President lifts ban on controllers

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Reagan, citing a "tradition that individuals deserve to be treated with compassion," opened the door Wednesday for 11,500 fired air traffic controllers to again seek federal jobs—but not in the flight towers.

"I do not believe that those who forfeited their jobs as controllers should be foreclosed from other federal employment," Reagan said as he lifted a three-year federal hiring ban against the controllers who launched an illegal strike last August.

Transportation Secretary Drew Lewis told reporters that none of the dismissed 11,500 individuals would be accepted at the Federal Aviation Administration, where they previously worked.

He acknowledged, ironically, that some of the fired workers eventually might work as military controllers. The FAA has picked up some of the slack in its depleted workforce by borrowing from the military.

Federal personnel officers said the former controllers' job applications would receive the same treatment as those of any other person, but pension and other benefits would be carried over from the time they went on strike.

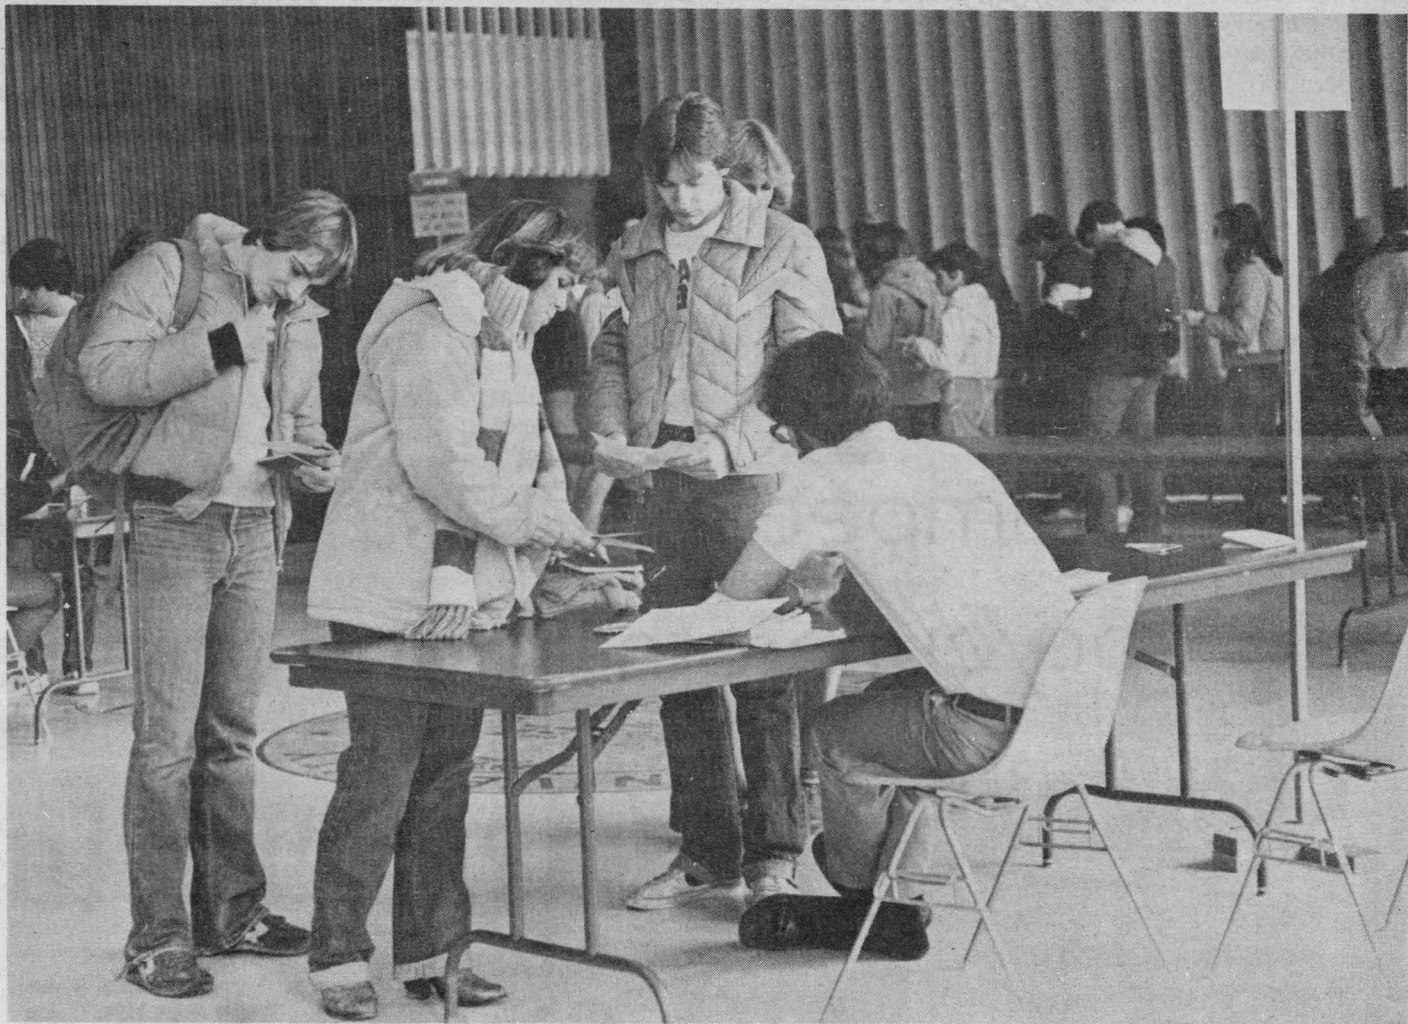

Because of employee reductions across much of the federal government, there was a question, however, as to how many jobs would be available, especially at anywhere near the pay levels—$22,500 to $49,800 a year—the controllers once commanded at the FAA.

