Senators set sights toward executive spots

SUZANNE OLIVER
senior government editor

Though they have no party name platform, five Student Senate members have banded together to run for the senate's executive seats during the spring elections slated for April 17.

Senate members Kristy Koch, Steve Macaluso, Martha Price, Brian Riordan and Blake Wood are to be the next student senate executive board.

Running for student body president is Price, a junior home economics education major, who is currently senate vice president. She has been a member of the senate since her freshman year.

Elected, Price said one of her presidential duties would include continuing her work on freshman orientation day, "Panther Pride," keeping abreast of issues such as Textbook Rental Service and the Student Center.

Price said making herself accessible to the students is one of her goals. "If elected, I want to make it clear to the students that if they have a problem or a complaint, they should come to me about it," she said.

Making the move to replace Price as the vice president is the current Senate Speaker, Kristy Koch. A junior political science major, Koch said her years of experience on senate and as senate speaker would be an asset.

"My experience as student body officer and sitting on boards for student government and administration have made me aware of the issues," Koch said.

Koch said she would work with the senate on orientation day, in addition to continuing the traditional grade appeals duties. "It's very important that students can appeal grades," Koch said.

Chief of Staff Steve Macaluso, a senior accounting major, is running for financial vice president. As financial vice president, Macaluso would oversee allocations of student fee funds on Apportionment and financial duties of the senate.

"I'll be making sure student fees are being spent wisely," Macaluso said.

In the past, the AB has been accused of programming Eastern's organizational events, along with heated disputes of an organizations based on academic versus entertainment.

"AB is not a programming board, I'll be very careful," Macaluso said.

Brian Riordan, a sophomore political science major, will run for board of Governors representative. Riordan's experience includes his position of chair of the legislation committee and his past attendance at the Board of Governors meetings.

Jordan claims comments weren't pro-Iraqi

NEW YORK (AP) - King Hussein of Jordan said Sunday he was hurt that the United States had misinterpreted his recent comments on the Persian Gulf War as pro-Iraqi, and denied claims his country is a pipeline for weapons into Iraq.

"My disappointment is great ... over the fact that instead of peace, there is this terrible war," Hussein said in an interview on ABC's "This Week With David Brinkley." "... I do not see why my statement, my appeal for peace, has been so misunderstood and misinterpreted." Hussein angered the Bush administration in a speech last week in which he said the war was one for American dominance in the Middle East and was being waged against all Arabs and Muslims, not just Iraq.

Washington responded by saying it would "rethink" the $55 million in aid slated this year for Jordan.

"We've had a longstanding good relationship," President Bush said Sunday in Washington. "But he's moved over too far. He's got great pressures on him, too." Iraqi President Saddam Hussein in a speech Sunday saluted Arab countries that have stood with Iraq, and specifically mentioned Jordan.

Rep. Lee Hamilton, D-Ind., a member of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, said Washington shouldn't destroy a 40-year friendship with the Jordanian monarch over the events of the past few weeks.

But he added: "I don't think the Congress would approve or reapprove the $55 million or so that we provide in assistance to Jordan right now." Sen. Richard Lugar, ranking Republican on the Foreign Relations Committee, said aid to Jordan should be sus-

Textbook committees meet to beat upcoming deadline

By MIKE BRUENS
Staff writer

One referendum and two committees after the Student and Faculty senates began debating the Textbook Rental Service issue, little headway has been made.

But the committees appointed by both senates haven't given up trying to come up with a compromise on the subject. A closed meeting between the two committees is scheduled for 3 p.m. Monday in the Arcola/Tuscola Room of the Martin Luther King Jr. University Union.

"We have not resolved really anything, but we have not disagreed on any major points either," said William Addison, an associate professor of psychology and Faculty Senate member.

The committees began meeting earlier this semester after a November referendum found students in favor of maintaining a rental system, rather than creating a purchasing system, as was suggested by the Faculty Senate.

The committees have been working to come up with some kind of proposal or compromise

“We have not voted on anything as of yet, but the two sides seem like they are going in totally different directions.”

Ed Marlow
Faculty Senate member

to present to Eastern President Stan Rives by Friday, the tentative date he set for resolution to the issue.

Still, both the students and faculty agree the deadline may not be met. "We have not voted on anything as of yet, but the two sides (faculty and student senate) seem like they are going in totally different directions," said Faculty Senate member Ed Marlow, also a professor of management and marketing.

Currently, full-time students pay about $62 per semester for the textbook fee, while part-time students pay $3.90 per hour per semester. Addison noted the flat fee could be a major point of contention during upcoming meetings.

Student Senate and committee member Curtiss Cline said the student committee is not leaning toward any one solution and is doubtful the deadline will be met. However, he said the committees should resolve the matter within a week after the deadline.

One solution discussed in a previous meeting was the idea to eliminate the rental system for graduate students or have a textbook cost limit for each course.

"It would be best to eliminate the rental system to graduate students or raise the textbook cost limit to $25 per course," Cline said.

U.S. weighs possibilities of a land war

DHAHRAN, Saudi Arabia (AP) - As allied pilots bombed Iraqi troops and their supply lines Sunday, a senior American military official said the U.S.-led forces could use another three to four weeks to prepare for a ground offensive.

Defense Secretary Dick Cheney, meanwhile, said the next phase of the Persian Gulf War would probably combine air power with both ground and amphibious combat. But he would not say how soon it might begin.

In Iraq, President Saddam Hussein made his first nationwide broadcast to his people since three days after the war began.

Speaking on Baghdad radio, he congratulated them for withstanding the attacks by the allied "warplanes of shame." He told them their valor was inspiring the hundreds of thousands of Iraqi soldiers at the front.

"I heard what Saddam Hussein said and I didn't hear him say anything about him getting out of Kuwait," President Bush said in Washington. "Of course, that's what the whole world is wanting to hear." In the air campaign, the Americans lost their first warplane in combat in more than a week. The Marine Corp AV-8 Harrier was downed over southern Kuwait on Saturday, and the pilot was missing, the U.S. command said.

Taking advantage of improving weather, American warplanes flew 2,800 missions Sunday, concentrating on Republican Guard troops on the Iraqi-Kuwaiti border and the bridges, highways and railways used to supply them.

