Khomeini lets up on hostage threats to prevent takeover

by the Associated Press

TEHRAN, Iran — Iran backed down Sunday from its threats to set a quick trial date for the American Embassy hostages—apparently preferring to leave the United States in suspense while Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini tries to clamp down on rebellious minorities threatening his power.

U.N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim, meanwhile, dispatched a special intermediary to Tehran to pursue U.N. efforts to resolve the crisis.

Iranian Foreign Minister Sadegh Ghotbzadeh, who on Friday pledged to make a statement within 48 hours on a trial date for the 50 Americans held at the embassy, said Sunday, "At present we are not going to set any time limits on arriving at any new decisions about the hostages."

And in an interview with NBC-TV's "Meet the Press," he said it might take 10 days for him to establish an international panel that he said Saturday would be set up to help investigate the hostages.

Iran has threatened to try some of the hostages as spies unless the United States extradites the deposed shah, something the Carter administration refuses to do.

The Iranian regime's domestic troubles deepened Sunday.

In rebellious Azerbaijan, Khomeini supporters in the provincial capital of Tabriz wrested the radio and television station from anti-Khomeini ethnic Turks who took it over last week. But later Sunday, tens of thousands of dissident Turks stormed the station, a bloody gun battle broke out, and the rebels regained control of it.

Hospital sources said six persons were wounded.

Eastern students protest Iran's holding hostages

by Dru Sefton

Varying student protests concerning the hostage situation in Iran have occurred on campus this week.

Waving "Nuke Iran," "Free the Hostages," and Fry-Ayatollah' signs, a group of eight students staged a peaceful protest Sunday afternoon in front of the Fine Arts Building on the Library Quad.

One of the students burned a picture of Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini while the others shouted, "We hate Iran!" and "Remember Nagasaki!"

"We're just out showing our Americanism," one of the group of students from fourth-floor Thomas Hall said.

The group said they felt President Jimmy Carter should "get tougher with the Iranians." The students suggested the president set a date by which the hostages should be freed, then take military action, if the deadline was broken.

All members of the group enthusiastically said they would go to Iran to defend the United States if President Carter decided to take military action and reinstated the draft.

The students also said they were in favor of an all-campus rally, to voice the students' patriotism.

Signs were posted in Thomas and Taylor hall food services this week advertising a "Pro-American Rally" that was to be held on the South Quad Sunday afternoon at 1 p.m. However, protesters said no one besides themselves turned out for the rally.

Another of the protests is in the form of the phrase "Iran Sucks Shit" in the windows of three rooms in Thomas Hall.

"We put up the signs to show our solidarity; to show we're not apathetic," Kevin McGowan, a resident of one of the rooms, said. McGowan said the phrase "seemed to fit the situation."

McGowan, a graduate student, said he felt Carter was doing "a fairly good job," and he himself would not hesitate to go to Iran to defend America if necessary.

"Whether Khomeini realizes it or not, he has united our country," McGowan said. "The worse the trouble becomes, the closer we will become."

McGowan added he is "not afraid of the repercussions" the sign in his window may cause.

Mike Cambruzzi, senior, said he thought he would "go along" with the window signs, although it was not his idea.

"I think Carter's doing a pretty good job," Cambruzzi said. "I can't see doing anything else as of the moment."

Cambruzzi said he disagreed with the idea of Carter setting a time limit on the release of the hostages.

"Setting a time limit may just give Khomeini the incentive to injure the hostages," Cambruzzi said. "We should just play it by ear at this point."

The residents of Room 414, the last room with a window sign, wished to remain anonymous, but said they went along with the signs, "Just so they (the other participants) wouldn't think we were heels."

Three Turks killed while marching in Iranian battle

by The Associated Press

TABRIZ, Iran — Surging mobs of pro-and anti-Khomeini forces battled in the streets of Tabriz Sunday, capturing and recapturing government buildings in the worst violence of the 4-day-old rebellion by ethnic Turks in the Azerbaijan region of northwest Iran.

Rebel leaders said three persons were killed and 60 were wounded in the fight to control the radio station in this northwestern Iranian city. They reported all of the victims were ethnic Turks and said they were shot as they marched up a hill toward the station that was held by Khomeini backers.

Heavy gunfire broke out at the government radio-television station as tens of thousands of angry Iranian Turks stormed the building and seized it from Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini's partisans, who had captured it from rebellious Turks earlier in the day.

The gunfight for control of the building lasted about an hour, while the throngs swirled about the area, many chanting "Death to Khomeini!"

Earlier, the anti-Khomeini Azerbaijanis seized a police station and retook the local governor's mansion, which they had lost earlier Sunday to Khomeini's revolutionary guards.

By nightfall, as crowds still milled in the city's streets, it appeared that the dissidents had gained the upper hand.

