAT 1000. "It has been suggested that it (MAT 1000) be treated the same way as ENG 1000," said CAA Chair Jerry Weidner. When students take ENG 1000, fundamental English, the grade counts toward credit but does not count toward graduation.

Weidner said MAT 1000 does not currently count toward credit. But if the proposal is passed, it will be treated the same as ENG 1000.

There also is a proposal to revise the grade repeat policy. Currently, unless a student notifies the records office and requests the higher grade, both grades are calculated in the student's grade point average.

"The proposal says if a student repeats a course, he or she will automatically get the higher grade," Weidner said.

CAA also will discuss the foreign language section of the Study on Undergraduate Education. Weidner did not say if a foreign language course will be a general education requirement or not, but it has been "one of the most controversial parts of the study CAA has discussed so far."

The SUE report was completed last fall by a committee formed by Eastern President Stan Rives. The Illinois Board of Higher Education asked that all schools study their undergraduate program and suggest improvements.

Sorority reports theft and damages

About $310 worth of stolen items and damages was done to the Phi Sigma Sigma Sorority house at 1703 S. Ninth St., Sunday morning, police reported.

A screen was removed from a basement window and someone reached in and took four picture books valued at $273, and 15 pledge certificates valued at $10. About $25 worth of damage to the window and screen also was reported to police.

One of the five sorority members who stayed at the house over the Labor Day weekend reported to police that members heard a noise and later a car pulled out of the alley by the house.

An Eastern student reported someone scratched about $1,200 worth of damage into his car while it was parked in the Arby's lot at 310 Lincoln Ave., late Saturday or early Sunday.

Todd Sheppard parked his car in the lot while he worked at Jerry's Pizza and Pub, next to Arby's. When he returned to his car about 1 a.m. Sunday, the car had been scratched along the left side, trunk and right rear quarter panel, according to police.

Another Eastern student reported someone broke the passenger-side window of her car while it was parked at the Walmart store on Lincoln Avenue where she is employed.

About $100 worth of damage was done to Angela Stuckmeyer's car between 12:30 p.m. and 6:40 p.m. Sunday, police reported.

Eastern student William Devine, 18, was stopped by police for theft under $300. Devine allegedly took a street sign valued at $10. The incident occurred about midnight Wednesday at Ninth and Cleveland streets, police reported.

Psychiatric unit treats Satanism

CHICAGO (AP) - Psychiatrists and psychologists at Hartgrove Hospital bristled Wednesday at being called modern-day exorcists, but they are setting up one of the nation's first treatment programs to wean teenagers away from Satanism.

"In no way are we comparable to the old exorcists," said Dr. Michael Weiss, an adolescent psychologist at the North Side hospital, which plans to begin offering the program this month.

"The kids who will be admitted will be here primarily because of their behavioral and emotional problems. No one will be hospitalized for strange beliefs or unusual values that we would disagree with," Weiss said Wednesday.

"I don't think there is any doubt Satanism is a growing problem," said social worker Dale Trahan, who has been researching Satanic beliefs for three years and was contracted to organize the program for Hartgrove's new Center for the Treatment of Ritualistic Deviance.

"We don't know the percentages because so much is secretive, but we do know ... it is beginning to show up throughout the country," Trahan said.

Boykin, Noll to fill for Mills

By DAVID BRUMMER
Staff writer

Eastern coach Bob Spoo says George Boykin and John Noll will replace Jeff Mills at starting inside linebacker Saturday when Eastern hosts Northwestern Louisiana.

Mills will serve as best man at his brother's wedding in Topeka, Kan., this weekend and will be unable to play Saturday, forcing Spoo to go without last week's Gateway Conference defensive Player of the Week.

"Noll and Boykin, they both do a good job," said Spoo. "If no one gets injured, I think that we'll be OK."

Mills' brother, J.B., had scheduled the wedding around one of two byes in Eastern's schedule more than six months ago. At the time it didn't seem as conflicting, according to Spoo, who said his program was on the verge of filling the Nov. 4 gap in its schedule.

But, an agreement with

Northwestern Louisiana to play this Saturday materialized at the same time, so the conflict in schedules was inevitable, said Spoo, who would have preferred that his all-conference linebacker play.

"I have made that suggestion (playing) on a number of occasions," Spoo said. "... Nevertheless, it's over."

Boykin, a 6-1, 225-pound senior out of Chicago Vocational High School, had three tackles in a substitute role at Austin Peay. Noll, 5-11, 205 pounds from Naperville North High School, is returning from off-season knee surgery after he was sidelined from the final three games last season because of the knee injury. Noll also had three tackles off the bench last Saturday.

The absence of Mills in the middle of Eastern's defense puts the pressure on Boykin, Noll and the rest of the defense to handle a multi-faceted Northwestern Louisiana offense, featuring the option and the pass.

"I think that anytime a starter is out of there for whatever reason, it is tough on the team," Spoo said. "But it takes more than one man to play defense."

"We do have great confidence in our backups to come in and do the job. Of course, you'd like to be coming in full strength against a team like Northwestern."

Regardless of who coach Spoo plays, he said that it will take a more disciplined effort from his defense if they hope to control Northwestern Louisiana the way they did Austin Peay.

"We won't be able to key on one player," Spoo said. "We'll have to cover the quarterback, we'll have to watch the dive and we'll have to watch the pitch. It's much more disciplined."

"Plus they do so much more other than the option. The biggest thing we have to do is control the option game."

Giamatti rests with Yale presidents

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — A. Bartlett Giamatti, major league baseball commissioner and former Yale president, was buried today in Grove Street Cemetery, traditional burial site for presidents of the Ivy League school.

At least 50 relatives and friends attended a graveside service for Giamatti, who died Friday after suffering a heart attack at his summer home on Martha's Vineyard in Massachusetts.

Family and friends arrived about 11 a.m. at the cemetery.

Admittance was guarded closely by Yale University security and New Haven city police.

Giamatti is survived by his wife, Toni, and three children, Marcus Bartlett, Paul Edward Valentine and Elena Walton Giamatti.

The cemetery is surrounded by 8-foot high sandstone walls and a metal fence spans the entrance.

Among those arriving at the cemetery were Yale President Benno C. Schmidt Jr. and New Haven Mayor Biaggio DeLiato.

The family had requested the funeral be closed to the public.

Details of the service were closely guarded.

Arrangements for a public memorial service for Giamatti remain incomplete, Yale University officials said.

Yale officials said Tuesday they did not know how soon an announcement would be made on the time and date of the memorial service.

Giamatti served as president of Yale from 1978 to June 1986 before becoming president of baseball's National League.

Graf tops Sukova at U.S. Open

NEW YORK (AP) — Steffi Graf continued her domination of Helena Sukova Wednesday with a 6-1, 6-1 romp that moved the defending champion into the semifinals of the U.S. Open.

It was the top-seeded Graf's 11th consecutive victory over Sukova, who was seeded eighth. The match lasted just 44 minutes.

"I was pushing too hard and missing easy balls," Sukova said.

"I would prepare a point for myself and then it would go out or in the net. I think that if I were able to put at least half of those points into the court, than it would give her more problems than it did," Sukova said she tried for perfect shots. "It puts so much pressure on your serve to do that," she said. "I was pushing it too much to be a perfect shot." Graf, who has lost just 14 games in sweeping through five opponents at the Open, has noticed other players using the same "perfect shot" strategy against her.

"Sometimes, if I play like this, they have to," she said. "You have to take the risks and just go for it. Unless I play to where I make many mistakes, they'll find out and try to keep the ball in play. They know what to do, I think."

