President announces plans for $300,000 art studio project

By JEAN WRIGHT Staff writer

A $300,000 project to rebuild Eastern's art studios at Ninth Street and Johnson Avenue was announced Tuesday by Eastern President Stanley Rives.

The two-year project, "Make Room for Art," is part of the first capital improvement project of Eastern's Tenth Decade Campaign aimed at raising $5 million in five years.

Rives said the project will be funded through donations from corporations, foundations, students' parents and Eastern alumni. Since the Tenth Decade Campaign is a national project, the money will be sought from contributions nationwide as well as in Charleston

The two houses currently used as art studios by both faculty and students are, according to Rives, "in an extreme state of deterioration and are entirely unsuitable."

The houses were purchased in 1971 and were slated to be torn down to make way for more university construction. However, it was later decided to use the houses as art studios.

Rives said the houses were never renovated because it was not cost effective to rehabilitate or maintain them.

"We've made a serious effort to get state funds," Rives said. "But it's become apparent that if we want to get it done, we're going to have to do it ourselves."

"Make Room for Art" calls for two new buildings, each to have 10 studios and what art department Chairman James Johnson calls "no frills" construction.

"The building will have artificial as well as natural lighting (provided by a sky light), sinks and power," Johnson said.

While construction plans have not been finalized, Rives said four locations are being considered, including the site of the current studios. Rives declined to give more details on the other three sites.

However, Rives did say the studios may be built closer to the art department. If the studios are not rebuilt at their current site, that space will be used to expand parking.

Johnson said the graduate program in art currently grants between 12 and 15 assistantships, but with the addition of new studios more could be granted.

Defense-gun production scrapped

WASHINGTON (AP)—Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger said Tuesday he was scuttling production of a new air-defense gun on which the Army has sunk $1.8 billion, because it doesn't work much better than the weapons the service has now.

Before Weinberger's decision, the Army had planned to spend another $3 billion on the weapon, a twin-cannon gun unit mounted atop a tank chassis and known formally as the Division Air Defense gun or Divad.

"The independent operational tests demonstrated that the system's performance does not effectively meet the growing (Soviet) military threat," Weinberger said.

"The tests demonstrated also that while there are marginal improvements that can be made to the Divad, these are not significant compared to the capability of current air defense weapons and therefore, not worth the additional cost," Weinberger said. "So we will not invest any more funds in this system."

The cancellation of a weapon program, particularly after production has begun, is rare.

Although the Sgt. York has been plagued with development problems almost from its inception, Weinberger's decision caught many Army leaders by surprise.

They had argued privately the weapon was worth preserving because additional improvements could be made, and that the Army needed a radar-directed gun that could operate at night and in bad weather.

The Sargent York has been under development for more than seven years. The Ford Aerospace & Communications Corp., after winning a competition against the General Dynamics Corp., received a contract in 1981 to supply up to 618 Divad units. The company, which assembles the Sgt. York at a plant in Newport Beach, Calif., had delivered 65. Weinberger said he had ordered the Army not to accept any more of the guns.

Ford Aerospace said Tuesday the Sgt. York had met the "contractual specification requirements established by the Army." The firm also suggested it might offer a replacement itself.

Sen. Dan Quayle, R-Indl, a member of the Senate Armed Services Committee, applauded Weinberger's decision and said the action will likely boost the defense secretary's standing in Congress.

Designed to protect armored columns and troops from air attack, the Sgt. York consists of two 40 mm cannon—mounted atop a modified M48 tank chassis—linked to a special computer and radar. Weinberger suggested the weapon might have been flawed from the start because its cannons simply didn't have the range to strike Soviet helicopters carrying modern missiles.

Early fall enrollment estimate sets attendance at 9,800

By MIKE BURKE Staff writer

With central registration still taking place Tuesday afternoon, Eastern President Stanley Rives predicted the number of students enrolling for fall semester classes would be about 9,800, a target established by the university.

Official enrollment figures for the semester will be based on the number of students registered on the tenth day of classes, Rives said, adding that the exact number would not be known until that time.

Rives said the 9,800 estimate looked to be "in the ballpark," and included only on-campus students.

"I think it will be very close to that," he said.

A target figure of 10,400 total students, which includes an additional 600 off-campus students in continuing education programs, has also been established. Rives predicted that figure will also be met.

But Admissions Director Dale Wolf said the exact number of fall students would be "very hard" to predict, and his office's policy has been to "hold off on (giving) enrollment figures until after the final count" is known.

The university establishes enrollment target figures by taking into consideration such factors as housing requests, student applications and the number of those preregistering.

This fall's target figure of 9,800 is down from last year's target of 9,850. This year's prediction is also about 100 students short of last fall's final enrollment of 9,908 students.

Fall enrollment hit an all-time high in 1983 with 10,028 students registered for classes on Eastern's campus.

Another 600 students are expected to attend Eastern through the department of continuing education's courses and programs off campus, department spokesman Carol Holden said.

An official headcount of the number of those enrolled would not be known until near the end of the semester, she

Holden said 768 students took part in continuing education programs at off-campus locations last semester.

Actual enrollment, however, may have been higher, she said, because the department counts enrollments by the number of courses or programs taken, not by the number of individual students registered.

Continuing education programs include those workshops, extension courses and contract credit courses offered off campus at locations such as Lakeland Community College in Mattoon

Report: Catholics deny reforms

CHICAGO-American Catholics have learned to keep the faith while rejecting church authority, and their independence will thwart any attempt by the Vatican to undo 20 years of reform, says a Chicago priest, author and

The Rev. Andrew M. Greeley's assertion is outlined in a report being released Wednesday, "American Catholics Since the Council: An Unauthorized Report." His study is based on surveys of American Catholic laity since the reforms of the Second Vatican Council of 1965.

