Eastern clerical workers hesitant about unionizing

By Jan Genis

Although several Eastern members of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees said they believe the union is beneficial, a civil service representative said some clerical workers are hesitant about joining the union because of past experiences with it.

Sandra Timmons, president of Eastern's Civil Service Council, said the clerical workers were affiliated with AFSCME in the early 1970s but "pulled out."

"The clerical workers pulled out of the union in the fall of 1973 because we felt we were not being fully represented by AFSCME," Timmons said.

"That was the time when the maintenance employees' pay had advanced over the clerical workers pay," she added.

Timmons said AFSCME's explanation for not negotiating for higher pay for clerical workers was that they did not have enough active members in the union.

"But that isn't true. We had a lot of active people in the union," Timmons said.

Timmons said she thinks this "bad experience" could partly be the reason for some clerical employees' hesitation about joining AFSCME.

"We were unionized before and it didn't work," Timmons said.

"I've also done a lot of thinking and studying these past two weeks and I am convinced that we can make as much, if not more, progress by not rejoining a union," she said.

However, several AFSCME-affiliated employees said they feel the union is beneficial and would suggest that clerical staff workers unionize.

John Krajefski, Charleston AFSCME Local 981 president and building service worker, said he thinks the clerical workers should unionize because of "obvious" beneficial reasons.

"An obvious benefit of the union is that it provides an organized voice in negotiating for wages," Krajefski said.

"It also provides a better grievance procedure," he said.

According to Eastern's non-unionized grievance procedure, complaints may be taken only as far as Eastern President Daniel E. Marvin, Krajefski said.

However, Krajefski said, "the union's procedure allows members to voice their opinion to a BOG (Board of Governors) member or even as far as a federal arbitrator."

Rick Stewart, former Eastern's AFSCME president and building service worker, also said he thinks the union is helpful.

"The union is by far beneficial. It's the grass roots to democracy," Stewart said.

Harold Starwalt, local union executive committee member and building service worker, said he favors

Thompson proposes new record tax boost

SPRINGFIELD (AP)—Gov. James R. Thompson, long a foe of "taxing our way out of recession," surrendered Tuesday to the forces of the economy and proposed a record $2 billion tax increase built on a 60 percent boost in the state's take of individual income.

Thompson said the money was needed to end what he has called "the worst financial crisis in the history of Illinois" and to avoid deep budget cuts over the next year.

In his State of the State message to a joint session of the General Assembly, Thompson also asked for a 40 percent hike in the levy on corporate income, plus increases in the gasoline tax, vehicle license fees and the liquor tax.

The package would cost the typical family of four with an annual income of $22,500 about $350 more each year in state taxes.

It would represent the first general tax increase since the income tax was imposed in 1969.

"For fourteen years, this state has gotten by—sometimes well and sometimes not so well—without any increase in statewide taxes," Thompson said in his prepared speech.

"But the same cruel recession which has been punishing so many of our citizens has taken its toll on the ability of your state government to maintain a standard of decency in the delivery of some human services," Thompson said.

The governor added that the recession also threatened "a standard of excellence in the delivery of needed skills and learning to our people through education; and a standard of achievement of new and diverse economic development."

The Republican governor said there was no other way out of financial bind which has drained Illinois' treasury—and those of most other states.

"Though we have labored hard for six years to carefully manage the affairs of this state...it is my duty to tell you, my fellow citizens, that I believe that we can no longer save and cut, stretch and borrow, nor put off until tomorrow the pressing needs today."

He continued: "I believe this program to be right, to be sound and to be necessary. I will fight for it throughout Illinois."

"Upon this, the future of our great state and its people depend," he said.

Thompson recently ordered $159 million in budget cuts to help make up a $600 million difference between budgeted spending from the treasury's General Fund and actual tax collections in the fiscal year that started last July 1.

But the Illinois Supreme Court on Monday temporarily blocked $55 million of those cuts, from medical services to the poor, while it decides a suit challenging their constitutionality.

Another $140 million of the budget gap was closed previously through cuts, borrowing from other treasury accounts and accelerating up the collection of utility taxes.

Thompson has said he will handle the remaining $300 million "problem" with further cuts, short-term borrowing from commercial banks and drawing on the treasury reserve. That action, he has said, will keep Illinois solvent in the fiscal year ending June 30—but that more money is needed next year.

"The tax plan is no greater than what is needed to restore services and provide money for some new programs," said Robert Mandeville, Thompson's budget director.

Reactions vary on impact study results

by Gene O'Shea

Local merchants' reactions to a recent study which found that Eastern students, faculty and staff generated over $108 million in revenue for the cities of Charleston and Mattoon were mixed Tuesday.

The report was requested by Eastern President Daniel E. Marvin, was conducted by Eastern management and marketing instructor Robert Meier.

The study, based on sales and population figures from 1981, found that Eastern students make up 47.3 percent of Charleston's population, while faculty and staff comprise 6.1 percent.

Martin Owens of the Charleston Area Chamber of Commerce said the study confirmed "that Eastern is a large market."

"We've got one whale of a quality industry here," Owens said.

Owens also said he believed the survey was accurate.

"I have great confidence in the study," Owens said.

But Kathleen Downs, manager of Ruthie's, 401 Lincoln Ave., questioned the accuracy of the study.

"I wonder how accurate it is. It's such a broad thing," Downs said.

She added, "We're such a small part of the retail establishment, I don't think it (the survey) will have any impact on us."

Ira Barrett, owner of Tokens, 407b Lincoln Ave., said he had no reaction to the survey's information.

"What do you want me to do? Jump up and down?" Barrett said.

However, Barrett said the majority of his business was generated by students.

