Committee to handle decreasing retention

by Michael Kuo

The retention of students is fast becoming an administrative headache, according to officials at some Illinois universities.

To combat the problem of keeping students enrolled at Eastern, administrators recently created the Academic Support and Retention Committee after study results indicated substantial enrollment losses caused by student withdrawals.

The two recent studies indicate Eastern lost an average of 973 to 1,045 students between spring and fall semesters over the last four years. The average drop from fall to spring semesters ranged from 633 to 663 students.

However, the Academic Support and Retention Committee is not the university's first attempt to confront the retention problem.

A program designed to increase Eastern's retention rate was initiated by the university in 1978, and a Retention Committee was formed in 1979 to keep students enrolled.

Although administrators at other schools said their problems with student retention are not yet severe, they agreed the issue is one that might be of greater concern in the future.

Morton Weir, vice president for academic affairs at the University of Illinois, said that although retention is "not a problem" at the U of I, "schools might expect more retention problems" now and in the near future.

"A significant number of students are going to school because there are no jobs," Weir said. This category of students "come in and go out more frequently," causing lower retention figures.

Bruce Swinburne, vice president of student affairs at Southern Illinois University, said retention figures at Southern are "a little higher" than Eastern's figures.

Retention is becoming a subject of administrative attention at higher education institutions, Swinburne said.

"I hope (administrators) are concerned for the right reasons," he added. "I hope we're not just seeing a retention movement to increase enrollment."

Swinburne said studies show that between 1979 and 1984 the number of college-age students will decline by 34 percent.

Some universities could be addressing the retention problem in anticipation of future enrollment drops which could result in decreased funding for an institution or even school closings, Swinburne said.

The key to maintaining high retention figures is difficult to determine, Illinois administrators said.

Swinburne said a student that "finds himself involved" with classes and campus activities is likely to remain enrolled at a university.

A student's degree aspirations, socioeconomic status, household income, and the educational attainment of a student's parents all correlate with retention figures, Swinburne said.

Eastern's Summer School Director Charles Switzer, who attended a 1977 American College Testing seminar on retention, said a student's adult contacts might be another influencing factor in keeping him enrolled.

Awards to be eliminated if FY 84 budget is passed

by Marc Pacatte

As many as 30,000 scholarship awards may be eliminated by the Illinois State Scholarship Commission if Gov. Jim Thompson's proposed fiscal year 1984 budget is adopted.

The higher education budget will be cut by $107 million under Thompson's budget plan, which outlines how state funds will be allocated if the General Assembly does not pass a tax increase.

Richard Wagner, executive director of the Illinois Board of Higher Education, said one of several ways to offset the loss would be to cut the ISSC budget by $10 million.

Larry Matejka, executive director of the ISSC, said the proposed reduction in the ISSC budget adds emphasis to the commission's concern that higher education funding has "fallen upon hard times and badly needs additional revenues."

Matejka said if the budget is adopted for FY 84 without any additional tax revenues, the reduction amount "could translate into eliminating awards for the last 30,000 applicants."

"Shutdown on the program could occur in early September," he added.

He said although the ISSC recently reduced the formula for determining eligibility so that "a greater number of applications from financially needy students" could be processed, the commission may have to take "still further action" to reduce award eligibility.

Eastern's associate director of financial aid, John Flynn, said how Eastern may be affected by cuts is "unanswerable."

"We could go without any cut to ISSC and still be adversely affected," Flynn said, adding that the cuts being considered would be "disasterous to Eastern."

The ISSC "automatically made people ineligible" when it changed the amount of self-help money a student is allowed, and more cuts would "further compound that," he said.

Matejka said the ISSC was forced to tighten eligibility requirements in January "to offset anticipated increases in application volume and college costs" while still maintaining the amount budgeted to them.

"Consequently, the commission was not able to provide the same level of support to students that it had in past years," he added.

Flynn said it is "virtually impossible to predict" how the ISSC would deal with the cuts.

He said applications for freshmen should be completed by Oct. 1 for first-term consideration and June 1 "for anyone else."

Matejka said once the ISSC has 165,000 or 170,000 applications, the program will "shut down."

"Year-round processing would not be possible unless eligibility was reduced again,"

As a result, Matejka said, "the later-applying students, many of whom are suddenly affected by the economic recession and need additional training in order to develop job market viability, would not be eligible for monetary awards."

Officials expect fee increase

(Editor's note: The following is the first in a series of nine articles detailing costs and uses of Eastern's student fees.)

by Crystal Schrof

Although a sizable tuition increase is possible for the 1983-84 school year, students may face only slight increases in student fees.

Eastern officials recently said they expect increases in the Union fee, the bond revenue fee and Grants-In-Aid fee, while no increases are anticipated for pharmacy, Student Legal Service and student activity fees.