Greeley also has written six novels, including the controversial "Cardinal Sins."

His report is being published as Pope John Paul II and the church's bishops prepare for a November meeting to assess the impact of Vatican II. The pope has been at odds with the U.S. church's embracing of reform.

Each American bishop is being mailed a copy of Greeley's report, but "it is my fear that they will go to Rome and tell the pope what he wants to hear," Greeley said in a telephone interview Monday from his home near Buffalo, Mich.

Shuttle sent up despite weather

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla.—Discovery's astronauts were launched Tuesday through the worst weather of the space shuttle program, then had to rush the release of an Australian satellite to keep it from broiling in the sun.

"Fantastic. We all breathed a sigh of relief down here," Mission Control said after the Aussat satellite was deployed a day ahead of schedule.

"You think you did!" exclaimed astronaut Mike Lounge with emphasis on the second "you."

NASA also decided to go ahead with the scheduled release later in the day of another satellite, for the American Satellite Co. It would be the first time in the shuttle program that two satellites were released on a single day.

The Australian payload, one of three satellites carried aloft in Discovery's cargo bay, had been scheduled for launch Wednesday but a damaged sunshield forced the early

Anti-apartheid clergyman jailed on eve of massive protest march

CAPE TOWN, South Africa—The Rev. Allan Boesak, one of the nation's most outspoken foes of apartheid, was jailed Tuesday on the eve of a mass protest march he planned to lead to Pollsmoor Prison where Nelson Mandela is serv-

Boesak's lawyer said the march Wednesday would go ahead as planned despite the detention of Boesak and despite government warnings that it would act to halt the illegal assembly.

Mandela, black leader of the banned African National Congress, has been in prison since 1964, convicted of plotting sabotage.

Boesak, 39, is of mixed race and is president of the 70-million member World Alliance of Reformed Churches. He was arrested at a roadblock near the University of the Western Cape, where he serves as chaplain. He was detained indefinitely without charge as allowed by the Internal Security Act, police headquarters in

In Washington, the State Department condemned the arrest and made a protest to the South African government.

In Geneva, Switzerland, the World Alliance of Reformed Churches called Boesak's detention 'a manifestation of intolerance on the part of the South African Government" and demanded his release. The statement was issued jointly by the alliance and the World Council of Churches.

A fiery and eloquent opposition leader with a strong personal following, Boesak risked arrest when he announced the planned illegal march to Pollsmoor. Outdoor political gatherings have been banned since 1976.

The white government warned Saturday that Boesak's march, which he said would draw 20,000 people, was illegal and said police would take "stern action" to stop it. Unconfirmed reports said police set up roadblocks to turn back buses bringing participants to the Cape Town

Boesak's lawyer, Essa Moosa, said of Wednesday's demonsration, "It is the people's march... and it will go ahead.'

Boesak is a major figure among the South African clergymen involved in the struggle against apartheid. He is a member of the mixedrace branch of the Dutch Reformed Church, which is segregated.

Afrikaans-language Dutch Reform Church has long supported the government. Boesak was instrumental in getting the white branches of the church suspended from the World Alliance of Reformed Churches.

Boesak was arrested by four security policemen near the campus of the university. Aides said he was there to head-off a confrontation between some 400 placard-waving students and police firing tear gas.

Porno law held unconstitutional

CHICAGO—A federal appeals court Tuesday ruled unconstitutional a controversial Indianapolis ordinance that defines pornography as a violation of women's civil rights.

In its unanimous decision affirming a Nov. 19, 1984, ruling by U.S. District Judge Sarah Evans Barker, a three judge panel of the 7th U.S. Court of Appeals agreed the municipal ordinance constituted a violation of free speech rights.

The plaintiffs in the case were six trade associations representing "virtually all the book and magazines publishers and distributors in the country," said their attorney, Burton Joseph.

They challenged the measure the same day it was signed into law—May 1, 1984.

Indianopolis Mayor William Hudnut III and city officials responsible for enforcement of the ordinance were named as defendents in the case.

"History teaches us that when the censor begins, he or she is never satisfied," Joseph said. "No one's right to free expression can be protected unless everyone's is—including expressions of others that we find offensive or even hateful.

"That's what the First Amendment is designed to protect," he added. The defendants will make no decisions on further appeal until they have reached a copy of the decision, said Katherine Watson, one of the two defense attorneys, in a telephone interview from her Indianapolis office.

In writing the opinion for the appellate court panel, Judge George Easterbrook noted the Indianapolis ordinance defined pornography as considerably different from "obscenity," which the U.S. Supreme Court has held is not protected under First Amendment guarantees of free

The ordinance "demands attention to particular depictions, not to the work judged as whole," Easterbrook said. "It is irrelavant under the ordinance whether the work has literary, artistic, political, or scientific value. ...'

He questioned how the Indianopolis ordinance would treat works ranging from James Joyce,s "Ulysses" to Holmer's "Iliad," both of which, he said, "depict women as submissive objects for conquest and domination."

Firm could bring 100 jobs here

Mayor: Trip 'successful' in cultivating relationship with China

By JIM ALLEN City editor

A Taiwanese yacht-building firm looking to set up shop here could bring as many as 100 jobs to the area, Charleston Mayor Murray Choate said in a Tuesday press conference.

In what he called a "good-will mission," Choate said his recent seven-day trip to Charleston's sister city, Fengshan, Taiwan, was "very successful" in cultivating strong government and business relationships in Fengshan.

