 Eastern students voting in the November elections could have an impact in what has always been a swing county, Joe Connelly, chairman of the Coles County Democratic Central Committee, said Monday.
 However, Herb Brooks, chairman of the Coles County Republican Central Committee, said, "I don't know if it (the student vote) will have any drastic effect."
 The two local chairmen made their comments after some 400 students and faculty members registered on campus last week to vote.
 Persons still wanting to register can do so through Tuesday at the Court House.
 "I don't think there is any doubt that the students could have an impact," Connelly said. "This has always been a swing county.

Students' vote could affect election outcome—Connelly

 In the 1972 local elections the students had a definite effect in the outcome, he said.
 Brooks said he didn't know what effect the student vote would have because students are "good solid citizens and will vote for who they think is the best candidate."
 "Students are like any other voters and there is no difference in the way they vote," he added.
 Connelly said of the November elections, "I think the local Democrats will get 75 to 80 per cent of the students' vote."

 Brooks said that he thought Connelly's prediction was a little high and presumptuous.
 When asked if the Republicans were doing anything to get student votes in the election Brooks said, "Yes, we've worked through the College Republicans, doing some canvassing and talking to students."
 "The Democrats," Connelly said, "are not making any promises" to the students.

"We've always tried to get them to vote," he said, "while the Republicans resisted the right of the students to vote in the past," he added.
 Connelly said that he thought the student turnout in the week-long registration drive was excellent, while Brooks said the turnout was "pretty good."
 Although almost 400 students and faculty members were estimated to have registered in the drive, the County Clerk's office was unsure of the exact amount Monday.
 Harry Grafton, county clerk, said that an exact count was not kept through the week, and that a breakdown of students voting is not kept.
 A precinct tabulation of registered voters will be made Oct. 20, Grafton said.

Court dismisses Kerchner charges

by John Ryan
 By a split decision Monday night the Student Supreme Court dismissed all charges against Kevin Kerchner, financial officer president, for misuse of student government funds.
 Kerchner was charged with improperly reimbursing Mark Wisser, student body president, with $58.25 for summer session fees.
 Bill Gaugush, a graduate student from Henry, filed the class action suit September 13, and asked that a reimbursement of those funds be made to Kerchner or Wisser.
 Three justices voted in favor of Kerchner because they felt Wisser did "provide services" during the summer and was entitled to the reimbursement.
 The dissenting judges stated that Wisser did not provide services for the summer.

 Chief justice Foley along with justices Mike LaPointe and Randy Marmor ruled in favor of Kerchner. Justices Mike Stachowski, Barry Alexander and Steve Burdick found in favor of Gaugush.
 Liza Foley, chief justice, said that because of the split decision the court could not take action against Kerchner.
 There is no definite rule or law which states that the court, in a split decision, can find in favor of the plaintiff (Gaugush), she said.
 "In all legal systems, to find in favor of the plaintiff, a majority of the court is needed," she added.
 The Student Supreme Court is originally composed of seven justices, but the seventh justice recently resigned.
 Rhea Loheide, a supreme court justice, resigned last Friday because she is student teaching this semester and could not be granted a leave of absence.

 Gaugush had presented his arguments to the court last Thursday, but because of the deadlock the court deliberated until Monday to make a decision.
 Gaugush argued that according to senate by-laws an officer must "provide services" to receive reimbursement.
 Wisser did not "provide services" as enumerated under the duties of the president in the constitution because he was not on campus for more than a few days during the session, he said.
 After the court announced its verdict, Gaugush said that he had no comments to make, but said he would not appeal the decision to President Gilbert Fite.

Kerchner also had no comment to make on the court's decision.
 Wisser, who was unavailable for comment Monday night, had argued in Kerchner's defense that he had briefed several senate officials prior to the summer semester as to business coming up over the summer.
 He added that, although it was "economically impossible" for him to be on campus, he consulted with Kerchner and other officials over the telephone on several instances.
 Wisser had registered for two courses this summer but was not on campus. Diane Ford, executive vice president, acted as student body president in Wisser's absence.

