Faculty, BOG allow for cuts in agreement

by Nancy Yamin

Although unionized Eastern employees will receive this year's scheduled salary increases, a recent agreement could allow the Board of Governors to withhold two days' pay from them if further budget reductions prove necessary.

In order to meet possible further reductions, the University Professionals of Illinois faculty union and the BOG have reached a tentative agreement, Eastern President Daniel E. Marvin told university employees in a recent letter. If additional reductions are required, the BOG can withhold up to two days' pay from bargaining unit members, he said.

Thomas Layzell, BOG Deputy Executive Director for Administration and Fiscal Affairs, said, "We are in the process of discussing this kind of idea (withholding pay plan) with other unions as well."

Decisions on fiscal year 1983 salary increases for university employees were recently made by the BOG, Eastern's controlling board, to meet a 2-percent reduction mandated by Gov. Jim Thompson in the FY 83 higher education budget.

Marvin said that because of contractual obligations, university employees who are represented by a collective bargaining unit will receive their salary increases as previously agreed in their contracts with the BOG.

Presently, two collective bargaining units are represented at Eastern—UPI and the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, which represents some civil service workers. Both of these groups have received their salary increases as scheduled.

Marvin also said, "The BOG voted Dec. 31, 1982, to postpone, until March 1983, consideration of the 3-percent salary increase for administrative and professional employees and open range civil service employees who are not members of a recognized collective bargaining unit."

BOG Executive Director Donald Walters said, "The raises have not been cancelled. They have just been deferred for now."

Marvin said the BOG has also provided for a possible lump-sum adjustment for those employees whose salary increases have been deferred. This adjustment may possibly take place this spring if further cuts are not required.

Layzell said although no definite decision has been made on the adjustment, "It is still under consideration as part of the whole question of deferring salary increases."

BOG to study budgets at meeting

by Nancy Yamin

Fiscal year 1983 budget reductions and FY 84 budget recommendations will be discussed Thursday at the monthly meeting of the Board of Governors at Governor's State University.

Donald Walters, BOG executive director, will present a report explaining the current status of the FY 83 budget reductions required by Gov. Jim Thompson due to a shortfall in Illinois' General Revenue Fund.

Thomas Layzell, BOG deputy executive director for administration and fiscal affairs, said the report will specify in which areas BOG universities made FY 83 budget cuts in December.

Walters will also present a report on the FY 84 budget recommendations adopted by the Illinois Board of Higher Education at its January meeting, Layzell said.

The BOG requested approximately $158 million for FY 84, which is an increase of 13.4 percent over the requested funding for this fiscal year.

However, the IBHE recommended an increase of only $152 million or 9.1 percent for BOG schools.

Walters will also present a proposal for a contingency planning study. This study will investigate what each university in the BOG could do if further budget reductions were required.

In other business, Eastern President Daniel E. Marvin will request funding from the BOG for certain university improvements.

Funds will be requested to repair the cooling tower of the Applied Arts Building; to install a water main extension for Married Student Housing; and to add a new ventilating system, renovate the ceiling, and rearrange lighting in the Lantz Gym rifle range.

If the BOG approves these funding requests, they will then go to the IBHE for approval.

The Board of Governors will meet Thursday at 9 a.m. in the Engbretson Conference Center at Governor's State.

Several factors contribute to receiving full schedules

by Elise Dinquel

Several factors contributed to an increase this semester in the number of students who were able to obtain all the classes they wanted.

Michael Taylor, director of registration, said that of 8,382 students who pre-enrolled for the spring semester, 6,987 received all the classes they requested.

A total of 83.4 percent of students were able to obtain full schedules, which was a 14 percent increase over last spring.

Taylor credited the success to the cooperation of academic departments, a system where students could list alternative course requests on preregistration forms, and a limitation which prevented students from pre-enrolling in more than 16 semester hours.

"Probably the individual departments helped do the job by offering enough seats and larger sections," Taylor said. "That definitely had a good effect."

He also said since students were able to rate a course as sacred, meaning no other section of the course would fit into their schedules, they were not put into sections they did not want and did not have to go through the add-drop lines.

"The 16-hour limitation also worked well in helping more students to get full schedules," Taylor said. "This was the second term we did this, and I think it is effective."

Although students were previously allowed to preregister for up to 18 hours, an ad hoc committee on registration recommended the 16-hour maximum to open more class seats.

Taylor said some students, who did not obtain full schedules through preregistration were given the option of leaving their schedules during Christmas break in case the classes opened.

"About 700 students had closures and were given the option of leaving their schedules with us so we could try to fit them in after we went through the cancellations," Taylor said. "We were able to help about 40 percent of them."

Although he said he believed registration overall went smoothly this semester, Taylor did cite two minor problems that were encountered in the registration process.

"We had some slight problems in the programming of (registration) that have been worked out," he noted.

One of the problems involved courses listed as sacred that were closed.

Indication that a course listed as sacred was closed was not given on the schedules, nor was the closed course listed, Taylor said.

However, he added, "We've isolated that problem and corrected it."

Another problem occurred when some sections were overscheduled during the registration process, Taylor said.

"Of about 1,800-plus sections offered this semester, about 100 were overscheduled, so more students were allowed into them than should have been. That problem has also been corrected."

Taylor said the system of allowing students to list alternative class choices for each course selection will probably continue in future semesters.

"I think we'll continue it. It looks like it was a great help," he said.

"When students pre-enroll in the future, I would like to stress they should put usable alternates," Taylor added. "By putting something they can use, they make it better for everyone."

Bishops to talk on atomic arms

VATICAN CITY —The Vatican convened a meeting of top U.S. and West European bishops Tuesday to discuss the American churchmen's sweeping condemnation of the use of nuclear weapons and possibly suggest changes before a final version is completed.

In a sign of the importance the Holy See attaches to the meeting, the Vatican assigned Secretary of State Cardinal Agostino Casaroli and its top theologian, Cardinal Joseph Ratzinger, as moderators over the two-day conference of prelates from the United States, Britain, France, West Germany, the Netherlands, Belgium and Italy.

Nine receive long prison terms

CHICAGO —Calling their crimes "as close to unmitigated evil as anything I've ever encountered," a federal judge on Tuesday handed down long prison terms to nine suspended police officers convicted of shielding narcotics rings that operated like curbside supermarkets.

