Students compete for Senate post

by Doug Apple

Members of the newly-elected Student Senate will elect a senate speaker at their first meeting Wednesday.

Running for the office are incumbent Terese Lang and Senator Glenn Good.

Lang, who has been a senate member for four semesters, said she hopes to be elected on what she has accomplished as speaker and a senator.

Lang said, "I'm confident in what I've done. The senate has been so productive."

She said her main goal as speaker was to get students more involved. Lang added she believes Eastern's student government has done that.

As Student Senate Speaker, Lang said, she helped to implement Organization Day, a day during which campus organizations set up booths at the Union to familiarize students with their activities.

Lang added she also served on the senate committee which was responsible for the distribution of student discount cards at Eastern. The cards entitle students to savings at area businesses.

If re-elected, Lang said she believes she can make the senate responsive to the needs of students.

"I know I can make them produce," Lang said. "I've done it in the past."

"My experience, I know, will help me," Lang said. "I feel confident in myself—that's why I'm running again."

Good, who has served on Student Senate for two semesters and is currently acting as Housing Committee Chairman, said he is running for speaker on his past record.

As a student senator, Good said, he introduced a plan to have senators attend residence hall council meetings.

Good said having student government members attend the meetings has "opened communication between the residence halls and the Student Senate."

Good also currently serves as Eastern's student government representative to the Charleston City Council.

In addition, Good was recently named student senator of the semester.

If elected, Good said, he would like to combine the Student Senate Campus Relations and Public Relations Committees.

"There's confusion now on who does what," Good said. "I think they overlap in jurisdiction."

Also, he said he would like to implement a student legislative committee which would be in charge of contacting and corresponding with Charleston city officials.

Good added he does not want to be thought of as running against anyone, but simply "running for speaker of the Student Senate."

The Student Senate will meet at 7 p.m. Wednesday in the Union addition Arcola-Tuscola Room.

Miller submits energy saving incentive plan

by Madeleine Doubek

An Energy Conservation Incentive Plan which would reward groups on Eastern's campus for conserving energy was discussed at Monday's meeting of the Council on University Planning and Budgeting.

The purpose of the incentive plan, introduced by George Miller, vice president for administration and finance, and Marty Ignazito, assistant physical plant director, is to contain the mounting costs of energy while rewarding faculty, staff and students for doing so.

According to the rough draft of the plan, proposals for energy cost avoidance can be submitted by departments, schools, or buildings to a seven-member coordinating committee.

The committee, composed of existing members of the Energy Conservation Task Force and three other university representatives, will determine the cost-avoidance potential of the submitted proposals, Ignazito said.

A group which successfully meets its conservation proposal will receive 50 percent of the avoided costs. This sum may be used for various improvements which would benefit the successful group, Miller said.

Energy costs which are avoided successfully in academic or General Revenue-funded buildings may be used for facility improvements, speaker programs and other contractual purposes, Miller noted.

Costs avoided in Bond Revenue-funded buildings, such as the residence halls and Union, do not have to be spent in the contractual services area, he said.

All expenditures are subject to normal administrative review, Miller added.

Ignazito said while the program is initially being implemented, conservation proposals will have to be "restricted to easily demonstrable savings."

Miller said the coordinating committee will still need to develop some procedures and mechanics for measuring savings.

Although actual data was not presented at the meeting, Ignazito said a pilot conservation project in Carman Hall had been successful.

Miller said the recent Central Illinois Public Service Company's rate increase makes the incentive plan "even more realistic."

Ignazito added the new CIPS rate structures make it more difficult for Eastern to conserve because it is no longer billed for a six-week peak usage period.

Ignazito said the cheapest time to use utilities is before 10 a.m. and after 10 p.m. Rescheduling as many activities as possible to take place during those times would be a good way to conserve, he added.

He said he wanted to "turn this project over to the people and provide incentives so they will want to modify their behavior to conserve."

In other business, a draft of the 1983 University Academic Plan was presented to the CUPB for consideration. CUPB members now must study the draft and submit comments to Stanley Rives, vice president for academic affairs.

In addition, CUPB members were asked to submit a priority listing of Academic New and Expanded or Improved Program Requests for Fiscal Year 1985.

The only new academic request is a master of science degree in professional accountancy.

The other academic NEIPRS are requests for funding to expand existing programs at Eastern. These requests fall under three categories: instructional staffing, instructional laboratory equipment, and academic program support, Rives said.

Eastern's FY 85 academic NEIPR requests total $1.8 million.