Dispos-All workers receive threats of physical violence

By Barry Smith

Workers for Dispos-All, one of Charleston's four garbage collection services, were kept from going to work Monday morning because of "threats of physical violence and property destruction," Mrs. Vernon Glass, wife of the owner of Dispos-All said.
 Vernon Glass was not available for comment.
 Employees of the city's four garbage collection firms had threatened to strike Monday if their demands that Charleston residents put their garbage along the curbs for easier pickup were not met.
 Two of the garbage hauling firms, Hervey's Sanitary Service and Bert Morgan Disposal Service, were on the job as usual while employees of Kleenwell were out on strike until 2 p.m., spokespersons for the three businesses said Monday.
 All four companies, however, said they expect to provide full service Tuesday.
 "There were cars in front of the drive-way and cars in it, too," Mrs. Glass said. "We weren't allowed to go to work as we had wanted to in the first place."
 Charleston police were called by Dispos-All to clear the driveway and subsequently requested that a truck blocking the drive be removed, a police spokesman said.

 About 30 minutes later police responded to another call from Dispos-All that Glass, the owner, was being harassed at his home. However, when police arrived, Glass was not at home, a spokesman said.
 Carl Ball, who is owner of Kleenwell services, said his employees were "not striking against me. It's more of a protest against the city ordinances against putting garbage on the curbs".
 Ball started his collection route on his own early Monday morning before being joined by his employees at 2 p.m. He said he expects to be caught up to his schedule sometime Tuesday.
 Mayor Bob Hickman said that despite any strikes or disturbances the city council "remains dead set against curb service. Since they worked this morning they'll probably be back tomorrow, but we're set if they aren't," he added.

Warmer Tuesday

Tuesday will be sunny and a little warmer with highs in the lower 70's. Tuesday night will be fair and warmer with lows around 50.

Murray concert scheduled for Nov. 7 by UB

Popular singer Anne Murray of "Snowbird" and "What About Me" fame will appear in concert at Eastern Nov. 7, Jim Hinze, vice chairperson of the University Board (UB), said Wednesday.

Tickets for the concert will go on sale Oct. 24, Hinze said.

Bachman Turner Overdrive, which was tentatively slated to appear Oct. 7, turned down the offer to appear at Eastern, he added.

Black Oak Arkansas, of "Jim Dandy" fame, is tentatively scheduled to perform here in concert Nov. 18.

The next guest speaker will be Bernadette Devlin, once the youngest and possibly the most outspoken member of the British Parliament, who will speak Oct. 27.

At meeting in Union Tuesday

Golden to report on ACLU lobbying office

By Debbie Pearson

One of the most active downstate American Civil Liberties Union (ACLU) leaders will address the ACLU at a meeting Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in the Union Altgeld Room.

Larry Golden, Springfield ACLU chapter director, will report on a recently formed legislative lobbying office in Springfield, P. Scott Smith, co-chairperson of the Charleston ACLU, said Saturday.

The ACLU is a non-partisan, non-profit nationwide organization devoted to protecting freedoms guaranteed in the United States Constitution and particularly those freedoms guaranteed in the Bill of Rights.

Eastern students are invited to attend both the ACLU meeting and a picnic which will be held prior to the meeting in Morton Park at 6 p.m." Smith said.

He added that "the new state director in Chicago has indicated that his greatest concern is for more young persons to be brought into the ACLU at both the state and national levels."

Yosh Golden, coordinator Springfield office, will also be meeting to describe the working office, which is run primarily by Sangamon State University students.

UCM plans Wednesday worship

The United Campus Ministry invites all interested persons to worship services, at 12:10 p.m. each Wednesday in October at their building opposite Lawson Hall on South Fourth Street.

Sister Maria Regis, UCM publicity chairperson, said that services will last until about 12:25 p.m. to give worshippers an opportunity to have lunch.

She said that coffee will be provided for those who wish to bring a sack lunch.

The worship services are intended to encourage the Christian community to pray together and hopefully continue through the semester.

Ford: program must be adopted in full to succeed

WASHINGTON (AP) President Ford was described Monday as viewing his forthcoming economic program as a package to be adopted in full if inflation is to be conquered by 1976.

Press secretary Ron Nessen said Ford will seek across-the-board acceptance of more than a dozen economic proposals he will unveil in a nationally televised and broadcast appearance at a joint session of Congress at 4 p.m. EDT Tuesday.

Nessen said the President does not look upon his policy recommendations — already decided upon — as “a shopping list for the Congress and the American people to pick and choose what might be the easiest to carry out.”

The press secretary would not discuss whether Ford would recommend five percent surtax on corporations and upper income individuals.

However, administration sources acknowledged the surtax had been discussed as Ford made key decisions.

A possible surtax won pledges of support and expressions of disapproval from some influential senators.