Donald Devine, director of the Office of Personnel Management, indicated many of the former controllers might be hired by the Defense Department where, he said, 20,000 additional civilian jobs are expected to open.

But there are few federal jobs available elsewhere. The normal government attrition rate of about 10 percent outside the Defense Department and Postal Service has been largely countered by Reagan's budget cuts, acknowledged John Scholzen, a spokesman at the Office of Personnel Management.

Reagan's decision to waive the regulations that bar federal employment for up to three years to anyone who engages in an illegal strike against the government came a week after labor leaders urged him to show compassion toward the fired controllers.

At the meeting Reagan said he would review the matter, but wanted to wait until Lewis returned from Japan. But most labor unions had sought to get the fired controllers back to directing air traffic.

Sanctions not imposed

Election change found unconstitutional

by Lola Burnham

Eastern's Supreme Court decided Wednesday the Student Senate acted unconstitutionally when it voted to change the date of the fall student government election.

In a unanimous decision, the court found for student plaintiffs Dale Boisso, Jeff Francione and Carol Sample, saying that changing the election date "by simple motion is unconstitutional."

The court ruled that any change in the election date should have been by constitutional amendment because the student government constitution states that election dates can be changed only if the scheduled date is not an academic day.

According to senate minutes of the Sept. 23 meeting, the senate voted to change the date of the election from Nov. 11 to Nov. 18 because a voter registration drive had been scheduled for Nov. 11.

Chief Justice Joel Storm, who read the court's decision, said, "This court feels that any change in the election day, unless provided by Article II, section B, subpoint 1, should be changed by constitutional amendment."

Article II of the constitution reads in part, "Elections shall be held on the second Wednesday in November, and on the third Wednesday in April. If either of these days is not an academic day, it will be changed to the most appropriate day."

The court "feels the behavior of the Student Senate sanctions a university reprimand," Storm said.

He added that the court "feels that it is evident that the general knowledge of the constitution is insufficient in this particular case."

"Therefore we feel it is the responsibility of the speaker and senators to have a working knowledge of the university constitution and we recommend the senate take appropriate action to insure this," Storm said.

In their suit filed Dec. 2 on behalf of the student body, Boisso, a graduate student; Francione, a senior; and Sample, a junior, alleged that the senate's action was illegal under the constitution.

Francione said since Nov. 11 was an academic day, the senate had no legal grounds to change the date.

Boisso said the only reason the senate could change the date of an election is "because we don't have school that day."

The students asked for three sanctions against the senate, none of which was imposed by the court.

Those sanctions would have 1) required the senate to appoint a parliamentarian every semester to make sure the constitution is followed; 2) required senators to pass a constitution test similar to the one currently required for student justices; and 3) placed the senate on university probation.

In her brief filed on behalf of the senate, Senate Speaker Karen Kupsche said the senate did not act unconstitutionally because it acted on an interpretation of a previous precedent and according to the governing guidelines of Robert's Rules of Order—Newly Revised.

Kupsche noted that the senate changed the date of the spring 1979 elections because Easter break fell during the week before the election.

Student Body President Bob Glover said the senate did not refer to the constitution when voting to change the date because it was not involved.

"We did not amend the constitution," Glover said. "We just changed the election day."

House approval given to bill people for unbuilt pipeline

WASHINGTON—The House approved 233 to 173 on Wednesday a bill which hands industry the authority to start billing consumers for a yet unbuilt $43-billion pipeline to bring Alaska natural gas to the lower 48 states, the largest private construction project in history.

But the measure, already passed by the Senate, still faced an obstacle before going to the White House. A Senate opponent threatened to filibuster the usual formality of putting the House measure under the Senate bill's title, even though both bills are identical.

Thursday's (AP) News shorts

The legislative package waives existing antitrust and pricing laws to allow consumers to be billed for the pipeline before it is completed, a step which industry says is critical to attracting the massive capital needed for construction. The line would virtually dwarf the existing trans-Alaska oil pipeline.

Consumer advocate Ralph Nader charged after the vote that the Democratic Party had "sold its soul" to the oil companies by approving the proposal.

And Sen. Howard Metzenbaum, D-Ohio, who led Senate opposition on consumer grounds, said he has notified the leadership he would attempt to block the bill from going to the White House.

Should the obstacle posed by Metzenbaum be overcome, President Reagan is expected to sign the measure.

The package is intended to attract loans from world financiers, who up to now have been unwilling to risk the billions of dollars involved. It would effectively shift much of the risk from investigators to natural gas customers, who could end up paying for the pipeline even if it is never completed.

CAA to vote on resolution requiring ACT test scores

by Mary Holland

The Council on Academic Affairs will vote on a resolution Thursday which urges Eastern President Daniel E. Marvin to insure that no students enroll at Eastern without submitting an ACT (American College Testing) score.

However, Admissions Director John Beacon said he was "confused" by the CAA's resolution and added that strict enforcement of this policy would require Eastern to turn away students who would normally be admitted and enrolled.

"There are always going to be a few students who don't submit scores," he said.

Beacon said requiring an ACT score from students before they enroll can lead to some practical problems.

"What are we going to do each year with those students who walk in the last minute during central registration without an ACT score?"

They (the CAA) are making emotional decisions. I'm telling you the way it is."

Beacon said his office attempts to make admission decisions as quickly as possible, and waiting for a test score would delay the decision since students who rank in the upper half of their high school class can currently be admitted regardless of their ACT scores.