Talking about the trip with the press for the first time since his Aug. 15 return, Choate described the firm as a producer of "world-class" 42- to 46-foot vachts, building an average of two a month, each fetching prices of $180,000 to $250,000.

The plant he toured in Fengshan—similar to the one being considered for Charleston-employed about 100 persons, some with 60 years experience, Choate said.

While the yacht building firm has offices on both American coasts, it has yet to set up manufacturing

Choate and Charleston City Administrator Mike Steele would not release the yacht firm's name, saying other cities may try to get the business to locate elsewhere.

In a telephone interview from Fengshan Monday, Mayor Chen Ching-hsing said through an interpreter that Choate met with several agricultural and business leaders to discuss economic development during his Taiwan trip. At that time, Ching-hsing said Choate left a good impression with agricultural leaders and the vacht firm.

Neither Choate nor Ching-hsing could say how soon the plant could arrive. Both said talks for the plant are still in the preliminary stages.

Choate also said the leaders of a "farmers' association" expressed the desire to begin purchasing grains of all types directly from farmers in the Charleston area.

Cost estimates for damage at the water plant are still unavailable, and the matter is under investigation, he said.

The explosion, which occured just after 7 a.m. Aug. 15, injured two water plant workers and brought on a half-mile wide evacuation that was not lifted until 3:45 p.m., according to a report filed by E.O. Reed, Charleston public works director.

For agricultural trade to begin, Choate said it is only a matter of finding exactly how and what the farmers' association can purchase here.

Choate also reiterated Ching-hsing's concern that both nations should level off the trade deficit between America and Taiwan.

Negotiations between the Charleston Education Association and the Community District No. 1 School Board were still underway at presstime Tues-

The talks follow an ultimatum made by the CEA requesting the school board meet by Wednesday or the teachers would go on strike Thursday.

The negotiations Tuesday were being held without federal mediator Tom Montgomery or Ron Booth, the school board's chief negotiator.

District Superintendent Bill Hill said the board "still maintains that the most fruitful types of negotiations for the full teams are those with a mediator."

He added that the meeting's purpose was to clarify and review both sides' bargainning positions.

"Hopefully, both sides talks will be productive," he said Tuesday morning.

CEA chief negotiator Lew Hankenson said Monday that if progress was made at Tuesday night's negotiations, the teachers would probably return to federally mediated negotiations next Tuesday.

Issues in the contract talks are salary, health insurance and dental insurance.

The teachers are asking for a 15 percent increase in pay and the board is offering a 6 percent increase the first year and a 4 ½ increase the second year. The average teacher's salary in Charleston is $22,403.

Booth said the dental insurance issue remains unresolved, but a tentative agreement has been reached on health insurance.

'Friendly city' set to reap from student pocket

It seems the "friendly city," as Charleston Mayor Murray Choate and previous city officials have referred to it, is turning an unfriendly shoulder to Eastern students, parents and alumni.

If the council's hotel/motel and phone taxes go through, Eastern and its students may likely be the Editorial hardest hit victims. motel managers have said Eastern-related business is up to 50 percent of their business—a chunk that represents the largest single group to be kicking in revenues. As one local innkeeper said, "During the three months of summer, there's no business at all."

The best days for the area hotels are Parents' Day, Homecoming Weekend and around graduations. And this is according to the people who know best-the Charleston hotel proprietors themselves.

But the revenue has one primary goal—to pay for Charleston Days, an event hardly geared to attract Eastern alumni and parents back to town for the Fourth of July weekend.

Charleston Days will simply make every Fourth like this past one which occurred sesquicentennial festivities. Residents from surrounding towns would be primary targets for city officials looking for tourists-not the students, parents and alumni.

According to Letty Murnin, manager of the Charleston Motor Inn, those festivities hardly brought her much touted tourist business

Another proposed use for the money is to assist in the funding of a "downtown cookout." We believe this will hardly create a "tourism" boom.

But possibly a more heinous tax will be that which is placed on the phone bills of students who live in residence halls. While their bills have no basic monthly service charges—the sum to be taxed—they still will have to pay a monthly $1.25 tax.

At the rate they are operating, the "friendly c'ty" could end up the "friendless city."

Your turn

What principle?

It was ironic, to say the least, that you welcomed us back to school with the "cheery" news that the Eastern Illinois University Foundation Board unanimously renewed its investment in corporations which still do business in South Africa.

Think about it. Isn't it hypocritical? We are here at an institution of higher education broadening our minds to create a better world, giving our tuition, fees and our parents' taxes in return. A pack of clowns chose to invest our funds with corporations which exploit the suppression of millions of human beings by indirectly supporting apartheid. The policies are of the most cruel, and narrow-minded government on the face of this

Then, the Foundation Board attempted to sugarcoat its horrendous decision by demanding some meaningless stipulations (all of which the corporations already adhere; and look at the difference that has made). Let's face it, the Sullivan Principles and the policy of constructive engagement are merely examples of gutlessness to condemn that which is wrong while giving the South African government a pat on the back for a job well done. Total divestiture is the only answer.

The Foundation's decision clearly shows us that its heart is in its wallet, lying in the gutter along with its mind.

The guy who incorparated slang into the English language should receive an award.

I don't know about you, but I find it fascinating. It's really fun to hear names that people tag on friends and neighbors which vividly describe their attributes

I remember a visit to a friend in Regency Apartments. His roommate let me in and ordered me to a chair in the corner of the room, while he yelled for my friend and plopped down across the couch countinuing to consume mass quantities of potato chips and beer in front of the TV.

It seemed that each time I visited my friend, his roommate was slumped in the same position eating, reading or sleeping — usually watching TV.