Currently, Eastern students pay 11 different types of student fees for various programs and services which total $174.60 per semester.

The largest portion of student fees goes to the bond revenue and Union operation funds, Vice President for Student Affairs Glenn Williams said.

Eastern students paid $50.05 per semester this year for the bond revenue fee, which includes the auxiliary enterprise subsidy fee and the Union operation fee.

These fees are designed for student users of the auxiliary enterprises to pay increasing fees until the subsidy is totally assumed by students in 1985.

Auxiliary enterprises include Lantz Building, O'Brien Field, residence halls and food services, the Union and married student housing.

The Union Operation fee, which goes to maintaining the Union's services, will increase $4.50 next year, Union Area Head Bill Clark said.

The Union fee helps supplement Union programs and services such as Hardee's, the Sweet Ticket, duplicating and the Lobby Shop.

The second largest amount of student fees, $40 per semester, goes to the Textbook Rental Service.

The textbook rental fee helps maintain the textbook rental system, allowing Eastern students to rent their textbooks rather than having to purchase them.

Also, students pay a student activity fee of $33.25 per semester. Activity fee money goes to the Apportionment Board, which distributes the fee among eight different student fee-funded groups such as Student Publications and University Board, Financial Vice President John Cole said.

The pharmacy fee of $2.50 per semester, which is also not expected to go up next year, allows Eastern students to purchase pharmaceutical goods from Eastern's Health Service at a reduced rate, Cole said.

Another fee which is not expected to increase next year is the Student Legal Service fee. Students pay $2 per semester to support the Student Legal Service, which offers Eastern students free legal advice, Legal Service Adviser Steve Davis said.

The Grants-In-Aid and Socio-Economically Disadvantaged Student fees are expected to go up fifty cents a semester next year, Williams said.

Students paid $18.00 per semester for GIA's and $3.00 a semester for SEDS.

Eastern students also pay $25.80 per semester for Health Insurance, Williams said. However, he is not sure at this time if the Health Insurance fee will increase next year.

Reagan supplies training-ammo

WASHINGTON—President Reagan told congressional leaders Tuesday he is determined to provide El Salvador's army with the training—possibly some on U.S. soil—and firepower to repel leftist insurgents, but "We will never Americanize this conflict."

Reagan flatly ruled out sending combat troops into El Salvador, and promised that no advisers would enter battle with Salvadoran units. He stressed, though, that "if El Salvador falls, no country in Central America will be safe."

A day after American Roman Catholic leaders called for the administration to press for peace talks in the civil war, Reagan declared "I will not support negotiations that short-circuit the democratic process and carve up power behind people's backs."

Dioxin makes family move twice

GRAY SUMMIT, Mo.—Two months ago the government moved Ben Essen and his family out of their home in the dioxin-contaminated ghost town of Times Beach. On Tuesday they were ordered to move again, because of dioxin.

The trailer park where they were relocated was among four new sites found by the Environmental Protection Agency to be contaminated by unacceptable levels of dioxin, a highly poisonous byproduct of the manufacture of herbicides. That brought the number of dioxin-contaminated sites to 26 in Missouri.

Committee endorses freeze plan

WASHINGTON (AP)—As thousands of arms control supporters rallied outside the Capitol, the House Foreign Affairs Committee on Tuesday called for a "mutual and verifiable freeze" of U.S. and Soviet nuclear arsenals.

Proponents forecast that the freeze resolution, endorsed by the committee on a 27-9 vote, will win full House approval but will meet stiff resistance in the Senate.

The House panel's action came as President Reagan urged evangelical leaders gathered in Orlando, Fla., to speak out against backers of the freeze and "those who would place the United States in a position of military and moral inferiority."

On Capitol Hill, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, Mass., assailed the administration's stance that the United States must first build up its nuclear forces before meaningful arms control accords can be reached with Moscow.

U.S. Capitol Police estimated that 4,000, 5,000 people turned out for the rally, and 600, 700 freeze opponents took part in a separate demonstration nearby.

At the counter-rally sponsored by the Coalition for Peace Through Strength, the Rev. Jerry Falwell, head of the Moral Majority, said he was confident that by the 1984 election "the American people will have repudiated the freezeniks."

Hope dims for OPEC agreement

LONDON (AP)—A key Arab oil minister said Tuesday chances had dimmed that OPEC could agree on a uniform price cut to avoid a global price war. A series of meetings by the cartel's leaders yielded no signs of compromise.

Mana Saeed Oteiba, the oil chief of the United Arab Emirates, told reporters during a break in the talks that chances of agreement were "not very good."

The cartel is under intense pressure to cut prices for the first time in its 22-year history because a world oil glut has reduced its sales. Lower prices would be expected to stimulate demand.

Failure to reach agreement in London could trigger a series of price cuts by hard-pressed members of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries. The result could mean lower energy prices worldwide.