Tanya Wood, owner of the Lincoln Book Shop, 1148 Sixth St., said, "I'm pleased to hear they (students, faculty and staff) generate all that money."

Wood added that Charleston is not "fertile soil" for a commercial book store.

"I've worked myself into a pretzel trying to attract students," she said.

However, Al Martinez, owner of Short Stop, 667 Lincoln Ave., said he was "tickled pink" to learn Eastern generated a large amount of business.

"I really appreciate it," Martinez said. "We definitely go for the student crowd."

Martinez said 60 percent of his business is generated by students.

Bob Kincaid, owner of What's Cookin', 250 Lincoln Ave., said, "I think it's great they spend that much money."

"We get a pretty good share of business," he said. "I was a little surprised that visitors didn't spend more money, though." The study stated that students' visitors spent $230,622 in the two cities during 1981.

Kincaid added that students comprise 5 to 10 percent of his business, although the bulk of his customers is made up of faculty and staff.

"When school's out our business drops about 20 percent," he said.

Dale Usinger, manager of Eisner Food Store, 612 W. Lincoln Ave., said Eisner's would not make any changes in operation because of the study results.

Usinger also said that during the summer when the student population declines sales totals drop significantly.

"It's supply and demand," Usinger said. "We keep the merchandise fresher and fuller and order more (during the regular school year). We try to cater to needs the best we can."

Defense tries to blunt testimony

CHICAGO—Defense attorneys on Tuesday tried to blunt a mob informant's testimony that Joseph Lombardo, facing sentencing in a Teamsters bribery conviction, was a leader in Chicago organized crime.

Frank Oliver, attorney for Lombardo, grilled James "Jimmy the Weasel" Fratianno in his second day on the stand during sentencing hearings before U.S. District Judge Prentice H. Marshall.

But Fratianno reiterated that Lombardo was a capo, or group leader over lower-ranking crime figures, in the mob.

Repression of rights continues

WASHINGTON—The State Department said Tuesday political repression around the world continued on a broad scale in 1982, with a number of nondemocratic governments—both friendly and unfriendly—routinely denying the most fundamental human freedoms.

In its annual report on the state of human rights around the world, the department assessed 162 countries in 1,323 pages and concluded there was virtually no change in rights protection in most countries and only marginal shifts in others.

Movie inspires youth's last wish

KILGORE, Texas—Fifteen-year-old Anthony Pennington was so moved by a television movie last week that he told his brother he wanted to donate his organs when he died to help others live.

The youth was struck and fatally injured by a pickup truck as he rode his bicycle on a highway near this East Texas town Sunday evening.

By Tuesday, his last wish had helped five patients in three cities.

Israeli panel asks for dismissal

JERUSALEM (AP)—An Israeli judicial commission on the Beirut massacre called for the ouster of Defense Minister Ariel Sharon on Tuesday, accusing him of "blunders" that set the stage for the slaughter of Palestinians.

The panel's explosive report, which also rebuked Prime Minister Menachem Begin, rocked Israel's political structure and touched off speculation about early elections—at a time when U.S. pressure is mounting for new Israeli concessions toward a Middle East peace.

Begin and his Cabinet met for two hours Tuesday without a decision on Sharon's status, and scheduled another meeting for Wednesday.

The three-man commission of inquiry said Israeli leaders should have foreseen that allowing Lebanese militiamen into two Beirut refugee camps last September was an invitation to tragedy. Hundreds of Palestinians were subsequently slain by the militiamen. An official Lebanese investigation has yet to bring any of the killers to justice.

"No prophetic powers were required to know that concrete danger of acts of slaughter existed," said the commission report.

It also called for the resignation of the head of Israel's military intelligence and condemned the military chief of staff. It accused Begin of showing "indifference" to the threat of a massacre in Beirut, but recommended no action against him.

Israel radio broadcast reports that Sharon was refusing to quit or accept an alternative Cabinet post. But a Cabinet source said almost all the 20 ministers, including Sharon, favored endorsing the findings.

Trucking percentage increases

(AP)—Truck traffic in Illinois appeared to be at a near-normal pace on Tuesday, the ninth day of the independent truckers strike, and for the first time no violence was reported for a 24-hour period.

Cpl. Bill Schmitt of the Tollway state police headquarters in Oak Brook said truck travel over the 122-mile system in the last 24 hours was running close to 100 percent of normal during the day and 75 percent at night.

At state police headquarters in Springfield, Sgt. Adrion Cross said, "For the first time in 24 hours there has been no violence, and we are tickled pink. It looks like there is a swing back to normal."

There have been 11 incidents of trucks coming under fire on state highways since the start of the strike, the last being Sunday night. But there were no serious injuries. Only two people have been arrested for shooting at trucks. They are charged with attempted murder.

At the Tiki Truck Stop on I-80 near LaSalle, manager Jerry Happ said trucks are running about 75 percent of normal. "But local companies started to break through this Tuesday morning, and the scuttlebutt from drivers is that there is going to be a big change Wednesday."

Harold Benecke, fuel manager for the Elgin-West Truck Stop, said, "We think it, the strike, is licked...Business is about 90 percent of normal both day and night."

Student Senate to review results of liquor survey

by Douglas Backstrom

Results of the Charleston Liquor Control Advisory Commission's recent survey will be discussed Wednesday by the Student Senate.

Senate Speaker Glenn Good said Valerie Averill, the commission's student representative, will present the liquor survey's results to the senate.

Following Averill's presentation, the senate will discuss the results and decide what action, if any, the senate should take, Good said.

The Charleston City Council asked the commission to conduct the survey of residents concerning their feelings about liquor sales in Charleston.

The council's request was prompted by an Osco Drug, Inc. representative who asked the council to amend a 1959 ordinance prohibiting the sale of package liquor in retail stores.