Campus building hours extended to aid students during finals week

by Douglas Backstrom

Students who are concerned about where they will be able to study for their final exams next week will have the opportunity to pull an "all nighter" in lounge areas of residence halls and also will find Booth Library open longer hours this weekend.

Delores McNutt of Booth Library said, "The hours for the library will be the same during Dec. 13-17, but they will change this weekend."

The library will be open 8 a.m. to 9 p.m. Friday and 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Saturday.

Union Promotions Coordinator Denise Turk said the Union Ballroom will offer free coffee next week from 11 p.m. to 6 a.m. and Hardee's will offer free coffee from 5 to 11 p.m.

The Union Ballroom will be open from 5 to 11 p.m. Thursday and will reopen at 7 a.m. Friday.

Union Station will be open all day Sunday.

The vending lounge and Union Station's lounge will be open 24 hours.

Mary Murphy, an Andrews Hall desk clerk, said the first floor lounge of the hall will be open 24 hours during finals. The study hall in the basement will be open during the day until midnight.

Carmen Hall's food service will be open for studying 7 to 11 p.m. Monday through Friday.

East Hall's lounge will be open for studying from 1 to 11 p.m. Monday through Friday.

East Hall's basement study area will be open from 2 p.m. to midnight Monday through Friday.

Pemberton Hall's cafeteria will be open for residents from 7 to 11 p.m. Sunday through Friday.

Kay Lynn, a desk clerk at Lincoln, Douglas and Stevenson halls, said, "We will post our hours after a meeting Friday."

The counseling staffs of Taylor, Thomas, Weller, Ford and McKinney halls said they will post their hours at a later date.

Soviet spy sentenced in London

LONDON—Soviet spy Hugh Hableton was sentenced to 10 years in jail Tuesday after he dropped the claim he was a double agent and admitted he slipped the KGB top-secret NATO documents 25 years ago. The 60-year-old Canadian economics professor stood impassively in Old Bailey Central Criminal Court, listening quietly as the judge pronounced sentence.

"It was a long time ago that you committed these acts, but they catch up with you in the end," Judge Sir David Croom-Johnson told the thick-set, gray haired spy.

TV tower collapse kills five

MISSOURI CITY, Texas—An 1,800-foot-tall television tower toppled as workers were lifting an antenna onto its pinnacle Tuesday, hurling five men to their deaths. Three others on the ground were injured.

The men who were killed had been working on the antenna as it was being lifted atop the tower, said Lt. Roger Boyd.

Bomb claimed by IRA offshoot

BALLYKELLY, Northern Ireland (AP)—Guerrillas of the Irish National Liberation Army claimed responsibility Tuesday for the planting of the bomb that sent an avalanche of concrete onto a crowd of British soldiers and civilians at a disco-bar, killing 16 people and wounding 66.

In London, an outraged Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher called the bombing "one of the most horrific crimes in Ulster's tragic history," and said the British government "won't rest until these merciless killers are brought to justice."

Police and army spokesmen said the dead included 11 British soldiers and five civilians, four of them women. Some of the victims of Monday night's attack lost arms and legs in the crushing debris, and at least 40 of the injured were admitted to hospitals.

It was the worst terrorist attack in Northern Ireland since August 1979, when 18 British soldiers were killed in a double-bombing at Warrenpoint near the border with the Irish Republic.

Murder conviction thrown out

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—A federal appeals court Tuesday threw out the murder conviction of Colin Clark, who was spared the electric chair three days before the execution date because of appeals from his mother.

The 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals said the trial judge's instructions might have misled the jury that convicted Clark of the killing of Fred Schmidt, his former boss.

Schmidt, the assistant manager of a Baton Rouge restaurant, was shot in the head with a .38-caliber pistol and was stabbed 30 times during a midnight holdup in 1978.

Clark's execution was stopped more than a year ago because of last-minute pleas from Clark's mother, Jean Beavans of Cairo, Ga.

Council to discuss exam

by Audrey B. Dumentat

A progress report on Eastern's writing proficiency examination will be presented for discussion Thursday to the Council on Academic Affairs.

The examination was approved as a graduation requirement by the CAA in 1980 and applies to all students who entered Eastern under the 1981-1982 general catalog or thereafter.

The examination is designed for students at the junior level and is intended to be taken after the completion of English 1001 "Composition" and English 1002 "Types of Literature."

Since its approval by the CAA, the examination has been administered twice to groups of transfer students, CAA chairman David Buchanan said.

