Governor released Thursday

SPRINGFIELD (AP) – Gov. Jim Edgar recuperated Wednesday after having a heart artery unclogged, and doctors expected him to resume a regular schedule next week.

Cardiologists who were surprised by the blockage in an otherwise healthy and active 46-year-old man found a contributing cause: a low level of so-called good cholesterol that reduces the buildup of bad cholesterol in blood vessels.

"When we do see that, we do consider that that is in fact a risk factor," said Dr. Randolph Martin, one of two cardiologists who performed a balloon angioplasty Tuesday that cleared buildup in Edgar's right coronary artery.

Edgar recovered at the Springfield Memorial Medical Center after a "fairly peaceful night," Martin said.

Edgar should be released Thursday. "We expect to be up to speed sometime next week," Martin said.

Dump ruling may come Friday

By CHRIS SUNDHEIM
City editor

If another in a series of legal hurdles falls by the wayside, East Central Illinois could be one crucial step closer to hosting its own low-level nuclear waste dump by Saturday.

Members of the commission charged with making a decision on the suitability of a proposed site near Martinsville – less than 30 miles from Eastern's campus – are poised to begin deliberation Friday and hope to make their decision by Saturday at the latest, an attorney for the commission told The News.

Thomas Geselbracht, an attorney for the three-member siting commission responsible for the final administrative approval on the site itself, said Wednesday that commission chairman Seymour Simon hopes his group makes a ruling before the close of the weekend.

That vote, if it rejects the site, will bring to a rapid close nearly four years of controversy and leave the state facing another lengthy search process in its quest for a place to store Illinois' low-level nuclear waste.

An approval will set into motion what could be the last major step in an arduous and passionate debate giving this area of the state the dubious distinction of housing radiation-contaminated hardware and clothing from nuclear generators, hospitals and other utilities.

"(The deliberation) is the commissioners' time to publicly discuss the evidence as they see it: whatever judgements they have come to, whatever conclusions they may have drawn. And, hopefully, to make a vote," Geselbracht said. "There's a lot to talk about. We're hoping, quite frankly, that we'll be able to finish everything that needs to be done on Friday."

Gelsebracht said the commissioners continue to review 20,000 pages of transcripts and 500 individual exhibits constituting another 10,000 to 20,000 pages of additional evidence.

"If the siting commission approves the site the ball then passes into the court of the (Illinois) Department of Nuclear Safety. The next event is for the department to issue a license."

With a license yet to be granted, it's unlikely the state can break ground on the 1,300 acre-facility anytime next year. Patti Thompson, a spokeswoman for the IDNS, said the agency's timeline before ground can be broken on the site has continually been rewritten throughout the siting process.

"It seems like every time we're ready something else comes up, so it's probably going to be later," Thompson said. "Our estimates keep getting bumped back." IDNS officials have said in recent months a mid-1994 target date was a more realistic deadline than some hopes within the community and the contractor for construction as early as next year.

Even if the commission approves the site, after a license application is completed, the siting commission will again step into the ring and make certain the license contains the same specifications as the original plans on which they will vote this weekend.

At least two more public hearings in Martinsville will probably also be set, Thompson added.

The siting commission listened to 71 days of testimony between June 1991 and March of this year from various experts and witnesses. "The commissioners got to sit and listen for 71 days and now they get to talk themselves," Geselbracht added.

A U.S. Supreme Court ruling handed down in June overturned congressional legislation for states to take care of their own waste.

City, students still debate sign issue

By JENNIFER KROGH
Staff writer

After an emotional discussion between the Charleston City Council and representatives from Student Government about a four-way stop being placed at the intersection of Ninth Street and Roosevelt Avenue, both sides had conflicting opinions of what really happened at the meeting.

Two city officials said they feel they understand the students' needs and are willing to help them in any way they can. Commissioner Bruce Scism said the situation is dangerous and needs to be brought to the attention of the council.

"It is a common concern about the traffic situation," Scism said. "I truly share their concern about the traffic problem."

On the opposing side, the students who attended the city council meeting said they felt that, although they tried to be professional about the whole situation, the council didn't want them there and felt they were a nuisance.

Senate member Dan Byer said that all those involved had good intentions, but there was no doubt the council members and students didn't get along from the very beginning.

"This issue has been an ongoing endeavor for us that started in April of last year," Byer said. "We've been following up this issue, and

Discussion continues at senate

By SUSAN KIEL
Student government editor

Student Senate discussed the low turnout of senate members at the Charleston City Council meeting Tuesday when members of Students on Stopping asked for a four-way stop at the intersection of Ninth Street and Roosevelt Avenue.

The "protest" was discussed by the senate at last week's meeting, only nine senate members attended.

"It's on the approved minutes from last week that we did talk about (the protest)," said Dan Byer, who organized the event. "We did spend some time discussing the plans. A number of hands went up in support of this."

"But we had only 33 percent of senate show up," Byer added. "I look at it this way, if I went in to take a test and got only 33 percent I wouldn't be too happy. We scored low on this test."

Byer encouraged more senate members to come to a public hearing on the matter of the four-way stop at 5 p.m. Oct. 15 in the Charleston Municipal Building at 520 Jackson Ave.

"Hopefully we'll see a better showing Thursday of senate members and leaders of the university," Byer said.

Student Government adviser David Milberg said he spoke with acting Vice President of Student Affairs Lou Hencken about university leaders attending the meeting.

"Hencken will be at the meeting Thursday in support of the stop sign," Milberg said.

Senate congratulated Byer on "a job well done" in organizing the student protest.

"He put a lot of time and effort into it," said senator Bobby Smith. "I think we all owe him a big thanks for the job he did last night and will continue to do."