Baltimore's Ripken recognized for durability

BALTIMORE (AP) - Cal Ripken is moving to be an iron man with a golden glove.

The Baltimore shortstop entered Wednesday night's game against Cleveland having played in 1,227 consecutive games.

On Tuesday night, Ripken became the first shortstop in major-league history to hit 20 or more homers in eight consecutive seasons.

"My 20th homer? I'm still not sure what that means," Ripken said. "They say, 'Shortstop with 20 home runs.' You can't put the game into defense and offense. When you come up to bat you're just a hitter." Ripken entered the season alongside Hall of Famer Ernie Banks as the only two shortstops ever to surpass 20 home runs in seven consecutive seasons. Banks' streak came to an end in 1962 because he was called to first base.

"Shortstops and second basemen used to be like guys who played good defense and batted the double play," Ripken said. "The game has changed and now you get offense from every position. I'm sure in the future there will be a shortstop who hits more home runs than I do." Ripken also became the first player to hit 20 or more home runs in each of the last eight seasons. Boston's Dwight Evans, Detroit's Fred Lynn, Atlanta's Dale Murphy and St. Louis' Tom Brunansky - all outfielders - hit 20 or more in each of the last seven seasons.

Evans has 17 homers this season.

The all-time record for consecutive games played is 2,130 held by Lou Gehrig of the New York Yankees. Ripken needs six full seasons to surpass a record that most experts consider unbreakable.

"I don't even think about that," Ripken said. "We're in a pennant race and right now I'm just taking it one game at a time." Ripken already holds a consecutive-inning streak, although unofficial.

From June 5, 1982, until Sept. 14, 1987, Ripken played in 8,243 consecutive innings.

Ripken's record-breaking home run was a line drive to left-center field that Indians center fielder Brad Komminsk caught above the wall before tumbling over the fence at the 387-foot sign. Komminsk had the ball as he fell over the seven-foot fence, but it came loose when he landed on a metal tarpolin holder.

Arendsen named new head softball coach

By JEFF SMITH
Associate sports editor

Softball star Kathy Arendsen once struck out ex-major-league slugger Reggie Jackson. Now, she's Eastern's new softball coach.

Arendsen was named head coach of the Lady Panthers Wednesday, replacing four-year Eastern coach Janet Marquis, who resigned in July to take a position with the Girl Scouts of America.

Arendsen signed a 10-month contract lasting the duration of the school year, Athletic Director Mike Ryan said. Ryan would not reveal Arendsen's salary.

The 30-year-old Arendsen carries a formidable list of credentials. She was three-time college softball player of the year from 1978-80 at Chico (Calif.) State, three-time Amateur Softball Association player of the year, and holds a 295-24 career record for the Stratford (Conn.) Hi-Ho Brakettes, the 1986 International Softball Federation world champions. She is also a Spalding sports advisory staff representative.

"I love coaching. That's my goal now," said Arendsen, a Northwestern assistant coach from 1984-87. The Wildcats finished fifth, seventh and ninth in Division I during her stay.

A former head coach at Western Connecticut State (18-10 in one season), Arendsen said she also grew eager to be her own boss. "I get to be the person who is making the decisions," she said. "Being an assistant, you always think, 'Why didn't we do this?'"

"For me, just making those decisions is what I'm looking for."

Her handling of the three-sophomore pitching staff will be most scrutinized.

"I want to build on the skills they've got," she said. "We'll

Players show approval for new coach

If pitcher Martha Wendt's and outfielder Michelle Warren's reactions are any indication, Eastern's softball team and new coach Kathy Arendsen should make for an enthusiastic pairing.

"She's very enthusiastic," said Warren, who, along with Chelle Maynard and Rosie Dirks, represented the team in interviewing Arendsen on Monday. "She told us she wanted to be a head coach."

During the Monday interview, the players and Arendsen discussed various topics, from pitching to coaching to her stint at Northwestern, Warren said.

Wendt, the Lady Panthers' winningest pitcher in 1989 (eight victories), said she's excited about the prospect of Arendsen working with her. "She's a top-notch pitcher," Wendt said. "She'll help me work to gain speed on my pitches, maybe learn another pitch."

Although Arendsen has no Division I head coaching experience, Wendt said Arendsen's vast playing experience will benefit her even more. "She's played a lot, which I think is better experience than coaching," she said.

-Jeff Smith

work on developing different pitches ... and repetition is a key."

As for how long she plans to make coaching decisions at Eastern, she's uncertain. "I definitely see myself here indefinitely, for more than a year," Arendsen said.

Arendsen held practice

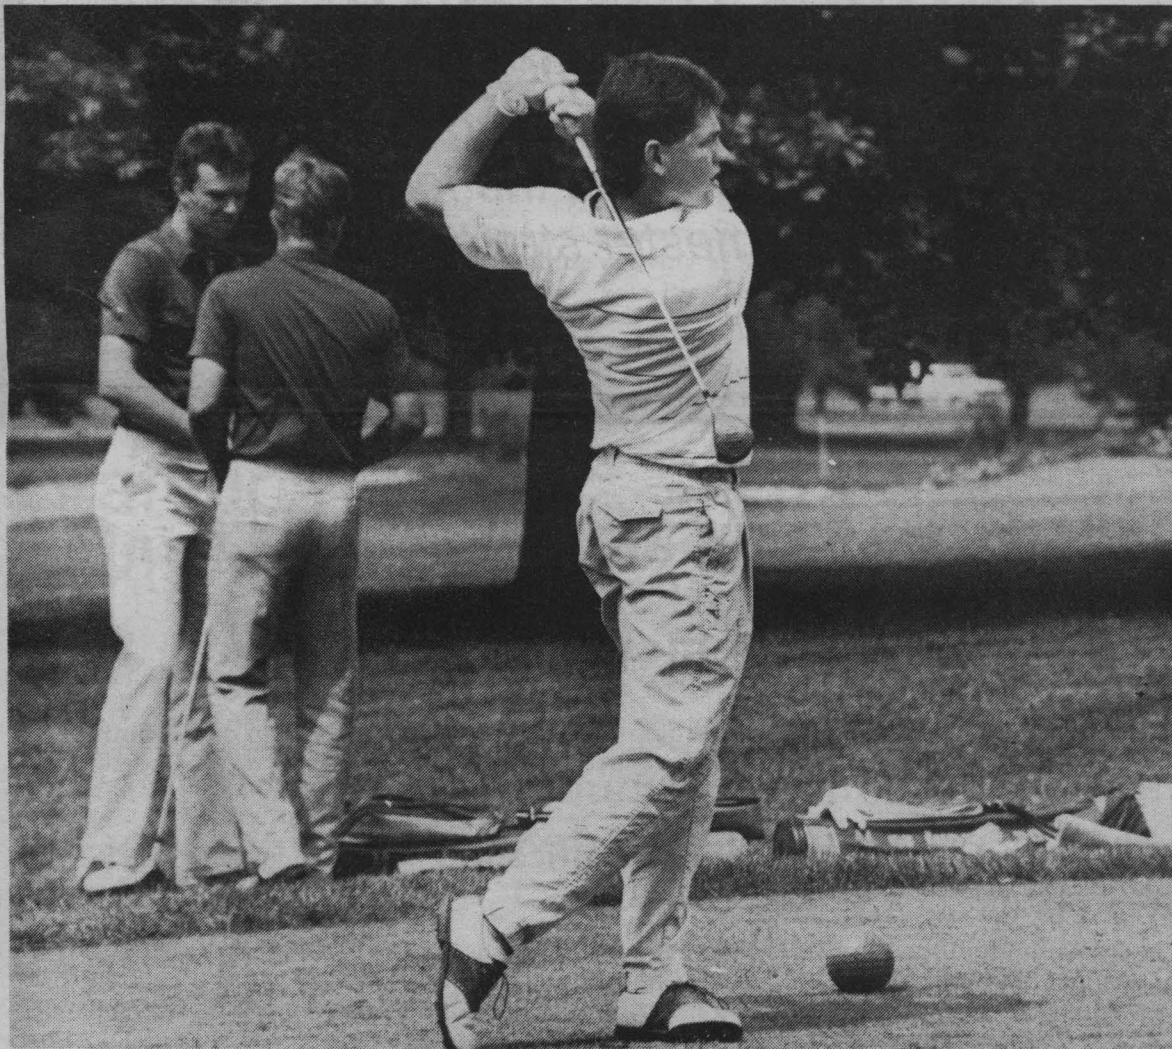

Wednesday with the eight returning players and three recruits to get acquainted and prepare for the fall season-opener this Wednesday against Indiana State.

