Fall Break Petition may work, some faculty say

By AMY ZURAWSKI
Campus editor

Many Eastern instructors not only would like to see Fall Break reinstated, but believe Student Senate members are taking effective measures to return the vacation day to the 1987 calendar.

Political Science instructor Andrew McNitt said petitioning "is as effective means as anything to have their feelings known."

Although McNitt said he was not sure if the administration would allow Fall Break to appear on the 1987 calendar, he said he is not opposed "to the vacation day. Everyone enjoys an extra day off."

"If the students find the day off useful and can justify it, then they could be allowed to have it," he said.

A petition asking for the return of Fall Break, which was eliminated by the Board of Governors from the 1985-86 school year to meet the required number of class days, was started by student representative Joe O'Mera on Sept. 31.

The petition, which has already gained about 4,500 student signatures, will be presented at the next BOG meeting in an effort to get Fall Break back.

Administrators have said the petition was poorly timed because the BOG had approved the 1986 calendar at its September meeting. Any changes could not be instituted until the 1987-88 school year.

Mathematics instructor Ferrel Atkins said he enjoyed Fall Break when Eastern's calendar included it because it provided a day off during the long stretch of classes from Labor Day to Thanksgiving.

Although Atkins said it did not make any difference to him if Fall Break was reinstated, he said he believes the senate petition is an effective way to state their opinions and ideas.

However, psychology instructor John Rearden said he does not believe the petition, "no matter how many students sign it, will hold any weight with the administrators."

He said whether the 1987 calendar includes Fall Break "makes no difference to me. It really doesn't matter."

Although economics instructor Patrick Lenihan agreed that Fall Break "does not relieve any strain from classes because it is only one day off," he said petitioning was an effective way for senators to state their ideas.

"If they really cared, they might have started (See FALL, page 8)

House passes farm export bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House approved a 1985 farm bill Tuesday that pins hopes for recovery of the U.S. agriculture economy on increased export sales, and meantime offers a safety net of farm income guarantees.

The vote was 282 to 141.

The five-year, $141 billion bill includes price supports for major crops like wheat, corn, cotton, rice and soybeans, a new soil conservation package, money for agricultural extension and research, and new statutory authority for food stamps and overseas food aid.

The Senate is not scheduled to act on its version of the bill until next week at the earliest. Prolonged House-Senate negotiations appeared likely before a final measure can be sent to President Reagan.

In its key elements-crop price supports and farm income subsidies-the House bill retains the (See HOUSE, page 3)

Rives says divestiture not the most effective way to ending apartheid

By KEVIN McDERMOTT
News editor

Divesting the EIU Foundation's funds from companies with South African bases would not be the most effective measure to protest apartheid, Eastern President Stanley Rives said Tuesday.

"I believe that the issue of the abolition of apartheid is not something that will be decided by the Foundation," Rives said. "The more important question continues to be (U.S.) national policy toward the government of South Africa."

Rives said he believed that even if every American university disinvested its holdings in businesses with South African bases, apartheid would barely be dented.

Students and faculty at Eastern would perhaps create a more noticeable impact, Rives said, by writing state and national legislators to affect economic and political policies toward the Pretoria government.

Currently, both the Student and Faculty Senates are in the process of drafting recommendations on the South African investments.

Members of the Student Senate have already indicated that they will probably push for divestment, and the Faculty Senate will host a forum on the issue Friday.

Rives said student and faculty debate on the issue is healthy. "As individuals, we need to deal with what we can deal with," he said.

South African investments up

The EIU Foundation has increased its holdings in companies with South African bases by nearly $50,000 since last spring, a foundation financial report shows.

When the divestment issue came up at Eastern in May, the total foundation investments in those companies was $181,560. According to a report released this week, those investments had increased to $229,013 as of Oct. 3.

The report, released by Foundation fiscal agent Daniel Thornburgh, lists American Express, Exxon, General Motors, IBM and six other companies with South African bases in which the foundation has investments.

Following a stipulation the

"I still believe (the divestment controversy) is a legitimate issue."

Rives, who is not a voting member on the Foundation board, added that the university's input could have some effect on the Foundation's investment practices.

"I think they (the foundation) will probably be swayed by reasonable and good arguments," Rives said. "I perceive some flexibility on the (Foundation) board. I don't think it's a dead issue to them."

He also said he perceived the relationship the Foundation had foundation created in August, all companies listed are signatories to the Sullivan Principles, the report said.

The Sullivan Principles are a set of working guidelines U.S. businesses can follow while operating in apartheid South Africa. The principles emphasize the use of fair wages and employment practices for black South African workers.

The report also stated that the foundation's investor, the Harris Trust and Savings Bank, had turned down an investment opportunity in American Airlines for the foundation, since American has not signed the Sullivan Principles.

with its investing company, Harris Trust and Savings Bank of Chicago, would be flexible enough to allow for divestment.

The divestment controversy at Eastern began last spring, when it was revealed that the Foundation had $181,560 invested in companies with bases in apartheid South Africa. That figure had risen to $229,013 as of Oct. 3.

The Foundation voted in August to continue investing with the Chicago-based bank, with the added stipulation that all of the companies it holds stock in must (See RIVES, page 3)

Soviet teen becomes U.S. citizen

WASHINGTON—Soviet born teen-ager Walter Polovchak, who touched off an international dispute five years ago when he balked at returning to his homeland, was taking his U.S. citizenship oath Tuesday on Capitol Hill.

"For Walter, this really is his dream—to become a citizen," said Julian Kulas, Walter's attorney.

Polovcak, who turned 18 last week and became eligible for citizenship, was to take his oath at a "victory and freedom celebration."

The celebration was sponsored by the Liberty Institute, a group of young conservatives, and the Freedom Federation, a coalition of ethnic groups whose members have fled Soviet-dominated countries.

"This could not have been a better birthday for him," Kulas said.

Kulas said that while Polovchak lives in Chicago, he wanted to take the oath in Washington, "this being the nation's capital, and Washington having been so helpful to us in these 5½ years of Walter's struggle."