Saudi Arabia and its Persian Gulf allies representing the biggest oil-producing block in the world, have said they would reduce the prices unilaterally if the full cartel could not agree on a lower price. The gulf nations produce about 40 percent of OPEC's oil.

Mayor faces pressing issues

by H.E. Meeker

Although he faces two pressing issues early in his tenure, Charleston Mayor Clancy Pfeiffer said he can carry out the improvements recommended by his predecessor.

Pfeiffer took over as mayor March 3, replacing Bob Hickman who resigned to take a state job in Springfield.

Pfeiffer said he faces two problems as mayor. The proposal to amend a 1959 Charleston liquor ordinance, a change which will allow retail stores to sell package liquor, will be before the council soon. A liquor advisory commission has recommended the council grant only warm beer sales to local retail stores.

However, Pfeiffer said he could not speak for the council until he sees the facts and figures on the issue.

Another issue facing the council is the recent controversy over the selection of a council member to fill the vacancy left by Pfeiffer.

Pfeiffer said he supports his actions concerning appointing James Wickham. Pfeiffer added he believes the claims that the council acted too quickly or failed to realize the legal aspects involved are unfounded.

Wickham is employed by Illinois Consolidated Telephone as Director of Planning and Research. According to state law, public utility officials serving on municipal government bodies is a violation of law.

Wickham has considerable public support and excellent experience to assume the council position, Pfeiffer said, adding he believes it was in the best interests of the city to fill the council seat as quickly as possible.

Pfeiffer said he could have acted as both mayor and commissioner of accounts and finance, the position he left, but that would have left the council with only four members and the possibility of tie votes on important matters.

"I don't see the advantage of delaying this decision for days or weeks. My main contention was the longer it went, the more conflict and confusion would arise," he said.

Pfeiffer said he would "keep out" of the different territories of the commissioners by trying to run different city departments.

Pfeiffer, who served as accounts and finances commissioner for six years, said Charleston is in "pretty good shape" financially. The city council's holding down costs and the city treasurer's office have been responsible for maintaining good financial standing.

Cooler temperatures expected to continue throughout March

by Dana Eastridge

Trees and flowers received a surprise Tuesday when recent springlike weather that caused many to bud early changed to more typical March weather.

Tuesday's weather was "more nearly average for March," local weather observer Dalias Price said. "It looks like the whole month will be a more normal one."

However, Price said the weather will be "back to a more pleasant situation" by the weekend.

"We'll probably get a little snow before March is out," Price said. But, he added, "This is not the kind of set-up to bring a lot of snow."

Price said only 4 inches of snow have fallen this winter, compared with a 17 inch norm. He added the average snowfall for March is 3 inches.

He said that even if a large snowfall should occur, it will not last because the ground is too warm and cold weather will not remain.

"It'll melt like a snowman," he said.

Trees should not be damaged by freezing temperatures, Price said, although a few flowers may suffer. He noted that trees have a secondary set of buds that would not be affected by cold temperatures.

"The mildness has far reaching effects," Price said, including lower fuel costs and "it doesn't kill as many insects."

Price said Charleston experienced four record setting days last week, including a high of 78 on March 4 which replaced a record of 72 set in 1955.

"You have to go back 20 years to find weather this warm," he said.

"That was streaking weather, you know," he said, referring to a college fad of the early 1970s in which students ran through campuses in the nude.

Price said the entire winter has been extremely mild, noting the lowest temperature thus far was 9 degrees on Jan. 18.

"The chance of getting lower than that is negligible," he said, "but we will have some cold days in March—even in April."

P.M. Magazine crew visits campus

by Douglas Backstrom

Students walking near the southeast side of the Applied Arts building Tuesday afternoon may see themselves on the March 29 showing of P.M. Magazine.

P.M. Magazine Field Producer Tod Williamson said program staff members came to Eastern's campus to find out students' plans for spring break.

"The P.M. Magazine station in Florida knows about the rush of college students that plan to be there for spring break," Williamson said.

"Florida's station and other P.M. Magazine stations decided to do a show on Florida's college invasion," he added.

Steve Trainor, a co-host of P.M. Magazine, questioned four Eastern students about their plans for spring break.

Junior Lisa Layzell said she was very excited about being on national television, but wanted to say she was going to do something other than go home for spring break.

"We were just walking out of our science class when he (Trainor) asked us if we would like to be on the show," she said.

"I've never been on television before, but it was very different. It's funny," Layzell added.

Junior Lisa Mason said she is also going home for break, but added that she enjoyed being a "celebrity" for P.M. Magazine.

Junior Leslynn Schafer said she plans to have an exciting spring break.

"I will be spending my spring break in Phoenix, Arizona. It will be fun," Schafer said. "It's very exciting being on television. I hope my friends see me."