In other business, the senate approved, after much discussion and a roll call vote, the additional allocations and line item transfers approved Tuesday night by the Apportionment Board.

Some senate members expressed concern over not having enough time to properly review the requests approved by AB prior to approving the requests themselves.

Senate also approved a resolution to sponsor a debate between the College Republicans and the University Democrats Oct. 28.

British cars focus of new club

By MARI OGAWA
Staff editor

The English Motoring Society, a new campus organization attempting to share the enjoyment of antique automobiles, will have its second meeting at 5 p.m. Thursday at Morton Park.

The purpose of the organization is to enjoy driving British cars that the members own as well as to learn about the members and the cars, said Chris Cougill, vice president of the society.

"We just want to get all the owners together who are enthusiasts (who right now) are few and far between," Cougill said.

"It's rare to find somebody who appreciates old British cars, so we want to get together and preserve and promote the interests."

Cougill said their plans at the upcoming meeting are addressing the homecoming parade.

"We will choose five cars for the parade at the next meeting," Cougill said. The five chosen cars from the organization will be in the 64th row of the parade.

Cougill said he hopes he and the members will have many activities in the future. "We plan on having some fall rallies through Fox Ridge or Lincoln Log Cabin," he said.

The organization was started by the society's president Guy

Usher and Cougill.

"(We) talked about it far back last fall, but never had a chance to actually do anything as an activity until this semester," he said.

Some of the cars already in the group's collection are the TR-6 Triumph, (MG)B-GT Hardtop and the Spitfire. Cougill said some general characteristics about the cars are that they are easy to fix and drive.

There are 11 members in the organization including faculty. John David Reed and Glenn Robinson, faculty in Eastern's journalism department, and Mark Pelham, owner of an automobile repair shop, are serving as advisers.

we attended the meeting to show (the city council) that we are concerned citizens."

"They have a right to vocalize their opinions just as anyone else would," Scism said. "That's why we encourage sending student representatives to voice the concerns of the student body."

However, Scism said the city council did not expect to get into such an in-depth discussion about the issue.

"We had a quite involved conversation at the meeting," he said. "Hopefully anyone who is that concerned will be there at the public hearing next Thursday."

Scism said he believes that all people have the same concerns and everyone should work together.

"I think something will happen - (but) not tomorrow. That would be an unrealistic expectation for everyone," Scism said.

"I think they acted as they did because they were frustrated," he said.

The reason the issue couldn't thoroughly be discussed was because it was never placed on the agenda, nor was it ever requested to be placed on the agenda, Scism said.

"Anything that anyone wants to discuss must be placed on the agenda the Thursday prior to the meeting," he added.

To resolve the situation, it was recommended that a public hearing be scheduled for next week.

"We thought it would be appropriate to discuss it when everyone was there who was interested in it," Scism said. "That's why we set a hearing - to preserve discussion and save it for everyone."

Also, he said he believes the students' intentions are exactly the same as the city council's goals.

Byer said he picked up negative signals from the city officials as he presented the problem to the council.

"The way Commissioner Scism was staring me down as I presented our position of safety, I wouldn't have to be careful crossing the intersection without the stop sign because his looks could kill," Byer said.

Byer said the questions that they were being asked had absolutely nothing to do with the safety issue.

"This made us extremely frustrated," Byer said.

The groups intentions of going was to work together with the council, but they all felt unwelcome.

"The commissioner was so opposed to us being there," Byer said. "We were not welcomed at all-they made us feel like second-class citizens."

Byer said he believes that it shouldn't be the university versus the city.

"The public hearing was set up so all sides will be able to express their thoughts on the issue," Byer said. "We hope as citizens and students that nobody will be opposed to the safety of other individuals."

City Attorney Brian Bower said he believes there are no personality conflicts, but there was a lack of communication on both sides.

Bonfire starts homecoming

By MEGAN CURTIS
and MELISSA ASHBY
Staff writers

Eastern students and alumni can attend the homecoming pep rally and bonfire from 8 to 10 p.m. Thursday in the Lawson/Taylor court. The new homecoming king and queen will be introduced along with the 1992 homecoming court.

The bonfire will begin immediately after the pep rally which will incorporate the homecoming theme "Spirit of the Games."

All organizations that are participating in homecoming will bring a symbolic dummy to be burned in effigy and present an original cheer.

Also at the rally, homecoming queen Julie Reinsma of Delta Zeta sorority will be presented with a signed football from the Panther football team.

Coach Bob Spoo and the captains of the football team will present speeches during the rally regarding the upcoming football game. Brian Riordan, student body president, is also scheduled to speak.

Eastern's cheerleading squad and the Pink Panthers will be in attendance to drum up school spirit before Saturday's football game. Eastern's marching band will perform music for the Pink Panthers' dance number.

Students such as Gail Valker and Becky Markert, spirit coaches, and Kim Danielewicz, student homecoming coordinator, were responsible for putting the pep rally/bonfire together.

"The students have put in a lot of hard work (on the Pep Rally) and they deserve the recognition," said David Milberg, director of student activities.

In Wednesday's Fun Games competition, Alpha Sigma Tau sorority and Sigma Chi fraternity came away winners, earning spirit points in pursuit of the Spirit Award to be given Friday.

The mock Olympiad appeared to impress participants and observers alike.

"I think the spirit is awesome this year," said junior accounting major Melissa Schumacher, a member of Delta Zeta.

"The whole point of Fun Games is to get all the houses out here and have no separation in (Greek Court)," said Jeff Lycan, a sophomore member of Sigma Nu.

"I think there is a good turnout and everybody has a lot of spirit," said Matt Rooney sophomore business management major, also a member of Sigma Nu.

"I think some of the stuff they are doing is really funny," said Jessica Jenkins, junior elementary education major.

