Mayor Selby?

Student to run for local office

by Karen Sisulak

Eastern student Steve Selby looks at the city of Charleston like it's a two-headed snake—one head represents the university and the other represents Charleston citizens.

"One head is going to the left and the other is going to the right," Selby says. And, he wants to see this snake move in the same direction.

To accomplish this task, Selby announced Monday that he is a candidate for the office of mayor of Charleston, which will be elected this spring.

Selby, a junior majoring in political science, believes "there's got to be a middle point" between municipal relations with Eastern and Charleston.

"They (citizens) need to recognize this university is part of this city. Students need to remember that they are part of this city," he said.

By intergrating campus groups into more service-oriented projects for Charleston's benefit, Selby believes the city can discover untapped resources from within the university.

The university resources described by Selby, who is also secretary of the Delta Chi fraternity, have been put into action before, such as service projects for grade school children.

According to Selby, students have "no active voice" within Charleston and students participating in services, like the Special Olympics or a recycling center, can contribute to the town.

And, Selby said students can also discover that Charleston can further work for them, too. For instance, "There's a general scare among females walking at night...on campus or from the Square," he said. "I'd push at least one more officer on foot during regular hours and peak night hours" to alleviate security problems.

As mayor of Charleston, Selby also said he would concentrate efforts to increase the "visibility" of the police. "The police force has made themselves known, especially with the great DUI program," he added, "The statistics have shown this to be true."

But, Selby noted he is aware of students who have made comments concerning police harassment. "We know that it happens. All you have to do is look out in the parking lots when you come out of the bars. And a lot of my friends have first hand experience."

Although Selby said the police have "controlled alcohol well," he said they have projected a permanent image to students.

But, the 20-year-old from Alton also noted that "there's a general consensus (among students) that the police are out to get the little guy—students."

"This is by no means an attempt to alienate anyone. I am pushing an idea, not a personality. And I'll be the first to admit that I don't know about everything that's going on in the city," he said.

"I'm learning all the time. I always have an open ear," he added.

Although he has yet to formally petition his candidacy for Charleston mayor, he plans to finalize his ticket by the end of the week for the spring municipal election.

Mondale beat Reagan in debate—Charleston survey

By Karen Sisulak

Results of a political poll conducted by an Eastern sociology class, indicate that 44.5 percent of Charleston residents believe Walter F. Mondale won the Oct. 7 presidential debate.

The raw results of the poll, that consists of 184 responses obtained Sunday and Monday night, reflect the consensus opinion of the Charleston population, Johnetta Jones, Eastern sociology instructor, said.

Of the 44.5 percent respondents that declared Mondale as the debate winner, a majority said he won because he exhibited better control and conduct than President Ronald Reagan during the debate.

A large proportion of those surveyed also deemed Mondale the winner saying Reagan appeared unsure or stumbled over his replies.

The respondents choosing Reagan as the debate winner based their reasoning on the correctness of the President's answers and their pre-debate support of Reagan.

Other results of the poll include a 25 percent incidence of support for a Reagan debate victory, while 22 percent regarded the debate as a tie and 8.6 percent surveyed were undecided.

In addition, the poll asked respondents whether the debate changed their current presidential candidate preference.

Eight percent of those interviewed said yes, while 90 percent said no.

Of the eight percent who said they changed their presidential choice, .5 percent shifted from Mondale to Reagan, five percent shifted from

Reagan to Mondale and another five percent decided to cast ballots for candidates representing parties other than the Democrats or Republicans.

Respondents were also asked, "If the election were held today, who would you support for President?"

54 percent of those surveyed opted for Reagan, 25 percent supported Mondale, one percent said they would vote for other candidates and 16 percent were undecided.

The survey was conducted by 33 (See MONDALE, page 7)

Assault outside Union

Police search for battery suspect

by Andrew Leyden

Campus Police are investigating a report of battery and criminal sexual abuse allegedly committed against a female Eastern student Oct. 5.

Campus Police Chief Tom Larson said a 17-year-old Eastern student reported that she was injured in an attack which occurred about 9 p.m. Friday.

The Campus Police have a good description of the attacker and are investigating a number of leads, Larson noted.

The student reported that her assailant was a Caucasian male, about 20 years old at 6' 1", 170 lbs, and had dark wavy hair over his ears.

The victim's report also states that the assailant had a large nose, an acne problem and a recently grown mustache. He was wearing jeans, a T-shirt and white shoes.

The student said that she smelled alcohol on the attacker's breath, Larson noted.

Larson said the student has indicated to police that if the suspect is captured, she will press charges of battery and sexual criminal assault, a Class A misdemeanor.

The student reported that when she was walking along a sidewalk between Taylor and Pemberton residence halls she noticed a man following her and making obscene comments about her figure.

The student reported that when she passed Booth Library, the suspect put his left arm around her shoulder and continued to offer the comments.