However, the test has not yet been given to students who entered Eastern as freshmen under the 1981-1982 general catalog, Buchanan added.

The CAA may make some changes in the examination process "somewhere down the line, but not at least until one year of juniors have taken it," Buchanan said.

In other business, two new honors courses, Economics 3860 (H) "International Economics" and Political Science 2603 (H) "State and Local Government," will be reviewed by the CAA.

If approved, the classes will be offered in the fall of 1983.

The CAA will also discuss catalog changes proposed by the music department.

The CAA will meet at 2 p.m. Thursday in the Union addition Arcola-Tuscola Room.

Stores prepare for Santa Claus

Students who would like to tell Santa exactly what they want for Christmas will have a chance to do so before going home for break.

Santa Claus arrived from the North Pole and is appearing at the Charleston square.

Jim Bottenberg, manager of Spurgeon's department store, 523 Seventh St., said Santa will be in the front window of the store from 10 a.m. until noon Saturday and Dec. 18 and noon until 4 p.m. Sunday and Dec. 19.

Santa will be giving out free candy canes to children, Bottenberg added.

Santa's visit is being sponsored by the downtown Charleston merchants.

Correction

It was incorrectly reported in Tuesday's edition of the The Daily Eastern News that commencement exercises are scheduled for Friday. Graduation rehearsal is set for 6 p.m. Friday and the actual ceremony is scheduled for 2 p.m. Sunday.

In addition, graduate student Jay Wilson was identified as one of the ceremony's speakers. The speaker is D. Ray Wilson, representing the Board of Governors.

Consider speaker nominees carefully

Editorial

Student senators need to carefully consider each candidate for speaker of the Student Senate before voting because the speaker performs an important job for the senate and Eastern's students.

The speaker leads the senate during weekly meetings, selects committee chairmen and plays a vital role in student appointments to faculty-student boards.

Also, the speaker acts as a liaison between the student government executive officers and student senators. At times, the speaker may be asked to represent the students in faculty and administration matters.

Senators should ignore any pressure from fellow senators and executive officers and elect the candidate they believe is most qualified for the job.

They must consider who will work effectively with the executive officers and enact new programs that will benefit Eastern students.

Election of the speaker should not turn into a popularity contest. Voting decisions should be based on each candidate's record of service and dedication. Senators should look to the person who has a plan of action to implement if elected speaker.

The successful candidate must be one who is able to establish good, effective communication between the senators and officers.

It is the responsibility of the senators to elect the candidate who will best serve Eastern's students. The speaker needs to be an individual who will treat each senator fairly and assign committee chairmanships on the basis of merit.

Through hard work, Eastern's student government has been effective this year in implementing new programs for students. Senators should vote for a speaker who will keep the senate active and productive.

Similarities exist between student, national politics

As the News assistant government editor and as a student, I have noticed some very striking similarities between Eastern's current Student Senate speaker race and recent state and national political races.

My observations of both candidates' campaigns have prompted this analysis of student government and big-time politics.

Anyone who follows the workings of student government knows the race for speaker is close and a lot of politicking has taken place. This politicking has become so intense that it threatens irreparable damage to the senate.

One of the candidates has run a very emotional campaign, relying on loyalty and friendships for support, while the other candidate is running on the strength of a detailed plan based on facts.

I'm not saying running an emotional campaign is necessarily bad. In fact, I think differences and some disagreements are not only healthy but the American way in politics. Just look at the Republicans and the Democrats.

If you have studied American politics lately, you have seen a lot of emotional campaigning and, as far as I'm concerned, too little campaigning on issues, facts and qualifications. Maybe that's why we have the mess we do in this country.

This type of intense politicking is taking place at Eastern and may turn senators' minds from the jobs they were elected to do—to serve the students of Eastern.

Most Eastern students I have talked with believe the current student government has accomplished more for students than any student government in recent years.

Our student body should be complimented for its choice of representatives for student government.

Hopefully, the senators will make the same type of responsible decision in the speakers race as the students made when they elected the current senate. Vote for the most qualified candidate, based on what you know about the job each candidate has done as a senator and the type of campaign each has run. No one can make a more honest evaluation than one's own peers.

Eastern's student government should continue the fine job it has done so far this year. Let's face it—it's only fair to the students.

Senators should keep this in mind when voting for our next speaker: be fair to Eastern's students and pick the candidate who will do the best job for everyone, not just himself/herself. Then get back to work.

—Keith Clark is assistant government editor for The Daily Eastern News.