Senate Republican leader Hugh Scott said he would support a five percent tax surcharge if Ford recommended it. Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield said he would also back the idea if it applied to incomes of $20,000 or more.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., was critical however, saying a surtax would be “fundamentally unfair to millions of ordinary taxpayers because it hits harder at those who already pay more than their fair share of taxes.”

Nessen said special precautions will be taken to keep Ford's proposals secret until the moment he appears before Congress.

Nessen said Ford's text would be kept “as closely held as possible until the stock market closes,” at 4 p.m.

The presidential spokesman said the program Ford will outline will call for “restraint, self-discipline and sacrifice by business, consumers and government.”

Burditt must overcome Stevenson name

Rick Popely
George Burditt's biggest obstacle in the election campaign is overcoming Adlai Stevenson's name recognition, Burditt's son said here Tuesday afternoon.

Bud Burditt

Bud Burditt, 21-year-old son of the Republican candidate for U.S. senator, will be at Eastern through Tuesday evening campaigning for his father.

“The main obstacle we have to overcome is name recognition,” Burditt said, citing a recent survey which showed that 96 per cent of those polled knew Adlai Stevenson was.

“Most people don't really know what Adlai stands for, they just know who he is,” Burditt said.

Bud, whose first is George like his father, quit school last winter to work in the Burditt campaign. He was a math major at the University of California at Santa Barbara.

He said he finds that political life requires that either his social life or his sleeping time be sacrificed somewhat, adding, “So far, it's been sleep.”

“Inflation is the big issue now,” the younger Burditt said. “Watergate's definitely in the past.”

“The biggest difference George has with Adlai is that Adlai is a big spender,” Burditt said. “He's voted for bills which would have added $100 billion more to the budget.”

Blaming Congress for increases in the national debt, Burditt said “there's got to be a way to balance the budget. If families can do it, so can government.”

He said his father has advocated legislation which would prevent deficit spending by Constitutional amendment.

Stevenson and Burditt oppose each other basically according to political stance, he said.

“Adlai is for centralization of government while George is for more local, decentralized government. If local government has more control you know who is making the mistakes. You can't often see who makes the mistakes in Washington.”

As an example he cited Stevenson's bill to establish a federal oil and gas corporation to research where oil reserves are located, which Burditt says is putting the federal government in competition with private industry.

Burditt said that he has not traveled extensively in the state yet but he plans on having a busier schedule as election day draws closer.

In his visits to college campuses he has found that “generally young people are more apathetic than older people. I think they're generally just fed up with the system.”

He said he hoped people weren't turned off to politics not only by Watergate but by the corruption of the Democratic Party in Cook County and would vote this year.

His father “didn't get into it despite Watergate, but because of it,” he said.

Fine Arts receives $8,526 for Chautauqua

Debbie Pearson
Eastern's School of Fine Arts was awarded a grant of $8,526 Monday to present a Chautauqua in April 1975 at Coles County Fairgrounds.

Marvin L. Vawter, Executive Director of the Illinois Humanities Council, presented the award to Vaughn Jaenike, director of the school of Fine Arts, during a conference announcing the presentation of a “Revival of the Tent Chautauqua in Coles County, Illinois.”

The original Chautauqua Institute, established in 1874, “was more entertaining than a cultural program,” Vawter said.

But the tent Chautauqua format, patterned after touring programs which provided public lectures, concerts and performances, played to an estimated 40 million people in 1924 alone.

Using the Illinois Humanities Council's theme for 1974, “Breaking Barriers: Individual and Governmental Responsibility,” the Charleston program will combine performing artists and teachers in the humanities to explore the topic “Equal Justice Under the Law.”

A large tent will be erected on the Coles County Fairgrounds and the general public will be encouraged to participate in dialogues of the topic, focusing on issues of interest to the community, Vawter explained.

Specific issues which will be dealt with at the local Chautauqua are: how residents of Coles County envision their proposed new jail, perceive the role and availability of public defenders and feel about the amount of bond required for rapists.

Coles County residents will also be questioned concerning views on the abolition of penalties for victimless crimes such as prostitution and gambling.

The Chautauqua, which is funded by the National Endowment for the Humanities to relate the disciplines of the humanities to current conditions of national life, will move the university and the community to a neutral territory, Vawter said.

Hard drug abuse indications rise

WASHINGTON (AP) - All the indicators of hard drug abuse are up again in the last six months after a steady decline since 1971, Dr. Robert L. DuPont, director of the National Institute on Drug Abuse, told Congress Monday.