Cold liquor sales should be allowed

Editorial

The Charleston City Council should vote, without delay, to allow local retail stores to sell cold liquor if they meet certain requirements recommended by the Liquor Advisory Commission.

The Liquor Advisory Commission recommended that the city council approve the sale of warm liquor in retail stores which measure a minimum of 15,000 square feet.

The commission also recommended that all alcohol products be "screened from view" and that the stores have controlled entrances and exits for alcohol sales.

The recommendation to allow retail stores to sell liquor is beneficial because it will bring convenience, free enterprise, competitive pricing and added revenue to Charleston. And controlling the entrances and exits is a good way to deter underaged persons from attempting to purchase liquor.

However, the recommendation to restrict the sale of cold liquor in retail stores defeats the purpose of allowing these stores to sell liquor.

The liquor commission seems to have lost sight of a major point supporting the sale of liquor in retail stores: convenience. Patrons of retail stores will be inconvenienced if forced to purchase warm alcoholic beverages.

For example, if someone were having a barbecue, it would be more convenient to go to the grocery store and purchase the food and beverages all at once. But, because no one buys warm beer for a picnic, patrons will be forced to make another stop at a liquor store which sells cold beer.

Sales of warm liquor will most probably be lower than sales of cold. Most people will continue to purchase liquor at liquor stores, and the predicted competitive pricing and added revenue for the city will not be realized.

The arguments against selling cold liquor in retail stores have no sound basis. City Planner Larry Stoeber's concern that individuals who are already intoxicated would be buying more liquor is irrelevant because those individuals could purchase the desired beverages at local liquor stores just as easily as they could at retail stores.

Arguments that children could be injured by drunken drivers in retail store parking lots selling cold liquor is ridiculous because small children should not be in parking lots without an adult present anyway. It is not the responsibility of retail store owners to keep children out of their parking lots; it is the responsibility of those children's parents.

Arguments against the sale of cold liquor are weak at best. Therefore, city council members should decide to support the Liquor Advisory Commission's recommendations to allow retail stores, with controlled entrances and exits, to sell liquor. Council members should, however, disregard the commission's recommendation to allow only the sale of warm alcohol because selling warm liquor would deter competitive pricing and free enterprise in Charleston.

CAA ignores students

Editor:

I am writing this letter to express my displeasure with the faculty-dominated Council on Academic Affairs. At the March 3 CAA meeting, I and many student government leaders expressed our support for the two proposals under consideration by the CAA.

The two proposals were recommended by the College of Arts and Sciences Student Advisory Committee. One proposal was to extend the pass-fail deadline from the third class day to the 10th class day.

The rationale behind the proposal is quite simple; three days is insufficient time to decide whether to take a class pass-fail. Many classes meet once a week, not at all before the three-day deadline is up.

Some CAA members who would like to use the University of Illinois' standards on Eastern students failed to consider that the U of I has an eight-week period in which students must declare a class pass-fail. That's right—eight weeks!

Also, the signatures of 900 students supporting the extension were ignored by the CAA. Senator Gail Redeker and many senators worked long and hard to collect these signatures which apparently had no visible effect on the minds of CAA members.

The second proposal, which would allow students who receive a grade of A in a class taken pass-fail to be allowed to have the A grade recorded on their transcripts rather than P for pass under the current procedure.

The rationale behind this is that when a student receives an F in a class taken pass-fail the F is recorded on the student's transcript, so if a student earns an A, why shouldn't it be recorded? But the CAA also rejected this proposal. Some of their arguments were that this was not the original intent of the pass-fail option and that students would inflate their grades.

In conclusion, I hope future issues that come up before the CAA will not face the same fate. Unfortunately, it seems the minds of the CAA members were made up well in advance.

Residence hall vandalism an immature, senseless crime

Living in the residence halls has advantages, but it also has a definite drawback—having to put up with immature idiots who vandalize.

Vandalism is on my mind because a week or so ago my floor, Thomas four south, was trashed.

After a long and drawn out four o'clock club, I was back in my humble abode watching the boob tube. Then, in the middle of my relaxing, catatonic evening, I heard some Friday night partiers heading out to the local drinking establishment. The sound of breaking glass accompanied their departure.

As I popped my head out the door I saw pieces of glass from the fire extinguisher holder all over the floor and a fellow floor-mate casually strolling, amid the broken glass, to the stairs.

After this night of frolic more unnecessary damage was done to our floor. Aside from the broken glass, which cost the floor $15, there was an incident in the bathroom.

It seems that some tough guy decided he was going to show his friends what a real man he was by pulling out the pipes that drain the urinals. When, and if, the Physical Plant workers ever get around to fixing this, the estimated cost to the floor will be around

So, after a very active night, our floor is about $65 poorer. In other words, every one of the 60 people on my floor has to fork over a little more than a dollar for this one night of juvenile "fun."

