RHA to discuss open house poll results Thursday

By Geri Duncan

Results of the survey to be used to help determine which dorm will receive round-the-clock visitation will be presented at the Residence Hall Association (RHA) meeting Thursday.

RHA members will meet in the Carman Hall food service for dinner at 5 p.m., Dan Mizer, RHA president, said.

The survey, which asks the question, "Would you be in favor of your hall having the option to have open house 24 hours seven days a week retaining quiet hours," was taken this week in all of the halls except Lawson, Stevenson and Thomas. Thomas and Stevenson already voted to accept round-the-clock visitation and Lawson Hall rejected the option earlier this semester.

The RHA decided last week to use the one-question survey after it was pointed out that the original eight-question survey was "out dated" and could be answered accurately only by juniors and seniors.

Mizer said an RHA committee met with the Housing Office staff Tuesday and discussed each hall individually to see if they could foresee any problems in any of the halls having the option.

But, Mizer said, they did not select any hall to have the option.

He also said another meeting will be held Tuesday with the RHA committee, the Housing office staff and any hall counselors with comments concerning their hall receiving the option.

At the meeting Tuesday a third hall will be chosen to vote on round-the-clock visitation with the decision based on survey percentages, dorm director comments and the decision of the RHA committee and Housing Office staff.

Lawyers plan cases against Hearst, SLA

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Prosecutors with potential Symbionese Liberation Army cases gather here today for their second "summit meeting," and Patty Hearst's name is likely to dominate their talks.

The meeting, the second within a week, was initially planned as an evidence-and-idea-sharing session to follow determination of Hearst's mental competence in her federal case here.

But a federal judge put off that decision Tuesday, postponing her competence hearing to allow more examinations.

Hearst's attorney said she should not be cross-examined at her bail hearing. She is being held without bail on a federal bank robbery charge.

Attorney Albert Johnson has described the 21-year-old jailed heiress as mentally deteriorating.

"Her emotional and mental condition is such that she could not give reasonable answers," he said.

Today's "SLA summit" is likely to concern the impact of delays in Hearst's federal case on potential prosecutions on state charges. She faces charges in Los Angeles and has been mentioned as a target of investigations into two Sacramento bank robberies, including one in which a woman was killed.

SLA members William and Emily Harris, arrested with Hearst Sept. 18, were indicted with her in Los Angeles and are reported to be suspects in other cases, including the Sacramento robberies.

"This was planned as a gathering of all the jurisdictions who have interest in discovery of evidence from the two houses," said Deputy Dist. Atty. Sam Mayerson of Los Angeles, referring to the last hideouts of Hearst and the Harrises.

Mayerson, who will prosecute the Harrises and Hearst on kidnapping, robbery and assault charges, said he and other prosecutors hope the FBI will show them some evidence they have not seen before.

"I hope it will be new or I'll be making a trip for nothing," he said. "I understand that it will be new."

Meanwhile, Johnson said he would oppose Miss Hearst's immediate transfer to Los Angeles for arraignment on the state charges. Mayerson indicated he would not press for the move before her mental condition is determined.

U.S. District Court Judge Oliver J. Carter set Oct. 22 as a tentative date for the next hearing for Hearst. By then, three court-appointed psychiatrists are expected to have finished work on their final reports to the judge.

Campus offices to be open at noon if students desire

By Carl Green

Representatives of several Eastern administrative offices said Tuesday their offices would remain open during the noon hour if students indicated a need.

Because most administrative offices on campus close during the noon hour, students with full schedules may find it difficult to accomplish their university business during the normal course of a day.

"I think you could find some situations where it could be a problem but it would be like driving a tack with a sledgehammer," Samuel Taber, dean of student academic services, said Wednesday.

Most of the students in those situations are concentrated in the Music Department, where many students carry a class load which leaves them free only during the lunch hour.

"They should stay open because we don't have time to go. Every time we go there, they're closed. It never fails," Sherrie Harris, a music major, said Wednesday.

All of the approximately 20 students surveyed at the Fine Arts Building avored opening the offices.