"By and large, we do ultimately get all of the ACT scores," Beacon added.

CAA chairperson Sharon Bartling said the CAA wrote the resolution after learning from the Academic Assistance Center that there were 100 freshmen who enrolled in the summer without an ACT score, despite the fact that the current catalog stipulates that all students must submit an ACT score before enrolling.

The CAA's resolution states that "It is the sense of the CAA that all policies in the catalog are also binding on the administration—at all levels....We request that President Marvin (through the appropriate vice presidents and deans) direct that all admission policies are to be carried out in the form and spirit in which they were approved."

Bartling said the ACT scores are needed for placement, screening and research.

The English department is unable to place students in the proper classes without an ACT score, she said.

"Absolutely every student who comes in here has to take English. That's an all university requirement that is absolutely dependent on an ACT score. You cannot place them any other way," she said.

Bartling said if the students do not submit an ACT score they are placed in English 1000, a course intended for students who do not have the writing skills to enroll in English 1001, a basic composition course.

However, Beacon said he did not feel there was much faculty usage of the ACT scores, and added "by dealing with that committee, (CAA) it is evident that they certainly don't have a complete understanding of what those test scores are all about."

Although Beacon said he is leary of turning down students without an ACT score, Bartling said she did not think this was an unfair requirement.

"It is part of the enrollment process just like writing the check," she said.

In other business, the CAA will vote on a change in the present policy which stipulates that former Eastern students who transfer from a community college with an associate of arts or an associate of science degree have not met the general education requirements.

Under the proposed change, students who first attend Eastern but earn 15 hours or less of credit with a cumulative Eastern grade point average of 2.0 or higher and then earns an A.A. or A.S. degree from a community college will be given credit for meeting Eastern's general education requirements.

The CAA will meet at 2 p.m. Thursday in the University Union Tuscola—Arcola room.

Committee to meet on add - drops

by Dawn Morville

In an effort to review earlier submitted recommendations for a new add/drop system plus discussing other suggestions, an ad hoc add/drop committee will meet for the first time Thursday.

The committee was appointed in November by Eastern President Daniel E. Marvin in order to "screen through" the recommendations of the Student Senate, Council on Academic Affairs and Faculty Senate.

The recommendation of the committee calls for central registration, which would include add/drop, to start Thursday and to be completed prior to the beginning of classes on Monday.

Marvin said the request for the committee was not simply to accept the recommendations from these campus organizations.

The committee consists of members from these three groups in addition to Dean of Student Academic Services Samuel Taber, Director of Registration Michael Taylor, a faculty member appointed by Marvin, a student member appointed by Student Body President Bob Glover, a staff member from Computer Services, Graduate School Dean Larry Williams and the assistant director of registration David Sardella, who will serve as an ex-officio member without a vote.

Marvin said he will provide guidance to the committee concerning the add/drop proposals and will give the committee a "time line" by which they could complete their report.

The newly formed ad hoc committee to study the add/drop process will meet at 3 p.m. Thursday in the conference room of Marvin's office.

Cable decision needs more input

The Charleston City Council's recent indecisiveness concerning various rate hike proposals by Liberty Cable Television is drawing out the issue. The council should take steps to resolve the issue quickly.

The sequence of events surrounding the cable TV issue are complicated. After examining the company's original rate hike proposal, the council voted against the proposal and the company proposed another rate hike. This occurred on Oct. 28. On Nov. 4, the council voted to file the new proposal for public inspection. On Nov. 18, the council voted down this proposal and a new one was placed on file for public inspection. The latest in this series of events has been the council once again voting down the proposal, the company proposing a new increase, and the council placing this new increase proposal on file.

After the last proposal was placed of file for public inspection, City Commissioner Olga Durham said the majority opinion she received had either not wanted the service and rate increase, or thought the service should be on a voluntary basis only.

Through this series of events, the council has relied upon the research done by an Eastern botany professor concerning the issue.

This is an important public issue that needs careful, thorough research by an unbiased professional. This should be the first step the council takes in resolving the issue.

Another important step the council should consider is an unbiased public opinion poll of area residents to determine exactly how they feel about the issue. They are the customers of Liberty Cable, they are the audience of cable television, they are those who are directly affected by any rate hike or mandatory subscription of channels.

The council should come to a decision on this issue as soon as possible. The public is waiting for the issue to be resolved and the public has a right the council's plans for resolving the issue.

Food for thought: It's a columnist's goal

Often when something is the last, people seek it out. People paid earthshaking amounts to obtain the last work of Picasso and traveled the continents in search of the Holy Grail.

Well, at last, I present you with my last—the last column I will write for The Daily Eastern News and Eastern itself.

After this, someone else will have the burden of occupying your minds when your morning professors cannot—I am graduating.

Graduation days fall easily into line. Yesterday I left the sweet confines of high school and the day before that it was 'Goodbye Gradeschool'.

I am sure that I stopped to ponder what each of these separate graduations gave me and now, I can't help wondering what good I will get from the sum of the three.

But always something is left behind. In grade school it was Charrise Rixie, the freckled girl I never sat by at lunch. In high school it was a tarnishing trophy with my name inscribed third down in the second column.

But what I hope to leave behind me at Eastern is a little harder to see, perhaps less tangible. On those Thursday's that my columns appeared in this newspaper, there was always a purpose above getting my name before you or my ideas into your heads.

Never is it a columnist's goal, or the goal of a newspaper, to attain from readers strict adherence to offered views. No, the idea here is to present for your perusal a viewpoint in hopes that you will use that view as a basis for refining or creating your own views on an issue.

