Budget would be slashed without tuition increase

By CHRIS BOGHOSSIAN
Editor in chief

In actuality, Eastern didn't receive a budget increase after all.

Eastern President Stan Rives on Monday said that the Illinois General Assembly approved a $52.3 million budget for the University, or a .2 percent increase from last year's $52.1 million.

The new figure, however, includes the 5 percent tuition increase for next year, an increase that will generate more than $2.6 million toward Eastern's budget.

Without that increase, though, the budget approved by the General Assembly would stand at $49.6 million — a 4.8 percent cut from last year's figure. The appropriation isn't final until it is signed by Gov. Jim Edgar, a move that Rives said he expects from Edgar on Wednesday.

"It is not a good budget," Rives said. "We have about $111,300 more than last year. Quite obviously, prices have increased over last year, so (the budget) doesn't cover inflationary increases."

Earlier this year, the Illinois Board of Higher Education suggested to the General Assembly that Eastern receive $56.6 from the budget, which would have amounted to nearly an 8 percent increase.

If approved, the appropriation would seem to leave little room for salary increases among Eastern faculty, who last year received an overall 3.8 percent increase, although most faculty members saw 2 percent increases.

Jane Ozier, Eastern's president for the University Professionals of Illinois — Eastern's faculty bargaining unit — said Monday that she wouldn't discuss the issue because UPI is currently bargaining for its 1992 salary increase.

Rives, though, said that although salary issues are resolved at the bargaining table, he is concerned.

"Well, I'm concerned about our faculty salary levels, which are much lower than they ought to be," he said. "It's a major concern. What you need, of course, is money.

"I don't want to say that we won't give more money because there isn't any money there, so we won't — can't — say that. Obviously, we're not going to do as much as everybody would like to do, but we'll do as much as we can to retain our faculty. It's a very tough situation." He added that money would have to be allocated from other areas.

"Lots of things were cut and more deeply than higher education, or education as a whole," Rives said. "I think we ought to be pleased that we aren't looking at a 5 or 10 percent reduction, which many state agencies are.

CAA passes proposals; labors over revisions

By JILL BAUTER
City editor

The Council on Academic Affairs, which has been busily working on revising Eastern's general education requirements, passed two proposals concerning workshop courses and foreign language placement testing.

Workshop courses in the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences must now meet the approval of a curriculum committee to count for credit toward a major, said economics professor Larry Bates, chair of the CAA. The proposal, resulting from a motion by Dean Jon Laible, was passed unanimously at last Thursday's meeting.

Also, students will be able to get credit through placement testing for competency in a foreign language, said Bates. However, students may not receive credit if they have already taken the foreign language for credit elsewhere, he added. Bates said the situation could be applied to a person who has learned a foreign language in their own family.

Although the CAA is supposed to complete the general education revisions by the end of the summer semester, the process has been slowed by differing views on the various segments.

"We are currently considering the cultural experience subcommittee's report," said Bates. "There was a good deal of debate (at Thursday's meeting)."

According to Bates, all four segments of the general education requirements have not met up to the expectations of President Stan Rives, who is still considering the quantitative reasoning segment passed on July 11.

The cultural experience segment of the general education requirements is made up of two sections, one consisting of English and philosophy courses and the other consisting of fine arts courses. The fine arts section has been the topic of recent discussion and the council hopes to vote on the matter at this Thursday's meeting, said Bates.

"Something interesting about universities is that committees change...and opinions change," said Bates. "There is some question about which direction to go."

However, Bates added that the CAA is an advisory body and "has no authority to set that direction."

"All we can say is, 'This is what we're recommending,'" Bates said.

Council to discuss proposal

By CHRIS BOGHOSSIAN

Although the primary task in Wednesday's President's Council meeting is to go over and distribute funds from Eastern's 1992 budget, the council will also discuss a Faculty Senate proposal that would allow a senator to serve as a voting member on the council.

"We'll make time to discuss it," Rives said of the proposal, which was made almost two weeks ago. "I think any proposal by the Faculty Senate is very worthy of discussion. I certainly will discuss it" with the other members of the council.

When the proposal was made, Senate Chair David Carpenter said it was in response to Rives' request that the faculty and administration keep lines of communication open.

But although Rives said that a memorandum sent to him by Carpenter two weeks ago directly stated that the senate proposed that one of its members sit on the council as a voting member, Faculty Senate Secretary John Miller said that he didn't think the proposal was that specific.

"(The proposal stated that the council) explore the idea of faculty representation on the president's council," Miller said. "The whole thing had to do with the spirit of cooperation.

"There has been effort on the part of the senate to establish some lines of communication and make that very direct. It was a move for cooperation. That's the kind of thing that needs to be explored." Senator Bill Addison agreed with Miller's interpretation.

"I thought that it was more that the faculty have

BOG elects minority interim leaders

By CHRIS BOGHOSSIAN
Editor in chief

The Board of Governors elected Robert Ruiz and Wilma Sutton as its interim chair and vice chair, marking the first time that minorities have led a university system in Illinois' history.

Ruiz, an attorney from the southwest Chicago suburb of Beverly, becomes the first Hispanic to lead an Illinois university system. He has been a trustee on the board since 1983 and has never been a chair or vice chair.

Sutton, an African-American from Chicago's Hide Park, has served on the BOG for 10 years. She, too, has never served as one of the board's leaders.

Sutton was, however, a member of the BOG's executive committee with the chair and vice chair until June. Both Ruiz and Sutton will hold their interim posts until next June, when two new leaders will be named.

The two fill the positions left vacant when Gov. Jim Edgar last month appointed Charleston's Mack Hollowell and Daniel Goodwin to serve on the board and failed to reappoint James Althoff and Ray Wilson, the former chair and vice chair, respectively.

Althoff and Wilson served as the BOG's leaders for only the first of a two-year term, marking the first time in the board's history that either of its leaders was unable to finish his term.

Also at its monthly meeting in Springfield Thursday, the board approved nearly $90,000 in equipment funding for Eastern's new Student Recreation Center, which is scheduled to open in August with the new school year, spokeswoman Michelle Brazell said.

(But) neither can we say that this is a totally adequate budget for the university.”

Rives will be discussing the budget with Eastern’s four vice presidents at Wednesday’s President’s Council meeting. “We need to get the budgets to the different departments – that will be our major focus,” he said.

The budget impasse – which lasted 17 days – was resolved Wednesday and included the approval of making the education half of the income tax surcharge permanent. The Board of Governors, the governing body for Eastern and four other state universities, reacted positively to the approval of the surcharge. But spokeswoman Michelle Brazell said the system will see tough times in the near future unless more money is generated for higher education.

“We’re glad the impasse is over,” Brazell said from Springfield Monday. “In the context of state government budget, education fared well. We’re pleased that the surcharge has been made permanent, but nobody should be under the impression that making surcharge permanent is going to solve all of our funding problems in higher education.

“It’s going to take an additional income tax increase to receive funding needed for higher education and human services. We still have some difficult years ahead, and we regret any damage done to human services. (But) no one likes to hear the words tax increase.”

Brazell added that without the 5 percent tuition increased imposed on its universities, every school in the BOG system would see a smaller budget.