The reason for the long hours of the music majors is the nature of their courses, which often require four hours a week attendance for one hour of credit.

"If you compare the hours of music majors with the hours of other students, you'll find that they don't have as much time, one music major said.

However, both Taber and Glenn Williams, vice president for student affairs, said they have not received a significant number of complaints in their offices from the students affected.

"Someone would have to show me that there is a need. I haven't had anybody here tell me they needed to have the offices open," Taber said.

University offices which presently remain open during the noon hour are the Housing Office, the Security Office, the Health Service and, temporarily, the Admissions Office.

Among the offices which are closed during the lunch hour are Clinical Testing, Financial Aids, Accounting, Records, Registration, Affirmative Action, Placement, Student Personnel Services and Veteran's Services.

A few administrators in charge of offices which close at noon expressed willingness to change their system if a need exists.

"We were open for a short period last spring, but if there is a need we'd be glad to keep the office open," Jay Knott, in charge of the Placement Office, said.

Marion Zane, director of the Business Office said "Yes, we could schedule staggered lunch hours or keep our (cashiers) window open, which is where we get most of our business."

Blood drive 78 pints from goal

By Geri Duncan

On the final day of Eastern's fall blood drive only 78 pints will be needed to meet the 1,000 pint goal which has been set for this year's drive.

At the close of Wednesday's drive 317 pints of blood were collected bringing the total for the first three days to 922 pints.

Approximately 40 people were assigned to donate blood Wednesday but could not donate because the doors closed a half-hour earlier than scheduled time, Margaret Lowell, floor chairman, Red Cross Volunteers, said Wednesday.

The doors closed early "because about 65 people were already waiting in line to donate and we didn't want the donors to wait for such a long period of time,"

Lowell said.

She also said, "The nurses try to do their best to make the donors as comfortable as possible and after 5 hours of work, they felt the 65 donors already in the room were all they could handle with efficiency."

Bob Good, co-chairperson of the drive, said on behalf of the Red Cross staff, "We apologize for not being able to fulfill all the appointments, and all of the donors who had appointments after 3:45 p.m. are asked to come back Thursday which is a walk-in day."

Thursday will be the last day of the drive and Lowell said he expects the drive to reach 1,200 pints.

Senate : Student alternates to CAA would 'assure student input'

By Sandy Pietrzak

A proposal to appoint student alternates to the Council on Academic Affairs (CAA) in the absence of regular student members is one of the items to be discussed Thursday.

The meeting will be held at 2 p.m. in the Union addition Tuscola room.

The alternate student system, proposed by the Student Senate and submitted by Bill Scaggs, speaker of the senate, would permit a student to be appointed to the council and also secure voting rights in the absence of the regular student member.

This would help assure student input on the CAA, according to senate reasoning.

Also to be discussed is the suggested change of the limitation on credits earned during the senior year in high school proposed by W.A. Butler, Physics Department chairperson.

Currently, students who have completed their junior year of high school, have 12 acceptable units, rank in the upper 25 per cent of their class and who have the recommendation of their principal can apply to enroll in courses at Eastern.

However, students cannot apply to take more than six semester hours during the summer term preceding their senior year in high school and not more than three semester hours in a regular semester during their regular senior year in high school.

Butler said, in the proposal, that the three semester hour maximum would bar a senior's choice of several courses in the areas of art, botany, foreign languages, political science and others.

He suggested that the catalog statement be changed to read that eligible high school students be allowed to take not more than four semester hours during their senior year in high school.

No energy compromise reached; Senate votes 55-45 against plan

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Senate refused by a 10-vote margin Wednesday to accept a compromise energy plan that would raise natural gas prices in exchange for a rollback of domestic oil rates.

The 55-45 vote against the proposal indicated that Democrats and Republicans still are far apart in their efforts to write a long-range energy policy.

And the defeat raised questions about whether Congress will be able to avert a severe natural gas shortage forecast in 14 states this winter.

Rejection of the amendment, sponsored by Sen. Adlai E. Stevenson III,

D-III., came minutes after the Senate, on a 54-45 vote, defeated a liberal attempt to break up the nation's largest oil and gas companies into firms with an interest in only one segment of the petroleum industry.

