Chicago Sun-Times columnist Vernon Jarrett speaks to a crowd in the Union's Grand Ballroom Monday evening about journalism. Jarrett kicked off the annual Journalism Week events.

Jarrett tells Union crowd America needs values

By MIKE FITZGERALD
 Staff writer

Vernon Jarrett called on Eastern students to examine themselves for the sake of the United States, and begin "paying dues" for a country which "has been good to all of us."

Jarrett, a columnist for the Chicago Sun-Times and commentator for WLS-TV, addressed about 250 people Monday in the Martin Luther King Jr. University Union's Grand Ballroom to kick off Journalism Week.

He spoke about a "deficit morality" that started with our forefathers who fought the Revolutionary War against tyranny and the domination of other people. People who had a chance to settle the race question when they wrote the Constitution but postponed it.

Jarrett said the deficit continues with this generation which "is willing to see a big hole carved in the ozone in order to have spray cans and other niceties."

He encouraged students to discuss their feelings about where America is going and about race relations. "Let it all hang out," Jarrett said, adding, "somebody in authority will have to do it to save us."

Jarrett drew on the works of noted black philosopher W.E.B.

Dubois, historian Carter Woodson and Frederick Douglass as well as personal anecdotes to keep the audience enthralled and deep in thought.

He told students it is their job "to know about our country, what it has been through and the people." He said Americans are becoming alienated from one another, and from American goals.

Jarrett used a story his grandmother told him about how "you can boil a bullfrog if you turn the heat up a little at a time," in reference to how Americans have let the "creme de le creme of technology slip away" to the Japanese.

He stressed the importance of students talking about their country and their world and the direction both are headed in. Failure to do so might have grave implications.

"Any college student worth his salt must become a student of this country and this world or else children won't look upon you with respect and it will break your heart."

Student IDs will include age

Amid turmoil over the use of fake IDs and drinking by underage students, Eastern has apparently decided to reinstate printing the birthdates on students' IDs.

Eastern President Stan Rives said all IDs distributed to students within the last month or so have displayed the birthdate, reintroducing a former Eastern policy which died out about five or six years ago.

But the new policy may affect not only those students who receive replacement IDs or IDs for the first time, but all students may have to exchange their old IDs for ones which bear their birthdate, according to James Johnson, the assistant dean of student personnel services.

Johnson added the orders to begin the new policy came from the president's office, although he personally didn't know why it was established nor the "pros and cons" of such a system.

Glenn Williams, the vice president for student affairs, could not be reached for comment.

A formal announcement on the new ID policy was to be made in a week or so, Johnson said. "We are waiting for computer services services to run the labels off for them."

A similar policy was instated several years ago, but many students claimed it was their legal right to not bear their birthdates on the IDs, so the policy was not mandatory, said Williams in an interview for a Nov. 7 News story.

However for the current policy, Rives said students will not have a choice in the matter.

Johnson said student reaction so far has been favorable. "Most of them liked the idea."

Before Charleston's Liquor Advisory Board recommended raising the bar-entry age to 21, Mayor Wayne Lanman had discussed the possibility of placing the birthdates on the IDs, but the idea flew Eastern had been a part of at least three schools, including Western Illinois University and Illinois State University, which did not publish the students birthdates on IDs.

Money-go-round Fee increases will keep student pocketbook busy

By JEFF MADSEN
 News editor

The 1990-91 academic year is going to cost the average Eastern student about $115 more than this year did, as the Board of Governors, Eastern's governing body, approved a series of student fee increases last week to meet the rising cost of inflation.

The average student will be paying for fee increases in student housing, a union/bond revenue fee, grant-in-aid fee, health insurance fee, textbook rental fee, and parking fee. In addition, students living in the newly purchased University Court (formerly Regency Apartments), face an average $73 increase next year, while students living in University Apartments face an $8-9 increase.

In total, the fee increases, which total to a 3.7 percent room and board increase and a 2.65 percent increase in student fees, will make the 1990-91 academic year one of the most costly in Eastern history as students will shell out $542 in student fees alone.

And with the possibility of a tuition increase and about a $56 increase in student activity fees to pay for the construction of the student rec center, things don't look much brighter for the 1991-92 academic year.

"At first glance, it seems like everything is costing more money, but that isn't always the case," Student Body President Patty Kennedy said Monday. "That doesn't make education much different from a grocery store."

But as lack of funding for higher education leaves university officials groping toward the bottom of the financial barrel, fee increases have become almost as common and frequent as the changing of the seasons.

Housing rates, for example, have increased consistently since the early 1980s, when a year in one of Eastern's residence halls cost Eastern students $1,771 - $803 less than this year's housing rates.

"Housing is still the lowest cost housing at all public (higher) education institutions in the state,"

Weather only question left as shuttle launch approaches

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) - Space shuttle Discovery was readied Monday for its most challenging scientific mission, lifting the Hubble Space Telescope above Earth's obscuring atmosphere to look toward the edge of the universe and perhaps the beginning of time.

Forecasters said low clouds were expected at the Kennedy Space Center on Tuesday morning, but there was a 60 percent chance the weather would permit a liftoff of the 35th shuttle mission, set for 8:47 a.m. EDT.

The crew spent a few hours doing aerobics in T-38 jets to condition their bodies for liftoff, while on the launch pad final preparations were made for filling the shuttle tanks with a half million gallons of fuel shortly after midnight.

Discovery's five astronauts will be flying 380 miles above Earth, higher than any shuttle crew has gone. And two of them will be in space suits, ready to go to the rescue, if anything goes wrong with the telescope release from the cargo bay.

There's help as tax deadline draws closer

By STEPHANIE CARNES
 Features editor

While Sunday marks the last day to file state income tax returns, Wednesday marks the last day Eastern students may take advantage of a free advice program being offered by several student accounting majors.

Through Volunteer Income Taxpayers Assistance (VITA), students may gain valuable tax help service from fellow students.

The program, held from 7:30 to 9 p.m. Wednesday in Blair Hall room 205, is a way for students to gain tax help and for student accounting majors to gain experience with tax assistance, said C. Williams Wootton, associate professor of accounting.

"We have five students there to prepare tax returns for the students who come for help," Wootton said. He added, "The time it takes to do one return can range from 10 minutes to an hour and a half."

VITA is composed of 17 volunteer accounting students who have had at least one or two tax courses, Wootton said.

While the service is open to anyone interested, the majority of people who actually take advantage of the service are students.

"We service to just about anybody," Wootton said. "But 90 percent of the people who come in are students," he added.

Senior Sherry McCoy, one of the 17 student volunteers, said, "I think it's very beneficial for students. Maybe the things aren't as difficult as what you see in the real world, but at least we're getting hands-on experience."

Rives 'to do' answers for Senate's questions

By CATHY PODWOJSKI
Managing editor

Answering questions about the March 20 State of the University Address is on Eastern President Stan Rives "to do" list for Tuesday, although it's a previous "to do" list which should draw the most questions from the Faculty Senate.

Rives will attend the 2 p.m. Tuesday senate meeting in the Paris Room of the Martin Luther King Jr. University Union, senate Chair Anthony Schaeffer said.

During his address, Rives expressed a desire for improved campus parking, the formation of a steering committee for Eastern's future, a completed Greek Court Phase II, funds for Buzzard Building, Booth Library and other campus buildings, and about 45 other "needs" for the campus, students and faculty.

To help guide and implement this list, Rives then requested responses from the faculty as to what each considered the most important.

The top of the faculty's concerns centered on the two-year temporary income tax surcharge which will end in 1991, Rives said.

For senate member Al DiChiara of the sociology department, the meeting will give him a chance to listen and then respond to Rives.

"I'm going to listen to what he has to say and react to it," DiChiara said. "I generally support the list but wish he would have said a few more things about some immediate problems."

In addition to the "to do" list, Rives said he will discuss in executive session the name of the college of business building, but declined to comment further on that matter before the meeting.

In other business, Schaeffer said the senate has drafted a proposal regarding an internal advertising policy for the campus. "We could not find a university internal policy on advertising, so we decided to be so bold as to draft one."

The faculty elections to seven boards and committees also may be discussed, as ballots are due back during the day on Friday.

Jarrett concerned about society's 'moral deficit'

By ANN GILL
Staff writer

Vernon Jarrett said he sees students as the infrastructure of the United States.

"Students are our country's leaders," Jarrett, a Chicago Sun-Times columnist and member of the newspaper's editorial board, told a crowd of about 250 in the Martin Luther King Jr. University Union's Grand Ballroom Monday evening.

Jarrett who expressed a deep concern about where our society is headed, addressed the issues of race relations as one of the major issues of our time, quickly noting that the school is where the behavior is learned and originates.

Jarrett spoke of "moral deficit," something he sees at the root of the problems now facing America.

Society is not doing enough to keep itself society going, Jarrett said.

And sophomore economic major agreed with Jarrett. "People are too afraid to make change," he said.

And the speaker struck a nerve with freshman speech communication major Trevett Blum who echoed Jarrett's sentiments. Our society is "too accepting."

Jarrett said we all have become slaves to the system, and he urged the youth of today not to accept that enslavement.

The columnist said he believes Americans have become lost in the crowd, while deciding what constitutes "an American" is more difficult than it used to be.