The commission found that 72.6 percent of the survey respondents favor liquor sales in grocery stores.

In other business, Student Body President Terry Teele said the senate will hear reports from the Security Commission.

The Security Commission will make "extensive" progress reports and will discuss future plans, Teele said.

The Student Senate will meet at 7 p.m. Wednesday in the Union addition Arcola-Tuscola Room.

Computer Task Force to form study groups

by Ron Wesel

Two subcommittees will be formed by the Task Force on Computer Education to speed up forming recommendations for Eastern's computer education program, Jon Laible said.

Laible, task force chairman and dean of the College of Arts and Sciences, said the two small committees will be more efficient in forming ideas than one large committee.

One subcommittee will be established to develop a computer awareness course which would familiarize students with computers, Laible said.

The subcommittee may devise an alternative to the awareness course, because some students may be familiar with computers and might not need to take an awareness course, he added.

The second subcommittee will be set up to develop a faculty computer network consisting of faculty members who are experienced with computers, Laible said.

"The network faculty members would have the responsibility to educate other faculty in the same building or department about computers," Laible said.

Laible said both subcommittees must report their recommendations to the task force before any final decisions are made.

The task force is required to submit its recommendations to Rives by May 1.

The task force will meet at 8 a.m. Thursday in the Booth Library conference room.

Increased service charge suggested by Union Board

by Keith Clark

The Union Board recently passed a proposal calling for a 5 cent increase in the charge for cashing a check at the Union check cashing service.

If the increase is approved by Eastern President Daniel E. Marvin, it will become effective beginning with the 1983 fall semester and will raise the check cashing charge from 10 cents to 15 cents.

Union Board member Meg Hart said the increase was necessary to keep the student union fee increase as low as possible.

"Before the (check cashing) increase, we were looking at a student union fee increase of $6.50, but now we've got it down to $3.70 with the increase, along with other budget cuts," Hart said.

The cuts, Hart said, include a reduction in the general union travel budget and elimination of meal purchases for Eastern's bowling team members when they travel to the Association of College Unions International tournament.

Hart said the cut in the bowlers' meal budget will save approximately $400 and the travel budget cut will save about $1000.

The check cashing charge increase will yield the union approximately $7,500 per year in extra income, she added.

The Union Board considered raising the bad check fine from $7 to $10, but instead decided on the check cashing charge increase.

"We felt that with the higher cost of paying off bad checks, many people wouldn't want to pay them off," Hart said.

Despite the increase, Hart said she did not think the 15 cent check cashing charge would be unfair.

"Cashing checks at Eastern is still relatively inexpensive compared to most other schools," Hart said. "Eastern is the only school that still charges only 10 cents to cash a check."

Senate should police itself better

Editorial

Student senators who violated senate constitution bylaws should have taken the responsibility of resigning their positions upon themselves; they should not have waited for Student Body President Terry Teele to force them to relinquish their seats.

Five senators were forced to resign their seats last week because of constitution violations. The violations included not maintaining a 2.3 cumulative grade point average and/or carrying less than full-time class loads.

The resignations followed Wednesday night's senate meeting, when Teele requested the resignation of any senator who did not meet the constitution requirements.

Senate Speaker Glenn Good has said action to check on constitution violations was not taken previously because of a delay in the release of the senators' official fall semester grades.

However, student senators should not have to be checked up on. Students receive their grades soon after completing a semester. Therefore, each senator probably knew what his cumulative grade point average was a long time before being asked to resign.

Senators who knew they were violating the senate's constitution should have resigned their seats before being asked.

However, fault does not lie exclusively with the senators. Good, Teele and Don Cook, adviser to student government, should have interviewed every senator at the beginning of the semester, to ascertain if violations of the constitution were present.

We cannot help but wonder if these types of violations have occurred in the past. And if violations have occurred in the past, why hasn't a better check system for this problem been established?

We also wonder if a Feb. 2 letter to the editor, which revealed these violations, prompted Teele's request for the resignations. Would the matter have been looked into if the letter had not been written?

It should not take a letter to the editor to bring this matter to the senate's attention. Each senator should be aware of the fact that the constitution states, "No person shall hold the office of senator who does not have a 2.30 cumulative grade point and is not a full-time student."

Constitution violations should not be overlooked, and senate leaders should make the consequences of such violations clear to all senators and petitioning senators. And, in the future, senate leaders should check all senators grade point averages and class loads each semester.

Your turn

Look at candidates now

Editor:

After reading "Your Turn," I felt that I had to sit down and air a few thoughts. So here they are:

As everyone knows, or should know, the United States and its economy are at a turning point, and there will be a presidential election in 1984. Yes, I realize the election is two years away but it is never too early to start studying the presidential candidates.

Each one claims to have the solution to our economic woes and the best inside information on the needs and desires of the American people.

I encourage everyone to start analyzing now what the politicians are saying and study what they have done in the past. Both the Young Democrats and the College Republicans have information on their parties' candidates. Reagan, of course, is the easiest to judge.

For those of you who have had any economic courses, and I hope you have, don't just listen to the candidates when they say we must raise or lower taxes, increase or decrease social program and defense spending, whether we should have a balanced budget amendment or not, etc.

Whether you are a Keynesian or a Supply-sider, you should make sure these politicians know what they are talking about.

If these issues (gasp) don't interest you, or more likely, you find no one is making sense, go to the hard-hitting issues such as nuclear freezes, ERA, abortion, gun control, labor, etc. The side each candidate stands on is easier to find because these issues usually form his platform.

I'm not saying pick out a candidate today, but do start shopping around because that is the only way our great system can work properly.

Must barbershops change with hairstyles?

Hair styles change, but must barbershops change also?