Revolutionary leader Khomeini, in a nationwide radio broadcast, blamed what he called a "rebellion against the rule of Islam" in Azerbaijan on "plotters who receive their orders from America or elsewhere."

The Turkish ethnic minority, comprising about one-fourth of Iran's population of 35 million, is angry that the new Islamic constitution denies them self-rule in their Azerbaijan region.

The dissidents are followers of Ayatollah Mohammad Kazem Shariat-Madari, who is Iran's No. 2 Shiite Moslem clergyman behind revolutionary leader Khomeini and who is chief spokesman for Iran's Turkish-speaking minority. Tabriz, which has a population 600,000, is the capital of East Azerbaijan province.

The two ayatollahs have fallen out over the constitution because it makes Khomeini absolute ruler for life and denies the people of this area—also known as Azeri Turks—the autonomy they hoped it would provide.

Early Sunday, some 4,000 Khomeini supporters—men, women and children—prayed at the university adjacent to the broadcast station, then rushed the station and seized it and 20 to 30 from Turkish guards. The armed guards, and others who fled, did not shoot.

Rep. John Anderson said Sunday that Secretary of State Cyrus Vance should include the Soviet Union among the European allies he visits this week to ask for economic pressure on Iran.

The GOP presidential hopeful said that since the Russians share a border with Iran, "we shouldn't overlook any possibility to try and involve them in discussions."

Demonstrations are planned to press for more black representation in Mayor Jane Byrne's administration, the Rev. Jesse Jackson said as he charged the mayor with "racist politics."

Jackson, president of the self-help group Operation PUSH, told a city hall demonstration Saturday that community meetings, demonstrations and possibly "civil disobedience" would be used to pressure Mrs. Byrne into appointing blacks.

Nicaraguan criminals face public trials soon

by The Associated Press

MANAGUA, Nicaragua — Some 7,000 accused war criminals and collaborators of the Somoza regime face a lengthy series of public trials that could start as early as this week.

The star defendant will be the ousted President Anastasio Somoza himself, though his trial on genocide charges will be conducted in absentia. He is living in exile in Paraguay.

The proceedings, which one local newspaper describes as "Nuremberg without the gallows," a reference to the World War II trials of German war criminals, may open as soon as Wednesday, diplomatic sources here say. They could last as long as six months.

Nicaragua has no death penalty and the maximum penalty the defendants face is 30 years in prison. Many of the German war criminals at Nuremberg were hanged.

Sergio Ramirez, a member of the junta that now rules Nicaragua, has said the trials will be public and the government welcomes the attendance of international watchdog agencies such as Amnesty International, the London-based human rights group that won the 1977 Nobel Peace Prize.

An Amnesty spokesman reached in London had not heard of the invitation, but said his group was always interested in observing "political trials."

The proceedings will judge some 4,500 former national guard troops charged with murder and former members of the toppled government accused of fraud, theft, torture, extortion and other crimes. They are all in jails throughout Nicaragua.

Besides the exiled Somoza, hundreds of his supporters who fled the country will be tried in absentia, as will scores of others who currently crowd foreign embassies here in hopes of obtaining asylum. Paraguay has no extradition treaty with Nicaragua.

Screening scheduled for escort service

by Dyna Cole

Screening for escort service volunteers will be held at 7 p.m. Monday in the Union addition Greenup Room, student senator Bob Glover said Sunday.

Applicants will also be screened at 7 p.m. Tuesday in the Union addition Martinsville Room.

Glover said screening will consist of potential volunteers filling out a half-page information sheet and listing references.

Representatives from the Residence Hall Association, Student Senate, the Coles County Women Against Rape and a faculty member from the Health Center will screen escort applicants.

"The whole process will only take about five minutes," Glover said.

Glover said screening is scheduled for two nights "to get as many people as possible to come. We desperately need volunteers."

"We already have 50 volunteers signed up and screened, but we need about 100 (volunteers) before we get started."

Glover said the problem of recruiting escorts is the only problem preventing the service from operating at present.

The escort service office has been set up in the lobby of Weller Hall, phone service has been installed and publicity and identification buttons have been printed.

Glover said $100 of student government funds had been allotted for these required expenditures.

"All we're waiting for are the volunteers. Everything else has been taken care of," he added.

The escort service will operate during the dark hours every night.

"The hours will vary from season to season. Right now it (the service) is to operate from 6 p.m. to 1:30 a.m. seven days a week."

Escorts will accompany females to all points on campus, all sorority houses and apartment complexes rented largely by students.

Dorm resident arrested on fireworks charge

Sophomore Charles Mollin of 323 Douglas Hall was arrested and charged with possession of fireworks by the university police, Sergeant James Lang said.

Douglas Hall Counselor Gene Ritchie said Mollin was arrested at 4 a.m. Dec. 2.

Mollin was given a judicial board hearing last week but the results of it are not available yet.