My friend and I finally arrived to the conclusion that his roommate was a couch potato (their other roommates called him something unmentionable).

The couch dwelling phenomena is not the craze since Rock Hudson jokes, though. In fact, at least one exists in every housing establishment (on or off campus).

Black South Africans want economic sanctions—poll

WASHINGTON (AP)—A new poll showing that a lopsided majority of South Africa's urban black populations favors economic sanctions shouldn't be imposed because blacks would be hurt by them.

Reagan is clearly leaning to vetoing sanctions, although he won't say for sure. He apparently first wants to be certain lawmakers wouldn't vote to override his veto. Congress is expected to send him a sanctions bill soon after returning from its recess in September.

The bill already has been approved by the House and is awaiting Senate approval, which is seen as certain. It would put curbs on sales of nuclear equipment and computers, ban imports of South African gold coins and ban new loans to the South African government.

In an interview last weekend, Reagan said sanctions would increase unemployment and cause "setbacks in gains that have beem made by labor and by the blacks in South Africa."

The administration argues—and there is evidence to back its claim—that U.S. economic ties provide a vehicle for encouraging fair employment practices for blacks.

But a poll conducted by the Sunday Times of London found that 77 percent of urban blacks in the survey favored economic sanctions anyway as a way of putting pressure on the regime of President P.W. Botha to dismantle apartheid. Many who were polled acknowledged they personally would suffer under sanctions.

Urban blacks often are better off than those outside the cities. They number about 9 million, less than half of the total black population of 24 million, but they are the ones who work in the nation's factories, including U.S.-owned industries, and would be first to suffer if sanctions did hurt South Africa's economy.

The newspaper said its poll marked a reversal of previous polls showing "a slim black majority against sanctions."

The newspaper said the poll was conducted of 400 blacks in a string of South African cities by Markinor, a Gallup-affiliated organization. The newspaper said the survey, done by interviews, was made last week and had a margin error of plus or minus 5 percentage points.

Assuming it fairly reflects the views of urban blacks, the poll is not good news for Reagan.

The administration's strategy lately has been to seek sufficient conservative support in the Senate.

Eastern's residence halls overbooked for 11th year

By AMY ZURAWSKI Campus editor

For the 11th year in a row, Eastern's residence halls have been overbooked.

Housing Director Lou Hencken said the capacity of Eastern's 12 residence halls is about 105 percent this year. Therefore, he added, about 68 students are living in temporary housing situa-

Although this year is not different from previous ones, Hencken said the "overflow students" have been placed in 17 lounges in Carman Hall and extra students have been placed in 11 triple rooms in Lincoln and Douglas Halls.

"So many people want to live in the residence halls, we try to put them in every available space," he said. "When the architects designed Carman, they included three closets in the lounges. I think they planned for them to be used in overflow situations."

However dismal the temporary situation may seem, Hencken said many of the students, once they get comfortable in their "overflow" homes, do not want to be relocated in regular rooms when they become available.

"Our first problem is when people find out that they are in overflow, they think it is like barracks," Hencken said. "The second problem is getting students out (to regular housing spaces) once they've settled in."

He addded that within 20 days almost all students in overflow housing will be offered a regular room, but only about 10 percent will take advantage of the opportunity to move.

Once a student gets settled in and makes friends on the floor, it is hard to get them to move. We used to make students move to regular housing even when they didn't want to. Now, I guess it's almost a normal room.

—Lou Hencken Housing Director

While students are living in overflow housing, the housing office ensures accommodations are made to make students comfortable, Hencken said.

"Over the years, we've learned what the students like," he said. "Like in Carman, there isn't room for four desks in the lounges, so we gave them a round table. Most students prefer them anyway.'

In addition, Hencken said the lounges used in overflow situations are basically equipped with the same furnishings as regular rooms.

"Once a student gets settled in and makes friends on the floor, it is hard to get them to move," he said. "We used to make students move to regular housing even when they didn't want to. Now, I guess it's almost a normal rdella said students need to present their validated ID to be admitted to the ballroom.

"If the class is non-competitive, I would not suggest waiting in line for it," he said as a suggestion to students caught in the annual rush to complete their schedules. Sardella estimated a large number of student will be adding classes, he did not suggest students attempt "to beat the crowd. Students should stick to the schedule and things should go smoothly," he said.

"If a student can't get a class they absolutely need during adds, he should see his advisor and at last resorts, his certifying dean for help," Sardella

Students will also be able to pick up classes from 1 to 4 p.m. Thursday and Friday in the Union Ballroom. Friday is the last day students will be able to add classes to their schedules.

The last day to drop classes without a grade is Sept. 11, Sardella said. Students will be able to drop classes and receive a "W", withdraw, until Oct. 28 and Nov. 28. is the final day to drop classes and receive a "WP", withdraw passing, or "WF", withdraw Sardella said students who wish to drop classes must submit a drop request in the drop box located outside the registration of fice in the south basement of McAfee Gym.

Senate plans for students' input on senate seats

By JULIE ZOOK Government editor

The Student Senate has been busy planning for the fall, concentrating mainly on encouraging students to participate in student government.

The senate's main goal, Student Body President Floyd Akins said, is to "get recognition of student government back on campus. We want to make students realize who we are and what we do."

Akins said he plans to realize that goal by a drive in the Union and the residence halls to get students signed up for boards, committees and senate.

Senate Speaker Larry Markey said the drive, which has not yet been scheduled, will be "an all-out blitz."

Applications for students who want to be on a board or committee are already available in the student government office, Akins said, adding that some students have already come in to apply.

