67 plead guilty; bar-raid fines total $6,725

It was an expensive day in court for 67 individuals who appeared in Coles County Circuit Court Friday to answer charges stemming from an Aug. 31 bar raid at Panther Lounge, 1421 Fourth St.

Coles County Associate Circuit Court Judge Gary Jacobs issued $6,725 in fines and court fees to the 67 underage individuals who were ticketed for violating the city's bar-entry age ordinance. The city ordinance says students must be at least 19 years old to enter a bar and 21 to be served.

City Attorney Brian Bower called the defendants up five at a time to stand before Violating Charleston's liquor code carries a minimum fine of $1 and a maximum fine of $500.

Three Panther employees, Richard J. Jablanski, 9H2 Stevenson Hall, Brian P. Van Vooren, 1427 Ninth St. #1, and Timothy S. Flanagan, of River Forest, are charged with allowing a minor to frequent a drinking establishment — a penalty carrying the maximum fine of $500. All three employees are being represented by attorney S. John Muller and are scheduled to appear in court Sept. 14.

Bower said the number of people charged in Saturday's raid is the largest to appear in court since he became city attorney more than a year ago.

Subsequently, Dave Isbell the owner of Panthers was issued a complaint from the city for 68 counts of violating the city's codes.

Isbell will appear before Mayor Wayne Lanman, the liquor commissioner, in a liquor hearing to decide if Isbell violated the law.

Lanman is required to sit in a judicial capacity, and hear the case. It is also up to Lanman what penalties, if any, Isbell will receive. He can either choose to fine him of up to $1,000 for each offense or suspend his license for up to 30 days on each count - a possible $68,000 fine or 68-month suspension. Another possibility is that Lanman could revoke the bar's liquor license.

Since Isbell is also the owner of Roc's Tavern, under the corporate ownership of Casablanca Management Co., a revocation of the license for Panthers would have a definite effect on Roc's license, Bower said. He added the city ordinance prohibits anyone from holding a liquor license if he has previously had a liquor license revoked.

No date has been set for Isbell's hearing, Bower added.

she was hopeful an agreement could be reached this week.

The BOG offer is believed to be at least a few tenths above the 1.8 percent that Gov. James Thompson proposed during the July budget appropriations.

Brazell noted the BOG has investigated re-allocating funds to provide a raise that exceeds Thompson's appropriation.

Last year, partly because of a income-tax surcharge that generated more than $100 million in additional education funds, faculty members were awarded an overall 9.94 percent salary hike.

That year, Thompson had only provided an 8 percent increase.

Brazell said the additional 2 percent was attained by re-allocating funds within the BOG system.

In the 1988-89 school year, faculty was awarded a 5.7 percent raise.

In the 1987-88 school year, which was one worst in funding for education in Illinois, faculty salaries were frozen due to a lack of funding.

As a result of the poor wage scale, about 20 faculty members have left Eastern over the past three years to take higher-paying jobs in other states.

Rives has realistic

Governors State University. If the budget request is approved by the BOG, it will then go for approval before the Illinois Board of Higher Education and then to the governor's office and state legislature before the funding is finally awarded.

And that's usually when the bad news comes. As the request winds its way to the floor of the state legislature, it traditionally get trimmed bit by bit along the way.

Last year, Eastern initially requested $69.5 million from the BOG. But that request was cut by $3.2 million and the BOG recommended $62.7 million for Eastern. By the time that budget was finally approved by Gov. James Thompson, Eastern received only $52.1 million, about $17 million less than its original request.

"A lot of things are in the balance and it (the budget) depends on a lot of factors which aren't known at this time," Eastern President Stan Rives said Sunday. "There are a lot more crucial steps."

Rives noted a key determinant to Eastern's budget is a temporary two-year 20 percent income tax hike that the state legislature will vote this summer to abolish or continue. The legislature also will review Eastern's request at that time. The tax hike, approved during the summer of 1989, boosted Eastern's state appropriations from $44.6 million in 1988-89 to $50.6 million in 1989-90, a 13.4 percent increase.

Because of additional funding from that, Eastern faculty last year were awarded with an overall 9.94 percent salary increase.

"Of course what we need without a debut is adequate salary funding," Rives said. "We also need price increase funds and funding for improving programs. It's a good recommendation."

This year's budget recommendation is a 20 percent increase from last year's. In addition to funding for expanding programs and funding to provide a salary increase, the recommendation earmarks $71,300 in support services for disabled students.

Adult health programs commencing

By LORI HIGGINS
Campus editor

A program is under way at Eastern to help adults maintain desired levels of cardiorespiratory fitness through aerobic exercise.

The program, staffed by the College of Health, Physical Education and Recreation, is geared toward healthy men and women over the age of 21 who are found to be low risk exercisers, said program director Tom Woodall.

"It started way back in 1966," Woodall said of the program's history, "And at that time it was called the 'Run for Your Life' program. In 1981 it became apparent we wanted to develop the program in several ways."

At that time, development included walking, swimming and a "much more thorough job of screening the participants," Woodall added.

Prior to being accepted as a participant, interested people must undergo a screening procedure which will include an electrocardiogram and the measuring of blood pressure, body fat and lung volumes. The screening process takes 40 minutes.

The program involves walking, jogging and swimming each Monday, Wednesday and Friday. Each exercise session lasts 30 to 45 minutes.

Cost for the program, which includes the screening and 12 months membership, is $30 for Eastern employees and $60 for non-employees.

"Forty percent of the participants are either faculty or staff at Eastern," Woodall said.

"We find many benefits of participating in the program, not the least of which is the feeling of well-being and being in control," Woodall said. Self-discipline, Woodall said, is another benefit of the program. "Just doing something each day is psychologically rewarding."

Not only are the participants becoming much more fit, but they are also burning calories, helping maintain weight control and increasing their muscle tone.

"For people in that age bracket—that's exactly what they need," Woodall said. "It's very appropriate because its rhythmic in nature."

Anyone over 21 interested in participating in the program should call the human performance lab in Lantz Gymnasium to make an appointment for screening and an interview. Woodall said many of the screenings are taking place during weekends because of the lack of parking in front of Lantz.

Woodall said that in addition to the fitness program, there is another program geared toward people who have had heart attacks, heart surgery or other medical problems.

Although these individuals are not eligible for the fitness program, the Monitored Exercise and Testing Services program meets at the same time.

"It's a hospital-based program and we help staff it here at Eastern," Woodall said.

Theater arts Professor C.P. Blanchette helps his listeners as Leonard in this weekend's production of "Greater Tuna."

Tuna offers funny taste of small-town lifestyles

By DAVID LINDQUIST

Review

Greater Tuna
Friday, Saturday 8 p.m.
and Sunday 2 p.m.
Tarble Arts Center

"Greater Tuna" offers furry cleavage, which one can expect when six male actors portray eight female characters in a one-day, tour de farce glimpse of a tiny Texas town called Tuna.