Satirical columns fun

Editor:

"Real men" are funny! Now I have entered the argument also. I roared as I read the book (and look forward to the movie.) I found Brian's additions delightful. I even sit around cracking myself up by making up more. An example: Real Men do not prefer stuffing to potatoes; Real Men don't wash dishes—except as a profession.

The first few letters in response to Brian's column amused me greatly. However, in retrospect and upon introspection, I find that I am ashamed of that amusement. It dawned on me that those individuals were actually unable to identify satire and irony.

At times I find myself, as a speech and language specialist, having to work with children and adults, whose intelligence cannot be evaluated fairly by standardized methods. It has been my observation, and a very helpful "rule of thumb," that if one of these individuals can recognize, or is expressing these forms of humor, it is fairly safe to conclude that he is capable of abstract reasoning, regardless of the presenting handicap.

Irony and satire, whether one approves of the use or thinks it "funny" or not, is a sophisticated abstract exercise. They are also rather pervasive in the "real" world. Woe to the employee who cannot tell when the boss gives a satirical compliment for a "job well done."

My comments now are for those who were unable to recognize the abstract when they saw it.

Two possible explanations leap to mind:

1. These are individuals who take themselves way too seriously for their own good. For those there is hope—they will get older.

2. An intellectual deficit may exist. Perhaps they should take another good look at their IQ and/or SAT scores and consider another line of endeavor, as many of the concepts they will encounter in a college curriculum may also be too abstract for them to comprehend.

Keep up the good work Brian! "Real Men do not have IQs in excess of 90."

No Real Man, I, therefore:

Teach language earlier

Editor:

After reading Friday's editorial page, one would get the impression that someone was trying to "stack the deck" by having a column and all four student responses advocating a foreign language requirement in college.

The column from the Daily Northwestern made some very strong points why we, as students, should know a foreign language before conquering the real world. And I agree with the suggestion that we should be bilingual citizens.

However, the last sentence says, "If we don't learn it in college, we never will." On the basis of studies I have read, the best time to teach a foreign language is while students are still very impressionable, i.e. early grade school. Students who are taught another language in grades one to four remember it and learn it better than older students in high school and college.

The older a person is, the less willing he is to learn something new and different, like other languages. Whether we like to admit it or not, it's true.

If the blame for our population's ignorance of other languages must be thrust upon any certain institution, it should be the elementary school system, but certainly not the universities.

If there is to be any foreign language requirement, possibly an entrance requirement of two years of high school foreign language should be implemented. I do not feel the burden should be placed upon the students once in college.

Even if there were a language requirement here, I have a feeling that, no matter how important learning another language might prove to be in the long run, students would still just "slide through" the requirement as they seem to be doing at Northwestern.

Faculty elected to council

by Keith Clark

The Faculty Senate Tuesday approved a motion accepting a recommendation that nominations and elections for the Council for Graduate Studies be restricted to graduated faculty at Eastern only.

Graduated faculty is a designation for some faculty who are involved with the graduate programs and are permitted to teach graduate courses at Eastern.

Faculty members are nominated by their respective departments to be graduated faculty, and the graduate school decides whether to approve or disapprove the nominations.

The motion, which was first sent in March to the senate by Graduate School Dean Larry Williams, was approved by the senate following its recent attempt to designate who is eligible to vote in the election of CGS and the Council on Academic Affairs.

However, the senate did not take action to define who can vote in the CAA elections.

Faculty Senate Chairman Jeffrey Lynch said he plans to meet with CAA Chairman David Buchanan to discuss the issue and added that possibly the senate would invite Buchanan to speak before the senate at a future meeting about the issue.

The senate also nominated six faculty members to serve on the Affirmative Action Advisory Committee, but the names were not released pending notification of the nominees.

In other business, the senate also appointed a subcommittee to review its bylaws for possible changes.

The subcommittee was formed to study the bylaws because some senators had questioned some sections.

Lynch also said that Senator Jacqueline Jacobs of the special education department has announced a leave of absence for the spring semester. She will be replaced in the senate by her alternate.

TIME BANDITS

A RIP-ROARING GOOD TIME

by Suzie Newkirk

An adventure for all ages, Time Bandits, will be shown on Friday, Dec. 10, at 6:30 and 9:00 p.m. in McAfee South Gymnasium. Time Bandits is a rip-roaring good time that will keep you laughing for centuries, if not longer.

