Teachers' strike hurting students at Eastern too

By STEVE SMITH
Campus editor

As the Mattoon teacher's strike enters its second week, several of Eastern's student teachers in the area are scheduled to be relocated.

Fred Kreamelmeyer, coordinator of elementary, junior high school and special education, said the seven student teachers he is supervising may be moved to schools in Sullivan.

"A lot (of the student teachers) are dissatisfied," Kreamelmeyer said. "There is still a possibility that we may stay, but it looks bad."

Kreamelmeyer said last year when Charleston teachers went on strike, student teachers were scheduled to be moved also. However, the strike was settled the day the student teachers were scheduled to move, he said.

"There are usually a couple of teachers not pleased with their (original) placement. This time the teachers are displeased a move had to be made," Kreamelmeyer said.

He said one student teacher in particular was teaching at Mattoon Junior High School and had learned about 150 of his student's names. "(He) was finally beginning to feel comfortable, now he has to start all over again," he said.

Francis Summers, Eastern's director of student teaching, said there are approximately 30 student teachers in the Mattoon area.

Summers said the student teacher supervisors locate replacement jobs for the students.

He estimated that four or five students have been moved already. "I feel it's unfortunate (a move has to be made)," Summers said.

Kreamelmeyer said money and the language in the contract are the main stumbling blocks in the negotiations between Mattoon teachers and the Mattoon Education Association.

"It's an emotional issue," Kreamelmeyer said. "I advise the (student) teachers to edit what they say in the faculty lounges."

Kreamelmeyer said he has heard the strike may last a record amount of time before it is settled. "The final offers are still far apart," he said.

However, because two schools in the Mattoon area are under repair he said the strike may end soon. "The workers won't cross picket lines," Kreamelmeyer said. "People want to see (the schools repairs) taken care of. We will keep our fingers crossed."

Kreamelmeyer said the two rooms had heating and cooling problems that needed to be resolved before winter.

Kreamelmeyer said the classroom atmosphere is always tense when a student teacher begins his or her job. Starting over means dealing with this tenseness again, he said.

"It's a tough situation to have to move," he said. "Teachers should be in their main stretch drive, now they have to go back to the beginning."

Marijuana plants siezed in area raid

By TERRY GASCHLER
Staff writer

About 60 marijuana plants found growing near Lake Paradise south of Mattoon were siezed by the Coles County Sheriff's Department Wednesday night.

Acting on tips from informants, police found the marijuana hidden in a field off of the lake's shoreline, said Coles County Sheriff Chuck Lister.

Although no arrests were made during the raid and police had no suspects Wednesday, the investigation will continue, Lister said.

The street value of the marijuana could not be accurately determined because the plants were not mature, Lister said.

"The plants were about waist-to-shoulder high," Lister said. "When plants are real (See MARIJUANA, page 7.)"

Pep rally planned for Homecoming

By JULIE LEWIS
Activities editor

In an effort to gain enthusiasm, students with loud voices and lots of spirit are encouraged to attend the annual Homecoming pep rally and bon fire at 8 p.m. Thursday on the Lawson basketball courts.

Homecoming coordinator Kathy Young said the rain location for the event will be McAfee gym. "If it rains we'll just go ahead and have the pep rally in the gym," she said.

Young said the rally always draws a big crowd. "All the organizations show up because they compete for spirit points," she added. "But a lot of other students usually show up too."

She said the Eastern cheerleaders will judge each organization's spirit. Each organization must do an original cheer and display its spirit banner, Young said.

"We give out spirit points throughout the week's activities," she said. "The trophy will be given out at halftime of the Homecoming football game."

Young said in addition to her own short speech, the football coach, student body president, rally and spirit Homecoming co-chairs will also give speeches.

"The Pink Panthers and the cheerleaders will also be on hand to perform," Young said.

She said the power plant is taking care of the arrangements for setting up the bonfire. "We had to make sure the fire department would be there too," she said.

"We're just really hoping for a good crowd to turnout for the rally," she added.

Sanctions could spur divestment pressure

By BILL DENNIS
Administration editor

The Congress' recent sanctions against South Africa won't force the EIU Foundation to divest, but it could put added pressure on them to do so, an analyst for an investment research firm said Wednesday.

The sanctions, which were passed last week over President Ronald Reagan's veto, limit new investments by American companies in the strife-torn country but do not force companies with current ties there to leave—nor do they force organizations like the foundation to divest.

Cathy Bowers, a research analyst for the Investment Responsibility Research Center in Washington, D.C., said the sanctions really won't have any effect on new investments because few companies are investing more money in the region now anyway.

"There are a lot of economic factors," Bowers said, "but the political factors have an effect, too."

"It's just really not very profitable. There's been no growth there for the past several years," she added.

Despite a lack of a direct effect on investments, there has been some speculation that the Congress' sanctions put groups like the foundation on the spot concerning divestment, she said.

"Just the fact that the Congress passed the sanctions (See SANCTIONS page 7.)"