Personal file:

The editorial page of a newspaper has been referred to as its "soul". No description could be more apt: It is here on these pages that journalists try to bring forth awareness and opinion based on the facts and findings of our stories. It is here that the readers have a chance to reply, retort—or even—agree.

As this past semester's editor of Page Four I am lucky. As I leave The Daily Eastern News, letters have been pouring in at a faster rate than ever before. No, I'm not lucky because I won't have to deal with the ever-increasing volume of mail; I have had the chance to see students finally getting aroused enough to react to the news by asserting their opinions.

What we say here is not sacred; what we say here may not even be correct to your way of thinking. But once we make a statement, the obligation for further comment is yours. That commentary is invited.

What I hope to have done this semester, rather than make you want to save this column, is to help the newspaper in making readers aware, not only of sets of facts, but of the wide range of opinions concerned with those facts.

Your Turn

Tuition hike is unfair

Editor:

This is in response to George M. Baunach's letter of Dec. 7, 1981.

I also consider Eastern Illinois University to be a fine university and I am very proud to be a part of it. Since many of us, including I, have chosen this university we should equally have the opportunity to attend.

This tuition rate hike is utterly ridiculous! Amendment I, of the United States Constitution, states "Congress shall make no law...abridging the right of the people peaceably to assemble, and to petition the government for a redress of grievances." Well, relating this to the BOG plan, we, the student body of EIU, have the right to express our feelings!

I think the BOG plan is a total outrage and I think there should be something done about their decision immediately! Inflation is the cause of this tuition rate hike and through the years due to this economic outlook, prices have risen. Just because we paid less when we were freshmen and sophomores doesn't mean we should be condemned for it—prices overall were lower and now we are smack in the middle of inflation!

How can the board, without guilt, charge us extra for our education when many classes in which the upper classmen are attending are the same classes which lower classmen attend?

Just because other schools may favor this alternative solution to the tuition rate hikes, doesn't mean that they made a fair decision! Like the old saying goes, "Just because John Doe jumped off the cliff, would you?"

Think about it Board of Governors and whoever else it may concern!

Crossword no puzzle

Editor:

In an age of diminishing expectations, Reaganomics, and (perhaps the final indignity) the one martini lunch, one learns to take his small pleasures in life as he can find them. For the last year or so, one of these pleasures for me has been the crossword puzzle in The Daily Eastern News. A splendid half hour of fun to anticipate each day—and free to boot.

But I notice lately an alarming trend developing. The puzzle is no longer any fun. For the past few weeks it has become too easy. I mean it's like making fun of Alexander Haig—it's so easy to do, why bother?

Don't you realize the responsibility you must shoulder here? Puzzle addicts have nowhere else to turn. The Times-Courier is for semi-literate children; the Chicago Tribune puzzle is for the lame and halt of mind; we can't get the Sun-Times; and who knows if there even is a St. Louis paper!

So what gives, bub? Why has it been so long since we've seen Eugene T. Maleska's name under the puzzle? Is it now being composed by some wag in Neoga?

Frankly, I'm bored by all this underage drinking stuff littering your otherwise fine newspaper. Let them eat cake! But give us puzzle fans our dignity back.

Officials say methane gas probable cause in explosion

WHITWELL, Tenn.—An explosion that killed 13 Tennessee coal miners probably was caused by methane gas, officials said Wednesday. In Kentucky, meanwhile, investigators entered a mine where 11 men died of smoke inhalation in an unexplained blast one day earlier.

In this tiny town in southeastern Tennessee, relatives identified the bodies of the 13 men who died Tuesday three miles inside a mountain.

"They've been mining coal in this area for 100 years and this is the first fatal explosion they've ever had," said

Harry Joe Hooper, father of a miner and owner of a funeral parlor used as a makeshift morgue for the bodies. "What makes it tough is that I knew all of them.

"I've got one back there I used to play guitar with. There's one I went to school with...I got home at 4:30 this morning and lay down but I couldn't go to sleep. It's tough."

Tuesday's blast was the third fatal mine accident in Appalachia in five days—and the worst in Tennessee since 184 miners were killed in the collapse of a mine at Coal Creek, Tenn., in 1911.

Eight miners were killed in an explosion in a mine at Topmost, Ky., on Monday. Last Thursday, three miners were killed in a rock and slate fall in a mine in Bergoo, W. Va.

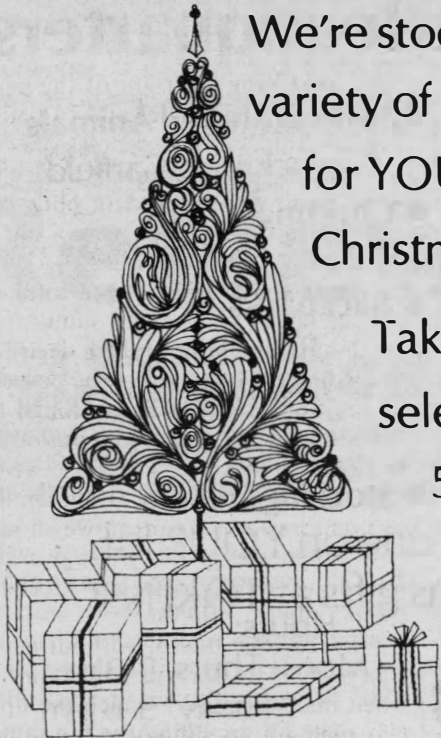

Before that, the last major coal mine accident was last April, when 15 men died near Redstone, Colo.