Self-defense sought in trial

CHICAGO—William Moore fatally shot high school basketball star Ben Wilson in self-defense, fearing for his life from what he believed to be "the tallest man in the world," Moore's lawyer said Tuesday in opening statements at the youth's murder trial.

Moore and his cousin, Omar Dixon, both 17, are being tried on murder and armed robbery charges in the November 1984 slaying of Wilson, also 17, on a South Side street corner.

Wilson, who had been rated one of the top college basketball prospects in the nation, was shot twice with a .22 caliber handgun while he was walking with his girlfriend during the lunch hour a half-block from Simeon High School, where he was a senior.

He died 17 hours later at St. Bernard Hospital after a five hour operation.

Reagan to visit parochial school

CHICAGO—Students at Gordon Tech High School are being told to act like "good Christian gentlemen" when President Reagan comes to visit the Roman Catholic school Thursday.

"There shouldn't be any boos at all," Teacher Maria Garvy told her sophomore English class Monday.

Instruction on how to act for a presidential visit began for the 2,450 boys who attend the Northwest Side School just hours after the White House said Reagan would make the last of his tax-overhaul speeches there.

"The teachers told them to act as good Christian gentlemen," said the Rev. Jim Antosz, assistant principal. "And I expect they will."

The students will be rewarded by a shorter school day.

"They already told us: we get to come to school late and leave early," said sophomore Michael Holtrop, 16.

Pirates kidnap Italian ship

By the Associated Press

A man who said he was the captain of a hijacked Italian cruise liner in the Mediterranean pleaded with would-be rescuers Tuesday to stay away from the Achille Lauro, on which heavily armed Palestinian pirates held more than 400 people under the threat of death.

He also said everyone aboard was in good health, which appeared to contradict earlier unconfirmed reports that the hijackers had killed two American hostages to press their demand that Israel free 50 Palestinian prisoners.

"Please, please, don't try anything on my ship," he shouted into the radio from the ship, which was reported to be in international waters off Cyprus.

The Palestinian hijackers were said to have a large supply of explosives, and vowed soon after seizing the vessel Monday night that they would blow it up if military air or naval forces tried to interfere. Flotta Lauro, the shipping line, said 413 people were aboard.

The Italian government said it would not give into "terrorist blackmail," and also said the hijackers "seem" to be demanding freedom for prisoners in Italy and other countries. Judicial sources have said 13 Palestinian terrorists and suspects are jailed in Italy.

Most of the Americans who had been on the Achille Lauro cruise were among about 600 passengers who disembarked in Alexandria, Egypt before the Palestinians seized the ship about 30 miles west of Port Said. Reports indicated about a dozen Americans still were aboard.

Western diplomats in Damascus said the Syrian Foreign Ministry told Italian Charge d'Affaires Pietro Cordone the hijackers claimed to have killed two Americans. "We have no confirmation," said one diplomat, who spoke on condition of anonymity.

The ship sailed west from the Syrian coast after it was denied access to Syrian territorial waters outside the port of Tartus, a diplomat reported. A Western diplomat in Damascus said it was bound for Cyprus, and Beirut port officials said it was in international waters off the coast of Cyprus. But a Cypriot government source said the ship would not be allowed to dock there.

In an earlier radio conversation with Beirut port authorities, the hijack gang's leader demanded negotiations with Israel.

He shouted: "We will hit any ship, any plane that tries to approach us! This is Omar, the hijacker of the Italian ship. I want to speak to Beirut port authorities."

When port officials identified themselves, Omar said: "I want to negotiate ... I want to negotiate with Israel."

Floods ravage Puerto Rico

PONCE, Puerto Rico (AP)—Workers dug through the mud and debris of devastated shantytowns early Tuesday, seeking more victims of the mudslides and floods that killed at least 60 people and left entire towns cut off.

A major storm passed over the island Monday, dumping as much as seven inches of rain in some places within a 10-hour period. Most major highways were flooded, dozens of bridges were washed out, thousands of people were left homeless and telephone service was disrupted.

There were reports that entire families had died, and officials expected the death toll to rise as communications were restored with isolated towns.

Officials said damage would be in the millions of dollars, calling it Puerto Rico's worst disaster since Hurricane Donna killed 107 people in 1960.

"The number of deaths is large. It is very sad and tragic," said Gov. Rafael Hernandez Colon, who toured the island by helicopter and visited the worst-hit areas in this Caribbean coastal city late Monday. He declared a state of emergency.

Hernandez Colon said he saw six bodies pulled from a river below a collapsed bridge between the southern cities of Santa Isabel and Coamo.

Police said three police officers drowned when their car plunged into the river as they went to rescue three other people.

The governor also visited the Mamayas shantytown, where police spokesman Luis Martinez estimated at least 30 people died. Eighteen bodies had been recovered this morning from the one-square mile shantytown, one of several hillside communities of wood-and-tin shacks in this industrial city of about 190,000 people.

Hernandez Colon said the U.S. Army had sent heavy equipment from Fort Buchanan in central Puerto Rico to help dig out bodies and survivors.

"Many people were apparently buried as they slept," police officer Jose Santiago said.

Martinez said up to 400 homes in Mameyes were buried by the mudslide. Police said initially that as many as 200 people were killed, but municipal officials said later that most people apparently fled before the mudslide.

Twelve people drowned in a shantytown between Tuque Beach on the Caribbean Sea and the Jewel River, said district attorney Eduardo Delgado.

Paying long distance bills: Last month's big surprise

By STEVE SMITH
Staff writer

Many things in college life come as a big surprise. Long lines, loads of homework and, probably the biggest surprise, the monthly phone bill.

Eastern students have disclosed phone bills, which were distributed about three weeks ago, ranging from $16 to $609 for calls made during the first month of the semester.

For example, freshman Rossie Travers shared a $609 phone bill with her four roommates.

Travers said she was shocked. "I called home and friends a lot, but I only thought it would be about $400."

Travers said she plans to pay off her huge bill with financial backing from her parents.