Freshman journalism major Kim McCleary did not agree with Jarrett, at least in principle. "Those who are slaves to the system are so because they don't go against the crowd," McCleary said. "You are only a slave if you want to be."

Fee increases

• From page 1

BOG spokeswoman Michelle Brazell said Monday. "It's a very small increase, a very modest one." The BOG is the governing board for Eastern, Western Illinois University, Northeastern Illinois University, Governors State University and Chicago State University.

Even the smaller fees, like the health service/pharmacy fee, have risen consistently, from from $2.50 in 1986 to $11.60 for the 1990-91 school year.

"I think the basic increases are reasonable and they're also not ones where students are having a lot of money taken from them," Student Body President Patty Kennedy said Monday.

"Those (basic fee increases) are more acceptable," Kennedy added. "It's tuition increases that students would be more concerned about because maybe the administration is saying that money needs to be there."

"But when you willingly open your pocketbook, you should keep an eye on what's going on."

Tuition, although it will not increase next year, also has risen dramatically, from $510 to $1,572 in the past decade alone.

With an inadequate budget recommendation from Gov. James Thompson facing additional cuts this spring on the floor of the General Assembly, the BOG is forecasting a possible tuition increase for the 1991-92 academic year.

There's help as tax deadline draws closer

er student volunteer, added, "We've had classes in this, so it takes us about 15 minutes to do a tax return."

So far, a number of students have taken advantage of the program. "Last Wednesday we had several more (inquirers) than usual," Wootton said.

"It's a good way for students to get their taxes done inexpensively," McCoy said. "The cheapest I've heard to get your taxes done is like $7 and some places charge a $15 fee. This is free. And I believe Wednesday night is going to be swamped." However, the program is not immune from complications. For the student advisers, many questions arise including what part of a scholarship is taxable and whether or not a resident assistant's room and board is taxable.

Another common complication involves international students,

Wootton said. "International students must file non-resident returns, and so several more complications and questions must be answered then."

"I wish we could have more people come in so we could help them," Klingel added. "We have the knowledge, and it's silly not to use it and help others."

"I love accounting and I love doing taxes. That may sound terrible, but I do," Klingel said.

Jarrett tells Union crowd

At a dinner before the speech, Jarrett told journalism faculty and Eastern administrators he believes there is a knowledge gap about what we know about each other and what we know about the rest of the world.

To bridge the gap, Jarrett urged the country to adapt an environment devoted to education. "We must create a climate where people are consumed with the idea of educating our children as the Japanese have."

He thinks America is a country that has lost its identity; it is a country that has "a problem that's going to explode and break our hearts."

The solution to our nation's problems, Jarrett said, may lie in breaking out of our contentment which has made us slaves to the system, looking at the world through somebody else's lenses and values.

The price of the deficit in morality, he said, is high, but paying off the debt must start on college campuses where students are taught to think and probe beyond the surface.

Jarrett drove his point home with a quote from Woodson: "If you can control a man's thinking, you can determine a man's action."

Memorial offered time for thought

By KELLY SEIFERT
Staff writer

Friends of David Atteberry, an Eastern student who died March 10 from an apparent self-inflicted gunshot wound, gathered to remember him at a memorial service Monday evening.

About 25 students attended the 6 p.m. service at Eastern's Campus Pond. The service was arranged by McKinney Hall residents, where Atteberry lived while attending Eastern.

Patty Sepnafski, associate counselor at McKinney Hall, said the memorial service was held for Atteberry's friends to share their grievances. "Dave had many friends," she said.

The service began with a reflection as Bette Midler's song, "Wind Beneath My Wings" was played. The song was followed by a bible passage read by Roy Lanham, director of Eastern's Newman Catholic Community. The passage was followed with a poem, titled "Suicide Note," read by sophomore Ben Goodridge, a close friend of Atteberry. Goodridge also invited anyone to say something they remembered about Atteberry.

Ben Goodridge, the former roommate of Dave Atteberry, who died apparently as a result of a self-inflicted gunshot wound, reads a poem at Atteberry's memorial at the Campus Pond Monday. Counselors Patty Sepnafski and Bill Unruh stand with him.

One student said although she did not know Atteberry well, she talked to him every day in class. "One thing I remember about Dave was him always being there to help me," she said. "We should show Dave how we care by caring for other people," the student added.

Another student, junior Ray

Swank, recalled memories of Atteberry from high school. "We had a lot of fun times together," Swank said. He described Atteberry as being the type of person who never said anything bad about anyone.

Goodridge also encouraged all those in attendance to seek help if they ever have a problem. "No matter what the problem, there's always a solution," Goodridge said.

Atteberry, 21, was found early on the morning of March 10 on Wheeler Road in Mt. Zion, his hometown. Atteberry was also a member of the Illinois National Guard.

Police examine reported spring break thefts

By KELLY SEIFERT
Staff writer

Two incidents of theft occurred during spring break at O'Brien Stadium and were reported to University Police on April 2.

Paul Lueken, an associate athletic director and Eastern's director of promotions, reported three plywood boards, each displaying various beer advertisements, had been removed from the east fence of O'Brien Stadium. The signs, which are the property of Eastern's athletic department, are valued at $600.

Lueken also reported three vinyl banners, also displaying beer advertisements, missing from O'Brien Stadium. Lueken said in the police report the banners were taken between March 29 and March 30. The banners are valued at $450.

A 21-year-old student reported several items valued at $236.50 missing from her car which was parked in E lot Sunday.

When the student returned to her car at 3 p.m., she noticed a portable cassette player, approximately 19 cassette tapes and a case of soda were missing, according to a University Police report.

The student stated in the report both car doors were locked on the driver's side, although there is a possibility the passenger doors were left unlocked.

A Southern Illinois University student was arrested Sunday on charges of battery and possession of alcohol by a minor after an early morning incident at Wrangler's Restaurant, east Illinois Route 16.

Charleston Police reported that Christopher D. Bright, 19, of 105 Greek Row in Carbondale, was arrested at about 3:49 a.m. Sunday. The victim was unnamed.

Two Eastern students have been charged for the purchase of alcohol by a minor in connection with an incident early Sunday in the vicinity of the 1700 block of Ninth St.

Freshmen Richard Boehm, 18, of 866 Carman Hall and Rebecca Bushong, 18, of 600 Lawson Hall were charged by Charleston Police at about 12:18 a.m. Sunday.

Senate candidates to expound on goals

By TONY CAMPBELL
Senior reporter

Student Senate candidates will have the chance to tell voters what they plan to accomplish, if elected, at an open forum at 7 p.m. Tuesday in Coleman Hall room 120.

The open forum will give an opportunity for both the candidates and the voters to ask questions and voice their opinions on campus-related issues, said Election chair Amy Jobin. All candidates who turned in petitions for either executive or senate seats are invited to speak.

The candidates are not required to speak at the forum, but it is in their best interests to present their side on issues, Jobin said. "If they have any unique or original ideas, they will be able to present them to the students," she added. "They can basically let people know who they are."

The senate is hoping for a large turnout of prospective voters, but since only one major party, the Impact party, is involved in the race, the members are not expecting a large turnout, Jobin said.

"I don't know if the turnout will be as high as it has been in the past because there is only one (major) party," she said.

The other party formed is the Relative party. Brian Moushon is the founder and single party member.

Each candidate will be given three minutes to discuss any topic. Following their speeches, there will be time for questions from the crowd, Jobin said. The candidates will speak in the order of their district and name placement on the ballot.

Jobin said it (election committee) is unsure which district will begin the forum.

Although the candidates may discuss any topic they wish, Jobin said she believes the bar-entry age will not be a major issue discussed at the forum. "Probably everyone running is in favor of keeping the bar age at 19 anyway," she said.

Jobin added there are no clearcut issues which are certain to arise.

Attending the open forum also would be in the best interest for the voter, Jobin said, because it might make them more aware of the issues and what policies the candidates stand for.

"It might help them vote," she added, stating students will have a chance to ask the candidates how they feel on certain issues.

Students present art varieties

By MATT VANVOORHIS
Staff writer

Many students spend hours studying for that final test or project which is due before they receive their degrees, and students enrolled in an art masters program are no different.

Or at least not that different. For nine of Eastern's graduate students, the final "examination" is an approximately three-week annual art exhibit running since Saturday through April 29.

The nine students, whose works range from hand-molded ceramics to computer imagery, are featured in the 1990 Graduate Art Exhibition in the Main Galleries of the Tarble Arts Center.

The works include ceramics by Samantha Fitzgerald; printmaking by Karl Maggio; drawing and sculpture by Raif Kilgus; metals by Scott Swanson; painting and computer generated imagery by Bo Feng; and drawings by Jonathan Eatough, John Finkler, Kimberly Royster, and Maria-Williams.

To complete the one-year masters program, the students must present along with the exhibit an oral presentation defending their work and explaining why they used certain techniques as well as other reasons why they are presenting the work itself.

"This oral (presentation) takes place during the exhibit so that people can see it," said Garret Deruiter, director of the exhibition.

A three-person committee comprised of the student's adviser and two others within the field is assigned to each student to discuss different themes or ideas the student can pursue. At this point, the committee provides a direction for the student to take his interests. "It is a cooperation-type thing with the committee," Deruiter said.

Before the spring exhibit, the student is reviewed in early November as part of a graduate review.