The rain location for the pep rally/bonfire is in the University Ballroom located in the Martin Luther King Jr. University Union.

Gridlocked Congress crawling to a finish

WASHINGTON (AP) - The 102nd Congress is burping to an end, a two-year season of ill will and scandal that left many of its members bruised and embittered - and a record number contemplating life out of office.

From its first vote - to go to war in the Persian Gulf - to its override of President Bush's veto of a cable TV bill, the term was marked by confrontation and partisanship. At the end, there was little to show for it.

Even the leaving was messy. The House finished its business on Tuesday, but the Senate remained bogged down by delaying tactics over tax, water and energy legislation that put off final adjournment until Thursday or later.

"This place has become so divisive that nobody sits down and says, What can we do for the people?" said Rep. Mickey Edwards, R-Okla., who was tarred by the House bank scandal and is among those who won't be back.

It was ultimately a Congress that recognized its own unpopularity and sought quietly to get out of the way. Its Democratic leaders sought to duck the spotlight and leave the stage to their presidential candidate, Bill Clinton.

"In many respects people are worn down, weary," said Rep. Tim Penny, D-Minn. "They came to the conclusion that it was better to just finish up what we could, and get out of here."

Election-year congresses always fall prey to a period when politics overtakes policy, a time lawmakers call "the silly season." But this time it seemed to pervade the entire session.

It was a period when "gridlock" became part of the political lexicon and the public approval ratings of politicians dipped to all-time lows.

Fourth Street accident hurts bicyclist

A 20-year-old Eastern student was listed in fair condition Wednesday following an accident on his bicycle with a vehicle at Fourth Street and Lincoln Avenue Tuesday afternoon.

Brian Trisko of 917 Fourth St., Apt. 6, was admitted to Sarah Bush Lincoln Health Center for a leg injury he suffered in an accident with a vehicle driven by Gayle Behning, 37, of 102 13th St. at 3:42 p.m.

Behning was eastbound on Lincoln Avenue and proceeded through the intersection against a red light, according to eyewitness accounts, striking Trisko, who was in the crosswalk riding his bicycle north on Fourth Street.

Behning received a citation for disobeying a traffic signal.

Comradery king in 1992 Eastern homecoming

The windows have been painted, the court has been crowned and the football team eagerly awaits the big game Saturday. Homecoming is upon us, all the glitter and glory of returning alumni and the general student spirit which holds this campus together prevails this week.

This year's theme, "The Spirit of the Games," goes beyond honoring the Olympic Games, it is also recognizing the pride Eastern students, faculty, alumni and organizations. For that one week of endless activities such as the bonfire and pep rally, campus groups can join together and proclaim "We are Eastern, hear us roar!"

Editorial At this moment in time, the walkway of the Martin Luther King Jr. University Union is fully decorated in honor of the Olympic games. Students who helped paint these windows went to impressive lengths to show how Eastern respects achievements of the world's athletes.

Coronation held Monday evening in McAfee Gym proved to be a ceremony of pomp and circumstance. The elected court will hold the distinction of representing Eastern's fine establishment of higher education.

Fun Games, Eastern's version of the olympics, was held Wednesday at the Taylor/Lawson Hall court. Teams were formed to instigate the student's spirit of winning.

Eastern organizations have been working feverishly on their parade floats for Saturday. If the windows should reflect the creativity of the floats, this parade should be the best ever.

What is homecoming without the famous game? If the game against Southern was any indication, the stands should be filled and the game should definitely be exciting.

The topper of all Homecoming events – other than the actual game itself – is the annual bonfire/pep rally Thursday evening in Lawson/Taylor quad. This event will truly set all Eastern's pride and spirit a blaze. It is the time for everyone who holds regard for Eastern to come together and rally our team to victory.

Whether you are involved with an organization or just are a simple student living day by day, the point of Homecoming is to have fun and remember to always be true to your school.

And as Thursday usually marks the start of the college weekend, The News wishes everyone an enjoyable and safe Homecoming.

David vs. incumbent for House

Weaver works for education in District 106

Editor's note: This is the third in several dueling political columns comparing the local and national elections taking place Nov. 3. Each week, a different race will be previewed, written by on-campus advocates of each candidate.

One of the issues closest to State Rep. Mike Weaver's heart deals directly with Eastern. Through this and many other programs, Mike is a man that cares for the people of the 106th District.

In response to a growing resentment to the management of Eastern and other schools by the Board of Governors, Mike sponsored legislation to study the BOG and check its viability.

When this bill died in Springfield, Mike took his study to the campuses themselves. Through his interaction, Weaver concluded the BOG had outlived its usefulness.

Mike envisions a system where a council of presidents – made up of presidents of state universities – would deal directly with the Illinois Board of Higher Education. In this way, the university would be better represented because people closest to the action would be representing the university's needs.

An estimated $3 to $5 million could be saved by the eradication of the redundant process done by the BOG, that way freeing funds to be spent by higher education. It is unnecessary to spend money on the BOG when these functions are already coordinated by the university.

Mike Weaver cares about everyone. This can be seen by the bills that he sponsors: adult literacy, educational quality and funding, public safety and child care.

Mike's concern for education is further shown through his service and commitment to the Education Finance Committee, House Elementary and Secondary Education Committee and the House Task Force on School Finance.

Mike Weaver was born and raised in a farming community which instilled the values that make this country great. This, in combination with his father's career in the Air Force, influenced Mike to enlist into the Air Force at the height of Viet Nam, after only one semester of school at Eastern. After his service in the Air Force, Mike returned to Eastern to continue his education.

An instructor at Eastern, Weaver lives and works out of his residence in the local community of Ashmore.