Keith Kohanzo, Eastern's judicial hearing officer, said since Mollin has the right to appeal the verdict the results will not be released until he decides what he will do.

Although Mollin was arrested for possession of fireworks he has not been linked with the previous incidents of fireworks exploding in Douglas Hall, Kohanzo said.

Student auditions in NY

by Leanna Coopridier

An Eastern student will audition in New York as a finalist in a competition for a full scholarship to study in France.

Monica McRoberts, who is majoring in voice and minoring in French, will leave Thursday for New York where she will sing five pieces, some in English and some in French, in an audition for a Fulbright scholarship to France.

"Just to have gotten this far is such an honor," McRoberts said.

She said she would find out in January if she had been accepted as a recipient of a scholarship. If accepted she will study in Rennes, France at a special school of music.

"I am anxious about possibly going to France because of the language barrier but I think it would be interesting to go to a French culture," she said.

McRoberts credits her Eastern vocal instructor, John Maharg, for helping her attain the chance for the scholarship.

Out of the 73 national finalists only two will receive the scholarship to France in performing arts.

Iranian protests may break student apathy

Angry signs denouncing the Ayatollah Khomeini have appeared on various campus buildings and sidewalks during the past weekend.

Student involvement in politics, somewhat nonexistent for the entire semester, has showed its first outward appearance on this campus.

The message may be deeper than its outward appearance though. Beyond the "Iran sucks" and "castrate Khomeini" logos is an possibly growing awareness by students in the important area of politics.

The type of student activism that characterized the mid and late 1960s may be returning to centers of higher learning—at least temporarily. The slogans, chants, demonstrations and anti-war movement which were physical protests centered around Vietnam are being reincarnated into protests against Iran.

The Iranian crisis has struck the nerve of some students. The crisis, the threat of war and anti-Americanism in Tehran have many Americans upset, bitter, and wary of the situation.

It has finally struck close to home this weekend. The outward signs of pro-Americanism—the slogans, the flags, and the small campus demonstration are the beginnings of political activism that the late 70s lacked.

Some leaders may consider this new patriotism as just radical vandalism.

But on the other hand, some may consider this vandalism within the structure of protest and purpose.

We have criticized students for being apathetic in elections, in government and in general campus life.

But these small signs of protest may be breaking new ground. After 36 days of constant attention to Iran, some students, an extremely small

Letters to the editor

Honesty?

Editor,

Today I learned that honesty is not the best policy.

A few weeks ago my roommate overslept and missed a test. After telling the teacher the truth, my roommate was told that she could not make up the test because oversleeping was not a legitimate excuse for missing a test.

My roommate later found that another student also missed the test and lied to the teacher why he missed it and of course got to make up the test.

It's getting close to finals week and every grade helps and my roommate feels that being honest has hurt the grade for that class. Is it worth being honest anymore?

Name withheld

Thanks Mike

Editor,

There he was—out in the center of the football field riding a tractor in the blazing sun. Driving himself relentlessly, he led a few volunteers in scraping off the top four inches of the well-pounded, dilapidated field, replacing the turf with a fine clay mix, installing a sprinkling system, topping it with new grass, and then collapsing for a well-deserved rest.

That one week is, in my mind, the highlight of Mike Mullally's stay at Eastern Illinois University. He gathered the funds, he ordered the clay, system, and turf. Under his direction the volunteers accomplished a job that has given Eastern fans one of the best, low-cost, natural turf fields in the country. He gave of himself. He set the example that called on others to give.

Six years ago Mike Mullally came to Eastern from a position as a full-time fund raiser. At that time we had a darn-good small university athletic and intramural program with excellent facilities. (During a faculty research conference that year a husband and wife team from Michigan State University toured our facilities. They told me, "On balance and fairness of sports offered for men and for women Eastern has a better program than MSU!")

When Mullally arrived he knew very little about directing or administering an athletic program except as he had observed others do it or as he had studied it from a book. He was a history major and a professional fund raiser. He learned to be an Athletic Director in the School of Hard Knocks right here at Eastern. He got some of those knocks. We got some. And the program got some.

Under his direction an excellent NCAA II and WRA program became a superior program. Our golf and gymnastics programs suffered. (The swimming program suffered more from Doudna's Deduction than from conference affiliation. A 25 meter pool became a 25 yard pool instead of the 50 meter pool that should have gone into the Lantz complex.)

Our field hockey, basketball, soccer, and women's programs took a step up with Mullally and the AIAW. Our football program did a complete turn-about. (Next year when the football coach begins to use the horses he recruited we will see if that turn-about was a result of inherited horses or of superior coaching—or of both.)

Mike is now a well-prepared AD. We trained him. He leaves behind a well-balanced, differently-funded athletic program for men and for women. He built on an excellent base. He has a minority, have voiced their views on this major political issue.