Committee positions can be held by any interested student, Akins said, but board positions are usually held by students with a strong interest or experience in the field.

The boards include intercollegiate athletics, performing visual arts, health services and student publications.

The senate's first meeting is scheduled for 7 p.m. next Wednesday in the Union addition Arcola-Tuscola room.

Markey said topics on the agenda include approving committee chairmen and the Summer Senate minutes.

Akins said student government executive officers have met to plan meeting formats, how to accomplish goals and how to improve student government's image.

J.S. poverty rate declines sharply

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States experienced its first significant decline in poverty in nearly a decade last year, as the improving economy helped 1.8 million Americans climb above the poverty level, the government said Tuesday.

"There was a very significant increase in income and decrease in poverty in 1984," said Gordon W. Green Jr., who is in charge of socioeconomic statistics for the Census Bureau.

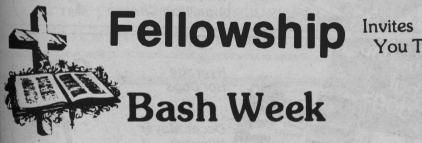

"Economic recovery and (the reduced level of) inflation are important factors in the continuing decline of poverty," he said.

Green said the national poverty rate declined nearly one percentage point to 14.4 percent, or 33.7 million people living below the poverty line. The poverty rate in 1983 was 15.3 percent, or 35.5 million people.

The poverty threshold for an urban family of four was $10,609 last year, up from $10,178 a year earlier. The rate is slightly lower for rural families.

Auditions scheduled for 'Waltz of the Toreadors'

Auditions for the Homecoming play, The Waltz of the Toreadors, will e conducted 7 p.m. Thursday in the Doudna Fine Arts Center Theatre.

Any student can try out for the 11 wailable parts, play director Clarence Blanchette said. Scripts may be picked up in the Theatre Arts Office.

'The play is for people interested in heater as art rather than entertainment," Blanchette said.

Jean Anouilh wrote the play about a general who believes he is a ladies' man and the emptiness he feels in his life.

The play is "fundamentally Anouilh's view of life with its sadness and joys," Blanchette said.

The comedy should have a broad audience appeal, Blanchette said, adding that the play has a "subtle seriousness" to it which should make it

The play "causes us to laugh because our other option is to cry," he said.

Blanchette said he has high hopes for the play both critically and at the box office. It is scheduled to run October

Bank hit with record fines

overnment announced Tuesday it had mposed a record $2.25 million in enalties against Crocker National Bank of San Francisco for failing to eport almost $4 billion in cash tranactions as required by law.

Treasury Department officials said he bank, the country's 11th largest, and committed 7,877 reporting violaions from 1980 through 1984.

Officials said the violations were unovered during a routine audit of the bank last October and that the bank's new management had cooperated with the investigation.

Under the Bank Secrecy Act, banks are required by law to report all cash ransactions above $10,000. The law is designed to give federal law enforcement officials a tool to investigate cases involving drug deals, corruption and organized crime.

The Crocker case marked the sixth time this year that the government has penalized banks for failure to report.

In June, the Treasury Department announced smaller civil penalties against four New York City banks for reporting violations.

Assistant Treasury Secretary John M. Walker Jr. said the civil penalty imposed on Crocker was larger because "the extremely serious nature of Crocker's violations warranted a substantially more severe penalty than in prior cases.'

chard LeFevour sentenced to 12 years in prison

CHICAGO (AP)—The highestranking judge charged in the federal Opertion Greylord probe of Cook County court corruption was sentenced Tuesday to 12 years in prison for bribery and case-fixing. Richard LeFevour, charged after a 31/2 year federal investigation of the nations largest court system, was automatically stripped of his circuit judgeship on sentencing.

"The name of Richard LeFevour will be associated with corruption." said U.S. District Judge Charles R. Norgle Sr., who handed down the Norgle said the penalty was stiff because most of the counts against LeFevour were directly connected to his position of public trust.

"Citizens should expect nothing but the best from their public servants," he said, adding that LeFevour had engaged in criminal conduct that was "repeated, consistent and patterened over an extended period of time."

LeFevour-who had served aas cheif judge of Traffic Court and, more recently, as presiding judge of the 1st District—was convicted Municipal last month on 59 counts of mail fraud, racketeering and income-tax viola-

"I truly love my father," said Mark LeFevour, an assisstant Cook County state's attorney. "I've tried to no avail, to make sense of the last two years ( since his father's name surfaced in the case), and I can't."

He said prosecutors calling for a heavy penalty against hies father "don't know the good he is capable of and that he has done."

Norgle gave the defendant an opportunity to comment before sentencing, but LeFevour declined, citing the possibility of appeal.

Lefevour, who is to report to prison by Jan. 2, would be eligible for parole in four years, authorities said.

He could have been sentenced to up to 300 years in prison and fined $103,000. Norgle said mititgating factors in the sentencing were LeFevour's progressive liver disease and the fact that the defendant "has been financially devastated" by the case.

During closing arguments at LeFevour's eight-week trial, prosecutors said the 54-year-old judge pedddled justice "like it was apples" and "spent money like a drunken sailor" over a 14-year period from 1969 through 1983.

He had been on paid leave from his $65,00-a-year post. Being removed from the bench will cost him his pension, but his investment in the pension means that about $40,000 will be returned to his family, said U.S. Attorney Candace J. Fabri, one of the prosecutors.

Eighteen defendants in the trials stemming from Operation Greylord have been convicted or have pleaded

Video kings push 'sale only'; dealers aren't buying it

WASHINGTON (AP)—Leaders of the home video industry are trying to convince store owners that customers can be talked into buying rather than renting video cassettes.