"It's a good position acting as a liaison for the students to the board," Riordan said. Commenting that the Student Speaker acts as a "watchdog," Wood, a sophomore political science major, hopes to be the next senate speaker. "The speaker acts as a watchdog. I want to coordinate our committees to be more active," Wood said. As speaker, Wood would preside over senate meetings and meet regularly with administration, keeping communication open between the senate and administration. The senate's chief of staff position will be decided in the fall when interested members can petition for the seat. A person is appointed to the position through a joint decision by the student speaker and president.

ended until the war is over. "I appreciate Hussein, but I appreciate likewise constancy of friendship," he said. U.S. Secretary of State James Baker, a guest Sunday on CBS-TV's "Face the Nation," said Washington was disappointed by Hussein's statements, but wanted to preserve the power of the moderate Jordanian king. "There is no, right now, attractive alternative to that regime, and we've said that for a long time," Baker said. "Clearly, he's got some extraordinary pressures on him domestically. We understand that, but that doesn't make it any easier when he speaks in the tone and the way that he did in that particular speech."

Taylor reports trash chute fire

The Charleston fire department responded to a trash chute fire in Taylor Hall early Sunday morning, a fire department official said. At 4:34 a.m., the fire department responded to the call, remaining at the hall for about an hour while the firefighters exhausted the fire and cleared out the smoke from the building, the fire department official said. No damage was done to the building during that fire.

Council to apply for funds to buy sewer equipment

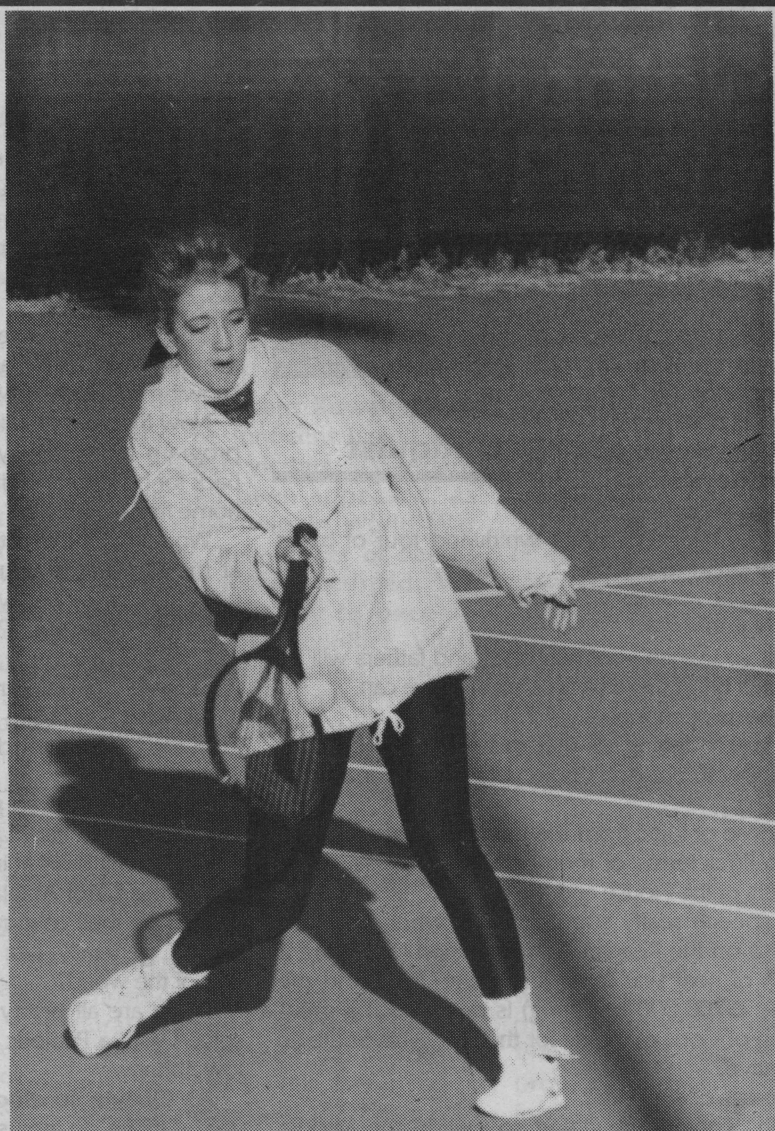

WILLIAM DUNNE
Staff writer

In a very brief meeting, the Johnston City Council voted unanimously in favor of applying for a $125,000 loan from the North Carolina Environmental Protection Agency to purchase "high-tech" equipment for the sewer department.

The city plans to purchase a self-propelled mini-camera mounted on a small tractor that will run along sewer mains to spot possible damages. City Engineer Dick Dwiggins explained the camera will help city crews find locations of tree branches and house-grease, as well as pipe dam-

The city also wants to replace its 15-year-old jet truck with a newer model that includes added safety features. The jet truck allows crews to send a pressurized water hose down into the sewer pipes - propelling itself through the lines. The process pushes out the pipes with pressurized water.

The loan amount has changed from its original figure of $100,000 to $125,000, but Dwiggins said it's merely a cushion and all the money won't be

Residence hall applications available

SYLVIA BRATCHER
Staff writer

Students who possess good communication and interaction skills can maintain a good academic record and are being sought to fill about 18 resident assistant positions for the fall semester.

Ken Hencken, the director of residence halls, said about one-half of the RAs now employed on campus probably not return after this semester either because they are graduating or for other reasons. As many as five more may be gone after the summer session.

Applications can be picked up at the residence hall desk and also at the housing office. They must be returned to the desks by noon Feb. 13.

Those who apply for the position must meet certain requirements. Applicants must have a grade point average of 2.25 or higher and must currently live or have lived in residence halls for at least one semester. First semester transfer students must have a copy of previous academic transcripts sent to the Office of Student Housing. Also, applicants must complete a minimum of 27 university accredited academic hours prior to the first day of employment, Hencken said.

Aside from the basic qualifications, candidates also are expected to have certain characteristics to meet RA standards, he added. They should demonstrate the ability to handle the pressures of academic work, to relate to other human beings and to have genuine interest in the residence hall programs.

"To be an RA you have to want to do the job. Don't do it for the money because if you do, you won't be happy," Hencken said. "You must truly enjoy working with people and you will find being an RA is as valuable as any class you take on campus."