When the two reached the stairs outside the Union, Larson said, the attacker removed his arm from the student's shoulder and allowed her to climb the stairs by herself.

The student reported that when she reached the top of the steps, the assailant indicated verbally that he wanted to have sexual intercourse with her.

Larson said the victim was then thrown down on the sidewalk and sustained minor injuries. After the assailant began to touch the victim intimately, the report states, she tried to escape and he struck her with his left fist.

The victim was released by the attacker when an unidentified man approached the assailant and yelled at him. The attacker fled north toward the Union.

The student said the unidentified male then escorted her to Pemberton Hall.

Larson said he is requesting that anyone with information regarding the case—including the unidentified rescuer—contact the Campus Police.

Verbal agreement; The Fixx to perform

by Peter Brouil

The University Board has reached a verbal agreement to have The Fixx perform Nov. 11 at Eastern, UB Chairman Floyd Akins said Monday.

Akins said the agency and the UB came to an agreement over the phone to have The Fixx appear Nov. 11, which is Parent's Weekend.

Akins said the UB should receive written confirmation of the verbal agreement Tuesday.

Much of the negotiations with the agency concerned the Nov. 11 date the UB offered. The agency has been trying to map out a routing schedule so that all of their performances in the Midwest area will fall within the same time range.

The cost to have The Fixx perform at Eastern will be $15,000 plus $3,500 for production expenses and $2,500 for the supporting act, he said.

Anita Craig, student activities director, said Corey Hart is scheduled to do half of The Fixx tour in the Midwest area and may be The Fixx's opening act if the UB's offer is accepted.

Stock market lower in quiet day

NEW YORK—The stock market drifted lower Monday in the quietest day of the year on Wall Street.

A sluggish session had been expected, with many banks and other businesses closed in observance of Columbus Day.

As the trading week began, there was a growing belief among Wall Streeters that the Federal Reserve was leaning toward a less restrictive credit policy.

But some analysts still expressed doubts about the chances for a significant drop in interest rates, because of a heavy schedule of new debt offerings by the government in the next few weeks.

Brokers generally saw no dramatic reaction among investors to Sunday night's presidential debate.

Illinois' farmers support Reagan

CHAMPAIGN—Farmer Bob Carleton sees room for improvement in Illinois' agricultural economy, but believes President Reagan is on the right track.

"I may not have any more money in the bank but I feel like the economy is more stable now," said Carleton, who farms 550 acres in Champaign County. "I feel a sense of stability and security with Ronald Reagan that I haven't felt for a long time—like I did when Ike was president."

And, Carleton is not alone. Though Illinois' agricultural economy remains depressed, experts say there is no indication farmers will turn their backs on Reagan.

But, farmers and farm leaders say the Senate race between GOP incumbent Charles Percy and Southern Illinois Congressman Paul Simon, a Democrat, will be very close in farm areas.

Reagan, Mondale claim victory in Sunday's presidential debate

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—In style and substance, Walter F. Mondale accomplished what he wanted in his debate with President Reagan, but the unsettled question is whether the Democratic challenger's strong performance will close the gap in the presidential race.

As expected, both sides claimed victory after Sunday night's debate, but even the White House statements confirmed that Mondale had scored well.

"Even if you disagree with our view that we won the debate, a draw was a win for us," said White House staff chief James A. Baker III, sounding several degrees short of triumphant.

James A. Johnson, Mondale's campaign chairman, gave no indication Monday that he thought anyone could disagree with his assessment that "Walter Mondale came out as the clear winner. ... Walter Mondale clearly dominated the evening. He showed substantial strength throughout."

Johnson said the Mondale campaign's polling immediately after the debate said the challenger was seen as the winner by 52 percent of people surveyed, while 32 percent picked Reagan.

Baker also had a post-debate poll and said it had Reagan the winner by a margin of 41 to 38. He said the same sample said they would vote for Reagan in November by a margin of 54 to 36.

The two sets of figures in the Reagan campaign poll could be seen as supporting the view of Mondale aides that immediately after the debate, people tend to think the candidate they support was the winner.

Peres opens talks with U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Shimon Peres, the new Israeli prime minister, opened talks Monday with the Reagan administration on his country's economic problems and prospects for withdrawing Israeli troops from Lebanon.

Breaking tradition, Peres is not concentrating on the Arab-Israeli dispute, although administration officials intend to get his assessment on the outlook for negotiations with Jordan.

Israel's soaring inflation, now above 400 percent a year, is the principal topic of the three-day

Peres visit. The Reagan administration is seeking assurances that Israel is addressing its problems in a satisfactory and comprehensive way before deciding how to help.

Among the measures under consideration are U.S. underwriting of the weak Israeli shekel in world money markets; stepped-up Pentagon purchases of Israeli military equipment, including anti-tank devices, artillery pieces and ammunition; and accelerated delivery of U.S. economic aid.