Judging from the small roster, her first priority is simple: find more players. "We need to find some walk-ons to fill out the team," she said.

Starting with Wednesday practice, Arendsen will work on molding the Lady Panthers for the spring campaign via the fall exhibition season.

"We'll be an aggressive team. We want to create the situation," she said.

Carl Hubbell struck out Ruth, Gehrig, Fox and Cronin. Nolan Ryan rang up Rickey Henderson for No. 5,000. And Kathy Arendsen fanned Reggie Jackson.

Eastern's new softball coach faced the ex-baseball slugger in 1981, thanks in large part to that year's 52-day strike.

"It was on ABC's Wide World of Sports. They were covering the 1981 Olympic Festival in Syracuse (where Arendsen was playing softball) during the strike," Arendsen said. "ABC was looking for anything to cover because of the strike."

The network then approached Arendsen with an idea, and "They filmed a 'Day in my life' in Connecticut, which was boring," Arendsen joked.

Soon after, ABC came up with a more appealing concept - Arendsen versus Jackson. "Reggie was available," she said. "They billed it as a man versus woman thing, which I didn't like," because she didn't like comparisons between baseball and softball players.

Kathy Arendsen

In the matchup, Arendsen she had the upper hand because Jackson had never seen a softball pitch thrown only in softball.

So, naturally, Arendsen took the rise - again, and again, and again. Arendsen also employed a popular baseball pitcher's tactic to get an edge in the confrontation: a well-placed fastball under the chin. The result: chin music.

As Jackson whiffs piled up, he grew increasingly frustrated. "I didn't enjoy striking out. It's very competitive," she noted.

Eastern to be tested against Northwestern Louisiana

By AL LAGATTOLLA
Staff writer

Ranked No. 8 in the NCAA Div. I-AA preseason poll, Northwestern Louisiana looks to be the first true test for Eastern's football squad.

The Demons beat Boise State 22-13 in the first round of last season's playoffs before falling to the University of Idaho by a 38-30 count, which eliminated Northwestern from competition.

Now, with a potent offense led by quarterback Scott Stoker, Northwestern Louisiana will be looking to rebound from a 20-10 loss at Southwest Missouri State Saturday.

Stoker is in fourth place on the Demon's all-time passing list, directly behind New Orleans Saints standout Bobby Hebert.

"He's a good play-action passer," said Eastern coach Bob Spoo, who has reason to be concerned. "He's a good catalyst, he makes a lot of things happen."

But Demon coach Sam Goodwin said he is concerned about his quarterback, who Goodwin said is "pretty banged up."

Goodwin said that Stoker suffered a bruise on his throwing shoulder before the Southwest Missouri game that may have affected his performance, in which he completed 16 of 26 passes for 196 yards.

"It's still bothering him," Goodwin said. "He played well, but got harassed pretty good. He did a good job of not making the bad play, but didn't make the big play that we're used to him making."

Goodwin said he was impressed by the Southwest Missouri offense, which gobbled up the giant share of the possession time Saturday.

"They just kept the ball on us," Goodwin said. "Their offense did a good job of controlling the ball. When we got the ball, we got overly excited when we needed to be patient."

Goodwin said he was not necessarily looking forward to playing another Gateway Conference squad.

"Maybe we'll be a little better prepared this week, although I thought that Southwest Missouri just played a good game and flat out whipped us," Goodwin said. "Playing another team in the conference and having to travel even a longer distance is definitely no advantage for us."

Goodwin is hoping that starting tailback Kenneth DeWitt will return from an injury that kept him out of the Southwest Missouri game.

"He practiced a bit (Tuesday)," Goodwin said. "He did show progress."

If DeWitt is unable to play, Goodwin said he will likely turn to James McKellum, who gained 61 yards on seven carries last Saturday.

Goodwin also said that free safety Steve Compton and Rob Floyd are "banged up pretty bad."

Although the Demons reached the second round of the I-AA playoffs a season ago, they have only 10 starters returning from last season.

"We're a different ball club," Goodwin said. "We're really hurting up front on the offensive end; we're missing a lot of good football players."

Missing those offensive players will be the Demons, as Goodwin said that he thought Eastern's defense looked pretty good.

"I was really impressed with Jurkovic, Darryl Holcombe and that tailback (Tim Lance), they really had some big-time hits," Goodwin said. "And the kicking game did a great job of blocking punts and setting up coverage."

Quick start for cohesive Panthers

Since the beginning of spring practice last April, Eastern football coach Bob Spoo has talked a lot about things like "togetherness" and "team unity."

And now, five months later and with a victory under his belt, Spoo hopes that off-season programs developed specifically to help tie his team closer together are paying off.

"We've come full circle in team togetherness," said Spoo, who's team claimed a 36-0 season opening victory at Austin Peay last Saturday and goes for 2-0 in the home-opener 6:30 p.m. Saturday.

"One of our goals coming in two years ago was to have a thing called cohesiveness and it takes awhile to be achieved."

Spoo implemented a special weight program and used integrated housing - much like the Cincinnati Bengals did in 1988 - to develop a team unity Spoo hopes will provide the difference between a winning season and a pair of 5-6 ho-hummers Spoo's encountered in his first two seasons.

"Our kids have worked very hard in the off-season and have

The big picture is unclear for Eastern grid squad

Welcome to the big picture, where hope springs eternal, losing is a reality, and Bob Spoo's sports jacket actually cracks a camera lens on the set of Panther Country.

The big picture can be a frightful world, where if you don't have ESPN, you have the choice of watching NewsCan sports deftly handle Arcola junior high volleyball scores or a thing called Sports Machine, hosted by a guy with the same name as the former lead singer of a group called Wham!

It is also a world where a football team can open the season with a 36-0 win, but still be unproven.

And that's how the big picture looks for Eastern, which opened its season at Austin Peay - a team they demolished last year 44-0 - and rolled again.

David Brummer

So what do we know?

- Eastern finished 5-6 last year, after an inspiring start.
- Austin Peay, although somewhat improved, is still the same helpless little football team they were a year ago.
- Eastern could be a heck of a football team this year, but we just won't know until they play more competitive and experienced teams.

In the big picture, Eastern certainly could have done worse than a 36-point shutout at Clarksville.

Jamie Jones dipped and darted through Austin Peay's defense like a bass lure in heavy cover. Eric Arnold was throwing the football - sometimes accurately and sometimes not. But he was throwing the football.

And the defense - led by a secondary that stuck to opposing receivers as annoyingly as five-year-old duct tape, gave the Governors only one chance at a score: a missed 30-yard field goal attempt. The down linemen and linebackers made the big plays and made Austin Peay quarterback Kerry Severson jingle like pocket change.