“So we have a genuinely new situation and a worrisome one,” DuPont said. “We can no longer talk about the corner on heroin.”

One recent phenomenon is the unexpected increase in heroin addiction in smaller cities like Macon, Ga., Des Moines, Iowa, or Jackson, Miss., he said.

This has led us to speculate that drug use radiates out from the major population centers and can be expected in the smaller cities and eventually the rural areas after a reasonably predictable lag,” DuPont said.

DuPont testified before a House subcommittee on health and environment.

The chairman, Rep. Paul G. Rogers, said there has been dramatic increase in the illegal use of dangerous drugs in the last three months, with 100 deaths up 100 per cent in some areas.

The hearings will survey reports that heroin addicts now number between 1,000 to 800,000, compared to less than half that figure a year ago.

Deaths from drugs are up 100 per cent in Chicago, for instance, Rogers said.

Council approves major change; Fite should follow suit

It was long overdue, but the Council on Academic Affairs (CAA) finally approved a motion last Thursday to drop the foreign language requirement for English majors.

The motion is now in the hands of President Fite, and we urge the President to approve the measure immediately.

English majors have been discriminated against long enough. For the past two years they have been required to take eight hours of foreign language courses, even though the university dropped the foreign language requirement for all other bachelor of arts degrees.

At that time, the English Department voted to retain the requirement. But now, James Quivey, head of the department, says they "erred" in deciding to retain the requirement.

Approval of the motion did not come without resistance, however.

William Butler, of the Curriculum Committee of the College of Arts and Sciences, urged the CAA not to drop the foreign language requirement.

The Curriculum Committee, last summer, vetoed a proposal from the English Department to drop the requirement. One reason cited for the veto was that "it is certainly not a time to lower standards." Another reason noted was the fear of what effect the requirement drop might have on the Foreign Language Department.

Both of these reasons for retaining the requirement must have been formulated with little or no concern for the students.

Certainly the dropping of foreign language as a requirement is not lowering the standards for English majors. It is just bringing their requirements in line with those of other majors.

Granted, the Foreign Language Department may feel the effects of the change, but the department should be more concerned with their own majors anyway, rather than the English majors.

As Gloria Ceide, of the Foreign Language Department said, "it (the requirement) puts the English Department at a competitive disadvantage."

No department at Eastern should be put at a disadvantage, especially with emphasis being placed on recruiting. And apparently, many English majors did not agree with having the foreign language requirement, which in itself could be the same feeling of prospective students.

If Fite approves the motion, English majors may substitute two foreign language electives to complete their degree requirement. Majors who want to continue foreign languages may still do so, but on an optional basis.

Sizing it up... by Diane Duvall

Bikes popular, but also dangerous

Probably the most popular mode of transportation on this campus (at least until the snow sets in) is bicycling.

Just a couple of weeks ago, Eastern participated in Bicycle Safety Week, an event which included a bike expedition covering the existing bike paths.

Because of a study done prior to the expedition, Charleston may apply for money to install more bike paths.

I doubt that many students realized the importance of this decision.

Certainly the addition of more bike paths will reduce the odds of having a bicycle accident. At least they will help accommodate the increased number of cyclists.

But what students may also have neglected is the fact that even though one million injuries per year are caused by bike accidents, the fault is usually the bike's, instead of the rider's.

In a recent issue of Ladies Journal, Ralph Nader discussed bicycle safety. He provided some interesting and surprising facts concerning this matter.

For instance, he blamed bike design for most of the accidents, citing brake failure, lack of slip-resistant pedals, inadequate reflectors for night riding as major causes.

The revision of the basic design of the bike may also be a contributing factor, he claims. Narrow seats, small front wheels and high, wide handlebars add difficulty to maneuvering.

One look around this campus will tell you that many of the students do not use that type of bike. Sure, there are nice-looking models, but the safety hazard is still there. Nader says that about 12 per cent of bike accidents result in fractures and about six per cent result in concussions.

Bike safety has come to the attention of the Consumer Product Safety Commission (CPSC). This organization is working toward safety requirements for all bikes, except racing type. Under these requirements, bike manufacturers will have to meet certain standards.

But these regulations will probably not go into effect until next year. Nader points out. So bikes made this year will not meet the new standards.