A 10th defendant will be sentenced later.

"It staggers the imagination to contemplate what took place here," U.S. District Judge John F. Grady told a packed courtroom during a 90-minute discourse before imposing the sentence.

The officers were convicted on June 30 after a 12-week trial highlighted by testimony from convicted drug dealers, heroin addicts, admitted perjurers and petty thieves, whose statements were attacked by defense attorneys as unreliable.

Japanese internment case set

SAN FRANCISCO —A key military report that led to the internment of nearly 120,000 Japanese-Americans during World War II was based on "international falsehoods," says attorneys planning appeals of three landmark cases from 1942.

The cases involve the convictions 40 years ago of three men, now in their 60s, on charges of violating curfews and refusing to report assembly centers, said attorney Don Tamaki.

Rare Lincoln document found

LINCOLN, ILL —The framed document hung on the wall in the college president's office for 12 years before a curious librarian discovered it was rare and valuable.

A printed copy of the Emancipation Proclamation, signed by Abraham Lincoln, had been a fixture since 1970 at Lincoln Christian College and Seminary in this Central Illinois community.

The document, one of 10 to exist, has been hanging on the wall of the college president's office. It was authenticated two weeks ago by James Hickley, Lincoln curator at the Illinois State Historical Library in Springfield.

Reagan, Japan's Nakasone meet for talks on trade, defense

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Reagan and Japanese Prime Minister Yasuhiro Nakasone agreed Tuesday to resist pressures to impose import and export limits but did not discuss the key issue of Japanese auto exports, a senior administration official said.

The two leaders agreed to have breakfast at the White House on Wednesday. Reagan said the two-hour meeting resulted in "very fruitful discussions of difficult problems of trade and defense," but no specific steps on areas of dispute between the two countries were announced.

The president said in describing the U.S.—Japanese relationship at the start of the session: "It's like a happy marriage. Sometimes you argue. But it's still a happy marriage."

"You cannot maintain a close alliance if you do not talk to each other," the president said, as he and Nakasone, warmed by a blazing log fire, posed for photographs.

A close aide to Nakasone said the 64-year-old prime minister wanted to create with Reagan "a personal relationship of trust" to help overcome a period of "nagging each other about trivial problems" between the two nations.

A Japanese embassy spokesman, who also asked that his name not be used, said of the prime minister, "He doesn't necessarily want to haggle over oranges and beef."

Nakasone is being called on in Japan to limit imports of U.S. beef and citrus products, while Reagan is under pressure to contain Japanese exports to the United States.

Congress has been flirting with protectionist legislation, and the automobile and steel industries are suffering from Japanese competition that has brought a record trade imbalance of $20 billion in Japan's favor.

Personal income rises slightly

WASHINGTON (AP)—In a year of recession and layoffs, personal income rose just 6.4 percent in 1982, the smallest gain in nearly two decades but still enough to keep slightly ahead of inflation, government figures showed Tuesday.

Discounting for the rise in prices and nudges into higher tax brackets, take-home incomes increased 1.1 percent, less than half the 2.5 percent gain of 1981 but still better than the 0.2 percent of the recession—weakness 1980, according to the Commerce Department report.

A separate report, also released Tuesday by Commerce officials, showed how badly the housing industry has done last year, mostly because of the high interest rates. It said builders began work on just 1.061 million new housing units, the least for any year since 1946.

December's housing starts were also down 13 percent from November's, it said.

But starts for those two months were at annual rates of about 1.4 million and 1.2 million units—much higher than the total for all of 1982. And industry officials say lower interest rates should allow the recent revival to continue through this year.

Personal income rose 0.6 percent in December, pushed upward by government payments to grain farmers, the income report said. Meanwhile, personal consumption spending rose 0.3 percent over November, a small gain but one that had been expected in light of earlier reports of slow retail sales.

Soviets offer new missile deal

BONN, West Germany (AP)—Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko made a new pitch to West Germany's growing anti-nuclear movement Tuesday with an offer to dismantle some of the Soviet medium-range missiles aimed at Western Europe if the Western Allies cancel plans to deploy new U.S. rockets.

It was the second innovation in Soviet arms proposals advanced by the veteran Soviet foreign minister in a four-day visit to West Germany. Speaking Monday night at a dinner in his honor, he said his government is prepared to negotiate an agreement for a mutual reduction of tactical missiles with a range of less than 6000 miles. It was the first such public offer by a Soviet spokesman.

Although he once again said the Soviets would not reduce their medium-range missiles targeted on Western Europe below the number in the French and British arsenals, reputed to be 162, Gromyko said at a news conference:

"We have said in the negotiations, some of the missiles could be destroyed, others could be transported to other parts of the Soviet Union where they could no longer reach the countries of Western Europe."

Additional business students receive complete schedules

by Douglas Backstrom

More Eastern business students received full class schedules this semester than any previous semester, Ted Ivarie, dean of the School of Business said.

"Out of about 8,900 students enrolled in business classes, we were able to accommodate 12 percent more students with the classes that they wanted for the spring semester," Ivarie said.

Last year many students complained they were unable to receive needed classes in the business department.

The creation of additional class sections was one factor which helped students receive more business classes, Ivarie said.

Also, students wishing to enroll in upper-division business classes for spring were required to apply for admission to the School of Business last fall, Ivarie said.

This semester, departmental stamps on add slips were required from all business students' advisers to make sure students had a definite need for a business course, he added.

As a result, "the frustration level was low and everything (registration) went pretty smooth. I'm sure the students are very satisfied with their class schedules," he said.

Charleston City Council names liquor commission

by Michael Kuo

Although Charleston Mayor Bob Hickman did not attend Tuesday's City Council meeting, his appointments to Charleston's Liquor Control Commission were presented to, and approved by, city commissioners.

Hickman's appointments ended a month-long delay in the reactivation of the commission.

The five appointments to the liquor commission include an Eastern student representative, Val Averill, and Murray Choate of Eastern's admissions office.

Other appointees include former commission member Russell Reddicks, and two local merchants, Mel Medder and Jerry Carter.