The Bandits are six renegade dwarfs, rebels against their Supreme Being and their job is in the Trees and Small Shurbs Department, who have stolen the secret map of the Universe's time holes. These six bandits enter the portals of time unannounced and steal the bounty of the period. One night, they crash through the closet of an eleven year old boy and take him with them on their fantastic travels.

"The technical accomplishment is dazzling, the inventiveness a delight," says Newsweek Magazine. Roger Elbert of the Chicago Sun Times says, "I've rarely, if ever, seen a live-action movie that looks more like an artist's conception. I recommend Time Bandits with admiration."

Time Bandits is being sponsored by University Board's Movie Committee for only $1.25 or 2 for $2.50. Steal some time of your own to see it!

Women's home slate to open against young Puma cagers

by Susan McCann

Eastern's women cagers will face a small, young St. Joseph's college team Wednesday when the 1982-83 Lady Panthers debut at Lantz Gym.

The Pumas, who sport a 1-1 record, will take the court against the undefeated Panthers at 7:30 p.m. in the first meeting between the two schools in recent years.

St. Joseph head coach Susan Buntin, in her fifth year as Puma coach, said she will start three freshmen, one sophomore and one senior against Eastern.

Puma captain Penny Salm, a 5-foot-8 senior forward, boasts the most experience on Buntin's squad. She will be joined by 5-foot-7 junior Beth Dean at the other forward slot, with 6-foot freshman Linda Wiesenbahn anchoring the center position.

Buntin said Jill Burnett, a 5-foot-8 junior, will see playing time as a forward coming off the bench. Burnett has been St. Joseph's second most productive scorer this season, averaging about 10 points per game.

The Pumas' leading scorer has been freshman Tammy Mason, who has pumped in 15 points per game as a starting guard. She will be joined in the backcourt by another first-year player, Michelle Sprowl.

Buntin said the leading scorer and most valuable player from last year's 9-11 squad was Salm's younger sister, Laurie. But after playing one year with the Pumas, the younger Salm left school to be married.

"From a coach's point of view, I just want to try to go out and make Eastern play to beat us," Buntin said. "If we can stay within 15-20 points by the end of the game, I think we will have accomplished something."

"We're short and young," Buntin said. "Like a typical freshman team, we've been up and down. We've just been inconsistent so far."

After opening the season with a 74-72 victory over Taylor University, the Pumas jumped to a halftime lead over Bellarmine College. But Buntin's squad showed its youth, she said, and eventually dropped a 78-61 decision to Bellarmine.

In an attempt to keep defensive pressure on Eastern, Buntin said she plans to use her bench extensively against the Panthers.

"We've got a pretty good bench," Buntin said. "We have about seven to 10 girls on the team that are pretty even talent-wise."

Because her team lacks the inside strength to match Eastern's front line, Buntin said her squad will try to run on the Panthers.

"We have to pick the tempo up and make the other team play to our tempo," she said.

Eastern head coach Bobbie Hilke said she expected the Pumas to play aggressive defense against her taller and more experienced team.

"We've never played them, but we've seen them play," Hilke said. "They've always been very competitive defensively and play in-your-face defense."

"That'll be a challenge for our younger players," Hilke added.

The Panthers will be playing without the services of 6-foot center Darla Farthing, who was injured during halftime warmups of Eastern's game with Northeastern Illinois last Friday.

Although Farthing's injury was originally diagnosed as a sprained left ankle, further X-rays revealed a fracture, Hilke said.

"We're really disappointed that we've lost her defense," Hilke said. "She was coming along so well for us defensively."

"Our younger kids are just going to have to come through for us," she added.

With Farthing out, Hilke said she will start sophomore Beth Sass and freshman Melanie Hatfield, along with the standout trio of Nancy Kassebaum, Toni Collins and Kathy Lanter.

Strauch needs to shake woes of Panther loss

When a team comes as close as Eastern did to winning an NCAA playoff game, it's usually due to something falling apart or possibly someone letting down.

Behind the byline:
John Humenik

Consequently, Eastern football fans found their "someone" in sophomore place kicker Dave Strauch, who missed an extra point and a 46-yard field goal during the Panthers' 20-19 loss to Tennessee State Saturday.

Many of the estimated 10,000 spectators on hand in Nashville, Tenn. for the Division I-AA quarterfinal game couldn't find anything wrong with the two teams which put on a topflight show.

Both Tennessee State and Eastern, ranked fourth and fifth in the nation, respectively, played one of the closest playoff games during the second week of tourney play.

Eastern chalked up 20 first downs, while the host Tigers registered 19. The two teams passed for 264 and 267 yards, respectively and notched 396 and 339 yards in total offense.