All together, there are 20 Tuna residents brought to caricature life in the play to be presented three additional times this week by the Charleston Community Theatre at Eastern's Tarble Arts Center.

The play's obvious strength is humor, which runs along the lines of a quirky, more consistent version of Garrison Keillor's Prairie Home Companion set in the Southwest.

Marjorie Duehmig's production of "Tuna" also is successful in capturing the essence of small-town Texas found in works such as "Come Back to the Five and Dime, Jimmy Dean, Jimmy Dean."

There's no such thing as a typical day in Tuna, however.

The storyline favors the adventures of Stanley Bue-miller, who kills a judge, runs over an already deceased dog and makes an honest woman out of a local Mexican girl in roughly a 24-hour period.

Eastern senior Fred Trotter draws on Nicholas Cage and Saturday Night Live's "Wayne's World" as influences in his flawless portrayal of Stanley, who finishes the day as the most likable and rounded character in the cast.

The play's parameter is the broadcast format of radio station OKKK, which is anchored by the news reporting of Arles Stuvie, portrayed by Eastern sophomore Paul Wiemerslage, and Thurston Wheelis (Trotter).

Comedic timing is the key for Arles and Thurston, characters not blessed with the play's funniest lines.

But one of OKKK's personalities, Leonard Childers, does carry the play's first half. Leonard, portrayed by Eastern theater arts Professor C.P. Blanchette, operates a radio help line that would win drive-time slots in any major metropolitan market in the country.

With "Greater Tuna," Blanchette ends a nearly 20-year hiatus from acting, delivering the play's most interesting female persona in Pearl Burris. Aside from a tendency to poison dogs with strychnine, Pearl's a great gal.

But when it comes to looks among the female characters, a triumvirate of knockouts — Yolanda Chicasita, Vera Carp and her daughter, Connie — is portrayed by Wiemerslage, the king of furry cleavage.

Both kinds of music, country and western, play a large role in "Greater Tuna."

Most selections work perfectly within the play's framework, but perhaps the original Hank Williams' version of "Hey, Good Lookin'" would work better than Buckwheat Zydeco's. A minor quibble.

Tuna is a good place to grow up, and a better place to leave.

The audience of "Greater Tuna," on the other hand, is fortunate that the play's light-hearted collection of characters decided to stay.

Debate club looks to raise visibility

By LORI HIGGINS
Campus editor

Eastern's debate society hopes to increase its visibility among Eastern students as it adds on-campus debates to its agenda.

Debate director James Conley said the society plans to include campus debates this semester "so people on campus can see what the debate society is all about."

Conley added the first on-campus debate will be Sept. 24 and focus on the infringement of government censorship on individual rights. The same topic will be debated throughout the semester, Conley said, giving students the opportunity to argue both sides of the issue.

One topic bound to come up in discussion surrounds the recent furor over such musical artists as 2 Live Crew and whether they are justified in their musical interpretations, Conley said.

"We encourage people, when they hear about the on-campus debates, to come out and see it," Conley said, "because it takes a lot of time to put this together and we'd like them to see what we have to offer."

In addition to the campus debates, the society also will participate in four off-campus debates this semester. Those dates are: Sept. 28-29 at Wheaton College, Oct. 12-14 at University of Missouri-St. Louis, Oct. 19-20 at Miami University in Ohio and Dec. 1 at University of Missouri-St. Louis. Censorship will be the topic of debate at each of those events.

"We travel to other universities to compete in different tournaments and schools all over the country will come to debate," Conley said. He added the tournaments involve going from round to round debating. Each team's record is compiled and then placed in elimination rounds.

Last year two members of Eastern's debate society made it to the quarterfinals of the national tournament. Those students were senior Jerry Sheehan, the society's top debater, and sophomore Doug Julien.

"It was the first time since 1985 that an Eastern team made it to the elimination rounds," Conley said.

However, debating is not the only activity the society engages in, Conley said. It also does such instructional work as demonstration debates for classes in order to show what debating involves and how to get involved.

Having an interest in the club is the only requirement the debate society is looking for, Conley said. He added anyone interested in joining the debate society may contact him in Coleman Hall Room 119.

"I take it upon myself to instruct people on how to go about debating," he said.

Police find knife in suspect's milk

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (AP) — State agents who searched a suspect's home in the killing of five college students found a knife hidden in a milk carton, a newspaper reported Sunday.

The Gainesville Sun quoted two sources close to the investigation as saying that the knife was found Thursday as agents searched the Indialantic home of Edward Lewis Humphrey, his Gainesville apartment and his car.

Police in Colby, Kan., said Sunday that Humphrey was told to leave the town in western Kansas last month, about two weeks before the killings in Gainesville, because of his suspicious behavior, including arguing with a hitchhiker and later driving slowly through residential areas.

Humphrey, 18, hasn't been charged in the slayings but has been identified by police as one of eight suspects. They have refused to call him the prime suspect.

The Sun reported that the knife was found where Humphrey told investigators earlier this month it would be. Lab tests will be performed to determine if the knife is linked to the killings.

All of the victims died from multiple stab wounds, police said.

Also confiscated from the home, owned by Humphrey's 79-year-old grandmother, Elna Hlavaty, were books, videotapes, and clothing.

Humphrey lived there with his mother and grandmother.

Gainesville police Lt. Sadie Darnell said Friday that "promising evidence" was found in the searches, but she refused to elaborate.

“We have recovered all we are going to recover.”

Lt. Spencer Mann
Alachua County
Sheriff

“Meanwhile, police said the three apartments where the five University of Florida students were murdered have been released to their landlords.”

Humphrey is being held in lieu of $1 million bond in the Brevard County jail in Sharpes for allegedly assaulting his grandmother the night of his return from summer school at the Gainesville campus, where he is a freshman. His grandmother has said she wants to drop the charges.

Alachua County Sheriff's Lt. Spencer Mann reported Sunday that the crime scenes had finally been released by police.

"We feel at this point that nothing more is going to be gained. We have recovered all we are going to recover," Mann said.

In Colby, Kan., an officer intervened in an argument between Humphrey and a hitchhiker he had picked up Aug. 10, said Police Chief Randy Jones. Humphrey then asked the officer where he could use a certain gasoline credit card and the officer pointed out a station about three blocks away, Jones said.

Council action needs to come a little faster

Michael Kuo, like most people who bring up business with the Charleston City Council, is going to have to wait.

Kuo, who wants to start a curbside recycling program in Charleston, brought up his proposal to the council last Tuesday.

The council's reaction: "We look forward to hearing your proposal."

Editorial

Of course, Kuo, being the good resident, worked on his proposal to submit it to the city council.

In order for the council to put the proposal on the agenda, Kuo had to outline the cost and the routing of the service and submit the formal proposal to the city council.

Charleston desperately needs an organized recycling program. The recycling bins the city currently has located at Wilb Walkers are often full and many people don't want to go out of their way to recycle. Kuo's service would allow residents to call up and leave their address. The next morning, the recycled materials would be hauled away. Kuo is hoping the city council will make a start-up contribution.