The commission will investigate a proposal from an Osco Drug Inc. representative who asked the council Dec. 7 to change the city's liquor ordinances to allow grocery and drug stores to sell alcohol.

The city council will now postpone action on the Osco request until the liquor commission forms recommendations on the issue.

Earlier, Commissioner Clancy Pfeiffer said action may take "six months, maybe a year. I don't know."

Proponents of the Osco proposal claim Charleston is losing liquor sales and revenue to Mattoon, where, City Clerk Janice Stratton said, there are currently eight grocery stores licensed to sell beer and wine.

Marvin tells effects of general revenue cut on Eastern

by Keith Clark

Eastern President Daniel E. Marvin informed both the Faculty Senate and Council on University Planning and Budgeting Tuesday about effects the 2 percent mandatory budget cuts imposed on all state universities will have on Eastern.

The cuts, brought about by a projected $200 million state budget deficit, resulted in a reduction of $489,000 in Eastern's General Revenue Fund.

Marvin said the cuts were especially difficult to make because they were not announced until Dec. 10, which is the halfway point for Fiscal Year 1983.

The state also specified that the cuts must come from the general revenue fund.

Marvin explained that cuts in the general revenue fund are more difficult to make because money from this fund is spent first, whereas money from the income fund (tuition), is spent later.

Marvin said the reason the money from the general fund is spent first is that it is tax dollars and what is not used must be returned to the state, while income dollars do not have to be refunded.

Marvin said the two major areas which faced the largest cuts were Personal Services and Contractual Services.

He said approximately $175,000 was cut from the Personal Services budget, with the largest portion of this cut coming from a change in pay schedules for the summer term.

Under the old system of payment, one-third of summer pay was distributed in June, with two-thirds being distributed in July and August, Marvin said.

However, it was discovered that $60,000 could be saved if the pay was distributed differently, with two-ninths being distributed in June and seven-ninths being distributed in July and August.

The other major cut, also approximately $175,000, was in the area of Contractual Services, where cuts were made in utility costs.

Marvin said two major changes were made, those being that new costs would be shifted to the bond revenue fund, and the bond revenue fund would be accelerated.

Cuts were also made in travel, commodities, equipment, library books and operation of automobile equipment budgets.

Marvin said $180 million in state reserves could be used to help alleviate further state budget deficits, along with an income tax hike of one percent, which he said he favors.

Marvin said he is hopeful that no more cuts will be made, but "it appears that additional cuts are likely."

However, he said he is optimistic about the state of the economy, and said Eastern is in better shape financially than most other state universities.

He attributed this to the fact that Eastern is already underfunded in comparison with most state universities, and thus the attitude at Eastern is one of being used to being underfunded.

Liquor control survey commendable

The Charleston City Council and members of the Liquor Control Advisory Commission should be commended for action taken recently concerning the question of liquor sales in Charleston retail stores.

The Liquor Control Advisory Commission, by request of the city council, is conducting a survey asking the residents of Charleston how they believe package liquor sales should be controlled.

The Liquor Control Advisory Commission has been in existence since 1978, when a similar retail liquor license request was denied by the council, but has not been active since that time.

The commission was reactivated because of a Dec. 7 request from Osco Drug, Inc. asking the city council to consider allowing retail stores like Osco to sell package liquor.

Charleston Mayor Bob Hickman should be commended for reactivating the commission and for appointing a student representative. Additional appointments to the liquor panel were announced at Tuesday's city council meeting.

The decision, on the part of Hickman, to reactivate the commission was constructive. A commission to research how Charleston residents and Eastern students feel about this controversial issue was needed.

Eastern students comprise almost half of Charleston's population and the appointment of Eastern graduate student Val Averill to the liquor commission assures the student segment of the population fair representation.

A student representative on the commission gives Eastern students an excellent opportunity to relate their opinions to a commission member who understands the student viewpoint and may be more accessible than other commission members.

Another way students can make their opinions known is by answering the retail package liquor sales survey.

The surveys were mailed Friday to 800 Charleston residents, including Eastern students, whose names were selected at random from the Charleston telephone listings.

Students who received the surveys should take the time to answer the survey and mail them back to the city before the Jan. 28 deadline.

Now is the time for students to voice their opinions on the issues confronting residents of Charleston. Students may think that they have no influence in a city where they are not permanent residents, but those students should realize that living in a city for nine months out of the year makes them an important population segment of that city.

Charleston is a college town and it is not unusual that the majority of liquor sold in a college town is sold to college students. It is for this reason that the students of Eastern should make sure they voice their opinions on the retail liquor license issue.

Students should make the liquor commission aware of their views through Averill or by individual contact with other commission members. This is an excellent opportunity to let the city and the commission know that Eastern students are concerned with what is going on in Charleston.

Check policy unfair

Editor:

On Aug. 24, 1982 I arrived in Charleston to attend school at Eastern.

After settling in I chose a local bank and opened a checking account. Being from another state I figured having a local account would prevent any headaches. Well, I was wrong!

On Jan. 17 I needed to send a package to Chicago. I also needed to include in it the receipt of the freight for reimbursement. How could I prove that I had indeed sent the package and paid the claimed amount if the only legal proof was being sent with the package? Very simple, I would pay by check and I would use it, when cashed, as my receipt.