"I feel lucky that my parents are helping pay. Some of my roommates parents have told them they can't call long distance anymore," Travers said.

Jim Wadkins, customer service manager for Illinois Consolidated Telephone Company, said, "The student will receive their notice (phone bill) every month.

"Failure to pay the owed amount before the due date will result in a final notice being sent. If the bill is not paid in a short time thereafter, the phone will be disconnected.

"Problems are few and far between," he said. "Most of the unpaid bills come from students who have either moved off campus or simply quit school."

Some students need jobs to support their expensive long-distance habits.

Freshman Bettina Krugler, who works in Carman Hall's food service, said she has to rely on her check to pay for her $113 phone bill.

"My parents would kill me if they knew how high my bill is," she said. "My dad works for AT&T so he would be extra mad."

Freshman Tom Ryan also said he has a high phone bill and it causes him to worry about his telephone habits.

Explaining his $70 bill, Ryan said, "My girlfriend goes to school at the University of Illinois so I called her quite often. A lot of the one minute calls seem to be very expensive though."

However, not all of the students receive high phone bills.

Sophomore Kathy Mullaghy said she was happy with her $16 phone bill.

"I live in Chicago, and I called home a few times, as well other friends in that area. I thought it would be much higher," Mullaghy said.

Sophomore Rob Schmitt also said he was pleased with the total of his phone bill.

"I was very happy with my phone bill ($13)," he said. "My girlfriend goes to Northern Illinois University, and I usually call once a week and talk for an hour or so. I thought it (bill total) was going to be closer to $60."

In effort to help other students to reduce their bills, Schmitt revealed his secret of maintaining a low bill total.

"I usually try to call late at night, like around 10:30 or 11:00," he said because long-distance rates are lower.

Freshman Scott Dettloff suggested another money-saving tip.

"Write letters as often as possible," Dettloff said. "My parents like a letter from me better than a phone call anyway."

adhere to the Sullivan Principles. The Sullivan Principles are a set of moral guidelines for U.S. businesses to follow in South Africa, with an emphasis on giving black employees there equal working rights.

Critics contend that the principles, though well-intentioned, are ineffective, since companies in South Africa must abide by South African law, which includes apartheid. Critics have also stated that the "equal pay for equal work" clause in the principles does not address the fact that South African black workers seldom reach positions of authority in businesses.

Rives cited the Sullivan stipulation as an example of the foundation's willingness to listen to public opinion. However, he said he still has reservations about whether the Sullivan Principles are the ultimate answer to ending apartheid. "There's no question in my mind that the Sullivan Principles move in the right direction," Rives said. "But will it be enough (to eliminate apartheid)? Probably not."

But Rives added that he still believes keeping U.S. companies in South Africa, working together with U.S. pressure on the government there, is the best way to end apartheid.

Rives said "moral leadership" might better come from U.S. companies within South Africa, while pulling out could end any influence they might have on the government there.

"I am not convinced that for an American company to absense itself from the country (of South Africa) would necessarily help that country," he said.

essential structure of current farm law.

It continues to offer farmers loans on their crops to allow them to wait for the most advantageous time to sell, and bolsters income through direct payments that make up the difference between the price farmers receive and a pre-set "target price."

Rep. Kika de la Garza, D-Texas, chairman of the House Agriculture

Committee, said the bill reflected a congressional consensus that ought to "let the farmers of America know we stand up for them."

Rep. Arlan Stangeland, R-Minn., who had favored a more unorthodox approach to solving farm economic problems, called it a "warmed over 1981 farm bill."

Student voice at city meetings just a small step

A student voice on Charleston's City Council is a step in the right direction, but only a step.

Tuesday marked the second City Council session this semester where an appointee of the student senate's sat among the councilmen at their bi-monthly meeting. And it marked the fulfillment of a campaign promise made last spring by Mayor Murray Choate.

Editorial

of a campaign promise made last spring by

But will it really change anything?

Possibly Committeeman John Winnett will refrain from making slams about "babysitting" students while he sits with one.

Maybe the council will stop and think about taxes—such as base-rate phone service taxes on residence hall phone bills which have no base rates—before they consider them.

Perhaps student concerns will change the course of votes on student issues.

But we doubt it.

The best method for students to gain a voice on the council is through an equal voice and equal votes.

With those votes, a hotel tax—which will clean up on Homecoming parents and alumni receipts this weekend—might not exist.

With those votes, half the city's population might be recognized better.

With those votes, the possibility of home rule could become a positive factor instead of a license to tax students at will. Because with home rule, a restructuring of the council could be made to include voting student members. Such is the case in Carbondale.

But as it stands, council meetings are merely votes with little discussion. Meanwhile, much of the organizational groundwork is laid during "executive sessions" which exclude the press and currently the student representative.

If their minds are really open to change, the council will make that second step—and possibly a leap toward reform—if restructuring the council is considered when home rule comes up again.

Then maybe our doubts will subside.

Subway marketing a waste of money

Editor:

Why did the financial vice president even considering giving $8,710 to the Subway Lounge in the Union?

They have already thrown away so much money by opening the non-alcoholic lounge and now that they can't attract people they want to throw away $8,710 in a ridiculous advertising blitz.

I recommend that the Student Senate do something constructive with the funds, like give an alcoholic lounge a $8,710 facelift and keep the Subway like it is.

Believe me, all non-drinkers on this campus are fully aware that the Subway exists and paying for a half-page ad in The Daily Eastern News makes no sense at all. Put the money into something the majority of students will use for once—not the minority.

Homecoming can bring comradeship

Editor:

As a member of the greek community I feel it is important to stress panhellenic fellowship throughout all sororities and fraternities.