Any break from apathy is a welcome sight on a campus community. We should pride ourselves on awareness, and activism in world issues that affect all of us.

similar opportunity where he is going. We wish him the very best there.

He leaves a program behind that is second to none. We have the best small university in the country, the best track, one of the best indoor tracks, one of the best football fields, and an outstanding program in every sport.

Look around you. The individual programs, not the facilities, made a superior program. People make the program(s). Under the leadership of now-former AD Mike Mullally we have continued to attract the best people possible for our programs.

Thanks Mike for a push up in our growth and for our future. May yours be as bright as you have helped to make ours.

Chrysler reply

Editor,

Your Nov. 5 editorial expressing your opinion on federal help to Chrysler contains several myths and misrepresentations.

First, the government loan guarantees will not cost the "average American" or any American one single dollar. The government is simply guaranteeing the loans will be repaid by Chrysler—which they will. The reason for this is Chrysler cannot simply borrow any more money against its current loan.

Sound bad? — Not really. Chrysler will not go out of business tomorrow if we don't get the loan guarantees. But they do assure us of obtaining the money required to bring out the products that will return us to profitability.

One and one-half billion dollars is not being given to Chrysler not one dollar is changing hands. The government is simply saying they will pay for the loans if Chrysler goes under—something that will not happen. So I find the logic of using the money for something else hard to believe since none is being given.

Second, I find it hard to believe that a company with $16 billion in sales—that provides 500,000 jobs directly and indirectly—and has been a proven innovator—a leader in the auto industry for 54 years is draining the economy.

A company that is a major defense contractor draining the economy? A company paying $4 billion a year in taxes and benefits draining the economy? Hardly—instead a further, deeper drain would be the collapse of the company—throwing more jobs to the foreign companies and more havoc to the current economy.

Third, the free enterprise systems which everyone says we should follow is not free at all. It is cluttered with government regulation and red tape that makes doing business costly for everyone—but especially costly for the smaller companies which pay a greater percentage of regulatory costs.