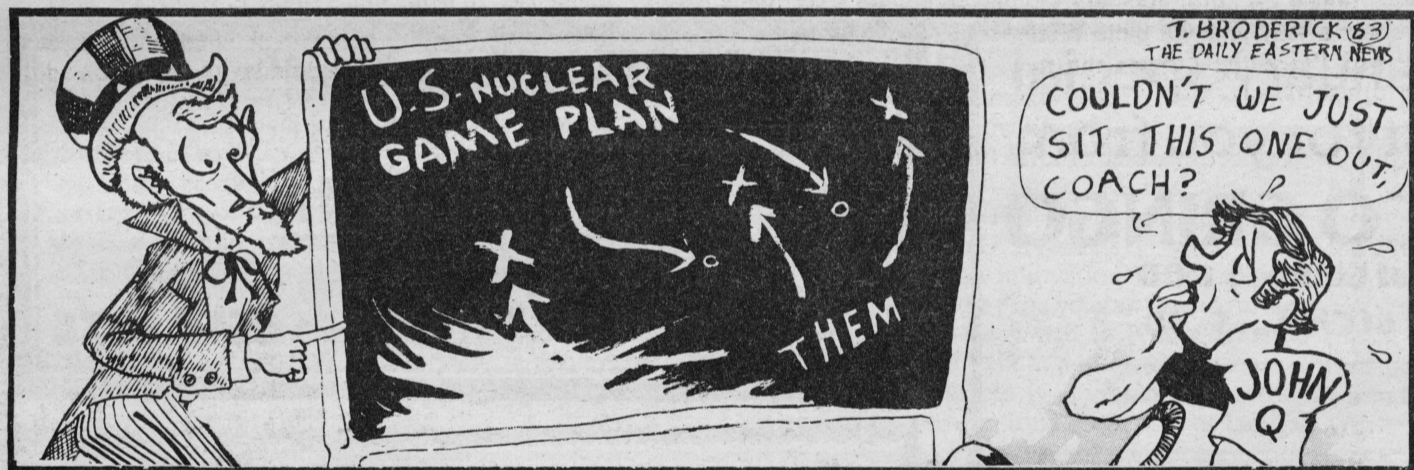

This was, however, too complicated a task for the post master. A check from a local bank, my local address, my Michigan's drivers license, my school ID and three other pieces of identification were not enough for him. I needed an Illinois driver's license and that was that!

I would like to call the ridiculousness of this situation to those in charge, particularly in a college town where people from all corners of the country might be living for some time without permanently moving and, therefore, without establishing legal residency. I feel it is unfair, unethical and discriminatory to deny them the right to use in-state, local bank checks to pay their bills. Or is it that only Illinois people have such rights?

Student encounters prejudice during Christmas vacation

This is a Christmas story. One that, unfortunately, I won't soon forget. And one that seems most appropriately told at this time.

A friend and I were waiting for our table at a Champaign restaurant, surrounded by the seasonal warmth of dim colored lights and the chatter of anticipated holiday cheer.

It was the zealous conversation of two couples sitting at the bar behind us that was about as welcome as an overbearing mother on a date. One blond woman, dressed in green corduroys and a yellow shetland sweater, was talking about her experiences growing up. "Well let me tell you, nothing's worse than growing up in a Jewish-Italian neighborhood," Miss Green said.

After careful consideration of this profound statement, her friend responded, "It's better than living in a black neighborhood."

"Yea, at least Jews and Italians get their money by working," Miss Green agreed. "Living with blacks, I would have never been able to walk outside my door. I suppose I should thank God for that."

Of course, I thought. What else is God for? Their conversation was interrupted when one of the couples was told their table was ready. Miss Green and companion raised their glasses in true yuletide spirit. "Merry Christmas." They laughed. I choked.

The only thing that makes this story bearable to remember is the input of my self-aggrandizing imagination. In true if-I-were-in-this-position-again fashion, I grab the woman's lovely yellow sweater and whip her around.

Crossviews:

Lauren Silverman

"It's people like you that perpetuate this unequal society," I'd tell her. "It's people like you who have persecuted blacks for centuries and yet won't take responsibility for the position blacks are in."

Of course this woman isn't alone. She has a very powerful ally—Ronald Reagan. It's Reagan's economic policies that make this injustice especially blatant.

Reagan came into the White House like what conservatives must have thought was a knight out of the days of King Arthur, with sword poised to cut the fat out of social programs. With a swoosh of Reagan's sword, spending for programs like compensatory education, manpower training and social services was slashed by 25 percent or more.

But for a great many people, Reagan was hardly Sir Lancelot. According to a report published by the Institute for Research on Poverty, Reagan's budget cuts chopped away at those programs that served almost exclusively the poor or near poor. This sent a message to Americans: the poor don't need these programs because they abuse them. If they want to get out of poverty, he says, let them lift themselves out.

Ironically, blacks need those programs now more than ever. Though unemployment has hit virtually every segment of the population, blacks are, by far, hit the hardest. According to the Department of Labor, the black unemployment rate skyrocketed 120 percent between 1970 and 1980 compared to the white unemployment rate which went up 74 percent.

This is not to say Reagan has created the problem. Every president has had to deal with poverty. Nor is this exclusively a black problem.

But it is ironic, that in this time when the Reagan administration has pursued economic policies which call for a choice between unemployment and inflation, his administration has also chosen to cut out those programs which may cushion the fall into the unemployment line.

Now, with Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.'s birthday just passed, it is particularly sad to look at the plight of the underprivileged. King fought for not just the rights of the blacks, but the rights of all disadvantaged people.

King's birthday is not a national holiday. While it is honored as a legal holiday in some states, including Illinois, controversy has plagued the passage of legislation to create a national holiday.

These technicalities should be ignored. Now more than ever, King should be honored. Memories of his efforts to help all disadvantaged are comforting.

Perhaps we will someday have a better society where the underprivileged have better opportunities where our government realizes its obligation to help the needy. And where Christmas stories bring pleasant memories.

—Lauren Silverman is the associate editor of the Daily Illini's Spectrum magazine, published at the University of Illinois.

Band director change results in controversy

by Carl Pugliese

Because former Eastern band director Harold Hillyer was recently reassigned, some student musicians said they decided to quit the band.

Senior Karen Miller said the timing for reassigning Hillyer was "wrong," adding that the sudden change hurt some students who were not prepared for the reassignment.

As a result, Miller said, she and others decided to drop out of band and not participate in last Friday's band auditions.

"They have ruined everything I thought about this program in one big sweep," she added.

Miller said departmental administrators let problems filter down to the band students.

"It got to the point where students were fighting each other," she said.

Graduate student Tom Bowen said he did not want to try out for band "mainly not because of the director, but because the students are divided."

"I wouldn't feel comfortable," he explained.

Eastern's Marching Blue is now under the direction of faculty member Richard Barta.

Miller said she does not agree with the philosophy and teaching methods of Barta. "I don't think he'll be able to pull the sound out of the students (in the manner Hillyer did)."

Barta would not comment on the issue.

Miller said Hillyer was "very qualified" and a "fabulous band director" and had good rapport with students.