Rives met with chief executive officers from three local banks early Monday morning, a meeting that was originally set up before the impasse was solved that would have assured that Eastern employees were paid had the impasse lasted past July 26 – the next scheduled pay day for some university employees.

Rives was originally going to request that the financial institutions consider assisting Eastern’s employees by providing 30-day, zero-interest personal loans if the budget situation was not resolved by July 26.

Instead, he thanked the CEOs for consideration and updated them on fiscal matters concerning the University.

Approved was the purchase of 10 Stairmasters and one Gravitron machine, which will cost $27,595.

The BOG also approved a $65,410 purchase for various weight-room equipment, including eight lower- and upper-body stations, five back and abdominal systems, four arm stations, one calf machine and two leg machines, Brazell said.

An affirmative action report suggested to the board that it begin a system-wide task force on diversity to “look at everything being done on all of the campuses that promotes affirmative action,” Brazell said.

The BOG is the governing body for Eastern and four other state universities.

“(The task force) will look at what is being done, see what can be improved, strengthened and shared” among the universities, Brazell said, adding that the task force will be made up of faculty, staff and administrators from each of the five BOG schools.

The members will be chosen “in the next few weeks,” she said.

Neither Hollowell nor Goodwin served on the board in their first opportunity since they were appointed. Both had previous vacation dates and will sit in on the next meeting in September.

RECOUNTING EASTERN'S PAST...

TURNING BACK THE PAGES

Editor's note: E. Duane Elbert is Eastern's centennial historian, preparing for the university's 100th anniversary in 1995. In commemoration of that and the recent 75th anniversary of The Daily Eastern News, Elbert's weekly column will take us back to what was happening this week on campus 75, 50 and 25 years ago.

75 years ago – Normal School News, July 14, 1916

An at home party was given Thursday evening from 8 p.m. until 10 p.m. in the parlors of Pemberton Hall. This party was given to the new summer school teachers by the faculty of the regular school year.

There is only one class of people about the school or town who seem to have any expressions of regret or disappointment concerning the Coburn Players' performance of The Merchant of Venice. This class is composed entirely of those who did not see and hear the play.

An enthusiastic crowd of about 600 people, a warm clear evening with a moon as if made to order for the occasion, an attractive well elevated stage, and a sincere presentation, were some of the features contributing to the success of the whole affair.

An attempt is being made to secure a baseball game for the next Wednesday. There is some talk of a game with the clerks of Charleston business houses. This should prove a highly interesting game as many of the clerks are ex-ball players.

“The News needs an office, the News deserves an office,” and, at long last, the News gets an office. No more will the editor’s locker house the creative end of the production facilities of the News. A brand new partition run down what used to be the men’s locker room will form two new offices, one of which the News and Warbler will share. The other will be given over to the extension program. They will be ready for occupancy by the beginning of the fall session.

Many people have called Jimmy Young, American journalist, who will speak at Eastern July 28 at 8 p.m. in the health education building, the best friend that Japan has had among the foreign journalists because he reported the news as it happened. His readers got a true idea of what was happening in the great Empire of the East.

For the last 10 years he has been Far Eastern Director of the International News Service with headquarters in Tokyo. “Americans have become increasingly pessimistic over the outlook for business with Japan,” Young said. “The present shipments from the United States are for war purposes and some day we may face the paradox of defending ourselves against our own supplies of war materials.”

25 years ago – Eastern News, July 20, 1966

All vacancies for fall quarter in women’s off-campus approved housing and University dormitory housing have now been filled, according to information released from the Housing Department.

The 333 capacity spaces for off-campus approved housing for women’ have been taken as well as the 1,451 positions available in women’s dormitories. Albert Green, housing director, said in an interview last week.

Only 110 out of 930 positions for men’s off-campus housing remain available, said Green. Men’s dormitories have reached their capacity of 1,030 residents.

While in the process of installing an automatic checking-out system in Booth Library, the library staff is asking students to present both their library cards and ID cards when checking out books.

According to Roscoe F. Schaupp, director of library services, it is necessary for a time to confirm the number on the student’s library card with the number on his ID card.

Schaupp said that there was no intention to inconvenience students and that it is hoped that in the future, when social security numbers will be used here as ID numbers, only one card will be necessary for all university purposes.

Council to discuss

Addison said. “It would be nice to have a faculty member on the council.”

Vice President for Student Affairs Glenn Williams said that the proposal was definitely worth discussion.

“I think that keeping lines of communication open is very important,” he said. “I don’t think anyone would say that it’s not important, but I’m not sure that sitting on one another’s board is the right way to do that.”

“I emphasize that my thoughts are preliminary, but my initial reaction is, in a situation without collective barigaing, it would be a reasonable request,” said Vice President for Academic Affairs Robert Kindrick. “Outside the context of collective bargaining, yes it would be. It’s certainly a priority for the entire administration to keep all lines of communication open.”

Rives said that he will wait until after Wednesday’s meeting to react to the proposal.

“First of all, we will be discussing this Wednesday in President’s council,” he said. “I am very much in favor of increased communication. I don’t want to say this is how the President’s Council is going to react. I’ll wait until after Wednesday.”

Rain may bring some relief to July heat wave

By EVETTE PEARSON
News editor

Hot!

Mid-July temperatures in Charleston reached a record breaking 96 degrees on Monday, but a slight break is in sight with predicted rains either late Monday evening or on Tuesday.

"Today's weather matched Sunday's high temps, but today was a lot warmer because we had a warmer night with temps reaching 73 degrees," said local weather observer Dalias Price. "The only good thing about Monday's temps is that there was good air circulation."

As of July 13, there has been no precipitation and there has been a below average rainfall for this summer, but there is a good prospect that this will end, he added.

"I am hoping to see some precipitation so that we can deal with the weather better," Price said.

A rain front is moving from the northwest part of the state very slowly and will bring some rainfall to cool things off, Price said.

"I anticipate a slight cooling off, but not very much to give us a release from the high humidity," he said.

"The days seem so hot because the humidity during the mid-afternoons reach between 50's and 60's," he added.

An extended forecast through mid-August calls for warmer weather and lower precipitation and "more than likely, a continuation of what we are now dealing with."

"This is not good," Price said.

These temps are not normal for this time of the year because we are having warmer than average weather with higher temps, he said.

"The average temperature for this time of the year is 76.5 degrees, but we have reached a total of 85 degrees from the high and low temps for today," Price said.

"Normally, our average temperature is 89 degrees, but we've reached 96 degrees today and last night's temps reach a scorching 73 degrees," he added.

Last summer, the temperatures weren't as hot because there was more precipitation, even with the high for the summer of 98 degrees. There were only two hot days from last summer and the rest of the summer was in the 80's, he said.

Colvin named director of Afro-Studies

RICK MARCHESE
Staff writer

William E. Colvin, the professor of arts and culture at Illinois State University, has been named director of Afro-American Studies at Eastern.

Colvin, who has been teaching part-time at Eastern, will replace Johnetta Jones, who is now the director of Minority Student Affairs at Eastern.

"I am very pleased to have someone of Colvin's experience join the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences as director of the Afro-American Studies program," said Jon Laible, dean of the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences. "He brings experience and enthusiasm to the program and I look forward to working with him."