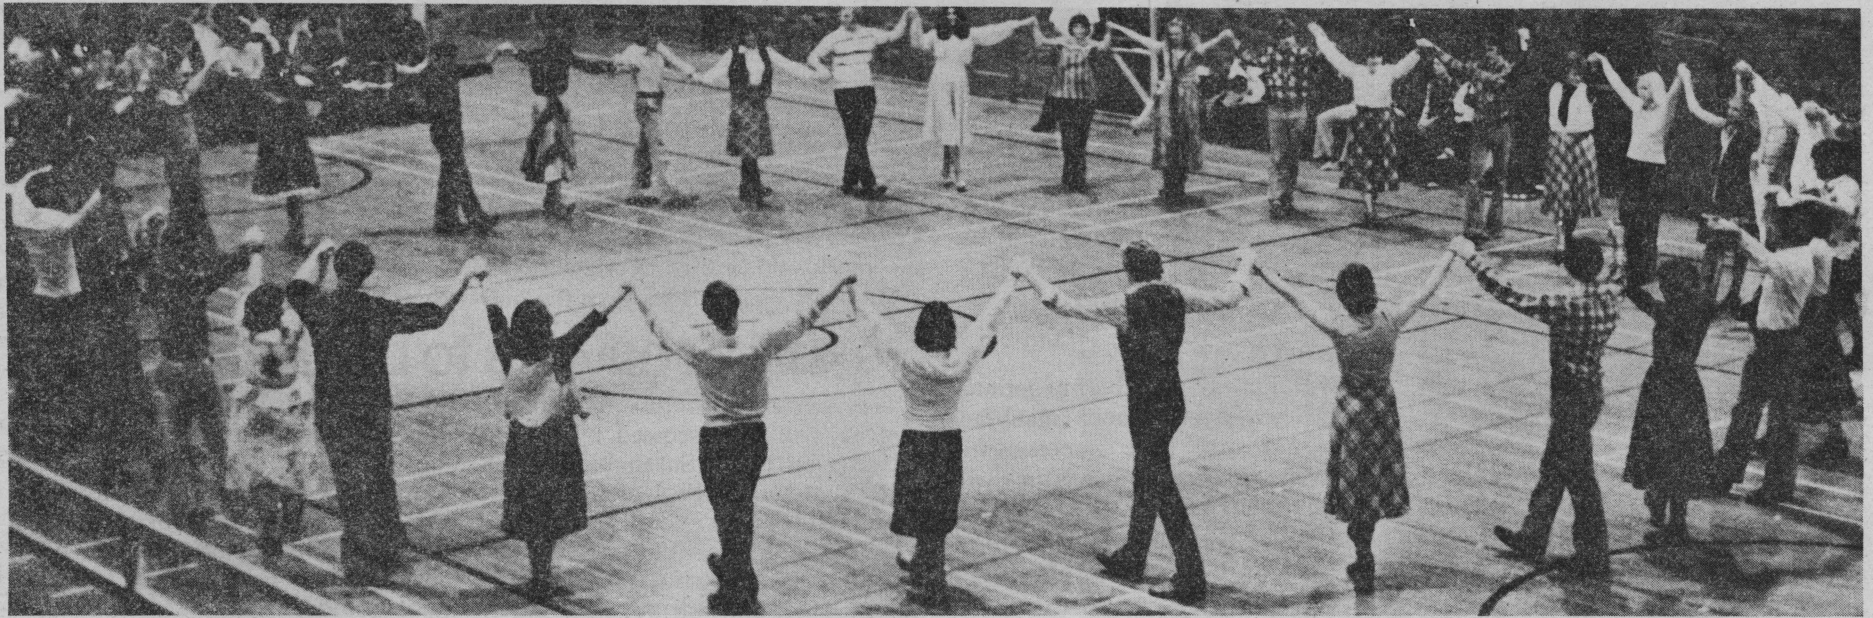

When the energy crisis first hit, only General Motors was left with the resources to respond and even today they are losing money on U.S. operations now—as is Ford.

Fourth, it is true that Chrysler's problems will be solved in the marketplace—not in Congress or the Treasury. Our products for the 80s are exciting and will return the company to profitability.

All you have to look to are those who have lent their support—the U.A.W., N.A.A.C.P., National Conference of Mayors and the list goes on. Chrysler will make it. And not with a handout from the government as you seem to think it is. Being a former Eastern graduate though, doesn't make me surprised that you once again have failed to get the facts before the story.

Militants' 'goal' more important than classes

by The Associated Press

TEHRAN, Iran (AP)—The Iranian militants on guard at the U.S. Embassy where they hold 50 Americans hostage appear tough-looking, but most are just what they say they are—young Moslem students.

the classes we are missing," one told The Associated Press in a brief telephone interview. The student declined to give his name, but he was unusually forthcoming in talking about his group.

Normally the students at the gate or those who answer embassy telephones refuse to say anything about themselves. But they are polite to American reporters and many speak fluent English.

Many of the students who seized the embassy Nov. 4 are enrolled in four universities in Tehran—the National, Tehran, Industrial and Polytechnic, the youth said in the interview.

Some are seminarians from the holy city of Qum, headquarters of Iran's revolutionary Moslem leader, Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini.

Backed by Khomeini, they are demanding the return of deposed Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi to stand trial. He is recuperating at an Air Force hospital in Texas following cancer and gallbladder treatment in New York.

Cat, UAW stands revised

PEORIA, Ill. (AP)—Negotiators for striking United Auto Workers and Caterpillar Tractor Co. spent eight hours on a new contract Sunday and said some positions changed.

Spokesmen said both sides revised their proposals.

"As of now, there will be some changes to be presented in the morning," said Pat Greathouse, UAW international vice president.

Cliff Hathaway, the chief negotiator for the heavy equipment manufacturer, said that once noneconomic matters are resolved, other issues will fall into place smoothly.

The strike has idled 40,000 UAW members at Caterpillar plants in several states.

Sexual behaviors to be discussed

The sexual behaviors of college students will be discussed by human sexuality instructor Susan Woods at 8 p.m. Tuesday in the Union addition Grand Ballroom.

Woods said she will talk about "the percentages and numbers and who is doing what on various campuses, according to studies that have been done, and how Eastern compares with these."

She added that she usually gives about five or six talks of this type a semester in individual residence halls, but this is the first time she will do it campus-wide.

High school to sponsor crazy game

by Mona Taylor

Donkey basketball, the "craziest show on earth," is coming to Charleston. The Charleston High School Student Council is sponsoring the event, and proceeds will help support council activities throughout the year.

The man and beast event will be held at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the high school's Baker Gym.

Laura Dively, student council president, said, "advance tickets are being sold and they are $1.75 for students (including EIU students) and $2.00 for adults. Tickets may be purchased for $2.00 at the door."

Advance tickets can be purchased at Risler's Interiors, Inyart's, Spurgeon's, Bank of Charleston, Coles County National Bank, IGA and the police department.

Donkey basketball is a wild combination of circus, rodeo and basketball. Members of the Charleston High faculty will play against members of the Charleston police department.

Committee to review course credit hours

Credit changes for a chemistry course and a proposed new course in economics will be discussed by the Arts and Sciences Curriculum Committee Monday, Chairman Laurence Crofutt said Sunday.

The committee will meet at 4 p.m. in the Union addition Greenup Room.

Fur and against

Lori Ground, left, a 14-year old from Mattoon, walked around the station carrying a sign showing her unhappiness with the fur-selling going on at the station.

Larry Carroll, right, visits Charleston every Saturday to barter with local trappers for their raccoon, fox, mink or muskrat pelts.

Ground said, "I looked in back of that truck and didn't like what I saw."