Students should be aware of the possible hazards of bikes. Bike safety will probably reduce car-bike accidents. But students will have to take care in bike maneuvering.

Again, bike design is against the rider, as far as safety is concerned. It puts double pressure on the rider.

And on a college campus with an increased amount of bike traffic, there is an even greater danger, even with the new paths.

Let the student beware—bikes are great forms of transportation. But their design and use should be of great importance to the student who uses them.

Phrase deserves a modest effort

There is a famous phrase upon which the entire broadcasting industry is based. Stations are licensed to broadcast "in the public interest, convenience and necessity."

And so, this week's column is a modest effort to fulfill that basic tenet, even though this is a newspaper. Always ascertain the people's needs and fulfill them.

The need I've noticed has been for new and fresh "mindless bits of information" (trivia?). You know what I mean, the kind of stuff you used to hear at cocktail parties (for those of you over 30), kegers, smokers (fraternity and otherwise...puff, puff, toke) - or wherever people would gather in joyous celebration of whatever they could think of.

Well, the following is my attempt to fill that gap in a musical vein. Feel free to rip-off any of these tidbits. Impress, enlighten or bore to death your best friends at their next party.

Using these phrases and sayings is also an excellent way to measure your I.Q.: Intelligence is inversely proportional to the enthusiasm and response of those listening.

Take your pick, they're all equally bad.

Billy Joel is originally from Scarsdale, New York.

While waiting for Mark Farner (Grand Funk) to tune his guitar, Todd Rundgren reconstructed the entire universe out of popsicle sticks.

Chopin did not play honky-tonk piano in a Polish bordello.

Anne Murray's favorite male singer is Harry Nilsson.

Also, Anne is a 29-year-old ex-physical education teacher. She loves children, grew up with five brothers in a Nova Scotia mining town, admires Perry Como and feels more at home with a Frisbee in her hand than a joint.

Lynyrd Skynyrd like George Wallace. James Brown, Otis Reading and Little Richard are all from Macon, Georgia.

Duane Allman was at one time session guitarist for Aretha Franklin and Wilson Pickett.

Benander resignation causes IFC reshuffle

by Tom Otten
 Officers of the Interfraternity Council (IFC) were reshuffled recently after the resignation of Carl Benander as president.
 Ed McClane, of Sigma Pi, automatically moved up to president from his previous position as first vice president. McClane is from Greenup and is majoring in speech.

 Benander, of Phi Sigma Epsilon, resigned because of the burden of graduate work, McClane said. He is from Franklin Park and is doing graduate work in psychology.
 Jim Price, of Delta Chi, moved up to first vice president from his secretary. Price, from Elmhurst, is also now working on his master's degree.

Brian Carlson of Delta Chi was appointed second vice president near the end of last spring semester. He is from Bourbonnais, and is majoring in market and management.

McClane said that in elections on Sept. 10, the vacant offices of secretary and treasurer were filled.

David Poshard, Phi Kappa Alpha, was elected secretary and Lee Peak, Tau Kappa Epsilon, was selected treasurer to fill the vacancy left by John Simms who graduated.

These officers will serve until the end of the fall semester.

There will be elections in November for new officers, who will take over at the first IFC meeting in January.

State rep candidates Campbell, Coffey to answer questions

The two Republican candidates for state representative in the 53rd District will speak at 2 p.m. Tuesday in the Ballroom of the University Union.

Chuck Campbell, an incumbent from Danville, and Max Coffey of Charleston will speak briefly and then field questions from the audience, Jeff Baker of the College Republicans said Monday.

The College Republicans are sponsoring the candidates' appearance here, said Baker.

Campbell and Coffey are being opposed by Democrats Bob Craig, an incumbent from Indianola, and Al Keith of Mattoon. Three of the four candidates will be elected in the Nov. 5 election.

Jr. high majors to sell popcorn, apples before UB film Sunday

By Debbie Pearson

Eastern's Junior High Majors Club will sell popcorn and apples in the residence halls next Sunday before the University Board's movie, "The Godfather," which will be shown in McAfee at 8 p.m.

Taylor Young, president of the Junior High Majors Club, said that the sale of popcorn and apples was planned so students would be able to take them to the movie.

The club has also planned a picnic for Oct. 27 at Fox Ridge State Park, Young said.

"Eastern is the only school in Illinois that offers a junior high education major," Young explained.

Teachers and principals of junior high school students come to club meetings to discuss junior high problems and describe job interviews, he added.