After years of devoted service to Eastern, Mike began his political career by winning a bid to the Illinois House. Mike Weaver has continued to win re-elections by an overwhelming majority ever since due to his sensibility, caring and efficient way in which he runs his affairs.

His sensibility and caring nature allow him to better represent his constituency. His efficiency in which he runs his three local offices enables him to return a portion of his district office allotment to Springfield.

It has been these attributes that have won him numerous awards from farmer, business, management and taxpayer groups; as well as the Chamber of Commerce and educational groups. It is his love for family that makes the Illinois education system and rebuilding the business climate the hallmark of Mike's legislative priorities.

Mike is the candidate to chose because he is the candidate who cares. Remember, vote Weaver on Nov. 3.

Up-and-comer Hodge choice of the future

I first decided to work on the campaign of Democratic State Representative candidate Carolyn Brown Hodge after listening to her speak at a Coles County Democrats meeting. I was very impressed with her dynamic personality, positive attitude and reasons for running for public office.

She admits she'd never planned on participating in politics in this capacity, but in this election year there has been support for new faces.

This reason, coupled with her dissatisfaction with the leadership in Springfield, encouraged her to become a candidate. And in the past year I've been working with Carolyn, I am convinced that she is the best person to represent and serve the needs of the 106th District.

Carolyn feels that many of our politicians have forgotten and neglected the needs of the working and middle class people. She supports universal health care because it is time to make adequate health care available to all people in Illinois without regard to their income.

She also supports family leave. Carolyn knows that people cannot continue to have their jobs threatened because of family emergencies. And in other aspects regarding family, she believes a woman's choice is decided at home – not in government institutions.

Carolyn is also supporting the Education Amendment that will be on the ballot on Nov. 3, making the state responsible for the majority of the costs for public schooling in grades Kindergarten through 12. Carolyn is pursuing this important position as state representative because she feels she can contribute to the legislature in making positive changes for the state of Illinois.

I believe that the effort Carolyn displays is also an indicator that she will work diligently for us once in office. During this campaign she has worked tirelessly to meet people and get the word out that she is a viable candidate for making necessary changes in Illinois. On a daily basis she criss-crosses the district, trying to be involved in as many activities as possible.

The staff keeps telling her she can't be everywhere at once – but she's trying to prove us wrong.

Besides participating in special activities in the community, Carolyn knocks on doors letting people have an opportunity to meet her and talk with her. She does this several times a week and by the Nov. 3 election we hope to have knocked on 30,000 doors. Be looking for us.

Carolyn is out talking with all kinds of people and relates well to all of them, but I think especially to young adults. This connection is quite evident when she spoke in front of Eastern's University Democrats. Carolyn, being a 1972 graduate of Eastern and a strong supporter of its activities and programs, remembers and understands the needs of the university.

Carolyn also emphasizes the importance of political participation and involvement in current events. The changes made now will directly affect each of us in the future. I am convinced she will work for the area's people by supporting legislation created for their benefit.

I am working on the Hodge campaign because I truly believe that she is the right choice at the right time – a time when changes need to be made and when action needs to be taken to implement those changes.

– Debby Allen is a student coordinator for Carolyn Brown Hodge and guest columnist for The Daily Eastern News.

New senators aim at diverse issues

By SUSAN KIEL
Student government editor

Student Government's newest members continued to voice their opinions Wednesday on their goals and hopes for their first term, giving what turned out to be a diverse offering of ideas.

"I have always been involved in the leadership of whatever organization I was involved in," said freshman Heather Ballard, one of the six students chosen.

After interviewing 19 applicants, Student Government appointed six new senate members. Senate approved the following new members Wednesday by a unanimous vote: John Kohl, Dan Fultz, Julea Warren, Kara Restagno, Dave Greenstein, and Ballard.

Each candidate submitted an application listing his or her qualifications and took part in interviews conducted by the senate's legislative leadership committee.

Ballard, a freshmen elementary education major, said her past experience includes involvement in her high school student council, as well as serving as a member of the student advisory council to the State Board of Education for two years.

Ballard said she joined senate because she thought "senate would be a place where I could make things happen."

"I thought it would be the best way to really make changes for the university," she said.

Her goals for this year include working on recycling projects and promoting campus safety.

"I also really just want to help senate to accomplish its goals," Ballard said.

Kohl, a junior history major, said he does not have a lot of past experience in organizations such as Student Government, but has always had an interest.

"Government has always interested me," Kohl said. "I've attended every senate meeting this fall, so I'm up to date on what senate is doing and felt I would be able to float right in."

Kohl said he has three goals he would like senate to focus on this year.

"My first goal is to work on student awareness, show students what senate can do for the student body as a whole," he said. "I want to prove to the student body that senate isn't as corrupt as people make it out to be."

Kohl also said he would like to work on extending library hours and food service hours.

Warren, a junior speech pathology major, was a member of summer senate as well as being involved in a variety of other organizations, such as Alpha Phi Omega service fraternity, Sigma Sigma Sigma sorority and the University Board.

Warren said she petitioned to be on senate because she felt it would be the best way for her to help the student body.

"I'm an easy enough person to talk to that students that have problems can come and talk to me, and I can bring their problems to the senate," she said.

Handicapped accessibility on campus is an issue Warren feels strongly about and plans on addressing this year.

"(Handicapped accessibility) is important to me because my major is speech pathology. I'm dealing with exceptional people," she said. "I see it as becoming a bigger problem now because of the Americans Disabilities Act."

Fultz, who was also appointed to senate, was unavailable for comment Wednesday and absent from senate's regular meeting.

Serbs strengthen grip on Bosnia territory

SARAJEVO, Bosnia-Herzegovina (AP) – Serb fighters were reported cleaning out the last pockets of resistance in a northern strategic city on Wednesday, and they widened their offensive with intensified shelling throughout the region.