Final day to register for general election

Tuesday is the last day to register to vote in the Nov. 6 general election.

Although registration on campus has ended, students can still register at the Coles County Clerk's office in the courthouse on the square.

To register, students need proof of residence, such as a meal sticker on the back of a student ID or a letter addressed to them.

In order to vote, students must be U.S. citizens, must be at least 18 years old, and must have resided in their current precinct for at least 30 days.

Search for public relations director narrowed down to four candidates

by Diane Schneidman

Four finalists, including one Eastern staff member, have been selected in the search for a replacement of retiring Director of University Relations Kenneth Hesler.

Norma Winkleblack, chairman of the search committee, said interviews for the candidates will begin Oct. 10 and continue through Oct. 16. She said the committee hopes to reach a final decision around Oct. 20.

Winkleblack said the finalists for the post include Dianne Souther Monteith, Patricia Ann Szymczak, Dorothy Watt Williams and acting university relations director Daniel E. Thornburgh.

Winkleblack said originally, the committee received 46 applications for the position, but only 20 of them were qualified for the position according to the established criteria.

Criteria included degree of education, which must be at the Masters level and previous experience in similar jobs, she said.

After reviewing the 20 applications, the committee narrowed the number down to four.

Credentials for the four candidates include various administrative positions in the field of education and commercial industry.

Monteith's credentials include a doctorate from the University of Delaware. She is currently employed as the executive vice president of Wilco Supply, Inc. in Wilmington, Delaware, Winkleblack noted.

Szymczak has a doctorate from the University of Illinois and is currently the director of alumni affairs at Northeastern Illinois University in Chicago.

Williams has received her master's degree from the University of Illinois and has been working as coordinator of public information at the University of Illinois, Champaign, Winkleblack said.

Thornburgh holds an education doctorate from Indiana University. He is chairman of Eastern's journalism department and is acting director of university relations.

Winkleblack said the four candidates will now be evaluated on their work experience in public relations, work experience in development, communications skills, knowledge of publications planning and media relations and management skills.

Winkleblack said the position involves mostly public relations work for the university and legwork for the president.

"The director of university relations reports directly to the president," Winkleblack said. "He does the legwork and then comes back to the president with a recommendation."

The director is also responsible for the supervision of the overall institutional advancement program including: development, university foundation, information services and alumni services, she said.

The job also entails providing guidance and direction for fund-raisers; providing leadership to establish goals and programs for media relations and publications; planning and coordinating managing, planning and administering organizational budgets and operations, she said.

This week's interviews for Director of University Relations will take place at the following times:

Energy project can chalk bills into efficiency

Regardless of the 25 percent decrease in electric rates to be implemented in November by the Central Illinois Power Company, Charleston consumers are still faced with paying high utility bills.

Whenever money is paid for a service, consumers have a right to know how to use that service most efficiently. As far as electric services are concerned, the Charleston Energy Project is providing consumers with that knowledge by offering workshops for all types of consumers to learn efficient energy management.

Sponsored by the Illinois Department of Energy and Natural Resources, Forrest Lupu, of the U.S. Department of Energy, says the workshops are a "community education effort to show Charleston area residents how to make their homes and work places more energy efficient and less costly to maintain."

And throughout October, Charleston consumers can attend these workshops on energy management for the homeowner or renter or small business owner. There is even a workshop on industrial auditing.

Because Charleston consumers have no choice for their energy source, this should be incentive enough for customers to learn more about ways to make their business with CIPS more cost effective.

Hey, money talks and Eastern students, whether they live off campus or not, should listen to this advice in an effort to ease financial strain.

Additionally, any of the information gained from any of the sessions can always be used once students eventually become homeowners, too.

Not only is the Charleston Energy Project going to keep more bucks in checking accounts, the project stresses the importance of energy conservation.

By learning the difference between using a 60-watt light bulb and a 75-watt bulb; or setting back thermostats during off hours, consumers are saving energy—and money. And why not? It's every consumers' right to spend and utilize the way they choose.

Your turn

Capitalism is best

Editor:

I am writing in reply to Kim Alexander's column about how capitalism is clouding individuality. What nonsense.

I don't see how microwaves and McDonald's are leading us to intellectual stagnation. And if Dior, Siskel and Ebert and who knows who else tell us what's "right," then how can she explain, for example, the box office failures of so many "right" movies.

Conformity is a characteristic not unique to capitalistic societies, not just now but in the past and most likely in the future. It's a mistake to assume that this country's fore fathers were a bunch of wild individualists.

If they were, they would have accomplished nothing. Conformity is an extension of the survival instinct, as is greed. Whether or not they are negative is not for her to decide.

She made the point that since the media is privately owned it cannot deliver accurate information. Perhaps so, but if it were government owned it would be far less accurate and far too selective.

She cited some impressive statistics that indicate that the newspaper business is becoming a monopoly and followed by saying free press can only exist when readers have access to other newspapers. I don't believe this is true, but if she would go to a library chances are she would have that access.