"He shares my belief in the value of Afro-American Studies as part of Eastern's academic program," he added.

Eastern's Afro-American Studies program is an award-winning program offering interdisciplinary majors and minors in the history and culture of black Americans.

"Eastern is unique in that it is one of only two universities in Illinois that offers a Bachelor of Science Degree with a major in Afro-American Studies," Colvin said.

He will also teach some courses in Eastern's art department in addition to his duties as director.

Colvin has a bachelor's and a master's degree in secondary education from Alabama State University and Indiana University and he has more than 25 years' experience in higher education.

He has special interest in Afro-Brazilian and Haitian art and culture and has lectured throughout the country on the subject.

Colvin also played a major role in recruiting minority students at ISU and has been recognized for his contributions to student programs in black history and culture.

UB fest to rock quad with live performances

Some good advice for a hot Wednesday afternoon; if you can't beat the heat join it.

Three local bands will turn the heat up in the university quad at 4 p.m. with a mix of high-energy alternative and rock and roll music when the University Board sponsors "UB Live."

Spankwagon, the local band who just played in Big Fest, will kick off the afternoon with their collection of high energy alternative hits, followed by Hello David, an acoustic group playing 70s covers, at 5 p.m. Cathryn's Horse, formerly known as Pump, will close the event at 6 p.m. with their original alternative material.

"We only have 30 minutes so we're going to go out and rock," said lead guitarist David Johnson of Cathryn's Horse.

Climatology expert discusses impact of climate and methods

By TRACEY WHALEN
Staff writer

A well-known climatologist who believes that "climate does change, and the change has an impact (on society)" gave a lecture on Thursday in Lumpkin Hall as the fourth lecturer in the distinguished visiting faculty lecture series at Eastern this summer.

John Oliver, a professor and director of the laboratory of Climatology at Indiana State University gave a lecture titled "Climatic Change in Perspective: the Last 1000 Years."

"With the historical accounts, there have been journals kept of the daily weather, such as that from Merle's Diary, written in England between 1337-1344, and Haller's Observations, from Switzerland between 1546 and 1576," Oliver said.

The main focus of his lecture was the ways in which climatologists decide how the climate has changed, and the various methods used to determine climate, including using instrumental records, historical data, tree rings, pollen, isotopes, and glacial features.

There are paintings from different countries that show seasonal changes in weather that could not occur today. For example, there are paintings that show the River Thames in England freezing over and a fair taking place on the ice, he said.

"The River Thames has only frozen over twice in the 1300's, 4 times in the 1500's, and 8 times in the 1600's," he added.

Oliver concluded the presentation by showing different effects from climatic changes by modified frequencies, including droughts and floods which have taken place to put lakes and deserts in different geographical locations across the globe.

"Also, the sea levels are changing with flooding, storm damages, and coastal modification changing the different land masses around the globe," he added.

"The global warming that has built up over the last 30 years or so will eventually modify modes of life, but what can be done is only a political question," he said.

Council should reject Faculty Senate proposal

Two weeks ago, the Faculty Senate proposed to have a senator appointed as a voting member of the President's Council.

Although the council will not discuss the issue until Wednesday's weekly meeting, it should not accept the proposal made by the senate.

The President's Council establishes and has final say on all University policies and also assists President Stan Rives in coordinating budgets for various vice presidents.

Rives, his executive secretary, Eastern's four vice presidents and Associate Vice President for Academic Affairs Charles Colbert make up the seven-member council.

Senate Chair David Carpenter said that the senate made the proposal to keep lines of communication between Eastern's administration and faculty open. Obviously, continuous communication between the faculty and administration is vital to the overall operation of the University.

Having a member of the senate appointed as a voting member of the council, however, is not the solution to the issue. If it were, it would have been imposed a long time ago.

If the President's Council accepts the senate's proposal, it would just open the door for other groups – such as the Student Senate – to also have representation on the council. That is wrong.

The President's Council is just that – one made up of the president and his top administrators. It should be kept that way.

In the past, Rives has expressed that he thinks that the faculty and administration should communicate, and the other members of the council and the senate, as illustrated by their unanimous approval of the proposal, agree.

Openly sharing issues and agenda discussed at the council meetings with the senate and the rest of the Eastern community has been an effective means of keeping everyone informed about the council's actions.

Although the council should listen to and act on any concerns made by the senate – as well as Eastern students and other representative groups around campus – appointing a senator to the council would be a step in the wrong direction.

QUOTE

If the welfare of the living majority is paramount, it can only be on the ground that the majority have the power in their hands.

Oliver Wendell Holmes

Students need to be politically aware

In another few months we will be bombarded with another presidential campaign. It may not be something we look forward to, but it's certainly hard to ignore.

If you're like me, the recent Illinois budget dispute brought an increased awareness of the different ways politics can affect all of us. This time, the conflict hit a little too close to home. University employees, among others, across the state faced the possibility of not being paid until the matter resolved. Situations like this do little to instill the public with confidence in our elected officials. Nevertheless, we have to live with them – for the next couple of years anyway.

I know it's easy to be turned off by all of the stupid, phony commercials and political mudslinging that has gotten out of hand in past campaigns. But the election isn't one big popularity contest – we know that. The people elected have important decisions to make that affect us all. It is important to be aware of key issues and which politicians stand for them on the local, state and federal level.

Why is it, then, that so few Americans even bother to vote? Furthermore, the college age group votes even less than the rest of the population. Even in Charleston, the student precincts typically have a low turnout.

We all have political issues that we care about – education, the environment, national health care, public aid. The list goes on. If you don't like the way these issues are being handled, the least you can do is vote for a candidate who has the same interests as you do.

Of course, it has been argued that elected officials don't live up to campaign promises. True. But that's not an excuse for staying uninvolved. You may think that your vote won't change anything. Possibly true. But neither will laying on the couch talking about what the politicians should be doing. How can anyone criticize if he or she didn't even vote?