The Charleston City Council is very reactionary. But it is a very delayed reaction. They often seem to over-debate and hem and haw over everything for too long. For seven years parking has been a problem for the Charleston square. Concrete efforts are just now being made. Look how long the bar-entry age and loud parties have been a thorn in the side of Charleston. Those issues still haven't been resolved.

The recycling program is an excellent idea. It doesn't require a lot of debate and it shouldn't take very long to make a decision. There's a lot more recycling that could be done in Charleston, but people are lazy and don't want to go out of their way to recycle. Recycling helps everybody and when somebody wants to do more than their part, they should be encouraged and helped as much as possible.

The Charleston City Council has a job to do. It needs to take action more expediently. But the way it usually handles business, Kuo probably won't get an answer until some time next year.

Wal-Mart will bring Coles Together

I've come to a satisfactory resolution.

It's hard to believe that three years have come and gone since I arrived in Coles County, my collegiate home.

In Charleston, Lincoln Avenue has blossomed with video rental stores, fast food franchises and now, finally, a billiards establishment.

To the naked eye, Charleston, unlike much of east Central Illinois, seems to be holding its own economically. Of course, the square is having some trouble; we don't have a decent record store; and as far as I can tell, that bicycle shop/space heater dealer on Lincoln is trying to sell the same jumbo trampoline it was trying to move way back in 1987.

But things could be a lot worse.

So now, in my fourth fall on campus, I have discovered what will come next – what exactly will shape the final years of the century in this nook and/or cranny of the universe.

Hopefully, the wheels will be set in motion around March, allowing my dream to be realized prior to graduation.

He will swoop in like an eagle to Coles County Memorial Airport, which also hosts the offices of Coles Together, a spiffy organization interested in promoting the interests of our fine county.

There will be plenty of handshaking and power ties on display this day when multi-jillionaire Sam Walton bisects Illinois 16 with the most important press conference in the area's history.

First He'll deliver the bad news that wrecking balls will soon raze the Wal-Marts in Charleston and Mattoon.

But then He will astound all up by walking a few feet into a field adjoining the airport, shovel in hand, and turn soil on the future home of the most expansive, hip and awe-inspiring Wal-Mart on the planet.

David Lindquist

Children will faint and Charles Kuralt will be on hand when the 300,000 square-foot, one-story marvel is completed. It will be the world's first dealership for Wal-Mart automobiles – affordable, nondescript cars that will drive the final nail into the collective coffin of Detroit's Big Three and also give Honda a lesson or two.

And then it will just be a matter of time.

I'm sure there will be some legislation to deal with. And official names will be bantered about.

How about Mattson? Colesville. Edgar City. Lanmanland. Dettro Metro (Roger's the mayor of Mattoon, you know).

But in the end, the blissful marriage of Charleston and Mattoon will be known as Charlestown – a logical moniker that will squeak by Walton World by 34 votes in the 1992 general election.

It will all fall in place, like that skinny Tetris piece you need to clear four lines on your Nintendo Game Boy.

The entire community of Oakland, Coles County's overachieving berg of 1,035, will be airlifted and superimposed on Illinois 16 to help fill the gap between the communities (and also bring good golf at an affordable price).

And Coles Together will have a bonanza on its hands. Look for "Charlestown," the new comic strip by Berke Breathed that will feature no characters from Bloom County or Outland – until readership wanes. But how could you go wrong with Wayne Lanman as your court jester and Jim Edgar as the dejected, yet loveable candidate who could not possibly lose a gubernatorial election – but did.

There will be bumper stickers, T-shirts and boxer shorts.

And where will Eastern fit into the Charlestown dream? I'm sorry to say that Greek Court expansion holds the answer to that question.

And it's going east. Toward Indiana.

Pianist offers pleasing sounds

By SANDY BEAUCHAMP
Staff writer

During the days in which rock, country and western dominate the music scene, it is extremely refreshing to hear the sounds of Chopin emanating from a grand piano on this college campus.

Review

On Sunday, Eastern's department of music hosted a guest artist, Alexa Babakhanian — an accomplished pianist.

The concert, held in Dvorak concert hall, consisted of all Chopin compositions.

The young lady, dressed in a fluid black pantsuit, played for a relatively large crowd which consisted primarily of parents, other members of the community and a smattering of students.

Her first piece was a haunting version of Chopin's "Nocturne in C Minor." This piece was immediately followed by "Etude in C Major" and continued with "Scherzo in E Major."

Pianist Alexa Babakhanian performs several Chopin compositions for a healthy-sized crowd Sunday afternoon at Dvorak Concert Hall.

Babakhanian then received her applause with grace and left for a moment to revitalize. She returned to continue the first half of the program with "Six Preludes, Nos."

After a 10-minute intermission, Babakhanian returned to an enthusiastic audience. She played a variety of Chopin's more well-known compositions including the somber tune of "Marche funebre-Lento," or the funeral march.

Draped passionately over the keyboard, Babakhanian played with great strength and intensity, with each note precise and eloquent.

She managed to keep the audience enthralled and brought the concert to the heights of classical music.

One concert-goer turned to her husband and whispered, "She plays with such ... energy."

Babakhanian's performance warranted the immense applause she received at the end of the concert. After performing an encore, Babakhanian was persuaded to return to the stage for three bows.

And if the theory stands that music calms the savage beast, then Babakhanian's music could soothe even a frothing Tasmanian Devil.

Seminar offers tips to handle eating disorders

By LAURA DURNELL
Activities editor

Eastern's Counseling Center will sponsor a workshop "Anxious Eating-What to Do?" at 7 p.m. Monday in the Rathskellar Balcony at the Martin Luther King Jr. University Union.

Counselor Genie Lenihan will discuss the characteristics of the two fatal eating disorders anorexia nervosa and bulimia.

"We will talk a little about the personalities and family dynamics of those suffering," Lenihan said. "We will also discuss how to know if you or a friend has an eating disorder and how to approach it."

The workshop will present a film entitled "Dieting, The Danger Point" as well as brochures dealing with anorexia and bulimia.

Lenihan said she may have one of her recovering clients speak to the group about her experiences with an eating disorder.

"The only thing we ask is that people be ready with their questions when they come," Lenihan said. She added eating disorders are ongoing problems that won't go away overnight.

The workshop is free and open to anyone who wishes to attend.

Rumor Control Center separates fact from fancy

BALTIMORE (AP) — Sorry, sir, there are no plans for an underwater shopping mall in the Inner Harbor. No, ma'am, a highway is not coming through your living room. And no, pull tabs from soda cans and empty cigarette packs do not pay for kidney dialysis.

For 22 years, operators at the city's rumor control center have been handing out facts and dispelling rumors for confused or curious citizens.

"The rumor was it would be an underwater mall and they would have a restaurant and you could pick out your dinner from behind the glass," said Tom Saunders, who's worked for the hot line for 10 years. "We had contractors calling up wanting to build it." Rumor control hot lines were opened in several major cities in the 1960s to ease tension in the wake of race riots. Although the violence of that era has passed, Baltimore's hot line still has a place, and some cities that dropped theirs are reviving the idea, Saunders said.