But at $75 and above for a hit movie, store owners aren't buying that pitch any more than their customers are buying the high-priced movies.

At sessions this week in Washington, members of the Video Software Dealers Association are giving store owners suggestions ranging from establishing a "sale only" policy for newly released tapes to setting up

WASHINGTON (AP)—Leaders of bargain bins where customers can buy e home video industry are trying to used rental cassettes.

But the dealers, as measured from the laughter that could be heard during one filmed presentation on possible sales ploys, are going to be difficult to convince.

"Most people, once they've seen it once or twice in their homes" have seen a tape all they want to, said Virginia E. Adams, of Home Video Library in Milford, Ohio.

Millie Robert, who has five Video Today stores in the Holland, Mich., area, says there is price resistance among her customers.

"If we get under $20," she said, sales might take off.

She told a reporter the companies that market the cassettes are beginning to offer hundreds of titles at $24.95 or less. She agreed the manufacturers are getting the price message.

But an examination of Billboard Magazine's chart of video cassette sales in the last 12 months indicates little correlation between price and sales.

Prices for four of the 10 tapes that hit No. 1 during the year were above $75 in retail stores.

Only one, a special "We Are The World" video, was below the $20 figure at $14.95.

The overwhelming percentage of the video cassette business is in rentals—a fat pie that the makers of motion pictures do not share because of the so-called First Sale Doctrine. Under that rule, which filmmakers have been urging Congress to repeal, an author or film distributor gets nothing from a book or a movie after its initial sale—in this case to a video cassette dealer.

McGee's three-bagger drops Cincinnati 6-4

CINCINNATI (AP)—Willie Mcgee's two-run triple in the eighth inning Tuesday night lifted St. Louis to a 6-4 victory over the Cincinnati Reds, extending the Cardinals' winning streak to seven games.

Mcgee hit his National Leagueleading 16th triple off reliever Ted Power, 4-4 who came in with a 4-3 lead in the eighth and failed to retire a batter.

The victory gave the Cardinals their longest winning streak of the season and boosted their lead in the NL East to three games over New York, which lost to Los Angeles 2-1.

Cesar Cedeno's pinch-hit, two-run single off Cardinal starter John Tudor (AP)—Willie put the Reds ahead in the seventh. e in the eighth inted St. Louis to a double to Steve Braun in th eighth, and Cincinnati Reds, Vince Coleman bunted for a single.

McGee's stand-up triple into the right-center field gap chased Power, and Tito Landrum closed out the scoring with a pinch-hit single off reliever John Franco.

Bill Campbell, 4-3, retired the one batter he faced in the seventh to get the victory. Jeff Lahti finished up for his 16th save.

Mike Jorgensen's two-run single off Andy McGaffigan gave the Cardinals a 3-1 lead to 3-2 in the sixth.

Cincinnati player-manager Pete Rose did not play. He needs 11 hits to break Ty cobb's all-time hit record of double. After an intentional walk to 4,191.

Astros 11, Cubs 4

HOUSTON (AP)—Bill Doran hit a triple and a double, drove in a career-high five runs and scored the winning run Tuesday night to power the Houston Astros over the Chicago Cubs 11-4.

Dave Smith, 7-5, was the winner in relief for Houston and Ron Meridith, 2-1, got the loss in relief.

Trailing 4-3 entering the bottom of the seventh, Houston rallied for eight runs, its biggest single-inning run production of the season. Mark Bailey led off with a walk and scored on Doran's double. After an intentional walk to Phil Garner, Jose Cruz singled to drove in Doran, as reliever George Frazier came in for Meridith.

Garner scored on Glenn Davis' infield single and Smith walked to force in Cruz. Bailey then doubled in Jerry Mumphrey and Davis, and Doran singled home Smith and Bailey for his second hit of the inning.

Both teams scored a run in the first. Davey Lopes put the Cubs ahead 1.0 when he singled, stole second, went to third on Denny Walling's single and scored on a Cruz grounder.

The Astros tok a 3-1 lead in the second. Mizerock started things off with a leadoff double.

Young starters keep Royals in chase

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP)—The Kansas City Royals head into the pennant drive days of September boasting one of the top starting pitching rotations in baseball—and that doesn't surprise Manager Dick Howser.

"They were good last year," Howser said of his solid five-man starting rotation. "Their numbers won-and-lost-wise weren't as good as they should have been, but we didn't score a lot of runs. But, they still pitched good and got everybody's attention."

The attention has grown this year with each new turn on the mound.

Going into Tuesday's game with Milwaukee, the Royals starting five of righthanders Bret Saberhagen and Mark Gubicza and lefthanders Bud Black, Danny Jackson and Charlie Leibrandt led a pitching staff that ranked second in the league in earned run average at 3.51 and has allowed a league-least 77 home runs.

The starters have a combined ERA of 3.32 over 820 innings. Leibrandt is second in the league with a 2.79 ERA, Saberhagen third at 2.81 and Jackson seventh at 3.05.

Saberhagen at 16-5 is tied for the league-lead with 16 victories, while Leibrandt is 13-6 and Jackson 12-7. Gubicza is 9-7 with a 3.97 ERA and Black is 8-13 with a 4.17 ERA.

Jackson is among the league-leaders in shutouts with three, while Leibrandt has twice kept opponents scoreless. The Royals starters have hurled only one less shutout than league-leader Detroit, whose staff has 10 to their credit, and already have equaled last year's season total.

The best news for the Royals—however disheartening to the rest of the league—is the youthfulness of the staff.