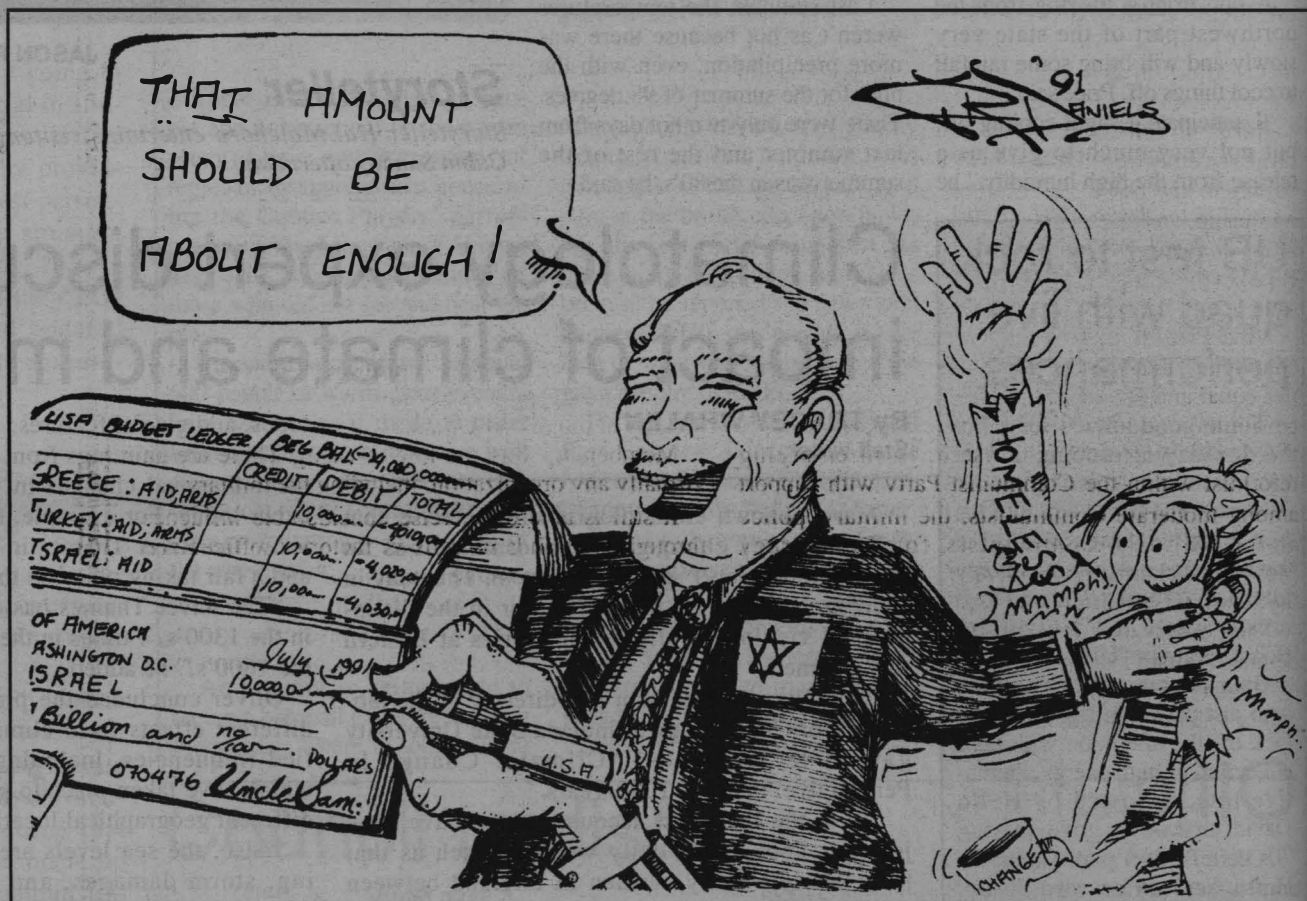

Look at all the jokes about Vice President Dan Quayle. Can we assume that everyone poking fun at him voted for Dukakis and Bentsen? I doubt it.

Everyone wonders if the Democratic party will find a candidate to challenge President Bush. But are we all satisfied with President Bush? I doubt that, too. Although he has some of the best public relations strategists in the country, he will have a different sort of war to fight if he is elected to a second term. Has he proven his ability to address domestic issues? These are the questions we need to ask ourselves.

You can't just pay attention to commercials and photo opportunities – they don't mean a thing. Today's elections are more about marketing and money than politics. But don't hold that against the candidates or the system.

It's hard to put faith in politicians when you hear so much bad press about them. People criticize them because they are corrupted and lazy, they constantly vote themselves pay raises and ignore campaign promises. Maybe that's true. Maybe that's why we need a change.

– Jill Bauter is the city editor and a guest columnist for the summer edition of The Daily Eastern News

Your turn

Columnist was off in judgment of city, citizens

As an Eastern student and a temporary guest of the city of Charleston, I wish to respond to Evette Pearson's outrageous column on July 18. Let me begin by pointing out to Ms. Pearson that perhaps if she hadn't waited until July to find an apartment she might have had better luck.

Coming from Chicago, I can honestly say that the cost of living in Charleston can be a comparative bargain. Where else can a young person trying to make it on his or her own find a livable, often-furnished apartment for around $150 per month, providing that he or she hadn't allowed the better places to be reserved by those with the foresight to look during the school year. My friends and I looked around later than most and feared that we too would be left fighting over the scraps of the housing market. Instead we found a nice, large house with five bedrooms for five people at a fair cost.

I do not mean to defend the landlords, many of whom are in fact more unscrupulous than others. Many of them can be weasels. But then, that's business. However, there is also the reality of supply and demand to consider. By looking early, the student enjoys a greater freedom of choice, while the realtors must compete for their renters.

As the school year looms nearer and nearer, the realtor knows there will be desperate procrastinators who have little room to be particular, and they will take advantage of such a situation. I believe things could be much better, but sadly, this is the way free enterprise operates. That is free advice – take it or leave it.

However, the real outrage of Ms. Pearson's comments is her shameful affront toward the people of this city. Let's make this clear – the landlords do not represent the population of Charleston! Therefore, your flippant labeling of this city as a hick town was the most offensive and ignorant statement I've ever come across in this paper. Perhaps the residents would not consider the students "obnoxious brats" if such elitist attitudes were not held by students such as Ms. Pearson. The prejudicial belief that the population would be "null and void" if not for the grace of the University reflects the woeful lack of education among many college students, regardless of their GPA.

My experience has shown me that the people of Charleston, on the whole, are friendly, helpful, kind and know a hell of a lot more about life than I do. This knowledge stems from a lifetime of hard work, sacrifice and making ends meet.

Some students, on the other hand, invade this city with chips on their shoulders and contempt for a community they know nothing about, and toward which they volunteer little of lasting value to add.

Furthermore, as to Ms. Pearson's complaint that Charleston does not reflect the needs of the students, I suggest she take a stroll down Lincoln Avenue some day. The numerous fast-food franchises and the monolithic convenience of "Wally-world," not to mention the dizzying assortment of student-oriented bars, were all tailor-made to cater to the shallow whims of the modern college student, and sometimes fail to respond to the very real needs of this community's life-long residents. Keep this in mind – the citizens of this town have built their lives here while your existence here will be reduced to a name in a record's office file after you graduate.

Relations between the city and the University would be better served if students like Ms. Pearson would keep their pretensions to themselves and appreciate the true goodness and worth of Charleston and its people.

Baker optimistic about Israel

JERUSALEM (AP) — Secretary of State James A. Baker III met with Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Shamir today and then expressed hope that Israel would accept the U.S. formula for a Mideast peace conference that has already won the endorsement of Arab states.

Shamir also expressed optimism. Asked by Israeli television whether he believed a peace conference could start within the next few months, he said, "it's very possible that talks could be held in the framework of peace negotiations between us and the Arab world." The Israeli Cabinet met shortly after Baker and Shamir completed four hours of meetings over two days. No final decision was made on Israeli response to the U.S. proposals for a peace conference, Israeli sources said.

Shamir gave the Cabinet an upbeat assessment of the latest

U.S. effort and Arab response, according to the sources. He referred to the position first taken by Syria in a letter to President Bush and now adopted by other Arab countries of a willingness to enter into face-to-face talks with Israel.

Shamir was quoted by Yossi Ahimeir, a key adviser, as having told the Cabinet there had been a "revolutionary change" in Syria's attitude.