But it was only Austin Peay - a school in a town with more strip joints than even Wendell Hutson could fathom.

Even Spoo found faults in Eastern's performance against the Governors. "We've got to get better," he said after the game, with a big picture perspective. "We've didn't execute all the time. We had too many mental mistakes and penalties."

If Eastern were to beat nationally ranked Northwestern Louisiana Saturday - or even play them tough - then one could start talking about how good Eastern might be this season. But even that wouldn't secure an improvement over consecutive 5-6 seasons, which is what it will take to satisfy the big picture.

Youthful spikers peer into Gateway ball

Team setting sights on league slate

By JEFF SMITH
Associate sports editor

Eastern's youthful women's volleyball team has set a rather conservative goal for pre-league action: give the freshmen ample playing time. But, when they enter the Gateway Conference race, head coach Betty Ralston says the Lady Panthers will be aiming somewhat higher.

"Our goal is to be in the top four (of the conference). We'd be ecstatic to finish in the top four," seventh-year coach Ralston said. The first four finishers in the Gateway qualify for the league's postseason tournament and a chance to go to the NCAA Tournament.

The teams Eastern (2-1) will contend with in the Gateway are Illinois State and Southwest Missouri - as usual, Ralston said.

"Illinois State and Southwest Missouri should be 1-2 again. They have been the past few years," she said. "They've had the programs that've been established the longest.

"I don't see ISU and Southwest Missouri not making it unless they have major injuries or problems."

Another team to watch is last weekend's EIU Coors/Coors Light Classic champion, Indiana State. "I think Indiana State will surprise people," Ralston said.

In the meantime, Eastern is tackling an arduous non-conference slate. The Lady Panthers currently are in Fullerton, Calif. to play in the JMN Collegiate Premiere Tournament Thursday through Saturday. "It'll be our toughest tournament of the year," she said.

Four Pacific-10 teams and two Big Ten squads are entered in the 16-team field. "We're tickled to death to be in it because it's an invitational tournament. Teams must be invited to play in it," Ralston noted. "It's one of the few big tourneys in the country."

least five matches in the tourney, and open the first round at 3 p.m. Thursday against Washington State and at 9:30 p.m. versus host Fullerton State. Eastern is ranked third in its pool, and Washington State first.

There are four pools of four teams apiece in the tourney, with the top two finishers in each pool advancing to the championship bracket. The other eight teams continue play in the consolation bracket.

Eastern's goal in the tourney? "We'd like to make the championship bracket," Ralston said.

Ironically, the Lady Panthers' loss to Indiana State, its first in the three-year run of the EIU Coors/Coors Light Classic, could benefit the team in the Fullerton State tourney, Ralston said. "It's probably better we go 2-1. For the freshmen, they know how a loss feels, and don't like it," she pointed out.

The loss did nothing to diminish the spirit of Ralston's youngest team to date, she said. "We've got a loose, good bunch of kids," she said.

Part of the reason for the Lady Panthers' attitude is the leadership undertaken by senior co-captains Donna Sicher and Ann Ruef and junior Deanna Lund, Ralston said. "The three of them played a strong tourney, and showed a lot of leadership," she said.

Ruef, a middle hitter, was named tournament MVP and Gateway Player of the Week for her stellar three-match performance (44 kills, .378 attack percentage, 19 blocks). "Ann played very well this weekend," Ralston said.

Among Ruef's weekend feats was a career-best 24 kills and 10 blocks against Miami of Ohio.

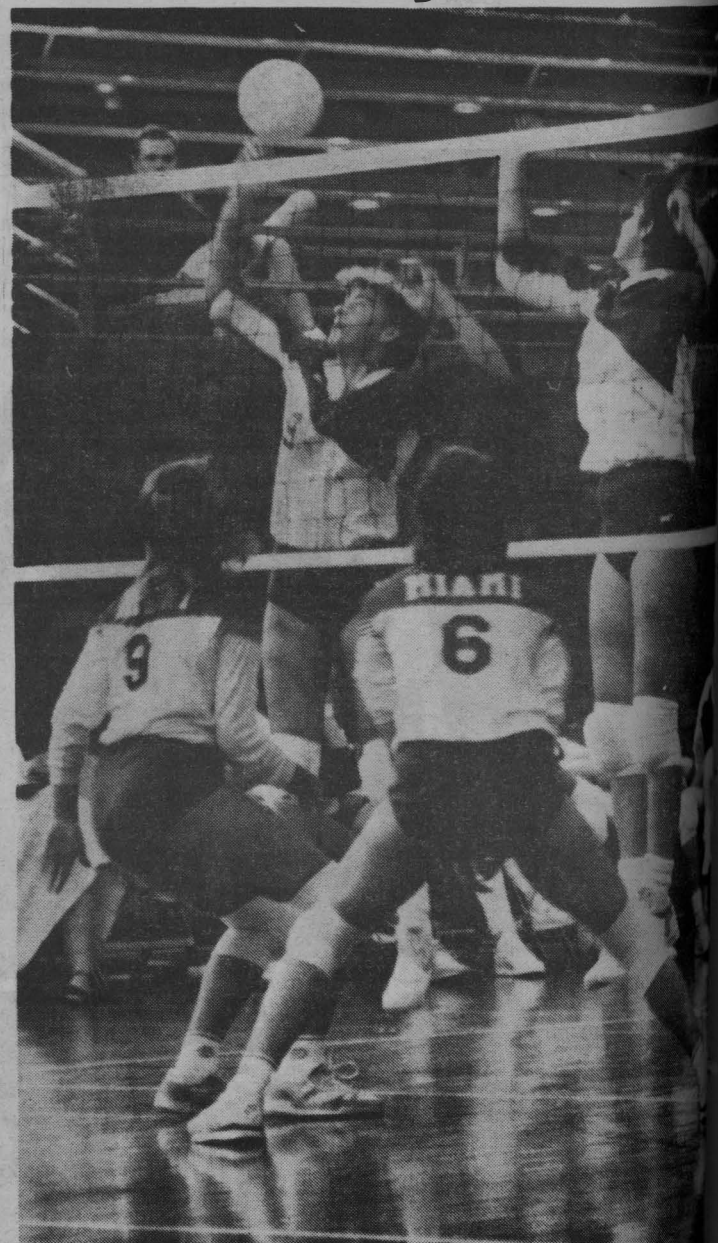

Sicher compiled 122 assists in the tourney, a statistic far too often overlooked, Ralston said. "The setter doesn't always get the recognition she deserves," she said.

Outside hitters Lund and freshman starter Susie Green both supplied the Lady Panthers with much-needed offensive punch, Ralston said. Lund made 35 kills and 44 digs, while Green had 33 kills and 19 kills, and added another dimension to the offense, Ralston said. "Susie is quick, she moves really well," she said. "She gives us spark on the outside."

The other newcomers, especially middle hitters Lori Olson and Beth Foster, will see more action in California, Ralston said.

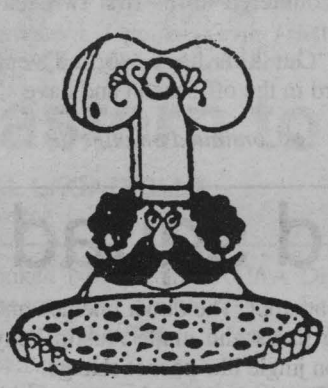

On the downside, Eastern lost two games last weekend because of shoddy returns-of-service, Ralston said. "In 12 games, we gave away two games because we couldn't receive aces," she said.