Philadelphia recently opened a rumor-control hot line after a black man was shot to death by a Korean shopkeeper, he said.

Besides handling the frivolous rumors, Baltimore officials say, the hot line keeps the public informed about topics that could affect health or safety and helps the city to keep in touch with its residents.

"It's a place people can call to get good information, but also cast a straw vote, in effect, for things the city should be doing to enhance the community," said City Council President Mary Pat Clarke.

"We don't try to appease people. We give them the facts from a credible source," said Lillian Jones, head of the community division of the city's community relations commission, which operates the hot line.

Calls from people expressing a desire to heal race relations helped lead to the scheduled meeting of community leaders in November. The calls followed several apparently racially motivated incidents this summer.

Each day one of the six workers in Baltimore's community relations office takes a turn staffing the hot line, answering questions and collecting rumors.

"Most of the rumors are in reference to news events. People receive misinformation or bits and pieces and they call rumor control," Saunders said.

Workers try to keep abreast of current events, he said. A bulletin board on the wall of the small downtown office is littered with news articles, fliers and information about events that have been brought to the staff's attention.

Rumors called in by the public range from the far-fetched to the mundane. Health, safety and neighborhood issues make up the majority of calls.

One of the most unusual rumors called in recently involved the Ku Klux Klan's purported ownership of a popular line of sweat-suits.

"The rumor was the guy who owned it was on a television show and he said blacks will overpay for anything," Saunders said. "He said he was a member of the Klan and decided to put out an expensive sweat-suit."

"We found out a Jewish person owned the company, therefore he wouldn't be a member of the Ku Klux Klan." The hot line still gets calls from people wondering where to send empty cigarette packs and pull-tabs from soda cans to help pay for kidney dialysis.

Oak Park 'romantic' crowned Miss America

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — Miss America 1991 Marjorie Judith Vincent said Sunday she's a romantic who wants it all and plans to use her reign to help battered women.

Miss Vincent, a 25-year-old Miss Illinois from Oak Park, said she didn't get to sleep until 4 a.m. Sunday, about four hours after she was crowned. She said she wants to celebrate with cheesecake her pageant director denied her.

"I got so excited and when I get going, my adrenaline starts going," said Miss Vincent, wearing the pageant's rhinestone tiara.

Miss Vincent said she has a tendency to put on weight and had slimmed down about 15 pounds to 110 pounds on her 5-foot-6 frame.

First runner-up was Miss South Carolina Mary Waddell Gainey, 24, followed by Miss Tennessee Dana Brown, 25; Miss Texas Suzanne Lawrence, 21; and Miss Louisiana Linnea Marie Fayard, 22.

Black Student Union makes plans for year

By RUDY NOWAK
Student government editor

The first meeting of the year for the Black Student Union will be held at 6 p.m. Tuesday in the Martinsville Room of the Martin Luther King Jr. University Union.

According to BSU President Sheena Reid, the first meeting will be devoted to introducing the executive officers and discussing this year's goals.

The meetings are a way for the group to come up with ideas and plans for new events.

"BSU's purpose is to govern matters concerning university life, unity throughout the campus, high scholarship and contributing to university activities," Reid said.

Among the activities to be discussed at Tuesday's meeting are: The Miss Black EIU Pageant, Black History Month, parents appreciation and social dances.

BSU's first event for this year will be Recruitment Night.

"The theme will be 'Bring a Friend Night,'" Reid said. She added the event is "designed to let students know what BSU is all about."

Recruitment Night will be held at the Afro-American Cultural Center from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. Sept. 19. Refreshments will be served.

"I hope everyone comes out," Reid said. "It is a great opportunity to meet others and see behind the scenes."

Iraq seeks support from Iran

Iraq's foreign minister Sunday sought help from Iran in cracking the U.N.-imposed embargo on Baghdad, but the United States and Soviet Union renewed their commitment to the sanctions.

Syria's official news agency reported that a series of 46 explosions were heard in the Iraqi town of Al-Qaim near the border, resulting in an undetermined number of casualties. ABC News identified the site of the blasts as the al-Qaim chemical plant.

The official Iraqi News Agency denied the report of explosions in Al-Qaim.

Last month, Polish workers returning home from Iraq reported that about 35 Americans were brought to the chemical plant in Al-Qaim on Aug. 17 under guard. It was not known whether any Westerners are still being held as human shields at the plant.

Meanwhile, more Americans flew to freedom after being held in Iraq and Kuwait. Hundreds are still held as human shields against U.S. and other forces building up in the Persian Gulf region since the Iraqi invasion of Kuwait on Aug. 2.

Denmark's ambassador in Kuwait left his besieged embassy Sunday.

Iraqi forces that invaded Kuwait are trying to starve diplomats out of the U.S. and other embassies.

Iraqi Foreign Minister Tariq Aziz met with Iranian officials in Tehran, Iran's capital, in the first official Iraqi visit since the two countries went to war in 1980. The fighting ended in a cease-fire in August 1988.

Sources in Tehran, speaking on condition of anonymity, said Aziz was likely to ask Iranian officials to allow shipments of food and medicine into his country. The U.N. embargo permits only humanitarian shipments of such supplies.

The trip by Aziz paves the way for a meeting between Iraqi President Saddam Hussein and Iranian President Hashemi Rafsanjani to sign a peace treaty officially ending hostilities.

In Sunday's talks, Iranian Foreign Minister Ali Akbar Velayati reiterated his country's condemnation of the invasion of Kuwait.

But he also criticized the presence of U.S. and other foreign forces building up in the Persian Gulf, according to Iran's official Islamic Republic News Agency.

Iran's radical parliament speaker, Mehdi Karribui, warned of Moslem terrorist acts against U.S. interests unless Washington withdraws its forces from the gulf, IRNA reported.

Increased economic aid hinted for Soviets by Bush

HELSINKI, Finland (AP) — Mikhail Gorbachev won hints of more economic aid from President Bush on Sunday but rebuffed suggestions that Moscow would play a global second fiddle to Washington.

"It would be very oversimplified and very superficial to judge that the Soviet Union could be bought for dollars," Gorbachev told a joint news conference with the U.S. president at the close of their one-day summit.

The Soviet and U.S. leaders pledged to work closely in using commercial and diplomatic pressure to force Iraq to withdraw from Kuwait, but Gorbachev stressed he was not following the U.S. lead in order to win American aid.

"We do not want to get caught up in a debate about prestige," he said when asked to respond to Iraq leader Saddam Hussein's challenge for Moscow to defy U.S. will in the Middle East in order to prove that it was still a superpower.

"No single country, however powerful, will be able to provide the leadership which individual countries formerly tried to provide, including some countries which are represented here," he said.

Gorbachev and his entourage departed for Moscow Sunday night.

During the seven hours of summit talks, the Soviet leader again balked at sending troops or warships to bolster U.S. forces implementing a United Nations embargo against Iraq.