Reagan to get 'Superfund' bill

WASHINGTON—The House overwhelmingly passed the broadly supported $9 billion "Superfund" renewal bill Wednesday, completing congressional action on major environmental legislation that the White House is threatening to veto.

The toxic-waste cleanup bill headed toward President Reagan's desk after a 386-27 roll call in the House, giving the measure nearly 100 more votes more than would be needed to override any veto.

During the debate, a parade of House members from both parties urged Reagan to sign the legislation. A veto, said Rep. Norman Lent, R-N.Y., "would be a grave error."

Shortly before the House action, Sen. Robert Packwood, R-Ore., and 80 other senators—35 of them Republicans—wrote Reagan, urging him to sign the bill despite administration opposition to some of its tax provisions.

Free land offered to automakers

SPRINGFIELD—The state has purchased land options on a 900-acre parcel near Springfield it will offer free to entice two Japanese automakers seeking to build a plant in the United States, a state official said.

The state is paying $10 per acre for the land options, through a third party so landowners will not know who is interested in it, Jay Hedges, the head of the Department of Commerce and Community Affairs, said in an interview.

"That's not a lot of money, it's $9,000," said Hedges.

The land will be part of the incentive package put together to entice the Subaru-Isuzu joint venture automobile assembly plant, which may eventually employ 3,000 workers in Illinois, Hedges said.

Fuji Heavy Industries Ltd., Subaru's parent company, and Isuzu Motor Corp. announced in May plans to build a $480 million U.S. plant.

Reagan to stand firm on U.S. SDI

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Reagan intends to stand firm on his "Star Wars" plan and urge an 80 percent slash in Soviet nuclear missiles in Asia at his meeting with Mikhail S. Gorbachev in Iceland, an administration official said Wednesday.

If the Soviet leader agrees to make concessions on the missiles, Reagan and Gorbachev probably will emerge from their session in Reykjavik this weekend with a framework for a treaty to sharply reduce U.S. and Soviet nuclear missiles in Europe, the official said.

Also, the president and the general secretary are likely to set a date for a full-scale summit meeting in Washington in December, said the official, who demanded anonymity.

But Reagan does not intend to negotiate with Gorbachev about the U.S. Strategic Defense Initiative, known popularly as Star Wars, and he is not expected to make much headway with the Soviet leader toward reducing long-range U.S.

and Soviet nuclear weapons.

The State Department advised the president to seek a compromise with Gorbachev on their views of the 1972 Anti-Ballistic Missile Treaty, the official said, but Reagan rejected the advice.

The ABM treaty strictly limited U.S. and Soviet radar systems and other defenses against missiles, to lessen chances of nuclear war. Gorbachev asked Reagan in a letter last month to promise to keep the treaty alive for up to 15 years.

The Soviets contend the accord prohibited the testing and deployment on Star Wars nuclear and other futuristic devices in space. Reagan, on the other hand, proposed to Gorbachev in a letter in July that the two countries proceed with anti-missile defense in 7½ years.

The State Department saw a basis for a compromise between the two positions, but other U.S. agencies persuaded the president that the two stands were in conflict, the official said.

Apparent stunt ends in death

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—A man plunged from an airplane at 10,000 feet with video cameras rolling in an apparent stunt, and police Wednesday found a body in the desert wearing a partially deployed parachute under a white dinner jacket.

"He just opened the door on the right side of the plane and just fell out of the plane," said Charlotte Richards, a notary who was sitting next to the man when he jumped late Monday. She said she had patted the man on the back and was fairly certain he wasn't wearing a parachute under his jacket.

The body found in a rugged desert area had a "very light-weight" parachute attached to a harness on the lower back beneath the dinner jacket, Conner said.

The man was from California and not Germany as was first believed, Conner said. His name was not released pending notification of relatives.

A car found parked along a road two or three miles away had two flashlights aimed up into the air through the windshield and a map of Las Vegas was spread across the front seat, said Sgt. Ted Rosen.

Small, but ‘quality’ crowd enjoys comedian

‘Dummy’ makes audience laugh

By DONELLE PARDEE
Assistant activities editor

It's not the quantity of people in the audience, it's the quality, comedian Taylor Mason said in reference to an unusually small crowd at his performance in the Subway Wednesday night.

Mason, who performs at Zany's in Chicago and tours college campuses regularly, said in an interview after the show, "Colleges are the greatest places."

He added he likes college campuses because there is only one act. "It's your own show."

As part of the show, Mason introduced his partner in comedy, Reuben, who is a wooden ventriloquist's dummy. Reuben told the crowd he was in a toy store while Mason was shopping at the Cross County Mall in Mattoon.

While at the toy store, Reuben met Abigail, a Cabbage Patch Doll. Reuben said she was "messed up" because she didn't know who her mother or father was.

Reuben then met Barbie, a sorority member, whose former love, Ken, likes G.I. Joe and ran into a street gang called the Transformers.

Reuben's last love of day was Candy, an inflatable love doll. Reuben said unfortunately that relationship ended when he poked her with a pin.