The latest explosion ripped through a section of the No. 21 mine owned by Tennessee Consolidated Coal Co., and operated by its subsidiary, Grundy Mining Co. Investigators suspect methane gas, a common problem in deep coal mines, but federal mine officials said it may be several months before the cause is determined.

14 students to be honored

Fourteen special education majors will be honored for outstanding achievements Thursday, a special education department spokesman said Wednesday.

Five of the 14 students will also be awarded monetary scholarships totaling $1,000, Judith Ivarie of the special ed department said.

The students were selected by special ed department faculty from 30 nominees based on grade point average, leadership, and service, Ivarie said.

The honorees are graduate student Lenore Aebischer; seniors Bart Allen, Michael Backer, Cathy Boyle, Karen Edwards, Jane Haas, Cynthia Hurst, Pamela Jensen, Lori Meyer, Brionn Rolens, Jane Spesard; juniors Jennifer Kozlowski and Julia Mills, and sophomore Peggy Nogafka.

Each student will receive a certificate, Ivarie said.

The awards ceremony will be held at 6 p.m. Thursday in Buzzard Auditorium.

Deluca show to offer hypnotism, comedy

Hypnotist Tom Deluca will present a program of comedy and hypnotic demonstrations at 8 p.m. Thursday in the University Union Old Ballroom, University Board coordinator Lynna Glosser said.

She added admission for the show is $1 for students and $1.50 for the public.

Deluca will also present two 20-minute acts Thursday, one at 5 p.m. in Thomas Hall food services and one at 5:30 p.m. in Carman Hall food services, Glosser said.

UB Chairman Al Siepker said Deluca, who has performed at Eastern previously, gets the audience directly involved in his act.

Volunteers in the past have been hypnotized into performing a striptease on stage, he added.

"Of course, he stopped them before they went too far," Siepker said.

UB concert coordinator's failure to resign could result in impeachment proceedings

by Linda Fraembs

University Board concert coordinator Ron Rappe has been impeached pending approval next semester by the Student Senate, UB Chairman Al Siepker said Wednesday.

"He (Rappe) didn't understand his position and didn't want to accept the responsibilities," Siepker said.

UB members voted unanimously at its Tuesday meeting to impeach Rappe after he was given the opportunity to resign and failed to do so.

Siepker said he had heard Rappe was planning on resigning, and spoke with him prior to the beginning of impeachment proceedings, at which time Rappe said he would hand in his resignation.

Since Rappe did not officially resign, Siepker said he was forced to begin impeachment proceedings.

Although interviews of all interested candidates are usually conducted before a coordinator is selected, Siepker said UB bylaws allow the chairman to appoint a new temporary coordinator.

Foreigner, a popular rock band out with its fourth album, performs for the crowd at Champaign's Assembly Hall last weekend. Foreigner has just released a new album, "4," which contains the hit single, "Urgent" that recently made the charts. The band played a number of old hits during the concert. (News photo by Dave Kidwell)

Review:

Audience disappointed by nostalgia at Foreigner

Automatically audience tension began building as the band's most recent album cover was projected on a stage screen.

The tension grew and grew as a countdown from 10 began. No. 4, depicting the band's most recent album cover number, was the tension-breaker and the crowd let loose as one of the hottest rock groups on the country mounted the stage—Foreigner.

Foreigner did not open their performance with songs from their new album, "4." Instead, they appeared on a nostalgic note as they played "Long, Long Way from Home" and continued to play other hits from their older albums such as "Dirty White Boys" and "Blue Morning, Blue Day."

It wasn't until "I'm Waiting For a Girl Like You," from their new album, that the nostalgia was pierced.

But after the cut, it was back to their first album as the road crew attempted to sneak the keyboard to front and center on the stage. What else could this mean but "Cold as Ice."

They performed a total of 15 songs in the period of about an hour.

Dissappointing was the fact that of the 15 hits, only four were from the new album "4". In fact, the show was diversified with about the same number of hits from each of the group's four albums.

Among them were "Starrider" and "Feels Like a First Time" from the first album; "Double Vision;" and "The Modern Day" and "Head Games" from Head Games.

It was evident as the band left the stage that the crowd had not yet begun to hear enough, and they hadn't.

Concerts

Donna Parker

But even after the encore performances of "Hot Blooded" and "Headknocker," one still had the feeling the group would return to play and almost infinite number of hits they had left out—but they didn't.

Foreigner didn't seem to be on a tour for their new album, only playing four hits from it including "Luanne," "Juke Box Hero" (the 10-foot inflatable juke bow added a little effect to the concert as it blew up at the end of the song), and the No. 1 smash hit "Urgent."

Leaving out new hits such as "Woman in Black," "Break It Up," and "I'm Gonna Win" seemed almost inexcusable, and the crowd displayed its disappointment by forcing the band into two encores.

Even the nostalgic trend of the concert was left slightly incomplete by the absence of hits such as "The Damage is Done," "Love Has Taken Its Toll" from Double Vision; "Seventeen," and "I'll Get Even With You."

Granted, Foreigner has almost too much material for one concert, but a tour for a specific album should include all the hits from the album.

However, the crowd seemed satisfied as the lights came on at the Assembly Hall in Champaign Friday night, and the quality of the hits performed was excellent.

Re-elected speaker states goals

by Crystal Schrof

Senior Karen Kupsche was re-elected speaker of the Student Senate at the first meeting of the newly-elected senate Wednesday.

Conference, retreat to be on RHA agenda

by Denise Skowron

The Residence Hall Association will meet Thursday to discuss the Illinois Residence Hall Association conference and details of the Turkey Run retreat, RHA president Mary Tracy said.