Michelle Martin, a current RA in Lawson Hall, said being an RA is a time-consuming job. "There are positive and negative aspects of the job. You learn how to manage your time well," Martin said. "It is very valuable in learning how to interact with a variety of people but you have to make time for yourself too." "We have to maintain the policy in the halls," Martin said. "You try to keep a fun, upbeat atmosphere, yet still promote the academic part of being in college."

The university pays for the room and board of those selected to fill the RA positions. RAs also receive a monthly stipend of $75, or about $300 a semester.

Everyone who meets the requirements will be called back for in-hall interviews between Feb. 16 and Feb. 22. Candidates will be notified by letter on Feb. 26 of their status in the selection process. Those who have been asked to interview with residence hall counselors will schedule an interview at the housing office on Feb. 27 and 28.

Female candidates will be interviewed March 4-6 in the Illinois Room in the basement of Stevenson Tower. Male candidates will interview with residence hall counselors March 12-14, also in the Illinois Room. All candidates will be notified on March 20 of their acceptance or rejection.

No definite plans set for UB spring concert

By DEBBIE CARLSON
Staff writer

Two days in April have been selected as possible dates for a spring concert, said Trever Brown, University Board's concert coordinator.

"April 26 and 27 (are possible). If those dates don't work we'll have to figure something else out," he said.

Brown said he is looking into either McAfee or Lantz gyms or O'Brien Stadium for the site of a concert. "I know for sure we could get Lantz (Gym) because we always have concerts there," Brown said. "I'm checking into O'Brien (stadium)."

Brown said rumors that the UB would be getting two "big-name" bands for a possible April concert are not true.

"R.E.M. is not ... touring until next year. R.E.M. asks $135,000 for a concert, and we can't afford that. The Cure is touring in the summer so those are out," Brown said. "Damn Yankees and Bad Company are extending their tour until April, but I could read off a list of groups who are touring, it doesn't mean that their coming here."

Brown said he is looking into a "few possibilities" to perform for the potential April concert dates, though he refused to name any of the acts. "Technically all (groups) are a possibility, but it's a narrowing down process (on whom we decide)," he said.

In addition, Brown said no cost ceiling has been decided on how much UB could spend on a concert. "It depends on the group," he said. "If a no-name group is asking a lot of money then we'd say no."

"I'll use R.E.M. as an example because they're not coming here. We can't afford the $135,000 they ask, but since R.E.M. sells more tickets, we could put out more money. It all depends," Brown added.

Enrollment may affect AB budget

By ANN GILL
Staff writer

Glenn Williams, Eastern's vice president for student affairs, will report to the Apportionment Board at its meeting Monday on declining enrollment and the effects that will have on the university and the AB.

AB Chair and Financial Vice President Ken Wake said William's report will include the projected student enrollment figures for the upcoming fall, spring and summer semesters.

The AB uses those enrollment numbers, multiplied by an $18.15 figure that represents student fee amounts, to calculate the funding that the boards under the AB's financial jurisdiction will receive.

Because of the holiday observance of Abraham Lincoln's birthday on Tuesday, the meeting will be at 7 p.m. Monday in the Rathskellar Balcony of the Martin Luther King Jr. University Union.

Wake said according to the figures, the AB will have $295,679 to work with for the upcoming fiscal year. "This amount will be budgeted for the entire year, this includes fall, spring and summer," Wake said.

The Sports and Recreation Board, the AB, the Student Senate and the University Board present their budgets to the AB for approval.

"With less students we have less money to work with but we can work with those figures," Wake said. Last year, Wake said, the AB had about $360,000 to work with, but at that time the AB also approved budgets for Student Publications, which has since moved under another area of the university's jurisdiction.

"It looks a lot less, but actually it's (the total budget amount) only $9,000 less than last year's," Wake said.

At upcoming meetings, members of the University Board will present the first of the 18 budget requests from its committees. The UB committees include those for homecoming, mainstage, general costs and communication.

"Many of the committees have already cut their budgets," Wake said.

However, the AB has the final decision as to the amount of student fee funds each board will have for the year. Each of the boards presents the budgets to the board members and has a chance to make cuts before the AB makes a final decision.

In addition to Williams' report, the AB will hear a request for $2,282.33 in additional allocations from Recreational Sports.

If the request is approved by the AB the amount of additional allocations will total $16,948.23.

The request was tabled by the AB members, who asked that an individual presentation be made on the request before the board reaches a decision.

WAR IN THE GULF

Bush's patience is beginning to wear a bit thin

George Bush is not a man who likes to wait. The president proved that when he began his relentless push for a war in the Persian Gulf, convincing the international community that an embargo and economic sanctions could not force Iraq from Kuwait.

Bush got what he wanted.

By strong-arming members of the United Nations, our president got a resolution that authorized the use of force in the Gulf if Iraq did not withdraw from Kuwait by Jan. 15.

Bush also got Congress to give its nod to a war if the "madman" Saddam Hussein had not pulled out of Kuwait by the arbitrary and rushed Jan. 15 deadline.

Hussein did not leave Kuwait on that day: The president ordered a massive air assault on Jan. 16.

George Bush does not like to wait.

And now the president seems convinced that an air attack is not enough, that the United States must enter into a ground war.

This weekend Bush sent his top brass to Saudi Arabia - Secretary of Defense Dick Cheney and Joint Chiefs Chair Colin Powell - apparently to concur with the president's judgment that a ground war is the only way to drive Iraq from Kuwait.

Considering the fact that the president has gotten everything he wanted up to now, there's no reason to believe that a ground war is not imminent in the very near future.

After all, George Bush does not like to wait.

But this time the president needs to wait, needs to exercise more caution, to be more prudent, when he decides to commit U.S. soldiers to what will certainly be death for many.

We wonder why Bush is in such a hurry?

The president must know that a ground war will be bloody: We know that it will not be short, contrary to what all the military analysts on television like to tell us.

Again the president's penchant for impatience will escalate the war, causing an unjust war to sink further into the depths of injustice.

For once the president needs to wait. Maybe if Bush had exercised some control early on, had been able to wait for sanctions to work, we wouldn't be worried about the possibility of a ground war now - or any war - at all.