The lightning capture of Bosanski Brod on the Croatian border was a major victory for the Serbs, who are seeking to set up their own republic within Bosnia possibly as a prelude to linking up with Serbia.

The Serbian advances mean they have taken control of 70 percent of Bosnia in the 7-month-old civil war, and their offensive sought to gain further territory before winter.

More than 14,000 people have been killed in Bosnia since Bosnian Serbs rebelled against a vote in February by majority Muslims and Croats to secede from Serbian-dominated Yugoslavia.

The fall of Bosanski Brod apparently was part of a Serbian offensive aimed at occupying more Bosnian territory before winter sets in.

There was major shelling in Sarajevo in what the city's radio called a "hellish" morning.

There was major fighting in the north, according to Croatian radio reports:

- Heavy Serb artillery blasted the region around Zupanja, 35 miles east of Slavonski Brod.

- The city of Gradacac was hit by hundreds of missiles and cluster bombs.

- Serb forces 12 miles north of Gradacac were caught in a Muslim-Croat pincer, forcing them to retreat and leave 10 artillery pieces behind.

Video will address nutrition

By MATT GARRISON
Staff writer

The School of Home Economics and the Department of Athletics will co-sponsor a video conference called "Sports Nutrition for the High School and College Athlete" at noon Friday in the Buzzard Auditorium.

According to Martha Brown, an associate professor in the School of Home Economics, the conference will be received live, via satellite, from Old Dominion University and will be open to the general public at no charge.

The majority of the hour and a half program will consist of a panel discussion between four experts in the fields of exercise physiology and sports medicine.

The four panelists will be David Castill, a Ball State professor of exercise science; Nancy Clark, a registered dietician from Boston; Mel Williams, director of the human performance lab at Old Dominion and Jackie Berning, a University of Colorado registered dietician. Brown said the conference will be moderated by ESPN basketball analyst, Clark Kellogg.

Included in the range of topics covered by the panelists will be nutrition and its relation to athletic performance, carbohydrates and fluids, weight control techniques, eating disorders, nutritional aids to enhance performance and steroid use, Brown said.

Following the discussion of these topics, there will be a telephone question and answer session in which viewers may call in and ask questions of the experts. Eastern viewers, however, will only be able to watch this portion of the program and not participate, Brown said.

"We feel (athletic nutrition and health) is a topic that has a lot of interest for both athletes and people with an interest in sports and a concern for fitness," Brown said.

Lack of sponsorship keeps Gus Bus parked

By NANCY JAMES
Staff writer

As midterm nears, students going to Charleston's bars are still without the service of the Gus Bus.

Gus Bus coordinator Brent Gage said he had hoped to get the Gus Bus operational by homecoming. But now, said he is now unsure when it will resume its free transportation of Eastern students to and from campus to various Charleston bars.

Although the Gus Bus has been funded by various local establishments in past years, Gage said he is waiting for commitments from Roc's Tavern, Thirsty's, Ted's Warehouse, Styx and others.

The basic operational cost of the Gus Bus is $125 a night, Gage said, and should be covered by the bars' sponsorship. Contributions to the Gus Bus from other organizations go to promote the bus through publications and advertisements.

Although the Gus Bus is not currently running, Gage said he considered last year's Gus bus program "very successful." He also said calls have come in from universities such as Western and Illinois State who are looking to either improve or start their own programs.

Many students, however, rely on the Gus Bus to get them safely to and from the bars and feel the bus is an important program at Eastern.

Penny Robinson, a senior business management and administrative information systems major, said that although she has never taken the bus it is a great asset to students.

"If you have a friend who drinks too much but won't give you the keys (to drive home safely), it's a long walk back to Taylor Hall from Thirsty's," Robinson said.

On the other hand, Dave Miller, a senior economics major, rides the Gus Bus during the winter months because "it's too cold to walk, and I don't have a car."

Tim Ryan, a senior computer management and administrative management major, said although he drives his own car to the bars he approves of the Gus Bus program.

"It gives people the opportunity to go out and have a good time and be safe – even if they had too good of a time," Ryan said.

CAA compares goals, mission

By TERESA JOHNSON
Staff writer

Eastern's Council on Academic Affairs will discuss its admission and goals statement as compared to the Illinois Board of Higher Education's draft of Eastern's institutional mission description.

The CAA will meet at 2 p.m. Thursday in the Arcola/Tuscola room of the Martin Luther King Jr. University Union.

The draft of the institutional mission description has yet to be adopted by the IBHE, said CAA chair Kathlene Shank.

"It's (CAA's) understanding that some version of the draft will be adopted at the November meeting of the IBHE," Shank said.

Acting President Barbara Hill and other administrators from Eastern just returned to campus from IBHE's October meeting, where the draft was discussed, Shank said.

"On Thursday we will have an update from Terry Weidner, acting associate vice president for academic affairs, on the status of the draft and we are going to discuss the draft statement versus the official admissions and goals," Shank said.

Also at Thursday's meeting, Aline Arnold, chair of the management marketing department, will present the proposed review of the major for marketing and answer questions from the council.

Arnold will answer three questions on the review of the major. According to the framework of the review of the major, specific objectives of the department should be specified, and a system should be developed as to how well the department is achieving its objectives.

A proposal by Jeff Boshart, assistant professor of art, to suspend the review of the major will also be on the agenda.

The council had previously looked at using a modified approach to the Study of Undergraduate Education document for the review of the major, Shank said.

"The (Study of Undergraduate Education) document is a report of the study of undergraduate education that is about 60 to 65 pages in length which is compiled from the work of four or five task forces," Shank said. "These task forces were appointed by the president and they spent about 18 months looking at various aspects of undergraduate education."

Shank added the study's recommendations were then reviewed by the various councils on campus before its approval.