She said she received many reactions from passing motorists. "I got lots of "thumbs-up" and some "okay" signs," she said.

Carroll said he felt the demonstrators were "blowing a lot of hot air." Other trappers agreed with him.

"Those coons tear up a lot of corn. And the coyotes get into farmer's livestock. We got to get rid of them. Why just shoot them and let them lay?" Robert Swart of Lerna said. (News photos by Theresa Norton)

Foul-plagued women basketballers finish 3rd

by Theresa Norton

CEDAR FALLS, IOWA—Eastern's varsity women's basketball team took third place in the Peach Basketball Classic this weekend bowing to Nebraska-Omaha 61-58 and defeating Northern Iowa 85-66.

"We definitely should have won the Nebraska game," coach Bobbie Hilke said. "We just couldn't get our inside game going, which put a lot of stress on outside shooting."

"Whistle-happy refs" were also part of Eastern's problem in that game, Hilke said.

"There were 54 fouls in the entire game. Two of our players fouled out and three of Nebraska's did," Hilke said.

Sophomore guard Nancy Saegesser fouled out after scoring 13 points and senior Jo Huber went to the bench after her fifth foul with a total of nine points.

Freshman guard Nancy Kassebaum scored a team-high 15 points.

"At the free throw line we were both cold," Hilke said. Both teams averaged 57 percent at the charity stipe with Eastern making 16 free throws, and Nebraska collecting 13.

Eastern's field goal percentage was only 27 percent.

"The only reason we were in the game was we did play some good defense. But we couldn't pull it out against all the calls," Hilke said.

Before Eastern faced host Northern Iowa Saturday, Hilke said they "did some talking about our inside game."

"We definitely looked different. Our inside was a lot more together, we looked more for each other and for the best possible shot," Hilke said.

Senior Linda Ellsworth came back to score 26 points against Northern Iowa after totaling only four points against Nebraska.

Junior forward JoAnn Archer scored 20 points and Huber totaled 16 points. Guard Cindy Maher also contributed 14 points.

Eastern's junior varsity team also saw action this weekend.

The JV squad lost 80-74 to the varsity team of John Brown.

Badminton team suffers first losses of season

by Jill Anderson

CARBONDALE—Eastern's badminton team suffered its first setback of the season by finishing a lower than expected third place in the Southern Illinois-Carbondale Invitational Saturday.

Western Illinois took top honors followed by Illinois State, Eastern, Southern and Ball State.

"The team was pushed this weekend for the first time this season," said coach Karen Earley.

Panther sophomore Marcia Metzger played outstanding going into three games before losing to Western's Monica Malone, who was top-seeded in the tourney.

"It was really an accomplishment for Marcia to go three games with Monica who was the Illinois state collegiate champion last year," Earley said.

The tournament was divided into four flights with each flight having three members from every team. In Flight A, Eastern's top player Becky Stuckwisch was upset by a Western player in the quarterfinals. Lisa Young reached the semifinals where she lost to Malone, who won the Flight A division.

Janet Haberkorn, playing in Flight B, won the consolation bracket after losing in the first round. Sue Gonnella reached the semifinals, and Cathy Oltman was beaten by Haberkorn in the consolation final.

In Flight C, Jo Obrycki won the consolation title. Denise Hadley reached the second round and Jody Lyons lost in the semifinals. Nancy Szarzynski walked away with the Flight D singles title, winning four rounds. Patty Groth and Carol Jeppsen both lost in the second round.

Doubles play was highlighted by Stuckwisch and Young, who reached the finals of the Flight A division. They lost a close three-game match against Western's top-seeded tandem.

"Lisa and Becky dominated play in the first game and kept up with Western," Earley said. "Becky was hampered by a pulled hamstring, but they played well."

Haberkorn and Gonnella reached the quarterfinals, losing to Illinois State. Metzger and Oltman were beaten in the quarterfinals by the top-seeded Western team.

In Flight B couples the Hadley and Szarzynski team and the duo of Lyons and Obrycki both lost in the quarterfinals. Groth and Jeppsen won the consolation title after losing first round.

"We knew the tournament would be tough, but it showed me what we need to work on," Earley said. "We're within reach of both Illinois State and Western and we're capable of beating them." We'll be ready for them next meter breaststroke both days in a time of 2:13 flat.

"Al Cymball won the three- and one-meter diving for us," Padovan said.

"Hall is swimming much better for us this year," Padovan said. "He swam a 10:02.9 in the 1,000-meter freestyle which is his best time ever."

"Mike Parratto, our all-around swimmer, is swimming exceptionally well for us, wherever we put him," Padovan said.

"We hope this weekend Steve Boone will be able to qualify for nationals in the breaststroke and Tom Hussey in the 100-meter backstroke," Padovan said. "Soltys has been close in the 100-meter freestyle."