The club also conducts a placement service for members in connection with the university Placement Office.

He said that students who are interested in a junior high education major should talk to club members or attend some of the club functions for more information.

More schools are beginning to hire persons trained especially for teaching at the junior high level, Young explained.

Democrats surpass Republicans in controlling inflation—Gallup Poll

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP) - Most voters would like to see Democrats elected in their congressional districts, partly because Democrats are considered to be better than Republicans at controlling inflation, according to the Gallup Poll.

The poll said Sunday that personal interviews in August and September showed 54 per cent of those surveyed favored Democratic congressional candidates, 35 per cent preferred Republicans, three per cent wanted candidates from other parties to win. Eight per cent were undecided.

Gallup said a key factor in Democrats' commanding lead at present is widespread public concern over high cost of living. Two thirds of those interviewed predicted that the economic situation will worsen in the next few months, and nearly half predicted a depression such as the nation suffered in the 1930s.

Untimely mistakes once again Panther demise

By Gene Seymour
That old Eastern football nemesis, untimely mistakes and lapses, once again haunted Jack Dean's crew in its 28-3 loss to Western Illinois Saturday.

"A ten-minute lapse at the end of the second quarter and at the beginning of the third, as well as a fumble and an interception inside their 20 cost us the ball game," said a disillusioned Dean.

"The game was actually much closer than the score would point out," Dean said, adding that the final score could have very well been 17-14 in the Panthers' favor had they played mistake-free football.

A dropped kickoff by Tom Chameliewski and a muffed punt return by Dave Hoover set up two Leatherneck scores, while a fumble by Lorne Hubick at the Western 16, and an interception of Greg Browne pass moments later at the WIU 19, nailed the lid on Eastern's coffin.

"We were really driving on those turnovers," said Dean, "We were going to score for sure."

Saturday was the showcase for the new Panther offense, a wishbone-T setup, and for the most part, the results were favorable.

"We moved the ball against them," said Dean. "Once we get the knack of running this thing down pat, we could go places."

Work on the wishbone began during the two week layoff the Panthers had last weekend as a result of an open date.

It was more or less a cram course, as the total wishbone technique is hard to grasp in only a two week span.

Help from Oklahoma highlighted the crash course, as Bill Michael, a coach at Oklahoma U., was flown up to help the Panthers with the execution of the offense.

Of his new backfield's progress, Dean offered, "All three looked good, except for some typical opening mistakes.

"Browne has a few things to learn, such as when to keep the ball rather than pitching it, while there will have to be improvement in Hagenbruch's running and Bell's blocking, Dean said.

Western, which had been averaging under 350 yards rushing per game, was held 190 yards on the ground, but ate up the Panther secondary for 142 yards in the air.

Eastern recorded 195 yards total offense, with 142 yards coming from the run and 53 in the air.

Browne, quarterbacking the whole way, hit on 6 of 8 attempts.

"We were hurt by a total of 30 yards of losses at the end", Dean said, "or else we would have had 225 yards total offense."

Fancher improved

Bill Fancher showed great courage in the Illinois State dual placing 12th of the 19 runners entered in this his first varsity meet.

It's unity, teamwork, and persistence that keep the varsity cross country team afloat and it will be a short day at the north pole before they change their philosophy and start losing a few.

Panther Cubs dumped by good Millikin team

By Doug Lawhead

Eastern's Junior Varsity Panther Cubs went down 30-10 to Millikin in a game that the Eastern squad dominated statistically.

Eastern rushed for 177 yards and passed for 94 for a total of 271 while Millikin rushed for 152 yards and passed for 69 for a total of 221 yards.

Eastern was penalized 20 yards as Millikin lost 30 by this route with Eastern gaining 9 first downs to their opponents 11.

Millikin took the opening kickoff with Joe Fedrick returning it five yards before being brought down by a group of Panthers.

A possible Milliken scoring drive was stopped when Eastern's Tim Virden picked off a pass and returned it ten yards to the Milliken 42.

Following an exchange of punts, Virden again came through as he recovered a fumble on the first play of the second quarter, stopping what might have been a scoring drive by Millikin.

The Milliken defense then gave Eastern a look at things to come as Bill Jordon blasted through the line, and blocked the punt, picked it up, and carried it six yards for the score.

Eastern's offense fumbled the ball away on their own 39 yard line on the next series of downs setting up the next Millikin score.

Quarterback Rick Harvill carried the ball to a first down on the 41 setting up Eastern's first score of the game.