"We are the unknowing victims of mass-production and material gratification," she said. That sounds very profound but it's untrue. Every individual still has to make his own choices. He may be a bozo and swallow everything that comes his way. But if we are all truly "victims," why aren't we all running around in Levi's 501 jeans and Chams shirts?

Free thought has not been infringed upon. She has proven this just by writing her column and stating her ideas (however misguided).

Capitalism may not be perfect, but it's the best system there is. I have lived in a socialist country and visited a communist one. If she believes individuality, creativity and intellectual freedom are restricted here then she should see how bad they are over there.

The fountain of youth drains quickly

They're gone. My youthful years of carefree frolicking passed me by this weekend as I successfully completed my 20th anniversary of mortal existence.

I guess I had plenty of warning signs that I was getting old, but I just never wanted to accept it.

For example, there was the time over the summer when I went to a bookstore and some high school kids were looking through the biographies of Boy George and paperbacks relating the thrills and chills of Duran Duran. Meanwhile, I was paging through dusty copies of books on the bands I was fond of in high school. I still prefer those rock stars over boys with make-up.

I longed to tell them about how Bruce Springsteen and The Who helped form my attitudes and lifestyle, but I didn't. Each new generation has stranger taste in music than the last, or so my 25-year-old brother claims, so who would I be to infringe upon their pursuit of musical happiness. Still, I thought it took 10 years for a new generation, not four. "I must be getting old," I silently sobbed.

Another warning signal has taken the form of a reduced desire to party from dawn to dusk on a daily basis. Now I'm happy to partake in such frivolousness three times a week from noon to midnight. My mind and body just can't handle more than twelve hours of carelessness at one time. There are too many bigger problems to worry about—like these lines forming under my eyes.

I must say, the thought of no longer being a teenager was not a pleasant thought. It was hard to be happy on the big birthday knowing I was going to have to start acting like a young lady—although the vodka and lemonade did help.

What's the point?

Diane Schneidman

And having people acknowledge my age was none to enjoyable.

I mean when one of the first things you hear in the morning is your father saying, "In one more year you'll have to take full responsibility for dealing with all the crud in this world," it's kind of hard to be merry. Besides, I thought I was already familiar with worldly crud. How could it get worse than it already is?

Why am I feeling so old? Well, besides the aforementioned wrinkles, I think my aging is greatly related to societal pressures. First there's these mythical age limits. Once one reaches 21 all the challenges to hide alcohol, cigarettes and almost all the other fun things in life are taken away. One actually engages in such activities because of want, not rebellion.

And then there are those wacky advertisers whom I love so much. They have commercials showing people in their twenties who are already discussing the wonders of cold creams and vitamins in their search for the fountain of youth. My fountain has always been filled with beer, not cold cream.

Oh well, who am I to question Mother Nature? I just hope I never hit 30.

Activity fee hike

Eastern compares fees to other schools

by Julie Zook

Comparisons between Eastern and other universities with similar enrollments and Division I-AA schools show that different approaches are applied for financially supporting athletic programs.

Currently, Eastern students pay about $17.55 in student-activity fees allocated to athletics; however, Eastern Athletic Director R.C. Johnson has requested a fee hike to keep up with "our sister institutions."

The proposed $7 hike would increase the 1985-86 athletic budget to $820,000 from this year's $686,750. The proposed fee increase would represent a 40 percent hike in student fee support.

Northern Iowa University-Waterloo, a Division I-AA school with a student population of 11,204, receives about $1 million in student support for its athletic programs.

Northern Iowa Athletic Director Bob Bowsby said his budget is about $2.3 million, which includes $875,000 in salaries and a $250,000 donation from the booster club.

Northern Iowa students have the option of purchasing $40 season tickets or paying $7.50 regular admission tickets per game, he said.

Both athletic and activity fees are paid by Northern Iowa students, but Bowsby said he was not sure of the exact figures.

In addition, Northern Iowa students recently faced a 12 percent increase for in-state tuition, and a 25 percent increase for out-of-state tuition, which also brought a hike in student athletic scholarships.

However, the athletic budget at Ferris State College-Big Rapids, Mich., a Division II school with an enrollment of 10,767, does not include athletic scholarships or faculty salaries.

Ferris State Athletic Director Dean Davenport said the operational athletic budget is about $703,187 with $20,000, coming from gate fees and $25,000 from its booster club. The remainder of funding comes from state appropriations and student fees.

Ferris State students pay about $65.30 per semester for fees, some of which go to the athletic department. Davenport said that according to a Michigan state law, fees cannot be charged for a specific program such as athletics.

Ferris State students have not had a tuition increase recently because Michigan was in bad financial straits and the college froze tuition for the past several years, Davenport noted.

Nor has a tuition increase occurred at Western Kentucky University-Bowling Green, a Division I-AA school with an enrollment of 12,666.