The point here is not how much money it's going to cost, but how stupid, unnecessary and immature vandalism is. Do the people (so-called adults) who commit these juvenile acts of vandalism get their jollies from this idiotic behavior?

Most people in college are around the age of 19, 20, 21 or 22; we are allowed to vote, drive a car and go to war, but the 18, 19 and 20 year olds aren't allowed to drink. It's no wonder the government won't let them "legally" drink. If we aren't mature enough to keep from doing stupid things like breaking glass and pulling pipes from the walls, shouldn't be allowed to drink.

I can't understand why people vandalize. Sure, I'm no angel; I've done my share of egging, turfing, what-not but never such asinine and destructive stunts as pulling pipes from the walls. What do you get out of this? I mean, really—should you be in college if you can't act responsibly and respect public and private property?

Undoubtedly, the person who pulled the pipes from the wall will not come forth and say, "I did it." For that reason, and because I have little faith in campus police, I stepped forward and committed the most terrible of childhood crimes—I squealed! I told me a narc or what-have-you, but I'm not paying for that guy breaking that fire extinguisher for fun.

In closing, I'd like to say to all the person(s) who yanked the pipes from the urinals in our bathroom: Grow up! And I don't appreciate paying for your immature good time.

Groups plan to protest against violence

by Daniel E. Crews
Violence against women will be brought to students' attention Wednesday during a "Take Back the Night" march.

"The march is in protest of all violence against women whether it be in the street, home or media," Isabel Parrott said.

Parrott, chairman of Eastern's Women's Student Caucus, said the caucus is sponsoring the candlelight vigil as part of Women's History and Awareness Month.

NAACP schedules membership drive

The Eastern Chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People has scheduled their annual membership drive Wednesday through Saturday in the University Union walkway.

The NAACP has helped to secure the civil rights of blacks and whites alike for more than 74 years. Funding has been threatened by inflation and the depressed national economy.

Membership for a person age 21 and under is $3. A $5 membership fee includes a subscription to Crisis magazine. Adult membership is $10 and includes the subscription.

Members of Coles County Women Against Rape and the Coles County Coalition Against Domestic Violence will also participate, she added.

"Women are afraid of the night. 'Take back the night' is a borrowed phase to protest our violent culture," she said.

Parrott said, "Unfortunately, we live in a rape society where one out of 15 women have the chance to be raped in their lifetime."

Domestic violence is another problem affecting women, she added.

Official to discuss illegal aliens

by Gene O'Shea and Pete Swanberg
Alan Nelson, commissioner of the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service, Wednesday will discuss the influx of illegal aliens to the United States.

The talk, "Illegal Aliens and Unemployment," will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the Buzzard Auditorium.

Nelson's visit is being sponsored by Pi Sigma Alpha, a political science honorary fraternity, and the Association of International Students.

Political science instructor Yung Ping Chen said Nelson will be guest of honor at a dinner in the Union Rathskeller and later will be initiated as "Many women who are abused are afraid to leave marriage because they're concerned with the welfare of the children and the economic problems that could arise," Parrott said.

Participants are welcome to join the march scheduled to begin at 7 p.m. in front of Old Main. The marchers will circle through campus and return to Old Main to conduct a rally.

Parrott said the rally will include tape-recorded speeches on rape, domestic violence and pornography.

an honorary member of the fraternity. "This is the highest federal law enforcement official to visit Eastern," Chen said.

Chen said Nelson will talk about the Simpson-Mazzoli bill which, if approved by Congress, will grant amnesty for nearly five million undocumented aliens and create a penalty for U.S. citizens employing illegal aliens.

Nelson will also speak at the International Tea at 3 p.m. Wednesday at the Wesley Foundation, 2202 Fourth St.

Both the speech and the International Tea are free and anyone interested in attending the dinner should make reservations by calling 581-2523.

Senate to vote on reduction in work hours

by Keith Clark
The Student Senate will vote Wednesday on a proposal calling for a cut in the maximum number of work hours for which the Board of Governors representative can be paid.

The proposed cut would save approximately $300 in student fee money used to pay the representative, Student Senate Speaker Glenn Good said.

The proposal also lowers the minimum amount of work required.

Sharon Bartling, a member of the Council for Academic Affairs, will also speak to the senate concerning the credit/no credit option currently being considered by the CAA, Good said.

The CAA is considering recommending a change from a pass-fail option to a credit/no credit option, which would force a student to earn at least a C grade to earn credit for a class taken under the option.

The senate also will be hearing a report from an ad-hoc committee set up to examine the grade point requirement for senate members and executive officers.

The Student Senate will meet at 7 p.m. Wednesday in the Union addition Arcola-Tuscola room.

If you have at least two years of college left, you can spend six weeks at our Army ROTC Basic Camp this summer and earn approximately $600.