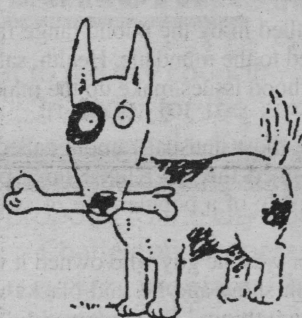

Gorbachev won a pledge from Bush that U.S. troops would withdraw from the Arabian peninsula at the close of the crisis.

All Day All Night

Homesick?

Was the move to campus what you thought it was going to be when you left home?

The friends, brothers, sisters, and parents who seemed to be such a source of personal pain during the summer look pretty good now. Familiar sounds unheard, the ache for family conversation at mealtime, the absent sight of a favorite relative on weekends, not cruising with friends after dark leaves you empty.

No one seems to share your interests or passions? Feeling marooned?

Home is a few short steps away. Midweek informal communion is at 9:30 p.m. in Wesley Church Chapel. Sunday Supper is a 5:00 p.m. at the Student Center. "For Refreshment Only" meets at 6:30 p.m. Monday's.

C'mon and meet the rest of the family!

Liberian president wounded and captured

ABIDJAN, Ivory Coast (AP) - A rebel faction shot Liberian President Samuel Doe in both legs and captured him Sunday during a battle in that nation's capital, the British Broadcasting Corp. reported.

More than 60 people, including dozens of Doe's bodyguards, were killed in the fighting between Doe loyalists and rebels led by Prince Johnson, the BBC said. It said the battle took place outside the headquarters of a West African task force in Monrovia, Liberia.

Doe had left his fortified seaside mansion to pay an unscheduled visit to the commander of the West African task force, Lt.

Gen Arnold Quainoo of Ghana, the BBC's correspondent in Monrovia reported.

Johnson and some of his fighters followed Doe, and a quarrel erupted, the BBC report said. The two sides then started battling with rifles, machine guns and grenades.

Johnson's rebels wounded Doe in both legs and carried him off to their base camp, the report said.

Johnson called the BBC and declared himself president of Liberia until an interim government could be installed. Rival rebel leader Charles Taylor of the National Patriotic Front previously claimed the presidency.

The BBC said Johnson pledged to court-martial Doe.

Earlier, Doe and Johnson had agreed to an informal cease-fire between their forces when the West African task force sailed into Monrovia two weeks ago. Taylor's forces opposed the West African intervention and continued fighting.

Rebels in the 8-month-old civil war have accused Doe of nepotism and stealing millions of dollars of state money. They also hold him responsible for the deaths of thousands of civilians killed during the civil war.

Liberia's civil war began Dec. 24, when Johnson helped lead rebels loyal to Taylor in an invasion from Ivory Coast. In March, Johnson broke away to form his own faction.

Doe had been holed up in his fortified seaside mansion in Monrovia.

Taylor's rebels Saturday launched their own attack at the port against some of the 3,000 soldiers in the West African force.

The task force had called for relief agencies to return to Monrovia and promised to assure their safety. U.S. Marine helicopters Saturday flew in four workers from the U.S. Agency for International Development and officials of the Belgium-based Doctors Without Borders and the Feed the Hungry programs.

Impeached Arizona governor attempting comeback

PHOENIX (AP) — A large bloc of undecided voters and the prospects of a low turnout raised Evan Mecham's hopes for an upset in Arizona's Republican gubernatorial contest, one of 11 primaries Tuesday that will complete the general election lineups for all but a handful of states.

Candidates spent heavily to get their messages 'on television, but they were competing for attention with a U.S.-Soviet summit and the military crisis in the Persian Gulf.

An election official in Arizona predicted that fewer than 40 percent of the state's Republican voters would cast ballots in the hotly contested primary between Mecham, whose tumultuous service as governor ended in 1988 with his impeachment, developer Fife Symington and three other contenders.

Former Phoenix Mayor Terry

Goddard was heavily favored in the Democratic gubernatorial primary and was expected to enter the general election as the front-runner to succeed Gov. Rose Mofford, a Democrat who is retiring.

The other states holding primaries on Tuesday were Connecticut, Maryland, New Hampshire, New York, Rhode Island, Utah, Vermont and Wisconsin. After Tuesday's round of primaries, the only states left to choose nominees will be Massachusetts, Washington, Oklahoma, Florida, and Louisiana.

In the District of Columbia, voters were choosing nominees to succeed Mayor Marion Barry, whose plans to seek re-election were sidetracked after his indictment on cocaine possession charges.

Also on the ballot in the nation's capital was Jesse Jackson.

The two-time candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination was expected to win nomination easily for the symbolic office of "shadow senator," a position created to press the city's campaign for statehood.

In Arizona, pre-election polls found more than 40 percent of potential GOP primary voters saying they remain undecided in the race for governor.

Observers speculate that Mecham's supporters tend to be the most likely to refuse to state their preference when questioned by pollsters. The prospects for a low turnout also was considered a plus for the former governor.

"If the turnout is under 35 percent, Mecham could win it," said Bruce Merrill, director of the Media Research Center at Arizona State University.

Voters "may be confused."

Mecham said Friday after the last public debate in the five-way GOP primary for governor. "They've listened and been disappointed so very often by politicians." Secretary of State Jim Shumway, a Democrat whose office handles state elections, predicts a 38 percent GOP turnout but admits "I'm being optimistic." The turnout is likely to be much higher — perhaps as much as 60 percent — in rural areas where Mecham has fared well in five previous tries for governor but where there are relatively few voters.

Mecham himself has been the hottest issue in the GOP primary.

He was removed from office in April 1988 after his conviction in an impeachment trial on charges he misused money from supporters and also interfered with a police investigation of an alleged death threat by one of his aides.

During the current campaign, Symington has referred to Mecham's tenure as a period in which the state was "the object of national derision." Equally controversial was Mecham's positions on such issues as gay rights and a state holiday commemorating slain civil rights leader Martin Luther King.

Mecham's hard-core support shrank to about 15 percent or 20 percent of the GOP after his impeachment, but his supporters are fiercely loyal, vote in large numbers and could triumph if the anti-Mecham vote is split between the other four candidates.

Three other GOP candidates, Sam Steiger, Fred Koory and Bob Barnes, contend that nomination of either Mecham or Symington would split the party and assure the election of Goddard.

Lady harriers finish sixth at Bradley

By DANIEL DORT
Staff writer

Eastern's women's cross country team placed sixth overall at the Bradley Invitational in Peoria on Friday. Approximately 80 runners from eight different schools competed at Detweiler Park.

Loyola University won the event with an overall score of 32 points. Illinois State placed second with 76 points and Western Illinois University finished a close third with 77 points. Running conditions were excellent on the relatively flat course, according to Eastern coach John Craft.

Willie Gausman from Lewis

University finished first with a time of 18:10.

Eastern's Brooke Roberts, a freshman from Shelbyville and last year's high school Class A state champ, was the Panthers' top runner placing eighth overall with a time of 19:07.