"Granted," she said, "he doesn't get along with all students, but no teacher does."

Graduate student David White said he knew of personality conflicts Hillyer had with students, teachers and administrators.

White added, "I felt there was a power struggle going on."

Miller said she believes the reason for Hillyer's reassignment was "professional jealousy between teachers."

"Other teachers didn't have the rapport with students," Miller said.

Miller said she discussed the situation with music department Chairman DuWayne Hansen and Dean of Fine Arts Vaughn Jaenike.

Miller said Hansen's reason for the reassignment was "professional misconduct."

While some students decided to stop playing in the band, others chose to continue playing with the Marching Blue.

Sophomore Angie Katz said it was a difficult decision for her to remain a band member. She said playing in the band was necessary because it was part of her major.

Freshman Sharon Haley agreed that she was remaining in band because it was necessary for her major.

Although Katz said she was upset with Hillyer's reassignment, she had to apply her efforts to playing in the band.

"I need to try and put feelings aside," Katz said. "I'm here to get an education and I need to concentrate on why I'm here."

Haley said although she felt Hillyer was a very capable band director, she will "give the others (the new band directors) a try."

ISSC may alter eligibility

by Jan Genis

Members of the Illinois State Scholarship Commission discussed recommendations for changes in the fiscal year 1984 budget formula Monday at the commission's monthly meeting.

ISSC Director Larry Majetka said, "The modifications in the budget's formula refer to students' eligibility to receive the ISSC's monetary award."

However, he said he could not elaborate on the modifications at this time.

Eastern Assistant Director of Financial Aids John Flynn said Tuesday he did not know what changes were discussed or what the impact would be on Eastern students.

Majetka said the ISSC also reviewed a report concerning a 2-percent reduction of the commission's budget.

"The report justified that we had carried out the plans of reducing students awards," Majetka said.

The ISSC recently cut 5,000 to 7,000 Illinois students from its award program because of a $1.9 million reduction in state general revenue funds.

The students cut were sophomores, juniors and seniors, but Majetka said he did not anticipate any awards granted to freshmen would be cut.

"The cuts were made only to the continuing recipients who failed to meet the June application deadline," Majetka said.

Although Majetka said he is not aware of any further cuts, more reductions are still possible.

"I'm not sure if more cuts will be made," Majetka said. "It all depends on whether or not the General Assembly has to reduce our appropriation funds."

Other business conducted at the meeting included a review of the commission's Illinois Designated Accounts Program. IDAP is a state operation to enable more student loans to be produced by purchasing student loans from state banks, Majetka said.

The ISSC will meet Feb. 17 in Chicago. Matters to be discussed have not been determined at this time, Majetka said.

Senate to vote on bylaw changes

by Keith Clark

The Student Senate will vote Wednesday on two proposed bylaws which, if approved, would create two new senate committees.

The first committee, university relations, would be a combination of the present campus relations and public relations committees, Student Senate Speaker Glenn Good said.

The other proposed committee, titled the legislative committee, would voice student concerns to federal, state and local officials.

The bylaw revisions were tabled by the senate at its last meeting.

In other business, Good said the current Charleston liquor debate, which involves package liquor sales at retail stores, will be discussed.

Good said the senate will also approve students to fill openings on several student-faculty boards. The vacancies were created at the end of last semester for various reasons.

In addition, Good said he will deliver his State of the Senate address to the senate. Senate bylaws require that the speaker make a State of the Senate address at the beginning of each semester.

The Student Senate will meet at 7 p.m. Wednesday in the Union addition Arcola-Tuscola room.

Three debate teams win at weekend tournament

by Sharon Bray
Eastern's debate team took three teams to a weekend tournament, all of which won awards, coach Mike Shelton said.

Two teams in the varsity National Debate Tournament division reached the quarterfinals in the tournament that was held at Miami University in Oxford, Ohio.

The team of Monty Donohew and Kelly Siebert was 6-2 in the preliminary rounds, Shelton said. Chuck Morrow and Dee Christoff were 5-3 in the preliminaries.

Shelton said the debators defeated teams from such places as the University of Kentucky, Illinois State University and Butler University.

In the Cross Examination Debate Association division, the team of Cindy Jacobs and Carol Kocot placed fifth in the division, Shelton said.

Shelton added that two Eastern debators also brought home individual awards. Donohew took first place in the individuals of the NDT division, while Jacobs placed third in the CEDA division.

About 40 teams from the Midwest participated in the weekend tournament, Shelton said.

Shelton said the debators will compete next in an NDT tournament being held at Eastern this weekend. About 20-30 teams from the Midwest will participate in the tournament which runs from Friday to Sunday in the University Union.

The weekend tournament will be divided into varsity and junior varsity divisions, he added.

Seminar on planning set in Student Union

For some students, making plans can prove to be a difficult task. And following through with plans once they are made is often harder.

Psychology instructor Bill Roberts said he will present a seminar titled, "Resolved: This Year I Will....," to help students with making plans.

"My main point of the seminar will be to give students ways to formulate plans when it comes to making new resolutions," Roberts said.

Bud Sanders, director of the counseling center, said the presentation is the first in series of educational and personal growth seminars to be sponsored by the counseling center this semester.

The free seminar will be given at noon Wednesday in the Union addition Greenup room.

Jones skips training session, may resign Eastern grid post

by John Humenik

Eastern's football team opened its winter weight training sessions Tuesday without defensive coordinator Cal Jones, who said he may not be returning to the Panther pre-season camp.

Jones, who joined the Panthers last year, said he would not confirm or deny reports that he will leave Eastern until he meets with new head coach Al Molde next week.

Because he was attending a coaching convention in Los Angeles, Jones said he and Molde have not yet had a chance to discuss some of Molde's plans, which Jones believes might disrupt the ground work established last season.

"I'm an emotional man, and I really didn't want to get involved with the players until I am sure that I'm staying," Jones said Tuesday.

"By no means are we trying to be stumbling blocks for the man (Molde)," Jones continued. "I just don't want to get involved until I talk to Molde."

However, sources close to the football program, who asked not to be identified, said Jones has already discussed leaving with some players and coaches, and has created confusion among team members.

In addition, several players said Tuesday the whole football program is in turmoil and many players and coaches are bitter about the Jan. 12 signing of Molde.