When Mason asked Reuben if Candy was mad, Reuben said, "She exploded and started flying around the room hissing."

Other stunts included telling a story about his youth when he had a piano. He said he used to bring it to school for show and tell.

"All the kids would get up as a mass group and beat the hell out of me," Mason said.

He presented his version of a family Christmas show like the ones Mel Torme and Lawrence Welk did. The difference is Mason named his after the lead singer of the Talking Heads, calling it "The David Byrne Family Christmas Show"

Songs in the show included "Landing on Your House" to the tune of "Burning Down the House." There was also "Psycho Santa", and parody's on "Once in a Lifetime" and "Life During Wartime."

Other song parodies in his show was the tune to the Flintstones, but sung as though it was by The Who, Bob Dylan, Bruce Springsteen, the Rolling Stones, the B-52's and John Cougar.

Mason's performance also included slurs on the political scene. He suggested society put Run DMC and the Fat Boys in the Senate instead of senators.

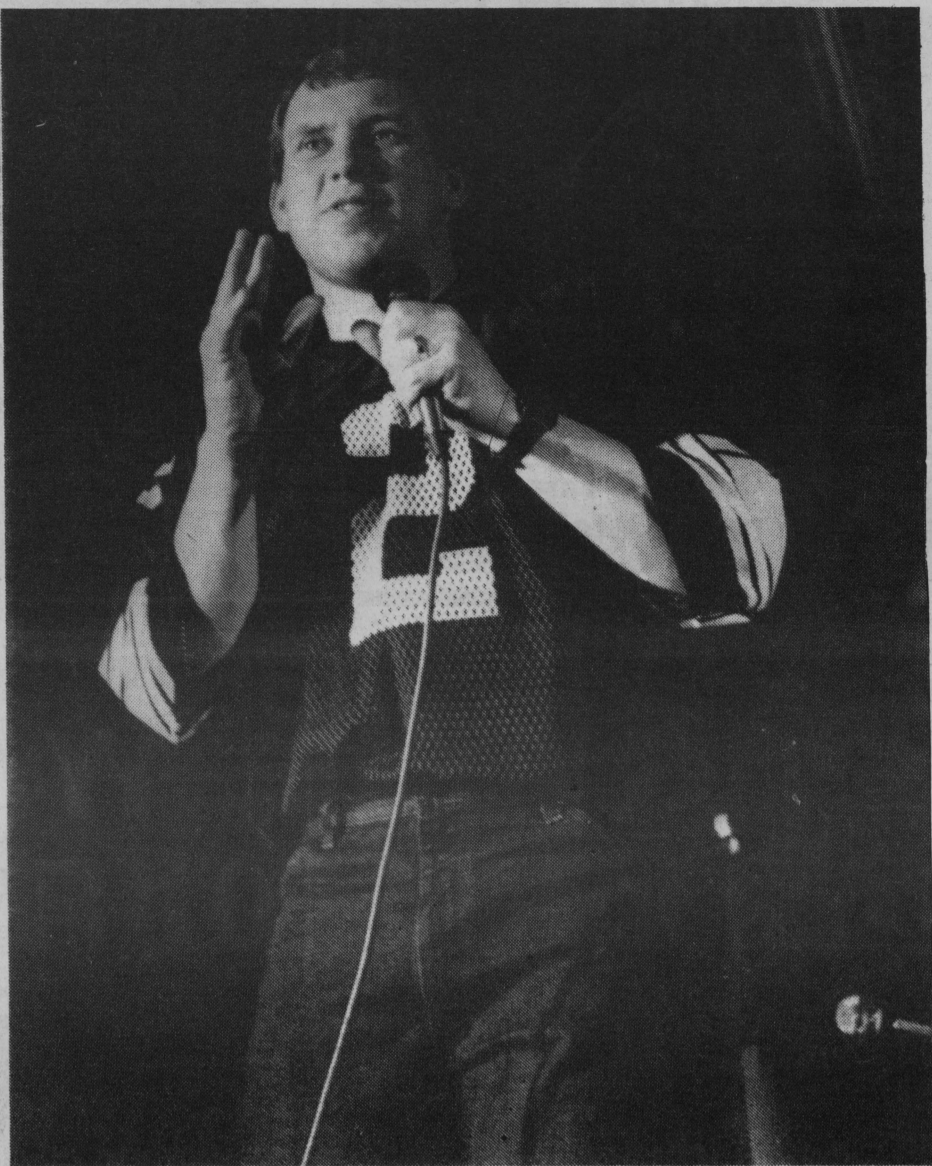

He said he felt if the economic situation was put in their language people could understand it better. He proceeded to launch into a rappin' routine outlining today's economic situation.

As part of his show, Mason slammed today's commercials, specifically the Banner commercial and the Snuggle Fabric Softner commercial.

He used the giggle the roll of talking Banner Toilet Tissue makes, and said he would like to firebomb the Snuggle teddy bear.

To finish the show, Mason and Reuben did a first time only stunt which involved Reuben doing a solo. Only Reuben simply sat there.