The review is then submitted to Deruiter and the departmental committee. "If the report is favorable, then we give the ok to allow the student to go on to degree candidacy," said Deruiter. "If the report is not favorable, the graduate committee may ask for a further review by the graduate or individual committee. This basically gives the student the source of appeal and if there is an agreement, we have the final say."

Along with the oral presentation the student is responsible for submitting a thesis or paper with their work. The paper is read by the department and approved by the department chair.

"It is a visual representation of the progress," Deruiter said. "This is one of the capstone experiences that brings the whole year together."

The exhibition is co-sponsored by Eastern's art department and will be open 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tuesday through Friday; 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday; 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. Sunday. The exhibition will be closed Mondays and Easter Sunday.

A reception for the exhibiting artists will be April 8 from 2 to 4 p.m. in the Main Galleries of the Tarble Arts Center.

Bartender and students to appear on charges

A bartender from Mother's, 506 Monroe Ave., and two Eastern minors will make their initial appearances April 20 after the bartender was charged last week with serving alcohol to minors and the two Eastern students were charged with the purchase and acceptance of alcohol.

The bartender, Eastern junior Kathy Funderburg, 21, of 950 Taft Ave., was charged late Thursday with serving alcohol to Rebecca Giglio, 19, and Kristina Zielbauer, 20, both of 380 Taylor Hall.

The initial appearance has been set for 9 a.m. at the Coles County Courthouse.

At the initial appearance, the students will be informed of the charges against them, the penalties those charges carry and will be given an opportunity to plead guilty or innocent.

If the students plead guilty, penalties will be assessed. However, if they plead innocent, a trial date will be set.

In an unrelated incident, Mother's will serve a one-week suspension April 16-23 for serving alcohol to minors after its owner, Village Six Inc., pleaded guilty to the charge at a March 22 liquor hearing.

On March 9, the bar was charged with serving alcohol to a minor after bartender Jill D. Holloway, 19, an Eastern junior served an underage police source during an undercover police investigation.

Holloway also was charged with serving alcohol to a minor and pleaded guilty to that charge at a March 23 initial appearance. She was fined $250.

Good education should be Eastern's goal

As completion of Phase II of Greek Court construction draws nearer, it's beginning to look like Eastern has a strong greek system.

And by the fall of 1991, the construction of the rec center should be completed. This will provide extra racquetball courts which are essential to recruitment of the country club set.

Editorial As far as football goes, (probably the highest publicized sport on campus) Coach Spoo was able to attract some top recruits because of the football program. It's always good for recruitment to have a winning team.

With these highly touted efforts Eastern has shown its commitment and support for quality education.

Eastern needs to get away from this social atmosphere train of thought. What good is that train of thought if all the cars are empty?

It's time for a more intellectual atmosphere. Students will still be attracted to Eastern but now for the right reason; to get a quality education with social activities as secondary.

Lets face it, most of the classes on campus aren't challenging. Students go to them and can't wait to get out. You're not required to think, just memorize some facts.

It's easier to pay higher tuition knowing your going to get a quality education than to know your money is being used to pay for more racquetball courts and the salary of a university president who makes about the same as Dan Quayle.

Rives and the Board of Governors need to get off this PR kick and lead Eastern in the right direction because an academic reputation will speak for itself.

Kudos to soccer coach Cizo Mosnia who cancelled his team's spring 1990 schedule in part because of academic problems. He thinks it's more important to spend time in academic pursuits rather than in pursuing something else. So do we.

The new and improved Ollie North ...

Sound the music....

Dear Friend:

For the past few months, I have been struggling within myself about what to do with my future.

In 1951, before a joint session of Congress, Gen. Douglas MacArthur said "... old soldiers never die, they just fade away."

After much prayer and seeking the opinion of thousands of Americans who share my convictions, I have decided I don't want to just "fade away." That is why I am writing you today.

I'm sure you know about my long court ordeal. I still find it incredible that a special prosecutor has spent tens of millions of our tax dollars on an enormous staff, renting unbelievably expensive Washington D.C. office space and engaging the rest of our government in a witch hunt.

To get me:

One Marine infantryman who loved and still loves his country ... who believed and still believes in freedom and democracy for the people of Central America and any other enslaved people in this world.

Sound the music a tad louder this time ...

For the past three years, we have endured the longest, largest and most expensive inquisition in American history. There has been no limit to the probing - or to the damage done to our nation. I have anguished over the lives lost, the careers ruined and the secrets divulged over the course of this ordeal.

But now that chapter in my life may, finally be over.

That's right folks, he's back and he's got a vengeance. The new, improved Ollie North.

You may remember him, the former White House aide who embroiled our TV sets and our pocketbooks and now even former president Ronald Reagan in the Iran-Contra Affair.

Lt. Col. Oliver L. North, the man convicted of illegally destroying documents, accepting illegal gratuity and aiding and abetting in the obstruction of Congress in the first trial resulting from the Iran Contra Affair.

Oliver North, the man at the center of the Reagan administration's secret effort to arm the Nicaraguan Contras.

Oliver North, the new commanding-general of The Freedom Alliance, a "non-profit" organization dedicated to, among other things:

- Promote a strong national defense.
- Support those who struggle and yearn for freedom throughout the world.
- Maintain traditional values at home.
- Counter the left-wing dominated national media.
- Support the right to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness for all Americans by strengthening our families.
- Prompt all good-hearted, loyal Americans to purchase a paper shredder in order to preserve the tranquility and security of their neighborhoods. (Just Kidding.)

But really, North's new baby is no joke. In fact, he's asking people for $25 contributions to help support it. (tax deductible, of course.)

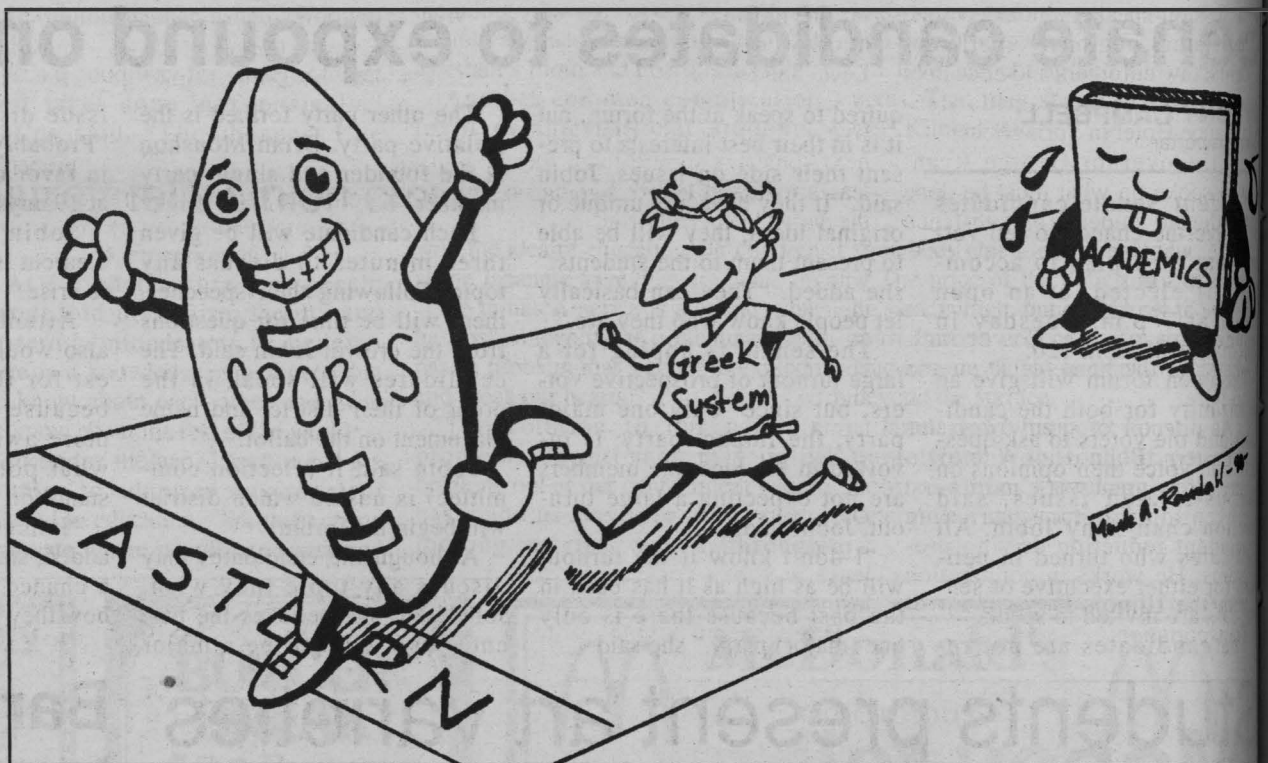

"Perhaps you can make an even larger contribution, or maybe you can only afford to send less," North writes at the end of his four-page plea. "Or maybe you can only afford to send less. I don't know what your final verdict will be ... I'll be waiting for your answer."

North tells readers that he has sought counsel from leaders he respects (Reagan, perhaps), he's prayed (maybe with Jim Bakker) and has talked about the Freedom Alliance several times with his wife, Betsy..

"And believing that, in the providence of God, nothing happens by accident to those who have committed their lives to him, I have been seeking his purpose for allowing me to experience what I have been through - and his purpose for my future. I think I am beginning to understand."

I'll bet he is. And hopefully, the people who got the letter are too.