In recent years the traditional, Elks'-lodge, cigar-smoking, exclusively male barbershop has been replaced by the contemporary, unpersonalized, unisex "hair salon."

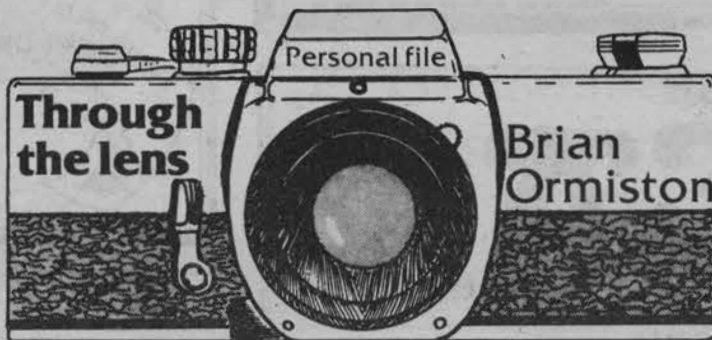

The charm of that red-and-white striped pole, and all that it represents, is rapidly becoming history. In the old days the barbershop was a place where "the guys" could escape from their wives to talk about sports, politics and women (although not necessarily in that order).

In an old-fashioned barbershop, you leaf through Sports Illustrated or Popular Mechanics while you have your shoes shined. In a hair salon you have the choice of reading Penthouse or Vogue while some dippy girl buffs your nails.

At the local barbershop, the guy cutting your hair is familiar. Whether he is Sam, Joe or Gus, you know him and he knows you; you can trust him. At the local hair salon you don't know who's cutting your hair. He's just some guy with rings on four fingers and two-inch thick gold chains hanging from his neck into your face. You usually notice the chains when "what's his name" is running his fingers through your hair, saying, "Oh! What thick hair you have. I just love it—it's so healthy."

By taking your business to a unisex hair salon you miss one of the best experiences around—the barbershop shave. There's nothing like it in the whole world.

First the barber lowers your chair in a reclining position, then he wraps warm towels around your face. As the towels cool, you almost drift off to sleep, surrounded by the comforting sounds of barbershop bull and baseball on the television.

Then, when you're all relaxed, the barber slathers your face with warm shaving cream and goes to work with that old-time straight razor. It's something you have to experience to appreciate.

Hopefully, the barbershop experience will not become a thing of the past. The tradition of barbershops as places where guys can go to kill a Saturday morning, catch up on the latest game scores or just shoot the bull is one worth perpetuating.

I've tried it both ways, and I'd rather pay $4.50 for atmosphere than $20 for style any day. And besides that, my Mom doesn't like me reading Penthouse.

Appalled by procedure

Editor:

I am shocked at the way the Student Senate's executive board takes scheduling and interest in its committees so lightly.

I petitioned for the Intercollegiate Athletic Board because I wanted to get involved in having a voice in athletic matters and to try to represent my fellow students the best I could.

But I find it appalling when meetings are scheduled one hour before they begin. I wasn't able to attend the IAB meeting on Jan. 31 because when I was notified about the meeting I was in class; needless to say I wasn't able to do my job for the students by bringing up issues that others may not have touched upon.

I have close friends in the swimming program and have seen first-hand how the cuts in aid by R.C. Johnson are going to affect their futures. I just hope in the future things are more organized and the "executives" start to show they care to have student voices at all meetings!

Performance rating plan studied by Faculty Senate

Linda Wagner
 The Faculty Senate Tuesday introduced a plan that will allow faculty to evaluate the performance of deans and department chairmen. The proposed evaluation is the result of a senate subcommittee study which began last semester. Senate members said they are concerned because currently there is little faculty input into the evaluation of deans and chairmen. The evaluation form would be used by faculty members as a means of determining how well a particular dean or department chairman performs his job. According to the evaluation form, a new dean or chairman would not be evaluated his first year in office but would be evaluated every year thereafter. Senator Scott Smith said that because of insufficient information on the new dean or chairman, conducting evaluations during their first year would be unfair. Faculty members would use a numerical rating scale to evaluate the performance of their superiors, with one used as the lowest rating and five used as the highest. Areas in which the deans and chairmen will be evaluated include the exhibiting of an understanding of political and economic problems confronting the department or schools under their jurisdiction.

Ratings also will be given on how well the dean or chairperson communicates with his staff, if he delegates authority and assigns tasks appropriately and if he makes use of consultation before making decisions.

The dean evaluation form will also include the question "should the dean be retained?" The question requires a yes or no answer.

Lynch said including the question on the forms will give stronger emphasis to recommendations made by the faculty. "We want this decision to be in the hands of the faculty," he said.

Lynch said the senate plans to present the evaluation form to Eastern President Daniel E. Marvin and also "bounce the idea off deans and chairpersons."

Dates for the upcoming spring elections were also announced by Faculty Senate Vice Chairman Richard Goodrick.

Goodrick said nominations are due by Feb. 24 and the list of candidates will appear in the March 1 senate minutes.

Increased health care expenses subject of discussion at seminar

Frank Garvin
 Between 1970 and 1980, health care costs in the United States increased $45 billion, or about 125 percent, Larry Thorsen, political science department chairman, said Tuesday. Thorsen spoke on the pros and cons of a national health care policy and questioned the United States' ability to pay for access to health care for all citizens during a brown bag seminar Tuesday. The seminar was co-sponsored by Eastern's political science department and the university's public administration association. "Medicare will cost us $60 billion in fiscal year 1984. Currently, the government is paying 40 percent of all the hospital costs," Thorsen said. However, 15 percent of the median family income goes for health care, he added.

"Currently, 90 percent of families earning above $20,000 have health insurance. But there are six million citizens below the poverty line that aren't even eligible for insurance," he added.