He said he was thinking about how long the audience would sit and "wait for a hunk of wood to start talking." Mason then did a stunt involving a lighter.

Reuben asked for a light. After the wooden Reuben's nose, who Mason received a lighter from an audience member, he lit it in front of the wooden Reuben's nose, who screamed "No—Bud Light!"

Stevenson campaign swinging into Eastern

By TERRY GASCHLER
Staff writer

Gubernatorial challenger Adlai Stevenson III will make a campaign swing through Coles County Friday, beginning with a 2:30 p.m. public address at the Buzzard Building Auditorium.

Higher education is a main issue expected to come up at the address, said Joe Connelly, Eastern political science instructor.

Stevenson will also hold a press conference in Buzzard Building room 108 following the address, Connelly said.

About 100 people are expected to attend a $50-per-person fundraiser for Stevenson from 4 to 5:30 p.m. Friday at the home of Mattoon dentist William Podesta, Connelly said.

Stevenson, running on the Illinois Solidarity Party ticket, is seeking to unseat Gov. James R. Thompson, who is vying for an unprecedented fourth term at the state's helm.

Thompson currently leads Stevenson by nearly a two-to-one margin, according to a recent poll done for the Rockford Register Star. Of the 839 registered voters polled, 56 percent said they would vote for Thompson and 30 percent said they would vote for Stevenson.

Connelly said Thompson leads Stevenson by about ten percentage points in several southern Illinois districts that have been polled.

Stevenson formed the Solidarity Party after Mark Fairchild and Janice Hart, followers of political extremist Lyndon LaRouche, won the Democratic party's nominations for lieutenant governor and secretary of state in the March primary.

There currently is no candidate running on the Democratic ticket for the state's top post.

Fundraiser tickets may be purchased from Connelly or history instructor Donald Tingley, Connelly said.

Seminar speaker reveals move away from ‘liberal’ sex

Health concerns cause conservative choices

By JEFF BRITT
Staff writer

Sex can be wonderful or it can be tragic and exploitative, said Susan Woods of the health education department at a "Making Sexual Choices" seminar Wednesday in the Union addition Arcola Room.

About 75 students attended Woods' talk, one of the counseling center's series of life skills seminars.

Genie Lenihan of the counseling center introduced Woods as "Eastern's own Dr. Ruth."

"This is mostly directed towards women, but men are not excluded," said Woods.

Americans are not getting more "liberal" sexually, she said. "In fact, we see a reduction in that," Woods said. Two thirds of college students are sexually active, she added.

"In 1966, 75 percent of males and 45 percent of females said casual sex is O.K.," Woods said. Currently, she added, only 55 percent of males and 23 percent of females among college students gave positive answers to that question.

"A major reason people are thinking twice (about sex) is STD (sexually transmitted disease)," said Woods. "Believe us, they are around."

Woods and other members of her department help with a telephone hotline for people with sexual problems. "I get more calls on STD's than on pregnancies and sexual issues," she said.

"It's much more difficult to catch (a disease) from a female," she said.

"There is a one in four chance you will catch STD in a lifetime," Woods said. "If you are between 15 and 24 and live in a suburban area, your chances are 50 percent."

If a person chooses to be sexually active, especially with multiple partners, Woods said the use of condoms is important in helping to prevent the spread of STD.

Leaks in dam may puncture public coffers

"I'm sure Beam, Longest & Neff will cope with the problem."

Those are the encouraging words of Charleston Mayor Murray Choate, in reference to the firm which engineered the Lake Charleston cofferdam that has sprung at least two leaks in the past five days.

Editorial The cofferdam—a temporary structure meant to hold the Embarras River at bay while the ruptured spillway is rebuilt—was contracted through the A.J. Walker Company of Mattoon in August for $216,000. $142,000 of that has already been paid for by the city.

But with this new development, it is still unclear—at least to the public—how the required repairs on the cofferdam will affect the original contracts. Will anyone be working for free on these repairs? Or will they mean additional expenses out of the taxpayers' pockets?

But the Mayor apparently is not too worried about these questions. He's letting Beam, Longest & Neff cope with the problem.

Does that mean the Mayor has not yet sought an estimate—even a vague, ballpark figure—from Beam, Longest & Neff on how much these repairs will cost? Has he even glanced at the original contract to determine whether the city is responsible for paying for the repairs to the brand new cofferdam?

Perhaps he has. If so, why is he skirting the question, and claiming it is too early to tell which party of the contract is responsible for unforeseen expenses related to the dam's structure or material? Isn't that the sort of thing that is generally pegged down before a contract is approved?

These are questions that taxpayers should demand be answered—or at least asked—publicly.

So just how does the Mayor come to the conclusion that those questions can be brushed off so easily?

Sure, Beam, Longest & Neff can take care of the technical repairs. But—unlike the Mayor—Beam, Longest & Neff were not elected by the citizens of Charleston. Beam, Longest & Neff do not have a responsibility to look out for the city's budget. It is not the job of Beam, Longest & Neff to make sure the taxpayers are aware of how much this latest development is going to cost them.