Everyone's morals are unique

Editorial In Cincinnati over the weekend, a touring photography exhibit has made a stop. It's art being shown in an art gallery. It's not in the streets. People can't find it in the stores. It's in a separate gallery where people can go in and view it if they want to.

But police in Cincinnati, a city that has barred almost anything even remotely pornographic, stepped in Saturday and ordered the exhibit closed. A grand jury filed obscenity charges against the Contemporary Arts Center where the exhibit is on display.

A federal judge has told Cincinnati police to back off from closing it down. Police had temporarily shut down the exhibit because they felt it was obscene.

The display features photos of nude children and of homosexual acts.

Robert Mapplethorpe died last year of AIDS. This is his art. To him it wasn't obscene. Good, contemporary art is what the artist feels, how the artist lives. It's not accepting whatever moral standards are of the day.

Mapplethorpe was free to photograph what he wanted, though the theory behind his photography was that art must not always be appealing. To photograph the grotesque is to present a part of reality, a part of reality rarely seen, which is something Mapplethorpe believed needed exposure.

The Contemporary Arts Center was considerate enough to show the exhibit in a separate gallery with no one under the age of 18 allowed without a guardian. That's a great tip-off that the exhibit might be offensive to some people. If people don't want to see it they don't have to. It's a free country.

But since opening, the exhibit has smashed attendance records at the center as people stood in lines for hours to view the exhibit. It moves to Boston next month. It's been displayed in several other cities around the country, and it's time for the people with holier-than-thou attitude to stop imposing their morals on the general public.

Director attends drug, alcohol abuse seminar

By HEATHER HEIL
Staff writer

Dan Bolin, Eastern's director of safety programs, recently attended the Illinois Assembly on the Prevention of Alcohol and Other Drug Abuse in Springfield.

Bolin said he was chosen to attend the assembly, which took place March 23-25, because of his extensive work in such areas as directing a national alcohol and substance abuse program for the Illinois Educational Department.

Bolin said he was selected as a delegate out of a pool of more than 440 nominees. However, Bolin said, "I'm not sure who nominated me," but added, "I was really flattered to be selected. I got to work with some really high-powered people in their fields."

Bolin said the assembly "brought opinion-leaders from all different fields and endeavors for the discussion on the prevention of alcohol and drugs."

The three-day seminar consisted of numerous sessions which discussed what could be done to prevent students from abusing alcohol and other drugs.

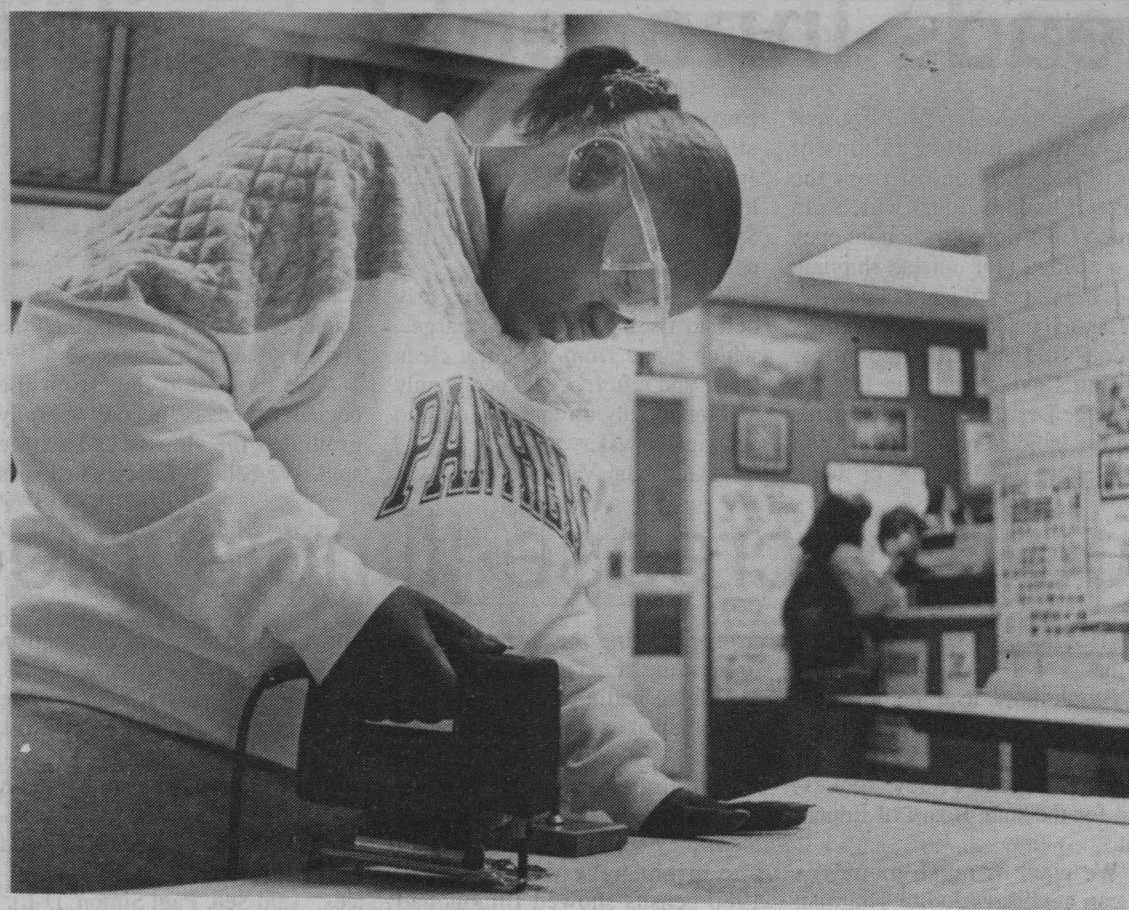

The discussions were directed to include a variety of ages ranging from pre-schoolers to college-age students.

Session speakers included state legislators, regional superintendents, law enforcers and educators who spoke at the Ramada Renaissance Hotel in Springfield.

Lt. Governor George Ryan, who spoke on what must be done to educate students on substance abuse, was one of the many legislators to speak.

The assembly concluded with a luncheon at the Governor's Mansion, the home of Ryan and his wife.

As director of safety programs at Eastern, Bolin deals with highway safety grant work and several prevention programs including accident reduction driving programs. He works in conjunction with the Illinois Department of Transportation.

Attorney: Check leases prior to signing

By KIRSTEN HALTON
Staff writer

Off-campus students generally are not taken advantage of by their landlords, said Steve Davis, an attorney and director of Student Legal Services.

Eastern students who already live or plan to live off-campus next semester should have their leases reviewed before signing on the dotted line, Davis said.

Doing this will enable students who do not completely understand their lease to have it explained by an attorney, make sure they are comfortable with the provisions and be able to add reasonable terms if necessary, Davis added.

"Be careful about promises that are made that aren't in the lease," Davis said. "A landlord may make a promise and it will not be in the lease and then you've probably lost your right to it."

Davis said if a student does want something that is not in the lease, the student should make sure it is recorded in writing.

A main provision to be comfortable with is the repair provision, "because that is really what tenants are getting for their money," Davis said, adding landlords should be expected to keep up the maintenance of the leased property, not students.

Other points to look at before signing a lease include the cost of utilities. "Find out what they (the utility bills) have run in the past," Davis said. If the utilities are not in your price range, you probably don't want to live there anyway. If you do live there, do not put all the utilities in one name, Davis said.

Another point to look at is if the lease is a joint lease or individual lease. An individual lease is when a student is responsible for just one portion of the rent. A joint lease features a student acting "like a co-signer for a roommate,"

Davis said.

If a roommate leaves in a joint lease, the people remaining in the apartment or house are responsible for that portion of the lease.

When students sign a lease and move in, they should make sure to do a "move-in condition report," Davis said. This would include damages and the cleanliness of the property.

If there are problems with the apartment, they should be taken care of early, he added.

The landlord should also equip the apartment with a smoke alarm in working order and light bulbs should be in place, Davis said. However, the tenants usually have to replace those items throughout the year at their own expense.

Student Legal Services are free and are offered year-round, Monday through Friday, 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. The Legal Services office is located in the upper level, west wing, of the Union.

Foundation hits $7 million mark for Tenth Decade

By SUSAN THOMAS
Administration editor

After a five-year campaign to improve educational programs for students at Eastern, the EIU Foundation has raised more than $7 million in private contributions.

"This 'margin of excellence' allows Eastern to improve the educational program it provides students in ways which cannot be accomplished with available appropriated funds," Foundation President Maggie Hollowell said.

The original goal of the Tenth Decade Campaign, which began in 1985, was to raise $5 million in support by 1990. However, the foundation exceeded its goal by 142 percent, Hollowell noted.

The top priority of the Tenth Decade Campaign was the creation of more scholarships and awards. And nearly $1.9 million was raised toward the project, making that the largest category of support. Presently 61 scholarship endowment funds have been added.

Cited as the 'most important' scholarship was the Excellence in the Fine Arts fund, created by the Newton Tarble family, to provide scholarship and support resources in art, music and theater.

Other additional scholarships include five for the Lumpkin College of Business and 17 for various areas throughout the university.

Eastern's college of applied sciences, as well as the athletics department, also will offer new scholarships.