"It's a big problem over here," Eastern cornerback Charlie Persons said. "We're confused. There's new surprises every day. We're living on a day-to-day basis."

Persons added, "We're really worried going into our senior seasons. And from what I understand Cal (Jones) is not coming back."

"We realize it's (the 1983 season) is up to us, but we need the leadership," he said. "We thought we had some defensive staff, but right now we don't know."

Panther standout running back Kevin Staple said, "I'm all confused. Everything is in disarray, and I really don't know what to interpret."

Several Eastern coaches said the hiring of a new coach to replace Darrell Mudra, who left Dec. 21 to take the head coaching job at the University of Northern Iowa, was "not handled right."

The coaches believe that an assistant coach currently in the program should have been named head coach when Mudra resigned.

"At one time I always thought that when you have a program as successful as Darrell's (11-1-1 last year), you've got to look at the coordinators," Jones said. "I was really never considered for the position. I was never granted an interview."

Running back coach Mike Williams, who was fired Friday by Molde, added, "You get a rosy story from the administration, and there were no problems. But there was, and it was not handled right."

Williams, who was placed on a month-to-month contract Dec. 22, said, "R.C. (Eastern Athletic Director R.C. Johnson) told me, 'The reason I can not hire Cal Jones is because I don't know him.'"

"The reason he (Johnson) doesn't know Cal is because he never has taken any time to meet with us," Williams continued. "He has shown no sensitivity. He has not done a good job."

"And the reason I got a month-to-month contract was because Cal Jones persuaded R.C. to give me one."

Neither Johnson, who is out of town until Thursday, nor Molde, who is traveling to Warrensburg, Mo., could be reached for comment.

Jones said, "Pros and cons about my background as a head coach were considered, I was told. I had some controversy about me until they (the defensive players) started believing in me."

"It's just a natural thing for them (players) to feel that way," Johnson added.

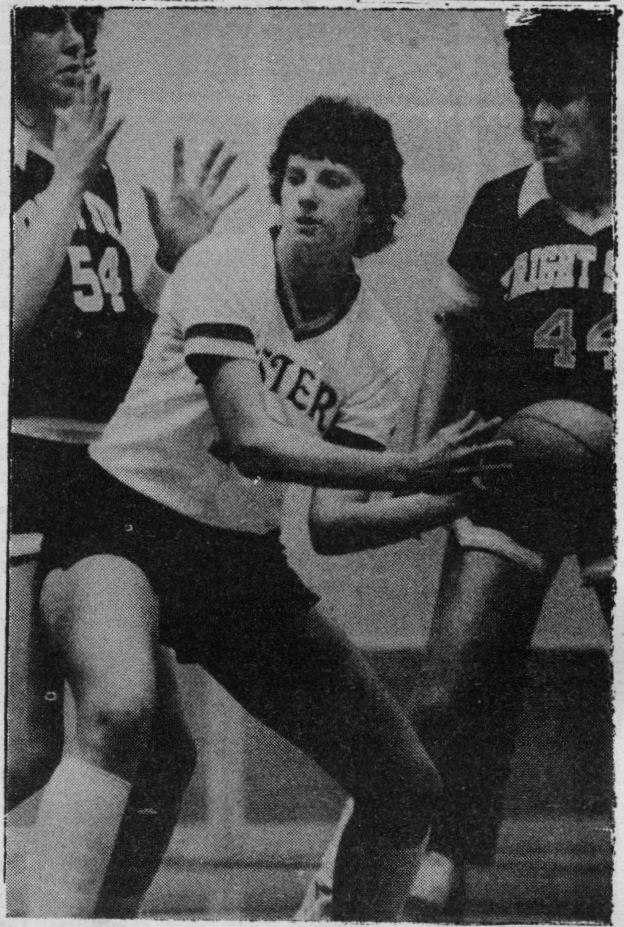

However, Eastern grid staffers and players said they believe Jones should have been "an automatic choice to replace Mudra" and that is affecting them.

Williams said, "In my opinion Cal Jones got slapped in the face twice. R.C. Johnson can't do anything to me now, but I want the people of this town to know what kind of a man he is."

Robert Williams, Eastern strong safety and Kodak All-American, said, "When you have an outstanding season like we had, you don't want to mess up a good thing, and you go with one of the assistants."

With one Molde assistant coach already assigned to handle the running backs (Rob Kuhlman) the players believe Cal Jones' departure could jeopardize another winning campaign.

"It's not that I'm taking a chance away from Molde, we're just complaining about the way it was handled," Robert Williams added. "Somebody on the staff should've got the job."

Youthful lineup, turnovers plague women in defeat

by Susan McCann

CHICAGO—When a youthful Panther lineup met a strong Loyola squad Tuesday, turnovers and inexperience plagued Eastern's women cagers, who dropped a 68-59 decision for their second loss of the season.

Panther coach Bobbie Hilke started one senior, two sophomores and two freshmen against the Lady Ramblers, and the squad's lack of experience showed in the early going.

Playing without the leadership of senior guard Nancy Kassebaum, Eastern fell behind 17-6 in the game's first seven minutes while hitting only three of eight field goals.

In addition, the Panthers committed 19 turnovers en route to a 31-24 halftime deficit.

Kassebaum, Eastern's all-time leader in scoring, assists and steals, sat out of the contest with a knee injury, but she was not the only injured Panther cager.

Toni Collins, Eastern's top rebounder and second leading scorer, played only 18 minutes, but chipped in a game-high 15 points in the losing cause. Collins has been nursing a foot injury that kept her out of two games earlier this month.

Darla Farthing, the Panthers' 6-foot-2 center and best defensive post player, contributed two first-half points but watched the entire second half from the bench. Farthing fractured an ankle in early December and has not yet returned to 100 percent efficiency.

Loyola's tall inside players took advantage of Eastern's injuries and the Lady Ramblers' balanced scoring attack proved to be too much for the Panthers.

Lisa Kasprovicz and Jacqueline Huszti each posted 14 points for Loyola, followed by their teammates Kathy Anderson and Kathy Leyden with 13 and 11 points, respectively.