Paul Just, Western Kentucky sports information director, said students have not had a tuition increase because of a poor state economy.

Western Kentucky Athletic Director John Oldham could not be reached for comment, but Just said Western Kentucky students faced a tuition and fees increase two years ago which brought their activity fee to $15 per semester.

Additional funds for the Western Kentucky athletic budget come from state appropriations and booster club donations. However, Just did not have access to the total athletic budget figure.

Southwest Missouri State University, a Division I-AA institution with a student population of 16,000, has an athletic budget of $1.4 million.

Southwest Missouri Athletic Director Mark Stillwell said gate receipts, admissions, concessions, program selling, program advertising and radio and television fees generate all but $585,000 of the athletic budget.

The remainder of the budget is funded through students, who are billed $37.98 per semester.

The $585,000 includes salaries for some instructors, but Stillwell said it was difficult to pinpoint them because some instructors also teach academic subjects and their salaries are divided between different departmental budgets.

Full-time students at Western Illinois University-Macomb, a Division I-AA school with a student population of 12,411, currently pay activity fees of $34.50 per semester.

Gil Peterson, Western sports information director, declined to release the athletic budget during a telephone interview and said one cannot compare different athletic budgets.

It is as if one has "apples and oranges in the same basket and expects them to be the same," he explained.

However, Peterson said Western's athletic program does receive some funding from private fundraisers and donations from the Leatherneck Booster Club.

Rape seminar starts today

The Coles County Women Against Rape are sponsoring two educational workshops on rape and its effects.

Coordinator Bonnie Buckley said the first session is scheduled for 7 to 10 p.m. Tuesday, and will outline self-defense techniques against rape.

The second session is scheduled for 1 to 5 p.m. Sunday, and will give instructions on how to counsel rape victims.

Both sessions will be held in the fourth-floor classroom of the Sarah Bush Lincoln Health Center.

Anyone interested in attending the workshops can call Mary at 348-8394, or Buckley at 345-7851.

Pfeifer crowned Eastern's queen

by Michelle Mueller

Chris Pfeifer, a senior from Peoria, was crowned Homecoming queen in a coronation ceremony conducted in the Union Grand Ballroom Monday night.

Pfeifer was sponsored by the Panhellenic Council and is a member of the Alpha Phi sorority. Her escort for the coronation was Bill Carr.

Currently, Pfeifer is serving as the first vice president of the council.

Pfeifer is an accounting and computer management major.

In addition, Kerri Robbins of Glenn Ellyn was crowned freshman attendant.

Robbins, sponsored by Andrews Hall, is a broadcasting journalism major. Her escort was Alec Lehman.

Homecoming queen and freshman attendant were elected by the student body during elections conducted in the Union Monday.

Marcy Garling, Homecoming coordinator, said candidates for queen and freshman attendant were sponsored by organizations such as residence halls, the Panhellenic Council and the Black Student Union.

Garling added that any organization with 500 or more members was able to sponsor a candidate.

UB to raffle off tickets for Jackson Tour

by Lisa Green

Two tickets to the Jackson's Victory Tour concert will be given away by the University Board Tuesday.

The tickets will be raffled off at a Jackson Five Impersonation show, sponsored by the UB Human Potential Committee Tuesday.

Akins said the UB will raffle two free tickets at the end of the 9 p.m. show. The tickets are for the Oct. 12 concert in Chicago. The first impersonation show is at 8 p.m.

In other business, senior Tim Mulholland told the UB he is resigning from his executive position as vice-chairman because of his class load.

However, Mulholland said he does not want to "leave the board high and dry" so his resignation will not become effective until Oct. 17.

UB Chairman Floyd Akins said the vice-chairman position must have served as a committee coordinator for at least one semester. He said there are four students on the board that would be eligible for the position.

The board agreed to elect a new vice-chairman Thursday.

In addition, Akins said the board will advertise Wednesday and Friday for resumes of students interested in applying for the vacant concert coordinator position.

The deadline for returning the resumes is Oct. 15. After the board has reviewed the resumes, the UB will schedule interviews with potential candidates.

'Excellent' Eastern instructor dies of cancer Sunday

by Lori Edwards

Eastern English instructor Louise Murray, 63, died Sunday night of cancer at the Sarah Bush Lincoln Health Center.

James Quivey, Eastern English department chairman, said that Murray's teaching specialties included children's and biblical literature.

Quivey said, "She was an absolutely excellent teacher and she will be missed."

Harry Merigis, Murray's principal during her teaching years at the Buzzard Lab School, also said she was a superior teacher.

He added that she was also an exciting person, not only because she had overcome losing her leg in a toboggan accident, but because of her competence and her approach to teaching.

Murray came to Charleston in 1951 as a junior high school teacher at the Buzzard Lab School. In 1968 she became a member of Eastern's English department.