The Stevenson amendment would have continued federal price controls on oil and natural gas for five years to protect consumers against sharp price increases.

But, sponsors said, the price formula would have assured the industry a 14 per cent return on investment, which economists say is an adequate incentive for increased production.

City decides to repair Division Street bridge

By Mark Wisser

The Charleston City Council decided at its meeting Tuesday night to repair rather than replace the Division Street Bridge.

The bridge has been closed since August after four engineers ruled it unsafe because of structural failure by two support beams.

During the remarks portion of Tuesday night's meeting, commissioner John Winnett questioned the need for closing the bridge at all and referred to a picture in a local newspaper showing a truck on top of the structure.

Winnett said he stood under the bridge while a truck was on top of it and he felt completely safe.

At an earlier meeting, he said he'd feel safe driving a 50-ton tank across the bridge.

Tuesday night he said he'd feel safe standing on the bridge with two 30-ton cement trucks and proposed the bridge be opened for at least car traffic.

City attorney Tony Sunderman advised against Winnett's idea because he said the city could be held liable if the bridge collapsed and anyone was injured.

Without a vote, but by general consensus, the council instructed city engineer Ed Buxton to seek state approval for a repair plan.

The repair will include the installation of a new pre-cast deck for the bridge and replacing the sidewalks on both sides.

Buxton said the metal deck would alleviate the need for new support beams because the pre-cast deck is designed to act as its own support.

Buxton said the decision to repair rather than replace the bridge would save the city around $30,000 and a great deal of time.

He said the building of a new bridge would have to be approved by the whole state bureaucracy, which takes a great deal of time, while a repair plan needs approval of only one department.

In order to save additional money, the council decided to have city employees do as much of the work as possible and only bid out building supplies.

Work on the project is expected to begin this month.

AB to hear 7 budget request Thursday

By Joe Natale

Seven student-activity fee supported organizations Thursday will request a total of more than $74,000 from Eastern's Apportionment Board (AB).

The AB will meet at 4 p.m. in the Union addition Student Government conference room.

Financial Vice President Larry Hart said the AB has $41,190 available to allocate to the organizations and will make its decision on how much each organization will get at a later meeting.

The Performing and Visual Arts Board will request $29,000 for band uniforms, $1,500 to $1,800 for sound equipment and $4,000 for display cases.

The Student Senate will request $600, which will be used for the printing of student evaluation of instruction.

The campus radio station, WELH, will ask for $8,300 for staff salaries, equipment and public relations.

The Intercollegiate Athletic Board (IAB) will request $3,000 to make up a deficit in the IAB budget which had accumulated prior to 1974.

Also, the IAB will request $10,000 to cover the cost of post season expenses for soccer, baseball, track and other sports.

The Sports and Recreation Board will ask for $9,600 for equipment and to pay a graduate assistant who would help supervise women's physical education.

The Communication-Media Board will request $1,785 for printing an extra 500 copies of the Eastern News per day. The News' current press run is 8,000, but the request will be made to cover Eastern's increased enrollment.

The Publication Board will request $830 for equipment needed to produce Eastern's yearbook, the Warbler.

Editorial

Write your legislator to keep tuition down

One recommendation included in the Board of Higher Education's (BHE) Master Plan Phase IV is that students at colleges and universities pay one-third of instructional costs through tuition.

This, of course, would necessitate an increase in tuition.

Right now, students pay about 30 percent of the cost of instruction. If they were required to pay the whole 33.3 percent, the cost of tuition at Eastern would go up about $70 a year and about $50 around the state for undergraduate. The cost for graduates would go up even more.

Fortunately for the students of the state's institutions of higher learning, some members of the BHE are against a tuition increase.

George Howard put it best when he said that tuition should not be increased because it was one cost the board could control while inflation caused "everything that affects the students to go up."

Some students, trying to make it on their own, would feel the pinch of the increase more than those who are still getting support from their parents.