Eastern has been chosen to be the location of the annual IRHA conference. Residence Hall associations throughout the state will meet at the university. Details concerning the conference will be explained, Tracy said.

In addition, plans for the Turkey Run retreat will be presented.

to provide the senate with better organization and to improve senate communication.

She said senate communication needs to be improved due to the recent ruling of Eastern's Supreme Court and editorials run in The Daily Eastern News.

"I want to open communication through all facilities," Kupsche said.

In other business at the meeting, Collective Bargaining Representative Tony Parascandola said he is trying to establish a standard teacher evaluation.

However, he said this does not look very probable.

Parascandola said some departments currently use a set department evaluation and others use the Purdue Teacher Evaluation.

Parascandola said he is looking at establishing an evaluation similar to an evaluation at the University of Illinois.

Civil War - time holidays reborn at historic site

by Dawn Morville

The seventh annual "Civil War Christmas" will be held at the Moore Home State Historic Site Dec. 12 and 13.

The two-day event will re-create Christmas customs of the Civil War era. Activities each day will be held from noon to 5 p.m. and admission is free.

The home is located on the Fourth Street Road, one mile north of Lincoln Log Cabin, and seven miles south of Charleston, Tom Vance, a spokesman from the Illinois Department of Conservation said.

Saturday activities will include making decorations and trimming the Christmas tree.

On Sunday, visitors to the Moore home will be able to see a 19th century meal being prepared on a wood-burning stove. Although the meal will not be served to the public, fresh hot apple cider will be available.

The Moore Home was the home of Reuben Moore and his wife, Matilda, daughter of Sarah Bush Lincoln, during the late 1850s.

Free VD clinic to begin testing and treatment

The Coles County Health Department, 825 18th St., will hold venereal disease clinics every other Wednesday, beginning Jan. 13, 1982.

A spokesman for the health department said the clinics are for anyone who thinks they may have been in contact with the disease, has any symptoms of the disease, or wants to be tested for the disease.

The clinics will be held from 2:30 to 4:30 p.m. on a walk-in basis and are free of charge and open to Coles County residents.

The dates for the clinics are as follows:

Jan. 13 and 27; Feb. 10 and 24; March 10 and 24; April 7 and 21; May 5 and 19; and June 2, 16, and 30.

July 14 and 28; August 11 and 25; Sep. 8 and 22; Oct. 6 and 20; Nov. 3 and 17; and Dec. 1, 15, 29.

The holiday season is nearing and with it, only 14 shopping days left

Union parking to be discussed

The University Traffic Committee will meet Thursday to discuss approval of controlled parking surrounding the University Union, committee chairman Don Cook said.

Cook said the plan, first proposed by Student Body President Bob Glover, would make parking spaces around the University Union available on an hourly basis.

The proposal was approved recently by the Council of Vice Presidents. The committee was waiting for approval from the council before taking final action on the plan.

In other business, Cook said, the committee will discuss the traffic and directional pedestrian sign system on campus.

The committee will meet at 3 p.m. Thursday in the Student Activities Office in the University Union.

Santa delights local children

Christmas cookies and a visit from Santa highlighted a party for underprivileged children Tuesday.

Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity, Alpha Gamma Delta sorority and the Coles County Big Brother/Big Sister Association sponsored the party, John Ward, Pike social chairman said.

At 7 p.m., the Pike house decorated in Christmas spirit opened its doors to 25 children from the Charleston area, Ward added.

He said names of children were provided by Big Brother/Big Sister.

The Christmas festivities included singing around the Christmas tree and the serving of refreshments.

To cap off the evening, children received a gift from Santa, Ward said.

Speaker to discuss steel industry future

A U.S. Steel representative will discuss Thursday the needs and availability of raw materials for the future of the steel industry.

Jerry Wolf, a U.S. Steel representative, will discuss the present and future conditions of the American steel industry, Alan Baharlou, chairman of Eastern's geography and geology departments, said Tuesday.

Wolf will speak at 4 p.m. Thursday in the Physical Science Building room 332. The presentation is open to the public.

Forensic team wins trophies

by Todd Lagesse

Eastern's forensic speech team participated in the Elgin Community College speech tournament last weekend with two members of the team bringing home trophies.

Adviser Larry Lambert said senior Bob Schumacher received a first place trophy in persuasive speaking and also received a sixth place trophy in after-dinner speaking.

Junior Diana Hare also competed in persuasive speaking and came away with a fourth place trophy, he added.