But what many onlookers believe is that Strauch lost the game for the Panthers with his inconsistency. Some grid followers even go as far as to say Strauch never belonged kicking for Eastern this season.

Strauch, who was asked to join the team, filled in for former kicker Ray DeLong who was ruled academically ineligible this season. And until the playoffs, Strauch appeared to have made an easy transition.

However, after missing a key fourth-quarter field goal in the Panthers 16-13 overtime win over Jackson State Dec. 4, Strauch received a less-than-favorable response.

The Hinsdale native redeemed himself later with the winning boot, but still left a host of doubters behind him. And when Strauch missed an extra point and a field goal Saturday, he stood as the only loser on an outstanding 11-1-1 Eastern squad.

There were only winners against Tennessee State, but Strauch continues to absorb criticism (See STRAUCH, page 15)

Flames touted as AMCU's top team

(Editor's note: This is the final article in a nine-part series previewing the new Association of Mid-Continent Universities' 1982-83 basketball campaign. Teams are featured in order of their predicted finish.)

by John Humenik

Daily Eastern News correspondent

ROSEMONT, Ill.—When the Association of Mid-Continent Universities was established for basketball, the league's main goal was to some day qualify for a tournament bid.

With 12 lettermen and a handful of topflight recruits, the University of Illinois-Chicago head coach Tom Meyer's Flames have set that goal for 1982-83.

"Our potential scares me. This team can be great down the road," Meyer said. "I think it's realistic to ask the kids to win five or six more games this year, which means a tournament possibility."

In their second NCAA Division I campaign, the Flames will try to better last season's 14-13 record while keeping a constant eye on grabbing a bid to the National Invitation Tournament in March.

If the U of I-Chicago translates the season it anticipates onto paper, the Flames also will live up to the AMCU's prediction of winning its first basketball conference crown.

"Last year we were extremely pleased and lucky to win," Meyer told a large media delegation at the first AMCU press day gathering.

"We were far from a major Division I team, but now we have everyone returning and on paper that looks good," Meyer said. "People tell us that we're going to be good. I hope we can live up to that."

The Flames dominated the AMCU pre-season poll by registering 183 total points to finish ahead of Western Illinois, which tallied 153 points.

The U of I-Chicago notched 20 first place votes, one second place vote, two for third place and a vote for fifth place to round out the Flames' returns from the league's head coaches, athletic directors and sports information directors.

The Flames will compete in a new arena this season as the 10,000 seat UIC Pavilion will serve as a home for the former Chicago Circle team.

Meyer, whose squad showed it was on the verge of establishing a solid Division I program, will offer the same style as last year but with an added bonus.

"We are one year older and one year wiser," Meyer, the son of DePaul head coach Ray Meyer, said. "The kids tell me they're good. All in all we're looking for an exciting year."

The Flames welcome back standout junior guard John Ellis, who led the team in scoring, averaging 16.9 points per game. Ellis' 439 point total also marked the fifth highest season total in the school's history.

Ellis, a 6-foot-3 junior, earned Basketball Weekly Honorable Mention All-Midwest honors last season as he scored more than 20 points per game 11 times.

Joining Ellis is Tim Anderson, a 6-foot-5 junior forward. Anderson, who missed four games last season, is looking to make up for lost time.

Anderson, a teammate with Purdue's Russell Cross at Manley High School, helped his team notch the Illinois High School Class AA basketball crown

Daniels averaged 12.2 points per game last season in coming on strong in the second half of the year.

Last season as a team, the Flames averaged 68.6 points per game, while their opponents chalked up an average 70.7 points. The U of I-Chicago also shot 45 percent from the field and 67 percent from the free throw line.

Flames Notes... Head coach Tom Meyer enters his sixth season with a 62-74 career record...The U of I-Chicago has blue and scarlet as its colors.

for the Panther setback.

Consequently, Strauch, a second team Mid-Continent Conference place kicker, would rather not even remember Saturday.

"I just don't want to say anything," Strauch remarked. "I don't want to talk about it."

As it goes, Strauch will be remembered for Saturday's loss, but Eastern grid officials realize that asking him to kick a 46-yarder with 50 seconds left in the game and rain pouring down was asking too much.

But now Strauch needs a chance to regain his confidence and fit back into society by regaining his peers' confidence in him.

Remember, Strauch, like his teammates, are not professional athletes and do not deserve the unreasonable pressure and criticism college players take for their mistakes.