TODAY'S QUOTE

You can't say civilization don't advance ... in every war they kill you a new way.

Will Rogers

A new war order is a dangerous thing

Welcome to the new war column, which is, in the largest respect, much like the old war column.

This war still sucks, and we'd all be a lot better off if George Bush had a little patience.

Does watching Vice President Dan Quayle address crowds of troops' families on stateside military bases make me want to change my opinion about the war?

Uh, no. When do you think this guy last made speech about homelessness?

On the other hand, Quayle's whirlwind tour of bases does make for great television.

"This will not be another Vietnam."

(Screams of euphoria).

"I can't tell you when your husbands and fathers will be home. But we'll bring them back as soon as we can."

(More screams of euphoria).

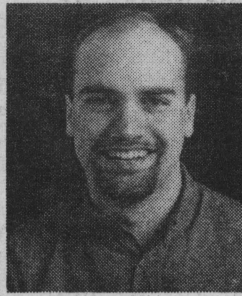

So, Dan. You're telling us that this thing will be over before you know it, but don't hold your breath for a quick finish, either.

A typical dose of logic from the man who brought you: "We have to limit terms of members in Congress, especially members of the House and the Senate."

Then his speech really starts to cook when he starts heaping praise on the Reagan Administration for buying a whole bunch of neat war toys during the '80s. And the Patriot missile ($700,000 per firing) is doing such a great job that it's an obvious mandate for the Star Wars Strategic Defense Initiative.

(More screams of euphoria).

Great, Dan. Since we're doing so well in the Middle East, let's open the throttle and bait the Soviet Union for some action. Gorbachev really showed his true color (pink) on Saturday when he said he thought the Allies might be overextending their United Nations' license for legal war.

David Lindquist

What a jerk.

Speaking of jerks, Quayle always has room for speeches for a comment or two about peace protests, what he calls "a tiny but vocal minority."

Giving credit where it belongs, this comment by Quaylester does seem to actually reflect the opinion of the masses in this country whose favorite use for a yellow ribbon is a blindfold.

Do you find yourself saying, "I don't want to see protests, and I sure as heck wish the media would be showing so much of what's going over there."

Now that's what I like to hear. Everyone's falling into program nicely. Quayle can certainly pat himself on the back for his efforts in the Battle of Sterility back here on the home front.

Wouldn't it be great if your country could win a war at the same time you wouldn't have to be bothered by body counts or pesky democratic citizens with different viewpoints than yours?

Let's give it a try.

But lately people are also starting to wonder out loud about what's going to happen when the war is over (as from the obvious conclusion that CNN will really be a disaster without a war).

Since it worked so well in Japan and Germany, should we help rebuild Iraq?

Where will Israel fit into the New World Order?

Will the Saudi Arabians let us have a peacetime military base in their country?

And, generally, just what's the deal with people in the rest of the world?

These are all pretty valid problems that might not be solved with a Patriotic deadline and endless reams of yellow ribbon.

As Quayle so eloquently said on March 23 of last year, "If we do not succeed, then we run the risk of failure."

- David Lindquist is Verge editor and a regular columnist for The Daily Eastern News.

WAR IN THE GULF

Our troops need support not dissent

Uncertainty.

That is the feeling that lurks over me and the rest of the 131-member U.S. Marine Helicopter Squadron HML-776.

As of Jan. 23, it's been two weeks since my reserve unit has been activated. And as of yet we do not know when we are going and, most importantly, where we are going.

It seems inevitable we will serve in the war because of the nature of our squadron and the mission we are assigned. Since the ground campaign in the Kuwait theater of Operation Desert Storm is about to begin, the need for helicopter support of our type will be needed.

Not knowing if I am going to war or not brings up another question that bothers me. Do the U.S. troops that are putting their lives on the line have the support of the American people?

Of course most people don't support the war. I'm just as torn on that issue as anyone. What troubles me is the fact that I could come home and have someone yelling in my face that I'm a killer and a war monger when they don't even know what the hell I've been through.

If seems the nation is torn between the issue of war and peace; people reveal their beliefs through public protests demonstrating either approval or disapproval of President Bush's decisions and tactics that the U.S. and Allied forces exercised in Operation Desert Shield and Desert Storm.

Bob McKee

And even though I believe in freedom of expression and find myself actually defending it now, I feel that as war protests are tearing this nation apart in a time when it is crucial to be united.

It seems to me that these protesters are doing it for their own self-benefit. If these people were really sincere about their intentions, there would have been just as many protests in August as there are now.

If their real intentions are establishing peace in the region, these protesters would have started when President Saddam Hussein first invaded Kuwait.

They would have yelled just as loudly when the Iraqi Republican Guard invaded Kuwait on Aug. 2 as they did on Jan. 16 when U.S. and Allied forces started the ground campaign in Iraq and Kuwait.

I know that there are several underlying financial motifs behind this war, but I think the statement "No Blood for Oil" cannot be completely accurate. If it were true there would have never been attacks on innocent Israel - a nation that to this day refuses to retaliate Scud missiles impacting in Tel Aviv - that cause the people to live in fear for their very lives.

Instead of people jumping on the "No Blood for Oil" bandwagon, they should support peace - most of all they should support the troops over there because men and women there need it.

Politicians say this will not be another Vietnam. God, I hope those politicians are right.

- Bob McKee was the managing editor and a regular columnist for The Daily Eastern News. McKee is currently serving in the Persian Gulf War with a U.S. Marine Reserve unit stationed in Glenview, Ill.

WAR IN THE GULF • ANOTHER VIEW

Let's find alternatives

In the wake of the war against Saddam Hussein, I see and hear of numerous demonstrations supporting or criticizing George Bush and the war effort, yet I hear no outcries against our government's lack of an energy policy calling for implementation of alternative energy sources (such as Ethanol for running automobiles) which would significantly lessen our vulnerability to other nations, such as Iraq, for instance.

The federal government's lack of an energy plan surprises and disturbs me. Consider the problems caused as a result of the Middle East oil embargo more than a decade ago when a conflict in that region triggered a drop in available oil supplies, causing a major recession. Remember the long lines at the gas stations and consumer panic? It seems to me that the same ingredients are present today. Our country seems to be as defenseless today, energy-wise, as it was 15 years ago. I'm sure that if alternative fuels were developed 15 years ago for widespread use we wouldn't even be fighting in the Persian Gulf today, risking the lives of our friends and relatives and destroying the environment. Without the massive demand for Middle East oil, Iraq would not have been able to afford its massive arms.