Stephen Falk, Eastern's vice president for development, said, "The success of the Tenth Decade Campaign reinforces our belief that others in the private sector will join us in strengthening Eastern Illinois University in the next phase of our development effort."

Other contributions include more than $1.8 million for student life enrichment; $1.2 million for endowed professorships; $1 million for academic program support; more than $400,000 for capital projects; another $400,000 for academic equipment; and $200,000 for unrestricted giving.

Money talks

Charleston Township to discuss financial state

By TIM SHELLBERG
Staff intern

The Charleston Township will discuss the township's financial state, both past and present, at its annual public meeting at 3 p.m. Tuesday at the Township office, second floor of Boatmen's National Bank of Charleston, 418 1/2 Sixth St.

The Board of Town Trustees will publicly declare what monies were received and spent by the township for the operation of the 1989-1990 fiscal year.

The board also is expected to take any necessary final actions and accept the tentative budget for the 1990-1991 fiscal year.

The proposed budget for the present fiscal year, which started April 1 and will conclude March 31, 1991, has been on display for public inspection at the Township office since March 7.

"The Township meeting is held so that the electorates have the right to mandate what they want done (with the township's funds)," said Township Supervisor Tom Morgan.

Morgan added state law requires each township to hold a public hearing on the second Tuesday of April.

According to Morgan, only half of the effects of any Charleston Township ordinance influence the city, as the Charleston Township extends to regions outside of city boundaries.

For example, Morgan said the city of Charleston receives only 46 percent of the township's allotted road assistance funding, the remainder going to other locations in the township.

Although the meeting is publicly announced, Morgan said "We're lucky if eight to 10 people turn out."

Poet to read works at Tarble

By MEGAN McGRAIL
Staff writer

Gary Gilder, a widely published poet and fiction writer, will be the guest reader at the Allen Neff Memorial Poetry Reading at 4 p.m. Tuesday at Eastern's Tarble Arts Center.

Gilder, a two-time recipient of the National Endowment of the Arts, is currently a writer-in-residence at Drake University, a position he also has held at Michigan State University and Reed College.

Two of Gilder's most recently published books include "Blue Like the Heavens: New and Selected Poems" and a novel entitled

"The Second Bridge."

A number of Gilder's novels have been published on a regular basis in such nationally-known magazines as Esquire, The Nation, Georgia Review, and The Paris Review.

Other honors Gilder has received in the past include the Pushcart Prize for fiction and being named the Robert Frost Fellow at the Breadloaf Writer's Conference at Middleburg College in Vermont, a writer's college known for its excellent teaching staff.

Tuesday's poetry reading is open to the public and free of admission.

Sophomore's trial date set

A May 14 jury trial has been set for an Eastern sophomore charged with disturbing the peace at a March 18 "Freedom Fest" sponsored by Eastern's chapter of Amnesty International.

Sara C. Crerar, 19, of 215 McKinney Residence Hall pleaded not guilty to the charge at an initial appearance Friday. Crerar, the president of Eastern's Amnesty International chapter, was arrested March 18 after Charleston Police responded twice to disturbance of the peace complaints filed by a local resident.

The "Freedom Fest," held at the Sigma Pi Hut, 740 Sixth St., was a fundraiser for Amnesty International, an international human rights organization.

Crerar has said she did not expect police to react to the situation the way they did, and she termed the event a "circus" in a March 18 interview.

The jury trial is scheduled to begin at 9 a.m. at the Coles County Courthouse. If found guilty, Crerar could face a maximum fine of $500.

Exxon pleads innocent to spill charges

ANCHORAGE, Alaska — Exxon and its subsidiary, Exxon Shipping Co., pleaded innocent Monday to five-count criminal indictments charging them with violating various federal laws in the nation's worst oil spill a year ago.

Exxon and Exxon Shipping entered their pleas in separate arraignments before U.S. District Judge John Roberts late Monday afternoon.

The two Feb. 27 indictments stem from the March 24, 1989, spill of nearly 11 million gallons of North Slope crude oil from the tanker Exxon Valdez, which ran aground and ripped its bottom open on a charted reef outside shipping lanes in Prince William Sound.

The oil coated hundreds of miles of coastline and killed countless fish, birds and other marine life.

Justice Department officials have said the indictments could result in penalties of $700 million or more.

Exxon reportedly had been negotiating a plea agreement with the Justice Department which would have involved the creation of a $500 million environmental restoration fund.

Exxon said it would vigorously defend itself against the charges, which range from violating clean water and refuse acts to negligently and unlawfully discharging oil into a navigable waterway.

"The Exxon Valdez oil spill was tragic, but it was an accident," the company said in a statement.

"We have said that from the beginning because nobody willfully grounded the ship or caused the spill. We believe the conclusion is thoroughly supported by the testimony and the verdict in the trial of Captain Hazelwood." Joseph Hazelwood was skipper of the Exxon Valdez at the time of the accident.

On March 22, a jury found Hazelwood guilty on a charge of negligent discharge of oil into state water. But he was acquitted of three other charges, including a felony, that he was reckless and drunk during the disaster.

Census could decrease Illinois' piece of pie

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Census Bureau hopes Americans aren't seeing too many spots darkening all those circles on the 1990 census forms, because there's a lot at stake in the big count.

When the government finishes the count, Illinois will know how many lawmakers can go to Washington — and how many federal tax dollars will return to the state.

The government uses census figures to determine Illinois' share of federal grants spent on road planning, education for the handicapped, alcohol and drug treatment and about 20 other programs.

"People have to remember that census results are not something that are thrown away in the closet," says Eugene Finley, spokesman for the state Board of Education.

"We want as much money as we can get," says Judith Thorman of Illinois' Washington office, "so we want as accurate a count as possible." The Census Bureau asked everyone to return the forms by April 1, but a spokesman in Illinois said delays by the government prevented many residents from receiving the forms in time to meet the target date.

"We've had an immense workload," spokesman Ron McCoy said.

"We'll give people until April 28. If we don't hear from them by then, they'll get a call and someone might have to visit." The 1980 census showed Illinois had 11.42 million people. Eight years later, the estimate was 11.61 million, a 1.7 percent increase.

Although the state will show a gain during the 1990 census, Illinois is expected to lose two of its 22 House seats because it has not matched national population growth.

The congressional map will be drawn next year by the Illinois General Assembly.

"When you have a shrinkage in the House, you have more problems in getting things passed and getting representation on committees," said Sen. Paul Simon, D-Ill.

Gov. James Thompson has estimated that Illinois receives $666 million each year from federal programs that distribute money based on population.

Here are some of those programs and Illinois' share in the 1988 budget year, according to the Northeast-Midwest Institute, a Washington research group:

— Water and waste disposal in rural communities, $2.79 million.

— Aid to local education groups that help poor children, $203.4 million.

— Grants for alcohol and drug treatment and mental health services, $19.2 million.

— Agriculture research at land-grant universities, $3.7 million.

— Highway hazard elimination, $7.46 million in the 1989 budget year.

Lithuania likened to Lincoln battles

WASHINGTON (AP) — Moscow's opposition to Lithuanian independence can be compared to Abraham Lincoln's fight to keep the South from seceding, a Soviet official said Monday.

Yuri Reshetov, head of the Soviet Foreign Ministry's department for international humanitarian cooperation and human rights, held a news conference he visited Washington's Lincoln Memorial Sunday.

The American Civil War president, "in his second inaugural address in 1865, said that he is fighting against the forces which are seeking to dissolve the Union. Abraham Lincoln saved the American Union," Reshetov said.

"We have been together with Lithuania, with Estonia and with Latvia for many, many years," he said. "I still hope that what unites us is much stronger than what is capable of leading to dissolution of our union." Reshetov argued that Lithuania's fate should be decided by a popular vote, rather than by the March 11 declaration by the parliament in Vilnius rejecting the 1940 Soviet annexation.

Stasys Lozoraitis Jr., charge d'affaires of the Lithuanian legation in Washington, said at a separate news conference that since the Western Powers have never recognized the Soviet annexation of Lithuania "the international law that should be applied is that the Soviets should withdraw." A majority of Lithuanians are for independence, Lozoraitis said, but a referendum would be "a trap" for neighboring Estonia and Latvia, where sizable minorities oppose independence.

All three Baltic republics were part of the Russian empire from the late 18th century until after World War I. They were independent between the wars but forcibly annexed by the Soviet Union in 1940 after Moscow took control of the republics under terms of a secret pact with Nazi Germany.

The Baltic republics have continued to maintain legations as their diplomatic representatives in Washington.

Reshetov said the Soviet Union supports self-determination, but said self-determination can take various forms and "the creation of a new state is the highest form." "In international law it is well established that the means of determining the right to self-determination is a referendum or plebiscite," the Foreign Ministry official said.

Vote could mark Soviet bloc trend

BUDAPEST, Hungary (AP) — Voters ended the Communist era by giving a strong mandate to the country's main conservative party in what could be the genesis of a center-right trend among Soviet bloc countries emerging into democracy.

The Hungarian Democratic Forum campaigned on an anti-Communist platform that incorporated universal conservative values as well as a strong dose of nationalism. It scored an impressive victory in parliamentary elections that wrapped up Sunday.

It was the second win in two Soviet bloc elections for conservative forces. In East Germany's March 18 vote, conservatives fell just short of a majority in the first free national elections in any Warsaw Pact country. As in Hungary, remnants of the long-ruling Communists were relegated to a relatively minor opposition role.