But Ahimeir, appearing on Israeli television, said "we want, first of all, to know what is the true Syrian position" on negotiations with Israel.

Foreign Minister David Levy said on Israel army radio: "Not all the problems have been solved, but our discussions are, indeed, fruitful. I would say the understandings with the United States are a foundation that is quite stable."

Later, during a flight from Israel to Malaysia, Baker telephoned Bush, who was flying back to Washington from Turkey. National Security Adviser Brent Scowcroft told reporters aboard Air Force One that Baker and Bush talked about the talks with Israel for about seven minutes. "I think the president is encouraged that there wasn't a rejection," Scowcroft said.

Scowcroft also said Bush wanted a quick response from Israel.

"I think he would like it to be resolved by the time he gets to Moscow" for next week's summit, Scowcroft said.

Yeltsin opens political parties to all

MOSCOW (AP) — The Russian republic's vice president on Monday welcomed a decree booting out all political parties from businesses and government offices in the republic. The hard-line Russian Communist Party condemned it.

Boris N. Yeltsin, president of the Soviet Union's largest republic, said Saturday that anyone can belong to any party, but he prohibited political activity during working hours. His decree represented the latest challenge to the Communist Party's power in Russia, the country's biggest and richest republic. Yeltsin quit the party last summer.

Vice President Alexander Rutskoi told a news conference that the decree "makes all political parties equal and lets officials work, guided only by the constitution and law." Rutskoi, a decorated hero of the Soviet war in Afghanistan, is an emerging reformist within the Communist Party with support among moderate Communists, the military, police and KGB. His Communists for Democracy Movement claims the support of about 4 million of the Russian Federation's communists.

The conservative Russian Communist Party condemned Yeltsin's decree.

"This is an invalid decree, which has only propaganda value," said Vladimir Markov, a spokesman for the Russian Federation Communist Party.

Markov said that he had not read the decree in full, but it appeared to violate the Soviet constitution and the law on public organizations.

The republic-run Russian Information Agency said the decree "strikes a powerful blow at the Russian Communist Party," and quoted unidentified party leaders as saying the decree was illegal.

The decree also called for the Russian legislature to consider submitting a bill to the national Supreme Soviet that would ban political activity in the Supreme Court, the armed forces, the prosecutor's office, the Interior Ministry and the KGB.

Until recently, the Communist Party wielded enormous influence in all government and business activity in the Soviet Union.

Membership was the key to rising to the top of virtually any organization, including the military.

It still is able to exercise considerable influence through thousands of cells in factories, offices and military units across the country.

The party's nationwide chief, Mikhail S. Gorbachev, is also the country's president, although critics from both ends of the political spectrum have demanded he give up one of the two jobs.

Officials call for prison 'summit'

JOLIET (AP) — A corrections employees' union said Monday the recent violence at two Illinois prisons that left four guards injured and one inmate dead shows that increased security alone cannot solve the prison problems.

At a news conference outside the Stateville Correctional Center here, leaders of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees called for a statewide corrections "summit" to deal with prison crowding and violence.

"We believe the governor should convene this summit immediately and that the summit should do its work on an emergency basis in order to have a recommended plan of action ready for the fall session of the Illinois General Assembly," said Steve Culen, executive director of AFSCME Council 31.

The gathering would include corrections officials, judges, law enforcement officials, prosecutors, civic organizations, and union leaders, Culen said.

Nic Howell, spokesman for the Illinois Department of Corrections, said the department agrees with the union on the issue.

"What you're seeing here is a new spirit of cooperation between the department and the union," Howell said. "If they want to call it a corrections summit, we don't have a lot of problems with that." Culen said the emergency measures taken in the wake of violence last week at Stateville and the Menard Correctional Center outside of Chester would help improve security, but were only a "stopgap." The measures include reassigning staff, increasing segregation space and conducting more prison searches for weapons and contraband.

"While we believe these steps will help improve security, we are certain that they will not resolve the underlying problem in the Illinois prison system — severe overcrowding," Culen said.

Jim Adkins, head of the guard local at Stateville, agreed that the increased security was only a temporary improvement.

FUN in the SUN

Despite Sunday's steamy temperatures, community enjoys first annual Big Fest

CATHY BEHRENDT

Senior Diane Atkins swings her 4-year-old son, Phil Norman, to the music of N.I.L.8; the band was one of seven to perform on Springhaven's grounds for the first annual Big Fest Sunday.

Springfield-based N.I.L.8 lead guitarist and vocalist Jeff Williams, bass guitarist Bruce Williams, and guitarist Eric White take the stage at the Springhaven Pavilion Sunday afternoon.

The Bishops, a progressive St. Louis group, wrapped up 11 hours of entertainment while Charleston's Kevin Kramer added lighting effects.

Michelle Torgeson, a junior accounting major, entertains herself and others by flip-flopping across the back of the estimated group of 175 gathered at Big Fest.

Senior Gerald Kieft offers Bocephus, a Golden Retriever, a drink from the hose available at Big Fest to offer both dogs and humans relief from the heat of the day.

Two Rivers traveled from the St. Louis/Edwardsville area to perform at Big Fest. Non-plussed by the either the heat or the smaller than expected crowd, Two Rivers played for nearly an hour.

White Sox, Texas gain on Twins

CHICAGO (AP) — Dan Pasqua hit a solo home run and Ozzie Guillen had an RBI single in the sixth inning Monday night, rallying the Chicago White Sox over the Milwaukee Brewers 5-4.

The White Sox won for the 15th time in their last 18 home games against the Brewers. The start of the game was held up 18 minutes by rain, and there was a 31-minute delay in the fourth inning.

Greg Hibbard (7-8) gave up all four runs in six-plus innings. Melido Perez and Scott Radinsky combined for two scoreless innings and Bobby Thigpen pitched the ninth for his 20th save.

Bill Wegman (6-4) gave up nine hits in eight innings, and saw his four-game winning streak snapped. He has pitched three consecutive complete games.

Pasqua hit his 11th home run of the season on the first pitch of the sixth inning, tying the game at 4. Later, Mike Huff's double set up Guillen's go-ahead single.

Robin Ventura doubled in the first and scored on Carlton Fisk's two-out single. The Brewers took the lead in the second when Greg Vaughn walked, Candy Maldonado singled and Dale Sveum hit a two-run double.

Sveum's throwing error from shortstop led to Guillen's RBI single in the second, tying it at 2. Maldonado walked in the fourth and, after the rain delay, stole second and Franklin Stubbs and Rick Dempsey followed with run-scoring singles.

Chicago closed to 4-3 in the bottom of the fourth when Craig Grebeck had an infield single, went to third on Wegman's wild pickoff throw and scored on a wild pitch.

Rangers 2, Red Sox 1

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — Jose Guzman outpitched Roger Clemens and the Texas Rangers beat Boston 2-1 Monday night, the fifth straight loss for the Red Sox.

Steve Buechele, whose wife Nancy went into labor earlier in the day with the couple's second child, homered and scored both Texas runs. The Rangers won their third straight game.

Guzman (5-4) scattered five hits in 7 2-3 innings. He walked four and struck out eight in the first victory by a Texas starter in eight games.