The Panthers will host Ball State at 1 p.m. Saturday in a coed meet. "We should have the edge over Ball State," Padovan said.

Six champs lead wrestlers to tournament title

by Dave Claypool

WARRENSBURG, Mo.—Placing nine of its 10 wrestlers and sweeping six individual championships, Eastern's grapplers dominated the field Saturday and won the Central Missouri tournament.

The Panthers, who compiled 100.5 points, were followed by a distant Southern Illinois-Edwardsville squad which totaled 74 points. Western Illinois took third place gathering 50 points while the University of Nebraska-Omaha nabbed fourth with 36.

Host Central Missouri earned fifth place with 27.25 points and Northwest Missouri State and Southwest Missouri State tied for sixth with 27.

"We did better than I expected," Coach Ron Clinton said. "I was worried about our conditioning since we were wrestling eight minute matches instead of six, but it looked as though we were farther along than I expected."

Heavyweight Dave Klemm once again led the Panthers pinning SIU-E's Charlie Scott in his championship match, while 190-pounder Geno Savagnago took a decisive win over Southwest Missouri State's Randy Wagner 13-0 for the 190 title.

"Geno did a real fine job," Clinton said. "He beat the kid that he lost to in the St. Louis Open."

Senior Bob Stout continued his impressive performances by taking the 177-pound title in an 11-3 decision over

SIU-E's Norm Mitchell.

"Geno and Bob both had really impressive tournaments as did Randy Blackman," Clinton said.

Blackman captured the 118-pound crown beating Western's Tom DeMauro 16-5 in the final match.

Junior Bob McGuinn, putting himself back on the winning track, won the 134-pound title beating Marv Gibson of Western 15-3.

"Bob performed about as I expected," Clinton said. "The longer the matches and the further along we are in the season, the better he'll do."

Mark Gronowski, won the 158-pound title, by defeating last year's NCAA Division II runner-up Tim Napier of SIU-E 8-5.

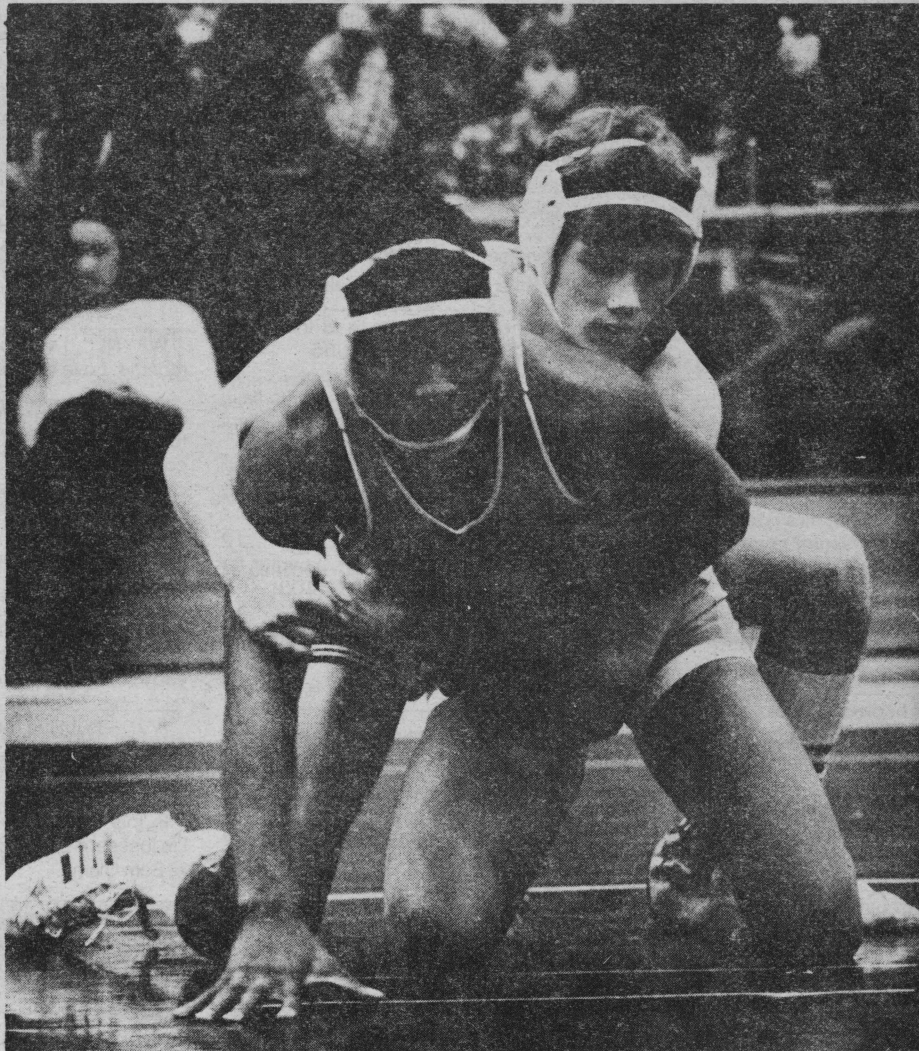

Finishing second at the 150-pound class was sophomore Ken Blackman. He was defeated by SIU-E's Aaron Mewman 16-12 in the title match.