Still, I hear of no major plans nor subsidies supporting businesses that develop alternative fuels for widespread consumer use. Maintaining pre-invasion supply levels, thereby minimizing price increases in order to keep up consumer demand and dampen the recession is the only strategy the United States seems to be advocating (along with oil companies). The real problem is not that we consume too much oil, it's that there is nothing else available.

We should begin to demand a strategic plan for the development of alternative fuels in the near future and a gradual phase-out of oil consumption, especially for transportation. This may mean less efficiency today, but if enough people use an alternative source, such as Ethanol, it will certainly be cheaper for producers to develop technologies, making it more efficient. As well as showing our support or disagreement concerning the war, I believe we should also march for a solution to a problem just as serious - our extreme dependence on oil. We may get rid of Saddam Hussein today, but that won't solve our problems; whose to say 10 years from now we won't be there again for the same reason?

- Jennifer DeMuth is a junior at Eastern.

SMASH leaders want to give thanks

Dear editor:

As co-founder and vice president of Students Mobilized Against Saddam Hussein, I want to acknowledge several promoters of this organization.

First, I'd like to thank the media for their often biased questions to John Ronna in order to print an equally slanted paper. Granted, not all reporters are inclusive but it does incite the pro-policy, pro-troop element to join SMASH.

Secondly, EISCCAP is appreciated because every time an event is planned even more people organize to squelch it. EISCCAP says that they support the troops, but what significant contribution have they made? Candlelight vigils? It's great PR to get a picture in a campus newspaper, but did it truly help the troops abroad? As one of those troops preparing to depart, it certainly didn't help my morale.

Also, did EISCCAP really expect to convene to protest government policy in an area adjacent to the flag-raising sponsored by SMASH without confrontation? SMASH merely sponsored the ceremony. Vietnam vets still smart over the protests long ago. They have not forgotten those days, have you? Yet Saddam Hussein publicly appreciates all of you for helping his cause.

I am very appreciative of the various police departments for being so professional and efficient. They did an admirable job monitoring the events on Saturday, Feb. 2. If SMASH had truly wanted violence, then the counter-demonstration would have not been as restrained as it was. It was restrained.

answer the question, "Should the United States have initiated a war with Iraq?" I was unsure if the decision to liberate Kuwait was worth the sacrifice of American men and women. I talked about it with my friends at length.

My friend Dean wrote me a letter which eliminated my indecision. He said, "Although oil is one of the reasons why we are there, it goes much farther than that."

Think about the torture and deaths of innocent Kuwaitis and recently, the innocent Israeli and Saudi Arabian victims. If Saddam Hussein had been appeased, as Adolph Hitler was in World War II, think of the number of deaths that might have occurred. We owe it to humanity to become involved in every conflict. What would have happened if other countries did not aid our country in the Revolutionary War?"

So many Americans, myself included, often do not appreciate the freedom we enjoy.

As a nation, we have never been attacked by a foreign nation on our soil.

In sharp contrast are those countries of the Middle East whose citizens have had to incorporate war into their daily lives.

My grandfather was a soldier in World War II who was killed in battle. I never had the chance to know him; my grandmother could only provide a few pictures and some warm memories of him. As horrible as war casualties are, I know our servicemen and women will not die for nothing - they will die to preserve the freedom of all people, like my grandfather did.

May God protect them and end this war.

pro-policy stand does not mean anti-peace stand

Dear editor:

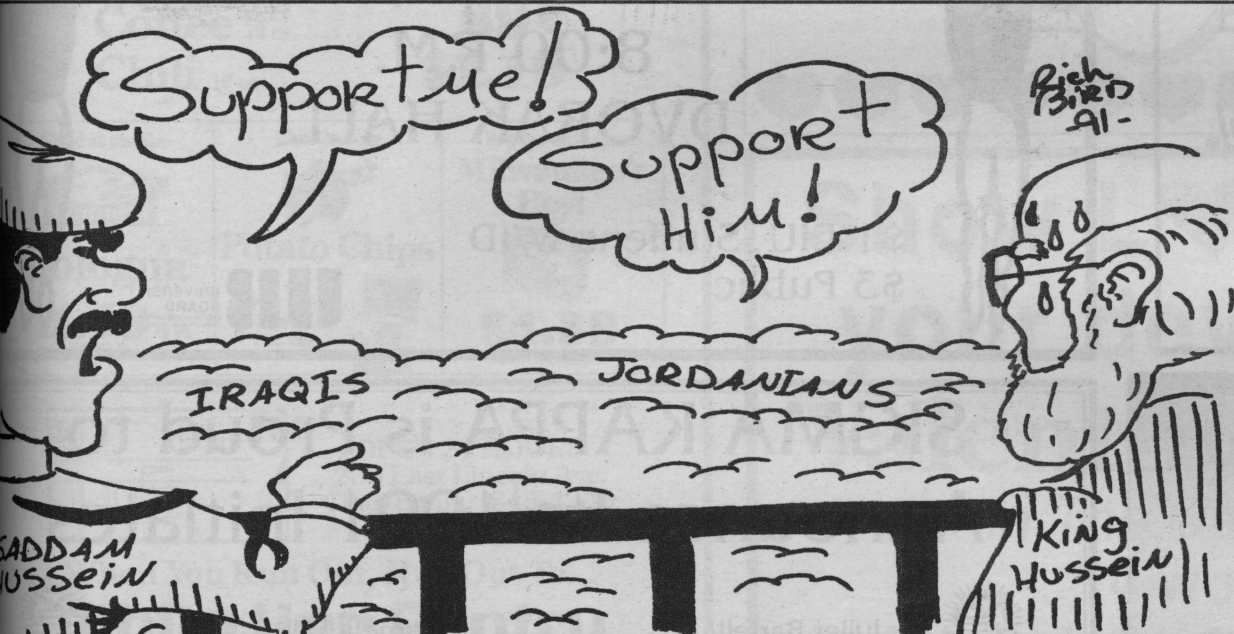

According to Tara Affolter and the Scales, one would get the impression that the pro-war side is nothing more than a group of people looking for an excuse to go to a fight. Even the label pro-policy gives the wrong impression. We are not pro-war. We are pro-policy. We support the action being taken to stop Saddam Hussein because nothing has worked. We support the action because a helpless nation has been pillaged and raped. We support the action because Saddam Hussein is a madman who has gassed his own popula-