Jackson took a pitch out from Harvill and carried it 59 yards on the most exciting run of the game for the touchdown.

Jackson again got the call as he ran off guard for a two point conversion to bring the Panthers in to contention 17-8.

Millikin, still unable to mount a scoring drive, punted to Eastern setting up a Millikin score.

After failing to move the ball, Eastern again attempted to punt and again the Eastern kicker was sacked, this time on his 11 yard line.

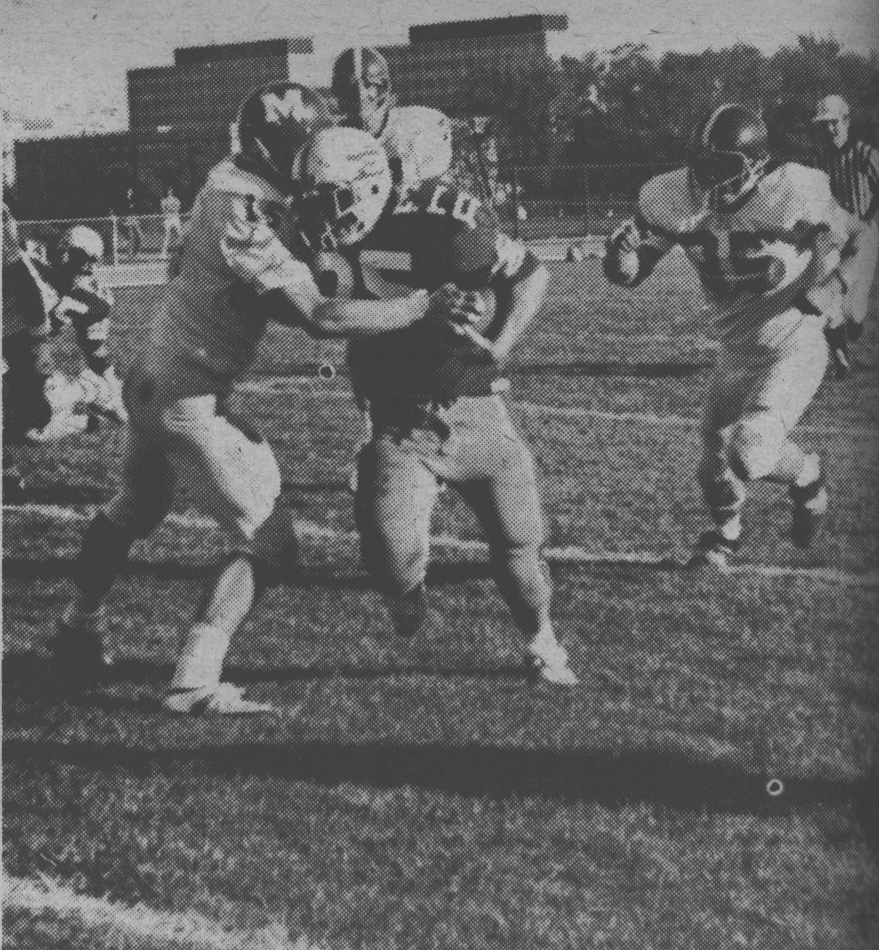

Two plays later Fedrick carried the ball over for Millikin from eight yards out on a run down the middle. The point after was good making it 24-8.

Eastern came back and got within what the coaches thought was field goal range.

Jack Hiatt came on to attempt the field goal from 28 yards out but the kick fell short.

Following an exchange of punts the Eastern defense scored a safety when a Millikin punt was blocked by Jim Spangler and rolled into the endzone with the Millikin punter recovering it with 3:10 to go in the third quarter.

Eastern fumbled the ball away once more on the next series with Eastern's Mario Maenza coming back and intercepting a pass two plays later.

Panther junior varsity running back Jim Spicuzza picks up a tough seven yard on this play as he penetrates the left side of the Millikin line, dragging with him a MU defender. (News photo by Scott Weaver)

Two WFL teams could fold soon

NEWPORT BEACH, Calif. (AP) — The World Football League announced Monday that Detroit Wheels and Jacksonville Sharks games this week postponed.

They also said the financially troubled teams will fold without investors within two or three days.

The opponents for Detroit Jacksonville this week, the Blazers and Chicago Fire, will Wednesday night at Chicago under revised schedule released by Gary Davidson, WFL president.