"Brooke ran an excellent race," said Craft. "She had a strong second half and passed a lot of people near the end of the race."

Sophomore Ti Jaye Rudy finished second for the Panthers and placed 19th overall with a time of 19:84 despite an injury to her heel.

"Ti Jaye ran extremely well considering that she started the race with a blistered and cut-up heel that she got in last week's meet," said Craft.

Freshman Aislinn Wiley placed third for Eastern and 28th overall with a time of 20:28, while junior Kathy Glynn finished 50th overall and fourth for Eastern with a time of 22:09. Sophomore Chris Cozzi rounded out the Eastern scorers, finishing fifth for Eastern and 53rd overall in a time of 22:18.

The team travels to Kenosha, Wis. to compete in the Midwest Open on Saturday on what Coach Craft called "one of the best courses in the Midwest." The event will be one of the largest of the year for the team, with a field of 200-300 runners.

Sampras wins U.S. Open title

NEW YORK (AP) — The way Andre Agassi saw Sunday's U.S. Open — and shut — championship match, his straight sets 6-4, 6-3, 6-2 rub-out at the hands of Pete Sampras was nothing to get bent out of shape about.

Agassi had come in so full of hope, expecting that after his loss in the finals of the French Open to Andres Gomez, this would be his Grand Slam breakthrough. He was No. 4 in the world, 20 years old and ready to move up to the next level of world class tennis — the level of Grand Slam champion.

And then he ran into Sampras. "If I had lost it, it would be disappointing," Agassi said.

"I felt I lost the French Open. This was a good old fashioned street mugging." Agassi came dressed for the occasion in his three-toned tennis outfit — lime green liner pants over black shorts, black and white shirt with green sleeves, checkered bandana, dangling earring.

"I was hitting fine, not at the level of yesterday (when he beat defending champion Boris Becker), but fine," he said. "He was more of a factor than I was. Anything he touched turned to gold."

The statistics support that. Sampras served 13 aces. Agassi had none. Sampras had five service breaks. Agassi had none. Sampras won 92 percent of his first serve points. Agassi won 56 percent.

Game, set, match.

Agassi was in trouble from the start, struggling to hold his service in the first game of the match, broken two games later. It

Chicago Bears open season with shutout win over Seahawks 17-0

CHICAGO (AP) — Neal Anderson scored two touchdowns, rushed for 101 yards and caught five passes, but like everyone else, he was caught up in the defensive effort of the Chicago Bears.

The Bears beat Seattle 17-0 Sunday's NFL opener, handing the Seahawks their second straight shut out.

"Everyone played well, but the defense pitched a shutout and anytime you do that in the in the National Football League, you're going to win," said Anderson, who scored on runs of 17 and 4 yards, Jim Harbaugh, who completed 21 of 29 passes for 203 yards and established himself as the No. 1 quarterback, credited "the defense. They shut them out and gave us good field position." The defense set the tone early with Richard Dent and Dan Hampton sharing a sack of quarterback Dave Krieg and Trace Armstrong coming back with another on the first series of plays. Krieg was sacked three times and intercepted three times, with the first two interceptions leading to a 47-yard field goal by Kevin Butler and a 17-yard touchdown run by Anderson for a 10-0 lead at the half.

A 96-yard drive, engineered by Harbaugh and including a 36-yard pass to Anderson, ended with a 4-yard touchdown run by Anderson midway in the fourth period to put the game out of reach.

"I'm elated by what we accomplished," said Coach Mike Ditka.

"It was an example of playing hard with nothing fancy. The defense was awesome. We put pressure on the quarterback early. Shaun Gayle was unbelievable, he was all over the place hitting people." Gayle's interception set up Butler's field goal. Lemuel Stinson's interception led to a 61-yard drive and Anderson's first touchdown.

"Our defensive backs were good basically because of our pass rush," said Ditka.

The pass rush was led by Hampton, Dent, Armstrong, Steve McMichael and William Perry with occasional help from rookies Fred Washington and Tim Ryan.

"I was not surprised by Hampton," said Ditka. "He's one of the great pros. If he stays healthy we'll be in good shape at the tackle positions." Hampton is in his 12th year with the Bears and has had 10 knee operations. He missed the last 12 games last year when the Bears went 2-10 after a 4-0 start.

"How many guys feel good all the time?" asked Hampton. "Krieg had no idea where to throw the ball because the defensive backs did such a good job." The Bears defense did not allow the Seahawks to get inside of the Chicago 45-yard line. Seattle managed a total of 132 yards on offense, 58 rushing and 74 passing. Krieg was 12 of 27 for 91 yards.

Blue Jays fly by White Sox in 6-1 victory

TORONTO (AP) — The Toronto Blue Jays only wish they started to get it going a few weeks ago.

Fred McGriff and Greg Myers hit consecutive home runs in a four-run sixth inning as the Blue Jays beat the Chicago White Sox 6-1 Sunday to move within 4 1/2 games of Boston in the American League East.

"We dug ourselves into this hole," McGriff said. "We're playing like a team for one of the few times this season. It's unfortunate we didn't start playing like this a bit sooner. Then we wouldn't have to rely on help from other teams." The Blue Jays got some help from Seattle on Sunday as the Mariners beat the Red Sox 3-1.

"Taking two out of three might not even be good enough for us," winner Jimmy Key said. "But one thing we have going for us right now is pitching. It seems to be contagious like hitting. When the guy in front of you pitches well, you naturally want to keep it going."

The Blue Jays broke their American League attendance record with a sellout crowd of 49,870. It was the club's 48th consecutive sellout and increased the season total to 3,386,385.

The slumping White Sox made a season-high four errors in losing for the third straight day to the Blue Jays. Chicago fell 9 1/2 games behind Oakland in the AL West.

"We didn't do the little things that we've relied on all season," White Sox manager Jeff Torborg said. "But the way they pitched against us, it's tough to get anything going. We'll be glad to get out of here."

McGriff led off the sixth with his 33rd home run, a shot to straight-away center to extend his hitting streak to a career-high 11 games. Myers followed with a homer to the middle deck in right for his fifth homer of the season and first since June 16.

"Pitching is definately a key for us right now," McGriff said.

"But the biggest difference is the hitting. We got great pitching but we lost three to Boston because we couldn't get a hit when it counted."

Special teams give Panthers needed lift D'Alesio

By CHRIS BOGHOSSIAN
Sports editor

As the saying goes, special teams' play wins and loses close football games, and Saturday night in Natchitoches, La., the Panthers proved that saying right.

Key plays by Eastern's special teams enabled the Panthers to defeat Northwestern Louisiana 23-22 for their first victory of the young season, moving their record to 1-1.

Place kicker Ray D'Alesio, a senior, booted a 29-yard field goal with 1:05 remaining in the contest for the victory.

"I've always wanted to be in that type of situation," D'Alesio said. "I wondered how I would do. They always say keep your head off of it and block it out, but that doesn't work."