Thorsen also said medical care facilities are "not well distributed" in the big cities across the country.

Thorsen said a possible solution would be controls on charges made for medical services.

Charleston Dentist Robert H. Griffiths, former president of the American Dental Association, also spoke during the seminar.

Griffiths said current medical care costs are high "because of union bargaining to increased benefits for their rank and file."

Alcoholism to be workshop topic

Because the alcoholic is not the only one harmed by his disease, suggestions on coping will be offered for the families of alcoholics during a Counseling Center-sponsored workshop Wednesday. Lynn Kistler, intake assessment coordinator for the Hour House, Charleston's alcoholism treatment center, said she will conduct the workshop titled "Living with an Alcoholic." "There are a number of people at Eastern who are problem drinkers, and I see this workshop as a good opportunity for them to learn that there are solutions and alternatives," Kistler said.

"I will be talking a little, but a couple of women from Alcoholics Anonymous will talk about their experiences," she said.

"Those women should tell the total story," Kistler said.

The workshop is scheduled for noon Wednesday in the Union addition Greenup room.

Thompson outlines budget cuts in case tax plan fails

by Marc Pacatte

Gov. Jim Thompson said Sunday Illinois is facing an "either/or" situation.

Thompson said the General Assembly will either have to adopt his proposed tax increase package or accept severe cuts in the state budget next year.

At a meeting with members of the Illinois Press Association Sunday in Springfield, Thompson outlined his proposals to correct the state's financial problems and pointed out where cuts will be made if his plan is not adopted.

He said the state is in a "bad situation financially" and that he believes state legislators are aware that they need to take action to alleviate budgetary shortfalls.

In order for Illinois "to remain solvent," Thompson said, the tax increase package he presented to the legislature Tuesday must be approved.

If his tax plan is not approved, Thompson said he is planning to:

- cut the higher education budget by 10 percent—or $100 million—which would mean the loss of 1,000 faculty jobs, elimination of programs, cuts in job training and cuts in the 30,000 scholarships the state currently funds.
- reduce the reimbursement of elementary and secondary education by 10 percent—or $200 million—which would cause school closings, larger classes and a $25-million reduction in handicapped student funding.

- eliminate medical and income support to 125,000 people currently on the state's unemployment rolls.

- eliminate medical support to the working poor.

- cut state payments for health services to poor children.

- reduce services to mental health patients.

- eliminate state revenue sharing to cities and counties.

- cut the supervision of 5,000 adult parolees.

- reduce work-release programs for prisoners and reduce the number of work-release centers operating in the state.

- close all state parks and historical sites "at least" two days a week.

- cut back on soil erosion and conservation programs.

- cut support for the arts and museums.

- eliminate state guardianships.

- lay off 1,000 to 1,300 state workers, primarily from the mental health area.

- cut programs for group and institutional care for youths, such as Gateway houses.

University Board seeks students for vacant coordinator positions

by Kevin Esgar
The University Board is seeking students to fill the vacant Lecture Coordinator and Mainstage Coordinator positions, UB Chairman Steve Jones said.

"Anyone seeking to fill these positions should fill out an application or resume and turn it into the Student Activities Center in the Union by next Tuesday," Jones said.

He added that no experience is required to become a coordinator, whose duties include arranging campus appearances by various individuals and groups.

The positions of Lecture Coordinator and Mainstage Coordinator were recently vacated by Greg Zaccagni and Bruce Quillen, respectively. Zaccagni resigned his position and Quillen was elected to succeed Jones as unionization.

"I couldn't see it any other way," he said.

However, Starwalt added that with a union comes the possibility of a strike.

"Sure, there is that threat of strike. But I think the benefits outweigh the threat. Besides, the people in the union are the union and it's up to the majority of them to vote for a strike," he said.

Krajefska also said he thought Eastern's clerical workers would find a union beneficial.

"I think it would be a good thing for them. It's been a long time coming," he noted.

"They need to band together and demand the things that have been coming to them," Krajefska added.

Stewart said, "Common sense dictates it (unionization). They've been promised their increase in wages and the administration just hasn't come through."

Timmons agreed pay increases for clerical staff have been delayed, but said a union could not guarantee help in that area.

"We still haven't received our pay increase. But a union can't make promises about pay increases. They can only negotiate with legislation. They

The UB will also discuss Friday's Pat Timmons, which only 1,000 people attended.

Another topic will be the upcoming National Association of Campus Activities Convention in Baltimore.

"We (Eastern) will send three coordinators, the UB chairman and a visitor to the meeting," Jones added.

Other topics for Wednesday's meeting include discussion of the upcoming spring break trip to the Bahamas and a visit by Chicagoland radio announcer Lou Palmer.

The meeting is scheduled for 7 p.m. Wednesday in the Union ad Kansas Room.

too are restricted in what they can do. However, Stewart said, (AFSCME members) probably wouldn't be making what we are if it wasn't for the union."

Timmons said, "The starting salary of the unionized building employees is higher than our pay, that's largely to do with what happened in the 70s—which is a result pulled out of the union."

"We are not the only school to experience our pay increase. All the other Governors schools have not received an increase," Timmons added.

She said members of the Teamsters union also have not received a pay increase.

"They (the Teamsters) are a well-known union, and they aren't getting any further than we are," Timmons said.

She added AFSCME representative Seth Hendler will speak at noon Thursday in the Union addition Oakland room.

ROTC offers sophomores financial aid

by Debra Klauer

Sophomores needing financial aid assistance may be able to get help from ROTC, enrollment officer Capt. John Napier said.

The federal government has over 8,500 two-year scholarships to issue, Napier said, and two of those scholarships are earmarked for Eastern sophomores.