Don Anderson, a WFL vice president said "no exact hour has been set deadline, but new financing probably have to be done in the next two or three days to keep the clubs operative year."

He said that the cost of operating teams is about $500,000 each for balance of the season, which would be the first-year league $1 million. It is operating the Florida Blazers franchise.

Panthers not 'up to par'; still coast

Saturday the cross country Panthers proved they were human but not at the expense of a splendid 5-0 seasonal record.

In every other intercollegiate meet this year they have done more than anyone expected, except for maybe themselves.

It is only human to get tired and even more human to display exhaustion when a person's body can no longer keep up with the previous pace no matter what the occasion. Luckily for the Panthers this wasn't a tougher meet.

Though it still was a good meet, it just wasn't up to par for a team that has done a super job in every other contest this season.

A 15 point gap between winner and loser does not indicate a close meet, but it is far from the usual 19-35 spread.

Granted this year more than ever Eastern has a team of runners that are exceptionally good or do exceptionally good things with what they have. This was revealed even after the Illinois State dual on Eastern's course on Parents Weekend.

"It's just the third week in September," said coach Tom Woodall, "and already the letterman from last year are running comparably to the way they were running in late October or November during the '73 season."

"Rick Livesey ran 32 seconds faster than his best race last year, while Mike Larson ran 15 seconds better, Ken Burke ran 20 seconds faster, and Dave Nance ran 31 seconds faster than his best time on Eastern's course last year."

In five meets this season Larson has been the lone winner once, tied with Burke alone for the first place finish in another, tied for the first place finish with Livesey in two meets and in one meet all three tied for the championship title.

The Bradley shutout was the meet in which the Larson, Livesey, Burke, trio broke the course record without even aiming to break it.

Dave Nance, a much improved runner over last season has been right behind Larson, Livesey and Burke every step of the way as he has placed fourth in every challenge this season.

Glen Lyle is doing a fine job along with the sophomores who are coming along this season.

Lyle is a junior college transfer who has placed fifth in every meet this fall with the exception of the Bradley meet when Mike Brehm overtook him after recovering from an injury earlier in the season.

Brehm was the seventh Panther on the team to finish in the last meet behind two junior college transfers, one of which is senior Don Sparks and the other, Lyle, previously mentioned.

Sophomore Brehm's running experience from the past two years (including the present season) is beginning to pay off as he has now beaten freshman Paul Weilmunster twice in a row, but as Ken Burke said, "You've got to go down before you can come up."

Sparks is improving and is becoming more consistent as he has placed sixth on the team for the past two races.

Sophomore Mike Lehman is running varsity this season and is showing improvement over last year.

Many freshman have contributed to varsity success in a real team effort this season.

John Christy placed third in the alumni meet September 7, before he (See FANCHER, page 7)

Even though his team suffered a 5-1 shellacking at the hands of Quincy Saturday, soccer coach Fritz Teller said his teams' spirits "are still pretty high."

"I think we played well," said the coach. "We moved the ball and got our shots. We just couldn't capitalize on our opportunities."

"I don't want to take anything away from their goalkeeper because he was a good one but we had him beat three times and just couldn't put the ball in the net."

Teller said that Quincy is among the best teams his squad will face all season.

"They are a good, strong soccer team," he said. "They moved the ball effectively and they just keep coming at you."

"I think they're a better team than University of St. Louis at Missouri. We were able to contain UMSL in the second half of the game but Quincy just didn't quit."

Teller admitted that his defense wasn't as strong as it has been in the past. "You can't replace an All-American goalie (Chuck Weisberg) with a freshman (Zenon Balchunas) and not have it hurt."

Teller said that Quincy scored their first goal on defensive mistakes by Eastern but that his team will get better as the season gets older.

"I don't have any specific changes to make in the defense. I think we have good players back there. It's just a question of people knowing where each other are."

"That will come with experience."

Quincy, who beat the Panthers 5-2 last year, play their home games at night and in front of large crowds, two that Eastern is unaccustomed to.

"They get a lot of support from student body," said Teller, "but soccer is the fall sport. They don't football or cross country."

"They always get a good turnout. Also, they play at night, but I think this hurt us. We were just excited first and got beat by a better soccer team."

No Homecoming at Western

In Friday's News, it was inaccurately reported that the football game at Western was to be that year's Homecoming game.

It was since learned that the game was not a homecoming game, but was a football game to mark the 50th anniversary of Western's Diamond Jubilee Week.