Quivey said Murray spent much of her time traveling and had acquired an excellent collection of folktales from foreign countries.

Murray was scheduled to take a sabbatical during the spring semester to visit Australia and New Zealand, he noted, adding that she intended to write a book after her trip and has also published poems and other literature in professional journals.

Murray received her bachelors degree in modern history from the University of Toronto-Toronto, Canada in 1945. She completed her master's degree in English from the Teacher's College, Columbia University in 1949 and later obtained her doctorate from Northwestern University in 1959.

The funeral will be conducted at 2 p.m. Wednesday at the Trinity Lutheran Church in Mattoon with burial at Mound Cemetery in Charleston.

Visitation will be from 6-8 p.m. Tuesday at the Caudill-King Funeral Home in Charleston.

students in Sociology 3681, "Public Opinion and Propaganda," under the supervision of Jones.

Jones said although the survey is a "raw measurement," the margin of error is plus or minus eight percent.

She added that the error margin is "the difference between measuring the whole population and the sample."

The sample used by the class constitutes random selection of Charleston telephone numbers which represent the whole Charleston population.

Jones also said the students telephoned respondents between 6 and 10 p.m. to ensure a higher level of accuracy.

"What better time to measure public opinion than in the heat of an election campaign," she noted.

The statistics in the raw results were compiled by students and Jones Monday night by hand tabulation.

However, the final results of the poll will be released Tuesday once computer analysis is completed. Results concerning demographic information of respondents will also be released at that time.

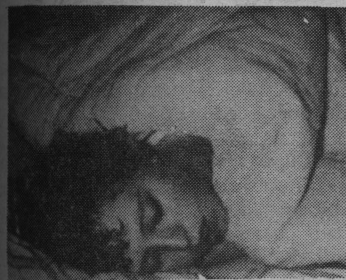

The Charleston poll is "typical" in that the percentages reported by the class "reflect the same numbers that the other national polls do," she said.

IN 1960, THE PILL GAVE WOMEN A NEW FREEDOM. IN 1984, THE SPONGE GIVES WOMEN A NEW CHOICE.

It's been a long time. Twenty-four years, and there hasn't been a sensible new option in birth control.

Until Today.™ Today, the 24-hour Contraceptive Sponge.

Today is a soft, comfortable sponge that contains Nonoxynol-9, the same effective spermicide women have been using for over 20 years.

The Sponge is easy to use. You just moisten it thoroughly with water and insert it like a tampon, and it works for a full 24 hours.

With The Sponge, you don't have to worry about hormonal side effects. And no other non-prescription vaginal contraceptive has been proven more effective.* It's been through seven years of extensive testing, and over 17 million Sponges have been sold.

Of course, you don't need a prescription for The Sponge. It can be found at your local drug store and at selected supermarkets. In the 3-pack or convenient 12-pack.

And the Today Sponge is the only contraceptive that comes with someone to talk to: our 24-hour Today TalkLine. If you have any questions, or you're just wondering if The Sponge is right for you, visit your student health center or give us a call at 800-223-2329. (In California, 800-222-2329.)

Finally, you have the spontaneity you want and the protection you need. But, best of all, you have another choice you never had before. Until Today.

Spikers to host Indiana

by Joseph Anglum

Eastern's ever-improving volleyball team will be hosting Indiana's young and inexperienced Hoosiers Tuesday in a 7 p.m. contest in Lantz Gym.

Indiana enters the contest with an overall record of 7-9, and 3-2 in Big 10 play. They currently rank second in the Big 10, trailing only nationally-ranked Purdue.

However, Eastern head coach Betty Ralston says she knows very little about the Hoosiers.

"I know they're going to be good and strong, but we'll have to try and play our game against theirs," Ralston said.

The Hoosiers will start four freshmen and two juniors against the Panthers. However, the young lineup of Indiana will be nothing new to the Panthers.

Earlier this year, Illinois started four freshmen against Eastern and ended up sweeping three games from the Panthers.

Eastern is still trying to settle on a starting six before conference play begins this weekend.

"The same people are making the same mistakes over and over again," Ralston said. "That bothers me."

Indiana will count heavily on the play of 5-foot-10 freshman Julie Cauley.

LeFevour honored

Eastern's Maura LeFevour was named Monday as the Gateway Collegiate Athletic Conference's volleyball Player of the Week.

LeFevour received the honor for her outstanding performance at the Loyola Lakeshore Classic last weekend.

LeFevour currently leads the GCAC with a .339 hitting percentage. She also leads the team with 15 block solos and 50 block assists.

LeFevour became the first Eastern volleyball player to be honored by the conference this season.

—Joseph Anglum

Eastern enters the contest relatively healthy. The lone exception is a slight ankle injury to Judy Planos.

"I think coming off our successful weekend will help us in this match," Ralston said.

The contest will be one of Eastern's last remaining games to be played at Lantz this season. The Panthers are forced to play the final portion of their season in McAfee Gym due to the start of basketball practice.