Soccer squad to build on togetherness

By JERRY SOLBERG

The members of this year's Eastern soccer team share a common goal as well as a close camaraderie.

With an attitude throughout the team of high expectations and seeing that all team members are close friends, the Panthers say they feel that they have an added boost entering the fall season.

"We have a real close-knit group of guys in this team," said senior forward Garry Laidlaw. "We all care for each other a lot." Junior goaltender Mike Barclay even calls the squad, "one big family," and added, "it's like having 20 brothers out there on the field."

Last season, the Panther family finished with a decent 10-6-3 mark but coach Cizo Moznia says that this year's squad can improve upon that record.

"We are a little better than we were a year ago," says Moznia. "I expect to see a better season from this year's team."

Eastern's conference record of a year ago, 4-0-1, tied the Panthers for first place in the Association of Mid-Century Universities. This season, the Panthers don't want to share.

"We should do really good this year," said senior fullback Greg Muhr. "If we fall short of our goals, we will all be disappointed."

Moznia also said that this year's squad had already found its leaders in its three captains, junior midfielder LeBaron Holliman, Laidlaw and Muhr.

"I think the leadership roles are already there on this team," said Moznia.

A good place to witness the Panthers' strengths would be at the goalkeeper position where Barclay dominated the net a year ago. He earned AMCU honorable mention laurels after allowing 1.55 goals a game and also recording 85 saves in 15 games.

As for offensive power, opponents should look no further than Laidlaw, who was AMCU Player of the Year last season - scoring 10 goals and recording nine assists in 18 games. He also was an all-America candidate last season, and second team all-Midwest for the last two years.

"I think he is going to be one of the top players in the country," Moznia said of Laidlaw.

Other strong offensive producers for Eastern are senior midfielder David Kompare and Holliman.

Kompare is a three-time all-AMCU player for the Panthers and was also named to the Adidas scholar-athlete all-American team last year. Holliman was an all-AMCU performer, tying for seventh in the league in scoring with seven goals and four assists.

Helping out Barclay on the defensive end of the field will be Muhr, who has been a three-year captain for Eastern and a reliable defenseman.

After winning their home opener last Sunday 2-1 over Wisconsin-Green Bay, the Panthers also play their next two contests at Lakeside Field. However, Moznia points out that his squad was just 3-4 at home last year.

"Last year we had a problem at home," said Moznia. "If this problem continues this year, we are in trouble."

In order for the team to meet its goal of reaching the NCAA Division I tournament for the first time in Eastern history, Moznia said that his younger players need to contribute.

"Right now we need to get new faces starting to come through for us," said Moznia, who witnessed freshman George Janovich knock in the winning goal in the Wisconsin-Green Bay contest.

Triefenbach called on to lead Eastern golfers

By CHRIS BOGHOSSIAN
Staff writer

Last season's conference player of the year Kevin Triefenbach will be counted on to lead an inexperienced group of Eastern golfers this season, but coach Paul Lueken is confident in the junior captain's abilities.

"Kevin is our main strength," Lueken said. "He's a tremendous competitor and is very team-oriented. He's proved he is a great golfer and a great, great person. I wish I had 10 other Kevins on the team."

One of only three returning Panthers, Triefenbach got off to a quick start Tuesday by finishing fourth individually in Eastern's fall invitational tournament at the Mattoon Country Club.

"I hope we have a better finish in the conference tournament as a team," said Triefenbach, who won last season's Association of Mid-Continent Universities tournament title. "Winning it (the player of the year) would be nice. I hope to have a good season. As long as the team does well, I'll be happy."

Junior Jeff Thomas and sophomore Kevin Murray are the squad's other two veterans, and are joined by senior Dale Carlson, juniors Tom Chester, Chad Gann, John Hamilton and Jeff Schutter, and freshman T.J. Carroll.

Murray, a sophomore, was on Eastern's squad last season but did not compete. However, his round of 76 on Tuesday signaled that there may be good things to come for this group of Panthers.

"I'm very excited about this team," Lueken said. "I was pleased with tryouts. We had good competition and the players worked hard for their spots."

team finish, Lueken said he was encouraged about the season's prospects.

"We have a long way to go, but we'll get there," Lueken said. "We need to be more consistent. Each individual needs to work on specific things."

Lueken said he has two long-range goals for his squad: to win the conference tournament and for Triefenbach to repeat as player of the year.

AMCU newcomers Northern Illinois and Akron should make the conference race tighter this year, Lueken said.

"They both have solid programs and will have an immediate impact in the conference,"

Lueken said.

Eastern's next match takes Panthers to the University of Indianapolis' Prestwick Country Club Monday.

"(Indianapolis) is a veteran team with everyone from last year back," Lueken said of the squad that won Eastern's season-opening tourney.

Alexander wants maturity from Lady Panthers

By AL LAGATTOLLA
Staff writer

Eastern's women's tennis coach Grant Alexander is expecting much of the same effort that he received last spring from a squad that finished 8-10 and took ninth in the Gateway Conference meet.

But Alexander said he also expects his squad to mature to a higher mark after a year of experience.

"I want to finish above .500, I think that's a reasonable goal," Alexander said. "We're going to have to work a lot harder as far as time put in."

A season ago, Alexander referred to the trio of freshmen Dawn Brannon, Jill Bachochin and Missy Holste as 'young hellion,' but now a year later, they have become 'older hellions.'

But with last year's standout Angel Hoffek lost to graduation, Alexander will be trying to account for a major part of the Lady Panthers' victories, one way he will attempt fill the hole is with senior Sheila Marcial, returning from a year of academic ineligibility.

"I'm glad she's back, she's going to help fill in where Angel was," Alexander said.

Alexander has separated the team into three units, the first segment containing sophomores Holste and Bachochin, the second with sophomore Brannon, seniors Marcial and Sue Cottingham, junior Lori Neate and junior transfer Cheryl Piszczek and the third group consisting of the Lady Panthers' lone freshman Shelbi Scott and sophomore Kara Zickert.

At the moment, Alexander said that Holste would be his No. 1 player, with Bachochin playing at No. 2 singles.

"I count on those two as leaders on the court, they will give 110 percent all the time, they never quit," Alexander said. "And Cheryl's a kid of the same way, willing to do whatever it takes."

Piszczek will battle Neate and Cottingham for the No. 5 and 6 singles positions, while Brannon will hold the No. 3 singles spot and Marcial is expected to hold singles position No. 4.

Holste and Neate are expected to hold the top doubles spot with Bachochin and Cottingham taking the No. 2 position and Brannon and Piszczek taking the No. 3 spot.

"We're going to need everything we can get and every break we can get," Alexander said. "With our schedule and with the talent that is available at other schools, that's the reason to get beat, but that's a reason they have more talent available."

Alexander said he is expecting the Gateway Conference to be tougher this season, and the Lady Panthers will face conference adversaries Indiana State, Bradley, Southern Illinois and Southwest Missouri State during the fall season.

"A lot of it will depend upon the attitude the team is taking," Alexander said. "Nothing is going to be easy, they must be willing to work hard."

Men netters feature new personnel

By MICHELLE BALLARD
Staff Writer

Eastern men's tennis coach John Bennett is hoping a crop of fresh faces can help turn things around for the Panthers, who finished 4-12 last spring.

"We've got a lot of new faces out on the team this year," Bennett said. "Most of our players are students who were here last year, but decided to come out for the team this year."

The squad's nucleus, however, will be returning top seed Jay Meyer, who also held the No. 1 spot last spring for the Panthers.

"Our goal will be to break even at .500. As long as we can keep improving, we could reach our goal. We don't want to have excuses for ourselves."