That's the Mayor's job, and we suggest he start doing it.

See, what they really meant was ...

CONGRESSIONAL MINUTES OF 1789 (as recorded by William Rehnquist, who apparently was there at the time):

SPEAKER: The next order of business is the introduction of the First Amendment for consideration by the states. Mr. Madison will read the amendment.

MADISON: "Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof; or abridging the freedom of speech, or of the press; or the right of the people peaceably to assemble, and to petition the government for a redress of grievances."

SPEAKER: The chair recognizes the congressman from New Hampshire.

NEW HAMPSHIRE: You helped write this amendment, Mr. Madison?

MADISON: That's right.

NEW HAMPSHIRE: Well, it's very nice, but ... uh ... that "no law" part—what exactly do you mean by that?

MADISON: I think it's pretty clear. "No law" means no law.

NEW HAMPSHIRE: That's what I was afraid of. That would allow people to advocate violent revolution, the overthrow of the government, the freeing of the slaves and God-only-knows what else. I move that we change "no law" to "not very many laws."

SPEAKER: All in favor? ... The motion carries.

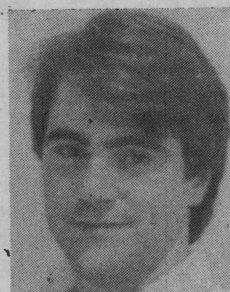

MADISON: What? Wait a minute!

SPEAKER: (scribbling on the First Amendment) There. It now reads, "Congress shall not make very many laws respecting an establishment of religion, etc., etc."

GEORGIA: That religion part kind of bothers me, Mr. Madison. It sounds like Congress can't even support a religion.

MADISON: That's the general idea.

GEORGIA: Well, I move that we add to that clause, "except to support the teaching of Christianity in schools."

Kevin

SPEAKER: (scribbling) Done. Anything else?

MADISON: I don't believe this.

NORTH CAROLINA: But what about really weird religions?

SPEAKER: (scribbling) Got it: "... or prohibiting the free exercise of religion, except for the really weird ones."

MASSACHUSETTS: I think we'd be opening whole can of worms with this "free speech" stuff. People can get pretty rude when they speak free. Shouldn't we add a "politeness" clause?

PENNSYLVANIA: Yeah, and the part about the press—what if someone interprets "the press" to include dirty pictures, or political pamphlets, or TV anyone ever invents it?

GEORGIA: I move that we define "the press" as mainstream, non-political newspapers without dirty pictures.

SPEAKER: (scribbling) Slow down, slow down! ... freedom ... of ... polite ... speech ...

NEW YORK: Also, this part about peaceably assembling ... you do mean only during lunch hours, right Mr. Madison?

SPEAKER: OK, gentlemen, here's what we've got. "Congress shall not make very many laws respecting an establishment of religion, except to support the teaching of Christianity in schools; or prohibiting the free exercise of religion, except for the really weird ones; or abridging the freedom of polite speech, or of mainstream, non-political newspapers that don't have dirty pictures; or the right of the people peaceably to assemble during their lunch hours, and to petition the government for a redress of grievances."

NEW HAMPSHIRE: It's ... it's a little long, isn't it, Mr. Speaker?

SPEAKER: It won't even fit on the damned page.

PENNSYLVANIA: I move that we go back to Mr. Madison's short version of the First Amendment, and just kind of ... uh ... hope the Supreme Court will realize what we really meant to say, but didn't have enough room to.

SPEAKER: All in favor? ...

Komada should not be re-elected

Editor:

One of the most important votes on November 4th for the citizens of the Fifth Judicial Circuit will concern the retention or nonretention of Judge Paul Komada. Judge Komada's record clearly establishes that justice would best be served without this political hack serving on the bench.

Paul Komada in 1984 ruled that Paradise Township should maintain a road owned by the City of Mattoon. If this ruling had stood, the basic structure of township (and possibly city, county and state) highway systems may well have been destroyed in the State of Illinois. Komada's tortured logic in this case (at one time finding that the city plowed snow on a section of the road, and then later stating that the City of Mattoon did not plow the snow) showed clearly a judge's attempt to reach a political, not a lawful decision. Luckily for the people of the state of Illinois, the Fourth District Appellate Court unanimously and firmly overturned his outrageous decision.

As a member of the Coles County Board, I raised the question of Judge Komada's attendance at police intelligence meetings (intelligence being defined as information about one's enemies). The question of billing the county for expense (which was later forbidden by the Board) was secondary to the constitutional question of separation of powers. The Judicial Inquiry Board did not find enough evidence to proceed enough evidence to proceed against the Judge, but then the Judicial Inquiry Board rarely crosses the judiciary in Illinois (after all it was the F.B.I., not the Judicial Inquiry Board, that investigated the crooked judges in Cook County).

conduct of the Grabbe murder trial resulted in the guilty verdict being overturned. Paul just messed up again on some basic law. It appears that Paul Komada would be better educated reading up on some of the basics of law and not by attending intelligence meetings or political meetings.