"I thought that Kenny Blackman had a real showing, I was very pleased with his performance," Clinton said.

Replacing injured Doug Schafer, freshman Derek Porter captured third place at the 126-pound class beating Western's Pat Connelly.

"Derek did a good job. He's young and still gaining some experience," Clinton said. "This was a good tourney for Derek to start with. It might help him gain some confidence."

Taking a close one on the chin was 167-pounder Mike Polz, as he lost to NWMO's Lee Schechinger 11-10 to end up in fourth place.

Eastern's 118-pound Randy Blackman, who is on his way to a 9-3 win over Southern Illinois Edwardsville's Britt Means in an earlier dual meet at Lantz Gym, was one of six Panther individual titlists at the Central Missouri tournament this weekend. (News photo by Val Bosse)

Men's swimming team rips Rolla, Illinois State

by Chris Magnuson

The men's swimming team continued its winning ways by defeating Missouri-Rolla 70-42 Friday and arch-rival Illinois State 76-37 Saturday.

The Panthers, who began their season by winning the Illinois Invitational title the week before, dominated the Rolla meet winning every event but diving to coast to the easy victory in their first dual.

"We took just a skeleton team to Rolla and they swam very well for us," coach Ray Padovan said.

"Jim Hall is swimming much better for us this year," Padovan said. He won both the 1,000-meter freestyle in a time of 10:07 and the 500-meter free in a time of 4:50."

Mike Foley was also a double winner for the Panthers winning the 100 and 200-meter freestyle events in times of 1:47.1 and 49.1 respectively.

"Ted Soltys swam a good 50-meter freestyle for us," Padovan said. Soltys won the event in a time of 22.3 seconds.

"We swam a lot better in the Illinois State meet against tougher competition," Padovan said.

Tim Bird qualified for the NCAA Division II national meet in the 200-meter butterfly, winning the event with a time of 1:57.2. The 400-meter freestyle relay team of Soltys, Foley, Joel Edwards and Bird also qualified for nationals with a time of 3:14.5.

"Bird and the 400-meter relay team were both close to making qualifying times the week before in the Illini Invitational," Padovan said.

Women swimmers take second straight

Eastern's women's swimming team won its second straight dual meet Friday by defeating the University of Evansville 98-41.

"I've been very pleased with the way the girls have been swimming so far this year," coach Ray Padovan said. "We've broke seven different school records in two meets."

Sharon Bird became the first women swimmer in Eastern history to qualify for the AIAW national meet when she won the 50-meter butterfly in a time of 27.9.

"Our 200-meter freestyle relay team of Ricky Rousey, Lori Bill, Peggy Biltgen and Bird rebroke the school record with a time of 1:46.4," Padovan said.

"A number of the girls swam their best times ever against Evansville, which is good for this early in the season," Padovan said. "Our six freshman are swimming quite well."

"The girls will have to be swimming at their best Saturday to defeat Ball State," Padovan said.

Hens' passing tops Penguins in NCAA final

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) - Scott Brunner's passing Saturday may not have been "perfect" as his coach called it, but the Delaware quarterback's aerial barrage was more than enough to batter Youngstown State into submission.

The lanky senior passed for 296 yards and three touchdowns to spard Delaware's Blue Hens to a 38-21 come-from-behind victory over Youngstown State in the nationally televised battle for the NCAA Division II football championship that attracted only about 4,000 fans for the first-ever Zia Bowl.

Delaware finished the season with a 13-1 record. Youngstown State, which was paced by Robby Robson's 127 yards rushing, finished 11-2.

Brunner rallied Delaware from a 21-7 deficit by picking apart the Penguins' secondary with his pinpoint passing.

"We were in the same situation before and came back," he said. "It was a matter of correcting our mistakes. We changed our formations a little bit and they just couldn't handle it."

"This is just an absolutely super team," added his coach, Harold Raymond. "They have repeatedly ignored the obvious when they got in trouble."

"They have tremendous poise, confidence in themselves and a great deal of respect for each other as individuals so that when there is a mistake they all pull that much closer together," Raymond said.

Brunner spent most of his time on the sidelines the past three years as Jeff Komlo, now with the Detroit Lions of the National Football League, led the Blue Hens.

Although Brunner had thrown only 14 passes coming into this season, his strong right arm proved to be Delaware's most potent weapon this year and that remained true Saturday.

The senior flinger connected with split end Jay Hooks on scoring plays of 74 and 75 yards.