Golfers fail in tourney goals; finish second

by Ken Dickson

For the second year in a row, Eastern's golf team finished higher than third place in a conference tournament.

Coming into the tournament, held Friday and Saturday at Cog Hill Country Club in Lemont, Eastern wanted to do two things. First and foremost, it wanted to finish ahead of Western. Second, it wanted to win the conference tournament—something which hasn't been done for 50 years.

Unfortunately for the Panthers, neither of their objectives were fulfilled. Western won its seventh conference tournament in a row and Eastern finished second.

"I'm very proud of them though," coach Kevin Anglin said. "They hung in there and came back to take second."

After the first 36 holes, which were played Friday, Eastern was in fourth place and trailed first place Northern Iowa and Western by nine strokes and Southwest Missouri State by six.

On Saturday, the Panthers shot a 324 team total with Brent Herrin and Brent Richardson leading the way. Herrin shot a 78 and Richardson an 80 to catch both Southwest Missouri and Northern Iowa and take second place with a 54-hole total of 953. Southwest Missouri and Northern Iowa finished one stroke behind at 954.

"I told them finishing fourth is like kissing your sister, but finishing second is an hell of an effort," Anglin said.

On the brighter side and also for the second year in a row, two of Eastern's golfers, Richardson and Herrin, finished in the top six places and were named to the Association of Mid-Continent Universities' All-Conference team.

Richardson finished two strokes behind the medalist at 229. Herrin duplicated last year's place finish at sixth with a 233.

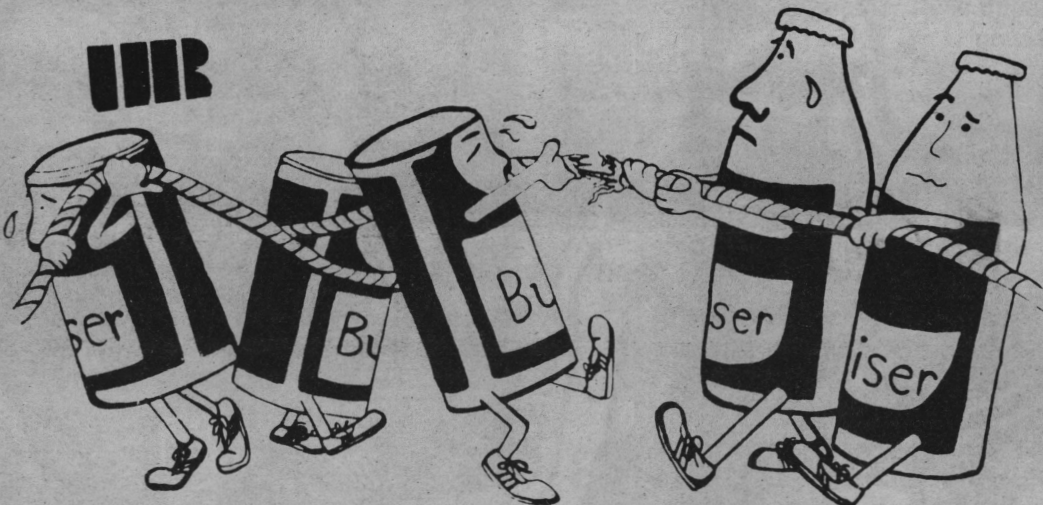

Dave Ransom shot 250, Clay Snyder shot 272 and Lavick shot 281 to round out Eastern's scoring.

Banks, Covington win weekly Mid-Continent awards

by Tim Lee

Eastern's Roy Banks and Tyrone Covington walked away with a sweep of the Mid-Continent Conference's offensive and defensive player of the week awards, even though the Panthers lost to Illinois State 34-21.

Banks led the Panther offensive squadron Saturday with seven catches for 154 yards and one touchdown.

Covington recorded 25 tackles, breaking the former record of 21 by Randy Melvin in 1979.

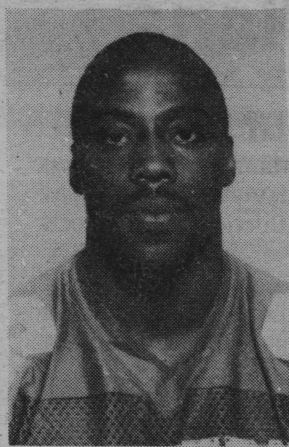

It was only the second and third time a Panther had been chosen for the conference honor, compared to last season when Eastern took 10 out of a possible 22 selections.

"It's a welcome change," head coach Al Molde said, "I'd like to see us get the awards more often."

With his touchdown from quarterback Sean Payton, Banks moved into a tie for fourth place in the Panther record books for scoring receptions in a season and is only 81 yards away from moving into the top five in seasonal yardage.

Roy Banks

Banks, who also won the award after the season opener against Grand Valley State, credited his winning the award to the Panther style of play.