If they are socked with an extra $50-$70 in tuition it just might keep them out of college despite the fact that board member James Unland said "$50 per year is not going to keep a young man or woman from going to college."

It may not be a lot of money to Unland, but to young persons trying to make it on their own, it could make a definite difference. In fact, to some it would make the difference of having college or high school education.

Some of the board members who felt tuition should be raised said they felt that way because "if a student does not pay the extra cost (in instructional costs), someone is going to have to," Chairperson Donald Prince said. The poor people are going to have an increase in sales tax."

It is better to have this type of increase borne by the general public rather than putting the cost squarely on the students because a college educated person benefits society as a whole by making more in taxable income.

World government would not prevent threat of global warfare

War has become too deadly.

In World War I 39 million people were killed; in World War II, 5 million. Now nations make weapons that can destroy all life on earth. Each small war fought with conventional weapons could erupt into a global war fought with nuclear weapons. Yet wars continue.

Can war be prevented?

Many people feel that to prevent war there must be an effective international organization where nations can settle their disputes. But there are differing opinions on what form such an organization should take.

Most supporters of an international organization feel that the only practical form is a voluntary organization of independent nations, such as the United Nations.

There are those, however, who believe that only a world government that has control of weapons and the power to put down aggression that can keep the peace.

Although no method has yet been devised to prevent war, nations have found many ways to work together. Since the nineteenth century, governments have cooperated in such matters as health, communications, commerce, technical information and relief, which are dedicated to international in sports, science, commerce, and many other fields.

In fact, some people feel world peace may eventually come from increasing cooperation between people and governments in nonpolitical matters such as these. But the problem of war has yet to be solved and perhaps world government is the way to solve it.

It can be argued that if world government is a longway off, then permanent peace is just exactly that same distance away. I do not believe that world government is distant, ultimate objectives.

Vernon Nash, author of "Yes, But" believes that it can be won swiftly since the alternative is a new and blackier Dark Age of unrestrained savagery and barbarism.

The actual extermination of our species is a very real possibility. Survival may soon be more to be feared than death.

Most people who think less of a world state seem to think that it would be run by super-power states. But they, of course would have a very minor voice in the character of legislation. They would be the natural target of all other nations for taxation and all kinds of economic discrimination.

These controversies which arise would almost certainly produce hundred disputes which could easily lead to war. Robert Taft, author of "A Foreign Policy for Americans," argues that world government is dangerous and impractical and cannot conceive of a responsible statesman willing to subject the great principles that have been developed in this world to destruction by other nations in world legislature.

A world state might bring peace for the moment, but it would be peace of dictatorship and in a few years would plunge us again into world-wide war.

'Person' sexless term but if women want it, let them have it

If you are an avid reader of the Eastern News, you should have noticed by now that instead of calling someone a chairman or chairwoman of a committee, the News' style is to use the term chairperson.

The use of "person" has been more common in light of the women's liberation movement, but it seems that tacking the word at the end of "chair" is only the beginning of a trend.

It seems the word person takes the sex out of everything. If women are so proud of their sex, why not call themselves a "chairwoman" instead of a chairperson?

But if a woman wants to be called a person, that's her prerogative, but they may insist on a few other moderate changes in our vocabulary to keep the use of the word "person" consistent. It is conceivable that females may insist on the use of the word person wherever the words man and woman are now used.

Joe Natale

In a few years, instead of having the words "Men's" or "Womens" on the restroom doors, the word "Person" will be used.

This could cause problems. Who ever has to use the facilities will have to pause a moment before taking his or hers excuse me, I should have used person chances.

Another change in a student's vocabulary will concern his—I mean—the person's class status. A student will either be a senior, junior, sophomore or freshman.

The news media will also have to use the word person even more than they do now.

While reporting the capture of Patti Hearst, the media reported that the search for Ms. (how about that, Libbers?) Hearst, was the greatest manhunt in the nation's history. To conform with style, it would have been more appropriate to say that it was the greatest personhunt in America's history.

Really, I don't care if a woman wants to be called a person or not. If they want to be persons, then that's fine with me. Since the feminist movement is probably here to stay, we must learn to accept it.