Eastern's No. 2 seed will be senior Bob Myrvold, while sophomore Dan Beres will be playing in the No. 3 slot. Fourth seed will be junior Mike Patrick, fifth seed will be sophomore Brad Ifner and sixth seed will be held by senior Eric Selsad.

Bennett said he is expecting to pick up at least two new players second semester, which may give the team a different outlook.

"Our expectations for the season are to have a positive attitude," Bennett said. "We won't concern ourselves about our record, we'll be playing mainly scholarship teams."

Lady harriers rely on youth, hard work

By ANN TASTAD
Staff writer

The best way to describe this year's women's cross country team is with one simple word - young.

"We are a very young team, but they're a good bunch of gals," Craft said. "They are very hard working and they have a good time working together."

Last Saturday, the Lady Panthers participated in their first meet of the season when they hosted Southern Illinois and Murray State. Southern won the meet with 23 points while Murray State finished second with 45 points. Eastern placed third in the three-team meet with 70 points.

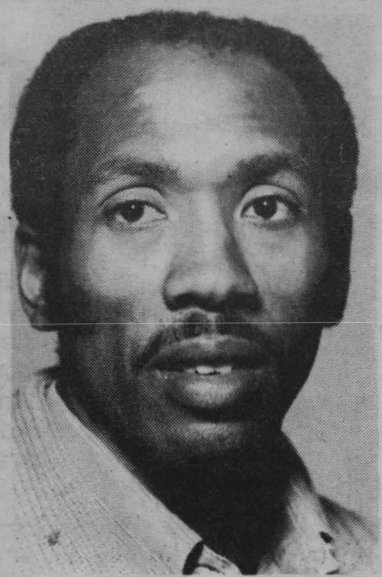

Stefanie Stump was Eastern's top finisher in seventh place with a time of 20:15 over the 3.1-mile course. Freshman T.J. Rhudy finished in ninth place with a time of 20:21 to highlight Eastern performances.

The squad, however, ran without the help of No. 1 runner Laurie Mizener, who twisted a knee while turning a corner during the race and was unable to finish.

"I was optimistic at first because Laurie was in fourth and Steffie and T.J. were running well," Craft said. "The rest didn't run well at all and they need to improve considerably."

The team will next travel to Peoria to participate in the Bradley Invitational on Friday. Craft said he expects about 20 teams to run in Peoria and hopes to have Mizener back by then.

"The trainer looked at Laurie's knee and thought she might be able to run for us on Friday," added Craft.

John Craft

The Lady Panthers are led by senior Connie Bierman and Mizener who has been the team's top runner for the past two years.

Also returning from last year's team are sophomores Kathy Glynn and Stump. Stump, who was hampered with leg injuries last year, looks to be back on track according to Craft.

"Stefanie looks pretty good. She ran over the summer and her legs are healthy again and I'm real excited about that," Craft added.

Freshmen who will be adding strength to the team are Diana Unes, Rhudy, Linda Ryan, and Rachel Tarr.

Another freshman, Candice Tennell, has been sidelined with a foot injury. Tennell won last year's state Class AA high school 1,600 run and Craft said he was looking for her to make an immediate contribution.

The team goal for this season is to finish in the top five in the Gateway Conference race.

"Our conference really doesn't have a dominant team every year," said Craft. "It's hard to say how any one team will do because it changes from year to year. But I think our chances of finishing among the top five are very good."

The long run

Akers, men's cross country squad point to AMCU crown

By MARTIN TULLY
Staff writer

Eastern men's cross-country coach Tom Akers says this season's squad is the best he has coached at Eastern.

That's good, seventh-year coach Akers adds, because he wants the Panthers to win the Association of Mid-Continent Universities championship to go with Eastern's indoor and outdoor track titles won last year.

"Our goal is set at conference champions," said Akers.

Eastern begins its road to that goal at 4 p.m. on Saturday when it hosts Panther alumni behind O'Brien Stadium.

"Basically, our regular routine is what we are working on - a stronger aerobic base," Akers said of practices.

Akers said his key runners are veterans Shannon Hough and John Wells, who was Eastern's MVP for both the 1986 and 1987 seasons. Both Hough and Wells were red-shirted last year.

"We held out a lot of distance runners," Eastern head track coach Neil Moore said. "Everybody's been running in road races this summer, and we'll be much improved."

Although Wells is currently hampered by injury, Akers said he expects the senior to be ready to run in three weeks.

Another reason Akers said he believes his team is the best has a lot to do with transfer Derrick Eaton, who originally attended Southwestern Michigan.

After sitting out last year because of eligibility reasons, Eaton's tough running ability should key his Panther performance, Akers said.

Akers said he is also looking forward to seeing twin brothers Jim and Ron Fagan run. Another pair of transfers, the Fagan twins didn't run cross country in junior college.

That minor technicality, however, doesn't bother Akers, who terms their running style as being extremely powerful.

"They're hammers. I have to tell them to take it easy," said Akers.

In 1988, Eastern's cross country team finished fifth in the AMCU.

"Our kids are tired of getting kicked around," Moore said. "This season we'll be a sleeper; we're going to surprise some people."

With increased grant-in-aid scholarships in recent years, Moore said Eastern's recruiting focus for cross country has shifted exclusively to distance runners.

"Before, we didn't have a lot of 10,000-meter specialty runners," Moore said. "Instead, we had to get middle distance runners who could do a number of things for both cross country and track."

Jones heads ground attack

By AL LAGATTOLLA

Eastern's sophomore tailback Jamie Jones may be small.

At 5-6, 155 pounds, the Panthers' leading ball carrier may not be ready to level any defensive linemen in the near future.

In fact, if he does get leveled by a 250-pound plus linebacker, Jones may feel it for the remainder of the season.

But the defenders have to catch him first.

"I took a few (hits, in Eastern's opener last Saturday at Austin Peay), but I tried not to allow the defense to get a clean shot," Jones said. "I try not to take too many hits."

Jones ran track at West Paducah Heath high school in Kevil, Ky., and not surprisingly, was a sprinter.

Jones has faced the size problem since his high school years. Since then he said he has heard about how he is too small to last a season.

"People have underestimated me because of my size," Jones said. "But I just go out and play my hardest."

Jones has earned some respect from his teammates, who have watched him emerge as the starting tailback.

"Jamie's strong," said freshman running back Broc Montgomery. "He looks small, but he's a tough little back."

Jones said that he has been working on his strength since high school.

"I worked out about three times a week," Jones said.

And now the work appears to be paying off for Jones, but the soft-spoken tailback refuses to take all the credit for his 88-yard rushing performance at Austin Peay.

"When we went back and looked at the film, we saw some holes that are not what we're used to seeing," Jones said. "Usually, I'll be running through some small holes, but these holes were big."

Jones gained 121 yards on the ground all of last season, but did gain 467 yards on kickoff returns, a segment of the game where he is still listed as the starter.

But Jones didn't get a chance to return too many kickoffs last Saturday, when Austin Peay only kicked off to start the second half.

Jones also said he will not return as many punts as he did as a freshman.

"The coaches just thought that I'd be a little tired on punt returns," Jones said. "After the game Saturday, I think that I was (tired)."

But as a tailback, Jones was the man the Panthers went to, as offensive coordinator Eric Holm noted that Jones will be Eastern's bread-and-butter man if he can avoid injury.

That will likely mean that defenses will begin to key on Jones, a situation by which he said he was affected in the season opener.

"I kind of felt it at the end of the half," Jones said. "I think that the defense will start to key, especially because of our style; we try to establish the run."

But with the emergence of freshman tailback Edson Castillo, Jones will probably feel less of the heat.