Although the Ramblers shot only 38 percent from the field and out-rebounded Eastern by a narrow 49-48 margin, Loyola boosted its record to 8-3 while the Panthers fell to 12-2.

Cager notes... Eastern freshman forward Chris Aldridge started her first collegiate contest Tuesday and scored 13 points, although she missed her first five shots... Susan Hynd, Eastern's freshman center pulled down a game-high nine rebounds.

Cagers to battle Phoenix defense

by Kirby Flowers

Eastern's men's basketball team will try to utilize its height advantage to match the tough defense of the University of Wisconsin-Green Bay at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday at Lantz Gym.

Eastern used its height edge in last Saturday's game to hand Association of Mid-Continent Universities conference foe Valparaiso a 91-71 defeat and give the Panthers their first victory of the season.

The Green Bay Phoenix sport a 9-6 record with a 1-4 mark in conference play. One of the four losses dealt to them was a 61-56 defeat by Valparaiso, with their only conference win coming over Northern Iowa.

Eastern head coach Rick Samuels said he hopes he can use his team's height again this Wednesday to stop the good shooting and tough defense of the Phoenix.

"We are going to try to get inside against them if we can," Samuels said. "We are a little bigger than they are but they have a 6-foot-9 center, who plays a lot bigger than he is."

"He is among the nation's top rebounders," Samuels added.

The man Samuels referred to is Green Bay's center, Nate Barnes. He is currently averaging 10.9 rebounds per game, leading AMCU rebounders and ranking him in the top 15 rebounders nationwide at the Division I level.

In addition, Barnes is scoring 12.5 points an outing, while teammate guard Tom Brown, Green Bay's leading scorer, averages 14 markers a contest.

Samuels said he thinks the key to the Phoenix team is their tough defense and patience.

"They are an excellent defensive team," Samuels said, "as they always are. They also are a very deliberate team. They run a motion offense and are good perimeter shooters."

The Panther all-time record against Green Bay is 2-6 in favor of the Phoenix. However, at the last meeting of the teams in 1978 the Panthers came away with a 47-45 victory.

Green Bay's overall record versus AMCU teams is 32-7 for a topnotch .821 percent, but the Phoenix have not reflected their past history with their present

Adversity follows LeFlore

CHICAGO (AP)—Adversity continues to shadow Ron LeFlore, the Chicago White Sox centerfielder who went on to become an all-star after his release from prison.

On Tuesday, just two days after his infant son died, LeFlore stood before a judge who ordered LeFlore tried on felony charges of possession of a controlled substance. Cook County Circuit Judge Arthur V. Zelezinski set LeFlore's arraignment date for Feb. 8, when LeFlore will plead innocent, according to his attorney, Stephen W. Zucker.

As a teen-ager, LeFlore served a prison sentence at the State Prison of Southern Michigan in Jackson, Mich., after he was convicted of armed robbery.

After breaking into baseball in 1973, he ultimately became a premier outfielder for the Detroit Tigers, stealing more bases for the American League team than anyone since Ty Cobb in the early 1930's. He represented the Tigers on the American League All-Star team during his tenure there.

The story of his rise from crime in a Detroit ghetto to baseball stardom was documented in a book, then a movie made for television.

He was traded to the Montreal Expos before joining the White Sox. Conflicts between LeFlore and his managers and teammates have plagued the outspoken outfielder wherever he has played.

These are particularly trying times for LeFlore and his wife, Sara.

The couple's 6-week-old son, John Christopher, died on Sunday of Sudden infant death syndrome.

"He was a beautiful, healthy baby," Mrs. LeFlore said. "You hear about things like this, but you don't expect it to come sneaking in your door."

Cagers

1-4 record in the conference.

Consequently, coming off the victory over Valparaiso and the play of freshman center Kevin Duckworth, Samuels said he is optimistic about the Panthers' future.

"We are still very young, but I think that we are getting a better understanding of our game," Samuels explained. "Duckworth has had two good games in a row. Maybe this will be a catalyst he will use to get the season going."

"And if we get people who are concentrating on Duckworth underneath, then defense will start to sag and give us the easy perimeter shots," Samuels noted.

"With (Tim) Dykstra, (Tim) Wyss and (Doug) Crook we can hit those easy shots," Samuels added.

The Panthers will try to mix up their defense, but will primarily rely on some type of zone matchup against the Phoenix, Samuels said.

"We will use multiple defenses against them," Samuels said. "We can't match up against most teams man-to-man, so we will probably try to use different zones that will keep our big men around the basket for rebounds."

However, Samuels added he realizes the problems of a young team and fears the inconsistency of his squad.

"I understand that we are very young and I expect our inexperience will lead to inconsistency, but I hope we can use the Valparaiso game to get everything else together," Samuels said.

Medals given back to Thorpe

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Two gold medals won by Jim Thorpe in the 1912 Olympic Games were restored to his family Tuesday, 70 years after he was stripped of his amateur status because he accepted $2 a game to play baseball.

Juan Antonino Samaranch of Spain, president of the International Olympic Committee, officially returned the goal medals for the pentathlon and the decathlon to the family of Thorpe, who died in 1953 at 64.

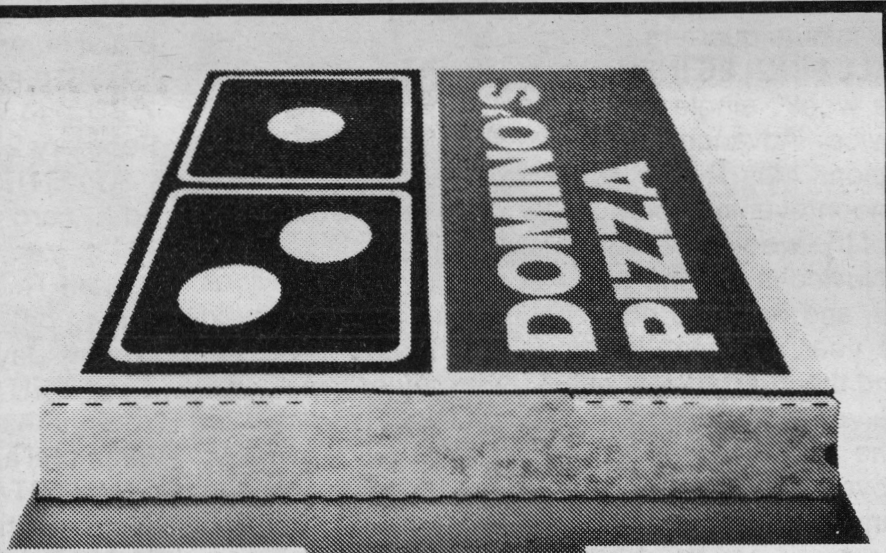

"The 70-year-old marathon is over," said Thorpe's daughter, Charlottee, 63, one of six of the athlete's children who attended the ceremony at the Biltmore Hotel.