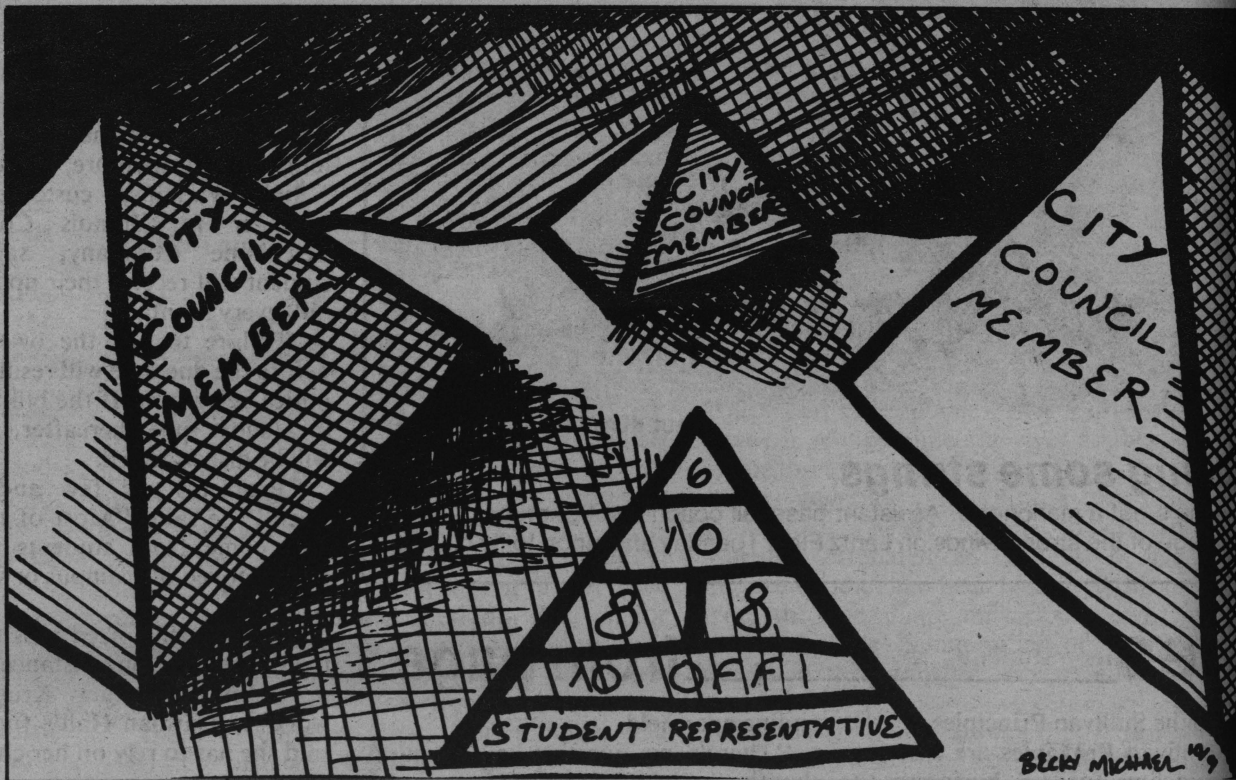

Unfortunately, as a member of a smaller sorority, I see how often we are somehow left out or overlooked and wonder where this greek comradeship exists.

We are a sorority with real sisterhood and greek spirit. We contribute and are ready to help anytime in the greek, campus and community activities. Perhaps other sororities and fraternities feel this way at times.

Supposedly the greek community is a whole and supportive of its individual groups of fraternities and sororities, and with Homecoming this week, it would be nice to see more of this support and a little less display of competition. Let's make it the fun it can and should be.

No masses to huddle in some states

I've come to a shocking and stunning conclusion about some of the states that comprise these United States.

Some of the states don't have people.

I'm not talking about California, New York or Florida, where a great majority of Americans live, but the states you can never remember the capitals of, or the states where you never send Christmas cards. Idaho, for instance.

Or Montana.

These are the states whose mountainous scenery are used on greeting cards, but the cards never show any people—just scenery.

Is it because people in Idaho are too shy to be photographed for a greeting card? No, fellow cynics. It's because there are no people who live in Idaho.

I'll let you in on a little secret—Idaho is a commuter state.

Yes. The governor and the legislature and the folks who grow Orela potatoes commute from neighboring states, like Oregon and Montana. That's why the people at Orela have to include Oregon in their spud packaging.

But Idaho isn't exempt from the non-people phenomena. Montana and the Dakotas also fit into the category.

Montana is used as a tax shelter for people who live in places with too many people, like New York, California, Florida or any New Jersey swamp. And the Dakotas are used to provide network weathermen with new low temperatures.

Today's question from the cynic's box: If no one lives in the Dakotas, why do they deserve to be separate states?

There are groups of states which have been named into regions, or belts.

The Sun Belt. The Wrinkle Belt. The Corn Belt.

But states such as Idaho, Montana, the Dakotas and sometimes Ohio aren't included in these titled regions. Why? Once again, no one lives there.

Non-peopled states aren't limited to the upper-far Northwest.

Notebook:

Take Vermont, for instance. Quite a few people take fall bus excursions into Vermont to look at the changing colors of the various tree leaves. And quite a few jokes are made about Vermont accents, like the guy who's on the Pepperidge Farm commercials, or as he says, 'Pep-ridge Fahm.'

I think there is a talent agency which populates Vermont with actors who can reproduce Vermont accents for those Midwesterners who take the fall leaf tours.

One of my cousins, a product of a true Midwestern farm, took a leaf tour last year and was thrilled with the seeming authenticity of the charming Vermont accent she constantly heard.

Keep in mind, however, that this was the same college-graduate cousin who didn't know that Dachau was a German concentration camp. Small wonder she was taken in by the talent agency actor who was always just slightly ahead the tour bus.

But I've deviated from my main subject.

Non-peopled states should be recognized by Congress for what they are—empty.

Or else Congress should enact legislation to group these scenic, but empty states together in a lifeless lump.

There was a reason that the Statue of Liberty, noting the 'huddled masses,' wasn't placed in Idaho. There were damn few masses to huddle.

Here's a suggestion. Write your congressman. Here's an example:

Stray keys may be tied to apparent break-ins—Larson

By MICHAEL CLARK
Staff writer

Several faculty offices have been hit by apparent break-ins without forced entry in the last year, raising questions on how access was gained, said Tom Larson, university security chief.