Hungary's Democratic Forum captured 165 of the 386 seats at stake Sunday. In the first round of balloting March 25, they won 42.75 percent of the vote.

Despite preliminary predictions of a close race, the Forum left the liberal League of Free Democrats far behind, with 92 seats and 23.83 percent of the vote, forcing the rival party to bury any aspirations of sharing a government role.

The ruling Socialists, created by reform Communists last October, were sent packing. Despite their commitment to political plurality, they captured only 33 seats or 8.55 percent of the vote, victims of widespread sentiment that they were the heirs of decades of repressive Communist rule.

Trade mission to Iraq canceled

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Commerce Department said Monday it has canceled an aerospace trade mission to Iraq as U.S. lawmakers prepare sanctions legislation against the Baghdad government.

The action comes as tensions mount over a series of incidents, including a threat by Iraqi President Saddam Hussein to use chemical weapons against Israel. Iraq also has been accused of trying to add nuclear arms to its arsenal of chemical weapons.

Also Monday, Iraq expelled an American diplomat in retaliation for the expulsion of an Iraqi diplomat posted at the United Nations.

The State Department said the Iraqi was suspected of being involved in a plot to kill two political opponents.

Margaret Tutwiler, the department spokeswoman, said Iraq's decision to expel the American was "totally inappropriate." Elizabeth Dugan, a Commerce Department spokeswoman, said the Iraqi leg of the aerospace trade mission was called off "in light of the events of the last couple of weeks." "We thought it was inappropriate to take a group of U.S. companies to Iraq at this time," she said.

Nine U.S. aerospace companies signed up to travel to Egypt, Saudi Arabia and Iraq next month to "help U.S. companies enhance their market position overseas and gain market exposure," the department had said.

"Iraq has ambitious plans for upgrading its civil aviation system, including new airports, air traffic control and related equipment," the statement said.

Cancellation of the trip coincided with Rep. Howard Berman's criticism of the United States for being too cozy with Iraq at an inappropriate time.

Last month, U.S. and British intelligence officers broke up an alleged smuggling ring in which Iraqis were accused of trying to illegally obtain nuclear triggers for atomic weapons. Iraq denied the charge.

White Sox, Cardinals win in close openers

CHICAGO (AP) — Using a lot of pitchers is nothing new to Chicago White Sox manager Jeff Torborg. The result was, though.

"Last year, we went to seven or eight just to get one out," Torborg joked Monday after the White Sox, last in the AL West last season, used five pitchers in a 2-1 victory over Milwaukee in the final opener at 80-year-old Comiskey Park.

The White Sox, who lost their first game at Comiskey 2-0 to the St. Louis Browns in 1910, will move across the street to a new stadium next year. A crowd of 40,008 at the 43,931-seat ballpark sat through a 42-minute rain delay at the start of the game and was rewarded with the opening day win.

Torborg lifted rookies Scott Radinsky and Wayne Edwards after each had pitched to and retired just one batter.

"When I took out Radinsky, I told him, 'You can have a long career pitching like that.' He had a big smile on his face," said Torborg, obviously in a good mood with the win.

Scott Fletcher's bases-loaded sacrifice fly in the seventh broke a 1-1 tie in a game that featured only 10 hits, six by Chicago.

"We didn't have much offense, but we had enough," Torborg said.

Milwaukee manager Tom Trebelhorn said, "We didn't do much offensively. Our veterans have to swing the bat. We just didn't get the production out of everybody."

With the score tied at 1, Robin Ventura drew a leadoff walk from loser Tony Fossas in the seventh. Sammy Sosa bunted, and Ventura beat first baseman Greg Brock's throw to second.

After Ozzie Guillen bunted into a forceout at third, Lance Johnson's infield hit loaded the bases. Fletcher followed with his sacrifice fly off Tony Fossas (0-1).

Barry Jones (1-0) pitched 1 2-3 scoreless innings in relief.

Bobby Thigpen got the final two outs for the save.

With spring training shortended by the lockout, both managers were reluctant to go too long with their starters. Milwaukee's Chris Bosio gave up a run and five hits in five innings, while Chicago's Melido Perez gave up one run and four hits in six innings.

Cardinals 6, Expos 5

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Willie McGee's two-run double in the ninth sent the game to extra innings and his run-scoring single in the 11th gave the St. Louis Cardinals a 6-5 victory over the Montreal Expos in the season opener Monday night.

Milt Thompson led off the 11th with a walk off Mark Gardner and advanced on a sacrifice before McGee lined a soft single to center.

In the ninth, Thompson drew a one-out walk from Tim Burke and Vince Coleman and McGee had consecutive doubles. After Pedro Guerrero drew an intentional walk with two outs, Terry Pendleton, who went 3-for-5, grounded out.

Winner Ken Dayley, the sixth Cardinal pitcher, worked 1 2-3 scoreless innings.

Rookie Delino DeShields got four hits in his first major-league game, driving in the go-ahead run in a four-run seventh for Montreal.

The Expos trailed 3-1 in the seventh before exploiting the Cardinals' bullpen weakness, getting three runs off loser Ken Hill and a fourth off Frank DiPino.

St. Louis will be without bullpen stopper Todd Worrell until the All-Star break. Meanwhile, Scott Terry and left-hander Dayley are less than 100 percent.

Hill got the last out in the sixth, but walked Andres Galarraga and Larry Walker to start the seventh. Nelson Santovenia singled and right fielder Thompson bobbled the ball, allowing Galarraga to score and moving Walker to third.

Spike Owen hit sacrifice fly off DiPino to tie the game.

DeShields beat out a roller in front of the plate to make it 4-3, and Marquis Grissom followed with an RBI double to left-center.

Tim Raines drove in the other Montreal run with a sixth-inning groundout that scored DeShields, who had doubled.

Joe Magrane allowed a run and three hits and in 5 2-3 innings. He retired the first nine batters, struck out two and walked one, but failed to win for the third straight time on opening day.

Cubs opener washed down the ol' drain

CHICAGO (AP) — The season opener between the Philadelphia Phillies and the Chicago Cubs was postponed by rain in the top of the third inning Monday night with the Phillies leading 2-0 on a two-run homer by Len Dykstra in the second.

The game was rescheduled for 1:20 p.m. Thursday, an open date for both teams.

The last time the Cubs had a rainout was Sept. 19, 1988, against Montreal.

It was the first night game to open the season at Wrigley Field and brought back memories of the Cubs' first night game Aug. 8, 1988, after lights had been installed. That game also was rained out after 3 1/2 innings with the Cubs leading 3-1.

The next night, the Cubs played their first official night game at Wrigley Field and defeated the New York Mets 6-4.

Mike Bielecki, who earned the No. 2 starting spot in the Cub rotation because of an 18-7 record last year, will start Tuesday's game against Philadelphia.

"I'll be looking at the clock all day," said Bielecki.

Reminded it was a day game, he said, "I'll get up early. I'm not nervous, just anxious and excited."

Manager Don Zimmer waited until 90 minutes before the game to scratch right fielder Andre Dawson from the starting lineup. That's when it started raining a little harder than earlier in the day.

Zimmer did not want to take a chance because Dawson had off-season surgery on his right knee.

"No sense in having him slip on a wet field and hurt it again," Zimmer said.

Van Slyke makes Mets, Gooden cry 'Uncle'

NEW YORK (AP) — Pittsburgh ended the opening day magic for Dwight Gooden and the New York Mets as Andy Van Slyke homered twice and drove in four runs to help give the Pirates a 12-3 victory Monday.

The loss ended a streak of five straight opening day victories for the Mets, who had not dropped a season opener at home since 1974 against Philadelphia. New York had won 18 of its previous 20 opening day games.

The Pirates pounded seven Mets pitchers for 17 hits. Bobby Bonilla, who drove in three runs, Jay Bell and Jose Lind each added three hits. The Mets got three hits against winner Doug Drabek and four relievers.

Gooden made his first start since tearing a muscle in his right shoulder last July 1 and had trouble with his location. He pitched 4 2-3 innings and allowed five runs on seven hits. The loss dropped Gooden's opening day record to 3-1 in five starts and 17-3 in April.

With the score tied 3-3, former Met Wally Backman led off the fifth with a single and one out later, Van Slyke homered over the 371-foot mark in right field. Van

MAJOR LEAGUE ROUNDUP

Slyke hit a solo home run in the ninth against Jeff Innis and Bonilla followed with a drive over the right-field fence.

Van Slyke slumped last season because of nagging injuries, but in 1988 hit .288 with 25 homers and 100 RBIs.

Royals 7, Orioles 6

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Sam Horn, signed as a low-priced free agent, hit a pair of three-run homers on opening day and the Baltimore Orioles slipped past Kansas City 7-6 in 11 innings Monday on right fielder Danny Tartabull's error.

Horn, who did not join the Orioles until the last five days of spring training, set a team record with his six RBIs in an opener.

He connected in the second inning off Bret Saberhagen and tied it at 6 in the eighth with a blast off Steve Farr.

Joe Orsulak singled with two out in the 11th off Jeff Montgomery.

Orsulak was running as Cal Ripken singled to right and slid home when Tartabull, who had hit a single and two-run homer, bobbled the ball.

Jay Aldrich, another late addition to the Orioles' roster, got the victory. Gregg Olson pitched 11th for the save.