"CAA deliberated all last fall on the definition of the major and the nature of the review of the major," Shank said.

The definition of the major, the components of the review of the major and the subcommittee report were the three components of the report. Two of these three were approved Nov. 7, 1991, Shank said.

The schedule of the review of the major was approved by consensus on Sept. 17, Shank said.

New abortion pill controversy looms

BOSTON (AP) — A controversial French-made abortion drug is also a highly effective morning-after pill, preventing all pregnancies in women who have unprotected sex, a study found.

The drug, RU486, has not been approved for use in the United States.

A study conducted in Scotland and published in Thursday's New England Journal of Medicine concluded that making the drug available for use after intercourse could reduce the need for abortions.

However, one anti-abortion group said it would fight this use of the drug, arguing that a morning-after pill is just another form of abortion.

The drug is available only in France, where it was introduced in 1988, and in Britain, Sweden and China.

The drug acts on the hormonal system to trigger abortions early in pregnancy. It causes the embryo or fetus to become separated from the uterine wall and be expelled.

When used as a morning-after pill, RU486 is believed to prevent implantation of the fertilized egg in the wall of the uterus.

In the study, doctors from the University of Edinburgh compared RU486 to high doses of the birth-control pill, now the standard morning-after approach, but one that frequently causes nausea and doesn't always work.

"People are trying to find a highly effective form of post-coital contraceptive that is easy to use and free from side effects," said Dr. Anna Glasier, who directed the study. "It would seem that RU486 meets those requirements."

We're looking for seniors who like working with all kinds of hardware.

Careers in data processing, accounting, actuarial, and auditing at State Farm.

At State Farm, we understand the concept of "work." Believe it or not, we also understand the concept of "play."

That's because we don't think you can be really outstanding at the first without having an appreciation for the second. Which is exactly why a career at State Farm in Bloomington could be the ideal place for you.

You'll work for one of the country's most respected companies on the most advanced computer equipment in the industry. You'll be challenged and stimulated. You'll be rewarded with excellent pay and benefits. You'll make your classmates very envious.

What's more, you'll also have time to appreciate the finer things in life. That's because Bloomington isn't just a great place to start a career, it's a great place to live, to enjoy, to start a family (if, indeed, you're ready to start thinking about that). In addition to the community's pleasant neighborhoods, inviting parks, and other recreational facilities, you'll find two universities that offer a host of cultural and social activities to take advantage of.

If you're a senior with a math, accounting, data processing, or computer science background, come talk to us at your college placement office. We're looking for people who are motivated and outgoing. People who enjoy challenges on the job — and away from it. After all, you're not just looking for a great job. You're looking for a great way of life.

NL Playoff Notebook

ATLANTA (AP) — Ron Gant's grand slam in Atlanta's 13-5 playoff victory over Pittsburgh on Wednesday was the fourth in National League playoff history. It was the first since Will Clark of San Francisco hit one off Greg Maddux of Chicago in Game 1 of the 1989 series.

GRANNIES: All four NL playoff grand slams have been hit by NL West players. The other two were by Ron Cey of Los Angeles on Oct 4, 1977 against Philadelphia and by Dusty Baker of the Dodgers the following day. Two grand slams have been hit in American League playoffs.

RUNS APLENTY: The 18 runs scored by the Braves and Pirates is a playoff record for a game, surpassing the previous mark of 17.

The New York Mets defeated Atlanta 11-6 in 1969 and Baltimore beat California 9-8 in 1979.

BRAVES SCORING: The 13 runs by the Braves tied the playoff record set by the New York Yankees in a 13-3 win over Oakland in 1982 and tied two years later when the Chicago Cubs beat San Diego 13-0.

PITCHERS GALORE: The 12 pitchers used by the Pirates (7) and Braves (5) in Game 2 was the most ever in the playoffs. The previous record of 10 occurred four times, the last in the 1988 series between the Los Angeles Dodgers and New York Mets.

STREAKING BRAVES: The Braves have won four straight NL playoff games, the longest streak since the Pirates won four in a row, three against Cincinnati in 1979 and one against the Reds in 1980.

The Cardinals hold the record at five straight, winning four in 1985 against Los Angeles and one against the Giants in 1987.

Giants' Handley flares up at media

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (AP) — Ray Handley's problems with the New York media flared up again on Wednesday when he barred two photographers from practice.

Joe Gigli of New Jersey Newsphotos, the photo arm of The Star-Ledger of Newark, and Keith Torrie of The New York Daily News were photographing players walking to the field when they were confronted by the New York Giants coach.

Handley told them practice was closed, Gigli said.

Gigli said he turned to take a picture of Handley closing the gate. Handley noticed that and quickly walked to the photographer and grabbed his arm, Gigli said.

"I thought I told you practice was closed, no pictures," Gigli quoted Handley as saying.

"He walked off the field. He definitely went out of his way," Gigli said.

"I never touched anyone, and if someone says I did, tell them to see me in my office," Handley said.

Maradona nets winner for Seville

SEVILLE, Spain (AP) — Diego Maradona scored his first goal since returning to soccer after a 15-month drug suspension and it was the only one in Seville's 1-0 victory over Zaragoza on Wednesday in a Spanish first-division match.

The Argentine striker, playing his first home game, delighted a crowd of about 50,000 when he scored in the 53rd minute on a penalty kick from 12 yards with a well-placed shot high and to the right of the Zaragoza goalie.

Maradona took the shot after Argentine teammate Diego Pablo Simeone was tripped as he broke free in the area.

The 31-year-old Maradona, who completed the suspension in June, was sold last month to Seville for $7.5 million by Napoli after he refused to play the final year of his contract for the Italian club.

Maradona returned to soccer on Sept. 28.