While nothing of value has been reported stolen, some faculty purport to have had transistor radios taken, and one instructor is rumored to have had a test stolen, Larson said.

"It's really hard to tell if doors were locked," Larson said of the unproven break-ins, "or if (burglars) just walked in when the instructor left for a few minutes."

Despite the fact no campus arrests have been made in connection with any of the purported thefts, the Faculty Senate will discuss at its next meeting the results of a campus security survey dealing with stray keys.

From the survey, the senate will formulate what action to take, if any, Faculty Senate Chair Jayne Ozier said.

Some professors are concerned about the possibility of students gaining access to faculty offices with a master key, she said.

"A professor said that he overheard a student bragging to his friends that he had a master key," Ozier said. "Some professors are really concerned about the possibility of students having master keys."

"Once we discuss the survey we will have better indication on the seriousness of the situation," she said.

When asked about the possibility of a student obtaining a master key,

Larson said, "You'll get a key lost or misplaced by a faculty member, and it's really hard to tell where it could go."

Larson said the toughest part of investigating break-ins is the time element involved in reporting incidents.

Larson said last week an instructor reported a radio was missing from his office but was not sure what day and time the item was taken.

"It's really hard to know how something is stolen when the time the incident occurred is unknown," Larson said. "Sometimes it takes a few days for a person to realize something has been taken."

The important time element according to Larson is whether the theft occurred during the day or evening. Sometimes a instructor may leave momentarily from his office when a theft occurs. The instructor may not realize that anything has been stolen until a few days later.

"This time element is the main problem in figuring out whether students are gaining access to offices with master keys," Larson said. "If we knew the time of the break-in, it would be easier to figure how they gained access."

Larson said he has discussed the situation with the physical plant about ways to improve the overall security of university buildings, which could include changing locks to some buildings, but has not made any final decision on how to solve the problem.

City Council seats student member, names fire chief

By JIM ALLEN
City editor

Charleston's City Council provided two people with new chairs Tuesday—one figuratively in a career promotion and another literally in his seating assignment at the meetings.

After two months at the helm of the Charleston Fire Department as acting chief, former Eastern student Tom Watson was unanimously approved by the council to take the post permanently.

Meanwhile, junior Joe O'Mera was moved from his seat in the audience to one adjacent to the council's table. O'Mera, the Student Senate legislative leadership committee chairman, was appointed by the senate along with junior Terry Mueller to serve in the new non-voting capacity on the council. For the second meeting in a row, Mueller was absent.

After the meeting, Charleston Mayor Murray Choate said that while the student representatives will not be able to vote or meet in the council's executive sessions, they will have access to the agenda and meeting materials three or four days ahead of the press.

Choate said a stipulation of the advance agendas will be that the student representatives not forward any of the information to members of the press.

In approving Watson as the new fire chief, commissioner Dick Corbin hinted that finding a new assistant chief may not be necessary, pending a reorganization of the fire department. Corbin confirmed that an elimination of the assistant chief job may be a cost-cutting measure.

Neither Watson's old salary nor his new one were available late Tuesday.

Watson, a lifelong Charleston resident who began work in the now-defunct Coles County Ambulance Service, became the city's first ambulance attendant when the CFD took over the service.

Watson said he was never attracted to firefighting, but "it became a part of me," adding he became active in firefighting in 1976 when the CFD was "short-handed and I fell into the job."

A personal goal, he said, is to complete his education at Eastern, where he finished five semesters in zoology and botany.

Watson beat out some 20 other applicants and first took over as acting chief when Les Higgenbottom unexpectedly announced his resignation August 1—the same date Watson started with the CFD 12 years earlier.

South Africa committee to propose plan to senate

By A.L. LANDERS
Staff writer

A recommendation regarding Eastern Illinois University Foundation funds invested with companies doing business in apartheid South Africa will be presented to the Student Senate Wednesday.

The committee assigned to investigate possible alternatives for the funds will report and assess student views expressed during last week's South African forum, Senate Speaker Larry Markey said.

The committee, composed of senators Jaime Martinez, Jim Mueller, Darin Buczkowski and Terry Mueller, will recommend what action should be taken by the senate, Markey added.

Student Body President Floyd Akins said that pending senate approval, the recommendation will then be sent to the EIU Foundation.

As of late Tuesday, the commission had not yet announced its position on the matter.

In other senate business, Markey said he will report when and where a workshop for senators will be held.

The workshop, which will discuss time management and parliamentary law, as well as the duties and responsibilities of senators, will probably be held Nov. 16 in the Union, Markey said.

Markey said he wants to hold the workshop after the Nov. 13 senate elections.

In addition, the senate, which meets at 7 p.m. in the Union-Addition Arcola/Tuscola room, will vote on a University Board bylaw proposal, Markey said.

The basic gist of the bylaw proposal is to place the Subway as a UB standing committee, which would have a student coordinator in charge, Markey said.

Senate will also be voting on a revision of the student/faculty board bylaws, Markey said.

And senator Terry Mueller will introduce a senate bylaw change concerning unexcused absences from senate meetings, Markey said.

Markey explained that roll call is currently taken at the beginning of the meeting and at the end of the meeting.

If a senator misses the first roll call, it is counted as one absence, and if they miss final roll call, it is counted as a second absence.

Markey explained that the current policy allows a senator to be counted absent up to two times for one senate meeting.

Mueller's proposal, if approved, would change the absence policy to one half an absence for each roll call missed, Markey said.

Senate unanimously approves letter to BOG

By TERI BROWN
Staff writer

The Faculty Senate Tuesday unanimously approved a letter written to the Board of Governors opposing the changeover from an executive board to a chancellorship.

"I think it (the letter) represents the way we feel very well," member Scott Smith said.

Under the current system, the BOG is administered by an executive director, and university presidents have a direct voice to the Board.

Under a chancellorship, the executive director would be replaced by a chancellor. The senate opposed the changeover because the presidents' powers would be limited, and each would be reduced to a "figurehead" since he would have no direct access to the board.