The scholarships pay the student's tuition, fees, books and supplies. In addition, $1,000 a year is included as a living allowance.

The program is intended for people who attended a junior college, transferred to Eastern after one year and are now second-semester sophomores. They can catch up quickly on the two years of the ROTC program they missed, Napier added.

If the student receives a scholarship he may attend six weeks of basic training camp. "The camp is voluntary," Napier said. "It gives the recruit good exposure to the army and he gets paid for it."

The U.S. Congress is currently in the process of increasing the total number of scholarships from 8,500 to 12,500. "This is an excellent time for someone to apply for one because of the increase," Napier said.

To receive a scholarship, a student does not have to be enrolled in the ROTC program and does not have to make a final decision about joining ROTC until his junior year.

ROTC will begin a three-year scholarship program in March for second-semester freshmen. A 2.70 GPA will be required to qualify for a scholarship.

The deadline for scholarship applications is Feb. 14.

University Club sets Mardi Gras

A New Orleans-style party will open the University Club's spring semester social slate Saturday in the Union Rathskeller.

The event will feature live entertainment by the Kevin Gainer Trio, costume judging and refreshments, University Club President Richard Goodrick said.

The club, which is currently holding its mid-year membership drive, is a socially-oriented organization with 150 members including faculty, administration and retired university employees, Goodrick said.

The mid-year membership drive is geared to attract new and/or young faculty members and administrators who have not had the opportunity to meet their peers, he added.

Mid-year membership dues are $10. Anyone interested in joining the University Club should contact Bill Clark at 581-3820.

"STUDENTS PROGRAMMING FOR STUDENTS"

Come take a ride with a classic

By Missy Cook

Are you a classics buff? Do you enjoy staying up to watch the late, late, late show? Well, Wednesday, February 9, you won't have to stay up to enjoy a wonderful classic. The UB Movie Committee is presenting African Queen at 7:00 p.m. tonight in the Grand Ballroom.

Come take a ride down the river in the African Queen. Humphrey Bogart serves as the skipper while Katherine Hepburn is his not-so-willing passenger.

These two screen greats deliver a touching performance. Remember Casablanca and On Golden Pond? Then you won't want to miss African Queen.

This classic will be shown for the special price of $1.00. Tickets are on sale now at the Union Box Office or may be purchased at the door.

UB selects new chairman

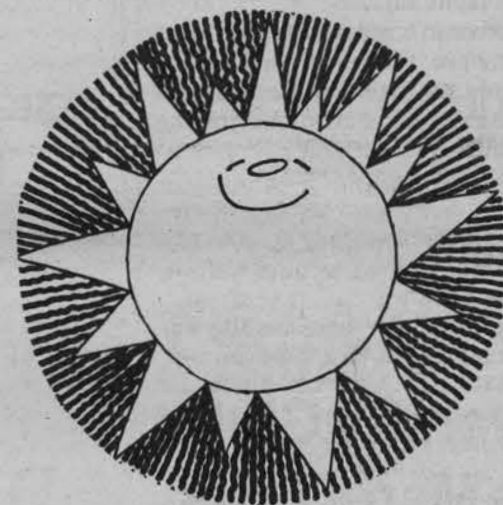

We, the coordinators and Committee members of University Board, would like, at this time, to ask all the students at Eastern Illinois University to join with us in congratulating Bruce Quillen and Nancy Martin in their new positions as Chairman and Vice-Chairman of University Board, respectively. Their term will begin in March and we, the board, can only wish them the best of luck.

However, as everyone knows, with entrances there must also be exits. Leaving the board will be Steven Jones and Cheryle Petrik. At this time, we, the board, would like to extend our thanks and gratitude for their help and support. We can only wish them the best.

Advanced Ticket Sales

Advanced tickets are on sale for all University Board sponsored events one week prior to the date of the upcoming event. Tickets may be purchased at the Union Box office Monday through Friday from 11:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m.

Turnovers plague lady Panthers in 97-80 loss to ISU

Kathy Leahy
TERRE HAUTE, Ind.—Turnovers plagued Eastern's women cagers Tuesday night as they dropped a 97-80 decision to conference foe Indiana State, matching their second straight loss. Eastern turned the ball over 36 times—the most miscues in a game by the Panthers. Indiana State's junior guard Lori West paced the Sycamores with 25 points and Peggy Jackson and Barbara Graves chipped in 15 and 14 points respectively. Indiana State's Mindy Boggs set a new school record for assists by dishing out 19. In addition, Boggs finished the game with 13 points. Indiana State's five starters scored in double figures, which registered the Sycamores' best performance of the season. Eastern (15-5) was led by Toni Collins who tallied 15 points. Kathy Lanter and Sue Hynd each chipped in 14 points.

Darla Farthing, who had been out with an aggravated ankle injury, saw only five minutes of action Tuesday night because of a reoccurrence of her injury. Freshman forward Melanie Hatfield also saw limited action because of a cold and a toothache. Eastern jumped in front 6-4 after the first two minutes, but Indiana State stormed back. Both teams exchanged the lead before the Sycamores eventually took the lead for good at the half.