Kenny Rogers relieved with two on and two outs in the eighth and retired Mike Greenwell on a grounder. Jeff Russell pitched a perfect ninth for his 20th save.

Clemens (11-7) has won just two of his last seven starts. He lost with a seven-hitter, striking out four and walking four.

Buechele broke a 1-all with his team-high 15th home run in the fifth inning. He hit a waist-high curve 395 feet to left field.

Buechele singled in the first, went to second on Ruben Sierra's groundout and scored on Julio Franco's single.

Boston tied it in the second on Steve Lyons' third homer of the season. It came with the bases empty, just after catcher Ivan Rodriguez picked off Greenwell at first base.

Ellis Burks and Tony Pena followed Lyons' home run with back-to-back singles, but Guzman struck out Luis Rivera to end the inning. Rodriguez caught Rivera stealing in the fifth.

Braves beat Pittsburgh 7-3

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Greg Olson's two-run double and two Pittsburgh errors helped Atlanta score seven runs in the fourth inning, stopping the Pirates pitching staff's 20-inning scoreless streak and giving the Braves a 7-3 victory Monday night.

The Braves' ninth decision in 11 games — and their fifth in six games against NL East-leading Pittsburgh — pushed Atlanta to within 2 1/2 games of West Division-leading Los Angeles. Atlanta has gained seven games on the Dodgers since the All-Star break.

Pittsburgh, which shut out Cincinnati in the final 17 innings of their weekend series, lost for the third time in 12 games and now leads New York by 3 1/2 games in the East.

Jeff Blauser, Ron Gant, Otis Nixon and winning pitcher John

Smoltz also had run-scoring hits in the fourth off Zane Smith (10-7), who has a 9.82 ERA in two starts against his former teammates this season. Smith allowed six hits and all seven runs, three of them earned, in the fourth after checking Atlanta on one hit over three innings.

Smoltz (5-11), who lost nine of his first 11 decisions, won his third consecutive start. He gave up Andy Van Slyke's solo homer in the sixth, Van Slyke's RBI grounder in the first and Mike LaValliere's run-scoring single in the second.

Smoltz allowed six hits, walked two and struck out two in seven innings before Mike Stanton finished up.

Pittsburgh led 2-0 when Nixon reached on shortstop Jay Bell's throwing error, then stole second for the first of his two stolen bases in the fourth. Nixon leads the league with 50 steals.

Blauser followed with a run-scoring single and Terry Pendleton stretched his hitting streak to 14 games with a single. Gant made it 2-1 with a double to left and Lonnie Smith was intentionally walked.

Brian Hunter flied out, but Olson doubled to right, scoring Pendleton and Gant, and Smith came home on the play when second baseman Jose Lind dropped the relay throw for an error.

Smoltz's double and Nixon's single completed the biggest inning by a Pirates' opponent since Cincinnati's eight-run inning on May 10, 1990.

Smith has been rocked for 15 hits and 12 earned runs in 7 1-3 innings against Atlanta this season and is 1-3 lifetime against the Braves.

Bears sign Harbaugh; Covert could miss year

PLATTEVILLE, Wis. (AP) — Quarterback Jim Harbaugh, who won 10 of his 14 starts last season, ended his holdout with the Chicago Bears on Monday and came to training camp with a new contract for $2.5 million over two years.

But with Harbaugh's arrival here came the bad news that veteran offensive tackle Jim Covert has a ruptured disc. The back injury probably will sideline the two-time Pro Bowl player for the entire 1991 NFL season.

Harbaugh himself is coming off a shoulder injury that kept him out of the playoffs. But he has been throwing well all spring and was rewarded Monday with a pact that will pay him $1.15 million this year and $1.35 million next season.

The former No. 1 draft pick from Michigan made $320,000 last year.

"The Bears were very fair to me and now it's my job to go out and play," said Harbaugh, who is beginning his fifth pro year.

"I'm happy to be back in camp. We've got a great chance, this team, to go to the Super Bowl. So I'm ready to get started." The Bears had the fewest passing yards of any team in the league last year, but much of their offense is generated by running back Neal Anderson and fullback Brad Muster.

Harbaugh has been close to signing since camp opened July 16.

His agent, Leigh Steinberg, and Bears finance director Ted Phillips met for several hours Sunday night before coming to basic terms.

The 6-3, 205-pound Harbaugh — who had been staying in a motel for the past week in Galena, about 40 miles south of here — arrived to sign the contract in time to make the 10 a.m. morning practice session.

The Bears have three other quarterbacks in camp — Peter Tom Willis, Brent Snyder and rookie Paul Justin. But Harbaugh hopes to start Friday against the Dolphins in Chicago's exhibition opener at Miami.

DeLeon, Cards shut down Houston

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Jose DeLeon pitched his first complete game in almost two seasons and Felix Jose and Milt Thompson each drove in three runs Monday night, leading the St. Louis Cardinals past the sagging Houston Astros 9-1.

Ryan Bowen, making his major-league debut, held the Cardinals hitless for five innings, but still trailed 2-1. Milt Thompson led off the sixth with an infield single, keying a seven-run burst that he capped with a three-run triple off Mike Capel.

DeLeon (4-8) disposed of a number of slumps, giving up seven hits, striking out two and walking three. He pitched his first complete game since beating Atlanta on Aug. 15, 1989, and won in July for the first time since July 31, 1989.

It was also his first victory in six starts and fifth in 38 starts going back to last season. DeLeon pitched the third complete game of the year for the Cardinals, and first since May 18.

Bowen (0-1) gave up six runs, five earned, in five-plus innings.

The Astros lost for the eighth time in 10 games.

It was 97 degrees at gametime and Bowen walked two, had a wild pitch and barked home a run in the first to give the Cardinals the lead.

The Astros tied it in the third when Casey Candaele tripled with one out and scored when shortstop Ozzie Smith dropped the ball on Steve Finley's hard one-hopper for an error.

The Cardinals made it 2-1 in the fourth, again without the benefit of a hit, when Ray Lankford walked, stole second, went to third on a fly out and scored on Jose's sacrifice fly.

No pitcher this century has thrown a no-hitter in his big-league debut, and Thompson made sure Bowen, a 23-year-old right-hander, did not when he singled in the sixth. Jose added a two-run double and Gerald Perry had a run-scoring single before Thompson's bases-loaded triple.

Five pitchers have thrown a one-hitter in their first game, with Jimmy Jones the last to do it on Sept. 21, 1986, while with Houston. The closest any pitcher has come to a no-hitter in his debut was Boston's Billy Rohr, who held New York hitless until Elston Howard singled with two outs in the ninth on April 14, 1967.

Golfer lied about three holes in one

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — It looks like the dream shot of every golfer was just dreamed up by a 12-year-old Swedish boy.

Mattias Herrstrom, who reportedly made three holes-in-one on different courses in six days in southern Sweden in July, said he lied about one ace on a par-4 hole and faces possible punishment.

Herrstrom, a 28-handicapper who started playing in May when he received his first set of clubs, recently told a Hylliekroken club official he did not ace a par-4 hole at the course.

"He didn't say anything about the other reported aces, but there are indications that they never occurred," said Per Krasse, chairman of the junior committee at Hylliekroken.