The letter, written by Ozier and senate members Dick Goodrick and Carol Stevens, stated, "An obvious realignment of power shifts emphasis away from the presidents, threatening the autonomy and diversity of the universities in the system."

Universities under control of the BOG include Western, Northeastern, Chicago State, Governors State and Eastern.

The senate also discussed whether graduate students should be dropped from the Textbook Rental Service.

David Buchanan, a member of the rental service, said that a 1981 committee conducted numerous surveys in various universities to compare renting books versus buying them.

Students surveyed attended Illinois State, Western, Indiana State, University of Arkansas, Southwest Missouri and the University of Oregon along with transfer students to Eastern.

"Based on the survey results, we (the committee) recommended that if the rental system is to be kept, graduate courses should be dropped," Buchanan said.

Buchanan said the committee looked at the books the students at other colleges wanted to keep instead of selling back, and Eastern students only kept 25 percent of those books.

"It's inappropriate for professional training. We should encourage them to build up their own library," Buchanan said. "You really can't justify either way for economical reasons."

"The numbers were statistically similar," he added. "We were surprised. We thought it would be more economic for the rental service."

The senate will continue discussion at next week's meeting concerning the agenda item.

Senate member Terry Perkins also reminded the Senate of the South African divestiture debate by four members of the EIU Debate Squad at 2 p.m., Thursday in the Charleston-Mattoon Room of the Union.

Arguing in favor of divestiture will be Allan Hailey and Jay Zuzevich, and arguing against will be Chris Mounts and Jim Conley.

The debate will be held in connection with the informational forum at 2 p.m., Friday at Buzzard Auditorium. Rev. Jack Cramer-Heurman, pastor of Faith United Methodist Church in East Peoria and Professor Bola Adana, a faculty member of the University of Ilorin, Nigeria will participate.

UB negotiates for REM concert

University Board chairman John Allston gave UB coordinators an update Tuesday on concert possibilities, including how negotiations are going with the band REM.

If an agreement between UB and REM is reached, the "progressive underground" band, as Allston called them, would be at Eastern for a December concert.

"REM is a group on the way up," Allston said, "Negotiations are still under way; it could go either way."

In addition, Allston said UB is trying to get the Hooters for a concert in either early January or late February.

"The Hooters are popular on the East Coast," Allston said, "They also have a video that's really hot on MTV."

In other business, Special Events coordinator Kim Hagen resigned from UB. Interviews for the post, as well as the open concert coordinator position, will be held next week.

something sooner," he said. "But I guess there is a chance that fall break will be brought back in a couple of years."

Geology/Geography instructor Dave Davenport also said if the petition has "a lot" of signatures, it could cause officials to consider reinstating fall break.

"If enough students sign it (petition), and can justify the needing of the day off, I would suspect that it would be added," he said.

However, he said he believes the addition of fall break to the 1987 calendar will cause officials to add an extra day to the beginning of the semester.

"I would rather see us start a day sooner," Davenport said. "It would help break up the long, continuous stretch of classes in the fall."

English instructor Ruth Hoberman also said she would like to see the vacation day added to the 1987 calendar because "it is a valuable break. The long stretch of classes is draining and the day off would provide us (students and instructors) with a needed vacation."

Although Hoberman said she was not sure about the senate's timing in introducing the petition, she said they "have a right to make their opinions known and a petition allows them to do that as well as any other means."

Harassment survey due

A sexual harassment survey, which was mailed to 1,600 faculty, students and civil service workers, must be in the mail Wednesday to be tallied in the results.

The survey, sponsored by the Affirmative Action Advisory Committee, will determine how prevalent harassment is and what types of people it affects at Eastern.

The committee has currently received about 500 responses to the survey. The results of the survey will be available in two weeks, according to committee member Johnetta Jones.

One-semester student senate seat available due to registration

There is one one-semester seat open on Student Senate because of a resignation several weeks ago.

Senate Speaker Larry Markey said Tuesday that one at-large senate seat is available because of the resignation of Doug Anderson two weeks ago.

Markey declined to comment on Anderson's reason for resigning, and Anderson was not available for comment Tuesday.

Students interested in the position should pick up an application form in the student government office, located in the Union, beginning Wednesday.

Students are required to get 25 student signatures on their petitions to be considered.

The last day to apply for the seat is Oct. 15. Applicants will be interviewed by the Legislative Leadership committee on Oct. 15, with results announced at the Oct. 16 senate meeting, Markey said.

The new senator will hold the office until the November election.

Seminar helps unsure students make suitable career choices

By ANDY LEWIS
Staff writer

A career choice seminar titled "Career Choices—How Do I Decide?" was held Tuesday night at the Counseling Center.

The seminar, led by counselor Dave Baird, had an attendance of about 30 people.

Baird divided the seminar into two parts. The first part was a series of self-assessment tests designed to "get a better idea of ourselves in terms of our values, interests, and skills," Baird said.

A variety of tests was given in the first section of the seminar including one that gauged, in general terms, the interests and abilities of the people attending the seminar.

Baird also recommended taking the Strong-Cambell interest test as an aid in making a career decision. He said that the test was very helpful for those students having trouble choosing a career.

In the second part of the session Baird focused on the "real world of work and taking a closer look at our skills."

He suggested looking through the Occupational Outlook Handbook to get a better sense of what people actually do in various occupations.

Baird gave an occupational information test on jobs with unusual names, showing that an occupation is not always what the name implies.

This test proved to be difficult and tricky. It included an occupation called a crabber. From the name one would assume the job entails either catching or cleaning crabs, but the test revealed that a crabber is actually a someone who operates a log loading machine. This is just one example of a misleading name for a job.

Baird also discussed the projected needs for various jobs in the next ten years. The most needed job in the future will be janitorial work, Baird said.

Another prospective field for the future included secretarial and clerical jobs.

Helping students with undecided careers gain a perspective on their future employment plans was the main objective of the seminar.

Those who attended the seminar received information to aid them.

Lady netters defeat ISU

Eastern's women's tennis team defeated Gateway Collegiate Athletic Conference opponent Illinois State 6-3 Tuesday afternoon at the Triad Courts.