His day as a precinct committeeman and as a prosecutor are over. His days as a judicial hack should also be. Please vote "no" on the retention of Paul Komada.

Emergency spending bill passes

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House passed an emergency spending bill Wednesday after President Reagan told Democrats that their insistence on strategic arms restrictions is threatening a government shutdown.

With the federal spending authority expiring at midnight, the House, 264 to 151, passed and sent to the Senate a two-day stopgap bill to forestall a government crisis until Friday.

The short-term measure would continue current spending policies while lawmakers struggle to complete action on the veto-threatened long-term measure. It was the second emergency stopgap bill since fiscal 1987 began Oct. 1.

However, administration officials said even the brief extension might be vetoed. A provision designed to help fired air traffic controllers is opposed by the administration, and the White House also wanted to see progress on the arms control issues, said Ed Dale, a spokesman for the Office of Management and Budget.

Reagan on Wednesday rejected an offer by Democrats to delay their arms confrontation until after the president's summit in Iceland this weekend with Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev.

RHA schedules vote on budget, constitution changes

By DOUGLAS BACKSTROM
Government editor

Eastern's Residence Hall Association is expected to vote Thursday on its budget that has been tabled for the last five weeks, RHA President Mark Hetzler said.

The budget includes $2,747.41 in funds.

The budget was revised after treasurer Kim Russell reported a discrepancy between the amount the RHA believed it had and the amount actually on account.

The RHA is slated to meet at 7 p.m. in Carman Hall.

The RHA will also vote on four proposed changes in its constitution that were tabled at last week's meeting, Hetzler said.

They were tabled for one week to allow RHA members to consider and research the changes, Hetzler said.

Three proposed changes involve a wording change in its constitution and the other concerns conference expense payments.

Currently, the constitution states that the executive council members who will attend the Great Lakes Affiliated College and University Residence Halls Conference will be the president and national Four new art courses and a revision of the art major are slated for a vote at the Council on Academic Affairs meeting at 2 p.m. Thursday in the Union addition Arcola-Tuscola Room.

To be voted on are Art 3620, "Early Medieval Art," and 3630, "Romanesque and Gothic Art." They will replace the current Art 3640, "Medieval Art."

Also under consideration will be the new Art 3640, "Italian Renaissance Art: Fifteenth Century," and 3650, "Italian Renaissance Art: Sixteenth Century." These will replace the current Art 3650, "Art of the Italian Renaissance."

Resulting changes in the art history option will be as addition of three hours of Art 4400, "Independent Study," from the core curriculum.

Also, art majors will now be required to take between eight and 16 hours of foreign language. Currently, foreign language is not a requirement.

Art department chairman James Johnson said the changes will place the art history option in compliance with accreditation standards of the National Association of School of Art Design.

The foreign language requirement "allows us to revise the program in a manner that fits the needs of our students," Johnson said. "The art staff is in support of the changes and would be in support of the recommendations anyway," even if the changes were not needed for accreditation.

In other business, discussion of the proposed course Sociology 3500, "Sociology of Sport, Recreation and Leisure," will be postponed for two weeks, said CAA chair Kandy Baumgardner.

Last week discussion of the course was tabled at the suggestion of sociology department chair Robert Whittenbarger.

Red Sox blunder way to split victory

BOSTON (AP)—Dwight Evans' fifth-inning popup fell for a tie-breaking double and the Boston Red Sox won the battle of bad hops, blunders and bizarre plays to beat the California Angels 9-2 Wednesday to even the American League playoffs at one game apiece.

Every ball seemed like an adventure in Fenway Park's late afternoon sun and the swirling wind, and Evans' lucky double in the fifth put them ahead 3-2. The Red Sox broke the game open with three runs in the seventh, helped by three errors, and three more runs in the eighth, capped by Jim Rice's two-run homer, to gain a split at home in the first two games of the best-of-seven series.

Game 3 is scheduled for Friday night in Anaheim, site of the next three meetings.

The Red Sox bunched seven hits in the first two innings, including a leadoff triple by Wade Boggs and a following double by Marty Barrett, who had three hits, but managed only a 2-0 lead. Then, as the shadows crept across the infield, the Angels began creeping back into the game and they eventually tied it in the fifth on Wally Joyner's home run, the first ever by a rookie in a playoff game.

But in the bottom of the fifth, with two outs and Bill Buckner on first base, Don Baylor drew a walk on a 3-2 pitch from starter and loser Kirk McCaskill that barely missed outside.

Evans, hitless in the series, both taking turns looking at the ball and each other. At the last moment, Grich lunged backwards for the ball, but it dropped for a two-base hit that allowed Buckner to score.

Pulford optimistic Hawks will repeat

CHICAGO (AP)—Despite playoff and exhibition embarrassments, Chicago Blackhawks Coach Bob Pulford still thinks his club can win the Norris Division of the National Hockey League again this season.

The Blackhawks open the 1986-87 campaign at home Thursday night against the New York Islanders after the Chicago skaters, who lost three-straight games to Toronto in the first round of the playoffs last season, went 1-6-1 in exhibition play this fall.