Tara and Pete complain about the statements of the pro-policy side being extreme and claim that we sought out confrontation with them. These points raise a few questions in my mind. Do we consider calling Bush a terrorist to be extreme? Why was our march (Feb. 2) scheduled for nearly the same time as the flag-raising ceremony? Was it in response to our ceremony? Were they hoping for us to jeer them so they could write the column they did? Who was really starting a confrontation?

our involvement in this war runs deeper than oil

Dear editor:

I have done a lot of soul-searching lately, attempting to

WAR IN THE GULF • ANTI-POLICY

This stand is really not anti-troops; rather it is strongly for peace

Dear editor:

I have been listening to many students, faculty and staff this past week and half concerned about the war in the Middle East, and in particular concerned about the stance the Newman Catholic Center has taken in regards to this war.

I would like to clarify a few points. First, we are pro-troop. There are 25,000 Catholic men and women in the Middle East from the United States. Some of them are students from this Newman Center. Some of them are good friends of mine and others here. Daily we pray for them and for their families and loved ones.

Secondly, we are pro-peace. This is not contrary to the gospel message of Jesus which is our guiding light.

Thirdly, the Pope, many bishops in our church and moral theologians have spoken out that this war is not just. The Pope has come to the conclusion that "Peace obtained by arms can only prepare new violence if it leaves intact the profound causes in this part of the world."

We are not addressing the complexity of the issues over there. Finally, we are non-violent in our approach. Our approach is to pray for peace, to keep vigil for peace, to act on behalf of peace. This is consistent with everything that we do here. It is a matter of our faith. And yet we allow for a diversity of opinion as Catholic students, faculty and staff struggle to inform their consciences about the morality of this war.

It is a struggle that is done in love. We are seeking the truth in love. No name-calling, but instead a deep respect for one another as we search through the complexity of war and the morality of this one in particular.

Peter Voelz was wrong when he said CNN sets a bad precedent

Dear editor:

This comment appeared in the Friday, Jan. 25 edition of the Effingham Daily News.

"CNN is setting a bad precedent," (Peter) Voelz said, because it broadcasts from Baghdad only what the Iraqi government allows it to say. CNN correspondent Peter Arnett is not able to cover the war objectively, he said, and showing prisoners of war on television was a propaganda victory."

As a former student of yours, Peter, I find it hard to believe you could make such a comment. It just so happens that CNN is the only news coverage in Baghdad, or the other "Big 3" would be happy to do the same.

Furthermore, if CNN is setting a bad precedent reporting Iraqi censored information from Baghdad, what about ABC, CBS and NBC setting the precedent of reporting "U.S. Military Cleared" information, or "Saudi Cleared," or "Israeli Cleared" information. In fact, if my facts are correct, NBC's Tom Brokaw had to apologize "on air" for releasing information not previously cleared by the Israeli government.

To close, if any network is setting a bad precedent, all the networks are setting a bad precedent. I do feel, however, I would like to know everything I can about the happenings of the war. I do realize though, for the safety of our men and women, these news reports should be carefully given. It was, however, a very jealous moment for the "Big 3" when CNN was reporting live and uncensored from Baghdad the night the war began.

Wrestlers lose seventh straight meet

By KEN RYAN
Staff writer

Youth could not prevail Sunday afternoon, as the Moccasins of Tennessee-Chattanooga came up with a 35-16 victory over the Panthers at Lantz Gym.

Eastern, which dropped its seventh consecutive match, used four freshman and a sophomore in their lineup, dropping its record to 3-8 on the season.

"The freshman are wrestling against older wrestlers," Eastern head coach Ralph McCausland said. "Their 190-pounder is a senior and their 118-pounder is a seasoned sophomore. Our freshman will be remembering these matches and will be dishing them out in the years to come.

"Tim O'Malley has done a nice job for us," McCausland said. "He fights from within. He has had strep throat and he ran out of gas a little at the end.

Eastern, with eight losses, has tied its record for the most losses in one season. The Panthers have not lost eight times in one season since 1986, when they were 5-8.

Junior Ray Serbick improved his record on the season to 29-11-1, as he wasted no time in putting away Ira Miller. Serbick pinned Miller in 37 seconds.

Other Panthers picking up victories included; junior Dave Marlow (25-14), who was in control from the start and won his match 15-5 and heavyweight John Hilkey who pinned his opponent 96 seconds into the match.

Ralph Manning, coach of the Moccasins, whose team raised its record to 8-4 on the year, said he had nothing but respect for the Panther squad.

"Eastern Illinois has a great tradition," Manning said. "I've seen them wrestle for several years and they're always fighters, right now they got a number of young kids in there and some people are banged up.

"Ralph McCausland does a great job and he always has his guys ready to go. They're going to be a good team," Manning said. "They seem to be set at the 134 and 142-pound division and I think Serbick and Marlow have a good chance at making it to the Nationals."

The Panthers will be looking to avoid their worst record since they joined Division I play in 1981, when they travel to Champaign Wednesday night for a 7:30 p.m. meet with the Fighting Illini of Illinois.

 Olson returned to the court immediately made an impact single-handedly outscoring the mix 8-2.
 Olson sandwiched a 3-pointer in a layup around a basket from Bennett, then hit another shot from the arc to give Eastern a 50-44 lead with 4:43 left.
 When it was Leib's turn. The 6-foot-7 rookie scored on a rebound and then completed a three-point shot after a strong inside move. Olson followed with a layup, giving the Panthers its biggest lead of the game at 51 with 2:20 left.
 Olson and Leib scored 19 of the Panthers' last 23 points, including a layup straight from the 9:51 mark until there were 12 seconds left in the contest.