UWM troubled on and off court

By JOHN FERAK
Staff writer

Eastern's next opponent, the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee volleyball team, is finding 1992 a disastrous year - on and off the court.

Head coach Tom Pleyte has been suspended with pay pending an investigation into allegations of sexual harassment of his players.

"The charges (sexual harassment) were filed in mid-August by the UWM Office of Affirmative Action and Equal Opportunity," said Assistant Chancellor for Student Affairs William Mayrl. "On the basis of their preliminary findings, I felt it was in the best interests of the team and the coach to suspend him until the investigation has been completed."

In an article published by the Wisconsin-Milwaukee Post, Mayrl said the attention given to sexual harassment cases could affect public perception of the university, but he hopes it shows something is being done.

"It certainly concerns me. This could affect the image of the university, but, on the other hand, it does show that we are responding to what we can do about the situation," Mayrl was quoted as saying in the Post article.

A UWM volleyball player, who requested anonymity, said in the Post, "He just says...unprofessional, inappropriate things for a coach to say. I think it is more than just the sexual harassment comments he made."

"There have been problems with him (coach Pleyte) in the past. This has been going on for a while. People had tried to get help from the athletic director (Bud Haidet) but he did not help."

When reached for comment concerning the pending investigation of Pleyte, Haidet said, "The only thing I can say right now is, No comment. It would be unwise for me to say anything about it (the suspension)."

Mayrl said that he "is expecting the investigation into the alleged sexual harassment charges to be completed within the next 10 days."

Pleyte is a member of the Wisconsin-Milwaukee Athletic Hall of Fame. He is the all-time winningest coach in UWM volleyball history with a 14-year record of 544-223 through the 1991 season. Assistant coach Liz Kohli has been the interim coach of the 1-15 UWM Panthers.

Eastern plays host to UWM at 7 p.m. Friday at McAfee Gym.

Reid fills No. 1 slot for Eastern golfers

By JASON SWOPE
Staff writer

Eastern golfer Jamie Reid has stepped forward this season as the No. 1 player for head coach Paul Lueken's squad and Lueken said Reid brings to mind a former player which is arguably the top linkster to ever tee it up at Eastern.

Reid leads the Panther team in average with a 75 and has also posted the lowest tournament score for Eastern in every event - except the Eastern Invitational.

Reid, who transferred from Cartersville's John Logan Community College, recently won the Franklin College Golf Invitational at the Hillview Country Club (Indiana). Reid carded a 70 on the par-72 course. The business management major was tied with Jeff Harmon from Franklin after 18 holes. On the first hole of the sudden-death playoff Reid birdied and Harmon bogeyed, allowing Reid to capture medalist honors.

"I am real excited for Jamie," said Lueken, "it has been a while since we have had someone win a tournament."

Lueken compared Reid to Kevin Triefenbach, who has since moved on as an assistant professional at Hilton Head, S.C. Reid said he doesn't think the pressure of being No. 1 will affect his play. "When I am at the top I play better, I am more confident," he said.

Reid has been on a roll since the Southern Indiana Invitational where he shot a 74 - only three strokes off the winning pace.

"I knew ever since tryouts that he had potential but did not expect him to play this good so soon," Lueken said.

Reid agreed that at the beginning of the season he did not expect to be the No. 1 player; he said he just wanted to be in the top five.

Reid credits his play to long hours of practice during the summer. Lueken said he has high hopes for Reid for the rest of the season and next year. Lueken said he believes Reid has an excellent chance to win another tournament this season, including the upcoming Illinois State Invitational.

"We will see where he (Reid) stands at the next tournament, it has a good field of players," Lueken said.

Reid said he selected Eastern for two main reasons: "I chose Eastern because it has a good business school and I heard how much fun Eastern is," said the Marion High School graduate.

"One of the keys to the meeting was that no school had every part of the puzzle and being able to sit there and listen to everybody explain their scenarios, we were able to come up with a master list of areas where savings can possibly be made."

Ryan added that he does not believe another meeting among the schools will be necessary unless the cuts are made somewhere down the line.

Butler bounces Eastern in 3 straight

Eastern's Kim Traub, who was held in check by Butler Wednesday during the Lady Panthers' loss, bumps the ball in practice earlier this week.

By JOHN FERA
Staff writer

The Lady Panthers dropped three successive games 10-15, 6-15 and 9-15 to the Butler Bulldogs in non-conference volleyball action Wednesday.

"We had early leads in every game," said Eastern coach Betty Ralston. "They just out hit us to death. They (somehow found a way) to dig every hit we made. Butler was very aggressive but we did not play well at all."

The loss to the Bulldogs drops Eastern to 8-8 overall. The Lady Panthers remain alone in second place at 6-1 in Mid-Continent Conference play.

Eastern was led by Susie Green, who posted eight kills. Sherrie Piwowarczyk, who had been hobbled recently by a back injury, had one of her best performances of the season on Wednesday. The middle-hitter was second on the team with seven kills and she also added one solo block.

Mid-Con Player of the Week Kim Traub was held in check against the Bulldogs. Traub scored a mere four kills, 17 less than Eastern's previous contest against Illinois-Chicago. Traub did have two service aces and stuffed two solo blocks. Ralston said Butler certainly had Traub's number.

Junior setter Amy Van Eekeren piled up 16 assists and Shannon Casey raked in 12 assists.

Ralston was by no means happy with the Lady Panthers' performance against Butler.

"This team (Butler) is nowhere near as good as we made them look tonight," Ralston said. "Teams like De Paul and Western Illinois University are better than this team but they just out-performed us. It seemed as though they had our scouting report."

On Friday, Eastern will play host to the 1-15 Wisconsin-Milwaukee grey Panthers.