The Panthers showed their depth by winning the fourth through sixth singles spots and also the second and third doubles combinations.

In the singles matches Eastern's No. 1, Laurie Lahman, lost to Julie Loomis 6-7, 1-6; No. 2 Diana Durkee beat Dawn Hanson 3-6, 6-2, 6-4; No. 3 Sally Stout was edged by Peggy Scheiman 7-5, 5-7, 1-6; No. 4 Lori Zupanci beat Chris Nowicki 6-4, 5-7, 6-4; No. 5 Maureen McKeon beat Candy Medina 6-0, 6-4; and No. 6 Lisa Stock swept Annie Burris 6-1, 6-4.

In the doubles matches, Illinois State's Loomis and Hanson took the No. 1 match over Lahman and Durkee, 5-7, 3-6, but Stout and McKeon easily took the No. 2 doubles over Nowicki and Medina, 6-1, 6-1. The No. 3 doubles was won by Eastern's Stock and Beth Stuckey who beat Scheiman and Burris 7-5, 6-3.

The netters will travel to Sangamon State College Saturday for a triangular with the host and Augustana College.

12 straight batters retired by Stieb.

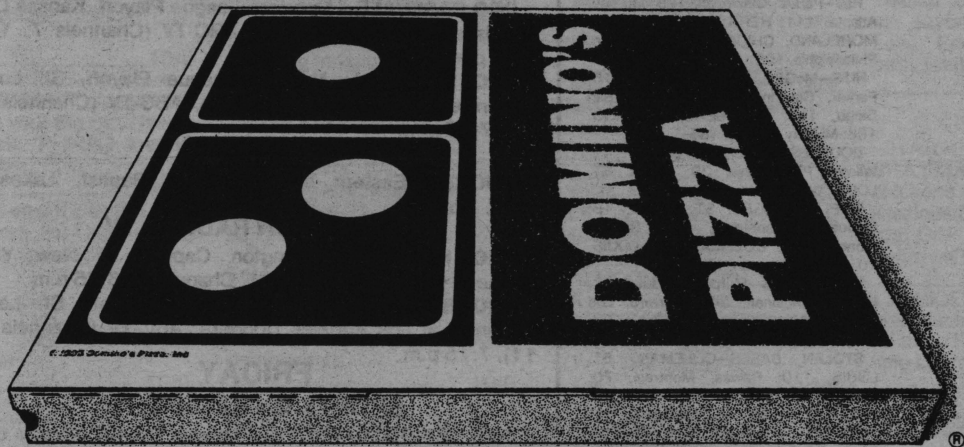

Stieb allowed only one other runner, a walk to Pat Sheridan in the fourth, and struck out eight. The hard-throwing Stieb fanned eight different Royals, all except Sheridan, before Henke came in to pitch the ninth.

The only troubleshoot for Stieb, in fact, came while he was warming to start the second, when a young woman bolted out of the right-field seats, ran to the mound and hugged the startled pitcher, Stieb did not seem shaken, and pitched a 1-2-3 inning.

Leibrandt, meanwhile, lasted just two full innings and was driven from the mound in the third with the bases loaded and no outs. The Blue Jays, who were 0-2 against Leibrandt during the season, ripped the 17-game winner for five runs on seven hits.

Game 2 is scheduled for Wednesday afternoon, when Kansas City lefty Bud Black is to face Jimmy Key, 14-6.

Spikers preparing for GCAC slate with match against ICC

By DAN VERDUN
Assistant sports editor

Wednesday's volleyball match against Illinois Central College will be more than just another contest for Eastern senior middle hitter Lori Berger.

For just two seasons ago Berger was leading ICC to a third-place finish in the National Junior College Athletic Association finals, a feat she calls her biggest thrill while playing under coach Karen Guttmiller.

Even though the match will be exhibition and not count on the teams' records, it certainly won't bother Berger.

"I really want to win," Berger said. "I know that they're really going to be good and we're going to have to be up for the match."

"We really have to be on our toes because they have a very good program."

Berger, a Henry native, is Eastern's leader in block assists with 40. In addition, the senior has collected 29 service aces, good for third place on the team.

Meanwhile, although Eastern coach Betty Ralston would definitely like to win the match, she intends to use it as a training ground to build for the Gateway Conference season which opens play Oct. 18.

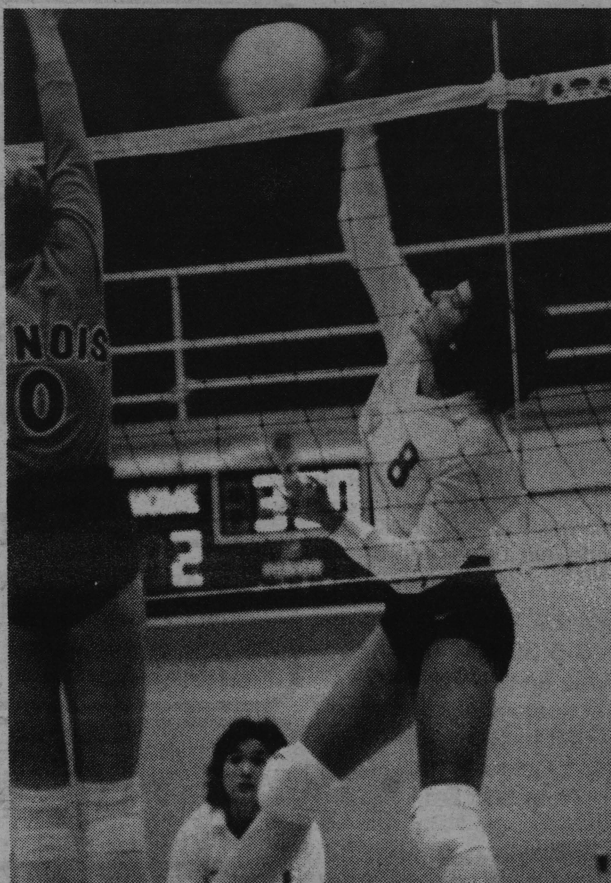

"We're going to try some different offensive strategies on our serve-serve," Ralston said. "We're also going to use a number of different line-ups, probably the same as the number of games the match goes."