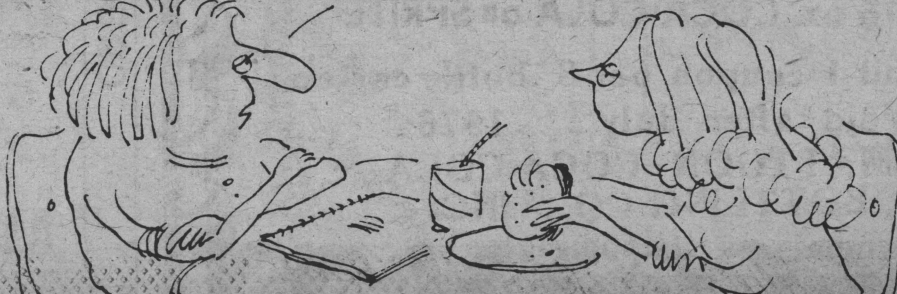

With Eastern's increased enrollment, no doubt there are more females on campus than ever before. In fact, there are 4,625 females attending Eastern this fall and we should make their stay here as pleasant as possible, even if it means calling them persons. But, I'll tell you this, there are 4,625 good looking persons on campus this semester.

Letters

Gays not sickies but only people who have different preferences

I have read the letters to the editor on the subject of the gay population and I have something that needs to be said and it's time someone did.

There is a serious problem here at Eastern, for that matter, in the U.S., a disbelief of what gay really is.

For those who think that those freaks are dirty, sick fags, I ask are you including Tschaikovsky,

Symphony memorable

I would like to express my appreciation to those individuals who made the environment for the Chicago Symphony and the Bob Hope Show possible. Cary Knoop, Garrent DeRuiter and Susan Braun of the Art faculty contributed a considerable amount of time and energy to the project along with Art students Calvin McFarlane, James Haire, Dorothy Dunkirk and Harold Hinz. Their efforts made both events memorable ones.

Carl Wilen

Michelangelo, Da Vinci, Shakespeare, Hemingway and thousands of others on your list of "sickies." Oh, by the way, consider including your moms and dads.

It's time that closed-minded people open their eyes. The gay world has much to offer those who need true love, and does not offer an evening of plastic faces who pretend that they're masculine enough or feminine enough. These are people who love each other for what they have to give.

If you can't understand this, then please try to realize that love is a word of many meanings and what may be love and beautiful to you may be wrong and ugly to someone else.

The gay people on this campus are one of many, I too estimate a population of 900 gays on this campus. I am gay, and unless you have faced the world as I have, alone, afraid and ashamed, you can't see the cruel pain afflicted on those who have simply chosen a preference.

Should those who choose to drink tea as opposed to coffee be persecuted because of their preference? It's a matter of taste.

Let me also say, I thank many people, including God, that I've realized that I'm beautiful, smart and normal and one of the many in this world that suffer oppression. And now that you've read this, go out and wonder who wrote it, because I'm in the halls, the quads, at the Union and I'm one out of every ten people you pass on this campus.

Phone directories to be distributed

Student, staff and faculty phone directories may be distributed near the first of November.

The directories, which are usually distributed to students through the Housing Office, will be printed by the Directory Company in Lubbock, Tex., Harry Read, director of information and publications, said Tuesday.

Printouts of the listings were sent to the company Oct. 2.

He said that normal printing time is about 15 days after receipt of copy.

However, since the books are then shipped by truck, delays often result, Read said.

The company sells advertising to pay for printing costs of the 5,000 directories, which are printed at no cost to the university.

Senate to discuss UB plan

Changes in the University Board's (UB) executive officers' term of office will be discussed at Thursday's Student Senate meeting, Student Body President Mick Chizmar said Wednesday.

The senate will meet at 8 p.m. in the Union Addition Tuscola-Arcola Room.

A motion made at last week's Student Senate meeting would change the first day of the term of office for the UB secretary-treasurer, chairperson, vice-chairperson and coordinator to March 1. Currently, the term for those offices begins April 12.