TSA funds returned to swimming programs

John Humenik
All Talented Student Award scholarships to Eastern student-swimmers have been reinstated, Intercollegiate Athletic Board chairman Mike Leyden announced Tuesday at a special IAB meeting. Leyden made the announcement for Eastern Athletic Director R.C. Johnson, who was in Terre Haute and could not attend Tuesday's meeting. Tuesday's announcement ended a three-week dispute which arose when Johnson's Nov. 23 decision to eliminate all Eastern swimming scholarships became public. Johnson had said earlier his $30,654 scholarship aid in the form of TSA and Grant-In-Aids was necessary to combat what he called "a severe deficit" in the athletic program. Leyden told the IAB Tuesday that Eastern President Daniel E. Marvin decided to reverse Johnson's $11,754 TSA budget cut and honor awards currently in effect. However, Leyden said Marvin would not instruct Johnson to reverse his $18,900 GIA cut. Leyden also said no new scholarships would be given to incoming swimmers in the future. In a telephone interview Tuesday night, Eastern head swimming coach Ray Padovan said, "This was the thing that I felt had to be done. I really didn't know what we would get back, but I wanted them to honor what they had in effect." Padovan, who did not attend the meeting, said, "I was really impressed with the support we got. And now we have got an open line with the athletic department to resolve problems in the future." IAB member Jeff Lynch said, "I'm pleased. In the last week the president has come through and honored the TSAs for the swimmers." "It was the moral issue we were concerned with, and now someone has seen the light on the moral issue," Lynch said. "It still is a very severe cut, and let's face it, the swimming program is dead in three years." Eastern's men and women's swimming programs will lose recruiting power in an estimated three years when freshman scholarship recipients graduate or use up eligibility. At its Jan. 31 meeting, The IAB had passed a resolution asking the athletic department to consider ways to restore financial support until current swimmers graduate. Consequently, Lynch said, Marvin and Johnson resolved the problem, but many IAB members said Tuesday Johnson handled the situation wrongly in the first place. Lynch said he was not pleased with the situation because Johnson did not notify swimmers that their aid had been cut, as he had promised to do when he wrote Padovan of his decision. Padovan notified all swimmers of their aid cuts. "I don't want to deal with a situation like this again," Lynch said. "There were a lot of ways this could've been saved if the coach was involved in the decision." "They went at the least visible + the swimming program," Lynch continued. "There seems to be a lot of support for such non-revenue sports." IAB member John Rearden followed up Lynch's statement with a motion, tabled by a 5-4 vote, which would direct the athletic department to include a breakdown budget according to scholarships for the IAB's consideration. The IAB has never had a scholarship breakdown included in the athletic department's operational budget. Rearden said that directing Johnson to include one will ensure that the IAB is informed about each team's financial aid. The athletic department's 1983-84 operational budget will be released and reviewed by the IAB at the end of February or the first week in March. Although the IAB has no power to reject Johnson's budget, the group can act as an adviser to the president, who approves all university budgets. "If we annually vote on the budget, then we can see where the money goes and avoid any problems in the future," Rearden said.

Eastern grid slate revealed

by Kirby Flowers
Under the 1983 football schedule, Eastern will host all three Mid-Continent Conference opponents at O'Brien Stadium in home contest, Athletic Director R.C. Johnson said Tuesday. The Panthers will host MCC opponent Northern Iowa on Oct. 15, Western Illinois on Oct. 22, and Southwest Missouri in a Parents Weekend contest Nov. 5 at O'Brien Stadium. In addition, the Panthers will battle Indiana State Oct. 29 to give Eastern a four-game homestand at O'Brien Stadium. Eastern will be on the road the first two weeks of the season as the Panthers open Sept. 3 at Normal with Illinois State and then travel (See EASTERN, page 15)

Conference battle

Panther cagers host rested Valparaiso

by Kirby Flowers
When Eastern's basketball team defeated the Valparaiso Crusaders Jan. 15, the league win snapped a 12-game losing streak and ignited the Panthers to six straight victories, including four conference wins. After dropping its last two contests, Eastern (6-14) will attempt a rebound at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday when it concludes its conference series facing the Crusaders again at Lantz Gym. However, Valparaiso head coach Tom Smith said he does not believe Eastern will dominate his team, which fell to the Panthers 91-71 in the previous contest. "We felt like they (Eastern) were a very good basketball team even if they were 0-12 because of the tough schedule they had faced," Smith said. "They played particularly well that night," he continued, "and we probably didn't play as well as we are capable of. But we had just played five games in 10 nights." Smith said his squad's fatigue led to the Crusader's let-down, which allowed an eager Eastern squad to notch its first conference win and lift its overall mark to 1-12. "They were 10 times more aggressive than us the last time," Smith said. "They really rammed it down our throats." "We were not sound physically that night," Smith added. "We just were not prepared to play Eastern. But now we feel better and have had a chance to regroup." Eastern, now 4-1 in Association of Mid-Continent Universities standings, follows Southwest Missouri (4-0). A Valparaiso loss could knock the Crusaders (2-5) out of contention, Smith said.

"Valparaiso is fighting for its first winning season," Smith said. "We have struggled a bit but we think we have earned some respect in Division I this year." Eastern head coach Rick Samuels said a victory Wednesday is a key to keeping Eastern's title hopes alive with seven conference dates remaining. Eastern enters Wednesday's game after dropping a conference game to Northern Iowa, 71-67, Saturday and a non-conference contest to Murray State, 92-82, Monday. Samuels said Wednesday's contest could be tough for his team because he realizes Valparaiso is coming to play. "I certainly think we had a great game at Valparaiso," Samuels said. "And I don't think that game is indicative of what kind of a team they have." (See PANTHER, page 15)

Eastern's home opener is against first-time opponent Grand Valley State Sept. 17 in a game that has been designated the second Hall of Fame by induction of Panther honorees.