Tartabull homered and scored the go-ahead run on Kurt Stillwell's two-run double in the sixth as Kansas City rallied for a 6-3 lead.

Dodgers 4, Padres 2

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Free agent Hubie Brooks broke up Bruce Hurst's no-hit bid in the seventh inning and hit a three-run homer in the eighth that rallied the Los Angeles Dodgers over the San Diego Padres 4-2 Monday in the delayed season opener.

Brooks, who left Montreal after last season, lined the first pitch from Hurst over the left-field fence with two outs, driving home Alfredo Griffin and Willie Randolph.

Trailing 2-1, Griffin opened the eighth with a single, moved up on a sacrifice and took third on a fly ball. Randolph then drew Hurst's second walk, setting up Brooks.

Brooks signed a three-year, $6 million contract last December. The 33-year-old outfielder played the last five years with the Expos.

Winner John Wetteland allowed one run in two innings. He relieved starter Orel Hershiser, who gave up one run on three hits in six innings.

Red Sox 5, Tigers 2

BOSTON (AP) — Baseball came a week late, but everything else stayed the same at Fenway Park: Wade Boggs got three hits, Roger Clemens won and the Detroit Tigers lost.

Opening day, delayed for only the second time in history, was even pushed back an extra 10 minutes because of festivities. When they finally played the first game of the season, the Boston Red Sox beat Detroit 5-2.

Clemens held the Tigers hitless until Tony Phillips singled to start the sixth inning, and allowed three hits, struck out five and walked two. He retired the first two batters in the seventh and then left the game after throwing 101 pitches.

"With all the opening day excitement, I got fired up the same as everyone else," Clemens said.

Cubs success in 1989 doesn't mean success in 1990

THOMAS STEVENS
Staff Writer

MESA, Ariz. — Now that major league baseball players are back doing what they get paid to do, the Cubs are being asked the inevitable question: What can they do for an encore? After last year's stunning run to the National League Eastern Division championship, the Cubs made few offseason moves. That lack of action, many experts feel, means Don Zimmer and Co. don't have a chance to repeat as champs. Most preseason predictions find the Cubs the pick behind the New York Yankees and St. Louis Cardinals. It's not that either any of the team's members? "I haven't seen anybody pick us. They think last year was a fluke," said relief pitcher Mitch Williams. "But those experts saying we can't win are the ones who picked us fifth last year." The North Siders had a season of dreams in 1989, winning 93 games after stumbling to 9-23 mark in the Cactus League exhibition seasons. "Maybe what happened to us will help other clubs not get so uptight over spring training," Zimmer said. "You never want to lose, but you can't put an emphasis on spring training wins. If you do, you're out of whack." But even with a de-emphasis on spring training, skeptics say the Cubs can't repeat their '89 success because too many players had career years last season and will be hard-pressed to follow up with equally strong 1990 seasons. "All we heard all winter was how hard it is to repeat, so now we are being counted out again," said pitcher Mike Bielecki, who won 18 games last season, seven more than he had won in his entire career. "Sure there were some surprises," Zimmer said. "Nobody hardly knew Bielecki's name, and he wins 18 games. The guy pitched super. But anyone who calls that luck is crazy." Some of the concerns in the Cubs' camp this spring after the health of rightfielder Andre Dawson (knee) and catcher Damon Berryhill (shoulder) and finding starters to complete the rotation, which begins with opening day starter Greg Maddux and Bielecki.

Rick Sutcliffe, who had started every opening day for the Cubs since 1985, is on the disabled list with an inflamed shoulder. His status for the season is unknown, although the shoulder is not torn and he is currently taking a medicine that will help reduce the irritation. Sutcliffe's absence at the start of the season has made way for Mike Harkey, a promising young pitcher who was the Cub's No. 1 draft pick in 1988. Harkey pitched well in 1988 when he was called up to the majors after posting outstanding numbers at the Cubs' double and triple A camps, but he failed to make the club last season and also had knee surgery, putting a big question mark under his name. Berryhill's return might not happen until mid-May, but he remains optimistic. "The shoulder feels good," he said. "It's ready now, but we're taking it one day at a time." If those two don't heal quickly enough or well enough, the Cubs can turn to their bench, one of the deepest in the National League. If Dawson can't go, Marbel Wynne, Dave Clark and Lloyd McClendon can step in. "It's a great feeling when you have a bench where if you are looking to take a regular out, you have a guy who can take his place," Zimmer said. "The biggest difference between this year's team and the 1985 team is our bench," Sutcliffe said. "I can't remember a Cubs' team having the quality of players this team has."

If's and could's' dot NC State's future

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Any player leaving North Carolina State following the departure of basketball coach Jim Valvano could be turning his back on a potential Final Four team, acting athletic director Harold Hopfenberg said Monday. Hopfenberg said he expects to have leading scorer Rodney Monroe and point guard Chris Archibiani next season, though Archibiani said Saturday that he intends to transfer. He also expects the return of 6-foot-9 forward Avie Lester, who averaged eight points and five rebounds in 1988-89 but sat out last season under team-imposed academic standards. "We are going to seek eligibility for Avie Lester and, as opposed to a lackluster year, I see the possibility of a Final Four team emerging out of this whole thing," Hopfenberg said. If Chris and Rodney stay and Avie gets his eligibility, you're looking at a team that can compete with anybody." Valvano agreed Saturday to a buyout that includes a $212,000 cash settlement of his contract, plus $26,500 in salary and $375,000 from the private university booster organization, the Wolfpack Club. Valvano had been under pressure to resign since reports surfaced in February that former players had accepted cash and allegedly were involved in point-shaving. Valvano never was implicated in the allegations. The Wolfpack basketball program is under a two-year probation imposed in December by the NCAA after it was found some players had sold sneakers and complimentary tickets. Valvano said Monday he still was upset that the school's trustees wouldn't let him present his case for remaining at N.C. State.

Uplifted male netters confident; Engineers to be served up next

By GEOFF T. MASANET
Staff Writer

Eastern's netter's are using Saturday's 7-2 thrashing of St. Francis to give them a boost of confidence heading into Tuesday's match against Rose-Hulman at the Weller courts. The squad lost a couple of nailbiters in their previous outings and team members were admittedly a little distraught with their performances against some bigger and more powerful teams. "We were in a brief little slump and everyone was getting down on themselves," Bob Mervold, Eastern's resident No. 1 singles player, said Monday. Mervold teamed with Brad Iffner to score a victory at No. 1 doubles against St. Francis. "The win on Saturday gave us a real boost in confidence." The squad's victors Saturday included Iffner at 2nd singles, Mike Patrick at 3rd singles,

Mike Patrick

Brian Bodine at fifth and Mark Olson winning at sixth. In the doubles competition, Eastern's combination of Patrick and Dave Mazmanian were victorious at the second slot and Bodine and Olson chalked up the win at third. "We played better in part because they were a lower level team," Patrick said. "It was exactly what we needed to get us going again." "The confidence level is much better now," Bodine said. A Proviso West product, Bodine feels he himself is playing with that little extra bit of something. "I'm starting to play a lot better at doubles now and feeling better overall." Jay Meyer and Charlie Ready are still out with injuries but Meyer could be making a court appearance in as soon as a week, probably only in doubles competition, Mervold said. "He'll be out just for doubles to lessen the wear and tear on his knee." "We're looking forward to going out and playing now," Patrick said. "We just want to go out and do it again."

Ray's Tarpley cleared; ready to play again

DALLAS (AP) — Roy Tarpley has been cleared to rejoin the Dallas Mavericks after test results showed no evidence of drugs or alcohol in his system. The test results, made available Monday, allow Tarpley to continue his NBA career after he was suspended last Friday for missing practice. Tarpley, already two-time offender of the league's drug policy, faces a lifetime ban if he tests positive a second time. "I feel real bad about this," Tarpley said in a statement issued by the Mavericks. "I need to work on being a responsible person. I would have been at practice. I would have called. I paid a price and now I'm glad I'm over. I said I didn't take drugs and I didn't. I'm excited about getting back with the team." Tarpley is expected to play Monday when the Mavericks meet the Los Angeles Clippers. It was Tarpley who asked that his test results be made public.

Panthers look for revenge at No. 12 Illinois

By AL LAGATTOLLA
Sports editor

Eastern's baseball team will face its highest rated opponent yet Tuesday when it travels to Proano Stadium in Champaign to face the University of Illinois for a single game at 3 p.m.

Ryan Edwards (2-2, 3.34) gets the nod for the Panthers, while the Illini had not determined their starter.

Eastern coach Dan Callahan is looking for a victory.