Randy Kob, UB chairperson, said Monday that the UB is seeking the changes because the earlier date would allow newly-elected officers to better adjust to duties before school lets out in May.

If the senate approves the proposal, it would take affect after the UB's Dec. 10 executive officer election.

Chizmar said that since the motion concerning the UB executive elections was introduced last week, the senate will Thursday have to approve it, reject it or send it to a committee for further study.

'Saturday Morning' to be shown at Buzzard

The multi-award winning film "Saturday Morning," will be shown in the Buzzard Education Building auditorium at 4 and 7 p.m. Thursday.

The movie is based on a week-long encounter session between several adolescents, Glenn Hubely of the Educational Psychology Department said, and is a "good experience for people to know about encounters."

These encounters include sex, interaction about parents, love and intimacy, within a framework of a retreat setting where several adolescents get together to find out more about themselves.

IUD death rate lower than pill

CHICAGO (AP) — The death rate associated with the use of intrauterine contraceptive devices is lower than that associated with contraceptive pills, the Journal of the American Medical Association reported.

However, the hospitalization rate associated with intrauterine devices is higher, the publication said.

A nationwide sample of doctors made by the Center for Disease Control in Atlanta showed that five women died and 7,862 were estimated to have been hospitalized because of problems with the use of the IUD.

The survey was made during the first half of 1973 when an estimated 3.2 million women in the United States and Puerto Rico were wearing IUDs.

The projected hospitalization rate from IUD complications was 0.7 to 7.0 per 1,000 women-years of use.

Cross country squad jaunts to ND Invite

By Glenn Lyle

Eastern's cross country team will be put to a stern test when they travel to South Bend, Ind. for the prestigious Notre Dame Invitational Friday. Race time for the event is 2 p.m.

Approximately thirty teams will participate in the meet, Panther head coach Tom Woodall said.

Included in the field are defending Big Ten champion Michigan, Michigan State, Wisconsin, Bowling Green, Purdue, Eastern Michigan, Miami of Ohio, Indiana, and NCAA Division II power Edinboro State.

Woodall said that because of the large number of Division I schools entered,

"the level of competition is far more difficult than the Division II Nationals."

"In the four or five times we've run in the meet we've only placed in the top ten once," he said.

That finish was in 1973, the last year the Panthers participated in the coveted event.

Led by the 30th and 34th place finishes of Ken Burke and Mike Larson respectively, the Panthers took sixth behind the eventual winner Wisconsin.

Larson will be back to improve his 1973 finish, but Burke is recovering from a stomach disorder and will not be able to compete.

Woodall said he figures that placing in the top 15 would not be a bad showing for the Panthers, although he does not know just what to expect from the other team participating.

He added, "Of course we would like to do better."

Woodall said, "A large meet of this nature is helpful. It exposes us to real top level competition."

"John Christy and Mike Larson are the only ones who have run in a big meet for us," he said noting that duals and multi-team meets are far different.

He added that the experience would be helpful in preparing for the state tournament, which will be held at Eastern on Oct. 25.

The strong field will also help the Panther's premier runner Larson.

"The meet will give Larson, a senior, the opportunity to test himself against some of the best runners in the country,"

Cross country's premier runner Mike Larson (second from left) leads his harrier teammates in practice. Larson will also be leading the Panther cause this Friday in the Notre Dame Invitational.

Woodall cited.

Barring injuries, Woodall plans to run Larson, Christy, Paul Weilmunster, Paco

Morea, Casey Reinking, Ken Englert, and Mark McCabe, with Bert Meyers and Neil Haseman as alternates.

JV harriers trek north to Parkland

By Glenn Lyle

Harriers on Eastern's junior varsity will be given the opportunity to demonstrate the depth of the Panther cross country squad when they run in the 15 team Parkland Invitational Saturday in Champaign.

The long distance race will be run at Parkland Junior College at 11:30 a.m.

Coach Tom Woodall said he will be sending two squads to represent Eastern "in order to give them some race experience."

He said he expects both Panther squads to do well because the field will be mostly junior college and small college runners.