 "These kids are really playing as a team right now," said Samuels of his Panthers, who out-rebounded the Phoenix 33-21 and pulled down 14 offensive boards. "I was concerned (when we were down by 10 points early in the game), but I didn't think it was time to panic. I was more worried when we were down by five points with seven minutes left.
 "But our kids responded, and that's what we have to do. They have to know when they have to get back in it, and they also have to know when they can put teams away. We did that tonight."
 Leib, who played 26 minutes in relief of starter Steve Nicholson, made his baskets from within 10 feet of the hoop, including several turn-around jumpers.
 "I usually shoot those in practice, but I didn't have the chances to in the games," Leib said.
 "He's giving us some great minutes and scoring," Samuels said. "Leib played awfully well."

 Olson, who entered the game as the nation's 10th most accurate 3-point shooter, sparked the crowd by raising his arms and pointing to the fans in celebration of his 3-point goals.
 "This was the first time beating these guys since I've been here - it feels great," Olson said. "I'm sure we're all going to be pumped up just as much if not more Monday."

 "Now that everything is going pretty well for us, we've got people coming into the gymnasium and helping us out, we've got great fan support," Jones said. "I think it will be a big difference. People cheering us on and getting the players excited - I think that will be our edge."
 The Vashon High School product said that he will take the same approach to this game that he did in the first game.
 "I'm going to play the same way, just a little more aggressive," Jones said. "I'm going to play hard on defense and hopefully not get caught up on defense and shoot those moonballs," he said referring to the airballs that he put up against Green Bay.

Panthers shoot down Green Bay 63-56

Olson, Leib streak team to victory

By CHRIS BOGHOSSIAN
Associate sports editor

Dave Olson sat patiently on the bench for the opening nine minutes of Eastern's Mid-Continent Conference game against Wisconsin-Green Bay Saturday night.

The Eastern forward, who began the season as a starter but has been used as a reserve for the Panthers in their last 10 games, was waiting for coach Rick Samuels to call on him.

And when Samuels decided to insert Olson into the lineup at the 10:53 mark in the first half, Olson delivered.

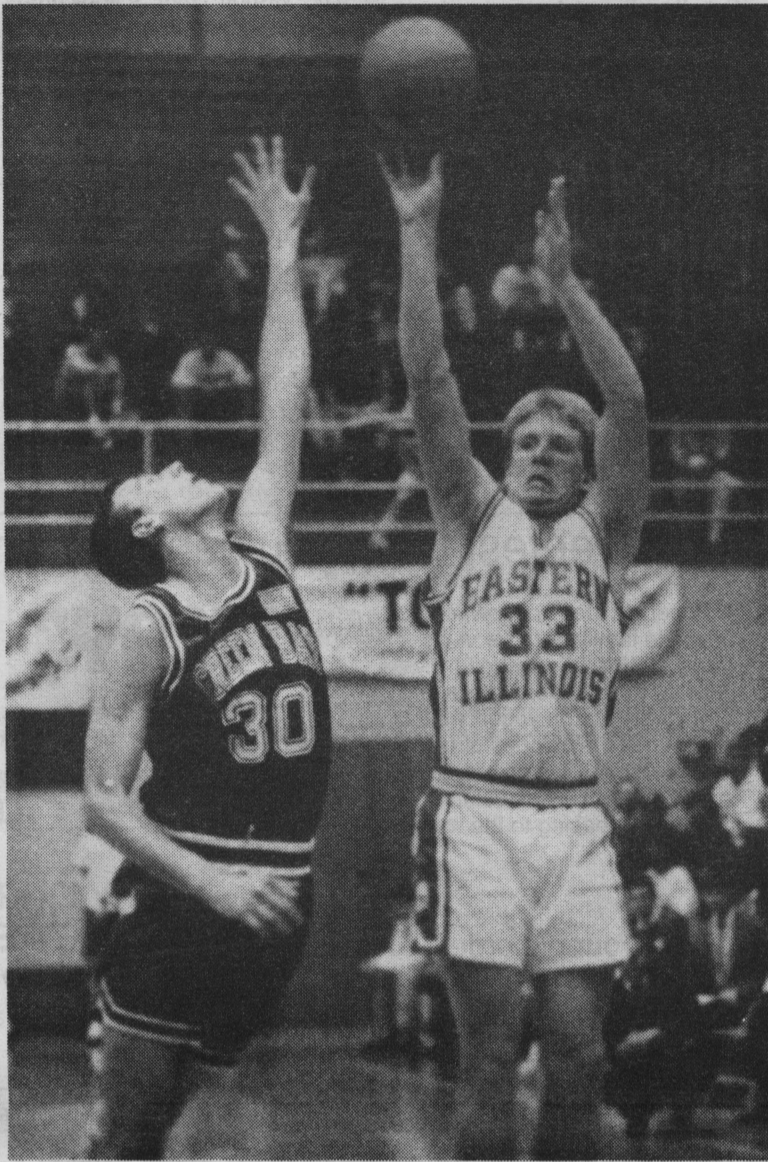

The 6-foot-7-inch Newark High School product hit four 3-point shots and eight of 12 overall for 20 points, leading Eastern to a 63-56 victory over the Phoenix in front of 4,233 fans at Lantz Gym.

"Olson was the difference in the game," said Green-Bay coach Dick Bennett, whose team dropped to 15-6 overall and 7-3 in Mid-Continent action. "You have to take your hat off to him."

But Olson wasn't the only Panther to make an impact off the bench. Freshman center Curtis Leib scored a career-high 13 points in his longest stint of the season.

Guard Steve Rowe added 18 points - including a perfect 7-of-7 from the foul line - to help Eastern improve its record to 11-8 overall and 6-3 in the league. Tony Bennett, the coach's son, led Green Bay with 19 points and eight assists.

The Phoenix got off to a quick start and took a 17-7 lead after a 3-pointer from Dean Rondorf and led 19-10 with 7:20 left in the half.

But Rowe followed two free throws with a baseline jumper and another free throw to cut the Phoenix lead to four points.

Olson then hit his second 3-pointer of the night to give Eastern its first lead, and Leib dumped in two free throws right after to cap a 12-0 Panther run that gave them a 22-19 lead with 2:22 left on the clock. Olson hit a jumper from just inside the arc to close the half with the Panthers ahead 26-25.

The teams traded baskets early in the second half until Rowe put together two straight baskets that forced the elder Bennett to call a timeout.