"We haven't played very well and it's disturbing," said Pulford, who also serves as Blackhawks general manager.

Yet Pulford remains optimistic about his team repeating in the Norris Division.

"A realistic goal is to win our division," said Pulford. "I think we can do that."

Spikers set sights ahead in wake of UIC loss

Although Illinois-Chicago spoiled Eastern's chance at breaking the school win-streak record, the Panthers are looking ahead. A long road winds through the next two months with the Gateway Conference season on the horizon.

Eastern opens the conference at Bradley on Oct. 17.

Tuesday's loss to UIC snapped the Panthers' win streak at nine games, the second longest in Eastern volleyball history. It also left the team three wins short of breaking the record—12 straight in 1982 under former Panther coach Carol Gruber.

But the 11-9 Panthers are taking the loss as a learning experience. Coach Betty Ralston stressed that the only thing the team can do is brush it off and keep pushing on.

"We need to just look ahead. We can't do any worse than we did here (against UIC)," Ralston said.

Looking ahead immediately poses an ominous opponent for Eastern as they prepare for this weekend's Southern Illinois Classic.

A catfight can be expected between the Panthers and the Tigers of Louisiana State in Eastern's opening match Friday. LSU will be looking to avenge a loss to Eastern in the championship game of the Lady Tiger Classic in Memphis last year.

The Tigers broke the Top 20 of the NACAC Coaches' Poll earlier this season and are an honorable mention in this week's poll. They also mark Eastern's fourth Top-20 opponent this season.

Ralston hopes Eastern learned a lesson against Illinois-Chicago—5-foot-six-inch Liz Piaszczyński was the Flames' leading hitter against Eastern.

"If you can't find the holes when the team is the same size as you, then you can't do it when there are five six-footers on the floor," Ralston said.

Sophomore Laura Bruce also knows the Panthers can't dwell on the loss.

"We just have to get this (loss to UIC) out of our minds and play good matches this weekend," Bruce said.

Weak opponents

Ralston is convinced that easy wins over Evansville and St. Louis last week, as well as a weekend's break from competition, did more harm than good for the Panthers.

"Last week's matches were a detriment," she said.

One worry the Panthers had after last week's matches was that they would be too slow against Illinois-Chicago. And, in fact, it was a factor, Ralston said.

After the weekend off, "It was hard to get back up again," she added.

Matching Gateway opponents

Eastern has several individuals among the leaders in the Gateway preceding the conference season.

Freshman Donna Sicher leads the conference in digs averaging 3.38 per game with a total of 225 digs following Tuesday's game. Junior Diane Eiserman is second in that category averaging 3.22 with 213 digs.

Sophomore Gianna Galanti is third in blocking averaging 1.08 per game with 32 solos and 44 assists on the season.

Senior Maura LeFevour ranks sixth in hitting percentage with a .341 kill percentage. Galanti is 10th in total kills on the season with 178.

Sicher is seventh in assists with 362 while junior Jeanne Pacione is 10th with 345.

Top-20 opponents

Eastern can brag this week that they have played the No. 1 ranked team in the nation. San Diego State, which defeated the Panthers in three straight during the team's trip to California earlier this season, takes the top position in this week's poll. The Aztecs were 23-1 as of Oct. 6.

Panthers await weekend battle with fire in eyes

Eastern's football team is letting it all hang out during this week's practice in preparation for Saturday's game with Northern Iowa.

Panther coach Al Molde said Wednesday that there's no way he would try to restrain his team from emotionally preparing itself for the key Gateway Conference matchup.

"This is a game that sort of takes care of itself as far as motivation is concerned," Molde said.

Hence, the fourth-year Eastern coach is not worried about the negative repercussions that the week's emotionally charged game could have when the Panthers travel to Western Illinois next weekend for the Leathernecks' Homecoming.

"We're only thinking about Northern Iowa right now," Molde said. "Teams are faced with this sort of thing all the time. That's what championships are all about."

"This is one of those great college football games that comes along once in awhile," Molde said.

While Eastern-Northern Iowa games have traditionally been bitterly fought games with close point spreads, this year's contest takes on added significance.

To begin with, the game will be one of the main attractions of Homecoming Weekend—a guaranteed attendance draw and a big plus for Eastern.

Secondly, the game will pit a pair of I-AA Top 20 teams against each other. Northern Iowa is ranked eighth in the nation, while Eastern is the country No. 11 team.

The contest will not only have a significant bearing on the Gateway standings, but on the conference championship as well. Northern Iowa is the lone Gateway team without a loss in league play.

A pair of top-notch quarterbacks will also clash in the contest. While Eastern All-American candidate Sean Payton will run the Panther offense, calling signals for Northern Iowa is Mike Smith—last year's Gateway Offensive Player of the Year.

"Smith is like Payton," Molde said. "He's the key to their offense. He makes it happen."

Finally, the game marks the return of ex-Eastern coach Darrell Mudra—the man who piloted the Panthers to the 1978 Division-II national championship and runner-up honors in 1980.