"We've been playing better as of late," said interim coach Liz Kohli. "I've been happy with our defense, especially making blocks."

Following Saturday's Homecoming football game, Eastern will play Wisconsin-Green Bay at McAfee Gym in a contest which starts at 7 p.m.

All tied up

Soccer team settles for 2-2 draw at WIU

By RYAN GIUSTI
Staff writer

They say a tie is like kissing your sister. But for the Eastern soccer team, Wednesday's 2-2 tie with Western Illinois was more like puckering up to a Bulldog.

The Panthers left for Macomb hoping to turn their season in the right direction against a struggling Western Illinois team. But a late second half goal by the Leathernecks resulted in a tie and sent the Panthers home with a bad taste in their mouths.

"We did not play a very good game at all," Eastern coach Cizo Mosnia said. "So if you're asking if we're consistent, we're not."

The Panthers, who play their next four games on the road, were hoping to start a mini-winning streak after beating Mid-Continent Conference rival Northern Illinois last Friday. With Wednesday's tie, Eastern moves to 2-4-2 overall and 2-0-1 in the conference. Mosnia said the tie would not totally derail the Panthers, but it did not help matters.

"We're still in the (conference) title hunt," Mosnia said. "But this was an important game to win."

The Leathernecks drew first blood on Eastern in the opening half. But the Panthers evened things up before halftime on senior tri-captain Jim Davidson's goal. Sophomore tri-captain Paul Agyeman registered the assist.

Eastern gained a 2-1 advantage with eight minutes left in the game off a penalty shot. Sophomore Ricky Tovar was tripped up inside the Western goal box and junior sweeperback Jim Harkness put in the penalty kick.

But things did not stay that way for long as the Leathernecks drew even with 4:24 left. Mosnia described the goal as one that could have been saved.

"It was a long shot and I don't know how it went in," Mosnia said. "The guy took a long bomb and I don't know where (Eastern goalie) John (Gouriotis) was, but I noticed him stumbling and the ball went in the net."

Things just did not go Eastern's way as Harkness later drew a red card from the referee. The Brother Rice High School product will have to sit out Eastern's next game at Wright State on Friday. He will be able to play Sunday at Cleveland State.

"The defense was breaking down and we were making silly mistakes," Mosnia said. "The players' minds, I don't think, were totally in the game and sometimes I wonder how they prepare themselves individually for the game because apparently they were not ready. It's frustrating."

Baines' homer lifts A's; Braves up 2-0

TORONTO (AP) — The Oakland Athletics always manage to do things with flair at the SkyDome, don't they? Even without Jose Canseco hitting rocket shots, the A's still won with plenty of power Wednesday night.

Mark McGwire and new Bash Brother Terry Steinbach hit consecutive home runs in the second inning, and Harold Baines led off the ninth with a drive into the second deck in right that gave the A's a 4-3 victory over the Toronto Blue Jays in Game 1 of the American League playoffs.

Jack Morris and Dave Winfield, the two free agents that Toronto signed in the winter to help them win in October, did their jobs.

Winfield, hounded by his horrible slump in the 1981 postseason, hit a solo home run in the sixth that made it 3-2, and doubled and scored the tying run in the eighth on John Olerud's two-out single.

Morris, whose last appearance in the postseason produced a 10-inning shutout in Game 7 of the World Series last year and earned him the MVP award, had not allowed a hit since the fourth inning before Baines connected.

Baines singled in his first two at-bats, then won it when he hit Morris' second pitch of the ninth inning into the stands.

Braves 13, Pirates 5

ATLANTA (AP) — Oh, what pitching. Atlanta has it all. Oh, what hitting. The Braves own that, too. The only oh for the • National League playoff notebook. Page 10.

Pittsburgh Pirates: 0-and-2.

Steve Avery on the left, John Smoltz on the right, 20-game winner Tom Glavine ahead of them. Everywhere the Pirates look, they see trouble. They're playing the best team in baseball, and they certainly look second-best to the Braves in the National League playoffs.

Pittsburgh finally ended 13 years without a big inning in postseason play, but the four meaningless runs in the seventh came after Atlanta was well on its way to a 13-5 victory Wednesday and a 2-0 lead in the best-of-7 series.

"The weight's on their shoulders now," Avery said. "They wanted to come in here and split and they didn't do it."

"We were embarrassed. We're in an uphill climb and it's not a good situation to be in," Pirates manager Jim Leyland said. "But I don't think anybody's pressing and you can throw out all the psychological stuff. What we need are some hits."

And soon. Only two of the 10 teams to trail 2-0 in the NL playoffs have rallied to win the series, and the Pirates give no sign they'll be the third to do it.

"We've been getting our heads beat in and we've got a headache," said Andy Van Slyke.

College ADs meet to discuss impending budget changes

Athletic director's across the state are preparing for the worst.

Eastern's AD Mike Ryan initiated a meeting between Eastern Illinois and seven other state universities Wednesday to discuss the recommendations by the Illinois Board of Higher Education to phase out state funds for intercollegiate athletics.

Ryan and ADs from Chicago State, Northeastern, Sangamon

State, Illinois State, Southern Illinois-Edwardsville and Western Illinois and the assistant AD from Southern Illinois-Carbondale discussed different scenarios that each school is faced with.

"I think all of us went into the meeting taking a look at what we could share with each other if the worst scenario comes about, which is 100 percent cuts," Ryan said. "I think all of the institutions would agree that the meeting was very productive and we came up with some excellent starting points."

Ryan said the universities met for a solid four hours talking about all of the possible situations that could happen if the funds are cut.

Eastern Illinois' coaches and administration will be the one's who suffer the most if the cuts are made, since a majority of their salaries are paid by state funds.

"The meeting was beneficial from the standpoint that we