"Everybody is going to get to play, I especially plan on letting the freshmen play full games," Ralston said. "We want to work in one or two subs with the starters, rather than make wholesale substitutions."

Eastern, 12-8, is led by senior outside hitter Judy Planos. The Evanston product is hitting .257 with 192 kills and a team-leading 37 aces.

Junior Maura LeFevour adds a .228 hitting percentage and a club-leading 18 block solos to the Eastern attack.

leading 208 kills and 158 digs. The sophomore is also second in aces with 31.

Sophomore setter Jeanne Pacione "quarterbacks" the Panthers' 5-1 offensive alignment with 539 assists. Pacione has also registered 32 block assists.

AMERICAN LEAGUE PLAYOFFS '85

Blue Jays, Stieb too much for KC, take Game One

TORONTO (AP)—Dave Stieb held Kansas City to three hits through eight innings and the Toronto Blue Jays, showcasing the blend that brought them their first-ever division title, beat the Royals 6-1 Tuesday night in the first game of the American League playoffs.

The Blue Jays, the AL East champions in just their ninth season, scored all their runs in the first four innings and ended with 11 hits in the first AL postseason game held outside the United States.

The loss in the opener of the best-of-seven series saddled Kansas City Manager Dick Howser with an 0-10 record in the postseason as his Royals crumbled under the Blue Jays' early mix of speed, power and aggressiveness.

Stieb shut out the Royals through eight innings. Tom Henke, the Jays' surprise bullpen star this season, gave up two hits to lead off the ninth, and Willie Wilson scored the lone Kansas City run on a fielder's choice.

The game featured the two starting pitchers who led the league in earned run average. But while the top-ranked Stieb, with a 2.48 ERA, looked every bit the part, the Blue Jays ripped Charlie Leibrandt and sent him to his earliest exit of the season.

Stieb, whose lack of run support during the season produced a misleading 14-13 record, gave up a two-out double to George Brett in the first inning and a one-out single by Brett in the fourth. A pinch-hit double by Dane Iorg in the eighth ended a streak of

Banks returns to top form with banner day vs. Kansas

After a one-week swoon, wide receiver Roy Banks has returned to his All-American form.

Shutout for the first time in his career the previous week at Southern Illinois, Banks bounced back Saturday against Kansas to catch 11 passes for 134 yards and one touchdown.

The 11 receptions tied a career best for the junior, while his 134 yards were fourth best in his 18-game career.

Banks has now assumed the team lead in receptions with 34, one better than Calvin Pierce. Banks is second in receiving yardage with 413; Pierce leads in that category with 470.

Banks collected nine of his receptions and 107 yards in the first two quarters. Apparently, the Jayhawks decided single coverage was just not going to cut it, as evidenced by the tight double-teaming Banks received in the second stanza.

"At the end of the second quarter they (Kansas) started sliding their linebackers to the strong side to get the secondary underneath Banks," Panther coach Al Molde said, explaining why Banks was limited in the second half to two receptions for 30 yards.

Molde on Eastern's second-half falter: "In the third quarter we came back out and our plan was to go to

Football notebook/Jeff Long

(slotback) Calvin Pierce in the middle and try to work the weak side of our formation a little bit.

"The plays were there, we just screwed it up ourselves. It wasn't so much that they (Kansas) crushed us or anything. We just didn't get it done ourselves."

Eastern's first touchdown Saturday came when quarterback Sean Payton hooked up with Banks on a lob pass into the right corner of the end zone.

The key to the play was Banks not tipping off to the defender that the ball was coming, something he feels he's becoming a master at.

"That's what I do all the time," Banks said. "Most receivers' eyes get big when the ball comes. I just keep my eyes the same. No reaction until I catch it."

Payton's four interceptions Saturday tied a dubious career high for the quarterback. It was the second time this season he threw that many, and third in the last two years.

Despite scoring only 20 points Saturday to the Jayhawks' 44, Eastern racked up 390 yards of total offense. The Panthers ran off 91 offensive plays for the day to Kansas' 71.

"This was a good defense, but we did everything we wanted to do offensively," said Banks. "We just had some bad breaks in the second half. You know, a missed pass here, a miscue there. We got a little off-base."

Strong safety Bob Bronaugh, the team leader in interceptions with three, picked off Mike Norseth on Saturday for Eastern's only interception and returned it 20 yards. It was only the fifth interception off Norseth in 229 attempts this season.

"I just read Norseth all the way down the field," Bronaugh said. "He did a real good job but I think we did a pretty good job of stopping him."

Punter/placekicker Evan Arapostathis has connected on his last four field goal attempts, including boomers of 50 and 47 yards. He is now 6-of-11 for the season and leads the team in scoring with 29 points.

An apparent touchdown pass by Payton to Banks on a first and goal situation from the nine yardline Saturday was ruled incomplete because officials said Banks was over the back line of the end zone.

Bad call, said the Panthers after reviewing the films.

"The film indicates Roy was in bounds," said Payton. "That turned out to be a big play defensively for them. We should have had 20 points in that first half."

Instead, the Panthers settled for an Arapostathis 17-yard field goal, which put Eastern ahead 12-7.

The Panthers have certainly been giving the fans their money's worth in terms of game time this year. Two of the first five games have exceeded three hours with the average being 3:10. Saturday's game at Kansas was a 3½ hour marathon.

Eastern is rated 124th in the USA Today's college football computer rankings, one slot behind Southern Illinois. Saturday's Homecoming opponent, Illinois State, is rated 145th while Kansas is at No. 35.

Southwest Missouri running back took Gateway Conference offensive player of the week honors, carrying 14 times for 177 yards, catching four passes for 104 yards and scoring five touchdowns.

Illinois State linebacker Henry Saxon took defensive honors. He recorded six solo tackles and eight total to go along with two tackles for loss, two sacks and one interception, which he returned 81 yards for a touchdown.