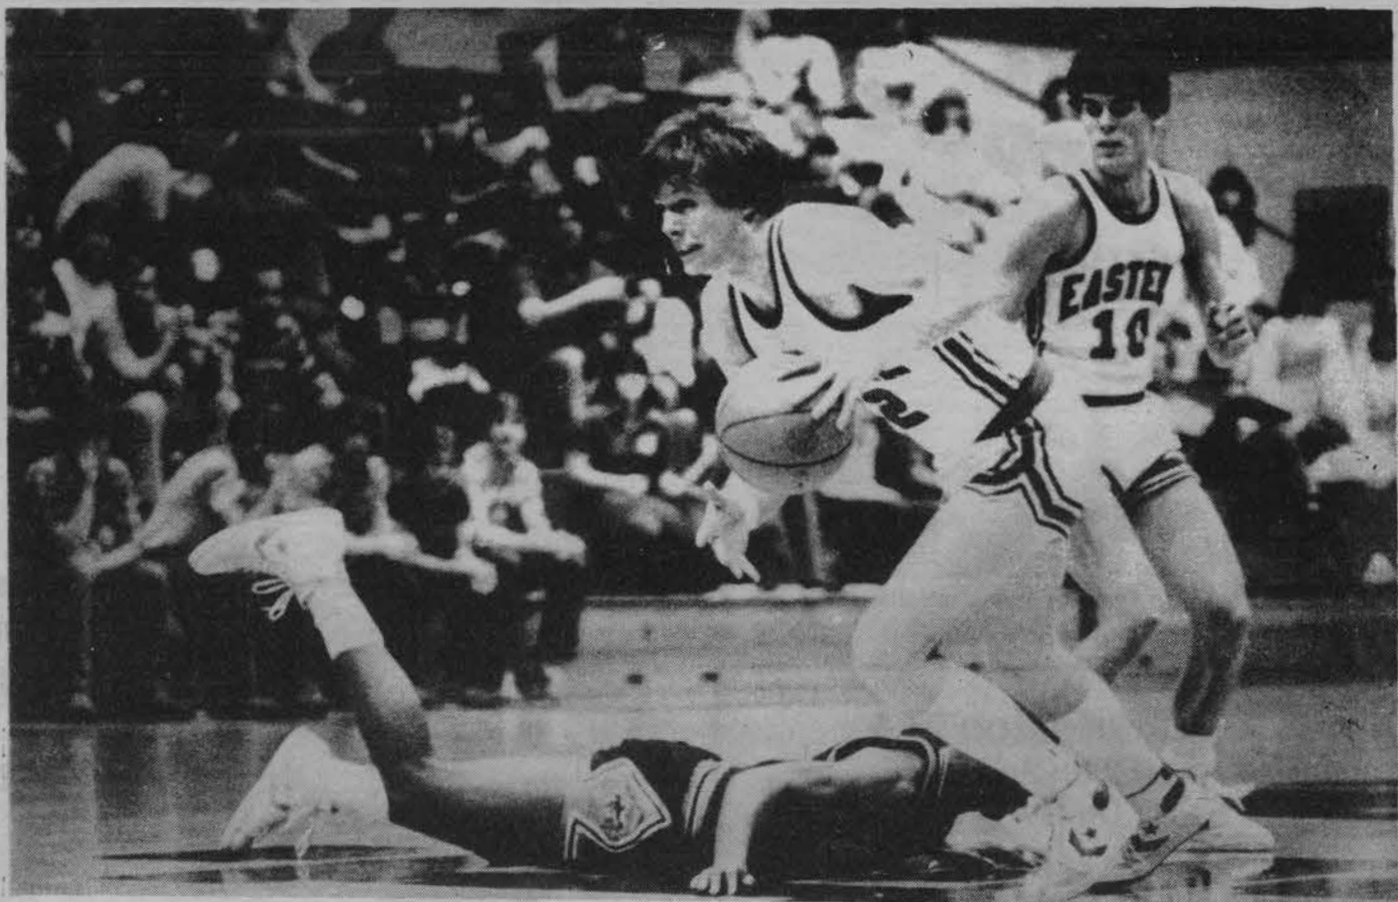

Eastern's Homecoming game will pit the Panthers against Youngstown State Oct. 1. The following week Eastern will face its second Ohio Valley Conference opponent Oct. 8 at Akron.

The Panthers will have two other road games: Sept. 24 against Northeast Missouri and Nov. 12—the season finale—against first-time opponent Western Kentucky at Bowling Green.

"I believe our home schedule is one of the best in several seasons," Johnson said. "Besides the three conference games we have two more at home with natural rivals Indiana State and Youngstown State."

"Last year we beat Indiana State for the first time in several years so that should heighten the interest plus I think everyone in this area can easily recall the recent great games with Youngstown State."

The gridders posted an 11-1-1 slate and were quarterfinalists in the NCAA AA playoffs last fall.

"Valparaiso will give us a good test," Samuels added.

Smith said his team is in better physical condition this time around and expects his squad to play better in rebounding and defense.

"We can win if we can rebound against them and play better defense," Smith said. "But because of their size it is difficult for us to do this."

"Their size also presents some problems when we are trying to run our offense," Smith said.

Eastern's loss to Murray State by only 10 points Monday impressed Smith. "I have seen Murray State play. They have a very talented ball team and if Eastern played them that close, they must be playing 'go' ball."

Samuels said he was upset with his squad's 30 turnovers Monday, but noted that his players need to put that game behind them and look toward Valparaiso.

"We have got to get back up mentally and get ready to play Wednesday," Samuels said.

ON BEHALF OF THE REST OF THE CLASS, I'D LIKE TO SAY HOW VERY SENSITIVE WE THOUGHT YOUR SECRET LOVE LETTER WAS, BINKLEY...

BUT UPON REEXAMINING THE NOTES WE TOOK FROM ITS RECENT, UNAUTHORIZED ORAL PRESENTATION, WE FOUND A HANDFUL OF INDECIPHERABLE PASSAGES...

LESSEE... OH YES...

"...BABY, I AM THE CARBURATOR AND YOU ARE MY GAS JETS..."