"I'm just lucky," Banks said. "Our offense was designed to throw, and I was lucky they threw the passes to me."

"I'd like to see Sean win the award considering he has thrown for over 300 yards in six different games."

Covington is rapidly approaching the season record for tackles, as he has recorded 100 in six games. The record is 128 set by Bill Mines in 1982.

"I'm not really looking toward the record right now," Covington said. "My knee is banged up and I'm just hoping to be close to 100 percent for Southern."

Saturday will mark the last homecoming for Covington and he is expecting another good performance. "If I'm close to 100 percent I'll have a good game, even though they will be running out of pass offense."

"We feel we have a little payback to make," Banks said concerning the upcoming game against defending Division I-AA Champion Southern Illinois.

Injury adds to booter struggles

by Brent Feeney

Eastern's soccer team isn't exactly going in the same direction this season that coach Cizo Mosnia would like it to.

In fact, Mosnia gave the Panther booters Monday off after a fourth-place finish at the Illinois Governor's Cup tournament in DeKalb over the weekend. Eastern lost to Southern Illinois-Edwardsville 3-1 in a semifinal game Saturday, then lost the third place game to Western Illinois on Sunday 1-0.

Not only that, but the Panthers will be missing freshman forward Ozzie Mollinari for the remainder of the season. Mollinari suffered a broken right foot in Saturday's loss.

"That's something we really don't need," Mosnia said. "We have no depth at all, and an injury like that really hurts us as a team."

"I gave them Monday off because it looked like they needed a break," Mosnia said. "What we have to do is just get back on our game and work real hard. The team's been pretty flat lately, and we can't get the ball into the net. We just have to keep working hard and keep trying. Things will get better for us soon."

To top it all off, the Panthers will be hosting Harris-Stowe of St. Louis Tuesday at 3 p.m. at Lakeside Field.

The Hornets are 7-4-1, with a 6-2 record in the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics (NAIA) Division II district. And, according to Hornet coach Carl Hutter, "we're all fired up playing a team like Eastern Illinois."

That's something Mosnia would like his team to be. "We've had some trouble getting the team up to speed in the games lately. We were very flat against SIUE and started out that way against Western Illinois."

Mosnia pointed out that the biggest problem he saw in the Panthers' weekend losses was a lack of teamwork, something that will have to change if the booters are to turn their season around.

"We only had five guys out there working hard and giving 100 percent," Mosnia said.

In order to beat Harris-Stowe, the Panthers will have to stop their top scorer, freshman forward Mike Brown.

"Matt's scored six goals and added two assists for us," Hutter said. "Our leading scorer from last year, Bob Abrahams, has had only three goals so far this year, but he's been involved in our offense and making things happen. He's a very quick player."

Hornet goalie Terry Beye has recorded four shutouts this year after coming off of nine shutouts and a 1.00 goals against average last year. The Hornets have already recorded four shutouts on the season.

"We're in a really good position for a playoff spot in our district," Hutter said. "We still have a few games to play, but it looks really good."

Beers and tears flow from Cub loss

by Sheila Billerbeck

Beers and tears seemed to be the answer for disappointed Cub fans who watched their team fall to the Padres 6-3 Sunday. However, team loyalty did not sway when Chicago lost sight of its World Series dream by a San Diego comeback.

"I don't care, I still love them," sophomore Mike Ashack said, who claims to have been a Cub fan "since I was born."

Disappointment was the major reaction from Cub fans who had watched their team climb out of the cellar scene and take a shot at the World Series.

"I didn't talk to anyone for a few hours," Ashack said. "Then I went out and got drunk."

"I cried," sophomore Ed Mahoney said, who has been a

Cub fan for "years." "I was all pissed off and mad, but I'm not gonna drop them just because they lost the game."

"It hurt," senior Len Buczek said. Buczek, who claims he is "no fair weather 1984 fan," said "I can't wait until next year—the magic number is 1985."

Sophomore Jennifer Costello admitted she was disappointed with the Cub's loss, but "I'm proud that they went this far."

"I feel bad for them because they think they let everyone down," she added.

"I was depressed—it was a bad sight," sophomore Jim Pottinger said. "They should have won, but I'm still behind them 100 percent."

On the other hand, some Cub fans did not react to the loss as well as the other fans. Doubt seemed to linger when questioned about whether they are still loyal to the Chicago club.

"I was (a Cub fan) until yesterday," sophomore Kurt Cecil said. "I'm disappointed because all they had to do was win one more game and they blew it—they choked."

"I was, kinda, well I guess I still am," sophomore Bill Maher said. "I couldn't believe they lost. I'm more shocked than anything."

"It's gonna be another wait until next year—the same old story," Maher added.

"I'm still a fan, but it's just that reality has struck," senior Tony Sundt said. "When the Cubs win it's fantasy and when they lose, hey, that's reality."