All this combines to make Saturday's contest one of the biggest and most important in recent Eastern football history.

"I can't remember any bigger game since I've been here at Eastern except for maybe the playoff game with Indiana State in '83," Molde said.

Molde isn't the only one in the Eastern program that has strong feelings about the game.

"This is the one game on our schedule we've been looking for all year," Panther wide receiver Roy Banks said. "We're going to have to come out ready to play. We can't have any mistakes. We have to come out and play like we did against Southern."

Moreover, it's those mistakes that Molde thinks will determine the outcome of the game.

"It's a toss-up," Molde said. "Turnovers are going to have a big part in this game."

So there you have it, the game Eastern has been pointing to all year.

But come Saturday, the pointing will stop.

All the pre-game predictions and hype will be thrown to the winds. The only thing left will be the cold stares of two football teams just prior to kickoff.

And like the famous final gunfight scenes of western movies, both teams will be going for the kill.

But while those showdowns ended in a split-second flash, Saturday's outcome will have to wait until near sundown to see whether it's Eastern or Northern Iowa still holding the smoking gun.

Scott strikes Houston to Game 1 win

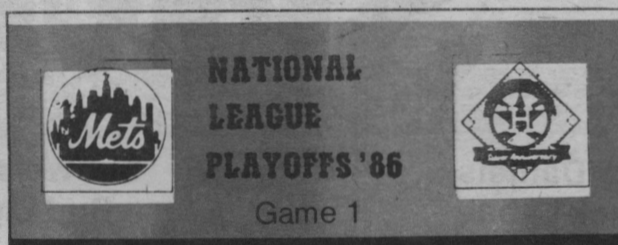

HOUSTON (AP)—Mike Scott prevailed in the heralded Shootout at the K Corral with Dwight Gooden, equaling a playoff record with 14 strikeouts and throwing a five-hitter as the Houston Astros defeated the New York Mets 1-0 Wednesday night in the first game of the 1986 National League playoffs.

Glenn Davis' home run leading off the second inning was all Scott, who led the major leagues in strikeouts with 306, needed.

Gooden, the major-league strikeout leader the past two seasons, gave up seven hits and struck out five in seven innings while working in and out of trouble as the Astros wasted numerous scoring chances.

Game 2 of the best-of-seven series Thursday night will match Houston right-hander Nolan Ryan, 12-8, baseball's all-time strikeout leader, against left-hander Bob Ojeda, 18-5.

The shutout was the first in the NL playoffs since Rick Sutcliffe and Warren Brusstar of Chicago combined to beat San Diego 13-0 in Game 1 of the 1984 series. The last individual shutout by an NL pitcher was Bob Forsch for St. Louis, 7-0 in Game 1 of the 1982 playoffs against Atlanta.

Danny Jackson of Kansas City pitched a 2-0 shutout in Game 5 of last year's American League playoffs against Toronto.

Scott became only the third NL pitcher to strike out 10 or more in a playoff game, the most recent being John Candelaria, who also struck out 14 against Cincinnati on Oct. 7, 1975 while with the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Golfers finish fourth at conference

By CINDY BEAKE
Staff writer

The expectations that coach Paul Lueken had this year for Eastern's men's golf team fell a little short as the Panthers finished fourth at the AMCU-8 tournament held Monday and Tuesday.

"We didn't do as well as we were hoping," Lueken said of Eastern's finish at the tournament, which was held at the Cog Hill Golf and Country Club in Lemont. "Finishing fourth is a little disappointing considering our steady season."

The Panthers finished third in conference last year behind Northern Iowa and Western.

This year Eastern finished with a team score of 1,018 strokes after 54 holes of play. The conference tournament consisted of 36 holes on Monday and 18 holes on Tuesday, Lueken said.

Western Illinois, as Lueken expected, was the team to beat. Western took top honors with a team score of 968. Northern Iowa took second with 977, Southwest Missouri was third with 1,004. Valparaiso followed Eastern in fifth with 1,024 and Cleveland State was sixth with 1,033.

However, there was a ray of sunshine in the Panthers' conference weekend. Senior co-captain Todd Lindsey won a medal for his eighth-place individual finish. Lindsey shot a score of 249.

"My goal was to finish in the top six," Lindsey said. "I am kind of disappointed, but I was happy to get in the top 10."

A top-six finish earns a player all-conference honors.

Senior co-captain Clay Snyder echoed Lindsey's feelings about conference.

"Of course it was disappointing," Snyder said. "I guess it is just one of those things. We'll be looking forward to the possibility of a spring trip."

Sophomore Todd Bittle finished second for the Panthers with a score of 255 while senior Dan Marshall had a 258 and seniors Mitch Myers and Snyder each turned in a 262.

Lueken said the team is looking forward to a much-needed break before the start of the spring season, which begins in early April.

"Overall, we had a very successful golf season," Lueken said. "We haven't been out of the top four in any of the tournaments this year. Eastern golf is steadily improving. We're looking forward to the spring."