And the strategy worked for the Phoenix, who went on an 11-2 run following the break to take a 47-42 lead with just less than

First-place Northern invades Lantz for Monday showdown

By R.J. GERBER
Sports editor

Jan. 31 was the biggest date on Eastern's basketball calendar because the Panthers faced league-leading Northern Illinois in DeKalb.

After dropping that contest 59-47, Eastern points to Monday's matchup against the Huskies at Lantz Gym for redemption.

The Panthers, 11-8 overall and 6-3 in the Mid-Continent Conference after their 63-56 victory over second place Wisconsin-Green Bay, host Northern Illinois at 7:30 p.m.

Northern Illinois, a first-year member of the Mid-Con, is 19-2 overall and 10-1 in league play. The Huskies, winners of their last seven and 18 of 19, boast the second best defensive scoring average in the nation (54.4).

Northern is led by two talented seniors in forward Donnell "D-Train" Thomas (16.5 points per game) and point guard Donald Whiteside (10.7 ppg). Whiteside has turned the ball over a measly 46 times in 689 minutes, an average of 2.2 per contest.

Whiteside said that the game should be just like the first meeting, physical and a defensive struggle.

"Eastern is a good defensive team," Whiteside said. "they've proven that. They like to play physical, so I think it will be a physical battle and plus the fact that they are playing at home. They probably won't want to be shown up."

"I think it will be a battle and the team that wants it more will come out on top. We're just trying to stay steady and keep moving up and improving."

Eastern is led by senior point guard Gerald Jones who averages

15 ppg and junior forward Johnson at 14.2. Junior guard Steve Rowe hits for 13.4, but leading Eastern in league play with 15.4 ppg. Rowe also leads the Panthers in steals and assists.

The Panther bench is bolstered by junior forward Dave Olson who averages 10.8 ppg and is 10th in the nation from three-point land (52.6 percent). He is on 4-8 from behind the arc and scored a game-high 20 points against Green Bay.

Eastern head coach Rick Samuels said that Northern is a team that plays intense defense and gets right up on the offensive player.

"Northern Illinois is a solid defensive team," Samuels said. "They really like to play close to the body. Physicalness is very much a part of their game."

"If we can get the ball inside that's definitely going to be to our advantage. But play may just get more physical inside."

Jones said that he is expecting a war between the teams as well and noted that the shots just didn't fall for Eastern at NIU.

"The shots just weren't falling," Jones said. "It was just in the later part of the game they had the free throws that put them on top."

Northern capitalized on 25-3 from the free throw line, compared to just 12-14 for the Panthers.

Women run by Bradley 84-71

By R.J. GERBER
Sports editor

After opening with five consecutive Gateway Conference losses at Lantz Gym, Eastern's women's basketball team has won its last two.

The Lady Panthers (10-11, 5-7) beat Bradley 84-71 Saturday at Lantz in front of 466 fans. The loss dropped Bradley to 12-10 overall and 8-5 in Gateway action.

Senior forward Bev Williams led the way for Eastern with a game- and season-high 25 points on eight of 16 from the field and 9-11 from the free throw line. Williams fell a single point shy of her career-high in leading the Lady Panthers to a commanding 42-25 halftime advantage.

"I was pleasantly surprised to be up at the half like that," Eastern head coach Barbara Hilke said. "I thought our kids came out and played extremely hard."

"Beverly Williams going to the hole as hard as she did (was the turning point), and Karen McCaa finding Tracy Roller for some surprise fast break-type things that we haven't done."

Williams also collected a game-high eight rebounds. The Lady Panthers got some added scoring punch from Roller, who netted 18, and sophomore forward Heather Youngman, who chipped in with 14. Sophomore point guard McCaa added 10 points and tied Bradley's Val Wancket for game-high honors with seven assists.

Eastern shot 60 percent (33-55) from the field, including a perfect 3-3 from three-point land. That percentage was somewhat uncharacteristic for Eastern this season.

"We were laughing," Hilke said. "We said that was our usual 30 and 30 (percent) added together."

The shooting percentage was the best for Eastern this season, and its 42 first half points is also a season high. Hilke added that the Lady Panthers got some inspired play from freshman forward Carolyn Hagerty.

"Carolyn Hagerty got six assists in 12 minutes of play, and that's really nice play off the bench," Hilke said. She cautioned that although the Lady Panthers have won two games in a row at home, they are still looking for consistency.

"We haven't displayed any consistency thus far," Hilke said. "I'd like to see us do a couple, two three games in a row before we start talking about that (being on a roll)."

Eastern also out-rebounded Bradley 32-20. The 20 rebounds was a season-low for an Eastern opponent.

Bradley was led by four players in double figures, including center

Track team excels

Braidy Miller won the 35-pound weight throw by 10 feet and Nevin Govan hit the provisional national qualifying mark in the long jump on Saturday to help Eastern's men's track squad claim first place in the Saluki Invitational.

Miller's winning throw of 65-feet 11-inches is the second best collegiate mark in the country so far this season. It eclipsed his school record of 64-feet 3 1/4 inches that he set two weeks ago.

Govan's school-record 25-feet 3 1/4 inches provisionally qualifies him for the national meet in March. Govan, along with two other of Eastern's standouts, fell victim to some unfortunate circumstances. Govan missed a 26-foot long jump when he scratched by a 1/4 inch early in the competition. Dan Steele was winning the 800-meter run when mistook a line on the track 10 meters before the finish as the actual finish line and leaned too early. That was when the second runner went to him, Steele almost regained his position but lost by .04 of a second in 1:54.16. Also, Chris Fowler was left in the blocks of the 400-meter dash because the starter of the race was using a faulty starting gun that went off late.

Eastern won the meet with 85.5 points over rivals Indiana State (72.5) and Southern Illinois (72.0).

The distance runners and field event athletes carried the team to the win with the exception of Brad Sledge who placed second in the 55-meter high hurdles with a personal-best time of 7.48 seconds.

Jim Fagan demonstrated amazing finishing speed to win the 1,000-meter and mile runs in 2:32.06 and 4:12.32. Teammate Scott Touchette and Eric Barr captured second-place honors in the 1,000 and the mile as well as 2:32.42 and 4:13.86, respectively. Jim's brother Ron won the 3,000-meter run in 8:27.53, his time ranks him first in the Mid-Continent Conference.