Leibrandt and Black are the oldest at 28, while Jackson and Gubicza are 23 and Saberhagen is 21.

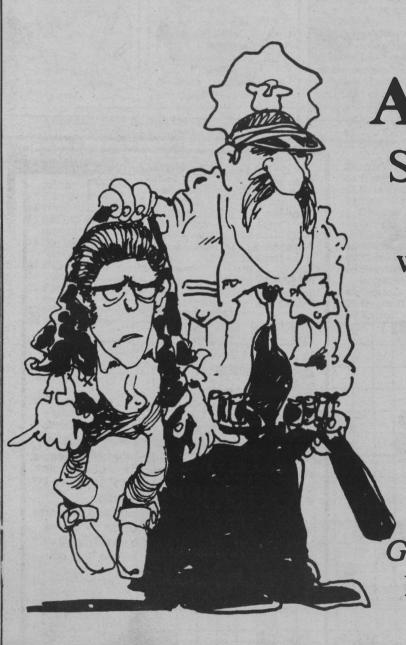

"It's kind of an amazing thing being so young and being in the situation I'm in," said Sabehagen. "I'm surprised that I'm in the top two or three in different categories. But, I'm not surprised I'm a winning pitcher in the American League."

The rise of the Royals starting pitchers has not been surprising because it has been a slow, deliberate process, said Howser.

Howser said he and Kansas City's front office decided after the 1983 season, in which the Royals finished in second place with a 79-83 record, 20 games behind division winner Chicago, that the pitching staff was in desperate need of help.

Spikers battle inexperience for successful season

By DAN VERDUN
Assistant sports editor

Despite an inexperienced roster that sports eight freshmen and sophomores, Eastern's volleyball team is setting its sights on reaching the Gateway Collegiate Athletic Conference final four at season's end.

"The Gateway will be more wideopen this year," third-year coach Betty Ralston said. "Because it's going to be so wide-open, we feel that we have a shot."

The Panthers indeed believe they have a legitimate shot at reaching the Gateway's tournament elite come November—in fact, they've made it one of their prime goals this fall.

Ralston expects Illinois State, Southwest Missouri State, Bradley and Southern Illinois to be among the teams in contention for the 1985 Gateway crown.

The Panthers, 17-20 last year, finished with a disappointing 2-7 conference record and a tie for seventh place in the 10-team league in 1984.

Spearheading the Eastern attack will be junior all-Gateway selection Maura Lefevour. The Oak Park native led the Panthers in four offensive categories last season. Lefevour's .321 hitting percentage and 81 block assists rated in the Gateway's top 10.

"Maura will have to be more consistent this year," Ralston said. "Everyone we play will be keying on her because last year was all Maura."

In addition to Lefevour, the Panther offense is bolstered by seniors Judy Planos, Misty Buckhold and Lori Berger.

Planos, an outside hitter from Evanston, was plagued by injuries a year ago. Despite playing in only 87 of 132 games, Planos registered 204 kills to rank second on the team.

Buckhold and Berger will be counted on to provide leadership to the young squad. Berger finished second on the team in service aces (60) and block assists (61).

Ralston will also rely heavily on the contributions of sophomores Jeanne Pacione and Diane Eiserman.

Pacione will face the difficult task of playing a new position. The Mt. Prospect native was moved from middle blocker to setter during spring ball.

Eiserman, a Libertyville product, netted 168 kills in her freshman campaign.

"Diane improved a great deal during spring ball," Ralston said. "She definitely has to develop consistency. She has a very quick jump and consequently a lot of times she overjumps."

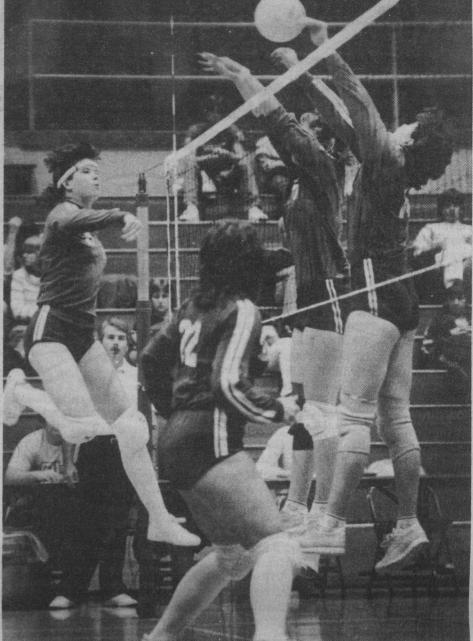

Despite losing all-state recruit Melisa Beckman, who dropped out of school, Ralston brought in a talented freshmen crop that figures to see plenty of action, particularly in the early season.

Gina Knoke, a 6-foot outside hitter, will provide the Panthers with some size in the front row to combat the taller Gateway opponents.

Ralston is hoping that Gianna Galanti will make a smooth transition from outside to middle hitter, a move that could be vital to the Panthers' success.

Setters Leann Thomas and Diane Lessner along with sophomores Pandora Nelis and Sue Miloch will provide Ralston with more bench depth this season.

Eastern opens its season Sept. 5 against Louisiana State in the opening game of the Lady Tiger Classic at Memphis, Tenn.

Junior all-Gateway performer Maura LeFevour returns this season to try to lead Eastern's young volleyball team to a successful campaign.

Booters travel afar for seasoning

By DOBIE HOLLAND Staff writer

Staying in shape is a year-round ordeal for Eastern's soccer corps. And one of the best ways to maintain that stamina for playing 90 minutes of intense soccer is to keep playing.

Several of coach Cizo Mosnia's booters did it with flair as they traveled to Russia, West Germany and Canada during the summer.