And if you qualify, you can enter the ROTC 2-Year Program this fall and receive up to $1,000 a year.

But the big payoff happens on graduation day. That's when you receive an officer's commission.

So get your body in shape (not to mention your bank account).

Debaters earn top honors, National Debate eligibility

by Sharon Bray

For the second straight year, an Eastern varsity debate squad qualified for the National Debate Tournament after receiving top awards in several recent tournaments.

Debate coach Mike Shelton said the varsity team consisting of juniors Monty Donohew and Kelly Seibert qualified for the nationals at a district meet held at Butler University last weekend.

Eastern's pair and four other teams will represent a region consisting of Illinois, Indiana, Ohio and Michigan.

The other four teams are from Butler, College Wooster in Ohio, Central Michigan University and Wayne State University in Michigan, Shelton said, adding that the regional tournament was the last regular-season competition.

Shelton said 64 teams from all over the country will be competing in the national tournament, which will be held beginning March 26 at Colorado College in Colorado Springs, Colo.

The debate team traveled to Butler University Feb. 25 to compete against 25 teams as a "warm-up for the district," Shelton said. At that meet, Donohew and Seibert were undefeated in the preliminary rounds and took second place overall.

Donohew placed fourth in individual speaking while Seibert placed sixth, Shelton said.

The second team of senior Chuck Morrow and sophomore Dee Christoff reached the quarterfinals, he added.

While the varsity squad was qualifying for national competition, two junior varsity teams and the Cross Examination Debate Association team were competing at the University of Illinois.

The junior varsity team of Christoff and freshman Mike Moore placed second overall. The other junior varsity team, consisting of freshman Carol Kocot and sophomore Mary Pennell, made the tournament semifinals, placing third.

For individual awards, Kocot received the first-place speaker's award while Christoff received the second-place award.

In the CEDA division, Morrow placed fourth in individual speakers and senior Cindy Jacobs placed fifth.

Simmons lifts Indians past Madison 62-48

by John Humenik

Marty Simmons scored 35 points, including 11 in the fourth quarter, to pace Lawrenceville High School (31-0) to a 62-48 Class A Super-Sectional victory over Madison High School Tuesday at Lantz Gym.

Simmons tossed in nine points during a 12-5 spurt which extended a 48-41 Lawrenceville advantage to 60-46 with :36 remaining Tuesday to eliminate Madison (25-5) from the state tournament.

Madison, which trailed 28-22 at halftime, fell behind 42-36 after the third period and failed to break a six-point Lawrenceville cushion in the final period.

For Lawrenceville, Tuesday's victory, its 65th straight, snapped the Illinois State mark for consecutive wins at 64 and lifted the defending Class A champions into Friday and Saturday's state finals in Champaign.

"I wasn't really thinking about the points," Simmons said. "I thought we should've broke the game open in the first half. That's what we wanted to do."

"We didn't want to go into the fourth quarter or last three minutes with only a two-point lead. And that almost happened," Simmons added.

The lead changed hands five times in the opening minutes, but Lawrenceville ran off a streak of six unanswered points to lead 9-4 midway through the initial period.

The Indians eventually registered a 14-12 first-quarter lead and behind Simmons' eight points, increased their margin to six points by the intermission.

Both teams notched 14-point second quarters, but Madison failed to contain Lawrenceville which rolled to two seven-point advantages in the last two minutes.

"I think we were too high tonight and the kids thought we would blow them (Madison) out by the half. But that wasn't the case," Lawrenceville head coach Ron Felling said.

"Marty (Simmons) is quite a competitor. We wanted that ball in his hands tonight," Felling said. "Good things happen to us when he's got the ball."

Women cagers to meet taller Illinois State team

by Kathy Leahy

Eastern's women cagers continue league tournament play Wednesday when they face Gateway Collegiate Athletic Conference top seed Illinois State at 8 p.m. in a semifinal game.

Eastern, 22-6, enters Wednesday's action in Normal as the underdog, Panther head coach Bobbie Hilke said. The Panthers lost to Illinois State 80-70 Jan. 20 and were seeded fifth for the tournament.

"We are the underdogs since they are seeded first in the tournament," Hilke said. "But I think we are pretty much evenly matched and we have a good chance of winning."

Illinois State, 18-9, will be without the services of standout guard Dawn Hallett, who is out for the remainder of the season with a knee injury.

Hallett was a big factor when the two teams met at Lantz Gym this season, as the guard pumped in 18 points to lead Illinois State.

Illinois State head coach Jill Hutchinson said, "Dawn was a big loss for us, but I think the other players have picked up the slack."

Consequently, Hilke said she did not see the loss of Hallett being a determining factor this time around.

"Dawn was an asset, and her being out is a loss for them, but Illinois State is a strong team and they have adjusted well," Hilke said.