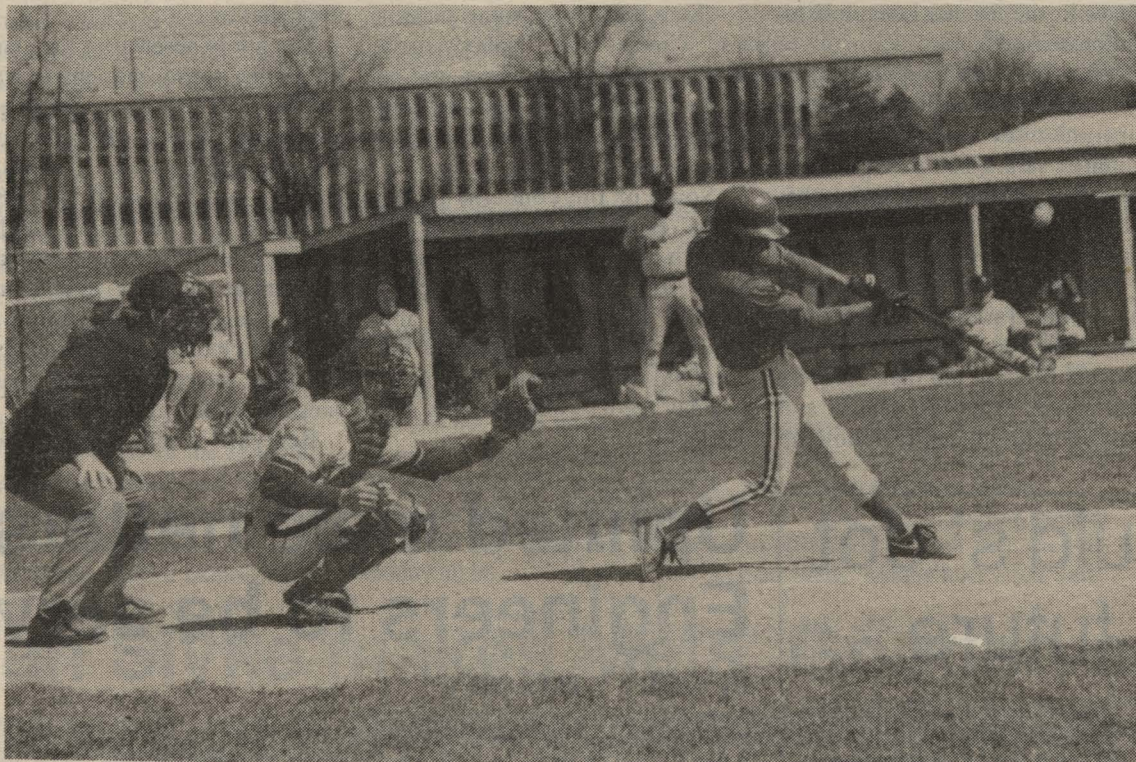

"Since I've been here, we haven't beaten them," Callahan said.

Last season, the Panthers fell three times to the Illini by 7-6, 10-6 and 8-3 scores.

"Hopefully, the players will get up for it because we're playing the University of Illinois," Callahan said. "They've played some of the best teams in the country."

The Illini (22-10, 7-1 in the Big Ten) are rated No. 12 in the latest Baseball America poll. They are coming off a weekend that saw them take three of four from Minnesota, losing their last contest 14-1.

The top teams Illinois has played and beaten include Fullerton State (10-4), Long Beach State (9-8) and Oklahoma (8-5 and 9-2).

Eastern second baseman Chris Steil makes contact during Eastern's doubleheader sweep of Augustana Sunday at Monier Field. The Panthers travel for a single game at Illinois Tuesday.

MARK BRILLHART/Staff photographer

The Illini are just the first of three key opponents the Panthers will face during the span of one week. Wednesday, Eastern hosts Illinois State in a doubleheader, before hosting a pair of doubleheaders with arch-rival Southwest Missouri State on Saturday and Sunday. The Illini play at Monier

Field a week from Tuesday for a single game.

"I think this is a tough stretch," Edwards said. "But you have to look at the Florida schedule (as well)."

Since that stretch, the Panthers are 3-2 and are coming off a Sunday sweep of Augustana.

Eastern is 13-14 and riding the crest of a three-game winning string.

"We need to get over the .500 hump," Edwards said. "We've had a hard time doing that."

And don't think Edwards is afraid of the Illini.

"I don't think we're an underdog," Edwards said. "We have a legitimate shot of beating Illinois."

It's not impossible. Eastern is a member of the Mid-Conference Association of Midwestern Universities member Western Illinois fell just 3-2 to Missouri Illinois. And with Minnesota pulling off its 13-run romp, it proves the Illini are beatable.

Callahan said the Panthers are ready.

"Ideally, we've got what we feel is our best pitcher going," Callahan said. "If we can't get them with our best pitcher, maybe we don't deserve to beat them."

The Panthers won't want the wind blowing out. Illinois hit the long ball, outperforming competition by a 42-17 clip. In contrast, Eastern has hit 10 roundtrippers this season.

Catcher/third baseman Dalesandro and catcher Mulligan have been the power outlet for the squad this season, knocking nine homers apiece. Second baseman Parsons has clubbed five home runs. Dalesandro sports a .343 batting average. All-American first baseman Bubba Smith has smacked three homers in 58 at bats.

Eastern second baseman Nelson leads the team in batting with a .407 average and .657 on base percentage.

Strong finish lands golfers in seventh

By AL LAGATTOLLA
Sports editor

Eastern's golf team used Thursday's first day at Southern Illinois-Edwardsville as a warm-up for its stunning second day. The Panthers led all 12 teams in team score on Friday.

Unfortunately, Thursday's results were weighed equally, and Eastern finished seventh overall with a score of 632. Southern Illinois finished first overall with a score of 612.

"If we wouldn't have dug such a hole the first day, we would have had a chance," said Eastern coach Paul Lueken. "We beat everybody the second day."

The Salukis shot a 301 the first day and a 311 the second day.

On Thursday, the Jekyll-Hyde Panthers shot a 327 as a team, finishing higher than just two squads - Missouri St. Louis (333) and St. Francis (345). On Friday, Eastern's score of 305 was two strokes better than the University of Indianapolis for the best score.

Panther Kevin Triefenbach finished second among the field with a 149 overall score. He shot a 76 the first round and a 73 in round two.

Triefenbach was just two strokes behind leader Mark Bellas of Southern Illinois-Carbondale. Bellas shot a 70 the first day and a 77 the second day.

The Panthers finished ahead of Saginaw Valley, Missouri-Rolla, St. Louis, Missouri-St. Louis and St. Francis. Saginaw

Kevin Triefenbach

Valley shot a 632 to tie with the Panthers.

Eastern finished behind the Salukis, Indianapolis, Tennessee-Martin, Southern Illinois-Edwardsville, Lewis and Oakland College.

Dale Carlson was the Panthers' second-best finisher, scoring a 162, followed by teammates Chad Gand (164), Tom Rush (163) and John Hamilton (165).

Each Panther shot better the second round than he did in the first round. Hamilton made the largest improvement, going from an 89 the first day to a 76 the second day. Hamilton's second-day score was the same as Triefenbach's first-day score and better than Bellas' second-day output.

Carlson shot the next-best Panther round, scoring a 77 the second day after a showing of 84 in the first day.

Tough Bradley squad up next for streaking women netters

By R.J. GERBER
Staff writer

Eastern's women's tennis team ran its spring record to 10-2 after sweeping a quadrangular match hosted by Principia College this past weekend in Elsah.

The Lady Panthers won in impressive fashion by soundly beating Chicago University, 9-0, Washington U., 6-3, and host Principia, 8-1.

The sweep ran the Lady Panther's winning streak to seven in a row. Eastern is already assured of more wins than all of last spring, when the team finished 8-10.

Eastern will try to keep the momentum rolling Tuesday at Peoria, when they face Gateway Conference rival Bradley, a match that has Coach Grant Alexander concerned.

"I am more nervous about this match than I was about facing Indiana State last week. We beat Bradley in the fall, but they have one of their top players returning to action against us. We need to get after them. It should be really interesting," Alexander said.

"Bradley is going to be ready for us, it should be a lot closer than last time."

Eastern is 1-0 in the Gateway this season after surprising Indiana State 5-4 last week at Weller Courts. Aside from Bradley, Eastern will face conference squads Northern Iowa and Illinois State before hosting the Gateway tournament on April 26-28 at Weller Courts.

Bradley is going to be ready for us, it should be a lot closer than last time.

Eastern tennis player
Lori Neate

The Lady Panthers won the fall meet 8-1 over the Braves. Last spring, the Lady Panthers fell in a 5-4 decision with the Lady Braves.

Alexander was very happy with the shutout at Elsah.

"Principia has excellent facilities and I was really pleased with the way we played," Alexander said.

The victory over Washington U. was seemingly the toughest of the three. After a late Friday night match, the Lady Panthers had to take the court early Saturday morning to challenge Washington U.

No. 3 doubles partners Cheryl Piszczek and Lori Neate opened at 9 a.m. and set the tone for the day with a straight set victory.

"Washington U. was tough because it was so early in the morning, but when we are both on, Cheryl and I are tough to beat," Neate said.

Neate and Piszczek cruised to an easy victory over Chicago U. as well, winning 6-1 and 6-0.

The Lady Panthers dominated the quadrangular meet taking 18 singles matches, and seven nine doubles contests. But the most impressive play came from No. 6 singles player, Marcial. The senior from Bradley ran her personal record to 10 by tearing through the opposition weekend. Marcial lost only one game in three singles matches which she won all in straight sets.

In other singles action, Neate and Piszczek took three wins. Kim Rhodes and Sue Cotti of Saginaw won two of their matches as well as No. 1 Missy Holste. Bachochin and Cotti swept doubles play at No. 3. Piszczek and Neate did the same at No. 3, respectively. The No. 1 of Holste and Rhodes took three closely contested matches.

A season ago, the Lady Panthers raided Principia 7-2.