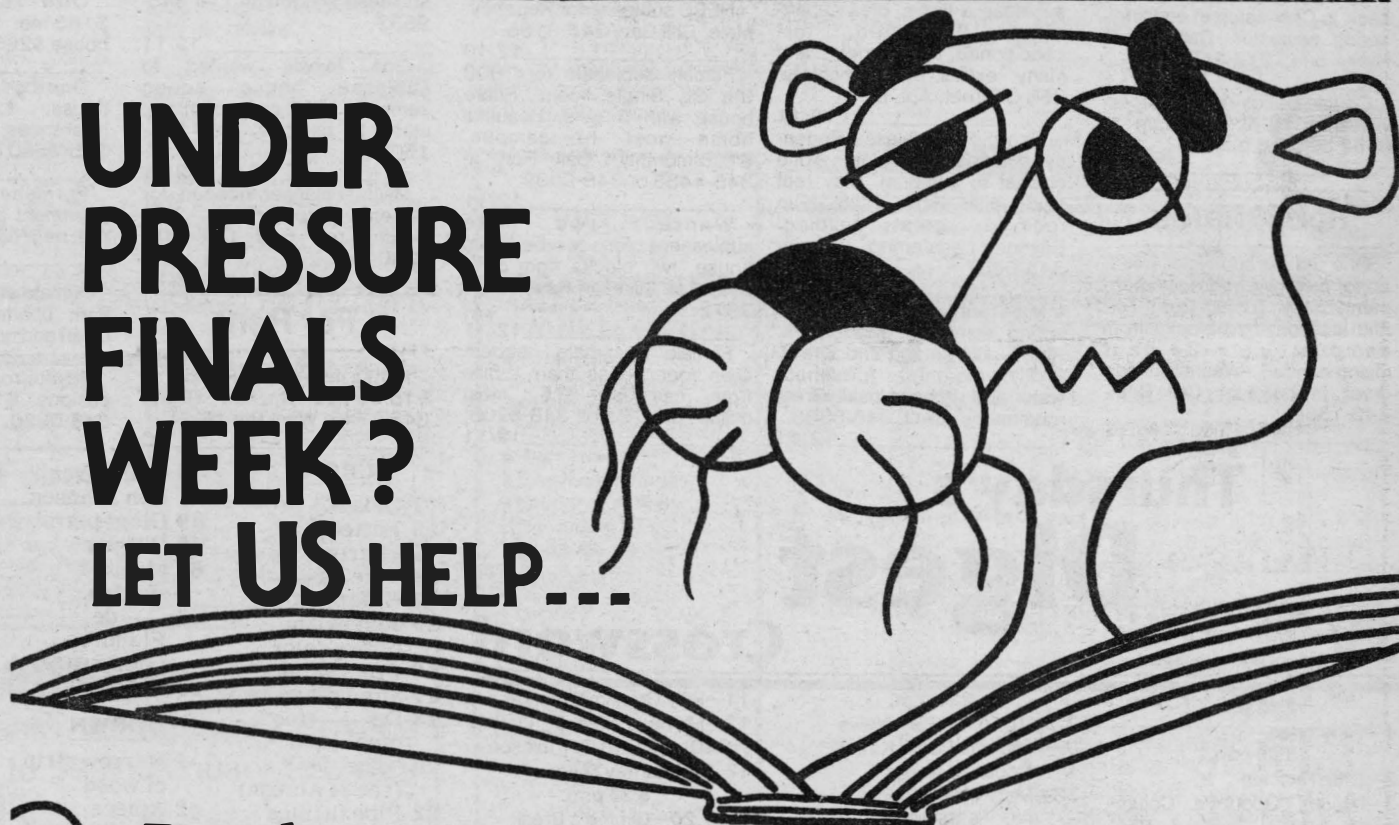

Sharon Franklin, sophomore, reached the semi-finals in impromptu speaking but failed to qualify for the finals.

Lambert commented that the overall goal of the team was to compete in the national tournament which will be held the first week of March.

The next tournament for the speech team will be Jan. 22 and 23 at the College of DuPage, Glen Ellyn.

After that the team will compete in the Southern Illinois University in Carbondale tournament Feb. 5 and 6.

Confident netters look for first victory of the season

by Jill Anderson

Looking for their first win of the season, the women's badminton team hosts Indiana State Thursday 3:30 p.m. at McAfee Gym.

The netters finished fifth out of five teams in the Northern Illinois Invitational Nov. 21 in their only meet so far this season.

However, Panther head coach Karen Earley is confident Eastern will dominate ISU.

"ISU has never been that strong and we've always beaten them in the past," Earley said. "I don't want to be overconfident, but I think we're ready for a victory."

ISU will have just eight players competing compared to the usual 12 and Earley said ISU players will be forced to compete more than once.

Although the Panthers have not competed for three weeks, Earley said her squad will be prepared.

"It's hard both mentally and physically to compete after such a long layoff, but I think we're ready," Earley said.

Competing for Eastern in the top six spots are Janet Haberkorn, Jo Obrycki, Nancy Szarzynski, Lisa Walz, Jane Augustine and Ruth Matchette.

ball early which is encouraging," Samuels added.

Eastern forward Ricky Robinson, bothered by a bruised ankle, is coming off his best game since scoring 19 points in the Panthers' season-opening overtime loss to Kent State 96-88 Nov. 28, and Samuels said the injury-ridden Robinson seems to be recovering.

Against SIU-C, Robinson led all Eastern scorers tossing in 16 points. Robinson also hit six of six free throw attempts, despite sinking just five of 15 shots from the field.

"Ricky will start against Howard, but he's still having trouble moving laterally and that showed against Southern," Samuels said. "Ricky has made progress in the past week and he did look better in practice Tuesday."

Eastern guard Warren Patten leads the Panthers in scoring, averaging 15.5 points a game while center Leigh Hankins has registered 14.7 points a contest.

"In the Southern game I missed a lot of shots (four of 11) that normally would have fell for me," Hankins said. "I knew it was just a matter of time before I'd have an off game."

"I was disappointed, but I never expected to keep up shooting 60 or 70 percent," Hankins added. "I wasn't intimidated playing at Southern, but I really didn't shoot with the rhythm I had been coming into the game."

Hankins earns Samuel's praise with improved play

by John Humenik

The waiting is finally over for Eastern basketball center Leigh Hankins, and now it appears the 6-foot-6 senior is out to make up for lost time.

Hankins, who failed to gain head coach Rick Samuels' confidence last year, is finally proving to the Panther mentor he can compete this season by earning a starting position.

Last year, Hankins played in all but three games and averaged just 3.6 points a game, but this campaign Hankins has become a serious offensive threat by averaging 14.7 points a contest in netting 25 of 39 shots for over 64 percent.