"It's going to be a big help to have him come along," Jones said. "He's young, but he has talent."

Strong freshman class set to contribute

By DAVID BRUMMER

Jason Caldwell has a dream.

It's about kicking the game-winning field goal in the Division I-AA championship game with only seconds remaining on the clock. He says he dreams about it all the time.

"I live for that stuff," said Eastern's freshman placekicker. "I like that decisive stuff."

For now, Caldwell will settle for a job as Eastern's designated kick-off man, conceding all other placekicking duties to junior college transfer Ray D'Alesio.

But, he and Eastern's 22 other freshmen — a recruiting class full of quality skill-position players — will continue to aspire championships, while learning the ropes of college football.

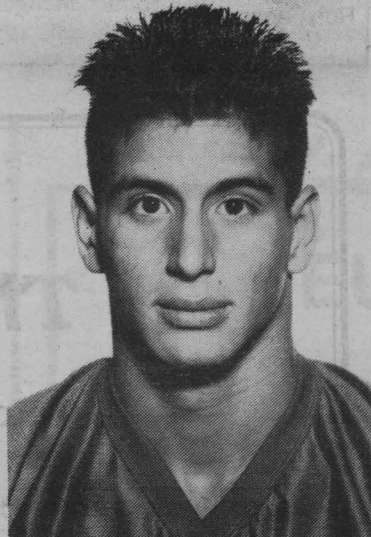

"Coming in as a freshman, all I knew is that I was going to be nervous," said back-up tailback Edson Castillo, who rushed for 82 yards in the second half against Austin Peay.

Castillo, 5-10, 180 pounds from Streamwood, is one of three prize running backs in the freshman class, including Broc Montgomery, a powerful back who also played against Austin Peay, and Lewis Striggles, a flyer whose advancement has been offset by injuries.

Add to that other promising talents like quarterback Kip Hennelly, last year's Chicago Sun-Times High School Athlete of the Year, defensive back Eric Dircks and linebackers Derrick Lane and Warren Cushingberry — just to name a few — and you've got the nucleus college coaches dream of.

"Only time will tell," Eastern coach Bob Spoo said of his freshmen. "The potential is there. But this was a different class in the sense that we went for a lot of skill position players."

"There's a very talented group of wide receivers. Some of the other positions are strong too."

There's a good bunch of defensive backs there."

Spoo's intention was to redshirt as many of his new recruits as possible — a luxury that affords coaches to better acclimate his new players to the college atmosphere and game.

But because of an injury to fullback John Sengstock, Montgomery and Castillo to name just two were given the opportunity to play as true freshmen. Those two and other freshmen are getting the chance to contribute their first year.

"The running here (college) is more north and south," said Castillo, who received initial interest from some Big 10 schools before they told him he was too small. "Everybody's fast in college. I'm still learning. I've got a long way to go."

Hennelly is listed as the No. 2 quarterback on Eastern's depth chart, but it's no secret that the only way he'll not be redshirted and play this season is if starting quarterback Eric Arnold is seriously injured.

"I really don't care what they (coaches) do," said Hennelly, 6-1, 190 pounds. "Redshirting would give me another year of experience."

Wide receivers Terrence Hickman (5-6, 160) and Mike Rummell (5-9, 150) have also benefited from injuries to other players. With junior flanker John Metzger sidelined for at least four weeks with a broken collar bone and junior college transfer speedster Willie Ashford still rehabilitating his hamstring, Hickman and Rummell have found some playing time as backups to Rahn Stewart and Jason Cook.

"We were counting on (Ashford) for this season," Spoo said. "But (Hickman and Rummell) are going to have to forget their redshirt year because we really need some help (at wide receiver)."

Defensively, Spoo is fortunate that there are plenty of seniors and other veterans to take up spots there. With any luck, he'll be able to redshirt players like Dircks, Cushingberry and Demetrius Lane (not related).

"(The freshmen) are what we had anticipated and expected," Spoo said. "They're exactly the guys we thought they would be. I'm sure in time they will develop into good players and I anticipate they are going to make that move."

"This is a potentially talented group. It all depends on being able to keep them eligible and in the classroom."

Spoo says cohesiveness will be key an enthusiastic outlook," said Spoo, who's team is considered a contender in the Gateway Conference, despite being picked fourth in the preseason conference poll. "I think we have people who are willing to get the job done."

There are defenders who have been getting the job done for quite some time at Eastern, including all-American tackle

John Jurkovic, highly publicized strong safety Daryl Holcombe, all-conference linebacker Jeff Mills and four-year starting cornerback R.L. Reynolds.

"This (defense), in terms of up and down the line, could be the best I've ever coached," defensive coordinator John Smith said. "I coached some good ones at Western Illinois. Some of those were ranked in the top 15 defenses in the country."

But it will take a consistently solid offense to complement the defense's full potential.

Quarterback Eric Arnold, returning after three separate off-season knee surgeries, was 11-25 passing for 143 yards in the season-opener. And although he played just more than half the game, it will take similar efforts from the Pekin junior if Eastern is to win this year.

Jamie Jones, considered small by some observers, played a big role in the Austin Peay victory. Jones rushed for 85 yards on carries, dispelling for the moment any doubts about his abilities.

Still, Eastern's coach isn't about to pronounce anything about the development of his team.

"On paper, there are some experienced players. But we're a long way from going anywhere."

Big man of O'Brien

Jurkovic set for big senior campaign

By AL LAGATTOLLA
Staff writer

Eastern's all-America defensive tackle John Jurkovic isn't about to let one game get him too excited.

After all, Eastern's 36-0 rout of Austin Peay last Saturday was expected by most after the 44-0 drubbing the Panthers gave the Governors here a season ago.

"It was a confidence builder for the team; not only guys who started but the subs who got in got a substantial amount of time," Jurkovic said. "But Austin Peay is not the toughest team we're going to face - we shut them out last year, too."

Jurkovic, 6-2, 270 pounds, said the Panthers will not relax.

"Sure we're happier than hell," Jurkovic said. "But last year we started out 3-0 and ended up 5-6, that means we were 2-6 at the end of last year."

Although Jurkovic has collected many accolades over his years at Eastern, he has no disillusionment about what happens when he's not in the game, as evidenced by reserve lineman Dan Dee's stellar play at Austin Peay, where Dee collected two sacks.

"When I go, they'll just be replacing me," said Jurkovic, last year's Gateway Defensive Player of the Year, who has collected 21 sacks during his career at Eastern thus far. "I'm just another cog in the system. We've got some depth."

Although he recorded just one tackle in last Saturday's game, Jurkovic contributed in other ways that don't always show up in the stat box.

Jurkovic stands tall.

"After the ball game, I didn't think that I played too well, but after I saw the film I realized that it was not as bad a game as I thought it was," Jurkovic said.

Now the Panthers will have to set their sights on Northwestern Louisiana, a team that reached the NCAA I-AA quarterfinals a season ago.

"It's the first home game of the year, so hopefully we'll get 10-12,000 people out for the game (at O'Brien Stadium)," Jurkovic said.

The Demons lost Saturday to Gateway Conference favorite Southwest Missouri State by a 20-10 count, but still managed to move the ball against the Bears.

"Northwest Louisiana gained 344 yards against them (Southwest Missouri State)," Jurkovic said. "So it's not like (Southwest) totally shut them down to the point that they couldn't move the ball."

So when the Panthers play the Demons on Saturday, Jurkovic will not count on Gateway dominance alone.