The club has filed a report about the incident and an investigation will be carried out when Herrstrom, on vacation with his family, returns to Sweden.

Per Malmrup, president of a regional golf association that handles rules infringements, said Herrstrom could receive a warning, fines totaling $1,555 or a two-year suspension according to the Swedish National Sports Confederation's rules.

but I don't see anyone as being particularly dominant. That means that everybody has a rare opportunity, and we certainly hope to take advantage of that."

After the Western game, the Panthers make the short trip to Terre Haute, Ind., for a matchup with the Sycamores of Indiana State. And the following week Eastern hosts Illinois State in its homecoming game.

The Panthers finish up by playing at Southern Illinois, and Western Kentucky, which will begin Gateway play in 1992, and then host Southwest Missouri State in Eastern's final regular season home game.

Eastern will conclude its regular season campaign at the UNI Dome against defending conference champion Northern Iowa — the team that Eastern hasn't beaten since 1986.

"We've had opportunities in the past, and the team that takes advantage of their opportunities usually wins and we haven't done it, and they have," Spoo said. "But other than that there's no special stigma. I'm anxious for the season to start. I feel good about our kids and our football team."

Bills' defensive end Smith has surgery

FREDONIA, N.Y. (AP) — Buffalo Bills defensive end Bruce Smith underwent successful arthroscopic knee surgery Monday and the team said the prognosis for a speedy recovery is good.

In a statement released by the team, general manager Bill Polian said Smith had cartilage chips removed from his left knee and the surface of the bone was smoothed. No ligament damage was found.

The surgery was performed by Dr. Robert Andrews of the Alabama Sports Medicine and Orthopedic Center in Birmingham, who operated on Smith's right knee last year.

"Smith had undergone surgery on his right knee during last year's offseason and based on how he responded to that arthroscopic procedure, Dr. Andrews is optimistic that Bruce will not miss any appreciable time during the regular season," Polian said.

Even before the surgery, Bills coach Marv Levy said he wasn't concerned about the future of a player many feel is the most dominant defender in the NFL.

"The last one was very successful," Levy said. "It took a knee that had been bothering him and it made it well. I anticipate this will be the same." No one gave an estimate on how long Smith will be out, but Levy dismissed one published report, attributed to a source close to the team, that the arthroscopic surgery would sideline Smith from six to eight weeks.

"A source close to the Bills that said six to eight weeks knows more than Dr. Andrews knows," Levy said. "He doesn't think it is extensive, but he didn't want to put any time label on it at this point." Levy conceded it would be at least two weeks before he expected Smith, the team leader in sacks since he came to Buffalo in 1985 as the first overall draft choice, to return to practice.

The Reds have compiled a 10-17 record in the second half of the season and are 10 games out of first place after finishing four games over the .500 mark the first half.

"I think we have a real good team," Edwards said. "We have won three out of our last four games, but it's hard to say if we're back or not."

Thorne ready to return at full strength

By R.J. GERBER
Sports editor

After missing the final five games of his freshman season as the quarterback for Eastern, Jeff Thorne is raring to get back into action.

Thorne, who completed 86-165 (52 percent) pass attempts in his first six games as the Panthers' signal caller, was sidelined after suffering an ankle injury against Western Illinois last season. But the 5-10, 175-pounder said he is ready to go 100 percent this fall.

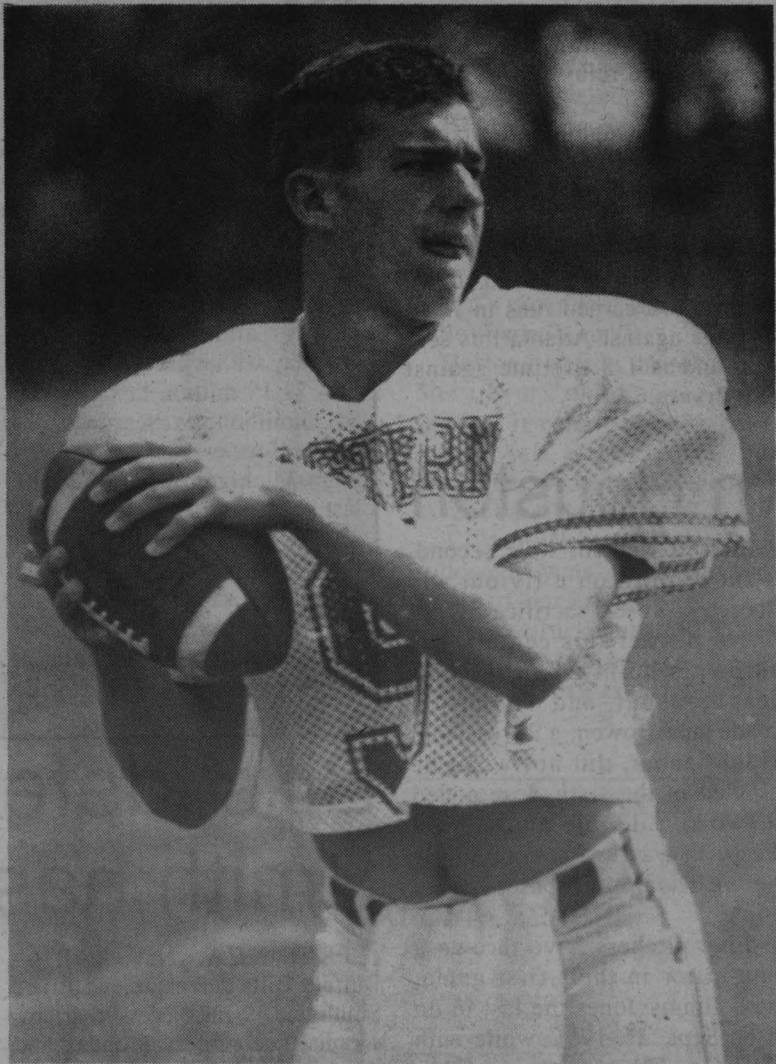

"I think about the season every day," said the Illinois high school career record holder for touch-down passes (57). "I'm sticking with the workouts they (the coaches) gave us."

Those workouts include weight training, running and throwing. Thorne also is keeping busy helping his father, John, the head coach of Wheaton Central High School. "I help my dad out with the quarterbacks," he said.

Eastern was 2-4 while Thorne was at the controls last season as he passed for 1,054 yards and had eight interceptions and two touch-down passes. He also averaged 175.7 yards per contest. The Panthers finished the season at 5-6 overall and 3-3 in the Gateway Conference, good for a three-way tie for third with Illinois State and Western.

But this preseason Eastern has been picked in the Top 20 and looks to be one of the teams to beat in the Gateway, along with defending league champ Northern Iowa, which bowed out of the I-AA playoffs to Boise State one year ago.

"It (the ranking) doesn't mean a whole lot," Thorne said. "We want to be higher than that when the season ends. We have really high expectations and we've set some high goals for ourselves. But it's great, for a preseason ranking."

Eastern quarterback Jeff Thorne sets to throw to a receiver downfield during a practice last fall.