"My throat was all clumped up and I felt my chest pounding. I tried putting it out of my mind, but I couldn't."

D'Alesio said that the extra time that the Panthers spend in practice on special teams paid off.

"All we do for about an hour each practice is work on special teams," D'Alesio said. "A lot of guys complain and wonder why we do it so much, but in games like (Saturday's), it pays off."

"I think we have a great field goal block team. That's what forced their kicker (Chris Hamler) to miss."

D'Alesio's counterpart missed two extra point attempts and a field goal in the game.

"That's the ball game," Northwestern Louisiana head coach Sam Goodwin said. "If we go out there and don't have to kick and they don't have to kick, I think we could have beaten them pretty good."

"We missed two extra points and had a punt blocked. I think a lot of it had to do with the kicker but some of it may have been in the protection."

The punt block that Goodwin was referring to was the play that set up D'Alesio's late-game attempt.

With Demon punter Malter Scobel back to punt, Eastern defensive tackle Kent McIntyre worked his way through Scobel's blockers and blocked the ball down.

"I was over the snapper and I quick-swam him," McIntyre, a junior, said. "I went to his right, then got by the up-back. Then the personal protector went to the outside."

McIntyre said that he tried the exact same play in the first half.

"I thought I had (the first-half punt)," he said. "The second time, I didn't think I was going to get it. But (Scobel) stutter-stepped, and I jumped out. I heard a thump from when it hit his foot, then I felt like my hand was broken and I knew I had it."

Last-minute

freshman fullback Vinko Kucinic. Middleton made nine saves and kept Eastern in the game until it scored the two late goals. Kucinic won several headers and marked his man closely throughout the game. Kucinic's teammates recognized his contributions.

"Vinko played a great game," forward Mario Mihalic said. "If it were up to me, he and Dave Middleton would be the MVP's. It's good to get the young guys involved. If we play like we did today, we should beat a lot of teams."

Dixon said he thought that Kucinic played great.

"Vinko did a fantastic job. He played perfectly," said Dixon, adding that the fan support aided the comeback.

Middleton was injured with just little over seven minutes remaining, but hung in until the end.

"The Northern player jumped and landed right on my ribs," Middleton said. "I wasn't going to let them (Northern) know that I was hurt though."

"We played well together. I gained more confidence as the game went on."

Northern coach Roy was disappointed after the match.

"We came out a little flat," Roy said. "We had some people playing without any guts today. Maybe it was because we had a tough game Friday (Northern beat Wisconsin-Dixon 2-0)."

Vinko Kucinic

"But give Eastern credit - it played inspirational soccer. The first two goals that they scored were because we had some people not doing their jobs. But the last goal the kid (Davidson) made an incredible shot."

After last year's 'no contest', the Panthers had said they had something to prove. But Mosnia didn't see it that way.

"This wasn't any type of grudge match," he said.

The victory ran Eastern's record to 2-1 overall and 2-0 in MCC action. Next up for the Panthers is the Illinois State Soccer Classic. Eastern will face 4-0 California in the opening match Saturday.

Rugby team opens season over weekend

By RICK CHUNG
Staff writer

The gray, overcast sky in the rugby team's season opener on Saturday may have been a sign of things to come as it lost two of the three games played.

The Panthers, hosting Southern Illinois and the University of Alabama, took the field at noon against the Salukis amid a large gathering of Eastern students. As might be expected in the first game of the season, Eastern made costly errors and was unable to execute well, scoring only once in losing 9-3.

In the second game against Alabama, Eastern showed its never-say-die attitude by coming back from a 6-0 halftime deficit and closed the margin to 8-9, only to lose as the time ran out.

Evidence of the hard battle that took place between the two teams was the wrist injury suffered by Eastern's Jack Howard, who had to be taken to the hospital. As if ignited by Howard's injury, Eastern came out for the third game more ambitious than the two previous contests. Again playing the Salukis, the Panther squad avenged its earlier defeat by whipping Southern 7-3 to end the day.

Demon quarterback Andrew Roach ran 22 yards for the score on a drive that featured no passing attempts to put his team ahead 16-14 at the 8:11 mark in the third period. Hamler missed the extra point attempt.

After another Pindar punt, the Deamons again traveled down the field, this time moving 52 yards on six plays for the score.

Tailback Brian Rigdell ran 14 yards for six points, but again, Hamler's extra point attempt was no good, so the Demon lead moved to 22-14 with 3:25 remaining in the third quarter.

On Eastern's first possession of the fourth quarter, Thorne completed a third-down pass to Edson Castillo for a first down at its 45, but the Panthers were forced to punt again.

On fourth-and-eight from their 47-yard-line, the Panthers lined up for the punt. But Eastern coach Bob Spoo called for a fake, and his players responded well.

Senior nickle back Tim Lance took the snap and ran 53 yards for a touchdown, cutting the Demon lead to 22-20 with 13:03 remaining in the game.

Spoo admitted that he called the fake.

"I felt it had to be done," said Spoo, who earned his 20th victory in his fourth year at the helm. "Time was slipping away. The funny thing is, their coach (Sam Goodwin) said that their defense was set up for the fake. We just worked it to perfection."

The Demons took five minutes off the clock on their next possession, but Hamler missed a 47-yard field goal attempt to give the Panthers the ball back with eight minutes remaining.

Jones carried five times for 24 yards and Thorne threw to Mark Grady for a 14-yard gain, but the drive ended when the Panthers couldn't convert on a fourth-and-nine at NSU's 30.

Northwestern Louisiana gained three yards on its next possession, forcing it to punt from its 33. Malter Scobel's punt was blocked by McIntyre to set up the winning field goal.

Thorne finished the day completing 16 of 26 passes for 238 yards and two touchdowns, while Jones gained 101 yards on 20 carries for his second consecutive 100-yard game.

"It's a big win," Spoo said. "Winning on the road is really important. We've got to be pleased. We persevered and did what we had to do."

"We're pleased in a lot of respects. We have to be more consistent and execute better. We had two fumbles, and that's not good. I don't know if that's a matter of concentration or what. But those are some of the things you try to improve on. We've got work to do."

Spoo added that not everything turned out well for his team. Three players - tight end Tim Moore, offensive guard Brad Fichtel and fullback John Sengstock - all left the game with knee injuries. Spoo said they each will be examined further on Monday.

Grady, Moore's backup, had three catches for 55 yards, including the touchdown reception, and Jones caught four passes for 55 yards and added another 81 yards on kickoff returns for 237 all-purpose yards.

Last-minute heroics spark Panthers' wins

Last-minute goal lifts booters past Northern

By R.J. GERBER
Staff writer

Eastern forward Terry Dixon kicked in the winning goal with 3:24 remaining to propel the Panthers to a 3-1 victory against Mid-Continent Conference foe Northern Illinois Sunday at Lakeside Field.

Sophomore Tom Waters assisted on Dixon's goal, and sophomore forward Jim Davidson added another goal with 1:00 remaining to seal the victory and run the Panthers MCC unbeaten streak to 17 games.