"I wasn't really doing the job Samuels expected from me in the past, and it showed," Hankins said. "This season I've got to give Samuels a lot of credit because it's his confidence in me that I feel has made the difference."

Hankins lettered last year as a backup postman, but averaged only 11 minutes of playing time. This season the Panther standout leads the squad with a 31-minute average after four games, and is second to Warren Patten's 62 points in netting 59 markers.

Samuels said, "I felt he really made a lot of progress, and it's a pleasant surprise seeing him play so well this season. He makes good plays and I feel he's capable of helping us out in many areas."

"Last year he didn't play aggressive and would get tired easy," Samuels added. "He's a much stronger player now and I'm pleased this season with the job he is doing."

After an impressive pre-season, Samuels said Hankins proved he could start this season, and for the 2-2 Panthers, Hankins' play has been instrumental.

In Eastern's 88-77 home victory over Olivet Nazarene Nov. 30, Hankins marked a career high 20 points, and coled with Eddie Jones against Eastern Kentucky Dec. 5 with 18 points.

"I never thought I would be scoring that much this season, because I figured if I got 20-25 minutes of playing time I could score 10 points a game," Hankins said. "My first priority is rebounding though, but I haven't come close to my goal of averaging 10 rebounds a game."

"I know if I play well the points will come, but I feel anyone of the top seven players can step in and score," Hankins added.

Limited playing time for injury-ridden Ricky Robinson has placed additional pressure on the Panthers, and despite the All-American's injury, Hankins seems to perform better.

"I wouldn't really say that I'm stepping in for Ricky Robinson, even though it might seem like that," Hankins said. "You just miss a super player like Ricky, and I'm glad that I can help out."

"I like playing with Ricky, and when he's out there on the court I feel more comfortable," Hankins added. "He's almost Mr. Everything."

In the Panthers' 90-77 road defeat to SIU-Carbondale Monday, Hankins tallied nine points in what he deemed his worst performance this season.

Howard offers cagers biggest challenge yet

by John Humenik

Eastern's men's basketball squad will face what head coach Rick Samuels deemed as the Panthers toughest challenge yet when his squad meets Mid-Eastern Athletic Conference member Howard University Thursday in Washington D.C.

"It's a tough assignment, and playing on the road won't make things much better," Samuels said. "We're going to face a different kind of tempo against Howard, and we're hoping to slow it down enough to play our type of game."

Coming off a depressing 90-77 loss to SIU-Carbondale Monday, the Panthers plan to combat a tall Bison front line and quick-playing style with a better defensive showing.

"We feel that Howard is a very talented team, and we're going to make some adjustments," Samuels said. "We have to see if we can run against them, and we're going to really have to beat the ball down the court to accomplish that."

Howard, 17-12 last season, boasts top offensive threats in 6-foot-11 center James Terry, and forwards James Ratiff and Lawrence Norfleet, 6 foot 9 and 6 foot 8 respectively. The Bisons, lost to Wyoming in the first round of the NCAA Division I tournament last year.

Ratiff leads all Howard scorers averaging 14.5 points a game, while 6-foot-5 guard Bernard Perry averages 11 markers a contest. Terry has posted a 10.5 points-a-game average.

"We're in pretty good shape now but we have to maintain our confidence and feel that we will be able to execute well on the road," Samuels said. "I expect to be in every game, but sometimes playing on the road can be difficult."

After the Howard contest, the Panthers will travel to Louisiana to face Southern University Saturday and then to Kentucky for a Morehead State showdown, completing a five-game road trip.

Howard enters Thursday's clash with a 1-1 slate following its 66-62 win over Mississippi Valley and 77-53 loss to Bradley, while the Panthers carry a 2-2 slate after the SIU-C setback Monday.

"We were playing well up to the Southern game, and Southern just did what they can do, confusing us on defense and that is the thing we can't have happen," Samuels said.

Samuels said the key against Howard will be how well the Panthers execute on defense and neutralize the boards, something Eastern did well in its 87-65 win over Eastern Kentucky Dec. 5.

"The big key for us against Howard is slowing the game down and not letting them run up streaks of points on us," Samuels said. That's something you've got to worry about especially on the road.

"It's tough being on the road, but we've been playing some good basket-

Tracksters face first test at time trials this week

by Mike Prizy

Panther track and field fans will have their first chance of the season to witness the Eastern men and women's track teams in action Thursday and Friday.

The squads will conduct time trials in Lantz Fieldhouse with the field events starting at 2 p.m. and track events slated for 4 p.m. Thursday and continuing Friday.

"We both have good teams," men's coach Neil Moore said. "The trials should be interesting. We hope anyone interested in track will come out to watch."

Both Moore and women's head coach John Craft said they will use the trials to check the present physical capabilities of their athletes.

"The trials are a culmination of pre-season training," Moore said. "We're still experimenting to see where people fit best."

Women's coach John Craft added, "We'll look at everyone and evaluate their performance to see where we are. We hope everyone is doing at least as well as last year at this point in the season."

Both coaches said their teams have been training intensively since September and the trials will give the athletes an opportunity to compete.

"They are eager to compete because they've been training since September," Craft said.

Moore said, "We will try to create a competitive element for them."

Most of the athletes will compete in several events other than their specialties, and Moore said the "experimenting" could lead to the discovery of an athlete's strength in another event.

"We want to use everyone to their full potential," Moore said.

For example, Moore said one of his 400-meter runners will "move up to the 800 to try and fill the gap in that event."

Both teams will field young squads. The men and women's squads will rely mainly on freshmen and sophomores,

"We have no proven vets," Moore said.

Craft injected, "Last year we were young and inexperienced. This year we are young and experienced."