Woodall said the University of Illinois junior varsity squad would be present at the meet and that they have a strong team.

Another strong team at the Invitational will be Lincolnland Junior College, which Woodall calls "one of the strongest Junior colleges in the midwest."

Expected to compete for Eastern are Bill Bandy, Bill Fancher, Joe Sexton, Bill James, Harold Seifert, John McInerny, and Dave Van Vooren.

Also Keith Gooden, Gary Richman, Rod Roth, Rusty Janota, Tom Lowrey, Joe Klein, and Duncan McHugh will be running for the Panthers.

Ice hockey club preparing for season

Following four sessions of practice in the Lantz fieldhouse, the Eastern hockey club will finally take to the ice in a practice at p.m. Tuesday in Springfield.

The club, which is independent and not affiliated with the athletic department, has a "basically new" lineup, coach Pat Fairbanks said.

He said that there have been "around 25" people who have attended the indoor workouts and from what he has seen, Fairbanks said he expects this year's team to be "physically stronger."

He said he could not tell how talented the players are because he has not seen most of them on the ice.

Many of the players, Fairbanks said, have told him they have had ice experience, but as to how much will remain to be seen when they take to the ice.

Fairbanks remarked that the men have been attending the practices have "been working real hard and know what they have to do."

A factor which he noted to be different this year than last, he said, was that this year the team is "more spirited and aggressive."

"Last year we fell apart at the halfway point of the season."

For the first time, the hockey club will be in a league which will consist of 10 college teams.

Fairbanks said there are two divisions in the league with Eastern's division having four teams and the other division fielding six teams.

Also in Eastern's division will be Western, who Fairbanks noted to be a "good team" as well as Bradley, Eastern's "biggest rival," and Northeastern Illinois.

Fairbanks noted that this year's home games will be played in Springfield at a new park district rink.

Eastern hosts first IAAW tennis tournament the two days of competition.

Green said that the matches would be moved to the Lantz Fieldhouse in the event of rain.

If the matches had to be held indoors, Green said that they would be run continuously through the evening and cited that they might not end until late Saturday night.

All singles events on Friday will be played on the Weller and Carman courts, with all of the doubles matches being held on the Lantz and Stevenson courts.

On Saturday the semi-finals of both the singles and doubles competition will begin at 9 a.m. on the Weller courts.

Green said she expects the second and third positions of the singles to be decided by about 1 p.m. Saturday, followed immediately by the doubles finals and then the singles finals.

Trophies will be awarded for the top three teams along with medallions for the first place finishers and ribbons for the second and third spots.

As far as the competition, Green said, "I don't know who is favored," adding that she has never seen eight of the clubs that are entered.

She cited Northern and Western, who finished second and third in the doubles competition at the Millikin Invitational last week, the University of Illinois, Northwestern, Harper Junior College and Wheaton College as all having strong squads.

She said she expects a lot of good teams from up around the Chicago area.

As far as Eastern was concerned, Green said she was not sure how well the Panthers would do.

Eastern, who has not been defeated in their last three matches, is currently holding a 2-3-1 record.

They had an excellent outing at the Millikin tournament and recently whitewashed Indiana State 9-0, who finished third in their own state tournament.

Green will be sending six of her players into the tournament, which is the most one team can enter.

Kathy Holmes and Sue Field will be battling in the singles competition, while Sue Nyberg, Deb Doll, Kay Metzger and Mary Stupek will represent Eastern in the doubles competition.

IM harriers begin workouts

Anyone interested in participating in intramural cross country should report to the attendant, identified with a striped shirt, between 4 p.m. and 5 p.m. Monday through Friday from Thursday until Oct. 21.

The attendant will be stationed at the shotput pad south of O'Brien Field.

Four certified workouts are required to allow runners to compete in the two-mile race Oct. 23.

Gymnastics meeting set

A mandatory meeting for all those interested in participating in the Eastern gymnastics club should attend a meeting at 6:30 p.m. Thursday in the Lantz gymnastics gym.

Officers will be elected and club activities will be discussed.