Illinois State freshman Daphne Smith replaced Hallett in the Redbirds' starting lineup and has averaged 4.4 points per game.

"Smith is an excellent player," Hilke said. "She doesn't quite have the range that Hallett does, but she does a good job."

Eastern is led by seniors Nancy Kassebaum and Kathy Lanter, who enter Wednesday's contest averaging 17.4 and 14.1 points per game, respectively.

In addition, Hilke said she will start sophomore Beth Sass at guard "to add a stabilizing force to the starting lineup."

"Beth gives us some stability out there in the opening minutes of the game because she commits very few errors," Hilke said.

Illinois State will have a slight height advantage against the Panthers in the GCAC semifinals, but Hilke said she thought it would not be a deciding factor.

"They are a bigger team, but we have done very well against bigger teams this season," Hilke said. "Sue (Hynd) has been holding her own against bigger players this season and has done a good job of drawing the foul."

Hutchinson said she doesn't even see her team as even having a height advantage over the Panthers.

"We may be a little taller, but we don't have a height advantage," Hutchinson said. "Eastern is a well-balanced, well-coached team and they are quick, so we are not looking past them in any way."

Hilke said she expects a physical game and for Eastern to win she said her squad will have to maintain its own style of play.

"We play a quicker game than Illinois State does and if we maintain that, I think we can win," Hilke said.

"We are fired up for this game and ready to go and we're glad to have another chance at Illinois State," Hilke continued.

AMCU cage standings

Eastern ties for second spot

by Kirby Flowers

Following its 66-60 loss Monday to Northern Iowa, Southwest Missouri State fell into a second place league tie with Eastern, while Western Illinois captured the overall title.

In its first year of competition, the Association of Mid-Continent Universities' standings were determined on a percentage basis because the eight league teams did not play a complete conference schedule.

Consequently, Western Illinois captured the league crown because it finished with a 9-3 slate and a .750 percentage.

Eastern and Southwest Missouri tied with a .666 percentage and 8-4 and 6-3 conference records, respectively.

AMCU commissioner F.L. "Frosty" Ferzacca said Tuesday, "It is not a true championship, since everybody did not play the same amount of games."

"But it was good to see Western win the title, because they were one of the teams that played a lot of the league teams," Ferzacca added. "They played 12 games and that represents the conference pretty well."

Western, which is awaiting word on a National Invitational Tournament bid, finished the season with an overall 20-11 mark. Leatherneck head coach Jack Margenthaler said winning the title the first year was important to Western.

"I think the first year adds prestige," Margenthaler said. "From now on when you look at the past winners, Western will always be on the top of the list."

"We were picked to finish second second in the preseason poll, so it adds something to the title that we finished higher than we were expected," Margenthaler continued.

"I think that Southwest was in the driver seat from day one," Margenthaler said. "It was just a combination of a physical and mental effort to help us to win the games we needed."

The Panthers, who were picked to finish fourth in the preseason poll, finished the season with a better record than anticipated.

Eastern head coach Rick Samuels said he was impressed with his team's comeback after an 0-12 start and added that the league schedule gave the Panthers something to shoot for.

"After our bad start, the conference gave us something to play for," Samuels said. "We matured about the same time the conference games started."

"It was important for us to do well in our first season to establish ourselves for the future," Samuels continued. "We proved that we are going to be competitive in the conference."

"The key to our season was our mental attitude," Samuels added. "We didn't let ourselves get down; we just kept working hard."

Overall the AMCU ran smoothly in its initial season, with only a few minor problems, commissioner Ferzacca said.

"The first season went surprisingly well," he said. "However, there were a few scheduling problems, but we hope to have them cleared up next season."

You're Needed All Over the World.

Ask Peace Corps volunteers why they teach Special Education or Math/Science in Africa. . . Ask other volunteers why they work as Primary Educators in Latin America. They'll probably say they want to help people, use their skills, travel, learn a new language, and gain valuable career experience. Ask them why Peace Corps is the toughest job you'll ever love.

Info booth Thurs, March 10th, 12 - 4:30 p.m. in student Union Lobby. Interested seniors can pick up applications in placement office for interviews Thurs, March 17th.

RIVERBOAT RAGTIME REVUE

The Musical Comedy Gala

by Tina Dvorak

"It's a class how!" The musical comedy gala, Riverboat Ragtime Revue a class how will appear at Eastern in the Grand Ballroom Monday, March 14, at 8:00 p.m.

The Riverboat Ragtime Revue revels in rhythm, sensational singing and dancing, and nostalgic songs of the turn of the century and the twenties — enough to send you out of the Grand Ballroom happily singing and humming.

While experiencing the revue, you may imagine yourself truly aboard the River Queen on the Mississippi River, with white suited Mark Twain as a passenger returning to his home in Hannibal, Mo., accepting the troupes invitation to give fellow passengers some "advice."