Northern took the early lead when Huskie forward Willie Roy Jr., son of Northern head coach Willie Roy, put the ball into the back of the net on a direct kick at the 28:36 mark of the first half. But with just 4:20 left in the first half, junior forward Steve Baker took a pass from Jim Harkness and evened the score at one.

The second half was very physical and numerous fouls were called. At the 29:46 mark, Northern's Walid Fikri was issued a red card and the Huskies had to play with 10 men. But Eastern's man advantage was canceled when Baker was issued a red card with 13:20 remaining in the game. Eastern coach Cizo Mosnia didn't agree with the call.

"That play was not deserving of a red card," Mosnia said.

Overall, Mosnia was quite happy with the victory.

"We played very well," Mosnia said. "We played with a lot of intensity. Maybe this win will start proving some things to some people."

Those "people" that Mosnia referred to are the Midwest regional ranking committee members. Coming into the Northern match, the Panthers were ranked fifth in the region and the Huskies third.

"We still have some work to do,"

Mosnia said. "But the team is willing to learn and work. We're not going to worry about the rankings."

Eastern turned in a total team effort to beat Northern, but two players that stood out were junior goalkeeper Dave Middleton and

D'Alesio's field goal keys football team win

By CHRIS BOGHOSSIAN

Junior defensive tackle Kent McIntyre's blocked punt set up a 29-yard Ray D'Alesio field goal with 1:05 left in the game to give Eastern's football team a 23-22 victory over Northwestern Louisiana in Natchitoches, La., Saturday night.

The victory was the first of the season for the Panthers, who rebounded from a loss in their opener at Northern to move to 1-1. The Demons stand at 0-1 after Saturday's result.

McIntyre's heroics came with Eastern down 22-20 with just 2:10 remaining in the contest and set up D'Alesio's game-winning kick.

"(I was) very nervous," D'Alesio said. "That's the first time I've been put in a situation like that. I always wanted the opportunity to see how I would respond, and I got the chance (Saturday) night."

Eastern jumped out to an early 7-0 lead after freshman quarterback Jeff Thorne completed four of five passes for 69 yards on the Panthers' first possession of the game, including an 18-yard touchdown strike to sophomore split end Terrence Hickman at the 10:43 mark in the first quarter.

After a fumble by the Panthers' Broc Montgomery, the Demons cut the Panther lead to 7-3 with a field goal by kicker Chris Hamler with 9:50 left in the first half and then pulled ahead 10-7 when Ron Davis returned a Brian Pindar punt 73 yards for a touchdown.

Thorne then led his teammates

73 yards in nine plays and capped off the drive with a 23-yard touchdown pass to Mike Russell with :12 left in the half to give the Panthers a 14-10 edge going into halftime.

On Eastern's first possession the second half, fullback Joe Sengstock ran twice for 25 yards and tailback Jamie Jones, coming off a 168-yard performance last Saturday in DeKalb, ran 32 yards on three carries but then fumbled setting up a Demon touchdown drive.

Northwestern Louisiana, which started at its 21, drove 79 yards in 7 plays for six more points.

Lady netters struggle in opening matches

Eastern loses four matches over weekend to begin tennis season

By JIM KNOBLICH
Staff writer

Eastern's lady netters opened their fall season last Thursday with a loss to conference rivals Illinois State 8-1, then lost to Western Kentucky Friday and Western Illinois and St. Ambrose Saturday.

Playing in 95-degree heat Thursday, the Lady Panthers "played the aggressors" as they took early leads on their opponents, only to find themselves running out of steam as the matches went on, said tennis coach Grant Alexander.

Julie Mason saw a tough, three-set match slip away from her in the unbarable heat. The only highlight of the day for the lady netters was Dawn Brannon's win at No. 1 singles 6-2, 6-4. Co-captain Lori Neate did not play in the team's debut because of personal reasons.

Playing non-conference opponent Western Kentucky at home Friday for the first time ever, "the team really did not know what to expect," Alexander said. The lady netters found out that Western Kentucky had a very solid lineup and Eastern ended up losing in both singles and doubles 9-0.

Things only got worse for the Lady Panthers Saturday morning at Weller courts as the team lost another conference match to Western Illinois 7-2. The team lost players Jill Bachochin to leg cramps and Kim Rhodes and Julie Mason for personal reasons.

Playing with an injured wrist, No. 5 singles player Cheryl Piszczek went on to an easy victory with a score of 6-0, 6-1. She then teamed up with Missy Holste for a tough win at No. 1 doubles with a score of 6-2, 7-6.

The rain Saturday afternoon caused the match against non-conference St. Ambrose to be moved indoors to Lantz Fieldhouse. The new conditions didn't matter, as the lady netters lost in singles 5-1. Once again, the Lady Panthers saw Piszczek win with a victory at No. 4 singles 6-4, 6-4.

"I am very pleased with my game and I feel my confidence as a singles player is coming back to me quickly," said Piszczek.

The lady netters will have a chance to avenge their defeats against Illinois State, Western Illinois, and St. Ambrose in the spring. Plagued with an inconsistent lineup definitely hurt the Lady Panthers and also kept them from playing together as a team, Craft said.

"The one good thing that came out of the weekend was that some of the younger girls received some valuable playing time," said Alexander.

The team will play St. Louis University away on Tuesday and Southern Illinois University at home on Thursday.

Eastern's volleyball team recorded a respectable second-place finish on Saturday in Mt. Pleasant, Mich., at the Central Michigan University Invitational.

The Lady Panthers defeated the host team Central Michigan Friday morning 15-12, 15-9, 14-16 and 15-13. Cindy Geib had no errors in 29 hitting attempts and recorded 16 kills and six blocks for Eastern. Deanna Lund had 13 kills while Diane Kruto added 12 kills and three aces. Amy Van Eekeren rounded out Eastern's leaders with 10 kills and 37 assists.

"We came out strong against Central Michigan and we just gutted it out," said coach Betty Ralston.

Eastern took on Louisville Saturday morning for the tournament championship but ended up losing in three games, 6-15, 1-15 and 4-15. Kruto had eight kills for the Lady Panthers while Lund added six kills.

"We didn't get much sleep the night before and we just weren't awake," said Ralston about her team's match against Louisville.

The Lady Panthers traveled to East Lansing, Mich., on Sunday to play Michigan State University only to lose after winning the first two games 15-10, 15-13, 10-15, 5-15 and 4-15. Lund had 19 kills and 11 digs for Eastern while Kruto had 10 kills and 21 digs and Van Eekeren added 10 kills, 11 digs and 23 assists.

Ralston noted that Eastern had 17 receiving errors against Michigan State, which means MSU had 17 serving aces. Ralston also added that MSU freshman Jennifer Gray had game high 23 kills.

"Michigan State University had a good middle hitter and they did a nice job of getting the ball to her," added Ralston.

The Lady Panthers will travel to Penn State on Thursday to play the Nittany Lions and then will travel to the University of West Virginia to participate in a tournament over the weekend.