Thorpe, an American Indian, won the grueling Olympic events at the age of 24 in Stockholm, Sweden, but lost the titles seven month later when he admitted he was paid to play for a resort baseball team in 1910.

The gold medals awarded Tuesday were not actually those won by Thorpe, because "it would be unfair to ask survivors of the second place finishers to return their gold medals," Samaranch had said.

Samaranch said that since Thorpe's disqualification in 1913, "it is impossible to enumerate all those who protested against the decision and made every effort in order to reserve it."

FORFEIT FEES. Any outstanding forfeit fees must be paid by team managers before they will be allowed to participate in Intramural activities during the second semester.

HANDSTAMP IS REQUIRED for admittance into Lantz Pool, Lantz weightroom and is obtained in Lantz IM Office.

FACULTY/STAFF & FAMILY RECREATION PROGRAMS

All faculty and staff members and their spouses may participate in Intramural and Free Play facility activities by paying $10.00 per year per person fee. Children of faculty and staff members may utilize the Free Play facilities from 6:00 p.m. on Fridays through 6:00 p.m. on Sundays for the same $10.00 per child fee.

Program Regulations include:

1. Children must register at the IM Office, Room 147, Lantz lower level at the north end of hallway and obtain a handstamp authorizing their presence in the building.

2. All children under 12 years of age must be accompanied by an adult member of the family over the age of 18 who is responsible for their conduct.

3. Notify the lifeguard if older children cannot swim.

4. You must be 14 or over to enter the weightroom.

5. Guests of families may not use the facilities. Liability factors decree that this rule be rigidly observed by the members.

6. Personal valuables are each member's personal responsibility.

For more information about this program stop by or call the Intramural Office at 581-2821.

Blitz seek Detroit's White

CHICAGO (AP)—The Chicago Blitz of the United States Football League said Tuesday it was zeroing in on an agreement with "a major National Football League player," and a source said the negotiations involved Detroit Lions linebacker Stan White.

If the Blitz does sign White, the 11-year veteran would become the first player active during the last NFL season to jump to the fledgling USFL, which begins play March 9.

Blitz spokesman Kay Schultz said he was told to prepare for a news conference Wednesday to announce the signing of a "major" NFL player. Schultz said he did not know who the player was.

But a source told The Associated Press the player was the 32-year-old White, one of the most militant members of the National Football League Players Association's executive council and a practicing attorney who negotiates his own contracts.

White could not be reached for comment Tuesday at his Detroit home.

Lions spokesman Don Kremmer said in a telephone interview that, "I'd heard rumors of the signing. I saw Stan in the office yesterday Monday and asked him about it. All he did was grin.

"I've heard nothing official on it and until it happens, we won't have any comment."

Blitz Coach George Allen, a former NFL head coach who owns part of the Chicago franchise, would say only, "You're always interested in somebody of the caliber of Stan White."

Campus clips

SAM will meet Wednesday, Jan. 19 in Coleman Hall Room 340. All members are encouraged to attend.

EIU Badminton Club will hold play sessions every Monday, Wednesday and Friday from 6:00 to 7:30 a.m. in McAfee Gym. All are invited to join in friendly competition.

Weight-lifting Club will meet Wednesday, Jan. 19 at 8:00 in the Lantz Varsity Lounge. Lifting shirts have arrived — all those who ordered should bring money.

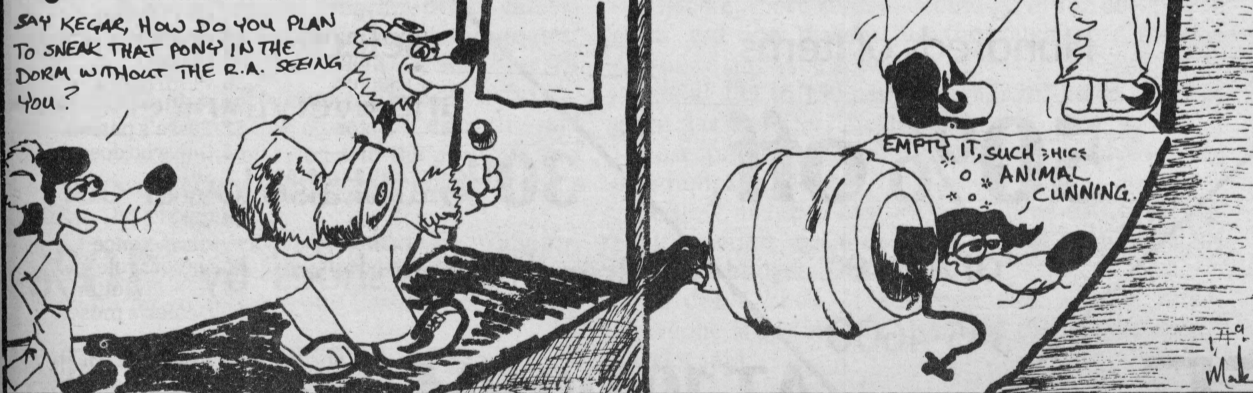

Campus Clips are published daily, free of charge, as a public service to the campus. Clips should be submitted to The Daily Eastern News office two business days before date to be published (or date of event). Information should include event, name of sponsoring organization (spelled out — no Greek letter abbreviations), date, time and place of event, plus any other pertinent information. Name and phone number of submitter must be included. Clips containing conflicting or confusing information will not be run if submitter cannot be contacted. Clips will be edited for space available. Clips submitted after 9:00 a.m. of deadline day cannot be guaranteed publication. Clips will be run one day only for any event. No clips will be taken by phone.