Freshman Craig Hartman served a tour of duty in West Germany with a team from the United States. Playing along with teammates Greg Muhr and Scott Taylor, they recorded a 5-1-1 record.

Hartman said the entire experience prepared him for playing college level soccer.

"It was pretty unbelievable there and it was a good experience for me to play older players," he said. "It got my confidence up for playing college-level soccer."

Hartman is already being touted as a very talented player by Another promising recruit is Matteo Saccomanno who spent the summer abroad in his native Edmonton, Canada.

Saccomanno, competed in the Canada Games with the Alberta team in the under-21 league. Saccomanno said he has been competing in the games for more than two years and credits the summer activities for keeping him sharp.

A Canadian who is still abroad competing is Larry Pretto. Pretto is representing the National Youth Team in the World Champinonship Games in Minsk, Russia.

Sophomore Ozzie Molinari did a stint of duty with a semi-pro team up in Ontario, Canada. He also played on an all-star team. Hopefully, Molinari can combine the more stylish play of Canadian soccer with the more physical play in the United States to once again spark the Panthers.

Senior Paul Kelly also played soccer in Canada for the Edmonton Scottish in 20 games. He also competed on the Selects All-Star squad from the city.

Running game set to return from chalkboard

Pitts, Holland ready for challenge

If someone was to page through the playbook for Eastern's offense last season, they may have had trouble locating the running plays.

That part of the game plan was left on the chalkboard when the Panthers took the field on Saturdays. Eastern abandoned its early season plans of a balanced offense, opting to fly instead It's not that they weren't successful though. With 17 individual records and six team marks resulting from the Panthers' aerial attack, the running game had become a forgotten aspect.

Common sense says you don't tamper with a good thing. But a mediocre 6-5 record meant something needed to be changed, or at least altered. What Eastern coaches would like to do this season is make a good offense better.

little more balance without taking away from our pass game," offensive coordinator Joel Swisher said. "If we can run the ball a little more effectively it can do nothing but help our passing game. We were successful last year ofdiminish that."

Eastern will continue to employ a one-back system similar to a pro-style offense. Only this year, there will be the luxury of two quality halfbacks, each with different strong points.

Bernard Holland returns stronger than ever from a knee injury which sidelined the former starter after three games last year, and DuWayne Pitts is back after compiling 612 all-purpose more outside speed and great power as well," Swisher assessed. "DuWayne is extremely shifty, he's smart and he's a great receiver. They both have real pluses and they kind of accentuate each Holland will be used primarily in tough-yardage situations and inside runs, while Pitts will be utilized for "We, as a staff, would like to see a outside sweeps and as a receiver on screen passes.

Naturally, both would like to help the Panthers stay on the ground more often, but neither is unhappy with the current scheme of things.

"We know that to be a more sucfensively because of our passsing cessful team we have to have a running game, and we certainly don't want to game," Pitts said. "If you don't have any running game, you're not going to be very successful. Our passing game will be successful, but you still need a strong running game to keep the defense honest.

> Holland felt the biggest difference from a year ago in the running game was that "we're using it a little more," but stressed the importance of it if Eastern plans on returning to the playoffs.

"This year it will be very important, "Bernard has probably got a little because (wide receiver) Roy Banks is going to be double-covered now, so the running game will be much more important," Holland said.

Halfbacks DuWayne Pitts (20) and Bernard Holland (35) will bolster the Panthers' running game in hopes of giving the pass-oriented offense a more balance ed attack this upcoming season.

Eastern averaged only 47 yards rushing per game last year, and a meager 1.7 yards per carry. Improvement seems almost vital, although those figures didn't take anything away from the passing game.

Swisher feels the team is on the verge Thursday...Defensing the pass of discovering a happy medium.

"We think our running game definitely improved," he said. "We've got a better handle on what running plays mesh with our passing game. We'd like to establish it for no other reason than to control the ball and keep our defense off the field a little matched the No. 1 seed John McEnroe shot for shot, game for game and set for set. In the final tiebreaker, the second of the match, he fought off four match points before McEnroe cracked a backhand crosscourt that Glickstein feebly put into the net.

McEnroe won the tiebreaker 9-7, then raised his hand high into the air, obviously pleased with the result—if not his play.

"It surprised me how flat I was today," McEnroe said. "I lost my concentration quickly. He jerked me around and had me on the defensive. I don't remember when I was ever that flat.

"I've never been so happy to win an opening round match."

CHICAGO (AP)-Veteran punter Dave Finzer was among 10 players cut by the Chicago Bears on Tuesday as the team trimmed its roster to 50 players, team spokesman Bryan Harlan said.

The Bears will have to stat a final five players by Monday, Harlan said.

The veterans cut included second-year running back Donald Jordan, second-year offensive tackle Tom Andrews and secondyear wide receiver Jack Cameron.

Rookie cuts included seventhround draft choice Charles Bennett, a defensive end; defensive back Mike Stoops; offensive tackle Tom Andrews; guard Joe Spivak; wide receiver Brent Duhon; defensive tackle Jeff Kacmarek and tight end Don Kindt, son of Don Kindt, the Bears' firstround draft choice in 1947.

Finzer, a second-year player out of DePauw, was the starting punter and averaged 40.1 yards per kick last season, including an 87-varder that was the fifth longest in National Football League history.

But he was averaging just 37.8 yards per kick in the pre-season, and the Bears acquired Maury Buford from San Diego last week, Buford averaged 56 yards in two kicks in Monday night's game with Dallas, unleashing a 68yarder, to win the job.

Last season, Finzer was traded to the Bears by San Diego.