Thorne added that Northern Iowa isn't the only challenge that the Gateway presents for the Panthers. "UNI is real tough, they've got a good team," he said. "We should be able to play with them. They are one of our biggest obstacles. But Southwest Missouri State is no pushover and neither is Iowa State."

Eastern will invade the 50,000 seat Cyclone Stadium Sept. 7 for a date with the Big Eight's Iowa State. "It's a great opportunity for our team," Thorne said. "We have a lot of guys who were overlooked by the big-time schools, so everybody will have that in the back of their minds. It's a great opportunity to play a team of that caliber, a Big Eight team."

Although the Iowa State game is one of national notoriety, the Panthers, and Thorne, are geared more for the Gateway Conference matchups.

"Our number one goal is to win the conference," Thorne said. "After that we will reassess our goals for the playoffs."

Iowa State headlines 1991 football schedule

By R.J. GERBER
Sports editor

Eastern's 1991 football schedule starts out with a contest against a Division II opponent from Pennsylvania and ends with an all too familiar conference foe in Northern Iowa, but in between, the Panthers will face a squad from one of the top leagues in the country.

The Panthers open with a home contest Aug. 31, against Division II Lock Haven State, but the very next Saturday Eastern travels to Ames, Iowa, to take on the Big Eight's Iowa State Cyclones.

"I think we're excited about playing Iowa State - a Division I team that has really progressed," said fifth-year Eastern head coach Bob Spoo. "Last year they beat Oklahoma, and I certainly think that's a feather in their cap. Their program is developing and coming on and we're excited about the opportunity to play them."

Spoo, who has compiled a 24-22 record in his four seasons at Eastern, said the fact that fellow Gateway Conference member Northern Iowa has played the Cyclones tough in recent years is a plus for the Panthers.

"We've seen that Northern Iowa has played them the past three years to very close games," he said. "We feel that we can have an opportunity to go out there against outstanding competition and perform well."

"We're going out there as we do every game - to win. We're not making any concessions for the fact that we're I-AA and they're I-A," he added. "We're also excited that we're playing because you get better when you play better people. So that's a sig-

The Panthers return home to O'Brien Stadium to entertain the Big Sky's Eastern Washington (I-AA), and then hit the road for another non-conference contest against the Ohio Valley's Murray State Racers.

"We don't look at those at tune-ups necessarily, it's just the way our schedule falls," Spoo said. "But I think it's going to be good for us to play four or five tough football games before we get into conference. Of course, it's the conference that counts, so to speak, in terms of playoff opportunities and things of that nature. It will work out well for us that we have four or five games before we open up."

Western Illinois invades O'Brien to open Gateway Conference play on Oct. 5. Eastern finished in a three-way tie for third last year with a 3-3 league mark. The Panthers were 5-6 overall. Spoo said to look for a league that is wide open.

"First of all, I think the conference is going to be the most balanced that it's ever been," he said. "I know I've said that every year,

Ryan Edwards aiming high

Playing professional baseball is not all peaches and cream and Ryan Edwards, a 1990 Eastern graduate, can vow to that.

Edwards, 23, signed on with the Cincinnati Reds Class A farm team, the Cedar Rapids Reds last June and has already been through some ups and downs.

"You realize that playing baseball is a job," Edwards said. "At first you think that everything is going to be great and that everything is going to come easy, and don't get me wrong, it is great just to be here, but it's not all easy work."

Edwards, the right-handed set-up man for the Reds, has compiled a record of 2-2 this year with two saves and has an earned run average under two, but it almost wasn't to be, because he almost gave up playing baseball.

"I struggled last year," Edwards said. "I really did not think that I would be here (Cedar Rapids). I struggled with both my pitching and my attitude. I wasn't even sure if I was going to come back to spring training, but I'm sure glad that I did."

Edwards was a starting pitcher at Eastern in 1990 after transferring from Lincoln Community College. He led the Panthers with a 5-4 record and a 3.74 earned run average while striking out 58 and walking 29 in 65 innings. He also led the team with four complete games.

At Lincoln he went 11-9 in two seasons with a 3.50 ERA and had 119 strikeouts in 139 innings.

One of the reasons Edwards gave for his troubled times was his move to the bullpen.

"I wasn't used to pitching in the bullpen," Edwards said. "You have to be ready at all times and I wasn't used to it. But I'm glad for that reason. I think that might have been a reason that I was a little flustered because I was a starter at Eastern."

Edwards believes that his playing days at Eastern were a big reason that he is playing professional baseball right now.

"Not to take anything away from any of my coaches," Edwards said. "But I would not be here (Cedar Rapids) if it were not for Dan Callahan (Eastern head coach). He helped me a great deal."

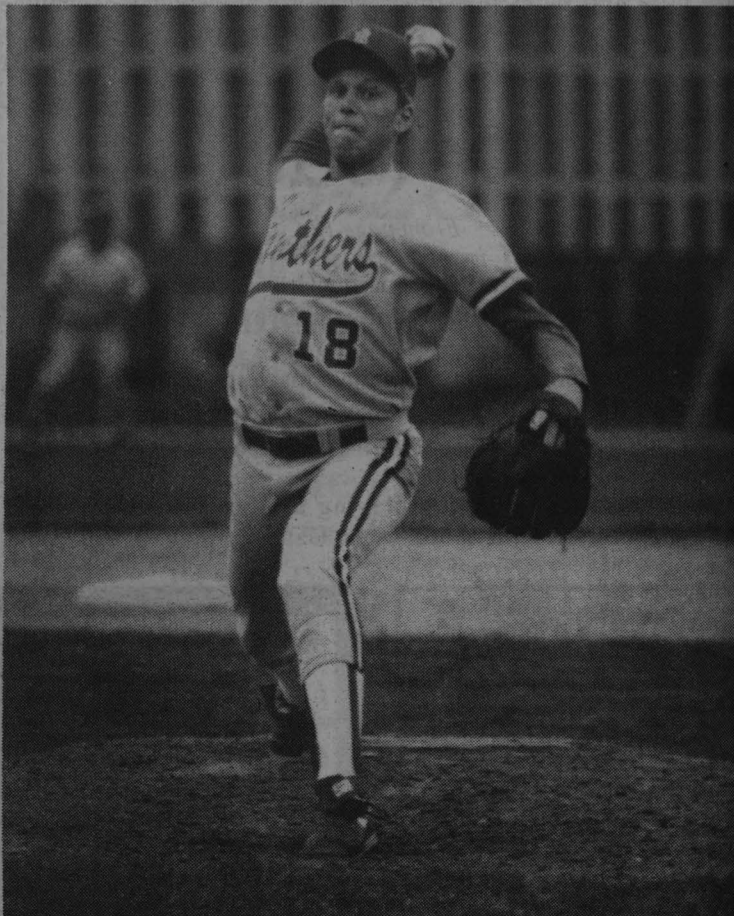

Right now, Edwards has the major leagues on his mind, but he is in no hurry to make it up to the Cincinnati Reds.

"I've heard that they like to move through the minors slowly," Edwards said. "They want to keep you at A ball for two years. I am looking to make it to the major leagues, but right now I'm just looking to keep pitching here."

Edwards is currently making $1,000 a month, but that does not bother him.

"It's chicken feed," Edwards said. "But it will be