"You can compare, but there are always certain points in the ballgame. For instance, in last week's game, their quarterback fumbles, we score a touchdown and add a field goal and we're up 17-0 at the half," Jurkovic said. "So I think they're going to come out with fire in their eyes because they lost."

Jurkovic, a business education major, said that one dangerous factor in the game is the fact that Northwestern Louisiana runs the option as its main offensive feature.

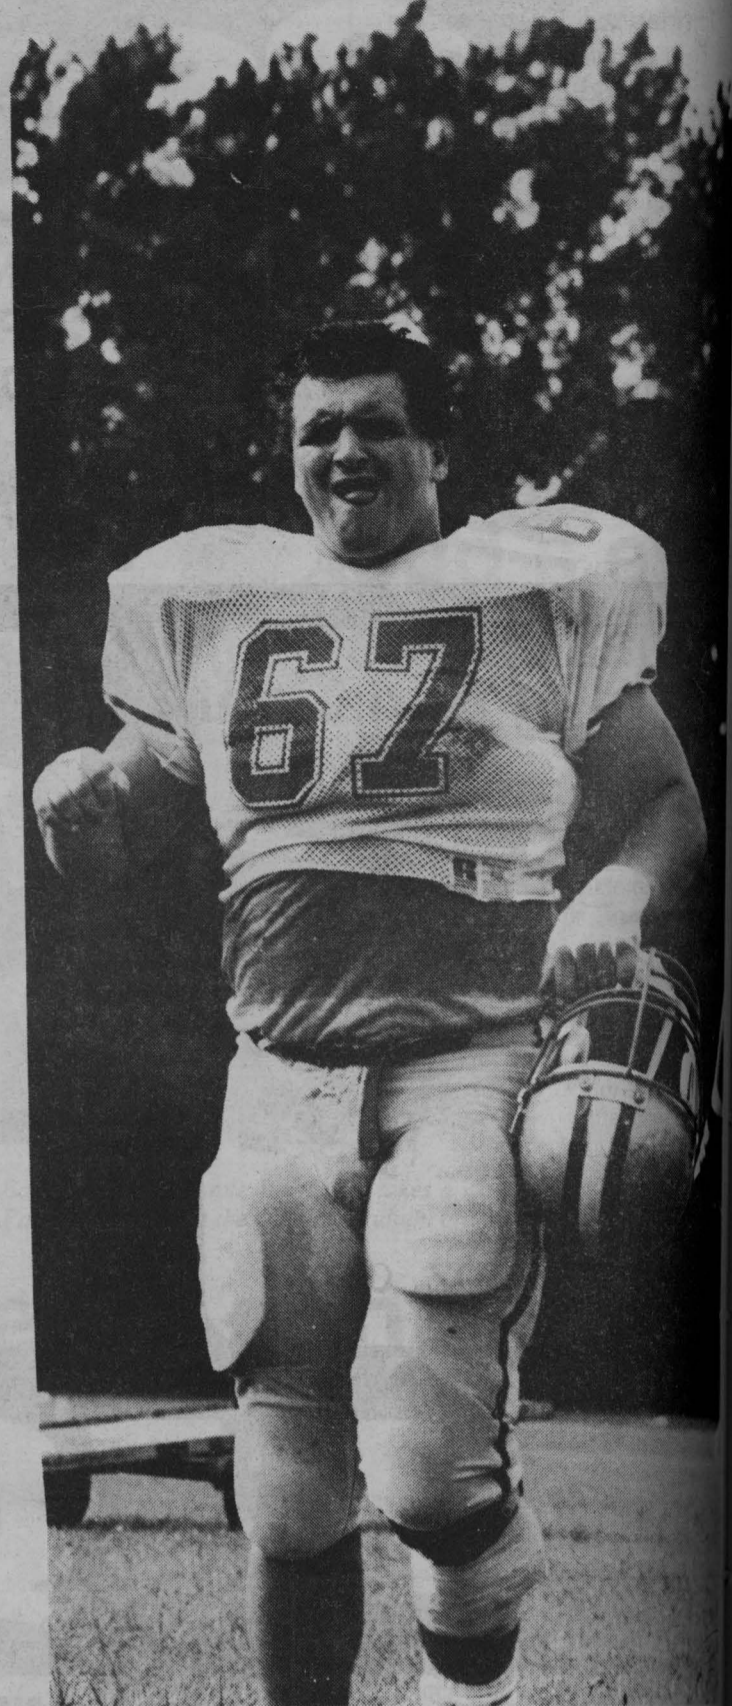

"Our goal will be trying to stop their option by forcing them to pass," Jurkovic said. "They are a great running ballclub, they are a far better running team than a passing team."

Such talking about an upcoming opponent pleased Jurkovic, who had tired of the preseason anticipation.

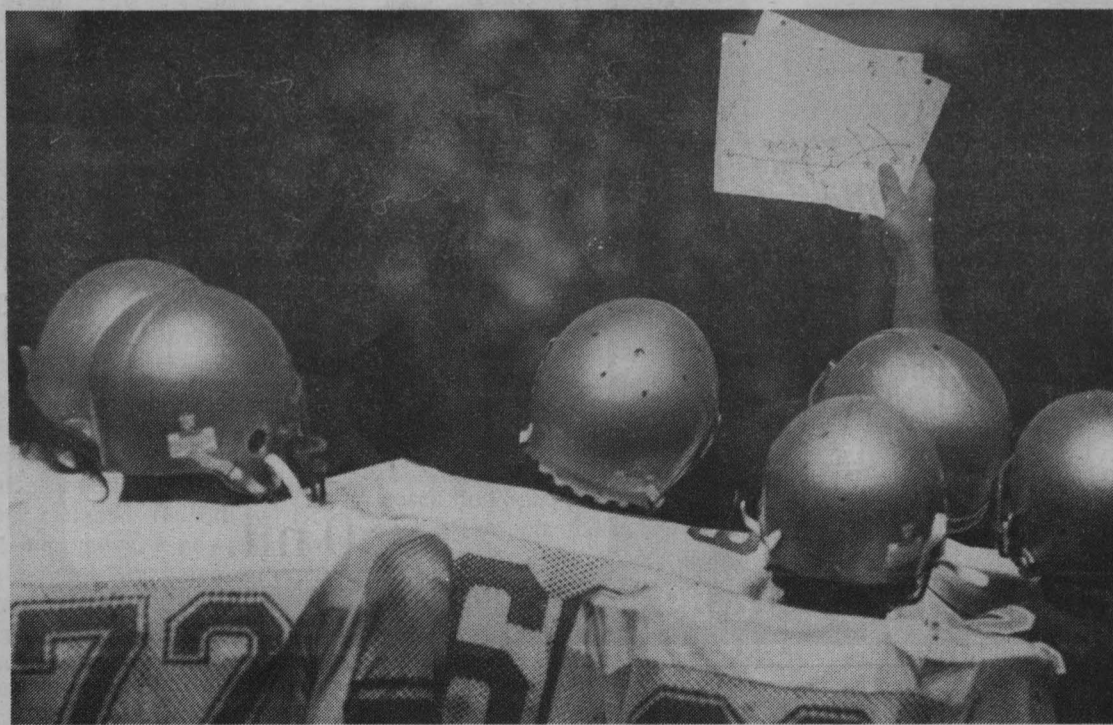

"Our practices are better because camp was so damn long and it got a bit tedious and boring," Jurkovic said. "It's not that I would ever call football boring, but when you see the same people day after day and hitting the same people every day, it's nice to get a change of scenery."

And with the first game out of the way, Jurkovic can keep his concentration on the remainder of his senior season.

"I'm glad the first game's over," Jurkovic said. "It's easier to practice against different teams."