In top hat and tails, wearing white gloves, and jauntily swinging canes, the velvet voiced New San Francisco Jubilee Singers are a quartet of top entertainers whose fine enunciation brings alive the words of all the old songs including: "Give My Regards to Broadway", and "Won't You Come Home, Bill Bailey?"

So, don't miss the boat because this boat only sails once. This nostalgic revue is being sponsored by U.B. Performing Arts Committee, Diane Capranica coordinator. Tickets may be purchased at the Union Box Office or at the boarding gate for only $ for students and $ for the general public.

VT-TV SCHEDULE

The VT-TV is located outside the east entrance of the University Ballroom in the VT-TV Lounge.

Boss...See De Airplane?

by Darlene Geis

Take a flight you won't forget on Friday, March 11 at 6:30 p.m. or 9:00 p.m. in the Grand Ballroom as the University Board presents the motion picture AIRPLANE.

Experience the Trans American Flight 209 and you'll be among the strangest collection of characters this side of the Marx Brothers. See what happens when the entire crew and most of the passengers are afflicted with food poisoning and ex-fighter pilot Ted Stryker (Robert Hays), who only boarded the flight to patch up a fight with his stewardess lady friend, reluctantly takes the controls.

Airplane, which was released by Paramount Pictures is one of the most outrageous comedies to come out of Hollywood in years! "AIRPLANE has jokes, hilarious jokes to spare, and is furiously energetic!" —Janet Maslin of the NEW YORK TIMES. Don't miss AIRPLANE and you'll see why the cast starring Lloyd Bridges, Peter Graves, Kareem Abdul-Jabbar among others "Thank God it's only a motion picture!" Will Stryker, who is terrified of planes, be able to land with the assistance of an air controller who doesn't even like him? The price is only $1.25. This is the kind of movie that can be enjoyed time after time! For more information please contact John

by Missy Cook

"And now for your listening pleasure. . ." Everyone has heard that line before. Students of EIU now have a chance to live that line. University Board Special Events Committee together with Miller Beer present the Chicago-based band, DELUXURY, Thursday March 10 in the Rathskellar from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m.

DELUXURY is a six-man band whose musical interests vary from boogie-woogie to jazz to rock to rhythm and Chicago blues!!! Name it, they can most likely play it. The band decided to concentrate on a blues sound after noticing how well Chicago-blues tunes were received around the country.

DELUXURY specializes in pleasing people. Dana French, DELUXURY member, stated, "If an audience gets off as much as I do on our music, it's good. That's the purpose of the band — to give the crowd a release. We need it to survive." The band is striving to be the hardest working, truly caring club band around.

Thursday, DELUXURY wants to please YOU. Admission is free.

Final testimony heard in battle over ownership

CHICAGO (AP)—A Milwaukee businessman's 10-year battle for control of the Chicago Bulls was taken under advisement by a federal judge Tuesday after more than two weeks of testimony.

Marvin Fishman is seeking $12.8 million in damages and control of the Bull's National Basketball Association franchise on grounds that his 1972 bid to buy the team was thwarted in violation of anti-trust law.

Attorneys for the Chicago Professional Sports Corp., which owns the Bulls, contend that Fishman is entitled to $50,000—the difference between his $3.3 million offer and the price paid by the current owners.

U.S. District Judge Stanley Roszkowski allotted 38 days for the filing of briefs and responses after attorneys wrapped up final arguments Tuesday. He will make his decision after weighing those filings and thousands of pages of other materials.

Under anti-trust law, any damages Roszkowski awards could be trebled.

Paul Slater, one of Fishman's attorneys, said a ruling could take 60 days but added that "we really don't have any idea" how long it will be.

Testimony on the damages due Fishman has focused on the current value of the Bulls. Appraiser Michael Megna, testifying for the plaintiffs, has assessed the team at $15 million.

How to take the plunge without taking a bath.

Most people, when they decide to get engaged, feel like they're in over their heads! Especially when it comes time to pick out a diamond.

If that's how you feel, S.A. Peck & Co. is the perfect lifesaver! First, S.A. Peck sells only the finest diamond rings, using diamonds that have met rigid standards for quality and appearance. So you can be sure, from the start, you are getting a quality diamond ring.

Secondly, we offer a guarantee. Should you want to return your ring, within fifteen days, for any reason at all, you'll receive a complete refund, no questions asked.

Finally, the S.A. Peck system eliminates the middleman, meaning you buy your diamond ring for approximately 50% of what you would pay for the same ring at competitive jewelry stores. And at a time like this, that kind of value is a comforting thought!

Send for our free 44 page color catalog today. It has full color pictures of over 300 wedding and engagement rings all available to you at savings up to 50%!

Or, visit our diamond showrooms at 55 East Washington Street, Chicago. It'll make you feel a lot less jumpy about taking the plunge!
